VOL. 8. NO. 78 — QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1896. — PRICE 2 CENTS.

TWO GREAT FEATURES IN

THE APRIL CENTURY

"Four Lincoln Conspiracies."

A graphic account of the three conspiracies to kill and one to kidnap President Lincoln, written by Victor Louis Mason, of the U. S. War Department, who has made a careful study of the subject and unearthed much interesting material. The illustrations include pictures, made by special permission of the Secretary of War, of Lincoln relics in the possession of the War Department and not shown to the public and never before photographed.

"The Old Olympic Games"

is the title of an article by Allan Marquand, Professor of Archæology at Princeton, of especial timeliness in view of the revival of the games at Athens during the present month. The illustrations are "restorations" of famous games, by the artist Castaigne — a striking series of pictures, with views of

The Chariot Race, The Wrestling Match, The Warriors' Race. The Victor Going to the Temple of Zeus, The Start — The Victor in the Temple — The Finish, etc.

A CRAZY MAN'S ANTICS

Create a Decided Sensation Among Citizens of Adams.

Shotguns Banged Away at Imaginary Visitors.

Leaped From Second Story Window and Ran About In Nightshirt.

ADAMS, Mass., April 1. — Dr. H. A. Smith, who has dental parlors in Collins' block on Centre street, became violently insane early yesterday morning, and caused considerable excitement in the neighborhood of the building.

Dr. Smith imagined he saw burglars in the hall connected with his apartments. He barricaded the doors, and with two double-barrelled shotguns proceeded to shoot at his imaginary visitors, whom he conceived belonged to the Salvation Army.

Then the crazy man opened a front window, and, pointing the gun at a passer-by, ordered him to summon an officer

Or He Would Shoot Him.

In a little while the dentist climbed out of a second story window and walked along the cornice until he reached a point directly over one of the stores, from which he jumped to the awning and slid to the ground without sustaining the slightest injury.

Attired only in a night shirt, he ran to the home of Chief of Police Curran on Dean street. He was taken to his home on Myrtle street, and finally quieted.

Dr. Smith at one time had a very prosperous business. Of late he has used drugs and liquor, and, as a consequence, has had trouble with his wife, and his business has gone to pieces.

Double Elevator Accident.

BOSTON, April 1.—About 5:15 last evening pedestrians hearing a crash and cries coming from the ground floor of the Reece Button Hole Machine company building on Harrison avenue, rushed in and saw a terrible sight. Up the elevator well could be seen the head of a man completely severed from the body and wedged between the elevator and the level of the fourth floor. Piteous moans came from below, and lying at the bottom of the shaft was John Reece, owner of the building. Mr. Reece died at 11:40. There was no witness to the accident, but John Wall saw Mr. Reece run to the elevator well to grasp the wire, and, with a shriek, dash to the bottom. It is supposed he saw the workman caught above, and was going to stop the elevator. The workman is thought to be John McGargan. Mr. Reece was president of the Reece Button Hole Machine company.

Engines and Cars Wrecked.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., April 1.—Two freight trains on the Fitchburg road collided head on near here yesterday afternoon. Both engines were wrecked and eight freight cars demolished, while several were derailed. None of either train crew was injured, all jumping just before the engines met. The blame for the accident is said to be due to a telegraphic blunder. The trains were going at about 10 miles an hour speed. A passenger train, which was passing, being due here at 4:12, had a narrow escape from derailment, several steps on the coaches being carried away and windows smashed by projecting pieces of freight cars coming in contact with them.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 1.—The senate yesterday refused to suspend the rules to admit a bill limiting attendance at executions. The same body rejected a bill to refund a portion of the license fee at the death of the holder. The house opened up anew the question of an elevated road for Boston by reconsidering the acceptance of an adverse committee report. The bill to extend the time in which summer resort liquor licenses shall run was amended and ordered to a third reading. A new ballot law commission, in accordance with the recommendation of the attorney general, was reported in the form of a bill in the senate.

Italians Used Stiletto.

BOSTON, April 1.—Alexander Carter and John Mahoney met two Italians from Lawrence on Leverett street yesterday, and after a short dispute a fight followed, in which a stiletto was freely used. Carter escaped with slight wounds, but Mahoney is in a critical condition, with wounds in the abdomen. James Terrace and Salvadore Anticallano are held by the police for the assault.

Solons Had Toddy.

FAIRHAVEN, Vt., April 1. — United States District Attorney Stanton yesterday nol prossed the case of the state versus Senator Ira R. Allen. When a legislative committee of 1894 visited the state fish hatchery, liquor was furnished at the dinner. Afterward an indictment was procured against Senator Allen and Fish Commissioner Titcomb for violation of the prohibitory law.

Going to Pittsburg.

CONCORD, N. H., April 1.—The Prohibition state committee elected the following delegates to the state national convention at Pittsburg: H. O. Jackson, Littleton; J. C. Berry, Plymouth; Alfred Froback, Alton; H. E. Brown, Lakeport; C. E. Daying, Nashua; C. E. Drury, Bath; F. E. Berge, Hollis; I. B. Vail, Manchester; F. L. Sprague, Keene.

Refuse to Resign.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., April 1.—United States Boarding Officer Blatchford and Customs Inspectors Friend and Wonson have each sent a letter to Collector Richardson refusing to resign as requested. The collector will ask the department at Washington to appoint Charles H. O'Brien, William H. Cronin and one other in their places.

With Plenty of Money.

BOSTON, April 1.—The Boston Tennis and Racquet club was organized here yesterday by representative club men of this city. The new club proposes to build a clubhouse on the Back Bay at a cost of $300,000. It will draw its membership from the Algonquin, Somerset, Union and University clubs.

May Never Be Solved.

BOSTON, April 1.—There are no developments in the missing registered mail-pouch which disappeared last week between New York city and Norwalk, Conn. The inspectors have no evidence to help them in the case.

Winn's Good Luck.

WINN, Me., April 1.—A Massachusetts firm proposed to build a pulp and paper mill here, to cost at least $250,000, and to employ over 200 hands, if the town would exempt their property from taxation for 15 years and agree to take care of flowage. The town has accepted the proposition. The Winn Water and Power company have voted to turn their charter over to the Massachusetts company if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

Can't Use Drum.

MALDEN, Mass., April 1.—The Malden aldermen unanimously voted "leave to withdraw" to the petitioners for permission to the Salvation Army of that place to parade with their big bass drum, last night. It is intimated that the army, drum and all, will parade, inviting arrests and trouble.

Alleged Forger In Custody.

BOSTON, April 1.—Inspectors last night arrested Frank C. Smith of Northampton, L. I., for alleged forgery of a check for $350 on the Washington Loan and Trust company. Smith attempted to pass the check on the American Loan and Trust company of this city. The inspectors believe they have other accounts against him.

Interesting to Cyclers.

BOSTON, April 1.—President Elliott of the League of American Wheelmen announces the reduction of the sanction fee for open race meets from $10 to $5, and $2 for each additional day. This fee was raised from $2 by the national assembly. The fee of $25 for national circuit race meets remains the same.

New England Briefs.

W. J. Woods, a farm-hand employed by C. A. Thompson of Dedham, Me., committed suicide by shooting himself.

The woolen plant of the East Pond Manufacturing company of Newport, Me., was sold at auction to Robert Dobson & Sons for $45,100.

The engagement has been announced of Henry L. Dawes, Jr., of Pittsfield, Mass., son of ex-Senator Dawes, and Miss Catherine Pingree.

John Maloy, 40 years old, while passing a building at Boston, was struck by a plank, falling from the fifth story. His skull was fractured and he will die.

A. S. Ostrander, superintendent of the Air Line division of the Consolidated road, has retired, and F. C. Payne of the Danbury and Norwalk road will succeed him.

The southern New England conference of the Methodist-Episcopal church opened at Fall River, Mass., with an anniversary meeting of the first district Epworth league.

As John Malcolmson came ont of a Bangor (Me.) saloon, he was set upon by a crowd of men, and, as Malcolmson claims, was robbed of $50. Malcolmson's arm was broken in the melee.

WELL ORGANIZED.

The Hospital Aid Association Ready to do a Grand Work.

The Hospital Aid Association, having found a pleasant meeting place in the parlors of the Granite City Club, so generously offered for its use, is again ready to continue the good work begun in the spring of 1889. As the membership has increased to over one thousand names the collecting of the annual fees has come to be the most arduous duty of the directors. Consequently the constitution has been so amended as to admit of a larger number of directors in those wards where the membership is large and scattered over a large territory.

During the year 1895, 282 articles were made and sent to the Hospital, at a cost of $288 18, and a seamstress has been hired to do necessary mending at the Hospital.

The following named persons are the officers for the ensuing year :

President,—Mrs. George S. Keyes.

Vice Presidents,—Mrs. Thomas Fenno and Mrs. Herbert M. Federhen.

Secretary,—Mrs. John W. Sanborn.

Treasurer,—Mrs. A. M. Kershaw.

Directors for Ward 1,—Mrs. Alonzo G. Durgin, Mrs. George H. Hitchcock, Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Miss E. M. Fottler, Mrs. George MacFarlane, Mrs. Samuel H. Spear.

Ward 2,—Mrs. A. M. Keating, Mrs. J. H. Slade and Mrs. A. G. Coffin.

Ward 3,—Mrs. Lucy J. Marsh, Mrs. Frederick L. Jones, Mrs. Frank Brewer, Mrs. A. M. Craig.

Ward 4,—Mrs. Robert Newcomb, Miss Addie Miller, Mrs. William A. McCormick, Mrs. L. L. Turner.

Ward 5,—Mrs. E. H. Brock, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Miss Fannie I. Lord, Mrs. Wellington Record.

Mrs. C. F. Carlson at large, as representative of the Swede members.

Odd Fellows Elect.

Annual elections are popular with Mount Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., and the attendance Tuesday evening at the first March election has never been excelled in the dozen years' history of the lodge. On one ballot there were cast 114 votes. The following were elected:

N. G.,—Wilmot M. Spooner.

V. G.,—William Westland.

R. S.,—Franklin Jacobs.

T.,—Charles F. Pettengill.

P. S.,—A. W. Stetson.

Marshal,—H. L. Kincaide.

The latter office is a new one, for street parades, etc., and a good man has been selected. The lodge has voted to parade at Brockton April 27 and expects to turn out in good numbers.

Past Grand C. B. Tilton, for over two years the third degree master, resigned, and at his suggestion Past Grand Aubrey R. Keith was appointed to the position.

A public installation of the new officers will be held April 14.

"That Exemplary Theatre."

Mr. William Dean Howells calls the Castle Square "that exemplary theatre in Boston," and its fame as the permanent home of opera is world wide. The season which is in such vogue, was begun May 6, 1895, nearly a year ago. The taste and excellence that characterize the performances of the standard and lighter operas produced there are known to every lover of music in Boston and vicinity. "Indeed," to quote from the letter of a well-known gentleman in the Boston Transcript, "barring the great vocal geniuses that are picked out of the whole world at millionaire salaries, and the pleasure of listening to them, the very same operas have been staged more acceptably, in this new operatic home, than in the grand opera enterprises that visit our city once a year."

Donizetti's grand opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor," is the attraction this week.

Food, undigested, is poison. Digested, it is life and strength. Millions of us suffer from indigestion, but we often don't know it. We think it is something else. Even doctors often mistake the symptoms.

Pale, thin people, who are overworked, who need strength, who seem in want of proper food, should take Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is astonishing what food will do, when properly digested.

It will make you strong, revive you, refresh you, sustain you, make you fat, restore your color, make muscle, brain fibre, courage, endurance, energy; increase your power to throw off disease and keep you healthy and happy.

Indigestion does just the opposite, but indigestion can be cured and prevented with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

Sold by druggists. Trial bottle 10 cents.

"Mother Is Sick Again."

There is a woman in Ward Two who every so often has a fondness for alcoholic stimulants, and whenever she feels that way she has an unique way of raising funds to satisfy her desires. She will go from house to house telling a pitiful story that her mother is very sick in Boston, and ask for money to enable her to go and see her. When she has collected enough money she goes to Boston, but not to see her mother, only to satisfy her appetite for drink. The woman has played this trick so many times that when her victims see her coming they involuntary remark "Mother is sick again."

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists.

I. O. G. T. GOOD TIME.

Entertainment, Games and a Supper by Wollaston Lodge.

The largest crowd of people who ever assembled in the new Odd Fellows' hall, Wollaston, was the one which gathered there on Tuesday evening to take part in the entertainment and games of Wollaston lodge, I. O. G. T., and also to partake of the very appetizing supper which was provided by the lodge. The success of the affair was due in a great part to the energetic entertainment committee, who so skilfully engineered the entertainment and supper through. The committee consisted of Mrs. William A. Jordan, chairman; Mr. W. L. Cook, secretary; Mrs. George C. Ela, treasurer; Mr. Frank A. Griffin, Miss Mabel Winship and Mrs. A. G. McKinley.

The younger portion,—well, but as they were all "younger portions" it would be invidious to make a distinction, played at the good old-fashioned games of bean bag, ring toss and others of a similar nature, which our grandfathers and grandmothers so hugely enjoyed. These games were in charge of Mr. E. S. Hayden, Mr. L. C. Merrill, Mr. M. N. Merrill, Mr. J. F. McLeod, Mr. Willard Kay, Mr. Harold W. Berry, Miss Annie Edwards, Miss Jennie Kay and Mr. David F. Stiles.

The most delightful part of the whole affair was the supper. Under Mrs. Jordan's and Mr. Griffin's management, ably seconded by the other members of the committee, a long table, or, perhaps to particularize, a number of tables forming one long one were set in the banquet hall. The decorations were elaborate and at the same time in perfect harmony. The illumination of the table was by six large banquet lamps. The effect of the subdued lights glowing through the soft colors of the silk shades upon a table fragrant with potted plants and resplendent in silver and glass ware was striking, and at the same time exceedingly pleasing.

The supper was more after the nature of a light lunch. There were sandwiches and coffee, cakes innumerable and ices.

The prizes were won by the following: Ring toss, prize silver orange spoon, Mrs. Edward A. Mansfield; crokonole, prize one pound of candy, Mrs. John Hollingsworth; bean bag, set silver nut picks, Mrs. Mansfield; air gun, China vase, Mrs. Simpson Kay; donkey, cup and saucer, Mrs. A. G. McKinley.

The Line is Busy.

Habitual users of the telephone have become accustomed when calling for parties in Boston to hear the graphipone answer back in a loud tone "The line is busy, please hang up your telephone and call again." It is hard, however, for the uninitiated to quite comprehend the meaning of this method as the following will show.

A representative of Gore & Co., desiring to communicate with his firm in Boston, stepped up to the telephone in the Street railway office and called for the desired number. After waiting a few moments the answer came back "The line is busy, please hang up your telephone and call again." The representative did not understand however and as the words were being continually repeated to him he lost his temper and shouted back, "Why in blank don't you whistle it?"

Being asked what the matter was, he replied "Why some blank fool on the other end of this line has been telling me for the past ten minutes to hang up my telephone and call again."

Holy Week.

The ceremonies of Holy Week, which begin with Palm Sunday, are the most impressive in the Catholic church. The Tenebrae is chanted on the eves of Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday. On Maundy Thursday the church commemorates the last supper and the institution of the blessed sacrament. On Good Friday services commemorative of the crucifixion of Our Lord will be held at St. John's church, at 3 o'clock, and in the evening a sermon on the Passion by a visiting clergyman. On Thursday the mass, the procession to the altar of repose and the stripping of the altar, are the principal ceremonies. On Easter Sunday three masses will be celebrated at St. John's church, at 8, 9.30 and 10.30 o'clock, and solemn vespers in the evening. Three masses will also be celebrated at St. Mary's, West Quincy.

SCHOOL MATTERS.

Shall Summer Residents Send Children to Our Schools?

Names Considered for the Two New School Buildings.

Vertical System of Writing Adopted for the Lower Grades.

The School Committee held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. It was quite an important meeting and considerable business was transacted. Rev. Mr. Breed was the only member absent during the whole session.

Chairman Porter stated the action of Council in relation to school matters.

The resignation of Miss E. M. Slack of the Willard and Miss Kate C. Bryant were announced.

Homer's Olyssey was adopted as a text book for the High school.

The Superintendent announced that the assistant in bookkeeping at the High had been discontinued.

Voted to observe April 19th on the following Monday.

A Petition.

The Superintendent stated that Mrs. G. Lathrop would move from Dorchester to Houghs Neck the latter part of April and she requested that her two sons aged 9 and 11 years be allowed to attend the Coddington school for balance of year.

The Superintendent said it was establishing a bad precedent.

Mr. Gurney thought if the lady owned property here she had a right to send her children to school in Quincy, and he did not think we could prevent it.

Mr. Burns thought the committee should allow the children to attend.

Chairman Porter said if the lady had a legal residence in Dorchester she had no claim here.

Miss Adams thought it would establish a bad precedent. It would be better to hire a small building at the Neck and a teacher at $5 per week and send all the children there.

It was voted to refer the matter to the City Solicitor, to find out what legal rights parents had who had a temporary residence in Quincy but a legal residence elsewhere.

Sanitary Improvements.

A communication was received from the Board of Health stating that improvements should be made in the sanitary arrangements at the Adams, Coddington, Washington, Quincy and Wollaston school buildings.

Referred to the Commissioner of Public Works.

Transfer Asked.

Voted, that the chairman request of the Council the transfer of the unexpended balance of the special appropriation for extra heating at the Willard to extra windows for the Coddington and Washington buildings.

Needed All Day.

A communication was received from the State Inspector's office relative to janitors remaining on duty all the time at John Hancock and Lincoln buildings, which was referred to the sub-committee of these buildings.

The New Buildings.

A sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Burns, Record and the Superintendent was appointed to meet the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works at the schoolhouse lot at West Quincy to confer on the location of the building, and Messrs. Page, Gurney, Porter and the Superintendent at the Norfolk Downs lot.

Commissioners Knowlton then made his appearance with a plan of the West Quincy lot which was looked over informally.

Numerous names were suggested for the two new school buildings but no action taken.

Some of these for the West Quincy building were: Granite, Bryant, Railway and Rail; while for that at Norfolk Downs were: Wilson, Massachusetts Field, Standish, Taylor, Billings and Squanto.

Vertical Writing.

The matter of vertical writing was then brought up and discussed at length and it was finally voted to adopt the Silver, Burdett & Co. system of vertical writing for the first three grades.

The matter of introducing algebra in the eighth grade was talked over but no action taken.

Adjourned at 10.10.

Sloyd School.

During the Spring the Young Men's Christian Association will conduct a Sloyd class in the Association Rooms which will be open to boys from any part of the city. The class will be limited to twelve boys. If twenty-four boys join, separate classes will be organized, one for the younger and one for the older boys. The success of the Wollaston class has been so marvelous and the work so excellent that the directors feel that the outfit ought not to stand idle. The class will meet only once each week. Names should be left with the Secretary at once.

All Fool's day.

March almost went out as a lamb.

Did we have all our April showers in March?

J. Edwin Alger of Billings street, has gone to Providence for the rest of this week.

The fence around the Quincy school, Atlantic, is badly demolished on the side facing Hancock street.

It will be an all day sale on Saturday at Wilson Tisdale's stable, and a lunch is announced for 12 o'clock.

Miss Mary Dinnie of the Quincy-trainirg class has accepted a position as teacher in one of the schools of Southboro.

Work will be commenced on Thursday morning to rebuild the street railway line between Quincy Centre and Quincy Point.

Mr. James F. Merrill and family have changed their residence on Canal street, and now occupy the house vacated by C. Theodore Hardwick.

Pastors are requested to forward for Friday's LEDGER the order of Easter services, and choristers will please send musical programmes.

Hoodlums are again on the rampage in Atlantic. A great many lights of glass have been broken in Mr. Clark's unoccupied house on Squantum street.

Henry C. Weeden has purchased all of the estate of Thomas B. Davenport except the lot on which his house stands, and has plans for a fine residence on Greenleaf street.

Commissioner Knowlton proposed to drain the pond that forms near City Hall after every storm, by the old steam pump main into the Town brook near Wild's blacksmith shop.

O. C. Colton, secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, has taken up his residence on Washington street, near Union street, in the cottage recently built by R. D. Chase.

The Quincy and Boston street railway have ordered ten new open cars for this summer's use, two of which have thirteen seats. These latter will be used on the Neponset line.

A carroms board was placed in the recreation room in the Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday. It promises to be more popular than than crokinole. That evening the room was crowded with interested spectators.

T. L. Williams says he has no reason to complain of the business he is doing since moving to the centre. He is a member of the New England association of Opticians and is making a specialty of that line of work.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what we say, but by what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It has a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and to the exclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which give it merit peculiar to itself. This is the secret of its wonderful power, of its wonderful sales, of its wonderful hold upon the confidence of the people. This is why it cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Rheumatism, all Humors, Kidney and Liver troubles, Dyspepsia, That Tired Feeling, builds up the nerves, creates an appetite and strengthens the whole system. SWITHIN BROS.,

Sar- sa- parilla

Real Estate

—o—

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCE HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

OUR MAYOR MAY RUN

He Is Said to be a Dark Horse in Congressional Race.

The Traveler has found that a dark horse may be trotted into the fray in the tenth Congressional district "while McNary and McEttrick are battling to the death." It finds that the Young Men's Democratic club has fondled a boom for Charles Francis Adams, 2d, the Mayor of Quincy, and comments as follows:

"The announcement of his candidacy will be a terrible shock to the faithful loyal Democrats in the 10th district, who like a man not for the immaculate kid gloves he wears, but more because of any proficiency he might be able to show with the bunch of fives with or without gloves. It is hard for the unterrified of the district to feel that after years of honest fighting endeavor to keep the district Democratic they are confronted with a man at last who wishes to represent them who parts his name exactly in the middle. Their only consolation is that he cannot part his hair in the same place. To add more hard luck to the outlook he must also insist upon having 2d attached to his honored name. Among the working politicians in the district Francis 2d will have a cruel time to convince them exactly what it means. It goes with the Young Men's Democratic Club, but will it not have a rough journey in the district?

"There is no doubt but a word or two about the latest candidate will be interesting reading to the army of politicians in the district. There are so many pleasant things to say about Charles Francis Adams, 2d, that one hardly knows just where to begin. In the first place, he is the smartest of all the smart set in the city of Quincy. No man is more expert at golf, and when it comes to golf clothes he wears them with a sang froid which would be envied by Beau Brummel, the most elegant man of his time. Mr. Adams is also a leader in the German and in the mazy waltz he is said at all times to be the equal of the late Ward McAllister, who won more medals than any man of his day. These things, of course, would help Candidate Adams, 2d, among his own swagger set in Quincy, where the golf suit is a potent factor in gathering together men of kindred sympathy and intellect.

"What is there to commend him to the voters of the district? Jerry Watson very sadly says 'Charlie is not in my set, but I know some of our fellows out in 19 who were classmates of his in Harvard back in '88, and they say he was then a real sweet sort of chap. I have it on pretty good authority that the Ward 19 Harvard Club of '88 will go into executive session and do everything in its power to boom the political fortunes of Mr. Adams.' Fair Harvard thy sons are true to their college memories, and it is but fitting that thy sons who graze within the pastures of the old bath house should sing hosannas of praise to their comrade, their classmate, the boy of their heart, from Quincy.

"The Harvard men in Ward 19 will show the world what we can do and again will the crimson banner which has proudly floated from many a hard-won battle field, rip and tear in the November wind, from the highest pinnacle in the old bath house. Charles Francis Adams, 2d, the members of the Ward 19 Harvard Club salute you. First Harvard, then Charles Francis Adams, 2d, evermore."

"Mr. Adams was a favorite son of Harvard in '88. 'Twas he who lost a shiny silk bonnet by tossing it high in the air as the signal for the assault to begin on the '88 floral emblem tied so tightly around the tree. For the glory of '88 he tossed his bonnet into the air on that beautiful June day when all was bright and fair in Cambridge, with brainy men and beautiful women to cheer and admire him for his loyalty to old Harvard customs and his liberality in not going searching for his bonnet after it had struck the ground.

"As he tossed his bonnet into the air in '88 so will he shy his political castor in the 10th district ring in '96. Mayor Adams is said to mean business. All Harvard has its ear to the ground to see what the outcome will be.

"Charles Francis Adams, 2d, lost one hat in the fray. What will happen to the other one?"

Wollaston Park Thankful.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

Now that it is an accomplished fact that we are to have two new schoolhouses that will be a credit to the city, I think that the thanks of the citizens are due to those members of the City Council who have worked so long and faithfully for them and in the face of such persistent opposition. I would like to mention especially the action of Councilman Rinn on Monday night, who just recovering from a long illness almost risked his life by going out on a stormy night, against the wishes of his friends, because his loyalty to duty was so strong that he felt he must be there in order to cast his vote and influence in favor of the new schoolhouses.

What a contrast to the action of the councilman-at-large from Wollaston who from the first has acted the part of an obstructionist. I would not refer to it but for the fact that the day before the last municipal election Mr. Sprague put in circulation a paper in which he posed as the friend of new schoolhouses, and at the same time placed some of the citizens of this section in a false light before the public. The Sunday previous to election he put in some hard work in the Park and Downs and managed to "hypnotize, magnetize or paralize" several persons into signing a paper favorable to his candidacy in the interest of new schoolhouses, and repudiating another circular in which the name of Mr. Sprague was conspicuous by its absence.

Now, Mr. Editor, Mr. Sprague's name was purposely left off that circular and was known and agreed to by every person whose name was signed to it, Mr. Sprague's circular to the contrary notwithstanding, and the wisdom of so doing has been made more apparent by his subsequent actions in the Council. For a man who was willing to "yield a preference" for the sake of having even wooden schoolhouses, his tactics of obstruction are certainly unique.

In behalf of the citizens of the Park and Downs I extend thanks to the Councilmen from Wollaston and Atlantic, the Councilman-at-large from Atlantic and all others who have made it possible for us to have a school building in which we and the city can take just pride.

WOLLASTON PARK.

Early Closing.

Editors Daily Ledger:

I am surprised at the short-sighted policy of some store keepers who to gain a twenty-five cent bicycle repair job, or to sell an extra necktie or pair of shoes, would incur the enmity and hard feeling of their brother store keepers by directly opposing their time worn custom of closing two evenings in the week. Unfortunately we are not all fixed with numerous clerks, so that it is impossible to allow the few we have to go off on regular nights unless everybody closes.

Why should Quincy be the only suburb of Boston where the stores keep open every evening when all the other places the size of Quincy and less, close on two, three, and even five evenings?

These few stores who persist in opening will soon discover that what little extra they may make will be more than offset by the patronage and good will of the store keepers who will continue to close.

Have personally directed considerable trade to two or three stores that are opposed to the closing movement but should certainly discontinue doing this in the future.

From the many expressions of like nature which I have heard on all sides and from a great many of the prominent store keepers in the Centre, I should judge that these very stores would already have felt their lone position and soon notice a lack of patronage from the other dealers.

Let us be up to date in this matter and not live in the time of past generations.

DEALER.

Press Women Entertained.

The Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co. of 398 Federal street, Boston, sent out invitations to the women of the press to an "at home" at forty-seven Boylston street, on Tuesday, March 31, from half past four to six. In response to the invitations a large company of ladies assembled and were soon interested in the mysteries of shoe making.

The only hand work done was when the upper was tacked to the wooden last and that was only temporary.

Then a wonderful little piece of machinery took possession of it and lasted it stretching the kid over the toe and sides to a perfect glove fit, while an automatic tacker fastened it. Then the famous Goodyear welt was sewed on with a machine with an oddly curved needle and the outsole sewed to that, leaving a smooth and perfect inner shoe which is characteristic of the Goodyear welt shoes.

Mr. James R. McGee, Mr. C. L. Barker and the employes cordially received the ladies and explained all the workings of the different machines.

At six o'clock an adjournment was made to hotel Thorndike where a sumptuous supper was enjoyed. At each plate was a fancy pink or blue box containing the cutest little blue or pink slipper and sachet with the word "Goodyear" in gold.

The menu cards were unique and read as follows: "Blue points, channel-lip turned; consomme, steam heated; anti-squeak olives, radishes, tacks out; boiled chicken halibut, ideal laster salts; potatoes, Boylston welt; tomatoes, Scott counter skived; roast chicken, lock stitch inseam; beef, rough rounder gravy; potatoes, mashed with Goodyear welt beater; Roman punch, with Baltimore edge; corn; asparagus, patties of oysters, a la rapid stitches; banana turn, a la Haverhill; apollinaris; champagne; Goodyear welt system ice cream; frozen pudding, reinforced inseam; Jersey cacks, with strawberrries; low cut turns in winter coffee."

Mr. S. V. A. Hunter, treasurer of the company was the host of the evening and after a few words of welcome introduced Mr. Van Ness as toastmaster and the originator of the "at home" and supper to the ladies. Miss Helen M. Winslow and Mrs. Gosse responded for the ladies and thanked the Goodyear Machinery Co., for a most enjoyable evening.

A Jealous Woman's Deed.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Mrs. Olga Deuss killed herself and three children, the eldest being 8 years old, by gas asphyxiation. She was jealous of her husband, who went out early Monday evening and did not return until 3 o'clock yesterday morning, at which hour he found his wife and three children dead in bed.

Still In a Tangle.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The coroner's jury in the case of Professor Max Eglau, the aged artist who was found assassinated in his studio in the institution for the improved instruction of deaf mutes, brought in a verdict that he was killed by some person or persons unknown to the jury.

Can't Be Found.

OTTAWA, April 1.—Sir Hector Langevin has received a dispatch from Winnipeg stating that the Dominion commissioners and provincial authorities are too far apart to agree to anything, consequently the remedial bill ought to be pushed.

In Collector's Hands.

CHARLESTON, April 1.—The collector of port yesterday seized the steamer Commodore, which recently arrived here, after having, it is alleged, discharged a number of men and a cargo of arms and ammunition on the coast of Cuba.

"Oh, the old home ain't what it used to be."

This is the sentiment of hundreds in this city. And they don't know why. They sit down after a hard day's work and try to read a paper or a favorite book in their cosy homes. But they read but a few minutes when they feel sleepy, their eyes smart, or they grow irritable and feel in their hearts that nothing seems as it used to.

Hundreds have so expressed themselves to us. We have fitted them with glasses, and life is no longer a burden; home is really home once more, and they are happy. It will cost you nothing for consultation and getting your eyes tested by a competent optician.

Cooking Made Easy.

In ranges, as in everything else, you find some one kind that is better than all the others.

Nearly four years ago we commenced the selling of ranges, and after a year's experience in handling the so-called leading makes, we became fully convinced that Glenwoods were unequalled.

By special contract with the makers we became their exclusive representatives for Quincy, and we have never regretted our action, for every Glenwood that leaves this store sends nothing but kindest and most praiseworthy words.

ARE FOR REED FIRST.

McKinley the Second Choice of Delegates From New Hampshire.

Platform Lacks Strength of Bay State's Declaration.

Effort to Follow Massachusetts' Financial Ideas Met With Opposition.

CONCORD, N. H., April 1.—The Republicans of the Granite state, as evidenced by the state convention in Phenix hall, were divided in their sentiment for a presidential candidate. The platform was not so strong in its financial plank as that of its sister state—Massachusetts—while the convention declared for both Thomas B. Reed and William McKinley, although electing delegates to St. Louis who are Reed men first of all.

The convention quickly accomplished its object by choosing Stephen S. Jewett of Laconia, Frank S. Streeter of Concord, Charles F. Means of Manchester and James A. Wood of Acworth delegates to St. Louis.

Alternate delegates were elected as follows: G. A. Clark, Manchester; S. H. Gale, Exeter; O. C. Hack, Littleton; Dexter Richards, Newport.

The only exciting incident was the effort of Colonel Rollins of Concord to secure as a substitute the Massachusetts financial plank favoring bimetallism instead of the one reported in the platform by the committee on resolutions. Mr. Rollins followed his motion to substitute with a strong argument.

Chairman Putney of the committee on resolutions supported the adoption of the report of the committee, evidently having the sympathy of the convention.

Senator Gallinger followed in the same line, arguing that the report of the committee was a definite and clear exposition of Republican faith and belief in honest money. J. G. Crawford of Manchester also opposed Mr. Rollins' substitute.

Mr. Rollins' substitute was rejected by an emphatic viva voce vote, and the platform as reported by the committee was adopted without dissent.

Before stating question on the adoption of the platform, Senator Chandler said the only criticism he would make of the document was the failure to arraign the Democratic party in the first paragraph.

The convention adjourned after adopting the following

Declaration of Principles:

The Republicans of New Hampshire congratulate their fellow citizens of all parties upon the near approach of an opportunity to rescue their country from the misrule of Democracy, which for three years has, by its incompetency and wickedness, paralyzed their productive industries and crippled their mercantile and commercial enterprise, destroyed much of the value of their property, deprived them of profitable employment and spread among them disappointment, privation and distress; which has added constantly and rapidly to the national debt, impaired the national credit, cast suspicion upon the national currency and sullied the national reputation at home and abroad; which has profited none of our own people except sheriffs, assignees and the favored speculators in government bonds, and which, though rebuked by the voters in 1894 and 1895 with an emphasis never equaled, doggedly refused to be corrected by its chastisement and persists in using the power it retains to perpetuate and intensify the misery and disgrace it has brought upon us.

To the end that this great deliverance may be fully accomplished, and our nation may be restored to the honor, glory and material prosperity to which it attained under the Republican policy, and continue the wonderful development which was brought to a stop by the incoming of President Cleveland and his congress, we demand of the national convention, soon to assemble at St. Louis, the nomination of candidates whose election will mean the speedy repeal of the infamous and ruinous Democratic tariff and the substitution therefor of one based upon the principles of the McKinley act, for the protection of our domestic industries, the promotion of reciprocal trade with other countries and the procurement of abundant revenues, as far as is possible, at the expense of foreigners, who market their merchandise in competition with our own productions; the enactment of currency laws that will provide a circulating medium in gold, silver and paper, which will always be interchangeable at its face value, because each and every dollar of it is of the same purchasing power as a gold dollar; liberal appropriations for an adequate navy and coast and harbor defense and internal improvement; fair and generous treatment of Union veterans; a foreign policy characterized by sturdy Americanism, including the assertion of the Monroe doctrine and the moral and material support of the Cuban patriots if they have not already achieved their independence, and an immediate return to all the policies in which the Republican party has so successfully illustrated the soundness of its principles, and to the methods by which it has demonstrated its ability to apply those principles in the administration of the government.

We recognize as the most conspicuous among such candidates New England's noble and illustrious son, Hon. Thomas B. Reed of Maine, and that pure and able statesman and champion of protection, Hon. William McKinley of Ohio.

We will give the electoral vote of New Hampshire to any nominee who worthily represents the party, but we prefer one of these, because either is in himself a platform.

Cullom Boom Collapses.

DECATUR, Ills., April 1.—Senator Cullom's home congressional district, the Seventeenth, endorsed McKinley for president yesterday. Joshua Humphrey, one of Cullom's workers, was made a delegate, and Hugh Crea, known until recently as a Cullom man, was also made a delegate, but this was done only after both had declared that they would observe their instructions. The resolutions adopted declare for McKinley for president.

Against McKinley.

BOSTON, April 1.—At the eighth district Republican convention yesterday, after several ballots, the following, all pledged for Thomas B. Reed, were elected: John Hopewell, Jr., and A. E. Winship. Alternates, Stanley Ruffin and E. S. Crockett. Resolutions endorsing McKinley as second choice for the presidential nomination were voted down.

A McKinley Sentiment.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 1.—Delegates to the Republican second district convention, which convened here today, in discussing the question of instructing the district delegates to the St. Louis convention for McKinley, reached no definite decision, but there will be McKinley instructions or none.

Reed, Then McKinley.

BOSTON, April 1.—The Chickatawbut club held its monthly banquet last night, and the political sentiment which came to the surface was for Reed first and McKinley second, while the platform of the Massachusetts Republicans was enthusiastically endorsed.

WOMEN DISCOURAGED.

Good and Sufficient Reasons for the Blues.

Doctors Fail to Understand Symptoms That Are Danger Signals.

A marked trait in woman's character is to place implicit confidence in her physician.

A man must work entirely from theory in the treatment of female diseases, for unfortunately facts based upon actual knowledge, belong to the female sex alone. Many women who periodically suffer with attacks of faintness, dizziness, extreme lassitude, "don't care" or want-to-be-left-alone feeling, do not at first realize that these are the infallible symptoms of womb trouble and the forerunners of great suffering.

Soon they grow to feel that the doctor does not understand their case. Then they remember that "a woman best understands a woman's ills," and turn to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter is but one positive illustration of this fact:—

"Four years ago I began to suffer with great weakness of the generative organs. My womb was prolapsed; I suffered with continual backache and all the other pains that accompany that weakness. I tried doctor after doctor, had operations. The final operation after which I became a total wreck, was scraping of the womb. A friend, one day, recommended to my husband your Compound. He bought me a bottle. The relief I experienced after taking it, was wonderful. I continued its use, and I am glad to say my recovery is a perfect surprise to everybody that knows me."—MRS. B. BLUHM, 4940 San Francisco Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Treasury Deficit Grows.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The forthcoming monthly treasury statement will show receipts during the month of March of $26,041,149. For the nine months of the fiscal year the receipts show a total of $250,699,810. The deficit for the present month will be about $1,300,000, and for the nine months, $18,819,708. During the last few months neither the custom receipts nor those from internal revenue sources have come up to expectations, and little improvement is anticipated in the near future.

Lack of Proper Facilities.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Reports coming to Washington from Port Royal, where the Indiana is, are to the effect that the new dock is leaking badly, and that work on the new ship is being conducted under great difficulties, owing to the lack of machine shops and facilities for doing any of the little jobs found to be necessary when a ship is docked. It is not doubted that the Indiana can be safely brought out, however.

Dell De Forrest Insane.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Dell De Forrest, the vaudeville actress, is in a Long Island insane asylum, suffering from the hallucination that every one is trying to kill her. Miss De Forrest's condition is thought to have been caused by the excessive use of peroxide of hydrogen for bleaching the hair. She was one of Newark's belles before going on the stage, and has used the powerful bleaching fluid for eight years.

Cash or Glory?

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., April 1.—Evangelist W. A. Sunday, the retired baseball player, has, it is said, received an offer of the position of umpire for the National League at a salary of $250 a month and expenses. Whether to accept the position or continue in the evangelistic work during the summer he is as yet unable to decide.

Wedding Preliminaries.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 1.—General Harrison, his private secretary and Dan Ramsdell left yesterday afternoon for New York, where General Harrison will, next Monday, be married to Mrs. Dimmick. General Harrison is in better health and spirits than he has been since his first campaign.

Disappointed In Love.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—Ira Gibson, aged 25 years, last night shot and killed Mrs. Sallie March, a widow, aged 32, and then committed suicide. The shooting occurred at a boarding house kept by the woman. Unrequited love is supposed to have prompted the crime.

Marlboroughs at Blenheim.

LONDON, April 1.—The Duke of Marlborough and his bride, formerly Miss Vanderbilt of New York, arrived at their home, Blenheim palace, Woodstock, yesterday, from their honeymoon trip. They were enthusiastically received by the villagers and tenantry.

The Diplomatic Negus.

ROME, April 1.—It is learned from an official source that the negus of Abyssinia demands a large ransom for the Italian prisoners he holds and for the Adigrat garrison. The Italian government is disposed to accept the terms.

OLD TRICK REPEATED.

Mellie Hall Hired a Fancy Rig and Failed to Return It.

Good Looking Young Woman of Stylish Appearance

Will Be Compelled to Answer to the Charge of Horse Stealing.

CLINTON, Mass., April 2.—Mellie Ford, alias Hall, known throughout Worcester county as the "cuckoo" girl, was again arrested last evening by Chief of Police Murphy and Officer Gibbons for horse stealing.

The young woman, who is good looking and elegantly dressed, has been living here for about three weeks. Tuesday morning she went to the stable of G. B. Andrews and hired a horse and carriage for, so she said, a short pleasure ride. She was very particular, and on the strength of her stylish appearance was given the best rig in the stable.

She drove at once to the outskirts of the town, where she was joined by a well-known young society man, who later left her.

Tuesday evening she drove into the stable of J. Warner, near Ayer Junction.

Yesterday afternoon she appeared at the same place and said she would let the rig stay there for a day or two. She then came here, and was arrested at South Lancaster.

She will be arraigned in court on the charge of horse stealing. The woman is well known to the police. Several months ago she stole a horse and buggy in Athol, and was arrested in Boston, where the rig was found.

In the superior court she was placed on probation, and as this will be brought against her in the present case, she will be given the full penalty. She is known in Boston by the name of Hall.

ON BEACON HILL.

Solons Again Go on Record as Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

BOSTON, April 2.—The house yesterday defeated the bill giving women qualified to vote for members of the school board the right to vote on the question of granting liquor licenses. The defeat was by a vote of 104 to 81. The house then promptly rejected the bill granting municipal suffrage to women.

Mr. Moriarty opened up the debate. He criticised the committee on election laws for getting the bill before the house before action was taken on the bill in favor of municipal suffrage for women. He charged that moral cowardice was at the bottom of such action.

Colonel Young said that women should have the right to vote on the license question, because they contribute to the revenues of government, and are the conservators of the principles of government. Then followed Messrs. Bates and Lowell, the former in favor and the latter in opposition to the bill.

Senator Quinn was given leave to withdraw his petition for legislation to relieve estates assessed for sewer assessments when such estates receive no benefit from the construction of said sewers.

The bill to provide an appropriation of $150,000 for dredging in Boston harbor was assigned for April 6.

The house accepted the adverse committee report on the petition for a change in the law relating to the organization and administration of the building department of the city of Boston.

Not a Candidate.

BOSTON, April 2.—Leading Republicans of the Eleventh congressional district wrote a letter to Congressman Draper of Hopedale, urging him to become for the third time a congressional candidate. Congressman Draper has replied that he cannot accept a third nomination, by reason of press of private business. He says the duties of a congressman are more engrossing than he anticipated, and attention to them must require the relinquishment of all private business affairs.

Detective vs. Detective.

PORTLAND, Me., April 2.—A law court decision was filed yesterday in the clerk of the court's office in the case of state vs. James W. Carver of Auburn. Carver, who is a special detective, charged with committing an assault on State Detective Odlin of Lewiston, was convicted in the municipal court and the decision sustained by the supreme court. The law court's decision is in the defendant's favor, sustaining his exceptions.

Widow an Alleged Embezzler.

WEST NEWFIELD, Me., April 2.—Mrs. Annie Morton, assistant postmistress at this place, was arrested last night by United States Deputy Marshal Prescott, charged with the embezzlement of $446.82 from the government. The arrest was ordered by Postoffice Inspector Snow, who has worked up the case. Mrs. Morton is a handsome widow of 28 years. She will be arraigned in Portland.

Justice Pike.

CONCORD, N. H., April 2.—Robert G. Pike of Dover has been appointed to be associate justice of the New Hamshire superior court. Mr. Pike is a native of Rollinsford. He was born in 1852. He was admitted to the bar in 1881, and began practice in Dover, where he has become a leader in his profession and actively allied with business and social affairs. He is unmarried.

Turks' Victims.

PORTLAND, Me., April 2.—There are only about 20 Armenians in this city, but all of them have had relatives murdered by the Turks. A letter received here yesterday from a village six miles from Harpoot says that of 300 houses only six have been left standing, and all of the people have sought refuge in the mountains, where they are starving.

Not a Joke.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 2.—A three-story apartment house was partially destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is $7000. The occupants were at breakfast, when some boys on the street shouted fire and pointed to the upper rooms, but thinking it was an April fool joke paid no attention to the warning until the flames were in full sway.

Choice of the A. P. A.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 2.—A majority of the council of the order of the A. P. A. in the state have settled on Charles L. Young as their candidate for lieutenant governor, as against any other possible candidate for the nomination. Thirty-five of the 67 councils have already taken action, and have pledged themselves unreservedly to Colonel Young, so that it seems safe to state in any event his name will go before the convention. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott has been informed that he will not be opposed by the order for the governorship, but his running-mate must be Colonel Charles L. Young.

Couldn't Agree.

LACONIA, N. H., April 2.—The jury in the Centre Harbor arson case, in which P. C. Lamprey is accused of setting fire to his drug store in the fall of '94, reported that they were unable to agree, and they were discharged, after being locked up 18 hours.

Recruits Not Plentiful.

PORTLAND, Me., April 2.—A man claiming to be an agent of the Cuban insurgents is in this city, and has made a public of $100 bounty and $40 a month to all who would enlist for the Cuban service. Very few have accepted the offer.

Shoemakers on Strike.

BEVERLY, Mass., April 2.—Thirty-five shoemakers, employed by Babb, Williams & Douglass, struck yesterday, because of a cutdown in wages, incident upon the making of a new price-list. The strikers claim the cut is 20 per cent.

LOVE FOR AMERICANS.

Salvationists' New Commander Has Already Formed His Policy.

He Intends to Become a Citizen "at Once."

Ballington Booth Shows Signs of Wishing to Avoid His Successor.

NEW YORK, April 2.—General William Booth proposes coming to America to look after army affairs, his contumacious son Ballington and to make further plans for salvation on the Western hemisphere. This is by far the most important news brought from international headquarters by Commissioner Frederick St. George De La Tour Tucker, who arrived on the steamship Majestic yesterday.

The national headquarters of the American branch of the Salvation Army was thronged from cellar to roof with Salvationists shouting hallelujahs and amens in honor of the arrival of Commander Tucker. After an informal introduction by Commissioner Carleton and the attendant greetings Mr. Tucker said:

NEW YORK HEADQUARTERS OF THE SALVATION ARMY.

"My policy shall be one of love and not of aggressiveness. I shall do in the sphere of my new command as I have done in India. I will follow in the fashion of American people, whom General Booth so dearly loves and admires.

"The information which has been placed before me during my brief sojourn in America to the effect that Ballington Booth has charged that the London officers suppressed the cablegrams sent by him to his father is to me a surprise.

"Everything in connection with the American situation has been placed before the general. The circumstances are entirely regrettable, but the Salvation Army has got to that stage now that if all the leaders had run away, the women in the slums would take up the deserted flag and proceed with the good work, aided by God and proceeding effectively today in every nation in the world.

"The secession of Ballington Booth has attracted a great deal of sympathy and aroused a lot of dormant affection in England for the calamity which has befallen the Salvation Army in the United States. The English people still hope that Ballington Booth will see his way to return to the fold, and I shall use every means in my power to secure that end, if at all possible.

Touching Money Matters.

"In regard to the transfer of the property and the legal obstacles which seem to beset myself and Mrs. Tucker, I will say that I intend to become an American citizen at once. If it was not for my wife, who is worth a hundred like myself, I would feel entirely unfit for the occupancy of my new position. Every scrap of influence, power, brain, body and heart I will lay at America's feet, and hope that what I am not now America will soon make me—an adopted son. I shall sit at her feet, and shall not be above learning every day of my life.

"I have brought with me a big bag of campaign plans and a very wide program which I shall not undertake to carry out until after the welcome meeting in Carnegie hall."

Commander Tucker further spoke deferentially of the efforts which he contemplates summoning to his aid to secure a meeting with Ballington Booth, and seemed confident of being able to induce Commander Ballington Booth to return to the fold.

He said it was more than probable that General Booth would pay a visit to America in the fall and review the whole Salvationist field.

Before leaving for Buffalo, Commander Ballington Booth issued the following statement: "The question has been asked as to whether or not Commander Ballington Booth considers his conversation with Mrs. Commissioner Booth-Tucker on Tuesday, in which he declared himself not to enter into any further negotiations or business officially or otherwise with the new commissioners as final, I desire to make public the fact that what I said to Mrs. Commissioner Booth-Tucker is tantamount to what I would have said if I were asked to meet Commissioner Tucker. Every bit of me is with the Volunteers."

IT IS questionable to what extent a newspaper should be used as a catspaw by one citizen to slap another. We are led to this point by the communications upon early closing, only one business man having the courage of his convictions to have them printed over his own signature. Three or four have come from one gentleman under different non de plume, all against a rival in business. In another a pointed personal allusion was made which the editor elliminated, and was accused of garbling. The better way, doubtless, would be to have consigned it to the waste basket. Anonymous threats should have no place in a newspaper, and the LEDGER desires that future communications on early closing shall appear over the writers' signatures.

THE STATE tax of $2,000,000 proposed this year is a third larger than last year, and will increase the tax levy of Quincy $4,154, and the Metropoliton park assessment will further increase it. The reduction of $3,570 in the city's county tax will hardly offset this but it will materially help.

THE FACT that the St. John's ball is to be held in Braintree is another indication that Quincy wants a large hall. And then, again, many good times are now indefinitely postponed.

ANOTHER LUNCH cart proprietor has found out by experience that lunch carts are not profitable in Quincy. It would be well if they could be prohibited.

THE SCHOOL REPORT.

A Review of School Department For Year 1895.

Efforts of Supt. Lull Appreciated by the Committee.

Quincy an Educational Missionary for Boston and Suburbs.

The annual report of the School Committee is out. In itself it is brief, but Superintendent Lull goes more into detail.

The committee say:

"We consider ourselves fortunate in commanding the services of Mr. Lull in the office mentioned and we believe that the really high position which our school system occupies in the state and in the country is largely due to his energy and wisdom. We recommend therefore to our fellow citizens the perusal of his report, wherein they will find an instructive study of educational subjects while at the same time a scrutiny of the financial exhibit will show with what scrupulous care the interests of the tax payers have been guarded."

Continuing, the report says: "The almost unexampled growth of the High school during the last six years has not escaped your observation. From an average membership of a little over ninety, the school has reached a total enrollment of 340, a number far exceeding in size the total combined attendance at the Woodward seminary, the Adams academy and the Thayer academy. These figures prove that the High school is offering to the people something which the people desire to have, while it affords to the teachers, the superintendent and the school board the most precious encouragement in their efforts for enlarging the usefulness and elevating the standard of the institution. We can, nevertheless, easily foresee a time when this rapid growth will present to the school board a problem which it will find somewhat difficult of solution, but that time has not yet come. There is no cause for present anxiety."

Supt. Lull's report shows the value of the school property to be $401,450. Although there are but 74 school rooms in the eight buildings, 80 have been forced into service. The teachers number 108,—9 males and 99 females. There were enrolled in 1895 a total of 4,527 pupils against 4,399 in 1894. The total expenditures of the department were $81,374 78.

These statistics also appear:

By the fifty-eighth annual report of the Board of Education, Quincy hold the following rank among the 352 towns and cities of the State and the 27 of the County:

Percentage of valuation appropriated to public schools. State, 111; County, 14.

Ratio of average attendance to the who'e number of children between 5 and 15 years, State, 279; County, 23.

Comparative amount of money appropriated for each child between 5 and 15 years. State, 119; County, 20.

Educational Missionary.

"Quincy is now, as she has been in the past, an educational missionary. She has furnished teacher after teacher to Boston and eleven of its suburban cities and towns—to say nothing of cities more remote. No matter how much she may regret the loss of her teachers, for they are among the best, it is a fact that a half-year of a first-class teacher is better than a whole year of a weak one. Furthermore, the knowledge that faithful and successful work means promotion and increased salary within the metropolitan district, is an excellent incentive. Nevertheless, Quincy would, without doubt, gladly do less foreign and more home missionary work, if her valuation warranted and her large school population permitted it.

"Five thousand parents are rearing the school children of Quincy. Some are bringing them up "by hand," some "by tongue," some by will power, some by multiplying tasks or dividing privileges, some by adding to the hours of sleep or subtracting from the daily amount of food, some by the force of a great and magnetic personality, and some are doing nothing save allowing their children to grow up.

"With all this diversity the teacher must work, but deprived of nearly all the aids and incentives that are common to the average family. It is a great wonder and a daily miracle that so much can be done in the school in spite of the home, the street and the playground. A teacher deals with an average of at least fifty different children during the 356 sessions of a school year, and yet out of these 17,500 chances that each teacher has to make serious mistakes, the complaints to the Superintendent do not average one each to the whole corps. This speaks well for the sound common sense of the teaching force and should give it the confidence and esteem of the community and a pecuniary reward commensurate with the value and importance of its work."

Several pages are devoted to the fortieth anniversary of Miss Julia E. Underwood as a teacher.

The prizes at the Granite City club were won on Wednesday evening by Messrs. Charles C. Hearn and Henry F. Tilden.

Epworth League Entertainment.

There was a very large attendance at the entertainment given at the West Quincy Methodist church on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the young ladies of the Epworth League. The entertainment was of high order and was very enjoyable and consisted of piano duet by Misses Addie and Annie Miller; reading by Miss Tinker; vocal duet, Misses Walker and Milne; banjo solo, Master Munroe; vocal solo, Miss Alice Litchfield; violin solo, Master John Black, and piano solo, Miss Lottie Orcutt. The entertainment closed with the milkmaids' drill, which was finely executed by twelve little misses who were appropriately costumed, each carrying in their hand a milk pail and stool. After the entertainment ice cream, cake and confectionery were served in the vestry, the little milkmaids acting as waiters.

April Fool Joke.

The serenness of a social gathering that was held not many miles from Edwards hill on Wednesday evening was somewhat disturbed shortly after 10 o'clock by what was supposed to be an alarm of fire from a near by box. The party made all due haste to reach the box before the apparatus, which they did, but failing to find the usual excitement attendant upon fires it dawned upon them that it was the first of April. Further investigation showed that the cause of the commotion was a piece of wire with a man on one end of it manipulating a push button, and now John quietly laughs to himself as he pictures in his mind the success of the little joke.

Charles D. Cole Dead.

Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock a well known ancient Odd Fellow passed away. Bro. Charles D. Cole, as grand secretary of the Grand Lodge for over forty years and also as grand scribe was well known to all prominent Odd Fellows and officers of lodges. He was well acquainted with the old Mt. Wollaston lodge of this city a half century ago, and it was a pleasure to him to assist at the reinstitution in 1884 and since that date to give aid and counsel to the lodge. He retired from active work in the order two or three years ago. He was born in Scituate and was 72 years of age.

Holy Thursday.

Today is Holy Thursday and mass was celebrated at St. John's church, at 9 o'clock this morning. At the completion of the mass the Blessed Sacrament was carried in a procession to the repository, there to repose until Easter. The altar will be stripped of its embellishments, and all objects in the church will be dressed in somber black, commemorative of the great Passion of Friday. This evening services will be held at 8 o'clock.

The "big boy" who got quite sick smoking on Wednesday evening should be careful how he indulges any more with the vile weed. His better half should give him a "curtain lecture," and keep him in evenings.

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

The funeral of Mr. Theodore W. Fowle, who died on Monday, was held on Wednesday at 2.30 from the Congregational church, Rev. E. N. Hardy officiating. The services were largely attended, including a delegation from Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The city owns a sewer on Willard street near Crescent, which was originally put in to take care of the surplus water that came from the hills. But so much matter has been dumped near the mouth of this sewer that it is all choked up, and as a result there have been many cellars that have been filled with water this spring.

Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., initiated one candidate at its meeting Wednesday evening. After the business of the evening, the third meet in the whist tournament between the members of Maple lodge and Friendship lodge of South Boston took place, which resulted in a victory for the visitors by eight points.

The Monitor for April is out today. There has been a notable improvement in the monthly since it assumed its present shape. There is always some special feature, which in this issue is Easter, and many columns of interest to Catholic readers and the general public. It is published by the St. John's society and printed at the PATRIOT office.

The concert and ball under the auspices of the St. John's C. L. and A. A. will be held this year at South Braintree. The committee having the ball in charge have left nothing undone to make the affair one of the best successes of the St. John's society. A fine concert programme has been arranged by Mr. A. F. Bates, of Bates' orchestra. Cars will run on the Quincy & Boston street railway every half hour, and by special arrangement with the company transportation will be furnished to all patrons. It is many years since the society has held a ball, and it is hoped that this year will witness an outpouring of all the friends of the society.

In ranges, as in everything else, you find some one kind that is better than all the others.

Nearly four years ago we commenced the selling of ranges, and after a year's experience in handling the so-called leading makes, we became fully convinced that Glenwoods were unequalled.

By special contract with the makers we became their exclusive representatives for Quincy, and we have never regretted our action, for every Glenwood that leaves this store sends nothing but kindest and most praiseworthy words.

MILTON.

The Ladies' Granite Club held a sociable at Rugby hall on Tuesday evening. There was vocal and instrumental music, readings, speaking, ice cream, cake and a general good time.

The funeral of the late George Wilde was held from his late residence off Central street on Tuesday, and was attended by delegations from the Odd Fellows, Masons and Coachmen's Benefit Association.

Easter services will be held at the Congregational church Sunday. At the morning service Rev. F. A. Holden of Buckingham, Conn., will occupy the pulpit and in the evening there will be an Easter concert by the Sunday School.

The fire department was called out Tuesday to extinguish a chimney fire in New State.

Maguire & O'Heron have built quite an addition to their stone cutting sheds.

The reserved space of the street railway at East Milton is being graded with loam and will be sown down with grass seed.

The Healey boy who was severely injured last week by a runaway team, remains about the same but little improvement being reported in his condition.

The petition for the extension of the street railway to Mattapan was presented to the Selectmen at their last meeting.

Leap Year Dance at Downs.

A very enjoyable leap year dance was given Wednesday evening at the hall at Norfolk Downs. Miss Carrie Jennings was the floor director and she was assisted by Miss Eva Clare and Miss Jennie Ramsey. The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. Marr. Music, Sprague's orchestra.

Among those present were: Miss Crompton, Miss F. Wilson, Miss G. Wilson, Miss Carrie Saunders, Miss Lena Cleaves, Miss A. Scharnagel, Miss A. Burrell, Miss M. Corthell, Miss E. Veazie, Miss H. Phelan, Miss Ida Hoyt, Mr. F. C. Allen, Mr. J. Alden, Mr. Geo. Sheridan, Mr. John Sheridan, Mr. J. Lingly, Mr. H. Flood, Mr. C. Sargant, Mr. W. Winlock, Mr. W. Nelson, Mr. F. Bugbee, Mr. W. Sudden Death.

Mrs. Mary F., wife of Mr. Timothy Driscoll, died at her residence at West Quincy, Tuesday night, aged 21 years. This was a peculiarly sad death as Mr. and Mrs Driscoll had been married but a little over a year and were just entering into the full enjoyment of their life when that grim destroyer death entered the happy home and removed its shining light, her illness being of but a few hours' duration.

Mrs. Driscoll's maiden name was Joyce and she had always resided in West Quincy where she was a general favorite with all, and her untimely death has cast a gloom over this immediate part of the city.

The Rooster a Success.

Charley Adams, Mayor of Quincy and candidate for Congress from the Tenth district, says that he intends to race the Rooster this next season, and will not dabble in half raters. Whether he means by this that his time will be taken up almost entirely with politics, or that he does not care to trust himself in so small boats has not as yet been learned, but it is pretty safe to say that if he is as successful with his political boom as he has been with the Rooster, the Fifty-sixth Congress will see him as one of its members.—Traveler.

"Oh, the old home ain't what it used to be."

This is the sentiment of hundreds in this city. And they don't know why. They sit down after a hard day's work and try to read a paper or a favorite book in their cosy homes. But they read but a few minutes when they feel sleepy, their eyes smart, or they grow irritable and feel in their hearts that nothing seems as it used to.

Hundreds have so expressed themselves to us. We have fitted them with glasses, and life is no longer a burden; home is really home once more, and they are happy. It will cost you nothing for consultation and getting your eyes tested by a competent optician.

LOYAL SUPPORT.

Connecticut and Vermont Will Be For Reed.

HIS BOOM IS INTACT

Notwithstanding the Straddle In New Hampshire.

Republicans Carry Everything In Rhode Island and State Election.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—"Look out for a landslide in Connecticut!" was the cry of the McKinleyites yesterday, and for several days the New York newspaper estimates have put Connecticut in the doubtful or divided list.

Congressman Sperry of New Haven, an experienced politician, says this view is unfounded, and that the state will, in his opinion, be solid for Reed at St. Louis, as will all the other New England states.

Congressman Russell of the same state, who has just returned from home, says the sentiment is clearly for Reed, and no fears of a McKinley stampede need be entertained.

Sperry says the only way for the six states of New England to get any recognition in national politics is by standing together, for otherwise their strength is small compared with the great middle and western states.

Judge Powers of Vermont predicts that there is no danger of a repetition of the performance in New Hampshire, and is inclined to attribute in that state the result there to local causes.

"Local Politics."

To say that the New Hampshire declaration in favor of either Reed or McKinley is creating a sensation here is to state the case mildly.

One of the congressmen from that state said some days ago that the leaders of the party had their hands full to hold down the McKinley sentiment springing up all over the state, and that a few determined politicians could easily swing the state for the Ohio man, but he admitted that by delicate handling the situation would be so controlled that no intimation of the McKinley sentiment in the state would be allowed to go out.

This was the program, but it failed, and the prestige of Reed as the New England candidate is considerably broken. The circumstances which brought about this double preference, although understood by people near the scene, is not known to the country at large, and in all quarters a great and unexpected victory for McKinley has been heralded.

Chandler is always a factional leader, and leaves many wounds behind in his contests. His vociferous support of Reed naturally turned the anti-Chandler sentiment of the state against Reed, and, as in New York, to the most available opposition candidate, Mr. McKinley.

Representative Boutelle well voices this opinion, when he says: "It seems to me that this must be more a bit of local politics than anything else. Senator Chandler has many enemies in his state, and they may have taken this occasion to show their disapproval of his course in attacking McKinley. The delegates who have been elected are certainly Reed men. At least the slate seems to have gone through unbroken, and the slate was made up of Reed men."

"Do you agree that this takes Mr. Reed out of the race?"

"Why, not at all; it seems to me that the history of Republican conventions for the last 20 years is proof that the candidate who seemed to have the nomination in his grasp was not the man who was finally chosen. I do not see that McKinley is nominated yet."

Pleases Grosvenor.

Representative Grosvenor said: "I told Chandler that he had better keep away from New Hampshire, and he ought to have taken my advice. The beauty of this action is that it has come in New England, a section which we conceded from the start to Mr. Reed, and in which we do not expect to secure any support.

"The joint and several indorsements of Reed and McKinley was a very graceful and gracious act, and the description of Governor McKinley as that pure and able statesman and champion of protection was manifestly intended to negative to all the world the possible impression that New Hampshire Republicans believe or endorse the slanders recently uttered against that distinguished candidate.

"The action of the convention was one of the 'flowers which bloom over the garden wall' of party politics. It is the irresistible march of the people in support of a man who mosts fully represents the dominant sentiment of the party."

Senator Lodge did not care to be interviewed on the New Hampshire situation, but is inclined to take a less serious view of it than many of his colleagues. Referring to the Massachusetts convention, he said: "I have seen a statement that there was considerable sentiment for McKinley in the convention. If it existed it was not visible."

Senator Lodge says that the reports of the McKinley strength in Virginia are greatly exaggerated. His advices from the state show that Mr. Reed has considerable following there.

Congressman McCall said that New Hampshire people had such a propensity for straddling that they did not confine it to the money plank, but extended it to the candidates, and the only wonder is that they did not name all the presidential possibilities.

Chairman Walker says the New Hampshire double preference "indicates nothing except the New Hampshire way of doing business," by which he refers to an excessive fondness for being on the winning side, whichever that may be.

DEMOCRATS ROUTED.

Republicans Swept All Before Them In Rhode Island Election.

PROVIDENCE, April 2.—With only five districts in the state to hear from, Governor Lippitt is re-elected by a plurality of over 10,000. The total vote, with five missing districts, is as follows: For governor—Lippitt (Rep.), 25,115; Littlefield (Dem.), 15,668. Lippitt's plurality, 9477. Last year Governor Lippitt carried the state by 10,721, and his plurality this year will be about the same figures.

The Democrats acknowledge that the election is a clean sweep for the Republicans, as they have lost Cumberland in the assembly fight, and the Republicans carry Providence.

Providence went Republican by 2000. The city went Democratic last fall.

The principal issue was no-license, and it came as a local option in Providence, Pawtucket and Central Falls. In Providence the Democrats had scared up an investigation of the license commissioners, and had carried the inquiry right up to the eve of the election, leaving the Republicans and the commissioners without a chance to offer anything in rebuttal.

Through that work and the activity of the Prohibitionists it was intended to knock the commissioners out of a job. The taxpayers, upon whom the brunt of the cost of no-license would fall, rallied in surprisingly large numbers and carried the day by more than two to one.

In every city and town where "no license" was being voted, the license party prevailed, with the single exception of South Kingston.

The Democratic issue of a constitutional convention, to be held in opposition to a formal opinion of the supreme court, declaring such a proceeding to be unconstitutional and revolutionary, helped to defeat the party.

Newport gave large Republican majorities for all the party candidates on both state and legislative tickets, the size of the total vote running about 400 ahead of last year's.

Woonsocket gave Lippitt (Rep.) for governor 453 plurality and elected the Republican legislative ticket by pluralities of from 173 to 333. The Republican pluralities are increased from 50 to 100 over last year.

In Tiverton the principal issue of the day, the license question, resulted in a victory for the license men, the vote standing 199 yes to 145 no. This is the first time the town has voted for license.

"GOT THE RUN."

Schrader, the "Divine Healer" Fraud, Not Wanted In Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, April 2.—George A. Schrader, calling himself the divine healer, has been in this city since Saturday last freely "healing the sick," as he styles his work.

SCHRADER THE HEALER.

He claims that his power is transmitted from his hands, or even from his clothing Yesterday, he was brought before the mayor, chief of police and the health officers for examination. The health officers stated that he was not only a nuisance by blocking the streets, but was a menace to the health of the community by passing his unwashed hands over the faces of hundreds of people, many of whom are diseased. The health officers ordered him to leave the city at once. Schrader promised to go.

Dealing With Pensions.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Rules of the last administration were reversed in a decision rendered yesterday by Assistant Secretary of the Interior Reynolds in a pension case. The ruling holds, where a widow and minor children under 16 years of age survive a soldier, the children may, after attaining the age of 16, and where the death of the mother occurs thereafter without payment to her of any part of the pension, apply in their own right and receive the same pension as the father would have been entitled to had he been totally disabled. This pension is to commence from the date of his death and continue until they respectively arrive at the age of 16. This holding entitles those whose rights to apply did not accrue until after they had passed their 16th year to be pensioned as though their rights had accrued while under the age of 16, as held by the department a year ago, and hence not subject to any limitation.

As Far Apart as Ever.

WINNIPEG, April 2.—The announcement by Mr. Tupper that he had received word from this city that the commissioners and Manitoba representatives were too far apart to reach a satisfactory compromise on the school question is accepted here as conclusive that no settlement of the question will be reached during the present negotiations. It is generally understood that the Greenway government ministers have refused to negotiate while a coercive bill was under consideration at Ottawa.

Coming Too Fast.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The immigration officials are somewhat disturbed at the present enormous increase in immigration. During February the number of arrivals at New York aggregated 11,822, an increase of about 65 per cent over the arrivals during February, 1895. Dr. Senner reports that there were 881 barred and detained immigrants kept at the Ellis Island station last Monday night, which taxed the accommodations to the utmost.

Orders From Headquarters.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Acting Secretary Reynolds of the interior department has telegraphed Governor Hughes of Arizona that he has been removed from office, and directing him to turn his office over to Secretary Bruce. The telegram was sent in response to a message from Bruce, saying that Hughes refused to vacate the office, and asking what he (Bruce) should do.

Wizard Outdone.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Madison Square Garden concert hall was crowded last night by an audience of billard lovers, eager to see Frank Ives and Jake Schaefer cross cues for the first time at the 18-inch balk line game. Ives won—600 to 394.

A brilliant complexion is a beauty in itself. It pleases the eyes of thoughtless people and the minds of thinking people. They know that a really good complexion is a sign of health, and created by Nature. There are different ways of imitating a fine complexion: cosmetics, which deceive nobody, but ruin the skin and make the user look silly and prematurely old; stimulants which only give a temporary flush; dangerous drugs which drive pimply disorders from the face back into the blood. All these "counterfeit" complexions are unsafe and easily detected. But the genuine, unmistakeable, much-admired color and clearness of health can only be obtained by clearing all bilious matters and humors out of the blood.

The first step towards creating a good complexion by Nature's own method is to get the blood clear, and the circulation free and active. There is no complexion so sallow, muddy or pimply but it will be cleared and brightened by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the best natural complexion-maker on earth. It sends the fresh glow of real health to the cheeks by thoroughly clearing all bilious and eruptive humors out of the blood. It strengthens the digestion and regulates the bowels in a mild, natural way. It gives brighter color to the blood, and not only beautifies the complexion but makes the eyes brighter and the breath sweeter.

If the bowels be very much constipated, it will be advisable to take small doses of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, conjointly with the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery." One or two each day—just sufficient to get their laxative and alterative, or blood cleansing, effect will be sufficient.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Ocean mail subsidies brought on an animated discussion in the senate during the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill. Mr. Vilas opposed subsidies, and Mr. Perkins energetically defended them. The subsidy item was reserved for a separate vote. The balance of the postoffice appropriation bill was completed. Mr. Call introduced a resolution concerning Cuba, proposing the immediate use of a United States naval force to protect Americans in Cuba from atrocities and for humane reasons in general. The house practically completed the consideration of the sundry civil bill. The debate on an amendment to appropriate $75,000 for commencing the erection of a new military post at Spokane brought on a political discussion over the financial distress. The amendment was adopted, despite an appeal for economy.

Dervishes Worrying Italians.

ROME, April 2.—Dispatches from Massowah announce that the dervishes fired upon the outer works of Kassala with two cannon on March 25. The Italians replied without result. Colonel Stavani, who is hastening to the relief of Kassala with a force of troops, sent instructions to Major Hidalgo not to engage the enemy in a battle until the arrival of the re-enforcements. Advices received from the west state that the dervishes have established a vast camp at Tucruf, where they are digging numbers of wells.

A Steel Combine.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Nearly all of the leading manufacturers of steel billets, rails, slabs and blooms, or their representatives, will meet in New York tonight to perfect a combination for the control of the price and the nature and quantity of the output in their respective branches of the steel industry. It is understood that they are unanimous in their endorsement of a combination.

In True Indian Style.

SAN SIMON, A. T., April 2.—Settlers in this part of the territory are wrought up to a high pitch of excitement over the murder by Apaches of Alfred Hans. The man's head was crushed in by rocks, the abdomen was cut open and gunshot wounds were in several parts of the body. Tracks on the ground showed that Indians had committed the crime.

Hippolyte's Successor.

KINGSTON, Jam., April 2.—T. Simon Sam, formerly minister of war for Hayti, has been elected president, to succeed General Hippolyte, deceased, by the senate and house of representatives. Perfect tranquility prevails, and there are no indications of any dissatisfaction with the choice for chief executive.

Will Be No Display.

NEW YORK, April 2.—General Benjamin Harrison has arrived at the Fifth Avenue hotel. The wedding of the ex-president and Mrs. Dimmick will take place next Monday at St. Thomas' church. The hour of the wedding is understood to be at 4 o'clock. Not over 25 invitations to the wedding have been issued.

Given Another Chance.

MADRID, April 2.—The medical schools of the universities of Madrid, Barcelona, Granada, Valencia and Cadiz, which were closed on account of the anti-American manifestations of the students, have been ordered to reopen their doors.

Disability Removed.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The president has signed the act repealing the statute prohibiting the appointment to the army and navy of persons who held Confederate commissions.

Chandler Rises to Explain.

CONCORD, N. H., April 2. — Senator Chandler yesterday wrote Senator Lodge explaining the action of the state convention in endorsing both Reed and McKinley, and saying that the plank was a concession of the Reed men to the McKinley sentiment. Senator Chandler says he acquiesced in the concession, though he knew it to have been cowardly, as the Reed men outnumbered the McKinley men.

Tenement House Horror.

BROOKLYN, April 2.—Fire destroyed a tenement house early yestesday morning, and 10 of its occupants were smothered in their beds. Their bodies were burned. The building was a four-story brick, at 36 Union street. By the time the fire department apparatus arrived, the building was fairly in flames. Some of the persons asleep above managed to escape by means of the windows and fire-escapes, but the firemen could do nothing for those who had not been aroused before the stifling smoke overcame them. The fire was checked finally, after it had burned out the building. The loss will not be more than $4000. The victims were all Italians.

Poor Seal Fishing.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 2.—The steamer Hope arrived here Tuesday night with a broken shaft and only 2000 seals, her usual cargo being 30,000 seals. One man was drowned. News from Cape Breton reports that the steamer Iceland and Nimrod, fishing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, are without seals. The total catch is not expected to reach 120,000, against 220,000 last year.

Convicted of Murder.

BUFFALO, April 2.—The jury in the Hyde murder case brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree. When the verdict was rendered, Hyde displayed the supreme and almost imbecile indifference which he has kept up throughout the trial. Hyde killed Captain Charles Phillips, during a riot of canal boatmen at Tonawanda last October.

Too Much Time Wasted.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—The Taxpayers' league have brought suit to restrain Mayor Walbridge from collecting the salary which accumulates while he is absent from the city. The injunction is asked on the ground that Mayor Walbridge has during the past year repeatedly absented himself and has drawn $1100 for the time so wasted.

Yankee Vessel Seized.

COLON, April 2.—The American schooner George W. Whitford, built in Maine, and commanded by Captain Foote, has been seized by the Colombian gunboat Cordova, while leaving Porto Bello, department of Panama. The charge against the vessel is unknown, but it is believed to involve the carrying of contraband goods.

Outlaw Thorn Disposed Of.

GUTHRIE, O. T., April 2.—The notorious outlaw, Carl Thorn, who led the raid at Coffeyville, Kan., and who, while a member of the Dalton outlaw gang, killed four men, was killed yesterday by United States Deputy Marshal Richards at Dover. Richards will get $3200 reward.

—When Ambassador Bayard says that he will maintain his righ of saying in Great Britain anything that he would say at home, he should be officially notified a once to resign and come home. Nobody cares a straw what he may say here but every American must care for what he says abroad as the American ambassador. We have credited him with the limted common sense requisite for keeping his mouth shut on prohibition topples henceforth, but it appears that we gave him too much credit. In defying the censure of the House of Representatives in this way, he has set himself down as totall unfit for the position of ambassador to Great Britain.—Daily Standard.

McKinley Has 385 Delegates and Reed 183.

PUTNEY TO CHANDLER

On "Inside Workings" of New Hampshire Convention.

Interesting Story From Washington Concerning McKinley's Money Ideas.

BOSTON, April 3.—The Globe has prepared a table which gives, it claims, as correctly as possible, the present chances of the various candidates for the Republican nomination. In granting to Reed the entire New England delegation, The Globe takes into consideration the following letter sent by J. H. Manley to the New York Journal.

The construction to be placed upon the New Hampshire resolutions is, first, that New Hampshire is for Mr. Reed, so long as his name is voted for in the convention. There is no deflection from Mr. Reed in New Hampshire. The reference to Governor McKinley was a graceful compliment to his services for the party. The resolutions do not disturb the Reed men, who are confident of his nomination.

Four hundred and fifty-five votes will be necessary for a nomination. The present situation shows McKinley in the lead with 385 delegates, granting the Ohio man several complete delegations in states that have not yet selected representatives to the national convention.

Reed's present strength is 183 delegates. There are, however, 127 delegates pledged to the other two eastern candidates—Morton and Quay—while 140 votes are still in the doubtful column.

Indiana's 26 delegates are granted to McKinley, although expert politicians believe that on the first ballot, at least, they will vote for General Harrison. The table prepared by The Globe follows:

PUTNEY RISES TO REMARK

That Statements by Senator Chandler Are Somewhat Out of Joint.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 3.—Henry M. Putney, chairman of the committee on resolutions of the New Hampshire state convention, has replied to the criticisms of Senator William E. Chandler, contained in a letter to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, in a letter forwarded to Senator Chandler yesterday. In this letter Mr. Putney says:

Hon. William E. Chandler:

MY DEAR SENATOR—I have read your letter to Senator Lodge in which you explain why you do not carry back to Washington the sheaves you came to reap. I am too well satisfied with the outcome of the state convention to wish to fight the battle over again. You say, in effect:

1. The McKinley movement was organized at Manchester by me, the pretext for the outbreak being your denunciation of Mr. McKinley's friends, which was represented as an attack upon him personally. The McKinley movement grew spontaneously all over the state. The credit for letting it loose and giving it sweep in the convention belongs to William E. Chandler, not to me.

2. When I called on you at Concord and read the platform I had prepared, you did say the delegates should not be instructed. You did not say that the names of candidates should not be mentioned. I neither assented nor dissented.

3. In your words: "This forenoon, just before starting for the convention, I heard accidentally that the committee on resolutions the night before had decided to add to the platform, which had been shown to me, a resolution declaring that Mr. Reed was noble and illustrious, and that Mr. McKinley was pure and able. I also learned that it had been arranged to keep the decision a secret."

This is wrong. Nearly every delegate went to Concord with the feeling that the party must not be held responsible for what you have said about Mr. McKinley in your interviews and letters. During the afternoon and evening at least a dozen resolutions were considered, ranging from one which indignantly repudiated your utterances, calling you by name, to one which instructed the delegates for McKinley.

The committee on resolutions the next morning for the first time heard the platform, and voted at once unanimously to report it. Five minutes later I gave a copy to the foreman in your printing office. He set it up and sent it to you. The assertion that it was arranged or designed to keep it from you a moment is based entirely on misinformation.

You said the previous evening that if an attempt was made to declare McKinley the second choice of the convention you would leave the chair and oppose it. The next morning a number of your most influential friends told you you were fortunate to get nothing worse; that, with the temper of the convention as it was, any attempt to oppose so mild a resolution would result in the passage of a much more drastic one, and they asked you not to make a fight which would be hopeless from the first.

You prudently accepted their view and sent word you would not contend. You were not a coward. You were not cheated. You saw the avalanche coming, and got as far toward the edge of it as possible, like the wise man you are. You conceded nothing. You accepted the inevitable. The only man really opposed to it was yourself. When you stepped aside, it was unanimous.

4. The cheering showed the convention was for Reed.

Not a bit of it. When Reed's name was mentioned, his friends cheered, but the grandest demonstration of approval for a candidate in a New Hampshire convention for 20 years was when I read the resolution endorsing McKinley as a "pure and able statesman," and the equal of Reed in our favor.

5. "The mongrel platform" and the delegation are ludicrously incongruous?

Not at all. They correspond to a nicety. They are both for Reed and McKinley—for Reed, until his chances disappear; for McKinley ever after. It was a McKinley convention. You should be thankful that it was satisfied with smashing the anti-McKinley combine. The platform is more expressive of the real sentiments of New Hampshire Republicans than any other that has been written for years. It is your platform, because you assented to it. It is the platform of the party in this state, because it voices the feelings of nearly every Republican.

They do not much expect to see Reed nominated. First, because his rival is carrying pretty much all before him; and, secondly, because they know the Platts and Quays and Clarksons, who have seized his candidacy in order to hold New England delegates, have intended to betray him if the time ever came when they could take their retainers into another camp. This betrayal our convention has made impossible. Whenever Reed's cause is hopeless, there will be eight good and true men from New Hampshire to vote for McKinley, and the rest of New England will follow.

I am glad to learn that Mr. Reed is a bimetallist, for Mr. Lodge, to whom you make report of your stewardship, and whom you seem to recognize as his manager, has put him on a goldbug platform in Massachusetts.

Yours truly,
HENRY M. PUTNEY.

A WEAKNESS FOR SILVER.

The Washington Post's Summing Up of McKinley's Money Ideas.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The publication in the Washington Post of McKinley's record on financial questions, as compiled from the proceedings of congress, has fallen like a bombshell, giving unfeigned joy to the silver men and corresponding dismay to the friends of the eastern gold standard.

When asked concerning the Ohio platform, McKinley replied, on March 14: "I have discussed these questions in congress, and my record is plain." That this is true, admits of no denial. He came to congress in 1877, and in the special session of that year Bland's free coinage bill came up and passed the house on Nov. 5, McKinley voting for it straight, and Mr. Reed against it.

The senate amended the bill, and when it came back to the house, Garfield led the opposition and Stephens (Ga.) was its champion. On motion to table the bill, made by A. S. Hewitt (N. Y.), Garfield and Reed were on one side and McKinley on the other. The bill passed, and President Hayes vetoed it. Secretary Sherman made a ringing statement of its dangers even after amended by the senate.

To the voices of Hayes, Sherman and Garfield, McKinley was deaf. He was one of the 74 Republicans who voted to pass the bill over the president's veto. At this time, according to a veteran Republican leader, who asked not to be quoted, since he expected to have to support him this fall, McKinley was making free silver speeches on the stump in Ohio.

By the Forty-ninth congress, McKinley had advanced a little and voted with Reed against free coinage, but parted from his eastern rival in opposing an amendment to sustain the silver purchases until an international agreement could be reached. McKinley's attitude in the financial fight of the Fifty-first congress had already been outlined. While supporting the party measure—the Sherman law—he endeavored in caucus to get a measure much more favorable to silver, and was a troublesome element in the way of the sound-money men.

McKinley's nomination on the Ohio platform, enforced by his declaration of March 14, that his congressional record was plain, will be a telling argument to prevent any of the threatened secession of Rocky Mountain silver men from the Republican party. The gold standard Republicans are much downcast, however, and feel that this, of all years, the country imperatively demands a man of positive convictions, favorable to stable and permanent standard of value.

Difference of Opinion.

HARTFORD, April 3.—Governor Coffin and ex-President Porter of the McKinley club and Major McKinley's manager in this state have had an open disagreement over an invitation extended to the governor to attend the annual banquet of the McKinley club next Thursday. Mr. Porter has issued a lengthy statement, in which he mildly scores Governor Coffin for denying that he accepted his (Porter's) invitation to the banquet. Mr. Porter says that when the governor was informed that Governor Griggs of New Jersey was to be a guest, he expressed the opinion that it was his duty to attend, although he had an engagement with the Waterbury Grand Army men the same evening. The governor denied that he said this. Governor Coffin, in an interview last night, reiterated his statement that he had not accepted the McKinley club's invitation, but had taken it under consideration.

Two Reed Men.

HOLYOKE, Mass., April 3.—Although the First congressional district Republican convention elected Reed delegates and alternates there was some McKinley sentiment manifested. William Whiting and P. A. Russell were chosen delegates. Both are strong Reed men. The alternates are F. E. Snow and G. K. Baird. A motion to instruct the delegates for Reed resulted in a lively discussion. It was amended to read "recommend" instead of "instruct," and then passed.

College Republicans Meet.

CHICAGO, April 3.—The College League of Republican clubs opened its convention here today. The leading candidates for the presidency are Stephen D. Demmon of Northwestern university, E. C. Lindley of Michigan university, and E. J. Henning, also of Ann Arbor. A banquet will be given this evening, at which men of national prominence are expected to respond to toasts.

Loss of Half a Million.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 3.—This city, with which New England has considerable commercial transactions, suffered a loss of $500,000 by fire yesterday. The fire started in the warehouses of the Plant system, and, fanned by a high wind, swept through the city like lightning. The riot alarm was sounded and the city is in total darkness. Half a dozen persons were more or less seriously hurt.

Going Home to Die.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—H. C. Bunner, editor of Puck, left for New York last night, in company with his wife and cousin. Mr. Bunner came to California for his health, but has been confined to his room most of the time of his month's stay in California. He is a very sick man, and his physician thought it best for him to be taken home.

Of Different Minds.

BALTIMORE, April 3.—The jury in the cas of Frank P. and Mary V. Angeliers, charged with murder in the first degree, have been discharged because they could not agree. The Angeliers were accused of the murder of Charles Parker, which, the woman says, was done in defense of her honor. The accused were released on $20,000 bail.

Crafty Russia.

BUCHAREST, April 3.—The papers here announce the conclusion of a military convention between Russia and Bulgaria, under which, in the event of war, Bulgaria would cede to Russia Varna, on the Black sea, and would concentrate an army at Shumla.

Signed by Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The president has approved the act of exempting logging trains from the act requiring the equipment of trains with safety brakes and couplers, also the resolution authorizing Benjamin Harrison to accept medals from Spain and Brazil.

Millinery Openings.

The few days previous to Easter Sunday are always interesting ones to the ladies, for it is then that the millinery stores look their prettiest, and new styles are shown. Quincy has several of these establishments and a call finds them well stocked with a choice line of goods.

Miss C. L. Bliss devotes Thursday Friday and Saturday of this week to her annual Easter opening, and she shows a full line of all the latest novelties. Her show window is tastefully arranged in green, white and violet. Although there are hats of Parisian style shown in the display, the most of them are practically within reach of all and are very pretty and attractive but can be bought for a moderate price.

Mrs. E. B. Collins makes an unusually handsome display this year and her show windows are attracting universal attentions. This window has been divided into two parts, in one of which is shown a large line of trimmed hats of all the prevailing shapes, as well as an elegant line of capes, etc., in velvet and silk. The other side is devoted almost exclusively to flowers. An arch has been formed in the opening of which is a bust which is gowned in a handsome waist and wearing one of the prettiest of hats while the top and sides of the arch are one mass of flowers of the prevailing hue.

The display of millinery at Miss Patterson's new millinery parlors was exceptionally fine this season. Of trimmed goods there were a number of elegant large hats of fancy straw and lace, some with the popular tam, crowns. This style of crown was also seen on other hats. There was a number of medium sized hats and turbans. Black feathers were used some, and a great many beautiful flowers, fancy ribbons, in the new Dresden changeable effects, and shaded chiffon and maline were seen on many hats.

The bonnets deserve special mention, they were exceptionally stylish and artistic; also very practical. Hair braid, both the jetted and plain; also maline were used on many of them, together with dainty flowers or foliage and aigretts.

There was also a large assortment of untrimmed hats and bonnets, from which to select orders.

Miss Patterson says: "A pleased customer is the best advertisement, and I endeavor to suit my customers. I want no work to go out that is not entirely satisfactory."

Memorial to John Jones.

The Craig & Richards Granite Co. have just erected in Mt. Wollaston cemetery a very handsome sarcophagus memorial of dark Quincy granite to the memory of the late John Jones. The memorial consists of two bases, die and cap, the bottom base being 7x4-6 and the whole stands ten feet high.

The name Jones in raised polished letters, appears on the second base. The die has four beautiful pilasters with elaborate carving on the caps. The four panels are sunk and polished. The cap is in the form of an arch and is keyed the same as the arch of a building; on the centre key there is an old English letter "J" raised and polished.

The memorial is very unique and is a handsome design, a fitting monument to the late Mr. Jones, and an addition to the cemetery.

LACKING INTEREST.

Democratic Caucuses in All Wards Last Evening.

Not Enough Present to Fill the Delegations.

But All Were Against Reed and McKinley.

Democratic caucuses were held in all wards of the city Thursday night. There was no issue to call out the voters and as a result all of the caucuses were very slimly attended, in several wards the caucus being in session but a few moments. Nominations were made from the floor and the result in the several wards was as follows:

WARD ONE.

Walter B. Wilson was chairman and Fred F. Green, secretary. These delegates were chosen: State,—William A. Hodges at large, T. H. McDonnell, James Dunn and T. J. McGrath. Congressional,—Fred F. Green, at large, Joseph Welch, Walter B. Wilson and Frank Garbarino.

WARD TWO.

The chairman was M. T. Sullivan, and the secretary, W. H. Sampson, Jr. The following delegates were elected: State,—Michael T. Sullivan at large, Patrick O'Neil and Dennis J. Ford, 2d. Congressional,—Cornelius Ford at large, W. H. Sampson, Jr., and Joseph F. Costello.

WARD THREE.

The chairman of the South Quincy caucus was Dennis J. Ford, and the secretary, George D. Cahill. The delegates elected were: State,—John Curtis, 2d, at large, E. J. Parker, Peter W. Driscoll and John Russell. Congressional,—Dennis J. Ford, at large, George D. Cahill, Joseph Heaney and Edward English.

WARD FOUR.

The chairman was William T. Shea, and Matthew Lyons, acted as secretary. The following were elected delegates: State,—James A. White, at large, William H. Callahan, Matthew Lyons, Michael B. Geary and J. M. O'Brien. Congressional, — William T. Shea, at large, Thomas J. Lamb, Stephen B. Little, James Rooney and James E. McDonnell.

WARD FIVE

The Wollaston caucus was held at Hose 2's hall. Mr. William B. Orcutt was chairman and Mr. Martin F. Burns, secretary. The State delegates were Charles T. Baker and Geo. W. Brown and the District, Martin F. Burns and W. B. Chase, Jr.

WARD SIX.

At Atlantic the chairman was James Martin and the secretary, John F. McKenna. The delegates: State,—James Martin, at large, Edmund Pope and John F. McKenna. Congressional,—Elijah G. Hall, at large, John A. Duggan, and Stephen H. Edwards.

Women

Who are nervous, weak, worn out with local troubles find pure blood, nerve strength, and perfect health in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We do not say the above to raise false hope. It has been the experience of many, very many women in those intensely trying periods which demand and consume so much

Six page LEDGER tomorrow.

L. M. Pratt & Co. has special prices for Easter.

Have you sent your pledge for decorating the High school?

Four of the stores in the Sherman and Nickerson building at Wollaston have been let.

Fire alarm boxes 51 and 68 have been taken out and replaced by non-interference boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Allard of Newbury avenue are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

Miss Florence Thomas of Billings street, Atlantic, has been the guest of Miss Louise Cook the past week.

The night lunch only took an advertising tour yesterday, and is back again for another trial.

The report of the very fine musical at the Greenleaf last evening is reserved for the Saturday issue.

Rev. John T. Johnson pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church sails Saturday for a trip to Sweden.

At St. John's church this evening Rev. Fr. Sheahan, C. SS. R, will deliver the sermon on the Passion.

Communion services will be held at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

The road bed of Atlantic avenue near the depot is very much worn so that the street is in very bad condition.

John G. Minchip, the flag man on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at Quincy, was granted a pension this week.

John H. Gillis is agent for half a dozen or more of the standard bicycles, and reports business to have started with a rush.

Mr. N. G. Nickerson is building two houses on Farrington street, Wollaston, near the Unitarian church, for Mr. W. G. Corthell.

The many friends of Mrs. Waterhouse of Newbury avenue will be pleased to learn that she has greatly recovered from her recent sickness.

Chief of Police Hayden attended the meeting and dinner of the Massachusetts Chief of Police Association at Young's hotel, Boston, Thursday evening.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of Wollaston was held Thursday evening at the house of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Campbell, Atlantic avenue.

An adjourned meeting of the Quarterly Conference was held at the close of the prayer meeting on Friday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston.

Auctioneer Crane's grand combination sale occurs tomorrow at Wilson Tisdale's stable, Quincy Point. The consignment of horses, carriages etc., has been large, and it may be for your interest to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Murray, who attended the golden wedding of Mrs. Murray's parents,—Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds, of Glencoe Place, have returned to their home at Fairhaven, Mass.

The third social dance under the auspices of Quincy lodge, N. E. O. P., was held at Faxon hall on Thursday evening and was a success in every way, although owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not as large as at previous parties. Those who did brave the elements, however, had a good time.

The sudden death of the Rev. and Mrs. John Fifield of Hanson, parents of Mrs. Lamuel F. Howard of Wollaston, have been briefly chronicled in these columns. The attendant circumstances were very pathetic. For 61 years they had been married, and up to within a brief period were in excellent health, when they were suddenly stricken with pneumonia, dying within three days of each other. Mr. Fifield was 86 years of age and Mrs. Fifield 87. They were buried at Franklin, N. H.

George W. Jones, who has always been an advocate of short hours for stores, seems to come in for more than his share of comment concerning early closing. He is firm in closing two nights a week, and although he believes it is against his business interests, he says he will close more evenings if all will agree to abide by a majority vote taken at a meeting to discuss the matter. He is recognized as the pioneer in closing his store on holidays and others are falling into line. What's the matter with Jones? He's all right!

MILTON.

Chief of Police Pierce attended the regular meeting and dinner of the Massachusetts Chief of Police Association at Young's hotel, Boston, Thursday evening.

Not in the Race.

ALBANY, April 2.—Adjutant General McAlpin gives out this statement in relation to newspaper charges that he was looking for second place on a McKinley ticket: "The story is absolutely false in each and every particular. Under ordinary circumstances I would pay no attention to it, but it does me a great injustice in that my loyalty to Governor Morton is questioned. I have had no talks with McKinley managers, nor have I authorized anyone to mention my name in connection with the nomination for the vice presidency. I am loyally and earnestly for the nomination of Governor Morton first, last and all the time. Anything and everything that I can do to accomplish this result will be done most heartily."

Two Gauges.

PITTSBURG, April 2.—The interest in the national Prohibitionists' convention, by reason of the factional contest expected, continues to increase. Joshua Lovering of Maryland and ex-Lieutenant Governor Metcalf of Rhode Island will be the leading candidates for president, representing the "narrow gauge" wing of the party. C. E. Bentley of Nebraska and R. S. Thompson of Ohio will be the candidates on the broad gauge platform. Colonel George W. Bain of Kentucky is being urged as an independent man.

The Traveler man has not seen how gracefully Professor and Mrs. Tyler ride their bicycles or he would have included it in his comments below:

"It is very fortunate for the Adams Academy that it has had such broad minded and learned men at its head during the 20 years or more of its existence. Mr. William R. Tyler, the successor of Dr. Everett, has not only maintained the efficiency of this well known school, but has made it even more successful. Mr. Tyler is a man of rare foresight and excellent judgment, and the youngsters out at Quincy are as loyal to him as they were to the popular doctor, for both of these gentlemen have made it a point to take great interest in atheletics, and Mr. Tyler, if anything, has encouraged sports more than the doctor."

Annual Church Meeting.

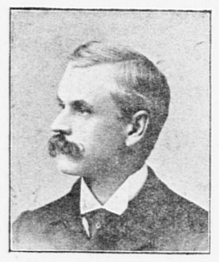

At the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church the following officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, Alex. Clark; Treasurer, John McLennan; Clerk, George Bowman; trustees, Robert Phillips, Peter W. Dakers, Wm. F. McCalder and Duncan J. McLennan. The finances of church were reported as being very satisfactory.

THE QUINCY SCHOOLS

Successful Year at High Receives Favorable Comment.

Continuing his report Supt. Lull says: A most successful year of work has been completed in the High school. Although Quincy is not able to point today with pride to the record of the new High in the higher institutions of learning, yet that honor is near at hand; for all the courses are now well begun and a firm foundation is being built.

SUPT. LULL.

The business course meets the approval of the parents and is almost too well patronized. Ten pupils were graduated last June and there are at present 31 in the second year and 79 in the first. The great difficulty is to impress on the mind of the pupil that this course is not an easy one, and on the mind of the parent that the child who can do nothing else is not a suitable candidate for the business course. The teachers are trying to disabuse parent and pupil of these mistakes. Quincy cannot afford to send out to her business men any inferior products of her generosity. In fact, the requirements as regards accuracy and methodical work must be as rigidly insisted on here as in the classical course.

In the future it will be necessary for those who are intending to enter the Normal Schools of the state to make special preparation, as the requirements for admission are increased and are far more exacting than ever before. Pupils should now plan their electives and reviews for the Normal examinations with as great care as do those who are preparing for college.

By the census of 1890 Quincy escaped the conditions of the law passed June 14, 1894. Chapter 471 is:—"After the first day of September, 1895, every city of twenty thousand inhabitants shall maintain as part of its High School system the teaching of manual training. The course to be pursued in said instruction shall be subject to the approval of the State Board of Education."

The Secretary of this board defines the schools as containing the following elements:

1. A course of study from three to four years in length, with a marked trend towards that of the greater length.
2. Freehand and mechanical drawing throughout the course, one hour daily.
3. Shop exercises, two hours daily.
4. Academic work, three hours daily, two or more of them devoted to recitations.
5. The use of power.
6. Woodworking, including the study of tools, materials, and the elementary processes of carpentry, joinery, wood turning, pattern making, and, if advisable, carving.
7. Ironworking, including forging, chipping and filing, and the elementary processes of machine work.
8. A session six hours long or longer, with a suitable allowance for recess and lunch.
9. A correlation of the academic work, so far as feasible, with that of the drawing rooms and the shops.

The Secretary then adds:—It is not possible, of course, to attain this standard at once; but a standard like the foregoing, modified by local conditions and improved as experience suggests, should be kept steadily in view if a city would do as well by its pupils as other cities with fully established manual training schools have done."

As the census of 1895 gives Quincy 20,712 inhabitants, some provision must be made to comply with the requirements of the new law. The drawing and academic work can be easily arranged. The next step should be the introduction of the Secretary's sixth element. Benches and tools when proper instruction can be provided at a moderate expense for those of the entering class who care to elect such a course as outlined.

A revised course of study has been carefully prepared to take the place of the provisional course adopted in 1891.

A new building, a new course, and the usual interest and excitement that always attend newness, attracted to the school last year 319. This year it was not expected that the number would be so large, as the newness had worn away and three other institutions, besides the many advantages of Boston, were near at hand. To the surprise of the friends of the school the attendance has risen since Sept. 1 to 340 different pupils, and at the close of school in December it is 310.

If the average membership of the school for 1894 is compared with the population according to the census of 1895, Quincy will be tenth in the list of cities.

The increased average this year will place Quincy nearer the head. The greatest need of the school at this time is an increased teaching force. If the head master were to give all his time to teaching, and none to supervision, even then the average number of pupils to each teacher would be nearly forty. A teacher of German is especially necessary.

The evening drawing school is meeting for the second year in the High School building, but it must be removed before September of 1896, because the High needs all the rooms. The large room of the old High school building will accommodate the school and will be as central for its patrons as the present room.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS

Drawing is the oldest special subject, as it was introduced in 1881. For nearly ten years it has been in charge of Jessie M. Prince (Mrs. F. W. Rice) and has reached such a degree of excellence that it has constantly been inspected by teachers from other cities. Miss Prince's marriage in June caused her resignation. When her successor, Charlotte A. Kendall, was engaged it was deemed best to increase the time from three days to the whole week. By this plan three days may be given to inspection and supervision—thus anticipating the two new school buildings—and two days may be reserved for the High school where Miss Kendall now does all the teaching of drawing. This plan practically adds two fifths of a teacher to the corps, and also gives the school the instruction of a special teacher. The time allowance is one and a half hours per week.

Music had its "scientific birth" in Quincy when Mr. Wade came here in April of 1887. Since that time one and one quarter hours per week have been devoted to it. Thorough drill in the rudiments of this subject has made possible the higher-class music in the congregational singing, the Sunday schools, the church festivals, and the choral unions.

In September of 1890 the present head of the nature work began the introduction of this subject. To it one and one quarter hours per week are given. At the present time seventy-five per cent. of the children of this State are having more or less instruction in the three kingdoms of nature. This rapid growth shows how highly the study is regarded by the educational leaders of this Commonwealth.

Sewing in the Quincy schools dates from September of 1892. It is now limited to the girls of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. At present the teacher makes her round once in five days and gives a lesson of fifty minutes. The regular teachers have nothing to do with the instruction or the work, but are responsible for attention, application, and general deportment.

Other topics touched are the school census, truancy, evening schools, general meetings, the Teachers' Association, the Alumni Association, the training class, vertical writing, and patriotism.

Wollaston to Have New Pastor.

The one hundredth session of the New England Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church (a century ago, and for some years later including in its territory all the New England States, but now only that part of Massachusetts from the Green Mountains of Berkshire County to the sea) will convene in Springfield on Wednesday, April 8. Rev. C. W. Wilder, who for three years past has been pastor of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church, having declined to be a candidate for reappointment, will be assigned to another charge the coming year. Next Sunday will be his last Sunday as pastor at Wollaston.

Land of Nod.

The young people connected with the First church are to give an entertainment, for the benefit of Sunday school, Thursday April 9. The operetta to be presented by the children, is the "Land of Nod." As many of the little ones who would like to see this, can not be out in the evening it has seemed best to repeat this part of the programme, on Saturday.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Several of the delegates to the recent Junior Conference will give their "Impressions," at the boys meeting Saturday at 9 45.

"The Unrecognized Christ," will be the subject of Rev. E. N. Hardy's Easter talk Sunday at 3 30. An Eastern souvenir will be given all who attend.

The announcement of a Spring term of Lloyd School has created much interest. The benches and tools have been removed to the Association rooms. Saturday at 4 o'clock is the time set for the opening.

Do Not Despair because you have tried many medicines and have failed to receive benefit. Remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail to do any good whatever.

SOME SEVERE BATTLES

Between the White Forces and Natives of the Matabele Kingdom.

But One Man Escaped In Massacre at Inyati.

Rival Aspirants For the Throne May Start a Conflict Among Followers.

CAPE TOWN, April 3.—The Matabele revolt, according to advices from Buluwayo, is confined to the Matoppo hills, where the Matabeles are concentrated. Five hundred mounted men are accompanying Cecil Rhodes from Salisbury to Gwelo.

A dispatch from Buluwayo says that Captain McFarlane, in command of a mounted patrol, had a sharp skirmish with a band of rebellious Matabeles at Queen's reef, Dembesi. The natives attacked the troopers in fine style with assegais, and, after a hand-to-hand encounter, they were beaten off, leaving 30 killed. Captain McFarlane's party lost one horse and several white troopers killed, but the number of the latter is still doubtful. The patrol, however, made a gallant stand against overwhelming odds, and had the better of the skirmish.

Three Indundas, who have arrived at Buluwayo from the scene of McFarlane's fight with the natives, report that the young Matabeles fought the troops against the advice of the chiefs, and that the young warriors could not be controlled.

Selous, the hunter and explorer, at the head of 30 mounted volunteers, when these advices left Buluwayo, had gone to Mangwe in order to escort the mail coach from that place to Buluwayo.

Dawson's patrol reports that the Matabeles are massing at Umzengwana, Shangani, Chama, Matoppo and Inyati. Captain Dawson insists that they will not be driven out of the Matoppo hills, except by a large and well-organized force.

Whites Fought Bravely.

Details of the massacre of white men at Inyati, in Matabeleland, have reached here. Assistant Commissioner Graham was murdered by the Matabeles at Inyati on March 27. A general attack upon the whites followed, and they were entirely outnumbered and almost overwhelmed, being unable to make any effective stand against the rush of the native warriors.

They managed to get hold of a wagon, and with this to effect a retreat of three miles. Their flight was perceived, and they were closely followed the whole of the three miles. Some 300 Matabeles then surrounded the wagon and put a stop to its progress, and the hard-pressed whites were brought to their last stand, with nothing left them but to sell their lives as dearly as they could.

They kept off their foes as long as possible with their firearms, and when the blacks closed in upon them, a fierce and desperate hand-to-hand conflict ended it. Overborne by superior numbers, six of the whites were killed.

Donovan, the only survivor of the massacre, managed to escape by hiding in the long grass, creeping away undiscovered.

Donovan estimates that fully 50 of the Matabeles were killed before the party of white men were overpowered.

Chief Ulimo, or "God," who first incited the revolution of the Matabeles, has proclaimed himself King of Matabeleland, in succession to the late King Lobengula. The son of the last named monarch, who is understood to be on his way to the Matoppo hills in order to head the natives, has not yet reached there, and when he does there is likely to be trouble between his warriors and those of the newly proclaimed king.

Dispatches from England say that preparations are being made to send re-enforcements of 5000 regular troops here at short notice, should such a step be necessary, and it is said that 5000 additional troops can be hurried here from India in very short time.

The Crouse Millions.

SYRACUSE, April 3.—There will be a division of $540,000 among the heirs of the late D. E. Crouse, of this city, on April 23, under an order made by Surrogate Glass yesterday. The case has been in the courts for three years. Three million dollars have already been distributed. His daughter Dorothea E. Crouse, daughter of Mrs. Sigbert Kosteritz of New York, receives one-half of the estate, and under the next division will get $270,000, and each of the cousins $10,000.

Big Street Railway Deal.

PITTSBURG, April 3.—The big traction combination which has been talked of for some time past has finally been consummated. The new company, which is now in operation, is known as the Consolidated Traction company, and six roads have been absorbed. The capital of the company is $25,000,000. It is the intention to spend $4,000,000 at once on improvements.

Sequel to Cobb Defalcation.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 3.—County Treasurer Maxey Cobb, who has been missing several days, was found dead near town yesterday. He had taken morphine. Financial reverses caused him to commit suicide. Recently he had settled a shortage of several thousand, growing out of the failure of a bank in which he had placed the funds.

Purchased Poison.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—Howard Sauser, a druggist, says that on the Wednesday preceding the finding of her body in the Girard avenue house, where she lived with her paramour, Annie McGrath purchased two ounces of chloroform from him. Langdon, the wealthy coal operator, is still in prison.

Crowd Looked On.

CHICAGO, April 3.—A well-dressed unknown man, about 40 years old, committed suicide yesterday by jumping from the Adams-street bridge. He arrived in the city a few minutes before at the Union depot. Hundreds of people saw him, but not in time to prevent him from jumping.

Still Another For Ives.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The fourth game of the international billiard tournament, at 18-inch balk line billiards, was played last night in the Madison Square Garden concert hall. The contestants were Ives and Garnier. The score: Ives, 600; Garnier, 103.

Two Years More.

MADRID, April 3.—In an interview with Captain General Weyler of Cuba, published here, he is reported as saying that he hoped to end the campaign in Cuba in two years.

Lippitt's Big Lead.

PROVIDENCE, April 3.—The total vote for each candidate for governor in Wednesday's election is as follows: Lippitt (Rep.), 28,448; Littlefield (Dem.), 17,170; Peabody (Pro.), 3032; Thienert (Socialist), 1224; Burlingame (Peo.), 718.

Paid His Fine.

PROVIDENCE, April 3.—Dr. A. W. Forth, the first physician convicted here under the recent state law forbidding physicians to practice without licenses, yesterday waived his right of appeal and paid a fine of $50.

New England Briefs.

Joseph Briggs, aged 55, living alone, was burned to death while attempting to start a fire at his home at Greenfield, Mass.

Harvard's freshmen crew are complaining bitterly because no coach has been provided for them. The eight are in miserable shape.

Both factories of the Boston Rubber Shoe company at Malden, Mass., employing about 400 persons, will shut down for four weeks, commencing April 9.

The full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court decided that a man has no action against a railroad company for damages sustained in alighting from a moving car.

Professor Benjamin F. Tweed, formerly connected with Tufts college and Washington university, St. Louis, and for nearly 50 years at the head of a private school in Boston, is dead.

Where the Hitch Came.

OTTAWA, April 3.—The official statement of the proceedings at the conference between the Dominion and Manitoba governments' commissioners, which closed without result at Winnipeg, shows that the Dominion government made a proposition to Manitoba that the province should adopt the Nova Scotia or New Brunswick system, under which secular schools, in a modified form, are retained. The Manitoba government declined to accept the offer, but proposed to entirely secularize the schools or set apart a half hour each day for religious exercises and teaching. No pupils should be required to attend the religious exercises if the parents objected, and such pupils would be dismissed. This proposition the Dominion government, through its commissioners, refused to accept, and the conference closed.

Afraid of His Record.

ROCK ISLAND, Ills., April 3.—The Bastian farm is in the possession of Sheriff Hemenway and a corps of deputies. The finding of the decomposed body of John Louderbach under a pile of rubbish on the farm Wednesday strengthens the general belief that Henry F. Bastian was a human fiend, and that he committed suicide two weeks ago because he feared his criminal record was about to be laid bare. Four men had worked upon Bastian's farm and mysteriously disappeared shortly after they were paid off and discharged, and all of them are believed to have been slain by Bastian.

Murray Shut Out.

WASHINGTON, April 3. — The Murray-Elliott election contest from the First district of South Carolina was practically decided by an understanding reached by the house elections committee, which have the case in charge, that the present member, William Elliott, who is a Democrat, be permitted to retain his seat. This is a reversal of the recommendation of the subcommittee, which reported in favor of seating George Washington Murray, the colored contestant.

Went Through Ice.

CROOKSTON, Minn., April 3.—Word has been received here from the Canadian boundary reporting the death on Rainey river of Colonel A. F. Naff, a United States deputy marshal and an entire party of explorers, in all probably eight men. They were on their way to investigate reports of the timber stealing by Canadians, and were ascending the Rainey by sleighs. They are reported to have broken through the ice and to have been lost.

Making Good Progress.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—All the members of the Venezuelan boundary commission were present at yesterday's meeting, and a good deal of business was disposed of. There was also further discussion of the advisability of sending representatives of the commission to The Hague and Madrid to inspect the original Dutch and Spanish records. It is possible that a decision will be reached upon this point very soon.

OH! WHAT A RELIEF.

"I suffered with terrible pains in my left ovary and womb. My back ached all the time.

"I had kidney trouble badly. Doctors prescribed for me, and I followed their advice, but found no relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Oh! what a relief it is, not to have that tired feeling day after day, in the morning as much as at night after a hard day's work, and to be free from all pains caused by Ovarian and Womb troubles. I cannot express my gratitude. I hope and pray that other suffering women will realize the truth and importance of my statement, and accept the relief that is sure to attend the use of the Pinkham Medicine."—MRS. "Oh, the old home ain't what it used to be."

This is the seatiment of hundreds in this city. And they don't know why. They sit down after a hard day's work and try to read a paper or a favorite book in their cosy homes. But they read but a few minutes when they feel sleepy, their eyes smart, or they grow irritable and feel in their hearts that nothing seems as it used to.

Hundreds have so expressed themselves to us. We have fitted them with glasses, and life is no longer a burden; home is really home once more, and they are happy. It will cost you nothing for consultation and getting your eyes tested by a competent optician.

Two Men Swapped Wives Many Years Ago.

Their Middle-Aged Illegitimate Offspring Must Now Be Provided For.

WINSTED, Conn., April 3.—Arguments were heard in the common pleas court here yesterday in the case of New Hartford vs. Canaan, which has been in the court about four years. It is a quadruple fight, in which New Hartford, Canaan, Goschen and Norfolk take part.

About 50 years ago there lived in Meekertown, a territory of abandoned land and forest near the line of Norfolk, Canaan and Goschen, the families of Abram Bailey and Lewis Root. They were never heard from except on election days, when the first politician to reach them on election morning gave them a free ride of five miles to the polls in order

To Capture Their Votes.

The families of Bailey and Root got along harmoniously until it began to appear to the husbands and their wives that a mistake had been made in their mating. The men concluded to swap wives, and the trade resulted in Root giving Bailey a pair of stags and a jug of rum to boot in the exchange.

The result of the trade was a half-dozen of illegitimate children, who are now in middle life and paupers, and the court is now called upon to decide where they belong and which of the four towns shall support them.

Gas at Eleven Cents a Thousand Feet—Bill For Boston Aldermen by Districts.

BOSTON, April 3.—The committee on metropolitan affairs have decided to report a bill providing for the election of aldermen in Boston by districts, candidates to be nominated direct in caucuses. Under the bill each party may nominate and vote for 12 candidates for aldermen. The same committee have reported adversely on a bill providing that each political party shall nominate 12 candidates for aldermen in the city of Boston.

In the senate yesterday the order for a committee to redistrict the state was taken from the table and adopted. The president appointed as senatorial members of that committee Messrs. Galloupe, Maccabe, Quinn, Burns, Irwin, Soule and Chase.

Under suspension of the rules, resolutions relative to the establishment of a national military park at Vicksburg were introduced, and were referred to the committee on federal relations.

In the house Mr. Jones opposed an order instructing the sergeant-at-arms to provide a room at the state house for the exhibition of the models of the Boynton elevated railway. Mr. Jones contended that such action encourages a most insidious kind of lobbying. After much discussion the order was adopted.

Mr. Tolman gave notice of intention to move to amend the bill relative to safe deposit and trust companies by inserting a provision permitting places of 15,000 population and under; such companies may incorporate with $100,000 capital. Mr. St. John will also move to amend by giving such a right in places of 50,000 population and under. By the bill now before the house, no such company can have less than $200,000 capital.

Before the committee on manufactures, John M. Bailey of Billerica, who asks for corporate powers under the name of the Massachusetts Gas company, with a capital of $10,000,000, made the rather startling statement that water gas can be manufactured for 8 cents 1000 feet, and enriched to 20 candle power for 3 cents more, or a total cost of only 11 cents.

The committee on state house reported an appropriation of $1000 for putting in the state house a bust of Rev. Dr. Samuel F. Smith, the author of "America."

Reports favorable to the West End street railway were made in the house of representatives by an adverse decison on the bill to provide that the subway shall be leased for only 10 years at a time, instead of 50 years, and "leave to withdraw" being granted on the bill forbidding discrimination in contracts with street railways for the use of the subway.

A Disappointment.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 3.—The Harvard Memorial society's plan to place memorial tablets on old Massachusetts hall had been elaborated so far that designs had been accepted for the location of tablets bearing the names of 22 distinguished Harvard graduates who formerly roomed in the venerable old building, but now the corporation has forbidden the society to complete their plans. The Memorial society must therefore be content with the simple tablet announcing the date of building by the province, 1720, and the occupation by the American army, 1775.

Identity In Doubt.

PROVIDENCE, April 3.—The autopsy on the body of Carrie Wolfe, found dead in the Central House, showed that death was probably caused by carbolic acid. A telegram from Dover, N. J., announced that Clarissa Wolfe, a schoolteacher, left there on Monday last, saying she would made a visit at the home of a Philadelphia clergyman, and has not been heard from since. As she arrived here Tuesday, it seems probable her identity will soon be established.

New Trial For Crowley.

BOSTON, April 3.—Richard Crowley will have another trial, the supreme court having decided yesterday that John E. Burns, whom he killed in Roxbury nearly a year ago, was not in fear of his life at the time, and that the fight in the saloon and the homicide were not necessarily two separate transactions. Crowley was convicted of manslaughter.

Didn't Hold Him.

ELLSWORTH, Me., April 3.—A young man who gave the name of John Murphy and John Kinney of Bangor was arrested here Monday for drunkenness. He acted queerly, and finally left on a train for Bar Harbor. City Marshal Holmes thinks he is James McGunnigle, a pyromaniac who escaped from a Rhode Island asylum.

Inspectors In the Dark.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., April 3.—Postoffice inspectors are here seeking to solve the mystery surrounding the disappearance of a registered mail sack, containing upward of 35 registered letters, which was forwarded from the New York office

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Jane Graney of Quincy, without giving a surety on her bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of April A. D., 1896, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George White, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six.

PLENTY OF SYMPATHIZERS.

Ballington Booth and Wife Are Evidently Making a Profitable Journey.

BUFFALO, April 3.—Music hall was crowded to overflowing last night to hear Mr. and Mrs. Ballington Booth. Booth was received with great applause when he arose, which was redoubled when he addressed the meeting as "Fellow countrymen." He referred briefly to the recent troubles, contenting himself with a denial that he had disobeyed any orders. Mrs. Booth intimated that if herself and her husband were to reply in detail to the various charges which had been made against them they would be obliged to reveal facts and conditions that would result in the American people losing all faith in the Salvation Army and its leaders, which she was unwilling to do. One hundred members of the "Defenders" league were then enrolled, paying the initiation fee of $5.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The postoffice appropriation bill remains unfinished in the senate. The question of appropriating public money for private or sectarian institutions was again fought over for four hours in the house yesterday. The bone of contention was the Howard university, a colored institution of Washington, for which an appropriation of $32,600 was inserted in the sundry civil bill. Politics were injected liberally into the debate. Mr. Sayers and Mr. Hepburn were especially prominent. Each insisted that his party was more particularly the friend of the black man. The house voted to retain the appropriation. An analysis of the votes shows that 107 Republicans, 19 Democrats and 3 Populists voted for the amendment, and 55 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 3 Populists against it. The sundry civil bill as adopted was passed.

Children Won't Soon Forget It.

CADIZ, April 3.—British schooner Robin Hood, which is only of 76 tons register, left Newfoundland in charge of Captain Dingle, her owner, and his two children, three persons in all. Captain Dingle died when the little craft was in the middle of the Atlantic, and his two children had been alone eight days on board the Robin Hood, with the body of their father, when the Robin Hood was sighted by the schooner Janning. The children were found in great distress. The Janning placed a seaman on board to pilot the Robin Hood on her course and to the nearest port, which turned out to be Cadiz. The Janning also supplied the Robin Hood with water and provisions, of which the children stood in need.

Never More Friendly.

PARIS, April 3.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday, M. Bourgeois declared that Great Britain had installed herself in Egypt without having been invested with a mandate to do so by the powers or by the Sultan of Turkey, and had thereby caused permanent uneasiness. M. Bourgeois added that Russia and France were never more closely associated than at present. The cabinet, he concluded, were continuing the negotiations concerning Europe with firmness, and would defend with Russia their common rights and interests. Upon the conclusion of M. Bourgeois' statement the chamber adopted a vote of confidence in the government.

Tucker's Plans.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Booth-Tucker, being asked what would be his first work here, said: "I will try to meet Ballington; then will make a tour of the slums in New York and see for myself how the work is going on. A week from next Sunday my wife and myself will go to Chicago, where we will look over the field. I will probably leave my wife there and come back to New York. She will then proceed to Denver and along the country to San Francisco, occupying about six weeks in the trip."

Queer Liquor Legislation.

DES MOINES, April 3.—The mulct law won a decisive victory yesterday in the senate, the liquor manufacturing bill being defeated by a vote of 22 yeas to 27 nays, with one absentee. Following as this does the defeat of the question of resubmission a few weeks ago, yesterday's vote practically settles the prohibition fight in this state. It will therefore have the curious anomaly of a law which permits liquor to be sold in this state, but forbids its manufacture therein.

Jewelry Thieves Sentenced.

BRUGES, April 3.—Two Englishmen, named Anderson and James, and an American, named Willis, were sentenced to five years' imprisonment, and Anna James to four years' imprisonment, for the recent jewelry robbery at Ostend.

—A truly wonderful bit of mechanism is the automatic canary that hangs in a cage in one of F. B. Washburn & Co.'s windows in Brockton. The body of the canary is that of a real bird, but it is so connected with the lower part of the cage, which does not at first sight appear to be any different from an ordinary cage, that it is capable of doing many things. When the lever is moved to make it sing, it will open its little mouth, swing its head from side to side, move its tail feathers as naturally as if alive, and sing with exceeding sweetness. It can be so arranged as to sing every few seconds or minutes, or will sing continuously if desired. It is a new idea and was purchased by W. E. Crosby of the firm for $75.

A FEW REMARKS.

Since opening this store in June, 1887, we have always catered to the hotel, restaurant and boarding house trade in Boston and vicinity, and have not striven to increase our family trade until recently. The former buy their groceries, with few exceptions, of the wholesale grocers or of the large retailers (some 5 or 6) in the wholesale department. The reason is plain—they can buy cheaper. "Catalogue" prices are for the family trade. While our hotel and restaurant trade has increased from year to year, until we have one of the largest in the city, the family trade has not grown in proportion. Why? Because we have quoted the same prices to the family trade as our neighbors, and there was no particular reason why they should buy of us. We have decided for the present to sell to the family trade the same as we do to the other. Our place of business, 78 Beach street, is one of the nearest stores to the Albany, Old Colony and New England depots; thousands of people who come in and go out on these roads pass our door every day; and this price list was prepared especially to secure their trade. Realizing that a great many of them could take their purchases with them, we make a price as low as possible over net cost of goods, therefore we are unable to pay freight or express charges on goods going out of town. Another point: We want those people who take their purchases with them to be paid for their trouble; we cannot afford to sell goods quite as cheap if we have to deliver the goods out of town.

Our prices are in many instances from 10 to 20 per cent cheaper than any "catalogue" list; our goods are of standard quality; every salesman in this store is instructed to never misrepresent goods; we want your orders, not only once, but for all time, and we propose to use you so well that you cannot afford to go elsewhere.

APRIL.

Her gentle eyes with tears are running over,
Yet on her lips there ever rests a smile:
Each year she comes from the southland a rover,
Tarrying with us but a little while.

The Easter spirit seems to have been prevalent lately in social gatherings. Mrs. A. E. Sproul entertained forty Quincy ladies in her spacious house on Thursday afternoon. Growing plants lent a suggestion of spring. The brilliant toilets of the ladies, especially two red satin gowns, one trimmed with cream lace, the other with delicate back lace, made a cheerful contrast to the driving storm outside. Whist, alternating with friendly chat, occupied two hours, after which a delicate tea was served. At the close of the party, the gracious hostess presented Mrs. Z S. Arnold who scored the highest number of points, with a large cluster of Easter lilies; to Mrs. Dr. Welch, the second in number of points, long cluster of jacqueminot roses; and to Mrs. J. C. Randall, the third winner, a big bunch of fragrant violets.

A fair Louisianan is preparing to hand herself down to posterity in a unique fashion. In a handsomely-bound book she keeps a record of her social doings. The interesting history opens with a description of her debut party, a photograph of herself as she appeared and the details of the affair prettily told in blank verse. Opera and theatre programmes, dance cards and various invitations, together with numberless photographs of herself, her own room and general surroundings, fill the succeeding pages. Her various journeyings from home and souvenirs of trips are included. The idea is suggestive of a much-discussed nineteenth-century heroine, and, indeed, a contemporary offers as an appropriate title for the book "Marie Bashkirtseff, Jr."—Table Talk.

Easter gifts are a subject on which the feminine mind lingers pleasantly during these last Lenten days, for Easter is getting to be quite as popular an occasion as Christmas for the exchange of presents.

An Enjoyable Time.

A large and gay party of ladies assembled at the rooms of the Granite City club on Friday afternoon to enjoy a game of drive whist. They were mostly the wives of members of the club, with a few invited guests. Nine tables were occupied, and some large scores were made.

The two first prizes were taken by Mrs. E. W. Henry Bass and Mrs. E. Fred Carr; two second prizes were won by Mrs. Wilson Tisdale and Mrs. Frank E. Hall; the third prizes by Mrs. Blanchard and Mrs. Arthur Mitchell.

To make the game lively two large punch bowls of lemonade were provided. Only one gentleman, Mr. Porter, was allowed in the rooms; his services being needed, of course, to look after the lemonade.

Wedding Anniversary.

Tuesday evening a large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hathaway assembled at Braintree to congratulate them on the 7th anniversary of their marriage and also the birthday of Mrs. Hathaway. It was a very enjoyable evening indeed. The friends gave them a very handsome chair and a fine chamber clothes rack. E. F. Preston made the presentation in well-chosen words. The evening was spent in singing, music and social converse, an abundance of cake, ice cream, and fruit was served and good wishes were given to all.

There were a number of out of town people present, among them was city policeman, B. Chick of Roxbury, and Mrs. H. Bradley of Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway are much respected and beloved by their friends and all enjoyed the visit of the evening and hope for many returns of the anniversary.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

An Exquisite Concert at The Greenleaf by Recognized Artists.

Thursday evening, owing to the kind invitation of Mrs. Herbert T. Drake and Mr. A. M. Dow, the residents of Hotel Greenleaf and about 80 visitors assembled in the large parlor, to enjoy a rare musical treat, the pleasing impression of which, they will always be able to draw upon.

The instrumentalists were: Mr. Howard M. Dow, pianist, Mr. Hahn, violinist; and Mr. Choate, celloist, names well and favorably known to the musical world of Boston. The vocalists consisted of Mrs. H. T. Drake, Mr. Herbert O. Johnson, Mr. W. H. La Mothe and Mr. J. Sheridan Kilby. These names were quite sufficient to ensure a delightful concert; and from the enthusiastic applause that greeted the artists at the close of each number, it is safe to say that the generous efforts of the performers were keenly appreciated by the eager and attentive listeners.

The concert opened with Ressigers, trio F sharp minor, op. 56, in three movements, which was splendidly executed by Messrs. Dow, Hahn and Choate.

The second number was Handel's Aria "Honor and Arms" from "Sampson," by Mr. W. H. La Mothe, and allowed full scope for the deep, rich, mellow notes of the singer's voice. Mr. La Mothe was suffering from a cold or the effect would have been even more pleasing.

The third number was Nesvadba's Trio—Paraphrase on "Die Lorelei" and was indeed a most delightful instrumental treat. The ever charming "Die Lorelei" speaks in a language purely its own; and it lost none of its oldtime power, under the hands of Messrs. Hahn, Dow and Choate, who fairly made their instrument talk.

The vocal gem of the evening came next, in Mascagni's "Ave Maria" and Intermezzo, from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Mrs. Herbert T. Drake, with violin obligato by Mr. Hahn. Despite the fact that Mr. Hahn played a little too loud at times, the fair vocalist's pure, flexible and sympathetic notes, thrilled her hearers with joy, and which brought before the mind's eye of each listener, the cathedral scene, and poor Santrizza. Of course an encore was the result of this most artistic performance, and Mrs. Drake readily responded with Arditi's Waltz song "Se Laram Rose," which splendidly brought out the flexibility and timber of the artist's voice.

Mendelssohns Trio D Minor, Op 49 (one movement) was beautifully rendered, and produced great applause, though an encore was not pressed, as the artists had still very much before them.

The sixth number was indeed a grand treat, viz, "Romance and Zeguenerweisen by Mr. Hahn, and gave such a brilliant display of technique that many believed themselves to be in Paris or Berlin, and all must have recognized the artist, as a student of Leipsic. Mr. Hahn willingly responded to an encore, and nearly drove his audience mad with delight, in playing the Chopin "Nocturne", Sarasate arrangement.

A very pleasing surprise was now in store, for although Mr. Herbert O. Johnson's name was not on the programme, he very kindly complied with a request for a song, and gave "An Old English Ballad" and Sims Reeves' great song, "Sally in our Alley," in a style that should please the most fastidious critic. Although he willingly sang three songs, the guests were awfully sorry when they had to let him go.

The last instrumental piece, Reissiger's trio, B minor, op. 188, was another gem, though the "Moderato alla Mazurka" and the "Rondo allegro Vivace" perhaps call for especial mention, displaying exquisite precision and finish, with perfect balance between piano, violin and cello.

Mr. La Mothe next delighted his hearers in Shumann's "The Two Grenadiers"; and only the lateness of the hour, and the fact that he had to catch the last train, prevented a further number from this accomplished and pleasing singer.

Faure duet, "Crucifix," by Mrs. Drake Mrs. Kilby was the last number, and was a most charming finish to a musicale that some of the residents of Quincy have ever before had the exquisite delight of listening to. It is to be hoped, however that before long there may be another opportunity of hearing the talented artists.

A big word of praise is undoubtedly due to the proprietor of The Greenleaf, Mr. C. A. Hayden, for his successful efforts to make the visitors comfortable.

WHY DO WE DO IT?

Perhaps some sage can tell me, for, indeed, I'd like to know
The secret of the titles that I hear where'er I go.
There's Brown, who studied medicine, attaining some renown,
Whose wife I hear referred to now as "Mrs. Dr. Brown."
What reason for the custom can the wise ones give to me?
Why not as well refer to her as "Mrs. Brown, M. D.?"

Because O'Shea is on the bench why should we always say,
In speaking of his charming wife, "There's Mrs. Judge O'Shea?"
Is she a judge by marriage? Was she wedded to the court?
There should be some good reason why the title she should sport.
If one should wed a justice, pray advise me, would she be Entitled to be known by all as "Mrs. Jones, J. P.?"

If not, what reason can we give for speaking as we do
Of "Mrs. Major Cannonball" or "Mrs. Bishop Pew?"
Do titles go to families for use of ev'ry one?
And if they do, why aren't they used by daughter and by son?
Why not a "Miss Lieutenant Sharp?" Why not a junior too?
At least let's be consistent in the things we try to do.

LOVE MY DOG.

Duffy was the property of Caldwell of the Tenth, and was looked upon in the light of an inheritance, having come down to him from Wentworth—of the same—when the latter had been ordered away.

Caldwell went into Wentworth's quarters at once and found Duffy rubbing up a pair of his ex-master's discarded boots, with a view to using them himself. He liked the man's looks, and he liked the condition of the vacated quarters, with their slate gray painted woodwork, so he took the quarters and agreed to take Duffy at a striker's usual rate of remuneration.

Duffy entered promptly upon his duties, and was entirely satisfactory. He had no incumbrances in the way of family or sweethearts, and he was faithful to a degree that was occasionally exasperating. For six months he served Caldwell in singleness of purpose, having in that time been incapacitated only for six days—that is, for 48 hours after each of the paymaster's visits, and Caldwell, knowing the ways of strikers, made no objection. Duffy slept uproariously in his rooms, and Caldwell made his own fires, and brushed his own clothes, and went with unblacked boots. In the interim no hour was too early for rising, none too late to sit up and keep logs on the andirons that the rooms might be warm and cheerful for the "leftinant," no duty imposed too arduous provided it served Caldwell's ends.

Blackstone, seeing the excellence of Duffy, departed from the strict code of honesty in the matter of servants which governs the army and made overtures to the model striker. Blackstone had no business to do it, and Duffy knew it, and a fine and inscrutable grin came upon his Hibernian mouth.

Blackstone had said, with an assumption of off handedness, "Duffy, what do you get?"

Having due regard for his employer's credit in the world, he answered calmly, "Twinty dollars, sor."

"Get out!" said Blackstone.

"Yes, sor," replied Duffy.

"I want to know the truth, not lies like that."

"You'd best ask the leftinant, sor. I disremember."

"He works you deuced hard."

"Does he, then?"

"My man is no good. Suppose you come to me. You won't have to sit up to all hours for me."

Duffy only smiled, but the smile was not pleasing.

"What do you think of it, Duffy?"

"I niver think, sor. The leftinant says I'm to do as I'm told and not think."

Upon this Blackstone went away, and Duffy saluted him respectfully. In justice to the officer's common sense, it must be said that it was only partial intoxication which could have led him to place himself in such a position toward a soldier.

Duffy did not repeat the conversation to Caldwell, because he knew it would make trouble between the two men, and Caldwell—whose disposition was not of the mildest—had several quarrels on his hands as it was.

The lieutenant fell into the habit of keeping the striker up very late, night after night, so Duffy inspected his pockets several times in succession while Caldwell was sleeping as soundly as if justice had been the soporific, and not, as was the case, sutler's whisky, and he judged, from the fact that sometimes there was much loose change and again almost nothing, that his master was playing too much at cards. There was nothing to be done. Duffy did not consider that his duties as striker included the moral guidance of his superior. He reflected that it would be a good thing if Caldwell should get married; only then he, Duffy, would very likely lose his place. So he sat up night after night, and it grew monotonous.

Just at this period there came into Duffy's life a yellow and white dog. Exactly why it should have wandered to the door upon one wet and freezing night, when Duffy was in a particularly weary frame of mind, and where it came from he never knew. It was well after midnight and Duffy was sprawled in a leather chair of the troop saddler's manufacture, dozing, with both ears open, when there came a scratching at the door. Duffy thought it was the lieutenant trying to find the knob. It had never been so bad as that yet; nevertheless the striker went and opened the door, to be rewarded by the sight of an extremely small and miserable dog, with piteous eyes.

Now, Duffy was only a soldier, and a soldier loves nothing on earth or in heaven as he does a cur. So Duffy called the dog in and warmed it and fed it and watched it with satisfaction beaming all over his face. It was spotted and dirty and wounded and woefully thin, but Duffy took it to his heart. He spent three nights before the fire, no longer lonely, contentedly trying to find a name for that dog. At last he determined to call it "Bessie," after the much admired daughter of the commanding officer and with a complete disregard for the entire inappropriateness of the name.

After he had settled this to his satisfaction he tried to discover accomplishments in the creature. "Here, Bessie, old boy. Set up now, set up. Can't you set up? Well, then, give us your paw, here, paw, paw, now. Can't you give us your paw? Well, then, lie down. Charge, charge, charge. Down, lie down, down. Can't you charge? Well, then, speak, speak, Bessie, s-p-e-a-k, speak now. Wow! Speak." But Bessie could only follow him with his bright, curious eyes and come when called. So the solace of many more hours of patient waiting lay in teaching Bessie these and many other tricks until he was the most accomplished dog in all the garrison and greatly beloved at the barracks. Duffy was a little annoyed about the comment the inappropriate name called forth, but he insisted that it was as good as another, and the incongruity was soon lost in Bessie's popularity.

Caldwell saw the dog only on rare occasions. It staid in its master's room and slept on his bed and waxed fat in retirement. He had spoken to it several times, but otherwise took no notice of its existence, which secretly riled Duffy. But Caldwell was preoccupied and not quite himself. He came home a good deal the worse for wine one night, and Bessie, being in his way, got a kick that sent him crouching to his master's side. Caldwell might far better have kicked Duffy. However, the striker understood and sympathized with the lieutenant's condition. He himself could never have kicked a dog, even after pay day, but all men are not alike, so Duffy petted Bessie and shut him up in his own room and returned to look after the bodily comfort of his master.

This, considering the wine, was pardonable, but the next offense could not be condoned. It occurred in broad day light, and Caldwell was sober. He had been having an explanation with the commanding officer, and that gentleman had made reflection upon some of the lieutenant's fast growing habits that had exasperated the already overworried junior almost beyond endurance. He strode into his quarters and found Duffy, who was not expecting him, dividing his attention between Bessie's charms and the buckle of his master's belt. Now, Bessie's disposition inclined him to forgive. He ran to Caldwell, looked up to his face with soft, affectionate eyes and put his little paws, one yellow and one white, upon his knee. Caldwell did not dare to kick the commandant, but he kicked Bessie—and broke the yellow paw. It was the one always held out to Duffy to greet him.

Duffy bandaged the paw, and in time it grew well. But Duffy hated Caldwell with the most dangerous of hatreds—a silent and a waiting one.

Caldwell's habits did not improve. His fondness for whisky, whether good or bad, continued. He had good whisky in his room, and Duffy knew it, for he belonged to the old school of strikers, who do not look upon cigars or liquor as private property.

One day, after Bessie's foot was well, Duffy went to get a drink, because his spirits were low. There was very little whisky in the decanter, barely half a glassful, and an idea suddenly flashed into the striker's mind. Caldwell was officer of the day. He never started to make the rounds without taking enough liquor to keep him warm, and Duffy knew it and saw his revenge laid bare.

The striker took Bessie for a walk over to the hospital to show the steward the mended paw.

"Say," said Duffy, "I've got the toothache. I didn't sleep none last night. Hev you got some—what's that you give me once? Laudanum, was it? Kin you let me hev a bit?"

"Why, yes. I guess so," the steward answered and went into the dispensary to get it.

"Shall I take all that?" inquired the striker, with sweet simplicity.

"Lord! No, man. Put some on cotton and stick it in the tooth."

"Oh, and what wud it do to me if I wuz to swallow it? Wud it kill me?"

"No, there ain't enough for that. It would put you pretty fast asleep, though."

"Oh!" said Duffy again.

Then Bessie went through his tricks for the steward and trotted back home at his master's heels

That night Caldwell finished the whisky in the decanter and grumbled that the sutler was selling him vile tasting stuff, then started off a little while afterward to make his rounds. The next day he was under arrest—for drunkenness on duty.

And Duffy, who had, with well played reluctance, given some of the most damaging testimony in regard to Caldwell's habits at the court martial, which dismissed the latter, said goodby to the disgraced man with a sparkle—which was not of tears—in his eyes, and he told Bessie to give the "leftinant the right paw," which was the yellow one.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 5. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The gift of life and how to use it.—Math. x, 34-39. (An Easter topic.)

"The gift of life and how to use it" is an appropriate Easter topic. Easter speaks to us of life and of Him Who was and is the Resurrection and the Life, and it is only by looking at life through the cross of Calvary and the tomb of Joseph of Arimathæa that we can comprehend its value and understand how it should be used.

The words of the topical reference were spoken by Christ in the second year of His ministry. Twice He had made the circuit of Galilee accompanied by His disciples, but now He is about to send them forth alone. The sermon on the mount had been their ordination, and now He delivers to them their charge, and the sum and essence of it all is that life must be sacrificed for life. "He that loseth his life shall find it."

The word "life" is used for every form of animated existence, from the plant to the eternal life of the soul. In the expression, "He that loseth his life shall find it," the word is used in two senses. In the first place it means the outward earthly life, with all its comforts and pleasures, and in the second place the inward spiritual life, beginning here in faith and ending in heaven in the higher life of the soul, and the meaning of the paradox evidently is that to gain the higher life of the soul we must be willing to sacrifice if necessary the outward earthly life. We must die to this world that we may have eternal life in the next. We must die to self that we may live to Christ. How are we to use life then is answered here for us. We are to sacrifice it that we may live for Christ. We are to live no longer, but Christ is to live in us. With Paul we are to say, "I am crucified with Christ; it is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me."

The proper use of life—its sacrifice for the higher life in Christ—is a high standard, but it is none too high. Death is always the price of higher and more abundant life. Then, too, Christ has a just claim to our lives. He gave His life for us, and therefore it is not too much for Him to ask us to give our lives for Him. He gave His life to us, and therefore we should give our lives to Him.

"Know ye not * * * that ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit, which are God's."

Bible Readings.—Gen. ii, 7-9; Deut. xxx, 15-20; Ps. xvi, 11; xxvii, 1; xxx, 5; Math. xvi, 25; Mark ix, 43-50; Luke, xii, 13-15; xxii, 31; John v, 24; Rom. vi, 4, 5, 11; Gal. ii, 19, 20; I Cor. x, 31; II Cor. v, 15; Col. iii, 1-3.

Armor Plated Boys.

It is important in these days that America should have armor plated boys.

A boy needs to be ironclad on:

His lips—against the first taste of liquor.

His ears—against evil sentiments.

His hands—that they do nothing wrong.

His heart—against irreverence and doubt.

His feet—against going with bad company.

His eyes—against dangerous books and pictures.

His pocket—against dishonest money.

His tongue—against impure words.

The Christian armor on her citizens gives more security to the nation than all the armor plate can on her ships.—Selected.

Voting Strength of Christians.

Interesting statistics were recently put forth showing the relative voting strength of Catholics and Protestants in the United States. One-third of our population, or 20,613,307, are church communicants. Of this number 14,000,000 are Protestants and 6,000,000 are Catholics. The number of qualified voters in this country is 15,137,889. Of these actual voters 3,500,000 are Protestant communicants, while more than 10,000,000 are nominally Protestants. The total voting force of the Catholics is a little more than 2,000,000, or about one-fifth that of the Protestants.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Indifference to Unity.

That easy going indifferentism which keeps good natured toward all opinion, for the reason that it cares nothing in particular about any opinion, does not denote either an intellectual or a moral tone that makes candidacy either for the reception of great blessings or for its conveyance. We are not going to reach church unity by dropping, all of us, to the dead level of doctrinal "don't care," but by rising to the positive altitude of mutual coherence in a loved and living Christ.—Dr. Parkhurst.

Intentions and Actions.

God takes into account intentions as well as actions, belief as well as practice, profession as well as life. The purpose is as important as the execution. What we are is the result of what we will and feel. The inner and outer relations must be in harmony with God's requirements.—Presbyterian.

The Quiet Way.

The maelstrom attracts more notice than the quiet fountain. A comet draws more attention than the steady star, but it is better to be the fountain than the maelstorm, and star than comet, following out the sphere and orbits of quiet usefulness in which God places us.—John Hall.

Harbor of Rest.

I come to Thee once more, my God.
No longer will I roam,
For I have sought the wide world through
And never found a home.

Though bright and many are the spots
Where I have found a rest,
Yet in the brightest still I pined
For more abiding rest.

And though a not unkindly world,
Hath done its best for me,
Yet I have found, O God, no rest,
No harbor short of Thee.

RIGHTS OF PATRIOTS.

Recognition by Uncle Sam Claimed to Be Their Just Due.

Deserved to Be Placed on Level With Spaniards.

Hitt's Presentation of the Case Meets With Opposition From Boutelle.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—In the house yesterday, Mr. Hitt made a speech, urging that the Cuban patriots be recognized as belligerents. After much effort he succeeded in calling up the report of the conference committee on the Cuban resolutions. The report recommended the adoption of the following resolutions, as passed by the senate:

Resolved, That in the opinion of congress, a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba; and that the United States of America should maintain a strict neutrality between the contending powers, according to each and all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States.

Resolved, further, That the friendly offices of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

Mr. Hitt made a long speech in favor of granting the rebels belligerent rights. He said that the two resolutions which the conference committee had agreed to proposed—first, that the United States should accord to the people of Cuba belligerent rights; and secondly, tendered the friendly offices of the United States to the Spanish government for the recognition of Cuban independence.

It was true that the second resolution as adopted by the house was in more cautious form than that now proposed, and Spain, unless persistently seeking a quarrel, could not have resented such a proposition, while the resolution of the senate proposing independence was more exposed to cavilous objection.

But when a war between a parent government and a dependency had been going on for a considerable time, and when separation was the best solution of the war, the mediation or friendly counsel of another nation to solve an existing struggle by recognizing independence might be a truly friendly act, and this in fact has often been done.

In cases almost precisely parallel to this when Spain was at war with her dependencies on this continent, in the early part of this century, our government had in fact taken the very step proposed in this second resolution.

CONGRESSMAN HITT.

He referred also to the action of President Grant during the 10 years' struggle between Spain and the people of Cuba from 1868 to 1878, when he, through our minister at Madrid, offered the good offices of the United States to bring that war to a close on the basis of Cuban independence.

General Prim, then ruler of Spain, accepted the substance of the proposition in spirit, saying: "We want no more than to get out of Cuba, but it must be done in a dignified and honorable manner." He made the condition that hostilities must first cease, and then, after laying down their arms, the Cubans might vote on the question of separation.

These conditions prevented the negotiations going further, together with the fact that the whole matter became public and created excitement in Spain, which made further negotiation useless. But offense was at no point taken by him at the friendly counsel by our government that independence should be recognized.

It was not at all certain, Mr. Hitt said, that such counsel from our government would be assented to by the Spanish government just now, though the time was not far off, in his opinion, when Spain would accept the proposition or be compelled to recognize Cuban independence without friendly counsel.

The immediate recognition of belligerency was a far more important and practical question. That was the point covered by the first resolution, both of the senate and of the house. In mere bulk the petitions presented to congress favoring this course had exceeded those upon any other subject for years.

The Spanish government now buys munitions of war, buys supplies, loads ships—in fact, the United States is today the base of operations in a furious war to crush those who are struggling for liberty, and our government has been busied or a year or more in obeying the intimations of the Spanish minister that they could in this port, or in that, catch someone trying to carry arms or aid to Cuba.

We had not even confined our assistance to our own ports, but in the case of the Hawkins we pursued the Cubans out upon the high seas at the behest of Spain. "Is this fairness?" he asked; "is this justice? Is this observing neutrality in this struggle? Either in spirit or in fact, are we not efficient oppressors of the Cubans?"

Mr. Hitt said in conclusion: "Americans who are descendants of those who struggled through a contest against tyranny like that today in Cuba should not be false to the memory of their fathers, nor to the traditions and spirit of their history * * * When this vote has been given, as it will be, overwhelmingly by this house, concurring with the senate in expressing the will of the people of the United States, we cannot doubt that the executive will act and obey the voice of the nation, and that we will speedily hear that the president has recognized the belligerency of the struggling Cubans.

"The waning cause of Spain has been apparent from week to week for two months past. It will not be long until we shall have an end of all the bombastic pretensions and abominations of Weyler's savage operations, and the Cubans, having vindicated their rights with their arms, will enjoy the liberty they have earned."

Opposition From Boutelle.

Mr. Boutelle, who has steadily opposed the passage of any Cuban resolutions, then took the floor. He said he never had regretted his course, and he thought his attitude had been vindicated by subsequent events. The resolutions had no legal effect. They amounted to nothing. They never could have passed the senate, and, therefore, the house conferees thought it wise to surrender.

Mr. Hitt denied emphatically that it ever had been admitted in the senate that it would have been impossible to pass them again in that body. It was admitted that a vote could have been obstructed, but he declared that there was in the senate an overwhelming majority for each and all of the resolutions.

Mr. Boutelle, continuing, argued that public ardor on the question had measurably cooled, and that there was no demonstrable proof of the existence of the fact of Cuban belligerency. He taunted the committee with having refused to make the resolutions joint, and insisted that it was clearly understood that the president did not favor belligerency. He did not pretend to voice the whole public sentiment of the country, but he did represent the conservative element that deprecated foreign broils that might eventuate in a foreign war.

Mr. Boutelle created much amusement by a sarcastic description of the president's twist of the British tail in his Venezuelan message. He painted Mr. Cleveland in battle array, with plumes streaming and sword clanking, marching down to the seashore and, shaking his fist at John Bull, crying: "Fee, fi, fo, fum; I smell the blood of an Englishman!"

"Four days afterward," continued Mr. Boutelle, "just as we were preparing to pack our grips and go home for our Christmas turkey, this great warrior, with the broken plume and spurs tangled in his trousers, dragged himself up the steps of the Capitol and made his Macedonian appeal: 'The treasury's bankrupt; for God's sake, gentlemen, don't go home 'till you have given us money enough to tide over the holidays.' That, he said, disgustedly, is what you call a vigorous foreign policy."

In support of his contention against recognition of belligerency, Mr. Boutelle read from the message of General Grant and charged that it was the boast of the revolutionists that they had burned and destroyed crops, fields and villages in order to drive the people into insurrection.

After he concluded, Mr. Smith (Mich.) secured a minute in which to read the declaration of the Massachusetts Republican convention on the Cuban question.

Boutelle handled his opponents roughly, and after a while refused to be interrupted. This displeased his colleague, Milliken (Me.), who wanted to ask him a question, and he accused Boutelle of being discourteous, but Boutelle said that so much of his time had been taken that he could not yield any more.

A funny incident happened when Mr. Boutelle, who had wandered away from his desk, went back to get a book he had left there with others that he used in his speech, only to find that it was gone.

Raising his hands in the air, he brought down the house by saying: "Well, this only shows that the house has gotten so into the habit of meddling with other people's business as to do it individually as well as collectively."

Mr. Skinner (Pop., N. C.) closed the debate for the day with a brief speech in favor of the adoption of the conference report.

Sought Relief by Suicide.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Henry Jacques, 78 years of age, a retired bank president, was arrested on the ferryboat Northfield yesterday, just as he was about to commit suicide by jumping over the rail into the sea. A friend who had divined his purpose of making away with himself had followed the old man upon the boat and notified a police officer of the facts. The prisoner was then put in the care of the authorities of Gouverneur hospital, to be transferred to Bellevue hospital later for examination as to his mental condition. Jacques is an eccentric old man, crippled from rheumatism and a victim of dyspepsia. Within the past few weeks the aged banker's infirmities had been rather increased, and he had become morose and gloomy to an unusual extent.

Sweating Over Venezuela.

LONDON, April 4.—The Daily News has a column article criticising the methods of Venezuela regarding the boundary claim, and asking Where is the Venezuela reply to the British blue book? The body of the young woman who committed suicide by taking carbolic acid in a hotel at Providence has not yet been identified.

Charles D. Nichols, aged 46, died suddenly from a paralytic shock at Pawtucket, R. I. He was well known in New England as a horse dealer.

A $10,000 subscription has been raised by the residents of Block Island for the purchase of a new steamer to ply between Providence and the island, and a new line owned by the people will soon be opened.

A complete strike on all the roads of the Metropolitan Traction company, New York, is threatened by the officers of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes of America unless the company takes back the gripmen recently discharged.

WON'T RESIGN.

French Cabinet Not Frightened at Vote of Want of Confidence.

PARIS, April 4.—In the senate yesterday an interpellation on the government's foreign policy was submitted. Premier Bourgeois asked that the question be deferred. On the senate refusing to agree to M. Bourgeois' proposal, this resolution was submitted:

The senate, noting the declaration to the government that it cannot add to its explanations of Tuesday (on the Egyptian question), and considering these explanations insufficient, refuses it a vote of confidence.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 155 to 85. All the ministers left the senate after the passage of the vote on nonconfidence, and the senate almost immediately afterward adjourned until April 21.

The cabinet decided to remain in office despite the senate's action.

Overwhelmed by Floods

BOONEVILLE, Ky., April 4.—The cloudburst on Little Sexton and Buffalo creeks did more damage than at first reported. Instead of four, there were probably 16 drowned. Sexton creek is one of the feeders of the south fork of the Kentucky river. It flows in some places through deep gorges, flanked by rocks. The cloudburst occurred in the gorges, the water gathered in a moment, and the wild flood poured down in a solid wall, carrying death and destruction in its path. Five people were drowned by Little Sexton. Buffalo creek is even more crooked and treacherous than Little Sexton, and by it nine people are believed to have lost their lives. A great many logs were hurled down with the tide, and these speedily knocked the cabins and outbuildings to pieces.

For Fixing Waterways.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The river and harbor bill of the Fifty-fourth congress was completed and reported to the house yesterday. The total amount appropriated by the bill is, in round numbers, $10,000,000, and provision is made for continuing works already under way, contracts to be made by the secretary of war for works which will cost $51,000,000, for which appropriations will be made in the future. This is not a material change from the river and harbor appropriations of the last congress. On Monday next the bill will probably be called up in the house.

How Insurgents Are Treated.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—The Picayune's special Habana letter, dated March 27, gives a long list of atrocities committed by the Spanish in Cuba. The writer claims to have investigated many of the cases himself. In the city of Bejufal, he says, Brigadier Ruiz was waited upon by seven Cuban insurgents who wished to surrender, as they were suffering from bilious fever. He welcomed them and assured them that they would not be troubled. The following day, however, they were taken out and shot to death.

Not Drowned.

CROOKSTON, Minn., April 4.—Colonel A. F. Naff, who, it was reported, had gone through the ice of the Rainey river and been drowned, with his entire party, returned from the trip yesterday safe. The report that they were drowned originated in the fact that the party did meet with a mishap on the river and went through the ice. The outfit was lost, however.

Served Long Enough.

BOSTON, April 4.—Lewis Bowcock, who was sentenced to serve five years' imprisonment on Feb. 12, 1894, from Bristol county, for arson, was set free by the pardon committee yesterday on the ground of excessive sentence. Bowcock, while drunk, forced an entrance to a schoolhouse in Swansea, made a fire under one of the desks and afterward went away, leaving it burning. A passerby saw the fire and extinguished it without much loss.

THE WEEK PAST.

The publication of the services for Easter shows that there will be abundant opportunity to go to church on Sunday. Some churches will have four or more services, but it is possible for one to make a tour of the churches of the centre and obtain variety by an arrangement like this: At 7.30 A. M, early carol at Christ's church; at 10.30 A. M., preaching service at Congregational; at 3 P. M., Calvary Baptist; at 4 P. M, vespers at Unitarian; at 6 P. M, Easter concert at Universalist, and at 7.30 the evening service at Christ's church or Easter concert at Congregational.

The Record took pleasure this week in reprinting the following paragraph from the Herald:

Speaking of that $1,250,000 item for Boston harbor in the river and harbor appropriation bill, it is proper to recognize in in this connection the services of Congressman Barrett of the river and harbor committee. We don't always agree with the member from Melrose, but we think we know a good thing when we see it.

Wonder if those of our citizens who have always criticised Congressman Atwood, and have attempted to belittle ex-Representative Hammond will give them equal credit for their efforts in securing $5,000 for Town river in Quincy, which will greatly improve it for navigation and commerce?

Quincy has been called "the Granite City" and "the City of Churches," but the title of "City of Presidents" used by the Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Lull, seems especially appropriate for Quincy. It is one to which no other city in the land is entitled, and we move its adoption.

The promptness with which Mayor Adams signed the order for the new schoolhouses and advertised for bids, nearly took the wind of some of the Councilmen who have had it for a plaything for months. The executive probably believes he must make up time, and it will be a spurt from this out.

Regret is expressed by the lot owners of Mount Wollaston cemetery that John Hall has been crowded from the Board of Managers of Public Burial Places. That politics should enter the city of the dead is unpleasant to contemplate. Many have not quite forgiven the Mayor who removed the late George L. Gill. To Mr. Gill and Mr. Hall, the chairman and secretary for many years, the city is indebted for a conservative, judicious and progressive management of Mount Wollaston cemetery.

The nomination of Mayor Adams for Congress would be equivalent to an election in this district. The Mayoralty contest next fall will be changed with Mr Adams out of it. Probably no Democrat could draw as many Republican votes as he did. But there is considerable doubt about his securing the Congressional nomination so it is early to count him out of the Mayoralty race.

The action of the Board of Health is calling for sanitary improvements in all of the wooden schoolhouses, reminds us that some of these are becoming ancient. It will soon be desirable to replace the Coddington and Adams with handsome brick structures.

It is not probable that Sprague and Moxon will be the names of the new schoolhouses at "The Rail" and Norfolk Downs. "Nip" and "Tuck" would be much more appropriate for these twin buildings. The people of the Downs would not object if theirs was called the Louis Rinn school, for they admire his efforts for the cause of education.

BORN.

CRANE—In Quincy, April 2, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Emery L. Crane.

OUR BOULEVARD.

Not a Specific Appropriation but General One.

A Million Dollars for Boston and Vicinity.

But Quincy Is Assured of One to the Blue Hills.

In the Legislature Friday the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs reported a bill authorizing the Metropolitan Park Commission to expend $100,000 for park reservations under the park act, and another bill authorizing an expenditure of another $100,000 for boulevard construction.

The latter appropriation probably means that Quincy is to have its boulevard from Squantum to the Blue Hills reservation, which will indeed be good news for the city, as it will not only furnish our citizens one of the prettiest drives in the State, but will bring into the market much property that is now undeveloped.

From Squantum the proposed boulevard follows the shore of Atlantic, Norfolk Downs and Wollaston Park, thence through Merry Mount Park, across Hancock street, from which point it follows nearly the course of Furnace brook, passing near the Willard school, across Miller street to Willard and the Blue Hills reservation, the entire length being something like ten miles.

It is not proposed to build an expensive parkway, but a good substantial gravel road, which will be from heavy teams, and will afford not only a pleasant drive for those who are fortunate enough to own carriages, but it will be a favorite ride for the thousands of bicycle riders about Quincy and Boston.

Looking for Light.

The Committee on Lights of the City Council went on a tour of inspection last evening at the invitation of the Electric Light & Power Co.

The party, composed all of the Committee on Lights with the exception of Councilman Rinn, Commissioner Knowlton and representatives of the Electric Light Co., left City Hall about 7.30 in a four horse tally-ho and their first stopping place was at the power station where many of the committee had their first view of the delicate and costly machinery that generates the current that furnishes the light, and expressed themselves as very much pleased with the station.

The power station at Braintree which is owned by the town was next visited and the contrast between the two was very marked in favor of the Quincy company.

Besides a visit to these two stations the tour included a ride through Franklin street, Independence avenue, Water, Copeland and Willard street to the Milton line also through Atlantic and Wollaston.

The night was a rather blustering one, for the wind was very cutting but otherwise from this the members of the committee enjoyed themselves and obtained much valuable information.

TODAY'S COURT.

Dennis F. Whalin of Randolph was arraigned for drunkenness. This was Dennis' fourth offence within a year and he was sent up for thirty days.

Michael McAuliff was fined $5 for drunkenness at Braintree.

Daniel Reardon was fined $5 for drunkenness at Braintree.

IS NOT the new theology more cheerful than the old? When the children in the Unitarian chapel were rehearsing their singing Wednesday, a lively boy pinned a paper with "April fool" on it to Rev. Mr. Butler's coat tail. What would Jonathan Edwards have said at a similar infliction?

—Weymouth has instituted something new and novel. The stores will decorate on April 11th, and the day is to be known as "shopping day." It looks as though it would be a grand holiday for everyone but the storekeepers, and they will doubtless enjoy the big trade they expect to have. All the storekeepers are putting in a large stock, and a big boom for home trade may be expected. Every man, woman and child will be expected to buy something on April 11th.

—The tramp crop starts very early in the spring, before the grass turns green and the first crocuses appear. A village wood yard will harvest them best.

WANTED, IN QUINCY, A LARGE HALL.

.....

.....

Miss Annie Keenan a teacher at the John Hancock school is ill with la grippe.

The Quincy & Boston street railway are breaking in a lot of new conductors and motorman.

The W. C. T. Union will hold its meeting on Friday April 10, at 3 P. M, in the Wollaston Congregational church.

The W. J. Thompson & Co., corporation, paper and twine, of Boston, is respondent to a petition in insolvency filed by George S. Thompson.

Work has been commenced near City Hall putting in the drain that is to conduct the water that stands near City Hall into the old steam pump main.

Mrs. Richard Steadman, a former resident of Quincy, is at home spending Easter with her mother, Mrs. Dennis Shea of Larry place, West Quincy.

To those who have called at the PATRIOT office for tree ink recently and found us all out, we would say that a new lot of small cans were got yesterday, and they can now be supplied.

The ordinance of baptism will be administered at the Calvary Baptist church, Franklin street, on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock service. A cordial invitation to all.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Memorial Congregational church are arranging a birthday party to be held in the church shortly, and promises to be a very novel affair.

It is hoped that the ride of the Committee on Streets over Hancock street Friday night will convince them that something should be done immediately to put the street in fit condition for travel.

Francis L. Souther Camp, No. 27, S. of V., held a special drill meeting last evening. The camp with their drum corps will turn out on Memorial day with Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Post, G. A. R.

The Fragment society will meet in the Unitarian chapel Wednesday afternon, April 8, at 2 o'clock, and the ladies who served on the committee for the last sociable are requested to be present at this meeting.

Engineers have been taking measurements at the Quincy Adams crossing of the street railway with the steam railroad and the present rough crossing of the street railway is to be replaced by a regular frog crossing.

Auctioneers Frank F. Crane is having a large attendance at his combinations sale at Quincy Point today. The sale commenced shortly after 10 o'clock and at that hour there was a hundred or more buyers present, and up to noon quite a lot of horses, etc., had been disposed of and at fairly good prices. A lunch was served at noon.

The members of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, by invitation of their brother knights of Randolph, are to attend an exemplification of degree work on Easter Monday night. By arrangement with the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad a special train will be run for the convenience of the knights, leaving Boston at 7.30 o'clock, and stopping at Quincy.

A grand costume party will be given by the Serof Ret Telba club in St. Mary's hall, next Friday evening, April 10. Hanson's orchestra will furnish the music for the concert and dance, which will be held from 8 till 2. The affair will be managed by the Young Ladies' Charitable society, and a good time may be expected.

The last meeting of the Quincy Debating club for the winter of '95-'96 will be held at 7.45 P. M. in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., on Thursday, April 9. The question will be, Resolved,—That Quincy should take immediate steps towards constructing a sewerage system with the outlet at Moon Island, and that the total cost should be raised by the assessment rental and general tax plan. C. A. Price and F. Tupper will be the affirmative disputants, while A. B. Holden and Stacy Southworth will uphold the negative. Mr. T. B. Pollard will act as critic.

The Atlantic Fire.

The alarm from Box 67 at 4.40 Friday afternoon, followed a few minutes later by a second alarm from the same box, was for a fire in a small building situated on what is known as "the Hummock" near the old phosphate works, Atlantic.

The building was formerly used as a powder house and was with the exception of the roof built entirely of stone. The fire was doubtless caused by boys and the Atlantic chemical put out the few remaining embers when they arrived. The loss will not exceed $15.

The second alarm was accidental and was caused by Engineer Nye trying to sound a recall. This was Engineer Nye's first experience with a fire alarm box, and like another engineer a while ago, he made a mistake. It would be a good idea for Chief Williams when he appoints a new engineer to take him in hand and give him a few points.

This fire gave the central station appartus a long run and with the extremely bad condition of Hancock street was a strain upon the horses particularly on the new combination, and another argument was thus added to the need of a fire station in vicinity of Norfolk Downs to relieve the present central station of its long runs.

QUINCY HARBOR.

$5,000 Appropriated by Congress to Open Up Town River.

It will be good news to Quincy to hear that $5,000 has been appropriated by Congress for the improvement of Town river. Some years ago Congressman Morse tried to get an appropriation though but failed.

Some months ago ex-Representative Hammond requested Congressman Atwood to try his luck and the latter gentleman promised to do his best, and he has succeeded, for in a telegram sent to Quincy Thursday night from Congressman Atwood from Washington he says Quincy will get the appropriation, which will go through on Monday.

Reunion at Mrs. Fred Smith's.

Invitations were sent to those remaining, of the old-time friends of Mrs. M. J. W. Morton, who in years long past were such close friends with her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Woodbury—"Minnie" as she is still remembered by loving friends.

Two daughters of Mrs. Woodbury, Mrs. J. L. Whiton, Jr., and Miss Woodbury have been in Quincy society all winter, and were present at Mrs. Smith's. A few, including Mrs. Nichols, "Lue Baxter," and Mrs. Lizzie (Bent) Chamberlin, were not present. A few others, have passed beyond and were only tender memories.

At the luncheon table, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Whiton, Miss Woodbury, Mrs. Smith, Miss Dora French, Mrs. Charles H. Porter, Miss Josie Wright, Mrs. Henry Rogers, Miss Henrietta Marsh, Mrs. W. L. Faxon and Master Morton Smith who could not be left out, sat down amid Easter decorations of yellow and white tulips, with trailing asparagus vines and violets. A bunch of violets tied in light green, with card, was at each plate.

Two hours were consumed in enjoying the luncheon, conversation and laughing, as one after another of old joyous times was called up. There were smiles and tears, and the Easter spirit triumphed, for over the dead past arose the fact of a living vital present; joy that some friendship can outlast the changes of time and fortune.

From the beloved venerable lady at the head, to her last descendent the little boy, a remembrance of a Good Friday was evoked, that will go forward in the hearts of those present. Perhaps the gentle spirit of those long mourned were visibly present to lend a holy influence.

—All of the arrangements for the big horse show which opens in Mechanics Building, Boston, next Monday morning, are completed. The equine beauties will reign for one week and there will be three performances daily, at 10 A. M and at 2 and 8 P. M. There are some 620 entries for the show and the exhibition will be of a character to delight all lovers of horseflesh. It ranges from the wee bit of a pony to the pampered thoroughbred, and there is abundant material for a whole week's sport. The display of four-in-hands, tandems, spike teams, and other fancy turnouts promises to be of a very interesting nature. Every afternoon and evening the Germania Band will give a select concert with solos by leading symphony orchestra artists.

My

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

"I want to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. My health has been very poor for three years, due to trouble with my

Kidneys

I was nervous, had pains in my back. I cannot tell what I suffered. My eyesight became affected and I was so despondent I did not have any interest in life. I had two physicians, but my complaints became worse. I was told that I was affected with Bright's disease. A relative urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and in a short time I began to notice a change in my condition. Things began to appear brighter, my eyes improved and did not trouble me so severely. My appetite returned and I gained strength every day. I am now able to do my own work, and feel perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me and I gladly recommend it." MISS ELLA BARTLEY, 213½ S. Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

—London financial authorities figure out that the trade balance against this country now averages $5,000 a week. That is, we buy in Europe that amount more than we sell. This sum must be paid in gold or in American securities, and when the latter are not selling on the other side, only gold will foot the bill.—Springfield Homestead.

—The mints are now coining silver dollars at the rate of 1,500,000 per month from the silver bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, on hand. Of the number of silver dollars now being coined 1,031,375 will be held for the redemption of Treasury notes, being the cost of the bullion contained in 1,500,000 silver dollars at the average cost of silver bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890.

—The deficit of over $2,000,000 for March, says the Boston Traveler, speaks as plainly as a plank in a Republican platform. It is an orator that can be understood by every man, woman and child in the country.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Beautiful Easter Souvenirs will be distributed at the Men's meeting tomorrow.

The Sloyd school opens at 4 o'clock today. Each boy will have a complete work bench, not a cheap make believe, but a bench which originally cost $1500. The tools used are of the best quality and regular carpenter's size.

Several of the delegates to the recent Junior Conference will give their "Impressions," at the boys meeting Saturday at 9 45.

"The Unrecognized Christ," will be the subject of Rev. E. N. Hardy's Easter talk Sunday at 3 30. An Eastern souvenir will be given all who attend.

The announcement of a Spring term of Sloyd School has created much interest. The benches and tools have been removed to the Association rooms. Today at 4 o'clock is the time set for the opening.

The Association is planning to have all the necessary facilities for wheelmen this year. A track is to be put up on the stairs this week, so that members can leave them in a place of safety. A part of the large hall will be arranged with stands.

Next Wednesday evening there will be a meeting of wheelmen interested in the organization of a bicycle club. The fact that the Quincy association has joined the athletic league of the Young Men's Christian associations of North American will be of great benefit to the club and give its members a good standing. The fact, too, that the Association has such complete furnished quarters, with parlors, reading room, recreation room, gymnasium and bath rooms, maintained all the year around without extra expense to the club, gives it a great advantage.

During the Spring the Young Men's Christian Association will conduct a Sloyd class in the Association Rooms which will be open to boys from any part of the city. The class will be limited to twelve boys. If twenty four boys join, separate classes will be organized, one for the younger and one for the older boys. The success of the Wollaston class has been so marvelous and the work so excellent that the directors feel that the outfit ought not to stand idle. The class will meet only once each week. Names should be left with the Secretary at once.

The Fall River Association is to have a handsome four-story business block, to be erected through the generosity of the citizens.

The late Hart A. Massey of Toronto, Canada, left $3,000 to that association. During his life he was a large contributor.

The Bridgeport Conn., Association has just received $1,000 from the estate of Francis Ives.

The Boston Association received last October a bequest of $1,000 from the late William H. Learnard.

The Montreal, Canada, has been the recipient of a lot in the rear of their present building on which to erect a substantial three-story building which will be devoted entirely to educational work. The cost will be about $25,000 when equipped. Five years ago the Montreal Association erected a $130,000 building on a $30,000 lot.

The Quincy Association is planning to accommodate its educational work from the start.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists.

BRAINTREE.

All of the schools reopen on Monday morning next.

A Democratic caucus will be held in the Town hall this evening.

The South Shore Commandry of Knight Templars, will attend divine service tomorrow, in Music Hall, Boston, by invitation of Rev. George C. Lorimer.

At the South Congregational church tomorrow, Rev. C. L. Crathern will preach an Easter sermon in the morning, and a special concert will be given in the evening. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. Lincoln Worrick and little son of Cohasset, spent a few days with her mother Mrs. Thomas Tower, returning to her home Wednesday. Tuesday afternoon the little folks of the Heights got up a party for the young visitor, and brought little Master Worrick some nice presents, and they all had a fine time.

At the hearing before the the Selectmen last Saturday night, in regard to running a loop line to the Braintree depot, the Braintree street railway company withdrew its petition and asked for a location on Elm street. If this is granted a Y will be put in and cars running either way will run down to the crossing.

This in some respects will be better than the proposed loop and there will probably be no objection to it.

Ccompany K was inspected last evening by Col. Bancroft, assisted by Maj. Oakes and Lieut. Warren. After the inspection of arms the officers were required to drill the men in Company movements, followed by the non-commissioned officers with the drill by fours.

The Colonel was much pleased with the drill and informed the company that it was the best inspection he had ever seen them pass. Arms and equipments were also found in excellent condition.

The Universalist Y. P. C. Union held its first anniversary in the Town Hall in Braintree on Wednesday evening of this week. The affair was a grand success in every respect. Nearly every member of the Braintree society was present to receive as their guests large delegations from Hingham, Weymouth, North Weymouth, Quincy and Somerville.

After an address of welcome by the president, Mr. Prescott, and also from president elect, Mr. J. Arnold, the company listened to a few well spoken remarks from the district superintendent, Rev. Albert Hammett, of Brockton. Later games served to introduce the young people to each other, and a delightful spread brought the evening's programme to a close.

☞ You may have been fooled Wednesday but you never get fooled when you trade at Guy's Coliseum. Everything needed to furnish a house from attic to cellar can be found there. Prices and terms that will please everybody. The bicycle that they are selling is bound to be a winner. 1polt

Biliousness

Is caused by torpid liver, which prevents digestion and permits food to ferment and putrify in the stomach. Real Estate

—o—

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we ar prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCE HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

WILL STICK TO REED.

New Hampshire Delegates Send Assurances to Joe Manley.

Interesting Political Gossip From Washington.

Improbable Story of Reed's Possible Retirement to Private Life.

CONCORD, N. H., April 4.—The following dispatch was sent from here last night to J. H. Manley, Washington:

The New Hampshire delegates were accredited to St. Louis by the state and district conventions with the definite knowledge that they were unitedly for Mr. Reed, and we shall give him our cordial support to that end. If forced by circumstances to make a second choice, we shall try to represent faithfully the wishes of our constituents.

REED'S RETIREMENT.

A Campaign Yarn Which Must Be Taken With a Grain of Salt.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Congressman Dalzell and other anti-McKinley Republicans have semi-officially declared that Speaker Reed would make his supreme play for the nomination, failing in which he will absolutely retire from public life and enter upon the practice of law in the city of New York.

His personal friends declare that he has reached a point in life where he must earn money for his old age, and that he has had an advantageous offer of a partnership in the metropolis, where large retainers and fees can be gathered.

What effect this announcement will have upon Mr. Reed's candidacy remains to be seen. His personal representative, Joseph H. Manley, is back from St. Louis, and is talking quite as hopefully as ever. He affects to find nothing portentous in recent events in New Hampshire, and he is figuring on the prospect of his candidate securing at least half the delegation from Virginia.

One hope exists in the hearts of the opposition managers, that the delegates secured for McKinley will not stay secured until the hour when their votes can be counted. This especially refers to the negro shouters for McKinley in the south.

Mr. Chandler is a very sore man, and although he refuses to say anything beyond his letter published, he is obviously smarting under the rebuke administered to him by Senator Gallinger and the Republicans of his state. He is not the man to rest quietly under such a blow, and his anti-McKinleyism is sure to be more pronounced than heretofore.

Apropos of the Concord incident, a large delegation of Republicans, fully 400 in number, called upon Speaker Reed to pay their respects. They were principally from Vermont—a state yet to be heard from regarding Reed and McKinley. To the Green Mountain visitors the speaker was particularly affable.

A prediction among the practical politicians here is that the anti-McKinley combination that will undoubtedly be formed before the clans gather at St. Louis will spend its money at the last moment under the direction of Quay, Manley and Clarkson, with results that will surprise the management of Marcus Hanna.

Hopeful aspirants for the speakership of the next congress, acting on the authorized information that Reed's intention is to retire, have already begun laying their plans. The Republicans assume that there can be no doubt about their maintaining their control of the house in the next congress, and that they will have to elect Mr. Reed's successor.

Republican Collegiates' Election.

CHICAGO, April 4.—At the meeting of the Republican College league yesterday, there were 300 delegates present, representing 50 colleges. President Vaughan from the University of Chicago called the league to order. Alex H. Rivell of Chicago made the address of welcome, which was responded to by J. H. Frye of Princeton college.

An address to the league in general was then made by Senator Thurston of Nebraska. He said that as he was a delegate to the Republican convention, it would hardly be proper for him to say whom he thought the presidential standard bearer of the party would be. He was assured, however, he said, that the standard bearer, whoever he might be, would be victorious.

When the committees had all reported, the work of electing officers was taken up. James M. Perkins of Harvard law school was chosen president, A. J. Weaver of Nebraska was elected vice president, W. S. Harris of Princeton secretary and T. A. Perkins of Washington university the member of the university committee of the Republican league.

The league banquet began late and ended long after midnight. About 100 delegates were present, and applauded the speeches made by Senator Thurston of Nebraska, C. B. Raymond of Watseka, Moses P. Handy; the newly elected president, Perkins, and others.

"The Duty of the Hour."

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—The American today prints an editorial entitled "The Duty of the Hour," in which it calls upon silverites of the old political parties to withdraw and form an organization to be called the American party. The paper says the action of the Manufacturers' club of this city, at its meeting on Monday last, declaring for a gold standard, "makes it clear that the self-appointed and place-seeking leaders of the Republican party, the men who will control the St. Louis convention, will be permitted to make the platform of that party a cowardly straddle, that can mean nothing but the gold standard. The Democratic party will do no business, for the president and his allies will surely control the action of that party at the Chicago convention. It is not worth while for those Republicans and Democrats who believe that bimetallism must be re-established by the United States to longer wait upon the action of their respective parties. They must not waste time."

What the A. P. A. Wants.

DETROIT, April 4.—W. H. J. Trainor, supreme president of the American Protective association, has issued a circular to the order at large upon the political situation. President Trainor declares that the A. P. A. presents an exhaustive plan for the complete organization of the order, from the primaries up. He urges the various state councils to send their representatives to the supreme council, which meets next month at Washington, pledged to such reforms as the subordinate members of the order most desire, thus avoiding the danger of strong partisans from using the order for their own ends.

He makes a strong protest against the Marquette statue, and especially warns the order to oppose the resolution of Congressman Morse of Massachusetts, "acknowledging Almighty God as the source of all power and authority in civil government, our Lord Jesus Christ as the ruler of all nations, and his revealed will as the supreme authority in civil affairs," as a remarkable and dangerous proposal to place the affairs of state in the hands of the church.

About a Letter.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Secretary Lamont has summarily disposed of the story that he had in his possession a letter from President Cleveland declining to allow his name to be used in the Democratic convention, saying that it was absolutely untrue, and adding, with emphasis: "I never have heard of such a letter." Secretary Carlisle's friends insist that, if this letter has not been written, it is going to be, reiterating their assertion that the president's intention was to withdraw in favor of Secretary Carlisle.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Improvement Has Begun but Not to the Extent Anticipated.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Bradstreet's says: Stormy weather at the northwest, continued restriction of distribution of staple merchandise and unsatisfactory mercantile collections continue to be the leading characteristics of general trade.

The conspicuous change is in the steel and iron markets. The formation of a pool of manufacturers of steel to regulate production and maintain prices results in an advance of $3 a ton in quotations for steel billets and $1.25 a ton for bessemer pig iron. A corresponding stimulus is given on other forms of iron and steel.

Additional favorable features are reports that at Baltimore the quarter's general trade has been the best for years; that there has been a slight increase in the volume of business at Pittsburg; that at Kansas City distribution of general merchandise is fair.

In addition to advances for iron and steel and products, wheat, Indian corn and granulated sugar are higher, maintaining the tendency of a week ago. Wheat, flour, cotton, wool, print cloths and rye are substantially unchanged, but oats, barley, pork, lard, butter and cheese are all lower, as is coffee.

The movement of dry goods from jobbers' hands has not improved.

Wool is dull and depressed, and some men's wear mills in New England and Pennsylvania have closed.

March bank clearings are in contrast to those of February, when the total was 20 per cent larger than the corresponding total one year ago. The March aggregate is $4,108,000,000, only 1 per cent more than the total for February, and an increase over the March total a year ago of only 22 per cent.

The first quarter of 1896 presents the largest list of actual commercial and industrial failures in business in the United States, those in which liabilities exceed assets, ever reported for a like period.

The total (including financial institutions) is 4512, or 700 more than in a like portion of 1895; 543 more than in 1894, and 1443 more than in the first quarter of 1893. The largest preceding like total, 4050, was reported in 1885.

Liabilities of those failing this year amount to $62,513,000, an increase of 30 per cent as compared with a year ago; 27 per cent as compared with the first quarter of 1894, and 60 per cent as compared with three years ago.

Mutineers Bent on Murder.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Observing signals of distress flying from the masthead of the British steamship Oxus, which laid at anchor off Liberty island at 4 o'clock yesterday, the police boat Patrol ran alongside and found that six of the crew were intoxicated and mutinous. The Oxus, Captain W. Sutherland, had a general cargo for Jamaica. She left her dock at 3 o'clock, the engineers and firemen being duly sober, but the six seamen were dangerously drunk. When the police boarded the Oxus Captain Sutherland and Pilot Reardon were armed and were holding at bay the six seamen. John Victor, who appeared to lead the mutineers, fired a revolver at Captain Sutherland, but the bullet went wide of its mark. Peter Petersen made a lunge at Pilot Reardon with a huge sheathknife, and was promptly knocked down. The mutineers were finally overpowered and put in irons.

Found His Jewelry.

NEW YORK, April 4.—William Harris reported to the Boston police on Monday that diamonds valued at $5000 had been stolen from his house in Boston last Sunday night. A description of the property was sent to Captain O'Brien of the detective bureau here, who, in turn, sent sent word to the pawnbrokers. Simpson & Co. of the Bowery reported to the police yesterday that jewels answering the description of those stolen had been pawned for $1100 by a woman at their office on Monday. Mr. Harris afterward identified the goods at his property. Under police pawnbroking precedent, Mr. Harris must pay the amount advanced. No trace of the thieves has been found.

Friendship Appreciated.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—President Crespo of Venezuela has taken another step toward the conspicuous honoring of American citizens by issuing a decree directing the erection of a bronze column in honor of a number of the citizens of the United States who aided Venezuela in the first struggle for independence.

A Double Murderer.

CLINTON, Ills., April 4.—Edward Polen yesterday shot his wife and mother-in-law in the head with a shotgun, killing them instantly. Domestic trouble was the cause. Polen attempted to commit suicide by throwing himself in front of a train, but was only slightly injured, and now is in jail here.

Claims It Was Accidental.

BUFFALO, April 4.—Frank Hodge, yesterday, shot Harry Goodrich in the abdomen. Goodrich is dying. The shooting took place in a detective bureau, where Hodge is employed. Hodge declares that the shooting was accidental. He is under arrest.

Result of McGrath Inquest.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—At the coroner's inquest in the McGrath case yesterday, Samuel P. Langdon, who was arrested on suspicion of having caused the death of the victim, Anna J. McGrath, was held for the grand jury.

HUNTERS' BAD PLIGHT.

Disabled In a Forest Hut In the Coldest Part of Winter.

Wolves and Panthers Eager For Their Blood.

Rescued by a Party of Poachers When Death Was Near.

PITTSFIELD, Me., April 4.—George Adams has reached here with a terrible story of misadventure and privation in the backwoods.

Adams and Fred Drake laid out for a winter's operation in hunting and trapping early last fall, and built a camp under the side of Bald mountain, on Bear brook, about 15 miles from the nearest settlement.

One day while splitting wood Drake cut a gash in the top of his foot. He caught cold, and for several days his sufferings were intense. It was in February, in the midst of a heavy fall of snow. Adams did not dare to leave his friend for aid. For two weeks Drake was feverish and at times delirious. Drake applied the only remedy they had—several bottles of anodyne liniment.

By this time the stock of flour was exhausted, but Adams watched over his friend constantly and had had so little nourishing food he was in no condition to make a trip to the settlement.

Finally he thought the time had arrived, but on the night before he intended to start Drake was taken with excruciating pains in his back and limbs, and the next morning

Could Not Raise His Head.

Both men were disabled, without fire, and with only a little raw flour for food. The first of March brought the floods. The hut had been built on a little level near the stream, and when the little river became swollen the camp was inundated.

The water was two feet deep inside, and nearly reached the sick men, who could only lie and listen to the wind and rain and try to cheer each other to pray. Part of the shanty was carried away, together with all the supplies, except a few pounds of flour. Matches, guns and ammunition were all swept away.

For eight days they had not a spark of fire, one side of their shanty was open to the weather, and wolves and panthers howled about them at night. On the eighth day a party of poachers ran some deer in that direction and discovered the men, now nearly dead. Adams is almost a skeleton, and says Drake is worse off than he is.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 4.—The committee on taxation voted to report against the bill to exempt from taxation bonds of the state, counties, districts and municipalities. They also voted to report a bill relieving from taxation stocks in foreign corporations held in this state. A bill to repeal the law exempting churches from taxation was voted down. The same committee voted to report leave to withdraw on the tax scheme of Mayor Quincy, declining to recommend the appointment of a commission for the investigation of the whole subject of taxation, to report to the next legislature. The house ordered to a third reading the bill to divide the town of Deerfield.

Awaiting Autopsy.

PROVIDENCE, April 4.—James Carpenter, a horseman, was arraigned before Judge Sweetland last evening, charged with violently assaulting Harry H. Morse. He pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued to April 10, under $7000 bonds. At this time Morse was lying at the hospital in a precarious condition, and at 7:45 o'clock he died. In a statement made to Coroner Lincoln before his death, Morse stated that Carpenter knocked him down and kicked him in the abdomen last Tuesday. He added Carpenter owed him $43, and it was over this that they quarreled. Morse was a hostler, 38 years of age.

Market Overstocked.

EAST JAFFREY, N. H., April 4.—White Bros. of Winchendon, Mass., have decided to shut down for an indefinite period the Jaffrey and Cheshire cotton mill here, and also the Nelson and Glenallen cotton mills at Winchendon. The shutdown will go into effect as soon as the present supply of cotton is consumed. They have on hand finished goods valued at $250,000, and the mills will not start up until this stock is disposed of. One thousand operatives will be thrown out of employment. This is the first time these mills have shut down in 20 years.

Hub Thieves Busy.

BOSTON, April 4.—Another burglary, in the recent Back Bay series, was committed last evening. The thief entered by climbing to the fourth floor of an adjoining new building and through a rear window in the residence of Mrs. S. M. Stetson, 327 Commonwealth avenue. He secured a valuable watch, onyx and diamond rings and $50 in gold, and was then frightened by the approach of a domestic.

No Bullet In Cartridge.

BOSTON, April 4.—At the close of a service in the Church of the Sacred Heart, East Boston, yesterday afternoon, the congregation were startled by the report of a revolver. A young woman had discharged a revolver into her open mouth. She was Joanna D'Arcy, 24 years old, who was despondent. She failed in her attempted suicide, as the cartridge was blank, and only badly burned her mouth.

Funds Are Low.

BOSTON, April 4.—The American board received a cable dispatch yesterday from the international relief committee at Constantinople stating that relief work is progressing satisfactorily at all the centers, but that the funds are getting low and the needs urgent. The treasurer of the relief fund in Boston is Frank H. Wiggin, 1 Somerset street.

Robbery and Arson.

LEBANON, N. H., April 4.—Mrs. C. Wright was arrested at White River Junction, yesterday, charged with having set fire to the Pratt mansion at Orford, which was empty at the time, after pillaging it of some $500 worth of silverware, also $30,000 of securities and bonds. Mrs. Wright confessed to the theft of the articles, which were afterward found in the Concord express office. The securities have not yet been found. Mrs. Wright's brother, A. E. Gage of Manchester, was arrested as an alleged accessory. Mrs. Wright was prominent in church circles, and moved from Orford to Manchester a week ago Thursday, the very morning when the house was burned.

Napoleon Bonaparte, one of the most forceful men in all history, a man continually wrapped in schemes and campaigns, in plots and counter-plots, striving intently and ambitiously for success and power—a man whose utter disregard for human life made his battles the bloodiest the world has ever seen—this man found bitterness in his triumphs because he had no heir to whom to bequeath his greatness. Josephine was divorced largely for this reason. Many women are incapable of bearing children. Many more of them are afflicted with disorders of the organs directly feminine so that bearing children would be dangerous to them, and unfair to the children. Every child deserves the heritage of health. The children cannot receive this from a sickly mother. There is no reason why they should have such a thing as "female weakness." It is as unnecessary as it is distressing. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all forms of distinctly feminine sickness. It purifies, strengthens and invigorates. It is prepared for just this one purpose and no other. It's the only medicine now before the public for woman's peculiar ailments, adapted to her delicate organization by a regularly graduated physician, an experienced and skilled specialist in these maladies. It cannot do harm in any condition of the system. Its sales exceed the combined sales of all other medicines for women.

Every woman ought to send at once cent stamps to pay for mailing a free copy of Dr. Pierce's thousand page "Medical Adviser." World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Napoleon Bonaparte, one of the most forceful men in all history, a man continually wrapped in schemes and campaigns, in plots and counter-plots, striving intently and ambitiously for success and power—a man whose utter disregard for human life made his battles the bloodiest the world has ever seen—this man found bitterness in his triumphs because he had no heir to whom to bequeath his greatness. Josephine was divorced largely for this reason. Many women are incapable of bearing children. Many more of them are afflicted with organs directly feminine children would be dangerous unfair to the children. Serves the heritage of children cannot receive this other. There is no reason would have such a thing unless." It is as unnecessary. Dr. Pierce's Prescription cures all forms of female sickness. It purifies, invigorates. It is prescribed for one purpose and no other medicine now before the public's peculiar ailments, a delicate organization by skilled physician, an experienced specialist in these matters. GEMS IN VERSE.

Lincoln.

Birth seems like chance, and life appears uncertain:
All living things express a force unbidden;
Unconscious nature never lifts the curtain.
Unconscious nature never lifts the curtain.
Men fumble at her door; the key is hidden.
They call chance blind, and they themselves are blind.
Great nature's forces, unrestrained and free,
Produced by chance this giant of mankind
And challenge man to solve his mystery.
Spontaneous, inspired, the perfect flower
Of chance, he was by liberal nature sent
To rule men nobly with unconscious power
And justify the law of accident.
Titanic seer and poet lovable,
His life links Shakespeare's with the probable!

—Bee Ditmars in New York Sun.

A Literary Critic.

Talk about yer litterytoor, poetry an prose,
Never couldn't see just why it's writ;
Allus tellin people things thet everybody knows,
Er things ye didn't understand a bit.
Words ez long ez lightnin rods, with facts thet can't be true,
Sentences ez crooked ez a tree.
Take along ez much o' my share ez ye're minded to,
The almanack is good enough fur me.

Ain't no murders in it nor no hynotizin cranks;
Ain't no robberies nor hidden wealth;
Ain't no bogus marriages, fur which I offer thanks.
It's all about the weather an yer health.
Still it hez its tragedies, ez make yer bosom quake;
Escapes ez narrow ez escapes kin be
By folks thet learns by accident what medicine to take—
There's readin as is readin, seems to me.

The Poor.

Who are the poor? Not those alone who toil
Through dreary hours for scanty fare;
Who break, in garrets dark and cold, the bread
won by hard toil through days of pain and care;
Not those who cry in narrow ways, alone, are most the slaves of grim, remorseless want.
But those poor souls are poor, and poor indeed, who, though surrounded by the world's best wealth,
Seek and find not the bread of heavenly love, the gift of God, from friendship's hamper shared.

—O. R. Washburn.

A Woman Editor.

The editor's mail brought a letter to say,
"Your paper I think very fine,
But as money's so scarce my subscription I pay
By sending gum boots, number nine."

The editor answered: "Boots duly to hand.
Many thanks for your kindness to me,
But this paper entirely by women is manned,
And the editor wears number three."

There Will Be Time.

In the battle for bread and butter,
Thank heaven, there's time to hear
The rustle of wings that flutter
In the mystical, musical air,
And the songs that the angels utter
Are sweet to us everywhere!

STREET CAR.

Words and Music by JOHN DE WITT.

Or a very stately matron will get on at a side street,
And remark to some one near her: "In that corner there's a seat."
Or a woman with a baby will do all that she can do
To draw from you loudest praises, while it wipes its feet on you.

Chorus—This is real, &c.

Or a lovely elder maiden, clutching at a hanging strap,
Is somehow precip'tated in your unoffending lap;
Or a (hic) fellow, razzle-dazzle, will get (hic) on to the same car
And insist (hic) that you shall listen to a (hic) member of the bar.

Chorus—This is real, &c.

So that you will dream of future, hoping for some kind of car
With compartments that are private, place to smoke a good cigar;
Rack, to hold your paper handy, place to put your feet upon—
But, you bet, you'll never get it till your work on earth is done.

Chorus—This is real, &c.

Cooking Made Easy.

In ranges, as in everything else, you find some one kind that is better than all the others.

Nearly four years ago we commenced the selling of ranges, and after a year's experience in handling the so-called leading makes, we became fully convinced that Glenwoods were unequalled.

By special contract with the makers we became their exclusive representatives for Quincy, and we have never regretted our action, for every Glenwood that leaves this store sends nothing but kindest and most praiseworthy words.

AN HISTORIC STREET.

An Interesting and Valuable Paper by Edward H. Dewson.

Hancock Street for Period Covering 257 Years.

Each Estate to be Taken up Separately and History Given.

During the ten years previous to 1827 there are no changes of note except that Henry Hardwick, the owner of the Samuel Baxter land that bordered upon the Training Field, is found moving forward upon that portion of the field already twice redeemed by the parish. As in the case of former encroachments it is noticed, and protests are made in town meeting. In 1811 a committee is appointed to inquire into the state of land on the Training Field. They reported a deed to the First Parish of Braintree in 1790, but no further action was taken. In 1827 work was begun on the present stone meeting-house. A committee was appointed by the town to examine the title of the First church to the land called the Training Field. They reported that it was legal, clear and without any incumbrance whatever.

In this year Temple street was laid out from (Chestnut) Sea street to Washington street. It appears that the authorities took it for granted that Henry Hardwick was the owner of the land, as they laid out the south line directly through it and paid him damages. Their action strengthened his position as apparent owner of this fifteen thousand feet of land, and it remained undisputed until 1894. Mr. Spear remembers a board fence, erected by Hardwick about this time. It was thirty to forty feet long. Hooks were placed upon it to fasten saddle horses for the accommodation of the church goers. There were several poplar trees in front of this fence. Pattee mentions a granite horse block that stood a little to the westward of this sport. It was seven feet long by three and one-half feet wide, supported at either end by small blocks projecting beyond the upper block so as to form steps. It was to enable riders to seat their wives upon the pillion used in those days. In 1828, the Stone Temple was finished. It stood at right angles to the old church and the one was occupied until the other was completed. The tower of the old building, was so near to the bell deck of the new one, the bell was swung from the one to the other. This enables us to locate the former meeting-house with accuracy.

In 1829 the present enclosures with posts and chains was made. The committee in so doing, placed upon the records of the parish the declaration that they were influenced by a desire for appearance only and did not thereby relinquish their claim to the land outside, at the various angles of which, they had placed stone bounds, even with the surface of the ground.

In 1832 the wheelwright shop and the dwelling-houses of Joshua Torrey and Samuel Nightingale, bordering on the north side of the meeting-house green were burned. Mr. Israel W. Munroe brought the Nightingale site and built the present house owned and occupied by Henry H. Faxon. Mr. Torrey rebuilt on the former site and later moved the house back and added to it. It is the cottage house west of Mr. Faxon's and owned by him.

In 1833 the Hingham Turnpike, then become Washington street, was extended to Hancock street. The north line only was established by removing the blacksmith shop that stood at now Coddington street and running a straight line through the land formerly a part of the Training Field, which we have mentioned as being an encroachment by Torrey and Nightingale. The town awarded them damages for land taken as it had previously done to Hardwick on the opposite side under similar circumstances. Torrey refused to accept anything.

Early in the thirties, John Hayward built the house now standing on Temple street, east of the Adams block. In the fifties, it was occupied by Mr. Holden, father of the late John O. Holden. He kept a store here many years. It is now the property of Thomas A. Whicher.

In 1838 Coddington street was laid out. Mr. Horace B. Spear states that the Savings Bank building was built by George Hardwick, who inherited from his mother the Mears house adjoining. Later it was occupied by Nathan Fish for a grocery and dry goods store. There were two or more straight poplar trees in front.

Between it and the traveled road opposite, there was more or less of grass ground that was not traveled upon much. A flag staff stood on the green nearly in front of the Mt. Wollaston Bank of today. It marked the bend of Temple street toward the north-east. In the fifties, the late George L. Gill kept a book store and circulating library, in the present Savings Bank building. Next to it, on the north, was a shed for two carriages owned by Josiah Brigham and Lemuel Brackett. Next, was a large harness shop occupied by Thaddeus Cross. Chamberlain's shop was in the bend. Beyond it was a shop occupied in later years by G. Fred Wilson for a grocery and market.

In 1888, John Quincy Adams bought all the land and buildings from the Savings Bank to the Whicher building on Temple street, and erected the fine block that bears his name.

On the opposite side of the green, on Washington street there was in the sixties a blacksmith shop on the site of the Association building. The "Niagara Engine Company" had an engine-house here. Opposite to it on the church green, between Washington street and the driveway, a flag pole stood for many years. The town hay scales were at one time near here. They were also near the Nightingale house for a time. Next to it, there was an open space which the late Charles F. Pierce bought about 1866, and in 1877 erected the store and dwelling-house combined, now standing there.

In 1891 Mrs. Pierce sold it to the Quincy and Boston electric railway company who have a car house in the rear.

The chapel in the rear of the Stone meeting-house was built in 1889, at a cost of about nineteen thousand dollars.

In 1891 the parish granted permission to the Village Improvement Society to erect a fountain on its land. The architects were Walker & Best, the builders were McKenzie & Paterson. It cost a little over seven thousand dollars. When it was designed, there was a large plot of green sward between the driveway north of the posts and chains of the church enclosure and Washington street.

There was an opportunity here for a fine artistic effect, which the architects availed of by dividing the basin into two sections, each of which rested upon a street, and was for the use of horses. A third section faced toward the grass plot, and was arranged with steps and seats. At the present time it is abused and the grass plot nearly destroyed, by the unrestrained passage of teams over it.

A costly and beautiful work of art, desecrated, and fast becoming a nuisance, because of the neglect of its custodians.

There is a project now before the city government, to enclose this open space, and convert it into a park, a consummation greatly to be desired.

I have mentioned the printed works on which I have drawn so largely in the preparation of this paper. I now desire to record my indebtedness to persons who have so kindly assisted me. Mr. Edwin W. Marsh has proved to be a mine of valuable information, most cheerfully placed at my command. Col. A. B. Packard, Mr. Horace B. Spear and others whose names I have mentioned, have also aided me.

Recollections do not always agree. Some people are positive, others doubtful and information has been given me by aged persons, whose memory is failing which the records do not confirm. Therefore your free but kindly criticism is invited.

The chief object of this society is the collection of facts for the benefit of those who come after.

—The House of Representatives at Washington has adopted a resolution authorizing the distribution of the medals and awards won at the Chicago Exhibition of 1893. The delay in this matter has been so prolonged that an impression was arising that it had been forgotten.

—Dr. Siemens, the German savant, is reported to have grown strawberries by means of electricity—very nice, he says, although we fancy they would savor slightly of the current. Still, they are some of the latest fruits of science.—Roxbury Gazette.

—A superintendency of schools, with a salary of $2,000 a year, at South Framingham, will be vacant in June, and already more than one hundred and fifty applications have been made for the place. According to the law of supply and demand, that salary appears to be rather high.—New Bedford Standard.

—That was a good point made by Senator Lodge in his remarks before the State convention, when he said that it is not only well to be patriotic, but we ought to be willing at times to talk about it.

—W. L. Douglass of Brockton is said to have dropped $40,000 so far in trying to keep the Times of that city going. Douglas is a good shoemaker but is learning that it costs money to run a daily paper.

—The bill removing the disabilities of confederate soldiers as regards holding commissions in the army has finally passed both branches of congress: in the senate unanimously in December last, and in the house last week, with only one negative vote. This removes the last trace on the statute book of the hostility between the north and the south caused by the rebellion.

The Best Family Cathartic.

For a general home medicine Hood's Pills are unequalled. They were prepared for family use and thry have been found entirely satisfactory wherever they have been used. Their sale has gradually extended until today the demand for them leads the trade to look upon Hood's Pills as "the coming pill." They relieve and cure so many troubles that they are really a whole medicine chest. They are mild and yet efficient.

Works of Art.

The Sunday School of the Unitarian church has lately secured for the chapel some very fine copies of noted works of art. There are two casts, in relief, of the "Singing Boys" from the celebrated frieze, by Luca della Robbia, which adorns the organ gallery in the cathedral at Florence; pictures of two angels from a fresco, by Melozzo da Forli, now in one of the chapels of St. Peter's, at Rome; Murillo's Saint Anthony and the Christ child, now in the Berlin gallery, and a Madonna and Child by the same artist, in Florence: also the Young Saint John, by Audrea del Sarto, the original of which is in the Pitti gallery, Florence.

The casts are done in ivory-finish plaster. The pictutes are artistically framed in dark oak.

The Sunday school was enabled to secure these by the bequest of the late Mr. George L. Gill. The pictures and casts will be made a memorial to him, and so these examples of things well done in far-off times and places will convey to the children who are learning in this chapel of the higher life, not only the lesson of beautiful things in art, but also the lesson of a good life as exemplified so lately and in our midst by our generous friend.

When you Are ill You consult a Physician,

But of what use can the doctor possibly be to you, if any "Tom, "Dick," or "Harry" is allowed to compound the prescription.

There are druggists—and druggists, just as there are Physicians and so-called ones or Quacks.

A good thing to remember is that the man having the largest amount of capital invested in the business is not necessarily the best Pharmacist or Chemist. It is a question more of "BRAIN" than of "LUCRE."

The undersigned is not a doctor, and what is more, he does not claim to be in a position to give "pointers" to the qualified physician, but he attends to his own special business; and in prescription compounding he recognizes no superior.

"Oh, the old home ain't what it used to be."

This is the sentiment of hundreds in this city. And they don't know why. They sit down after a hard day's work and try to read a paper or a favorite book in their cosy homes. But they read but a few minutes when they feel sleepy, their eyes smart, or they grow irritable and feel in their hearts that nothing seems as it used to.

Hundreds have so expressed themselves to us. We have fitted them with glasses, and life is no longer a burden; home is really home once more, and they are happy. It will cost you nothing for consultation and getting your eyes tested by a competent optician.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John O'Brien of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to James Burr of said Quincy, dated July 25, 1891, and recorded with the Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 658, Fol. 365, and for breach of conditions contained therein, will be sold at public auction upon the premises, on MONDAY, the 27th day of April, 1896, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely: The following parcels of land with buildings thereon, situated in the northerly part of said Quincy and bounded in said mortgage as follows, viz:

Beginning at a stake on land of Glover; thence running as the fence stands, nearly easterly in a salt marsh about fifteen (15) feet to the Old Colony railroad; thence running southeasterly on said railroad about one hundred and sixty-nine (169) feet; thence running southwesterly on land of Patrick Farrell and others about twenty (20) feet to a stake near to and south of a little dwelling house; thence running northwesterly about one hundred and sixty-nine (169 feet to the point of beginning. Excepting therefrom the premises conveyed by said O'Brien to Daniel McCarty, by deed dated November 4, 1882, and recorded with the Norfolk Deeds in Lib 514, Fol. 52, together with all the rights of way mentioned in said deed.

Also another parcel of land situated in said Quincy and bounded: Beginning at a stake in the embankment on Atlantic avenue (Atlantic street) at land of John Minot and running northeasterly on said avenue to the Old Colony railroad; thence running on said railroad about thirty-three (33) feet to a stake in a northwesterly direction; thence running southwesterly in a straight course through the centre of a large house about sixty feet to land of said Minot to a point in a salt pond; thence running southeasterly on land of said Minot to said Atlantic avenue.

Also another parcel of land situated in said Quincy and adjoining the first described parcel and bounded northeasterly on the Old Colony railroad about twenty-two (22) feet; northwesterly on a passage-way and land of Farrell and others, about sixty (60) feet; southwesterly on land now or late of said Minot, twenty-two (22) feet; southeasterly on land of Farrell and others, sixty-eight (68) feet, or however otherwise the same may be bounded.

Said premises will be sold subject to two mortgages, one for two hundred dollars given June 23, 1884, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 558, Fol. 65; and one for two hundred dollars dated February 2, 1886, and recorded as above in Lib 575, Fol. 182; also subject to all unpaid taxes.

A BOOM FOR HARRISON

Visible In the Form of Harrison Buttons In the Hoosier State.

Carlisle Declines to Enter a Nomination Contest.

His Letter, However, Indicates That He Might Accept the Honor.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—What has created a sensation in political circles here is the appearance within the last two days of thousands of Harrison buttons. Republicans in all parts of the state are wearing them. The inscription on the buttons is "Harrison and Success." They were ordered by Congressman Lorimer of Illinois, who has written to the friends of Harrison here that he intends to vote for the general on the first ballot.

It is certain that the button idea did not originate in this state, and a movement in the interest of Harrison is entirely in the hands of representatives of the party in other states. It is said that Congressman Lorimer shipped consignments to every state in the Union at the same time when the supply was shipped to this city.

The "Harrison stalwarts" here are delighted with the appearance of the insignia. They believe that long before the date for the national convention the McKinley sentiment in this state, which, only a few weeks ago, promised to be too strong to be stemmed, will have been smothered in the general demand for the renomination of General Harrison.

During the last two days several of the delegates to St. Louis have been called here to consult with the Harrison managers, and it is now believed that there is a well-developed plan to draw every member of the Indiana delegation away from McKinley.

The original plan was not to have Harrison voted for in the convention until after the first ballot, but since McKinley has shown such great strength, it has been decided that the disposition to renominate the ex-president must make itself manifest on the first ballot.

The anti-McKinley combination, which has turned to Harrison, has decided that if Indiana's 30 votes can be kept out of the McKinley column on the first ballot the Ohioan's defeat will be certain.

CARLISLE SAYS NO

But Kentucky's Leading Newspaper Thinks He Should Be Nominated.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Carlisle has written a letter on the subject of his candidacy for the presidential nomination at the Chicago convention. It is addressed to Charles R. Long, chairman of the Democratic state central committee of Kentucky. It says:

JOHN G. CARLISLE.

Your favor of March 30, in which you say in substance that many of my friends in Kentucky and elsewhere desire me to become a candidate before the approaching national Democratic convention for nomination for the office of president, and requesting me to give "some authoritative or definite expression" upon the subject, was duly received, and has been maturely considered.

Many communications on the same subject and of similar import have been received from friends in different parts of the country, and while very grateful for these numerous expressions of confidence and esteem upon the part of my Democratic fellow citizens, I have not been able to reach the conclusion that the existing conditions require me to comply with their requests by authorizing them to announce me as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

While I feel a profound interest in the welfare of my party, I am much more concerned about its declaration of principles than in its selection of candidates, because, in my opinion, its failure or success at the election, as well as its capacity for useful service to the country in the future, depend upon the position it takes or omits to take upon the public questions now engaging the attention of the people, and especially the questions affecting the monetary system of the country and the character and amount of taxation to be imposed upon our citizens.

Its position upon these and other subjects having been agreed upon, and clearly and distinctly announced, the convention ought to have no difficulty in selecting an acceptable candidate, who will fairly represent its views; and, in order that its deliberations may be embarrassed as little as possible by the contentions of rival aspirants and their friends, I think my duty to the party will be best performed by declining to participate in a contest for the nomination.

The obligations assumed when I accepted my present official position require me to devote my entire time and attention to the public interests committed to my charge, and I shall continue to discharge the duties imposed upon me to the best of my ability and in such manner as will, in my judgment, most certainly promote the true interests of the country; and if, in the opinion of my fellow Democrats in Kentucky, my services entitle me to their commendation and approval, I would regard their endorsement of my public course as an ample reward for the little I have been able to accomplish in behalf of honest administration and sound financial policy.

With many thanks for your kind letter, I am very truly yours, J. G. CARLISLE.

CARDINALS TO PEOPLE

On the Benefits of Arbitration Tribunal For English-Speaking Races

General Public Should Take Initiative Steps.

Governments Would Soon Realize That "Blessed Are the Peacemakers."

BALTIMORE, April 6.—The following appeal for arbitration instead of war is the result of a correspondence upon the subject by three cardinals, whose names are affixed to the appeal, and is given out by Cardinal Gibbons:

An appeal by the American, Irish and English cardinals in behalf of a permanent tribunal of arbitration.

We, the undersigned cardinals, representatives of the prince of peace and of the Catholic church in our respective countries, invite all who hear our voices to co-operate in the formation of a public opinion which shall demand the establishment of a permanent tribunal of arbitration, as a rational substitute among the English-speaking races for a resort to the bloody arbitrament of war.

We are well aware that such a project is beset with practical difficulties. We believe that they will not prove to be insuperable if the desire to overcome them be genuine and general. Such a court existed for centuries when the nations of Christendom were united in one faith. And have we not seen nations appeal to that same court for its judgment in our own day?

The establishment of a permanent tribunal, composed of trusted representatives of each sovereign nation, with power to nominate judges and umpires according to the nature of the differences that arise, and a common acceptance of general principles defining and limiting the jurisdiction and subject matter of such a tribunal, would create new guarantees for peace that could not fail to influence the whole of Christendom.

Such an international court of arbitration would form a second line of defense, to be called into requisition only after the ordinary resources of diplomacy had been exhausted. It would at least postpone the outbreak of hostilities until reason and common sense had formally pronounced their last word. This is a matter of which the constitution and procedure must be settled by governments.

The People First.

But as governments are becoming more and more identified with the aspirations and moulded by the desires of the people, an appeal in the first instance must be addressed to the people.

We do not hesitate on our part to lift up our united voice and proclaim to all who are accustomed to hearken to our counsels that it is a sign of a divine influence at work in their midst when "Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they be exercised any more in war" (Isaiah ii, 4); for it was written of a future time, "Come ye and behold the work of the Lord, what wonders he hath done upon the earth, making wars to cease even to the end of the earth." (Psalms xlv, 9).

Others may base their appeal upon motives which touch your worldly interests, your prosperity, your world-wide influence and authority in the affairs of men. The Catholic church recognizes the legitimate force of such motives in the natural order and blesses whatever tends to the real progress and elevation of the race.

But our main ground of appeal rests upon the known character and will of the prince of peace, the living founder, the divine head of Christendom. It was he who declared that love for the brotherhood is a second commandment like unto the first. It was he who announced to the people the praise and reward of those who seek after peace and pursue it. "Blessed," said he, "are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God." (Matthew v, 9).

We, therefore, earnestly invite all to unite with us in pressing their convictions and desires upon their respective governments by means of petitions and such other measures as are constitutional.

A Smuggling Syndicate.

MONTREAL, April 6.—Recent arrests by United States customs officials at Canaan, Vt., of several Chinamen who had been smuggled over the border have put the United States officers on a track that has yielded overwhelming evidence that this kind of smuggling is of a most extensive and far-reaching character. Investigation which followed these arrests have revealed the existence of a large syndicate that have been engaged in the wholesale smuggling of Chinese for more than three years past.

Big Fire at Worcester.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 6.—Fire broke out yesterday morning in the spring department of the Washburn & Moen Manufacturing company's plant at Quinsigamond village, resulting in a loss of $150,000 to $175,000. Two hundred men, nearly all of them skilled workmen, will be out of work until the building can be rebuilt. The fire was caused by an oil pipe running near a furnace. The building is 264x100 feet, of brick and steel, and had been considered absolutely fireproof.

Will Be Absent.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—General Harrison's children, Mrs. McKee and Russell B. Harrison, did not start for New York yesterday to attend the wedding of their father. It has been understood that neither would attend. There is no estrangement between father and children, but the son and daughter have decided not to witness the ceremony.

Afraid of Mob.

DECATUR, Ills., April 6.—Edward Polen, who killed his wife and mother-in-law at Clinton, was brought to this city by Sheriff Neal and put in the county jail to escape mob violence. Polen, who attempted suicide, but was not seriously hurt, professes to have been insane when he killed the two women. He says his wife had been unfaithful.

Tackled Two Stores.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., April 6.—The stores of H. D. Humphrey and C. J. White, here, were entered yesterday morning by professional burglars. About $300 was taken from the former, and in the latter the safe was badly wrecked by nitroglycerine, but the contents were not reached.

ATLANTIC AND the city generally is greatly shocked to hear of Councilman Louis Rinn's death at the Quincy City hospital, Sunday night, and his bereaved family have the sincere regret of all. It will be a long time before another such man will be found to fill his position at City Hall, as he has served his ward in a most efficient manner, and with his business ability and social conduct has won hosts of friends. Councilman Rinn's death was hastened by his attendance at the Council meeting last week, but was not due to it as some of our contemporaries state.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Watch this line grow:

WANTED, IN QUINCY, A LARGE HALL.

Communion was celebrated at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Waterhouse of Newbury avenue has improved greatly, so that she enjoyed Easter sitting up.

It was necessary to double up on the Neponset line of the electrics Sunday. Cars on all lines were crowded.

Miss Lillian W. Hammond of Billings street has returned from a trip to Washington, which was very enjoyable.

Mr. Fratus of Atlantic has won the silver medal entitling him to the privileges of "Pet Duck" at the Duck's Nest.

The newly paved gutter on Winthrop avenue, between Lincoln avenue and Beale street, Wollaston, is a total wreck.

The electric light at the corner of Brook and Safford streets, Wollaston, has not been burning for the past four or five nights.

Messrs. A. G Olney, A. A. Lincoln and H. T. Whitman of Wollaston, returned on Saturday from a gunning trip to Monomy island, Cape Cod.

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. have rebuilt the draw on the Neponset River bridge. The change was made on Sunday when a large force was at work.

To those who have called at the PATRIOT office for tree ink recently and found us all out, we would say that a new lot of small cans were got Saturday, and they can now be supplied.

The large force at the LEDGER office was unable today to get into type all the news intended for this edition. These are busy days at the office of the only daily in Norfolk county.

Miss Mamie Fry has resigned her position as operator at the Quincy Telephone exchange to enter a broader field of usefulness. Her position has been taken by Miss Walsh of the Dorchester office.

Rev. Walter R. Breed, who has been ill for some time, is to spend the next three weeks away from Quincy in hopes of regaining his strength. Rev. Thomas Lynch of Boston will fill his place while he is absent.

The grand combination sale by Auctioneer Frank F. Crane at Quincy Point, Saturday, was the most successful of any of the combination sales yet held. There was a good crowd present all day and everything was cleared up by 4 o'clock.

Mr. Israel Waterhouse will entertain the members of the Wollaston Unitarian society and Sunday School and their friends, at the church on Wednesday evening with his private collection of stereopticon views of his travels in Egypt, Palestine, Asia Minor, Greece, etc. The entertainment is free.

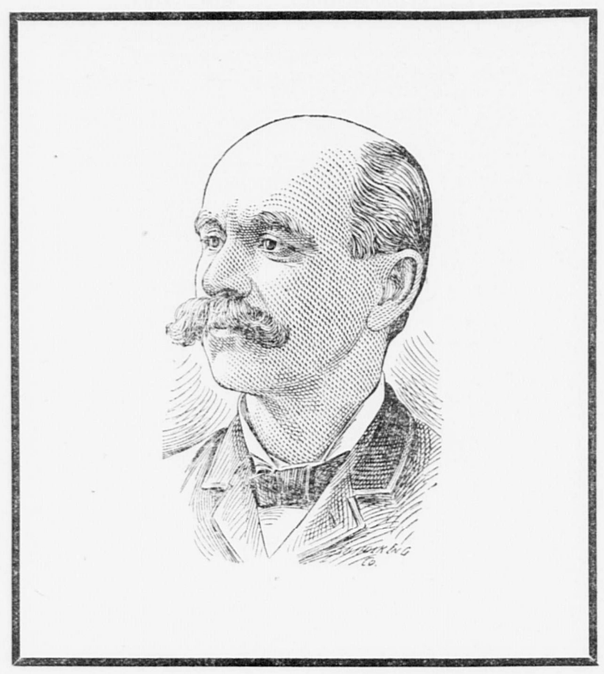

Miss Rodgers, a successful piano teacher of this city, held one of her "musical afternoons" on Saturday last. About twenty of her youngest pupils ranging from seven to thirteen years of age were present. The first part of the afternoon was spent with music, each pupil playing and acquiting themselves with credit. Chocolate was served, after which games were enjoyed.

DEATH OF A COUNCILMAN.

Louis Rinn, a Martyr for New Schoolhouses, Dies Within a Week After Voting.

It will be sad news to the citizens of Quincy to hear of the death of Councilman Rinn, which occurred at the City Hospital on Sunday evening.

Councilman Rinn has been in poor health for the past two months, owing to a general breaking down, and has been confined to his home for the most of the time. Although unable to attend the meetings of the City Council he took a deep interest in its affairs particularly so in regard to the order for two new schoolhouses which has been before that body for two years. So great was his interest, and realizing that his vote was necessary to pass the order, that against the wishes of his family and his near friends, he left his sick bed last Monday night and went to the City Council in a carriage and his vote passed the order appropriating $75,000.

Those present at that council meeting could not help noticing how feeble Councilman Rinn was, and regretted that he should have taken such a risk as he did. Tuesday he sustained a slight shock to his left side which was known to the LEDGER that day, and upon the advice of friends he was removed to the City Hospital. He continued to fail rapidly until Sunday evening, when he passed away.

Councilman Rinn was serving his fourth year as a member of the council, being first elected to the council of 1891, and subsequently to the councils of 1893, 1895 and 1896 serving on Committee on Streets, Fire Department and Police.

The flag on City Hall is at half mast out of respect to his memory.

Louis Rinn was born at Merenberg, near Frankfort on the Rhine, Oct. 2, 1848. He came to this country with his parents in 1853 and located at Cambridge, Mass., where he attended the public schools and afterwards the Spear Commercial college in Boston.

In 1870 he entered the office at the factory of Rinn & Co., decorators and manufacturers of ordered furniture. In 1871 he became one of the firm of Rinn Bros., architects and decorators; and in that year commenced the decorations at Canonchet, the residence of Ex-Gov. Sprague at Narragansett Pier, R. I; also other large villas in the West.

In 1875 he went into business for himself under the name of L. Rinn & Co., painters and decorators, which remains the same to the present time. Married in 1875. He came to Atlantic in the spring of 1880 from Boston, to live for the summer months, and concluded to locate permanently.

He was in his 48th year and leaves a widow, four sons and two daughters.

MANY FIGURING.

A Brief Description of Plans for New Nine Room Brick Schoolhouses.

Scores of builders have been figuring on the plans for the two new schoolhouses at City Hall, and there is much speculation as to who the successful bidder will be. So much has been said first and last about these buildings, a brief description will not be out of place.

The buildings have a frontage of 129 feet and a depth, including the projection on the front, of 71 feet.

In the basement are located the boiler, closets, coal bin and two large play rooms, which are entirely separate. There are also two stairways leading to the yard at the back of the building and two at the front leading to the vestibules in the front.

Each of the two main entrances on the front lead into a large vestibule, 6x18 feet, from which enters a corridor running lengthwise of the building, 13x70 feet. From this corridor doors lead into the four school rooms at the rear of the building. These are large, well lighted rooms, their dimensions being as follows: 27x34, 26x32, 26x32 and 27x34.

At the rear of the two end rooms are two wardrobes, each 6x26 feet. There is also an entrance from the east and west ends of the building. Between the two vestibules at the front of the building are two rooms 13x17 feet each, for the use of the teachers and principal, and two wardrobes 9x13 feet. There are also stairways leading from each vestibule to the basement and to the upper floor.

The second floor is almost identical with the first floor with the exception that there is an additional school room 26x31 feet over the room of the teachers and principal.

Burglar in Braintree.

At 7.15 last night a local police officer discovered a burglar in Mr. Keith's shoe factory, Braintree, formerly occupied by R. H. Long. It is stated that in attempting to make an arrest the officer was knocked down three times. Three shots were fired to attract assistance but the burglar escaped. This seems to be a case where the officer would have been justified in aiming straight for his mark.

"The baby has gone to school; ah me!
What will the mother do,
With never a call to button or pin,
Or tie a little shoe?
How can she keep herself busy all day
With the little 'hindering thing' away?

"She thinks of a possible future morn,
When the children, one by one,
Will go from their homes out into the world,
To battle with life alone;
And not even the baby be left to cheer
The desolate home of that future year."

A SUNDAY FIRE.

A Loss of About $2,000 at Montclair Yesterday Afternoon.

The fire department had one of those stubborn fires to contend with Sunday afternoon, when the house of Elisha Rigby at Montclair was burned. Stubborn, because the fire was for the most part between the walls, and the nearest hydrant was half a mile away.

The fire was extinguished at last, but not before over an hour's hard work and the interior had been badly gutted.

Mr. Rigby occupied the upper floor, and P. S. Dresser the street floor. The Rigby family went away in the morning for the day, and early in the afternoon Mr. Dresser and family went out for a walk.

Upon their return they found the house full of smoke and a messenger was sent to Box 61, nearly a mile away, from which an alarm was sounded at 3.17. The department made good time, but some valuable time was lost in getting water onto the building, as the nearest hydrant was on Squantum street.

The steamer was located here and two lines of hose was laid across the field to the building, it taking all the hose carried by combination engines 1 and 2 and Hose 2 to do this.

After laying the hose the two combinations were located near the building and did some good work. The combined streams from the steamer and combinations soon had a telling effect on the fire, and at 4.30 it was under control.

It was impossible to remove any of the furniture from Rigby's tenement, and but little of Dresser's furniture, and that left in the house was either burned or ruined by smoke and water.

The exact cause of the fire is a mystery, but it is supposed to have originated from the furnace.

The losses are estimated as follows: On building, $1,000; Rigby's furniture, $600; Dresser's furniture, $300. Partially covered by insurance.

Disorders afflict the human race, the large majority arising from impure blood. Hence the wide range of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood purifier of the age.

"I feel it a duty to suffering humanity and to Hood's Sarsaparilla to tell what this medicine has done for me. I know it is an honest medicine. I had

Dyspepsia, and 3 years treatment by physicians did me no good. I could not eat half a cracker without distress. I fell off in weight from 180 to 149 pounds. I also suffered with rheumatism, and was pretty well used up. I heard about Hood's Sarsaparilla and began to take it. I soon noticed that it was helping me, and after taking several bottles found I could eat what I wanted without any distress. Later I had salt rheum or come on my ankles, and I again took Hood's Sarsaparilla. The swelling went down and the eruptions healed. Then I had the grip and it left me in bad shape, with catarrh and other troubles. The doctor said I was all worn out, but might be patched up and live a year or two. But I clung to my old friend Hood's Sarsaparilla and was soon in my better health. I am alive yet, more than three years having passed since the doctor's prediction, thanks to Hood's. I am 69 years old, weigh 170 pounds, am in good health and recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends for dyspepsia, catarrh and rheumatism, and also for cleansing the blood." S. S. JOY AT EASTER.

The Churches Resound with Sweet and Solemn Music.

The Observance of Easter Sunday by Pastors and Choirs.

Carols, Services, Special Sermons, Vespers, Sunday School Concerts.

Easter Sunday brings out people even non-church goers. One might ask in general, why do not these people go out every Sunday. It is a feeling of fresher life that comes with the season, often tardy; in our climate, and an especial call the churches make to their recreant flocks, that make Easter Sunday congregations. The Roman Catholic church calls its people with a commendable authority. The Episcopal welcomes them with even better and more music than usual. The old calvanist church called them with a voice of menace. The new church almost lets them alone, free to come or go, even on Easter Sunday. There is good and bad mixed, perhaps in all these various calls.

It depends much upon the man. In our centre the sweet gentleness covering a decided theology in Rev. Mr. Norton did great good to large numbers. In our first church the congregations have been very small for many years. Rev. Mr. Butler's muscular christianity may draw the church to its old standard, but we think the new church is not yet born. It must come in this western land from the fusion of what is strongest, sweetest and best in all denominations. Meantime yesterday's church goers should go next Sunday, the next and the next, to encourage their pastors, and to lend united effort to make universal, some church that will overpower the sin and evil without and to make Easter all the year around.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

Easter, the most gladsome festival in the calendar of the Catholic church was celebrated with the usual pomp and splendor at all the churches in the Quincy parish.

Three masses were celebrated at St. John's church; the first at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Bowen, the second at 9.30 by Rev. Fr. Bowen, and the last mass at 10.30 by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti. The musical part of this mass was arranged by the organist, Miss Margaret Garrity, as already published.

In the evening at 8 o'clock solemn high vespers were sung by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti as celebrant, Rev. John P. Cuffe as deacon, and Rev. F. A. Cunningham as sub-deacon. An augmented choir rendered the music, under the direction of Miss Mary Frances White.

Rev. Daniel J. Reardon delivered an eloquent sermon on the lessons to be drawn from Easter, taking his text from St. Paul's epistle to the Corinthians.

The beauty of the high altar was enhanced by numerous Easter lilies and palms, and at the evening service by the myriad of lighted candles.

Rev. Ambrose F. Roche celebrated the masses at 8, 9 and 10 at St. Mary's church, West Quincy.

The two masses at the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic, were celebrated by Rev. John P. Cuffe.

Rev. Francis A. Cunningham was the celebrant of the masses at St. Francis', South Braintree, at 8 and 1 o'clock.

CHRIST'S CHURCH.

All of the services at Christ's church Sunday were largely attended especially in the morning at 10 30 and in the evening, it being necessary to place chairs along the aisles in order to accommodate all who desired to attend.

Special musical programme had been arranged by Prof. Wrigley which were of high order and were finely rendered, especially at the evening service when the "Hallelujah chorus" from the Messiah, was rendered.

The decorations were simple, yet appropriate. In each of the windows were large potted plants and inside the chancel rail there were a mass of beautiful Easter lilies.

The carol service at 7.30 A M. was conducted by Rev. Mr. Lynch and the sacrament of the Holy Communion was administered.

Rev. Walter Russell Breed, the rector, who has been ill, assisted at the 10.30 service, the sermon being by Rev. Mr. Lynch. His text was from the words found in the epistle of Paul to the Philippians 3: 10—"That I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection, and fellowship of His sufferings, being made conformable unto his death."

Previous to the sermon Rev. Mr. Breed announced that the Easter music would be repeated next Sunday; that the annual parish meeting would be held Monday evening, that Bishop Lawrence would visit the church on Thursday May 14, and that the church had retained the services of Prof. Wrigley for another year.

The children's festival at 4 o'clock brought out all the little folks. After the singing of the Easter carols and a short address by Rev. Mr. Lynch, each child was given a growing plant as is the usual custom on Easter Sunday.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

The platform about the pulpit at the Universalist church looked very handsome Sunday, being covered with potted plants and flowers. On the wall back of the pulpit there was a large floral horse shoe, the emblem of good luck, with an appropriate motto. At the morning service Rev. A. W. White preached an interesting sermon, bearing on Easter, and in the evening there was a Sunday School concert.

UNITARIAN CHURCH.

Rev. E. C. Butler preached to large congregations on Easter Sunday, particularly at the Vespers. Many Easter lilies decorated the pulpit, and the music was a feature. In the afternoon the pastor contended that whatever was right for man, a state or a nation, was right for God, and vice versa. Life without its possibilities was not worth living. Three score and ten years was all too short for the plans of life. If life here is the end of life, God is not the one to gain but to lose. I do not state it for a fact, he said, but I believe it, that there is a life hereafter, and in closing he left with the congregation the question:—Is it true, genius goes for nothing at death?

CENTRE CONGREGATIONAL.

"If it were not so I would have told you," was the text of Rev. E. N. Hardy on Sunday. He said the Bible contained no definite statement of heavenly recognition, but it was not begging the question to adopt the text here. Mostly all now believe in the immortality of the soul. All great leading thinkers have brought out the fact that we shall know each other in the life beyond. Otherwise Heaven would lose one of its great charms. Not in physical form, but in a Spiritual body and we will recognize by character. A touching illustration of a dying son was given in closing.

"The Risen Christ" was the subject of the Easter service of Scripture and song given by the Bible school in the evening. It was mainly Scripture readings of the death of Christ and the resurrection. The young men of the school gave prophecies and the young ladies responded with the fulfillment. Stacey Southworth read from Matt. 27, and Miss Daisy Lowe from the same chapter, H. Everett Crane from Matt. 28, Miss Katherine Evans from Luke 24, Delcevare King from John 21. Responses were led by the Secretary, assistant Superintendent and the Superintendent. The singing was by the school, the choir, a girl's chorus and the congregation. Prayer was offered at the opening by Rev. E. N. Hardy and he gave a seven minutes' talk near the close. Quarterly examinations were held during the year 1895, and certificates to those who passed were awarded at this time, those to pass one had one seal, and so on up to four, as follows:

SWEDISH LUTHERAN.

Special Easter services were held at the Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street, being conducted by Rev. Mr. Anderson, the new pastor of the church. The several services were held as follows: Morning service at 10.30, Sunday School at 12 o'clock, and evening song service at 7 30.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

Rev. P. A. Englund preached on "The Resurection" at the Swedish Baptist church on Station street, at the Sunday morning service, and in the evening at 7 30 there was a good Easter concert consisting of recitations, vocal solos and duets.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

All of the Easter services at the Calvary Baptist church were largely attended Sunday. At the morning service at 10.30 Rev. C. A. Parker, the pastor, occupied the pulpit and at the afternoon service at 3 o'clock Rev. H. B. White preached. At the evening service two were baptised.

At Quincy Point.

Easter Sunday at the Washington Street Congregational church was fittingly observed at all of the services throughout the day. Rev. Mr. Turk filled the pulpit at the morning service and preached a most acceptable sermon. Mr. Turk is a candidate for the existing vacancy, in the pastorate of the church, and made a very favorable impression.

The choir consisted on this occasion of a double quartette, in charge of Mr. M. E. Wight, chorister. The music was excellent Mrs. Hood organist.

The floral decorations, consisting largely of Easter lilies, was quite extensive and the arrangement artistic. The regular flower committee of the church, consisting of Miss Amey F. Newcomb, Miss Margaret L. Thomas and Miss M. Gertrude Sampson had the matter in charge, and received many compliments for their work.

The Sabbath School concert in the evening was conducted by Mr. Charles H. Sherburne, superintendent. The church choir assisted, Mr. Herbert A. Hayden, organist. The children all did well and carried out a pleasing programme.

At Wollaston.

Although Sunday was not an ideal Easter Sunday it answered the purpose very well. The chilling wind put sort of a damper on the usual Easter costumes, but for all that there was a good display. The Wollaston churches were comfortably filled. There was a liberal display of cut and potted flowers, but not so many as in previous years. The programmes which appeared in Friday's and Saturday's LEDGER, were carried out.

THE UNITARIAN.

After the regular morning Easter service at the Wollaston Unitarian church an informal Easter service was held by the Sunday School. There was singing by a quartette composed of Miss Isadore C. Lull, Miss Lulu Phelan, Miss Luella Jordan and Master Avery Bennett; a duet the little Merrill boys; and a solo by Mrs. Fred. C. Merrill. Remarks were made by the Superintendent, Mr. Frank A. Page, and the Rev. James E. Bagley.

THE BAPTIST.

A large congregation was present both at the morning and the afternoon services at the Wollaston Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Gurney's text for the morning was taken from Luke 14:14. The quartette singing was especially fine and the solo work greatly appreciated. Mr. S. P. Moorhouse played a violin obligato for the soprano solo "My Heart ever faithful."

Park and Downs Union.

At the Easter concert by the Sunday School of the Park and Downs Union society there was an audience which completely filled the new chapel. The programe included recitations by Addie Conrad, Edith Chapman, Agnes Headman, Myron Stebbins, Lizzie Vollum, Harry Lewis, Eva Weymouth, Esther Headman, Hazel Jones, Julia Marr, James Comes, Bula Loud, George Stebbins, Clarence Conrad, Rena Grant, Millie Linnell, Louis Cleaves, Annie Marr, Lulu Ross, Ethel Marr, Charlie Locke, Jesse Gardner; solos by Ruth Page, Hadley Polk, Gertie Cleaves, Julia Page; duets by Susie Page and Lizzie Linnell, Alda Shay and Nettie Graham. The school was assisted in the singing by the regular chorus choir, a quartette composed of Mrs. Walter Coombs, Miss Stella Haynes, Mr. A. W. Polk, Mr. Charles Tanner, and Mr. George H. Critchley, cornetist. Mrs. A. W. Polk and Mrs. Fred Loud, the committee in charge, are to be congratulated on the success of the concert.

ATLANTIC MEMORIAL.

A crowded church awaited Rev. Edward Norton at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic. The pulpit was elegantly decorated with potted plants. The music rendered by the choir, including the several solos, duets and trios, were of a most excellent order. The pastor preached a very effective sermon on Easter.

The children of the Sunday School held a very interesting Easter concert, Sunday evening. The programme was as follows:

Chorus, eleven little girls.
Welcome, May Nelson.
Prayer, Rev. Edward Norton.
Chorus, girls.
Recitation, Bertha Miles.
Recitation, Ada Allen.
Chorus, girls.
Recitatation, Bessie Kellar.

Keith's New Theatre.

Aside from the fact that one of the very best amusement programmes of the season is to be given at Keith's this week, the clever artists connected with the house have produced one of the finest scenes ever placed on a theatre stage, expressly for the act of these gentlemen acrobats, the "Wonderful Craggs," who perform feats in evening dress never attempted in this country before. The scene is that of the Casino Terrace at Monaco,—the famous gambling place on the Mediterranean, but also one of the most beautiful spots on earth. Artists who have viewed this scene say it will rival in beauty any which has ever been shown on any Boston stage in recent years.

A DRY SUNDAY.

Gotham's Common Saloons Closed and Big Hotels Profit Thereby.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Yesterday New Yorkers had their first Sunday under the Raines law. There was no attempt to evade the provisions of the law and no violations were reported at police headquarters. On every street the interiors of the drinking places were exposed to full view from the street. The saloons were in almost every instance deserted even by the proprietors. Reports had it that the up-town hotels were profiting largely by the changed order of things and that most of them were doing a rushing, though legitimate, business. The majority dispensed liquor to waiters, who carried it in turn to guests who were eating meals more or less meager at the tables.

Mendoza Fraud Solved.

HABANA, April 6.—The police of this city who have been investigating the swindle by which the banking house of August Belmont & Co. of New York paid out $24,000 in cash, on a forged draft, purporting to be drawn by Jose Hidalgo & Co. of Habana, in favor of Manuel G. Mendoza, have unraveled the whole plot, and have arrested two of Mendoza's accomplices. Mendoza, it has also been ascertained, is on his way to Corunna, Spain, and the home government will arrest him upon his arrival at his destination.

A Tell-Tale Label.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 6.—Officers of this city have found more goods stolen from the John Pratt house at Orford previous to its being burned. The goods were shipped here March 27 in boxes, on one of which were the words: "John Pratt, Thetford, Vt."—that being the place where Mr. Pratt kept a store before he died. The boxes contained linen marked with the letter "P.," and were found at the local freight depot.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

The influence of women upon the civilization of the world, could never be measured.

Because of her, thrones have been established and destroyed. The flash of her eye, the touch of her hand, and we have the marvellous power of women, glorious in the possession of perfect physical health.

Lydia E. Pinkham, by her wonderful discovery of the "Vegetable Compound," has done much to place this great power in the hands of women.

She has lifted thousands and thousands out of the misery brought by displacement of the womb, and all the evils that follow diseases of the uterus.

The "Vegetable Compound" restores natural cheerfulness, destroys despondency, cures backache, strengthens the muscles, restores the womb to its normal condition, and you are changed from a physical wreck to the joy of your home and friends.

By the way—the leading druggists tell us that the demand for Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply beyond their power of understanding, and what is best of all, it does the work and cures where the best physicians utterly fail.

FOR A TEN-DOLLAR PURSE.

Prize Fight Resulted In the Death of One of the Participants.

HAVERHILL, Mass., April 6.—Ten dollars a side, and a life. That was the stake that Arthur Bradley of this city won at Lawrence Saturday evening in a 30-minute fight with Richard Ingram, also of this city.

Ingram's dead body now lies at the home of his brother on Dudley street, and Bradley and four others are now at the police station in this city, and three more are in the Lawrence police station on the charge of aiding and abetting in manslaughter.

Ingram and Bradley were both friends and fellow-employes at Chicks' factory, as well as fellow-boarders at Bradley's boarding house. Both were Scotch and rather proud of their prowess in various athletics. According to Bradley's story, for some time past, Ingram had been taunting him upon his superiority with the boxing gloves.

Finally the taunts became too frequent, and with the help of some friends a "friendly" bout was arranged just to test the respective powers of the men.

The arrangements were readily completed for the fight to occur at a stable in South Lawrence, where they would be safe from all annoyance. Both men were in good condition, and ready for the meeting.

The contest occurred, it is alleged, in the barn of David Blair, on South Broadway. The men entered the ring stripped. Light gloves were in use, and the fight was for blood from the start.

The fight lasted for 30 minutes, when Bradley is said to have given his opponent a chance blow on the vein under the right jaw and laid him out on the floor in a heap. Ingram was lying at full length when time was counted and the fight was awarded to Bradley.

Those present rushed to the aid of Ingram and attempted to remove his gloves. He recovered consciousness for a minute and said: "Hold on; what are you doing that for?"

There were the last words he spoke, and almost immediately he relapsed into unconsciousness and died in a short time.

The police of Haverhill were made aware of the fact, and they arrested Arthur Bradley, James Meserve, Thomas Gibney, Fred Whitney and two men named McIntosh and McRae. The police are searching for the other spectators, and a number of arrests are expected. The medical examiner will hold an autopsy.

Late yesterday afternoon Fred Pecker, James Donovan and Frank Meserve surrendered themselves to the police as witnesses to the fight. They were taken to Lawrence.

Horse Show Opened.

BOSTON, April 6.—The first horse show this city has seen since 1890 opened in Mechanics hall this forenoon, and the indications point to the most successful exhibition of equine crack-a-jacks ever held in New England. Over 600 horses of all kinds, from all parts of the country and from Canada, are entered, and special accommodations have been provided outside of the hall for the overflow. The entries include a large number of trotters and runners well known on the track, and a long list of hunters and ponies. The show opened at 10 o'clock, and will continue morning, afternoon and evening. All of the 81 boxes surrounding the ring have been engaged by the leaders of Boston's 400, and the show will be one of the society events of the season.

Knights at Church.

BOSTON, April 6.—Seventeen commanderies, comprising 2500 Knights Templars, marched to Music hall yesterday to participate in Easter services, conducted by Sir Knight George C. Lorimer. A chorus of 400 members of the Christian Endeavor society occupied the platform. Before the sermon, the De Molay commandery, of which Dr. Lorimer is a member, presented him with a magnificent lecturn, done in dull brass. Dr. Lorimer preached from the text, "Life from the dead," after which the knights repeated the Apostles' Creed and the Templars' faith, and after leaving an Easter offering of $758, withdrew to their commanderies.

For Good Roads.

BOSTON, April 6.—President Elliott of the League of American Wheelmen announces that he has secured the promise of the Republican leaders that a "good roads" plank will be offered for insertion in the platform at the coming convention, pledging that party to support in every practical fashion the movement for better roads.

THE VALLEY OF PAIN.

How One Woman Made Her Escape.

A Life of Torture Changed to a Life of Comfort and Happiness by the Discovery of Prof. Crosby.

The life story of Mrs. J. S. Daly will win the deep sympathy of every honest-hearted man and woman. She was interviewed recently in her pleasant home at 584 Putnam Avenue, in Cambridge, Mass., the historic seat of Harvard College. Mrs. Daly is a woman of rich intelligence and deep religious feeling, and her manner is charming. It has been her lot to suffer, and the story of her sufferings is given in her own words, as she told it to the reporter, that it might be carried to others, and be the means of leading them also out of the valley of pain.

"As a girl I was always having hemorrhages, and last November I had a very severe one that left me unable to eat anything, so that I was kept alive for two weeks by injections into the bowels of whites of eggs. God only knows what I suffered.

"I almost beggared myself trying to get relief from doctors in Boston, Newton, Newtonville, Watertown, Salem, Cambridge, and Andover. One after another they told me that I could not be cured. At the hospital where I had an operation performed for tumor, I had the same trouble from hemorrhages.

"The result was that I gave up doctoring, and when the blood came in my mouth I took witch-hazel to stop it. My stomach was swollen, and my bowels could not be moved by ordinary methods.

"This was my condition when, on Christmas day, I began to take Puritana. Almost from the first the Puritana treatment gave me comfort. My digestion became regular and thorough, and I passed from my bowels what seemed to be a rooty growth. My stomach came down to its natural size, so that I have since been able to wear my proper clothing. The terrible pain and distress left me. I sleep well and my appetite is good. The pain which I thought might mean another tumor is also gone. I know that it is wonderful what Puritana has done for me, and my friends who see me at the Christian Alliance Meetings, say that my cure is marvelous. They ask what did it, and I tell them Puritana. I believe it is only common humanity to let people know what pain and suffering can be saved by Prof. Crosby's great discovery, Puritana, and as for me, I bless the day my husband brought Puritana into our home."

It cures from head to foot.

Puritana

Nature's Cure

Puritana differs from all other medicines as day differs from night. It cures disease by naturalizing and vitalizing the Power Producer of the human system. To any man, woman, or child, who will take it as directed, it will practically give

A New Stomach

To make the cure of any disease complete and permanent, the purifying, nourishing, correcting, and building-up process must begin and end in the stomach. It is the power producer of the human system, and by the aid of Puritana will give healthy Blood, healthy Heart, healthy Liver, healthy Kidneys, healthy Lungs, healthy Nerves, healthy Brain, and healthy Skin. Puritana is the prize formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby, of Dartmouth College.

If you are a sufferer, get of your druggist this great disease-conquering discovery (the price is $1 for the complete treatment, consisting of one bottle of Puritana, one bottle of Puritana Pills, and one bottle of Puritana tablets, all inclosed in one package), or write to the undersigned, and you will bless the day when you heard of Puritana. MADE MAN AND WIFE

General Harrison Weds Mrs. Dimmick In the Presence of a Few Friends.

Ceremony Was Remarkably Free From Display.

Bridal Couple Immediately Left New York For Their Indianapolis Home.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Perhaps as simple a wedding as has ever been witnessed within the walls of St. Thomas' church was solemnized shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, when ex-President Benjamin Harrison entered into the holy bonds of wedlock with Mrs. Mary Scott Lord Dimmick. Not one of the 36 favored witnesses of the ceremony could fail to have been impressed with its singular unpretentiousness.

The crowd outside of the church showed the usual interest the public took in this affair. Owing the fact that secrecy as to the exact hour of the ceremony had been carefully kept, and as the weather was not inviting, the crowd was not as large as had been feared.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

At the last moment Mrs. Harrison ordered the decorations of the church to be changed from lilacs to lilies—a cross of lilies, four vases of lilies on the altar, several large palms and a few genesta plants being the only decorations that were used. Mrs. Harrison, in explaining why she changed the order, said that too much publicity had been given to the details of "alleged decorations," and that she decided that her instructions would be fully carried out.

The guests as they arrived at the church were received by E. F. Tibbett, General Harrison's private secretary, and Daniel M. Ramsdell, who was marshal at Washington during General Harrison's administration, and were seated in the front pews of the church. At 5:20, Mrs. John F. Parker, the bride's sister, was escorted to the front pew on the left, by Mr. Ramsdell, and simultaneously Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot were escorted to the front pew on the right by Mr. Tibbett. Governor Morton occupied the pew directly behind Mrs. Parker, and behind him sat Mr. Harrison's friends. In the pews behind Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot sat the bride's relatives and friends.

General Harrison left the Fifth Avenue hotel, accompanied by General Benjamin Tracy, at 5 o'clock, and was driven to Rev. Dr. Brown's house on Fifty-third street. They passed through the house to the vestry, where they awaited the coming of the bridal party. The bride left the home of her sister, Mrs. John F. Parker, 40 East Thirty-eighth street, at 5:10. She was accompanied by her brother-in-law, Lieutenant John F. Parker, who gave her away. They arrived at the church entrance at 5:20 and proceeded to the tower room, where the bridal procession formed in the following order:

MRS. HARRISON.

E. F. Tibbett, Daniel M. Ramsdell, ushers; Mrs. Dimmick and Lieutenant Parker, and proceeded to the chancel, where General Harrison, accompanied by his best man, General Tracy, received his bride. The ushers, standing to one side, faced the altar as the bride and groom stepped forward to the altar rail, where the rector, Dr. Brown, was waiting. Dr. Warren, organist of the church, played the bridal music from Lohengrin, and during the entire ceremony played very softly Mascagni's intermezzo, Cavalleria.

That portion of the matrimonial services known as the marriage service proper, the recital of which lasts only about 15 minutes, was used, and immediately after the blessing was pronounced General and Mrs. Harrison, followed by Mrs. John F. Parker and General Tracy, Mr. Tibbett and Mr. Ramsdell, Lieutenant Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot walked down the aisle to the strains of the Tannhauser march of Wagner, and entering carriages the bridal party were driven to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot, 2 Grammercy park, where light refreshments were served and where the party donned traveling attire for the trip to Indianapolis.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small, but very graceful, woman, rather dark complexion, and of a very bright and attractive appearance, is related to General Harrison through his late wife, who was her aunt. She was born at Princeton, Pa., where most of her younger life was spent, and where she became acquainted with her first husband, Walter E. Dimmick, member of a wealthy Pennsylvania family, but who died within a few months after their marriage.

After the death of her first husband, she lived with her mother and her father, and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Scott, until her mother's death in 1890, when she came to New York city, to live with her sister, Mrs. John F. Parker. She spent considerable time at the White House during General Harrison's administration, and was a great favorite with her aunt, the late Mrs. Harrison.

General Benjamin Harrison was born in North Bend, O., in August, 1833, and is in his 63rd year. He is a grandson of W. H. Harrison, eighth President of the United States. After graduating from a law school in 1853, he was married in Indianapolis to the late Mrs. Harrison. In 1860 he was elected official reporter of the supreme court of Indiana. In 1862 he raised a regiment, the Seventeenth Indiana, went into the field as colonel and served through a number of important engagements with distinction. He was brevet brigadier general before the close of the war.

On his return to Indianapolis at the close of the war he was re-elected official court reporter. One year later he returned to the practice of law, and in 1876, when the regular nominee withdrew shortly before election, the nomination was forced upon General Harrison for the governorship, who was defeated by a narrow majority. In 1880 he was elected to the United States senate from Indianapolis, and served one term, and in 1888 he was elected President of the United States.

Mrs. Dimmick's wedding gown, which was of pearl gray grosgrain and silk, was made by Mme. Benoit-Mathie. The skirt was plain, with a short train falling from the waist in full, soft godets. A Louis XVI coat, opening in front over a full vest of white chiffon, with broad revers, draped with rare, old honiton lace, half a yard in width, extending down each side of the front and draped over the hips, forming a coat effect. The sleeves were long and full, tapering to the arm below the elbow, and ending in a fall of lace at the wrist.

Around the neck there was a plush collar of palest blue velvet, over which was entwined a row of magnificent pearls, fastened with a diamond clasp, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a large bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. The bonnet worn by the bride was a dainty French creation, composed of lace and blue velvet, with a white aigrette, held in place by jewel pins.

The groom wore a well-made Prince Albert coat, worn closely buttoned, with trousers of dark gray, white gloves and a white silk four-in-hand tie. He wore a boutonniere of lilies-of-the-valley.

General Tracy, who was attired in conventional afternoon style, work a buttonhole of lily-of-the-valley and white violets, and the ushers wore white violets.

General and Mrs. Harrison left the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot at 7 o'clock and were driven to the Desbrosses-street ferry, driving directly on board the Pennsylvania ferryboat, which left immediately for the depot, where the bridal couple entered the private car of President Frank Thomson, which was attached to the regular train, leaving for Indianapolis at 7:50. Immediately after the train pulled out, dinner was served on the car.

CROWDED SCHOOLS.

The Lincoln Building Needs Relief at an Early Date.

The report of the Superintendent of Schools to be printed in the City Book of 1895, says: The Lincoln district will demand the attention of the board as soon as the needs of "The Rail" and "The Downs and Park" districts are satisfied and the increased number of pupils this week shows the imperative need now. The 24 pupils entering Monday added to the number (50) who entered in September will make a total of 74 children entering Grade I of the Lincoln school this year. There are 140 pupils at present in first grade of the Lincoln, and 71 pupils in the second grade, making a total of 210 pupils in three rooms, whereas the number in each room should not exceed 48. The sixth grade of the Lincoln is crowded out of the building and quartered in the Adams building, a mile away. Besides this the A and B grammar grades are crowded into one room, whereas they should be separated. This therefore necessitates the taking of one of the two grades into the basement while the other is reciting, a few settees having been placed there for that purpose. The total number of pupils enrolled including the class at the Adams building is 467.

The Willard school is crowded, having four classes more than it should accommodate. Dressing rooms have been taken for two of the classes and the other two are quartered in the attic. It is just 187 more than the building was ever intended to accommodate. The total enrollment of the school Monday was 900 children, of whom 842 were present. This number will be increased some, as new children are admitted all this week. The new school at "the Rail" will relieve the Willard some, but it will still be crowded as it will have to take the overflow from the John Hancock.

Quincy Debating Club.

Though all the meetings of the Debating club are open to the public, ladies and gentlemen are particularly invited to attend the meeting of Thursday, April 9, the last one of the year. After the four principal disputants have spoken, the debate will be thrown open to the house, and anyone, whether a member of the club or not, may take part.

The affirmative of the debate will have to prove three things. (1),—That Quincy should take immediate steps towards constructing a sewerage system; (2),—That there shall be a deep sea outlet at Moon Island; and (3),—That the total cost shall be raised by the assessment, rental, and general tax plan, that is by a plan similar to that adopted by the city of Brockton.

Thus the sewerage question will be treated in its various aspects, and with the two or three maps which will be used by the principals, any one attending the debate should get a good idea of this subject, so important to Quincy and her citizens.

Vertical Writing.

At the teachers' meeting held Monday afternoon the teachers were addressed by J. S. Cooley, of Silver, Burdett & Co., on "vertical writing," the work to be done and how to do it.

This afternoon after the close of school session, Mr. Cooley will instruct the teachers of grades one, two, three and four of all schools, excepting the John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard, and on Wednesday afternoon at the same time he will meet the remaining teachers of the same grade.

COUNCIL ADJOURNS.

In Respect to Councilman Rinn, A Late Member.

A Committee Appointed to Draft Resolutions.

Another Meeting Will be Held Next Monday Evening.

It was a five minute session that the City Council held Monday evening. The absent members were Councilmen Little and Rice.

COUNCILMAN BARKER.

Councilman Barker moved and it was voted to suspend the rules.

COUNCILMAN LAMB.

Councilman Barker then offered an order which was adopted, that a committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Councilman Rinn, and present them at the next meeting of the Council.

Councilman Barker, Lamb and Claflin were appointed.

COUNCILMAN CLAFLIN.

Upon motion of Councilman Barker the Council at 8.40 adjourned for one week.

The Late Councilman Rinn.

The news Monday of the death of Councilman Rinn was received with profound regret, and expressions of sorrow throughout the city. Although but little known personally, outside of his own ward, his reputation as a councilman was well-known and he was looked upon as a fair-minded and conservative legislator, throwing personal feelings aside and always working for the best interests of the city, regardless of what particular ward the order favored.

Many regretted that Councilman Rinn should have felt the necessity of leaving a sick bed to assist in passing the schoolhouse order, but his attending physician says that, while imprudent, his trip did not work any injury to him, as he probably would not have lived, yet it would be fitting mark to his integrity if the school committee should see fit to name one of the new school buildings after him. This was not the only school matter for which he worked.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Faxon road on Wednesday at 2.30 P. M., and will be attended unofficially by a large number of the past and present members of the city government.

NEW POSTMASTER.

Martin F. Burns Nominated for Wollaston.

No Fear Apprehended But He will make a Good Postmaster.

Postmaster Wilde Brought the Office to a High Standard.

The nomination of Mr. Martin F. Burns, as postmaster of Wollaston by the President was announced on Monday afternoon.

This is the second public office which Mr. Burns has held. On February 5, 1894, he was appointed foreman and steward of Hose 2 by Chief Williams. He filled these positions acceptably for a year, retiring from the department at the end of that period. He has for a number of years been prominent in ward politics, having for several years been secretary of the ward committee.

Mr. Burns has been a resident of Wollaston for twenty years. For the past fourteen years he has been in the employ of Boynton & Russell. He is a young man of excellent character and should, and undoubtedly will, make a good postmaster.

Mr. Burns says that he has not as yet decided whether the office will remain in its present quarters. It is generally understood about town that it will not.

The senate will probably confirm the appointments this week.

Postmaster Wilde's friends made a gallant fight for his re-appointment but his sudden sickness thwarted there efforts. Mr. Wilde made a most efficient postmaster. He placed the office upon a substantial business basis, bringing its receipts up to nearly $7,000, per annum. Shortly after (March, 1892,) assuming the duties of postmaster he moved the office from the Gardner building to its present location. The then new office was a model of its kind. It was finished in ash, new boxes were put in, so that today from 365 boxes when Mr. Wilde was appointed, it now has 500 call boxes and 56 lockboxes. It was through his efforts that Wollaston was made a money order office, this having been done within two months after he was appointed; Sunday mails were put on, as well as additional mails to and from Quincy and the South Shore, direct. His retirement is regretted by the business community. "To the victors belongs the spoils."

Dis-

tress in the stomach and other symptoms of dyspepsia demand careful attention to diet and a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla to tone the stomach and other digestive organs, purify the blood and sustain the nerves. Mr. J. W. Gerry, a well-known business man of Hopkinton, Mass., relates his experience.

"I was troubled with indigestion for many months. My food gave me great distress. Physicians prescribed for me, and although they gave me help for a time, they did not cure. I felt and discouraged and could not sleep at night. My friends advised me to give up business, the doctors declaring that I needed a change. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought it might do me good. I am glad to say that I felt the benefit right away, after commencing to take the medicine. Three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured me of indigestion. It also relieved me of costiveness and I have not had any trouble of this nature since. I have taken several bottles of the medicine in the of the year since my first treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla and I have thus kept myself in perfect condition. My wife has also taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with equally good results. I am 60 years old and I feel as well as when I was 30 years of age. I cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. W. GERRY, Cor. Grove and Main Streets, Hopkinton, Mass.

ST. JOHN'S BALL.

A Grand Affair Last Night by C. L. & A. A.

Exquisite Music and a Very Brilliant Party.

The Committees, Guests, Musical Programme and The Menu.

St. John's C. L. and A. A. have held many enjoyable and successful balls, but it will be no disparagement of them to state that the one held Easter Monday evening was as successful from every standpoint as any ever held under the auspices of the society. The gathering was mostly of the younger people, and an attendant of many such occurrences would fail to see the faces that were once so familiar. The cars leaving Quincy at 7 and 7.30 o'clock went freighted, and by 8 30, the hour set for the concert fully two hundred persons were in the hall. The concert which preceded the grand march was as follows, arranged by Mr. F. A. Bates of Bates' orchestra :

Orchestra,—De Molay. Commandery Hill
Quartette,—Annie Laurie. Arranged
Tenor Solo,—How So Fair. From Norma
James F. Woods.
Orchestra,—Thororngbee. Boyd
Duet,—Petrel's Cry. J. C. Gilbert
Bass Solo. Selected
Jere B. Scammon.
Orchestra Carlotta, Millocker
Quartette. Selected
Baritone Solo.
William A. Short.
Tenor Solo, Rip Rap. White
E. W. Spears
Orchestra.

Mr. Thomas Waterson, the organist of the Mission church, Boston, was the accompanist. All the numbers received hearty encores and old favorites could not be given often enough to satisfy the audience, despite the fact that all were anxious for the grand march to begin.

At the completion of the concert the march was started, lead by Mr. George A. Cahill, President of the St. John's C. L. and A. A., and Miss Teresa Cahill, and was participated in by about 125 couple.

For a half hour the marchers delighted the audience with their graceful manœuvreings. At 10 o'clock the first number was taken up and dancing continued until 5 o'clock in the morning, save for the intermission.

W. J. Talbot of Boston was the caterer.

The orchestra was located on the stage behind a bank of lilies and palms from the conservatory of Mr. M. J. Ring of Quincy Point.

Too much cannot be said in praise of Bates' orchestra, for seldom, if ever, has the society been better pleased.

The whole affair was successful artistically and financially, and it is the earnest wish of many that the concert and ball will be held annually hereafter, and that in another year the pleasure of holding them in a large new Quincy hall may be realized. The Braintree Town hall is notwithstanding its disadvantages of location, an admirable hall, complete in all appointments. The Quincy and Boston street railway ran half hour trips beginning at 7 o'clock up to 10 o'clock, and after midnight at the pleasure of the dancers.

The invited guests included Mayor C. F. Adams, 2d, President Bryant of the Council, Supt. of Schools Lull, Mr. Frederic Allison Tupper, Rev. F. A. Frigulietti, Rev. A. F. Roche, Rev. J. P. Cuffe, Rev. F. A. Cunningham, Edward J. Powers, Dr. John H. Ash, Dr. J. M. Sheahan, John W. McAnarney, George Cunningham, James F. Woods, William F. Short, James Mahen, Frank F. Prescott of the LEDGER, F. F. Green of the Advertiser, Timothy J. Collins of the Journal, William M. Marden of the Herald, the representatives of the Braintree papers, John A. Avery, M. C. O. F., John Ross, and the presidents of all Catholic societies in Quincy and surrounding towns.

The order of dances consisted of thirty numbers. The floor was under the direction of George A Cahill, chief marshal; John F. Sullivan, floor director; M. J. O'Hara, M. S. Garrity and T. F. Hogan, assistant floor directors; and these aids: J. O'Donovan, William Kingston, J. M. Cantfill, J. P. Mundy, J. J. Gill, P. J. Duffy, J. C. Faircloth, E. O'Donovan, P. D. Dook, F. Smith, D. Desmond, J. Bradley, J. P. Doherty, G. H. Ferguson, Richard A. Cole, M. J. White, M. J. Hartney, Premo Capiferri, E. H. McGinty, Christopher Ross, M. F. Scammell, John Ford, Thomas Dunn and William Duffy.

The committee of arrangements were: J. P. Mundy, chairman; Thomas J. McGrath, P. J. Duffy, J. P. Doherty and John J. Gill.

Reception committee—George A. Cahill, Richard A. Cole, Thomas J. McGrath, John P. Mundy, John F. Sullivan, John W. Walsh, Daniel J. Ring, P. J. Duffy, Dr. Joseph M. Sheahan, M. T. Sullivan, Timothy J. Carey, J. P. Doherty, John W. McAnarney, James F. Burke, P. W. Driscoll, Martin J. Garrity, William H. Warner.

The Easter ball of '96 was successful, but the society hopes by unremitting labor to insure a continuance of this excellence and if possible to supersede it.

Killed on Railroad.

Chief of Police Hayden received word from the Chief of Police of Waltham on Monday that an unknown man had been killed by the cars Sunday, who it was supposed belonged in Quincy.

The man was described as being about 35 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches tall, light complexion with light moustache. He was well dressed and was apparently a Swede. In his pockets was found a business card of William Wilson on the back of which was written the name of William Gelotte, 11 Nelson street.

Inspector McKay was detailed to investigate the case, and he learned that some weeks ago a Swede answering the description of the man killed, came to his house to board, and being unable to obtain any work in Quincy he decided to look elsewhere. Mr. Gelotte gave him the card found with his name on the back of it for reference.

Mr. Gelotte says that when the fellow left he stole a new suit of clothes which were probably those found upon body.

Mr. Gelotte left for Waltham this morning to identify the body.

Quincy Knights There.

Quincy was well represented by Knights Templar at the Easter service of Tremont Temple, Boston, when 2000 Knights assembled to present the angel lectern to the Temple on behalf of DeMolay commandery.

This lectern, differing from the more conventional eagle lectern so commonly seen, was made in England, and is a beautiful specimen of brass workers' art. It is cast on a marble pedestal, shaped something like the upper portion of a Celtic cross, the whole standing 5 feet 6 inches high. The figure and reading stand are entirely brass. The angel stands on a hemisphere, which is placed on a graduated platform on the marble pedestal. On the hemisphere is this inscription: "To the glory of God. Presented by De Molay commandery, K. T., 1896." The reading stand proper is 34 inches wide, and is of chased work, cast in a beautiful design.

First Church.

There was much life in the parish house of the Unitarian society, yesterday afternoon. Around a bright wood fire in the dining room, the Alliance society and friends listened with great enjoyment to a scholarly, refined paper on the book of Numbers, written and read by Mrs. Grace Canedy Tupper. Mrs. Tupper is an exceptionally good reader, which made her paper one of very high value.

Above in the ladies' parlor, the children were practising their parts for their musical play Thursday evening. The faithful ness of the little ones is noticable, and they take hold well; with their brilliant costumes a success is sure to come.

C. E. Union Officers.

The annual meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union was held at the Wollaston Congregational church on Monday evening. Members were present from the two Wollaston societies, Atlantic, South Braintree, Braintree, Holbrook and Randolph. After the business meeting there was an informal social. These officers were elected:

President,—F. W. Blanchard, Holbrook.
Vice President,—Fred K. Belcher.
Secretary,—Miss Kingsbury, Braintree.
Treasurer,—Miss White, Holbrook.

MILTON.

Henry A. Pope was on Monday nominated by President Cleveland for postmaster at Milton.

The funeral of Mr. Joseph Fox of Canton avenue, who died Sunday, will be held this afternoon.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Swanson was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Peter J. Cody was arraigned for transporting swill through the public streets of Quincy without a license, and was fined $5.

—The Methodist appointments in this vicinity include Rev. W. J. Kelly at East Braintree, Rev. C. H. Walter at South Braintree, Rev. F. W. Coleman at Holbrook, Rev. W. I. Ward at East Weymouth, Rev. R. C. Miller at Nantasket and Scituate, Rev. W. A. Butler at Hull and Rev. J. Thompson at Marshfield.

Granite Manufacturers Not Complaining Much at State of Business.

T. F. Mannex has purchased a large lot of land adjoining his plant on Willard street, and will increase the capacity of his plant.

Alex. Marnock & Co. have received the contract for a large shaft monument of Quincy granite.

Herbert W. Beattie is making the models for two very handsome panels for the Holidaysburg, Penn., Soldiers' monument. One represents Picket's charge, looking from the Union lines, at the right of a clump of trees, showing Sharpsburg road in the distance, from which point the charge was made, and representing a hand-to-hand conflict with the Union forces. The other panel is a marine scene, representing Union sailors landing from a boat and attacking a detachment of Confederates, while in the distance are the Monitor and Kearsarge. The panels will be cast in bronze and the monument is being cut by Balger Bros.

Joss Bros report business as being good, although they are troubled somewhat about getting rough stock. They contemplate the building of new sheds in the immediate future.

McDonnell & Sons are cutting two handsome statues, representing "Faith and Memory" and the "Recording Angel," which are to surmount two monuments, which they are cutting.

Craig & Hector are shipping quite a lot of monuments this month. They are at work upon a good sized shaft memorial of dark Quincy granite, to be surmounted by a large cross handsomely carved and polished.

Swingle & Falconer are sending out some printed matter to their customers showing cuts of some of their work. They report business as rushing.

Elcock & Sons have commenced the shipment of a large tomb to be erected in Greenwood cemetery New York. They are now giving employment to fifty quarrymen.

Swithin Bros. are busy with a large lot of orders for monuments to be erected before Memorial day.

Birnie & Diack have recently received orders for several large memorials to be cut of Quincy granite.

Lewis Dell & Co. report business quiet just at present, but that their sales exceed those of last year.

Fred Barnicoat is modeling three figures for the Holidaysburg, Penn., soldiers' monument, representing the artillery cavalry and color bearer. The two former will be cast in bronze, and that of the color bearer will be of granite and stands 12 feet high.

A. M. Dean & Co. report quite a rush of orders for Memorial day.

FRENCH BALL.

Societe St. Jean Baptiste Have an Enjoyable Party.

The third annual concert and ball of the Societe St. Jean Baptiste was held Monday evening, at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, and an enjoyable affair it proved to be to the large number present.

It was a representative gathering of the French people of Quincy, and besides these there was a large number present from out of town. These included a number of invited guests, among whom were: A. Cappellini, President of the Italian society; Patrick Kelliher, President of St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. B. A.; James O'Dowd, President of Division 4, A. O. H.; Ex-Representative Charles L. Hammond, and Dr. T. J. Dion, physician of the society.

Previous to the march which opened the ball, Hanson's orchestra gave a promenade concert and at 9 o'clock President A. Semon and Miss M. Rogers of Somerville led the grand march and were followed by the floor directors and aids, and some sixty couples. At midnight during a brief intermission Caterer Nash served a tempting menu in the lower hall.

Those in charge of the affair and to whom much of its success is due were :

Floor Director, Charles J. LeClair.

Assistant Floor Director, John Arsenault.

Aids, Napoleon Reed, Edward P. Caron, August Bouleau, Eugene Amet, John Dextra, Mederick Jacques.

Knights of Columbus Visitation.

Monday night was a gala one for the Knights of Columbus of Boston and Quincy. A special train of six cars left Boston at 7.30 for Randolph, where degree work by State Deputy Cavanaugh and suite, was to be exemplified. A stop was made at Quincy, and forty members of the local council boarded. A grand banquet was served in Stetson hall, Randolph, at the close of the work and about 800 knights feasted on the good things provided, as only Vera Cruz council of Randolph can provide. The train left Randolph on the return trip at 2.15 this morning. The price of the tickets was fifty cents for the round trip and the secretary of Quincy council would much like to return a perhaps treasured pocket piece or family heirloom an English penny, to the absentminded and careless knight who gave it in lieu of one of Uncle Sam's good half dollars.

Second Anniversary.

Merry Mount Lodge, No. 55, I. O. G. T., celebrated its second anniversary at Doble's hall, Thursday evening, April 2. There were visitors from Boston, Wollaston, Cohasset, Hingham and Scituate. The evening's entertainment, during which refreshments were served, consisted of instrumental and vocal selections, readings and remarks by the representatives of the different lodges, and the following well known speakers : Chief Councillor Hathaway of Brockton, Mr. Alexander and Alex Craig of Quincy, and Mr. John R. Anderson of Wollaston, the Scotch lecturer gave one of his stirring five-minute speeches.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

—The way Bayard is promoting love between the United States and Great Britian is not inaptly described by a New York paper. "He intends to go right on with his great work," says this observer, "alternately eulogizing England and English institutions when in the presence of American citizens, and showing up American weaknesses in the presence of British audiences."—Lynn Item.

—It is reported that a Western man has succeeded in procuring alcohol from beets, but the statement is doubted. Here in the East, says the Athol Chronicle, there has been no trouble in convincing people that beats have been made from alcohol.

"Oh, the old home ain't what it used to be."

This is the seatiment of hundreds in this city. And they don't know why. They sit down after a hard day's work and try to read a paper or a favorite book in their cosy homes. But they read but a few minutes when they feel sleepy, their eyes smart, or they grow irritable and feel in their hearts that nothing seems as it used to.

Hundreds have so expressed themselves to us. We have fitted them with glasses, and life is no longer a burden; home is really home once more, and they are happy. It will cost you nothing for consultation and getting your eyes tested by a competent optician.

—Abraham Lincoln was undoubtedly the tallest President; he was six feet four inches in height. The shortest was probably Benjamin Harrison, although Van Buren and John Adams were very short men. The oldest President was William Henry Harrison, who was sixty-eight years and one month old when inaugurated; the youngest was Grant, who was not quite forty-seven years old.

A FALL RIVER MYSTERY

Mill Watchman Found Lying Unconscious In a Barn.

Indications That He Was a Victim of Assault.

Inspectors Working on a Case Which May Prove to Be a Murder.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 7.—A probable fatality, somewhat clouded with mystery, was reported to the police yesterday afternoon. John Francoeur, employed as day watchman at the Chace mill, left his home on Rodman street Saturday afternoon and went to Jeremiah Sullivan's liquor store to pay the rent for his tenement. He paid Sullivan $1.75, took a glass of ale and left the place.

About 4:30 that afternoon his wife saw him going into the corporation barn. He did not come to supper, and shortly after 10 o'clock Mrs. Francoeur went to the barn and found her husband lying on the floor. She tried to rouse him, but he mumbled something to the effect that he was all right and wished to be left alone.

Thinking he was intoxicated, she covered him with horse blankets and left him until early Monday morning, when she returned to the barn with her son and a neighbor.

They found the blood stains all over the floor, and blood was oozing from Francoeur's right ear and nostril. He Could Not Be Aroused.

He was taken home, and Dr. Trudeau was summoned, but he did not seem able to comprehend the full extent of Francoeur's injuries. Dr. Gordon was summoned, and he notified the police of the circumstances, which to him indicated foul play.

Behind Francoeur's right ear the skull was bruised and probably fractured. His ear and nostrils gave evidence of the man having sustained some severe blow, possibly from a blunt instrument. Inspectors Perron and Feeney spent all the afternoon on the case.

Mrs. Francoeur said she saw three men go from the barn about 6 o'clock, and her son also says he saw these men. When Francoeur left home he had $11.75 in his pocket, and when he was brought home he had only 65 cents.

The mill authorities say he was thrifty and peaceful, and never drank to excess, so far as they know. The physicians believe his chances for recovery are hopeless. He has been in the employ of the Chace mill about eight years.

ON BEACON HILL.

House Records a Vote Against a Bill For an Eight-Hour Day.

BOSTON, April 7.—In the senate the committee on metropolitan affairs reported a bill for a single legislative body in the Boston city council, to consist of 27 able and discreet persons, each to receive a salary of $3000.

The senate procrastinated postponing on no less than a dozen measures.

In the house a bill providing that nine hours shall constitute a day's work in manufacturing and mercantile establishments the first year after its passage, and eight hours each year thereafter, the act to take effect when similar acts are passed by a majority of the states of the Union, which states shall contain at least two-thirds of the population of the United States, was rejected by a large majority.

The house passed a bill providing for the liberation of children confined in the Boston Parental home by the commissioners of public institutions, acting in co-operation with the superintendent of schools and a justice of the court imposing sentence.

A bill to prohibit any elevator being operated by a person of less than 18 years was rejected—49 to 38.

The house passed the senate bill providing that the act of 1895 abolishing the architect department of the city of Boston shall not affect the powers of the school committee conferred by the act of the same year, authorizing the committee to erect certain schoolhouses in Boston.

The house resolve for a revision of the public statutes was passed, as was the house bill authorizing the city council of Boston to establish high building limits.

The house bill authorizing Boston and Cambridge to construct a bridge over the Charles river was passed.

Lowell's Church Row.

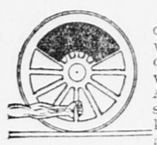

LOWELL, Mass., April 7.—At the annual meeting of the First Congregational society last night the admission of new members to the society was the bone of contention, and the control of power between the lessees of the church, who are opponents of the pastor, and the friends of Rev. Mr. Kenngott, never left the lessees, who maintained it at a majority of one. The article of the meeting warrant bore 200 names, but finally the anti-Kenngotts referred the list to a committee to report at the next annual meeting. The Kenngott party retired, while the anti-Kenngotts elected a full board of officers. The trouble in the parish is not yet ended, although the lessees have a working majority.

Held on Two Charges.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 7.—Two charges were brought against Arthur Bradley of Haverhill in the police court yesterday. One was manslaughter, causing the death of Richard Ingram, and the other was prize fighting. Ten other persons were arraigned, charged with being present at the fight between Bradley and Ingram in a stable at South Lawrence Saturday night. Bradley was held to await the action of the grand jury, bail on the manslaughter charge being fixed at $2500, and for prize fighting at $2000. The others were bound over in $1000 each. In the autopsy on the body of Ingram, a decision was rendered that Ingram came to his death by violence, caused by a knock-out blow.

The Katahdin at Sea.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 7.—The ram Katahdin is having a 12-hour run at sea, one hour under natural draught, the remaining time to be devoted to a test under full power. The start was made at 6 o'clock this morning, and the run will last until 6 p. m. The run is made to test the machinery and for the purpose of ascertaining if there are any defects in construction. After this trial is over a four-hour speed trial will be made some day this week. The crew will then be drilled in the various maneuvers necessary in action. They will be put through the fire drill and that of abandoning ship in case of the vessel foundering.

Did you ever wonder what that heavy weight on one side of a locomotive-wheel was there for? Anyone who understands mechanics knows the need of a counter-balance to equalize power and keep the machinery going with a steady even motion. Without it the machinery would wrench itself out of shape. It is the same way with the machinery of the human-body: it needs to go on steadily and regularly to be in good health—not by fits and starts. The sudden wrenching medicines which people sometimes take to overcome constipation, give a violent strain to the intestines which weakens them, so that the costiveness is afterwards worse than before.

What costive people need is a natural laxative like Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets which are powerful without being violent. They move the bowels gradually and comfortably but surely. You can regulate the dose—one, two or three "Pellets"—exactly as you need. They strengthen the intestines to do their own work, so that after their movements have become regular they keep on naturally of themselves.

The "Pleasant Pellets" gently stimulate and invigorate the liver to throw off biliousness; and tone up the stomach to secrete the digestive juices, and overcome dyspepsia. The entire digestive, or alimentary, tract is put in motion in the regular steady way of nature and health. This is what makes the "Pleasant Pellets" so immensely superior to the numerous purging pills which wrench and weaken the system. Druggists may get more profit out of those other pills but you don't.

The "Pleasant Pellets" are tiny sugar-coated granules—40 or more in a little one-inch vial tightly corked, hence, always fresh and reliable.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Finest Yet.

BOSTON, April 7.—That society had set its stamp of approval upon the horse show was evident from the advance sale of boxes, which settled beyond doubt that the show would be a social success, while from a purely horse point of view it will easily eclipse anything of the kind ever held in this vicinity. Leading horsemen from all parts of the country have taken a lively interest in the show, and the promoters responded liberally by arranging 94 classes, including the special prize classes, and premiums, not including the special, amounting to $11,295. There are 620 horses on the entry list. Dr. G. S. Gagnon's stables, New York, were among the largest prize winners of yesterday, while there were also prize winners from the Village Farm stud of C. J. & Harry Hamlin of Buffalo. Among the first-night patrons were representatives from New York and Philadelphia.

Murder In Connecticut.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., April 7. — Angelo Aborn, a farmer living on the Crystal Lake road, eight miles from here, was murdered yesterday and his body left by the roadside. John Hunter, a brother-in-law of the dead man, is charged with the crime. William C. Bowler, a resident of Crystal Lake, who was driving to Tolland, found Aborn's body on the side of the road near Hunter's house. Mrs. Hunter, a sister of Aborn, says that her husband became angered at the remarks of her brother and fired both barrels of a gun at close range. Aborn fell, but she was too greatly frightened to notify the nearest resident, who lived considerable distance away. After the tragedy Hunter left the farm, and was later arrested near Tolland.

And He Showed the Hat.

KANSAS CITY, April 7.—Mayor Davis reported to the police last night that an attempt had been made to assassinate him in a dark street, a short distance from his residence. An unknown man came upon him, he says, calling him an "A. P. A.," and applying a vile epithet, fired at him at short range. The bullet passed through his hat. Mayor Davis reports that his assailant ran down an alley, and that he fired three shots at the man as he fled, none of which took effect. A short time afterward Mayor Davis appeared at a Republican mass meeting and exhibited the torn hat.

Three City Elections.

HARTFORD, April 7. — City and town elections were held in Hartford, Bridgeport and Stamford yesterday. The contest in Hartford was a keen one, the Democrats succeeding in redeeming the mayoralty. In Bridgeport the electors did not choose a mayor. The Republicans won almost everything in Stamford, E. L. Scofield being elected mayor. Miles R. Preston was elected mayor of Hartford over Alexander Harbison, president of the McKinley club. The Republicans captured most of the other offices, except that of city collector. The Republicans have a majority of the aldermen elected.

Sixty-Five Writs Entered.

PROVIDENCE, April 7.—District Attorney Gorman has filed papers setting forth the cause of seizure of the plant of the Vermont Manufacturing company. He charged that in certain instances the company neglected to securely fix the proper label to packages of oleomargarine, and that they did not keep their books as required by law. He enters 65 writs against the company; 54 for alleged violation of the label provisions and 11 for failure in regard to the books.

A Sturdy Centenarian.

GREENFIELD, Mass., April 7.—Timothy McDonald yesterday celebrated his 100th birthday. McDonald was born in county Cork, Ire. He signed the pledge in Cork while Father Mathew was holding services in that city. He remembers well the great excitement caused by the battle of Waterloo. He is still in possession of his bodily and mental faculties, and does not look over 70.

A Generous Gift.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., April 7.—Mayor Houghton, at the council meeting last night, presented the property known as the Blackinton estate to the city for a public library. The gift is a memorial to his late brother, A. J. Houghton, a well-known Boston business man, and is one of the most desirable residences in the city, valued at $100,000.

Got Nearly $1000.

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., April 7.—The five robbers who visited the Whitinsville bank Saturday secured nearly $1000, instead of only $100, as was stated. Beauregard, the watchman, who was gagged and bound by the robbers, has resigned. Someone familiar with Whitinsville is thought to have assisted the robbers.

Hebrews on Strike.

BOSTON, April 7.—One hundred Hebrew painters and decorators struck here yesterday for an increase of wages to 30 cents an hour. The "bosses" refused a conference, and a general strike may be ordered.

New England Briefs.

Joseph Burton, an aged resident of Dedham, Me., committed suicide by taking a dose of strychnine.

Alfred F. Trumbull was probably fatally injured by being run over by a wagon at Lawrence, Mass.

Schooner Telegraph of Thomaston, Me., put into Boston with her cargo of lime afire. The vessel has been sealed.

In Calais, Me., George A. Murchie was re-elected mayor for the fifth term, and seven Republican aldermen were chosen.

The largest anchor ever made at Alden's anchor works in Camden, Me., was shipped yesterday to New York. It weighs 7900 pounds.

At the Concord (Mass.) town meeting a committee of five were appointed to make arrangements for the erection of a statue of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

At the Ellsworth (Me.) city election, Henry E. Davis, the Citizens' candidate for mayor, was defeated by Robert Gerry, the Populist candidate—545 to 539.

The young woman who committed suicide at the Central hotel, Providence, is still unidentified. Money found in her effects will be used to purchase a casket and a lot in the cemetery.

A freight wreck occurred on the Consolidated road at Green's Farm, Conn. An axle of a freight car broke, and five cars were piled up in a heap. No one was injured. The loss is about $3000.

Caustic Comment.

LONDON, April 7.—The Daily News says in an editorial: The Cuban resolution of the United States congress will probably rest where it is forever. It is a good thing that it is passed, because this gets it out of the way of the fire-eaters on either side of the Atlantic and secures for it the privacy of the archives of the state department."

Order of Pente Goes Under.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—The Order of Pente, a beneficial organization which agreed to pay its members certain amounts while they were sick and a large sum at the expiration of seven years, has been forced to the wall. An assignment for the benefit of creditors was filed yesterday. The order was once in a flourishing condition, and had a great many members in the city and state.

Lynching In Prospect.

MCLEANSBORO, Ills., April 7.—Fred Bemer, living near this city, killed his wife and 2-year-old child yesterday. The woman was cut and mangled in a horrible manner, and her body thrown out and covered with cornstalks and an old carpet. The little boy was hanged by the neck to a rafter. An angry mob are in pursuit of Bemer, and a lynching is not improbable.

Patriots Have Their Full Share of Sympathizers.

Should Be Granted Recognition if Careful Investigation Warrants It.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Representative McCreary (Ky.), who was chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the house in the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses, speaking as to the probable action of the president on the Cuban resolutions, said:

"Mr. Cleveland throughout his political career has shown a disposition to investigate for himself all important public questions. While I have no doubt that he will show great respect for the expression of the senate and the house in favor of the recognition of the Cuban insurgents as belligerents—after all that was simply an expression—it is true by an overwhelming majority of the representatives of the people — action and responsibility are for him. I have no doubt that he has put himself in a position to secure accurate information as to the true condition of affairs. He has ample means at his disposal for such an investigation, and that such an investigation will be made or is now in progress I entertain no sort of doubt. Upon its result, taken in connection with the expressed opinion of congress, he will act."

Asked as to whether he believed that Mr. Cleveland had sent an agent to Cuba, Mr. McCreary declined to commit himself. When shown a report to this effect, he said: "That may be simply a guess, as no authority is given, and such a mission would of course be secret."

Mr. Dingley, the chairman of the house committee on ways and means, said: "The president ought to inform himself of the exact situation of affairs in Cuba, if he has not already done so. Congress has not acted on official information. Its action has been based largely on newspaper reports and upon the natural sympathy which we, as Americans, have for a people struggling for independence."

Mr. Hitt, the chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, said: "The president's patriotism, about which there is no question, would certainly dictate acquiescence in the expressed wishes of congress on the subject of Cuba, and all good Americans would look with favor upon an approving message from the chief magistrate. I know from most reliable sources that the members of his cabinet will certainly advise him to pursue such a course."

Senator Sherman, chairman of the committee on foreign relations: "Congress has done its duty in passing the concurrent Cuban resolutions. The president will have to determine his own policy. Congress might have passed a joint resolution granting belligerent rights to the Cuban insurgents, but it was not deemed expedient to thus force the president to action."

Senator Stewart (Pop., Nev.) said: "Mr. Cleveland ought to take some action looking toward the recognition of the Cubans. If he does not, a joint resolution will be passed, if the money powers do not defeat it. Spain has the whole island heavily mortgaged to the Rothschilds, and in order to protect themselves these bankers will use every possible means to prevent recognition."

Senator Gray (Dem., Del.) said: "I believe that the president will do his duty with the caution and circumspection required by the high responsibility resting upon him. The opinion of congress, while it may stimulate him to effort, to inform himself as to the exact situation, cannot relieve him of the responsibility that rests upon him in discharging a duty which belongs to the executive alone. I hope that he may find reasons to justify him in recognizing the belligerency of the revolution of Cuba."

Coudert's Opinion.

Frederick R. Coudert, Venezuelan commissioner, diplomatist and friend of the president, is quoted as follows on the recognition of Cuba:

"I am free to say that I cannot see any good which can accrue to us from belligerency. I allude to the first of the two resolutions, which declares a condition of public war and recognizes Cuba as a belligerent power, entitled to all the rights in our ports and territory.

"Under previous conditions, if the property of every American citizen in the course of the disturbances was injured, we had the power, under international law, to demand satisfaction from the Spanish government. Our ships, our commerce, all that belonged to us, were fully protected; and this was shown when the Spanish government fired upon two of our boats by mistake and instantly apologized.

"But by the resolutions of congress we are no longer protected in that way. We recognize Spain and Cuba as belligerents, and under international law the property and the lives of American citizens may be sacrificed and we cannot interfere. An American citizen may be seized and thrown into prison, but we cannot protect him. It is open to the Spanish government to seize our ships and overhaul them for contraband of war.

"Thus we must either deliver American lives and property over to the mercy of Spain, or we must stultify ourselves and go back on these resolutions. The resolutions may certainly benefit Cuba, but they are of no value to us."

'IDOLS SELDOM WIN."

Harrison or Allison Will Get Nomination, According to Colonel Swords.

McKinleyites at Washington Get Comforting News.

New York World Predicts Cleveland's Nomination by the Democrats.

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—Colonel H. L. Swords, sergeant-at-arms of the Republican national convention, seems to be certain of Mr. McKinley's defeat at the convention, but is not sure of Mr. Allison's nomination.

"The real fight will be between Allison and Harrison, I think," he said. "McKinley will go into the convention with about 125 less than a majority, and he will be strongest at the start. He is a popular idol, but popular idols seldom win.

"At the Republican convention 20 years ago I felt certain that Blaine, a popular idol, would be the nominee. He was stronger apparently just before the convention than McKinley is now. The winner this time will be either Harrison or Allison."

CLEVELAND AGAIN.

New York World Invites Discussion of an Interesting Question.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The World prints a double-leaded editorial today, in which it asks whether the logic of the political situation that has led the Republican masses to support McKinley will not compel the nomination of Cleveland by the Democrats. The paper says:

The World does not assert that this is so. It raises the question. It invites discussion of it. So far as The Word is concerned in this matter, it is entirely impartial, judicial and impersonal. It has no special partiality for Mr. Cleveland personally, as he will probably admit. It has nothing to take back. But the question is not of the past. It is a question of the future.

Upon the issues of the present and future, not of the past, The World is just as free and sincere in suggesting that Mr Cleveland seems to be the only logical candidate as it has been fearless and faithful in admiration and criticism whenever it has believed him to be wrong.

It is idle and might prove very unwise to ignore the fact that there is a deep-seated and widely prevalent prejudice among our people against any third terms for any president. But it is still a question whether any unfounded fear and prejudice can weigh at last against the force of events and the logic of circumstances.

Comfort For McKinley.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Yesterday was a McKinley day in Washington. A telegram was passed about the house from Mayor Todd of Louisville, saying that McKinley had clearly carried the primaries there, and that the delegates-at-large would support him instead of favorite son Bradley.

Congressman Robinson of Pennsylvania, one of Quay's lieutenants, said that he believed that eight delegates-at-large from that state would go for McKinley, and that Quay would yet lead the delegation at St. Louis for the Ohio man.

Senator Teller, the leader of the silver Republicans who held up the Dingley tariff bill, says McKinley's nomination is a foregone conclusion, but he adds that even McKinley cannot carry Colorado. Two things the west will not endure, according to Mr. Teller, are gold platforms and straddling platforms; they must have a straightout silver platform and candidate to match.

A. P. A. Winning.

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—City election returns are coming in very slowly, but it is conceded that the Republicans' A. P. A. ticket has been elected. Returns have been received from 52 out of the 83 precincts, and these give Jones, the Republican and A. P. A. candidate, a plurality of 808. Jones is not running ahead of his ticket. It is estimated that the complete returns will show the election of the entire Republican ticket by about 1000 plurality.

Utah's Delegates.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 8.—The Republican state convention have elected Frank J. Cannon, Arthur Brown, C. Allen, Isaac Trumbo, W. R. McCormick and Thomas Kearns as delegates to the St. Louis convention. Chairman Thomas made an eloquent speech in the interest of Republican principles, and closed with a strong appeal for protection and bimetallism for the best interests of the party and country. The platform is confined almost entirely to protection and bimetallism.

But One Choice.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 8.—The Webster faction Republican convention here was overwhelmingly for McKinley, and the four delegates-at-large were instructed to vote for him first, last and all the time. The delegates are Robert Small and H. D. Crum, colored, and T. B. Johnson and E. A. Webster, white.

A Russell District.

BOSTON, April 8.—The Democratic ward caucuses last night elected delegates with hardly a sign of a struggle. The delegates generally were elected unpledged, and the few instructions given were in endorsement of William E. Russell for president. The state delegates received no instructions.

NEW YORK, April 8. — Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army appeared at the county courthouse yesterday to take out his naturalization papers. "Oh, the old home ain't what it used to be."

This is the sentiment of hundreds in this city. And they don't know why. They sit down after a hard day's work and try to read a paper or a favorite book in their cosy homes. But they read but a few minutes when they feel sleepy, their eyes smart, or they grow irritable and feel in their hearts that nothing seems as it used to.

Hundreds have so expressed themselves to us. We have fitted them with glasses, and life is no longer a burden; home is really home once more, and they are happy. It will cost you nothing for consultation and getting your eyes tested by a competent optician.

THE FIRE at Montclair on Sunday afternoon is another argument in favor of central station on Hancock street, mid-way between Wollaston and Atlantic. If a stream could have been quickly put on this fire it would have been extinguished with but slight damage. It looks as if the building of this fire station would be deferred until a disastrous fire emphasized its need, when, like the proverbial shutting of the barn door after the horse had been stolen, it would be built.

South Quincy Literary Club.

Friday evening, April 3, Dr. R. McLennan lectured to the South Quincy Literary club, on, "The superiority of Christianity over other systems of religion." Christianity differs from others in that it recognizes but one supreme power to whom man is responsible, this power through arbitrary and immutible still leaves man in a state of freedom, places no restrictions on will or action, nor seeks invariable obedience to forms and rites. Untrammeled by prescribed formalities the Christians range of action is limited only by his own capacity of doing what seems best. This liberty Dr. McLennan held was essential to progress, all other systems were restrictive and binding in comparison.

HAMMOND VS. ADAMS.

Not for the Mayoralty but in the Congressional Field.

The Globe Tells of the Efforts of Quartette to Square Themselves.

Insist However That There Was a Gathering as Stated.

It has already been noted that Mayor Adams of Quincy is being boomed for the Democratic nomination in the Tenth Congressional district, and now the Globe says ex-Representative Hammond seeks the Republican nomination. This last bit of information is brought out in connection with the alleged meeting in the Tenth district where the State Committee was criticised but which Messrs. Charles L. Hammond, Osgood C. Blaney, Benjamin M. Crane, and William G. Ball deny.

The Globe attempts to tell the motives of the above quartette in their efforts to "square" themselves. It says: "Charles L. Hammond, lives in Quincy, and although defeated for mayor last fall he expected to get the nomination this fall, but within 24 hours it has transpired that he has his eye on the Tenth district congressional nomination, under the impression that Congressman Atwood will not stand any show of renomination. Consequently he wants the good will of the state committee."

Concerning the first story of the Globe the quartette in an open letter say:

"A few days ago a Boston paper printed an alleged account of meeting of Republicans of the Tenth Congressional district, in which it is claimed that these men had come together for the purpose of declaring war upon the Republican State committee and to make arrangements for nominating a candidate for Congress this fall. With the usual accuracy of the paper in question, it printed an account of something that never took place.

"As a bit of humor, the article was a success. As a statement of fact it was false from beginning to end. No such meeting has been held, no such action taken, and no such feeling exists in any part of that district toward the state committee. From first to last the article was a work of imagination, with not a shred of fact for a foundation.

"The whole thing would be too ridiculous to answer or to notice were it not for the fact that an unanswered falsehood is sometimes taken by some people as meaning that silence gives consent. Inasmuch as our names were used in this connection, we deem it our duty to make this statement, that no mistaken idea may exist in the public mind."

Commenting further, the Globe says: "Although there may have been humor in the article, as they say, the most humorous part is yet to be told. This humor lies in the fact that each one of the four wants something, it is claimed, which he is afraid he cannot get if the state committee does not favor him. This is the reason assigned why they do not want the state committee to be "agin" them."

The Globe claims to have found two men to supports its report that a meeting was held last week Thursday where remarks were made criticising the State Committee for alleged interference in the Tenth Congressional district.

Steam Engineering.

The engineers and janitors in charge of steam heating plants will welcome the announcement that the Young Men's Christian Association has decided to give a special course of instruction for those who desire to prepare themselves for the examination necessary under the new state law. Many engineers have already registered and other names can be left at the Association rooms. The course will be given by one of the instructors of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

New Bicycle Club.

The Young Men's Christian Asssociation will take the first steps this evening towards the organization of a cycle club. The Association has arranged accommodations for its members who ride a wheel, by placing a track from the street door to large rooms in the rear of the second floor, so that wheels can easily be taken up stairs. Stalls have been placed in the room for the wheels.

It has been suggested that the Association arrange to have an auxiliary membership for all riders in the city, for the mutual benefit of cycle riders.

COUNCILMAN SPRAGUE.

A Colleague Believes He Merits Approbation for Extraordinary Zeal.

MR. EDITOR:—I greatly regretted the reflections made upon the action of Councilman Sprague a short time since; for urging the adoption of the plans of Messrs. Bacon & Wright.

As a member of the Building Committee I was in position to know and appreciate the earnest and sincere effort that he made to have the very best obtained for the city. From first to last everything that he said and did seemed to me to be inspired by a desire to deal justly with the architects and to obtain the most for the money to be expended.

Of course, if a man accepts a public office, he may expect that his conduct frequently and inevitably, will disappoint and chagrin others who do not see things from his point of view, but I suppose it is never out of place to ask that a large toleration be exercised toward public servants.

As to the wisdom of his course, I do not propose to raise any question, I wish simply to place myself on record as declaring my belief, that he gave a great deal of time and endeavor to the right solution of the problem before the City Council.

That a large majority of the Council differed from him as to the respective merits, of the plans submitted, is certainly true, but it is equally true that he put himself into the work before his committee with extraordinary zeal, and it is my opinion merits the approbation of his fellow citizens for so doing.

The larger the number of our citizens of the calibre and earnestness of Councilman Sprague, the better for the good old city of Quincy.

In sending you this belated communication I rely upon your generosity to give it a place in your valuable columns.

The unknown man killed by the cars at Waltham of which mention was made in Tuesday's LEDGER, proved to be, as was supposed, the man who had recently boarded with Mr. Gellote on Nelson street. Mr. Gellote readily recognized the man as the one who boarded with him, as well as the clothing, which was the suit stolen when the man left Quincy. His name is supposed to be Charles J. Anderson.

$10,000 THIS YEAR.

And More Expected from Government for Town River Dredging Next Year.

CONGRESSMAN ATWOOD.

As noted in the LEDGER Tuesday the United States government will expend $10,000 in Quincy. A telegram from Congressman Atwood states that he had succeeded in getting the amount for improvements to Town river increased to $10,000.

The bill as reported contained an appropriation of but $5,000 for Town river. It was, however, ascertained that there was still about $40,000 unapportioned and Congressman Atwood, at the suggestion of Charles L. Hammond, the chairman of the Republican City Committee set about to get a part of that $40,000. Other Congressmen did the same thing for their districts but such a good fight did Congressman Atwood make that he succeeded in getting the original appropriation doubled, the amount now being, as stated above, $10,000.

This sum will make quite a showing, but it is understood that engineers recommended that $40,000 be expended on Town river and additional improvements will be made from time to time as appropriations are made.

The survey made under the direction of Lieut. Col. S. M. Mansfield of the corps of U. S. Engineers, in 1890, a map of which is posted in the Quincy Post office, shows that the government contemplates dredging a channel 100 feet in width and a half a mile in length, commencing at a point opposite the Ward Two playground, by the Edwards and Johnson wharfs, to the old stone yard wharf near property recently acquired by Frank S. Patch.

That the dredging of this channel will be of great benefit to Quincy is very apparent to all who are in any way familiar with the river, as it will enable large vessels to come up to the wharves that have been idle so long on account of the want of this channel.

Good for Congressman Atwood and Mr. Hammond.

Miss Catherine C. McPherson.

The associates at school, in church work and in the many other activities of useful life will long lament the death of Miss Catherine C. McPherson, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McPherson of Wollaston, at Deering, Maine, Tuesday, in her eighteenth year. This estimable young girl was a student at the Woodard Institute, a member of the junior choir of St. John's church, and a regular attendant of the Sunday School, and a member of the girls' sodality. Every undertaking could and did command her help, and her ready willingness stimulated and commanded all. She did not enjoy the blessing of robust health, but her aims and ambition led her to undertake duties that would have deterred much stronger people. She was a diligent student and esteemed by her teachers and loved by her fellow-students. The funeral will take place from St. John's church, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. McPherson have the sympathy of all in their loss.

If strength is what you want, you should study what causes your weakness.
It is practically lack of food.
But you eat three meals a day, and all you can eat at a time.
Yes, but do you digest it?
Food undigested, is not food. It is not nourishment.
It doesn't create strength.
To digest your food take Shaker Digestive Cordial at meals. After a while you will digest your food without it. Then you will get well, and strong and healthy.
Shaker Digestive Cordial cures indigestion and all its symptoms, such as nausea, headache, eructations, pain in the stomach, giddiness, loss of appetite, etc. It makes your food nourish you, and make you strong and fat and hearty.
Druggists sell it. Trial bottle 10 cents.

Women and Work in Quincy.

The latest fad here is the aigrette, feathers, and household economics; the latter of which encroaches on man's ground as it goes up in ventilation: down in sewerage and sewage; and all around the house in matters of cleanliness, economy and sanitary science. The wise movement against feather ornaments will touch man's cupidity.

Touching the work man does in capturing feathers to adorn his squaw, may lead to action or sentiment against killing timid animals for fun or exercise. Meantime fine work is being done in studying most abstruse problems that effect the future, by even very young women. One of the best bits of work this winter in the intellectual line among women, was done by a delicate young lady just past twenty. Before we know it the legislature will be left behind, and the ballot will be in the hands of women.

THE KATAHDIN'S TRIAL.

Ammen Ram Puts In Twelve Hours on Long Island Sound.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 8.—The Ammen ram Katahdin returned at 6:30 o'clock last evening from her 12-hour trial trip at sea. The machinery of the vessel worked perfectly, and the members of the trial board finished their day's work well satisfied that the builders had fulfilled their contract as far as good workmanship and material were concerned. The board will recommend a few minor improvements, but these will not be due to any fault of the builders.

The 12-hour run was ordered by the naval department for the purpose of testing the hull, equipments, etc. Particular attention was paid to the machinery, as there was some doubt whether or not it could stand the strain at first of a run of 12 consecutive hours. The machinery was run at full speed for over an hour under natural draught, and stood the test to the satisfaction of all.

The Katahdin left the harbor at 6:30 in the morning. The vessel proceeded to Montauk Point under natural draught at the rate of 12 or 13 knots. The weather was not altogether favorable, as a strong head wind and rough sea were encountered. After the boat reached Montauk Point she proceeded to sea on a south by southeasterly course.

The machinery was started at full speed at 10 o'clock and kept up for 1½ hours. The engines made from 114 to 116 revolutions a minute, the boilers carrying 150 pounds of steam. During this time the average speed was 13 knots an hour. As the ram proceeded to sea, the head winds and rough sea increased, making it very unpleasant for those on the bridge.

The vessel put about when about 45 miles southeast of Montauk Point and began the homeward run. On the way back the boat was all awash, the sea breaking over her continuously and making it impossible for anyone to stay on deck. Those on the bridge were wet through. A slight snowsquall was also encountered.

Just before the vessel came abreast of Montauk Point again, four rapid-firing six-pound guns were brought into play. Each gun was fired to ascertain whether the carriages were in proper shape. Conical shots were fired, and carried a distance of three miles. When they struck the water a great splash followed, which could be plainly seen with glasses from the Katahdin.

The return run was made without forcing the engines, the revolutions ranging from 106 to 108 a minute. The speed was from 11 to 12 knots. The vessel reached Race Point three-quarters of an hour ahead of time, and the course was changed to west, a run being made toward Saybrook to get the ranges for the speed trial, which will probably take place on Thursday.

Some little trouble was experienced with leakage about the decks. The hatches were not altogether water-tight, and hatchhouses will probably be placed in position. There was also a slight leakage between the armor plates. The board will probably recommend that the vessel be kept in commission in order to insure the machinery being kept in order.

The speed trial will be over a 36-mile course, from Saybrook Point to the westward, and will probably be held Thursday. The men on board will spend today in making ready for the trial.

Sample of Spanish Courtesy.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—A thrilling story of shipwreck and a narrow escape from the Spaniards patroling the south coast of Cuba was told yesterday by Mate Adams of the British bark Earnscliffe, which was recently totally wrecked on the small island known as Cape De Cruse, which lies to the southeast of Cuba. Mate Adams, with other members of the crew, arrived here from St. Jago, on board the steamship Earnwood. After the wreck occurred, and when suffering intensely, they were hailed at 1 o'clock on the morning of March 22 by a Spanish man-of war. Adams could not get her name, but she came alongside, and officers came into the boat and searched her from stem to stern. All protested that they were only shipwrecked seamen, but the Spaniards never offered to take them on board. They were set adrift, and more dead than alive they reached Manzanilla the following day.

Fire and Dynamite.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., April 8.—In the little township of Curtin, about 12 miles from here, bad feeling was aroused about two years ago over the selection of a site for the schoolhouse. One faction was still dissatisfied, and before dawn yesterday morning about 20 men and boys set the building on fire. The other faction tried to quench the flames. The incendiaries were hiding in the woods, and while some of their enemies were in the burning building they threw dynamite on the roof. The building was completely demolished, and those inside narrowly escaped with their lives. The two factions then engaged in a pitched battle in the darkness, and some of the parties were badly hurt.

Still Winning.

ATHENS, April 8.—Yesterday was the second day of the Olympic games. The crowd that witnessed the events was enormous. The Americans won more honors. T. P. Curtis of Boston won his heat in the hurdle race. Ellery H. Clark of Boston won the broad jump. Blake of Boston got second in the kilometre race. Garrett and Jamison of Princeton were also winners.

All Are Safe.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 8.—Dispatches from Bonne bay report the arrival there of the crews of the sealing schooners Wilhelmina, Mary and Ellen, which were lost on the night of March 17 in the straits of Belle Isle while engaged in sealing. Several of the men were frostbitten, but no lives were lost.

Lynchers Were Out.

TALBOTTON, Ga., April 8.—Dr. W. L. Ryder, who assassinated Miss Sallie Emma Owens Sunday night, was removed to Columbus yesterday. The guard around the jail are still on duty there. Sixty mounted men came in to lynch Ryder, but cool heads appeased the party.

Budd Doble Retires.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Budd Doble, the famous reinsman, announces that he has retired from the turf and that he has driven his last professional race. Hereafter Mr. Doble will devote his time to the development of a gold mine in California, of which he is the owner.

Suspicions of Forgery.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—A contest of the second, or so-called "pencil" will of the late ex-Senator James G. Fair was begun yesterday by Charles L. Fair, son of the dead millionaire. Young Fair's attorneys maintain that the will is a forgery.

Ring Officials Responsible.

HAVERHILL, Mass., April 8.—It is probable there will be an interesting contest on legal points over the South Lawrence prize fight. It is claimed that as no admission fee was charged, those present were not aiding or abetting a prize fight, and that they took no part in it. The law applies, it is said, to the referee and officials of the match, not to the spectators, unless an admission fee were charged. The matter is causing much discussion here, and all legal points will be hotly contested.

Mule Spinners Meet.

BOSTON, April 8.—The quarterly convention of the National Mule Spinners' union opened here yesterday. The treasurer's report showed that during the past year $15,000 has been loaned to two Massachusetts cotton mills by the union. The report of the committee on credentials showed that 23 textile centers were represented. Secretary Ross reported that the mule spinners of Rhode Island had been thoroughly organized within the past six months, and that a salaried agent had been put in the field.

General Strike Threatened.

BOSTON, April 8.—The painters and decorators who are on strike have won from several of the "bosses" a promise of 30 cents an hour asked, but they demand the promise in contract form. The Building Trades council have given them support, and threaten to call a general strike of union men if the bosses do not agree.

Found In the River.

HARTFORD, April 8.—Manuel Mendons, night watchman for the Hartford and New York Transportation company, disappeared Sunday. Yesterday his body was found in the river, off the wharf he patroled. He had attached a weight to his feet, wound a rope tightly around his body and tied it to his left wrist.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 8.—The senate yesterday passed a bill to shorten the legal requirement for lobsters in the markets. The committee on military affairs reported an order for a recess committee to investigate military dismissals. The house adopted the senate resolutions on the death of the late Governor Greenhalge.

Methodists In Conference.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 8.—The 100th session of the New England conference of the Methodist-Episcopal church opened in this city today. Bishop Foss, who presided at the conference in this city 11 years ago, presides. There will be 25 ministers present by this afternoon. The conference will close next Monday.

A Bad Dog Bite.

MALDEN, Mass., April 8.—David Barnes is suffering from the bite of a dog, and his condition is serious. Several days ago, while cutting some hair off the dog, it bit him on the arm, which is swelled to an enormous size, and required the attention of several physicians, who fear blood poison.

Blacksmith Left $50,000.

GREENFIELD, Mass., April 8.—Considerable surprise is expressed at the size of the estate of the late Alexander Buchanan of Montague City, a blacksmith. He was known to be frugal, but an inventory showed property valued at $50,000. The estate will be divided among 30 heirs.

After Massachusetts Style.

PROVIDENCE, April 8.—In the house of representatives yesterday, Mr. Barstow of Providence introduced an habitual criminal act providing for 25 years' imprisonment after two convictions of three years each.

Perhaps Fatally Injured.

WESTBROOK, Me., April 8.—Frank Bailey, employed in a livery stable, was attacked by a crowd of drunken men while in the stable, and had an artery of his head cut by glass. The doctor thinks brain trouble, perhaps fatal, will result.

Resolutions.

Mass. Bay Colony of Pilgrim Fathers held a special meeting Tuesday evening to take action on the death of ex-Councilman Rinn. A committee consisting of Jas. Churchill, Stephen O. Moxon, Charles R. Safford, Rev. J. H. Yeoman and Eben Stocker reported the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS,—Since last we met, an all wise Providence has seen fit to take from our midst, one of our beloved and most respected members, Louis Rinn, and

WHEREAS,—We desire to express our heartfelt sorrow and deep sense of our loss, and our profound sympathy and condolences for the family of our beloved member, therefore be it

Resolved,—That the charter of the Colony be draped for a period of thirty days.

Resolved,—That the date of his death and a copy of these resolutions be inserted in the records of this Colony, and that a copy be forwarded to the family of the deceased as a mark of our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

MY SICK SISTER.

"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For twenty years I had suffered with loss of appetite, nausea, constipation, palpitation of the heart, headache and pains in nearly all parts of my body. My physician said it was only indigestion, but his medicine did not help me any. I began the use of the Pinkham Remedies, particularly Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken four bottles, and now those troubles are cured.

"I cannot praise it enough, and our druggist says the medicine is doing a world of good among his customers."

Cattle—The home trade for cattle was in no better position than last week, and very light from the north.

Milch cows—Not much life, still something doing in this line.

Fat hogs—Market off ¼c on northern dressed, with sales at 4¾c. Western hogs at 3¾@4¾c, l. w., delivered direct from the west.

Sheep—A few from New England, but not sufficient for butchers to make much account of, and prices were located about as last week, no particular change say the butchers.

Veal calves—A year ago the supply of calves was heavy, but light this week, comparatively so. Dealers complain of prices paid and hold off supply.

Senate Passes Postoffice Appropriation Bill After Long Debate.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The postoffice appropriation bill, which has engrossed the attention of the senate for almost a week, was passed by that body just previous to adjournment yesterday. The entire day, with the exception of a few minutes at the beginning of the session, was devoted to debate and voting on the amendments proposed to the bill—the Wolcott amendment for the consolidation of smaller offices with larger ones receiving the greater share of attention. The discussion on this proposition again took the form of a debate upon the merits of civil service reform. The amendment was defeated by a decisive vote, receiving only seven votes in its support.

The house spent the day debating a bill to fix the standard of weights and measures by the adoption of the metric system after July 1, 1898, and a proposition that the government share with the District of Columbia the expense of creating and maintaining a public library in the city of Washington. The latter was defeated by a vote of 113 to 127, and the fate of the metric system bill still hangs in the balance.

Lively Skirmishing.

ROME, April 8.—A dispatch from Massowah reports that after Colonel Stevani's victory over the dervishes near Kassala on Saturday, in a battle in which he lost 100 men and inflicted a loss estimated at 600 upon the dervishes, he returned to Kassala and the dervishes retired to the forts and entrenchments at Tucruf. On the following day Colonel Stevani made a reconnaissance of Tucruf and vigorously attacked the forts. He captured some of them, but was unable to entirely dislodge the dervishes. He, therefore, returned to Kassala. General Baldissera subsequently ordered Colonel Stevani to evacuate Kassala and to retire with his column upon Agerdat, halfway between Kassala and Massowah, which Colonel Stevani is now doing.

Taking It Easy.

LA LIBERTAD, Salvador, April 8.—Since the advices of March 18 and March 30 from Corinto there have been no battles between the opposing forces of President Zelaya and the Leonist rebels in Nicaragua. The respective demands of the two factions which led to the failure of the Salvadorean peace commission were, on Zelaya's part, that the rebels should lay down their arms and yield their leaders. General Boca, the rebel leader, proposed that both agree to the nominee of the congress as the depository of the executive power until a national election should be held. Both of these propositions were disapproved by the opposing party, and both were rejected.

Measles In President's Family.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—President Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurber are quarantined at the White House, Mrs. Cleveland and her children are quarantined at Woodley, and Mrs. Thurber and her little ones are quarantined at their home on I street. All this, and a postponement of a cabinet meeting yesterday in addition, is because Esther Cleveland, the president's second daughter, has developed symptoms of measles.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The trial of William E. Midgeley, who was accused of misappropriating $21,000 belonging to the American Casualty Insurance and Security company of Baltimore, was brought to a sudden close yesterday. Judge Newberger decided that there had been no evidence as to criminal intent adduced, and he accordingly refused to let the case go to the jury. Midgeley was therefore discharged.

Jackson Trial Postponed.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 8.—Scott Jackson, alleged murderer of Pearl Bryan, was before Judge Helm yesterday. Upon application of his attorneys the judge postponed the trial until April 21. A Mrs. McCann of Falmouth made an attack upon Jackson, kicking him as he left the courtroom and remarking that she would like to help hang him.

Defect In the Raines Law.

ALBANY, April 8.—The court of appeals handed down a decision yesterday which holds that clubs are not amenable to the state excise law, and the inference is that they cannot be required to take out a license to sell under the Raines liquor tax law. Judge Haight wrote the opinion, in which all of the judges concurred.

Bad Men Rounded Up.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., April 8.—Two deputy United States marshals captured a gang of five outlaws southwest of this city after a hot fight, in which Oliver Rooks, one of the desperadoes, was mortally wounded. The other four injured prisoners were brought to this city, and will be taken to Fort Smith, Ark.

To Meet In September.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Society of the Army of the Potomac will hold their 27th annual reunion this year at Burlington, Vt., on Sept. 16 and 17. The change from June to September for the meeting is due to the numerous political and other conventions to be held this year in June.

Oliver Optic's Return.

BOSTON, April 8.—William T. Adams, better known as "Oliver Optic," the author of the books for boys, reached this city yesterday, after a trip around the world. The 28,000 miles of the journey occupied 185 days, and in his western course he spent considerable time in the principal cities of Japan and China, then south to Singapore, Port Said and Ceylon. Mr. Adams met the Duke of Cambridge, commander-in-chief of the British army, while passing through the Suez canal.

Couldn't Agree.

PROVIDENCE, April 8.—The jury in the Lingane case was discharged yesterday afternoon, having been unable to agree. It was out nearly 31 hours, and the vote stood 11 to 1 for conviction, not having changed since Monday noon.

Hunter Held For Murder.

TOLLAND, Conn., April 8.—John Hunter was arraigned here yesterday, charged with the murder of Angelo B. Aborn at Crystal Lake Monday. Hunter pleaded not guilty, and was bound over to the superior court without bail.

The junk house of Jacob Klein at Amesbury, Mass., was burned. Loss, $2000.

Martin Curran, 35 years old, of Boston, was instantly killed by a train in that city.

George Bishop, 4 years old, while stealing a ride on a train, was killed at East Boston.

The second day of the horse show at Boston attracted large and splendidly attired crowds both day and evening, and the judges made progress in their difficult work.

U. S. Gluck of California, national organizer of the National Republican league, has arrived at Boston to begin an inspection of the condition of the league in New England.

The administrator of the late John Spaulding of Boston is sued for large sums alleged to have been promised by the deceased to C. A. Bradford and Marie D. Bradford.

The Harvard university athletic committee have decided to systemize the supervision of the various branches of the university sport more thoroughly, and to this end they have divided the body into various sub-committees, each one of which will devote their attention to a special sport.

Tucker's Talk.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Fully 4000 people assembled in Carnegie hall last night to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker. Commander Tucker spoke of misunderstandings, and admitted that sometimes he had made mistakes, but they were based on misinformation or insufficient information. Then he spoke about "clashes," and said that some people were opposed to the Salvation Army because their interests clash with ours and their beliefs clash with our beliefs. But they cannot serve Christ, the new commander declared, by finding fault with the general of the army or his officers. Between these hints to the deserters, Tucker told interesting stories of his experiences in India and elsewhere.

Welcome News From Miss Barton.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The following cablegram, dated April 7, was received by Spencer Trask yesterday from Miss Clara Barton: "Our corps of physicians and supplies left Beirout April 3, and will reach Marash the 10th; scourge of typhoid and other diseases from starvation unabated; Red Cross reports just received from our expeditions, which are meeting with splendid success; no obstructions nor Turkish supervision, as has been wrongly reported; every facility offered; welcomed everywhere; one party working between Beirout, Marash and Harpoot, the other between Oorfa, Diarbekir and Harpoot; visiting towns en route; giving assistance where most needed."

Collision of Steamships.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Steamer Bellarden (Br.), while outward bound, collided off Owl's Head buoy with steamer Friesland (Belg.), which was just leaving quarantine for her pier. The Bellarden at once began to fill, and Pilot Dexter headed for the Staten Island shore and beached his boat. At the time of grounding, the Bellarden had 14 feet of water in her hold. The Bellarden was struck a glancing blow on the port side abaft the midship house. No person on board the Bellarden was hurt by the collision, but considerable damage was done. The Bellarden was bound for Montevideo. After the collision the Friesland stood over toward Tompkinsville and anchored.

Prolonged Legislative Sitting.

OTTAWA, April 8.—The house of commons has been sitting continuously since 3 o'clock Monday afternoon discussing the Manitoba schools remedial bill. No progress has been made. It is thought the house will continue to sit without adjournment till midnight Saturday. Some rather boisterous scenes have occurred in the bar of the restaurant during the prolonged sitting of the house. The matter was brought up last evening by Sir Richard Cartwright, who characterized the scenes as disgraceful, and declared that the bar should be abolished.

Original Program Changed.

NEW YORK, April 8.—J. D. Buck, acting president of the Theosophical society in America, has issued a special notice to all members of the organization, notifying them that the executive committee had decided to hold the next convention in New York, April 26-27, and not in Chicago, as originally intended. The death of President Judge has caused this change in the program.

Mrs. McKee Wasn't There.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 8.—The Pennsylvania train bearing General Harrison and his bride arrived here at 10:15 last night. No special demonstration was made at the depot. Mrs. Robert McKee, daughter of Mr. Harrison, left here yesterday for the east. Consequently she was not present to receive her father and his bride when they reached home.

In Miles' Favor.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The joint resolution to promote Major General Miles to the rank of lieutenant general was ordered favorably reported by the house military affairs committee. Of the 12 members present, four—three Democrats and one Republican—opposed the resolution. The eight affirmative votes were all Republicans.

Where Women's Votes Count.

CIMARRON, Kan., April 8.—The women were victorious in the election here, Mrs. C. A. Curtis being elected mayor by a small majority over Dr. Lawrence. The election board is composed wholly of women, who were out in full force.

Climax Reached by a Severe Thrashing Administered Last Sunday.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 9.—Mary Burgoyne is dying at the Swansea poorhouse, as the result of mortal injuries inflicted by her husband last Sunday.

Yesterday afternoon, in the presence of two selectmen and Dr. Wellington, she made a deposition accusing her husband of having jumped on her twice, kicking her several times and striking her severely in the face.

He was arrested on a warrant charging him with assault on his wife. Yesterday, in court, Dr. Wellington said the woman was in a very serious condition. He did not expect her to live 24 hours. She is badly hurt about the abdomen, and there are many bruises on her body and head.

Burgoyne claims to be a Parisian, but men who know him well say he a half-breed Canadian. Some of his friends say he has not been getting along with his wife pleasantly

For Two Years or More.

She is an Irishwoman, whom he married about six years ago, believing her to have considerable money.

Shortly after the marriage it was noticed by the townspeople that they frequently went on sprees together, and that Burgoyne spent a great deal of his time in the saloons in the northern part of this city.

On Sunday he went home in company with a man named Alexis Lincourt, and found his wife there before him. She had been out nursing at a neighboring house, and when he returned and found her there unexpectedly, a quarrel resulted.

Many accusations were passed between them, and finally he began to abuse her, ending by severely beating her and jumping on her, as stated in her deposition.

Lincourt, who was a witness of the affair, has been held under bonds by the government as an important witness.

Bonds have been fixed at $8000 to hold Burgoyne for trial later.

No Agricultural Free Scholarships—Revision of Marlboro's City Charter.

BOSTON, April 9.—The house yesterday began the holding of forenoon sessions, and the members entered into the oratorical arena with vigor. The first debate was upon Representative Keenan's bill offered in substitution of the adverse report on his petition that the city of Boston may be authorized to establish free scholarships at the Massachusetts agricultural college. The house refused to substitute, and accepted the report of the committee.

The house adopted an order offered requesting the opinion of the supreme judicial court on the question of the constitutional power of the legislature to authorize the governor and council to appoint women notaries public.

The bill to incorporate the American Hotel institute was passed to be engrossed.

The house rejected a bill limiting the amount which may be left by will to charitable, educational or religious purposes in cases where the testator has immediate relatives.

The senate bill to appropriate $4000 annually to found 43 state scholarships at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one for each senatorial district, was ordered to a third reading.

The house bill relative to sittings of the superior court in Essex county was passed to be engrossed.

Mr. Young moved to substitute for an adverse committee report a bill which repeals the act of 1894, under which the state board of pharmacy passes upon the question whether a pharmacist is a proper person to have a liquor license of the sixth class. The house refused to substitute the bill for the committee's report.

The committee on street railways reported ought not to pass on a bill to require street railways operated by electricity to place on their cars some device for protecting motormen from the inclemency of the weather.

The bill to revise the charter of the city of Marlboro, question on engrossment, came up in the senate with verbal amendments offered by Mr. Roe. Mr. Roe's amendments were adopted, and the bill then passed to be engrossed.

The Spinners' Convention.

BOSTON, April 9.—The second day's session of the mule spinners' convention opened at 9 o'clock in Puritan hall. It is practically agreed by both operatives and millowners that the ring-spinning frames were in disfavor, and that the mills were gradually going back to the mule system for spinning cotton. The delegates were much pleased with this information. The delegates from outside Massachusetts stated that steps had been taken to establish laws in their different states in conformity with those now in operation in this state. It was reported by the delegates from Maine that a convention would be held in Lewiston May 1 for the purpose of framing a 58-hour law for women and children. A substantial amount was appropriated to assist the short-hour movement in Maine, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, and an organizer will be selected to work in that direction.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

A Peculiar Law Case.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., April 9.—An action of tort has been brought against three brothers—Patrick, William and Michael Drislane—in behalf of the wife and child of Herbert J. Porter, one of the three brothers recently convicted of placing obstructions on railroad tracks. Porter was under the influence of liquor at the time. The suit comes under the personal liability clause of the Vermont prohibition law, whereby the liquor seller is liable to dependents for time lost, at the rate of $2 a day, while in confinement. The offense was committed last October, and Porter remained in jail until sentenced for three years, upon which sentence he has now entered.

Rapid Transit at the Hub.

BOSTON, April 9.—The Standard says a scheme of great magnitude, one which will revolutionize the rapid transit system of this city, has been sprung by the holders of the charter of the Boston Elevated Railway company. The company want to build a new subway entirely separate and distinct from the one in course of construction. The engineers of the deal are prominent New York and Boston capitalists, headed by J. Pierpont Morgan. Governor Wolcott has been interviewed by a number of lawyers connected with railway enterprises, and a special message on the subject is looked for.

More Funds Wanted.

BOSTON, April 9.—Miss Clara Barton has cabled the New England Armenian relief committee as follows: News from expeditions just received proves our relief work is firmly established. In no manner do authorities to try control our action. Caravans divided at Aintab, one for Oorfa, Diarbekir, Harpoot, the other for Marash, Zeitoun, Malatia and Harpoot are relieving the towns and villages en route. The committee ask for more funds, as the emergency is great and suffering intense. Brown Bros. & Co., State street, Boston, will receive the funds.

Concerning Missionary Knapp.

BOSTON, April 9.—A cablegram was received here yesterday from an American in Constantinople confirming the report of the arrest of Rev. George P. Knapp and his expulsion from Bitlis. Rev. Mr. Knapp left Bitlis March 29, and was taken under guard to Alexandretta, thence to Diarbekir. The local governor claimed to have permission to do as he wished regarding the expulsion of Mr. Knapp. Rev. R. M. Cole and the family of Mr. Knapp remain at Bitlis.

Narragansetts' Claim Filed.

PROVIDENCE, April 9.—The Narragansett tribe of Indians filed their $4,000,000 claim yesterday with the legislature. The claim is for the payment of the value of lands owned by the Indians from the early colonial times, and which have been encroached on and appropriated by the state. The Indians are said to have a good case, and a similar one was decided in favor of a Massachusetts tribe several years ago.

A Pronounced Success.

BOSTON, April 9.—At the horse show in Mechanics hall last evening, boxes, balconies and standing-room were filled. It was a fashionable audience. The enthusiasm was unlimited, the polo ponies being the favorites. The hunters came in for their share, but the applause given them was far less emphatic than that which followed the gyrations of the wiry little animals.

Troops' Purposes Not Clear.

ROME, April 9.—Official dispatches from the seat of war in Abyssinia leave it doubtful whether General Baldissera's order to Colonel Stevani to retire from Kassala with his column upon Agerdat implies the complete evacuation of Kassala by the Italians. It is surmised, however, that Kassala may continue to be held by a garrison, which is considered strong enough to hold the place against offensive movements, though not strong enough to take the offensive against the dervishes. The Italie states that the Italian government has declined the offer of an English syndicate of a loan of £25,000,000.

HENRY H. FAXON is doing active work for the temperance cause in many measures at the State House this year, by introducing new bills and fighting the repeal of existing laws. OUR CITY INTERESTED

A Southern Union Station In Boston will Push Us Forward.

Says Mayor Adams of Quincy in an Interview.

A Majority Have No Decided Preference on Location.

The Boston Advertiser has interviewed a large number of Quincy's representative citizens and finds a general feeling in favor of a new union station in Boston, but not one-half were committed to either the Summer or Kneeland street sites. It matters very little to the citizens of Quincy where the union station is located, but they want to see it right away.

It is for the taxpayers of Boston to say whether they wish to contribute for a depot on Mayor Quincy's plan, or whether they will allow the railroads to make their own arrangement and bear the bulk of the expense. A site near the corner of Washington and Kneeland streets, or even south of that would be even more central than any yet suggested, and would meet the Providence division half way. It would also do away with the Back Bay station. But the more plane, the more delay, and suburban travel should allow the taxpayers of Boston to have their say first.

Mayor Adams was reported as follows: "The union station must come. In relation to the two or more places proposed, there is no comparison in my mind, between Mayor Quincy's place and that proposed by C. S. Hamlin. The latter's proposition does not meet up with the railroad needs in any respect. "The development of this district and of the electric system as applied to the railroad between here and Boston and four-tracking the road depends on the union station.

"It would push this city forward in business relations with the larger city. I think the mayor's plan is laid out in a broad, comprehensive way and would tend to develop this section. It would be a great shame to delay the improvement. Any plan developed in three or four days for a city like Boston, as one plan was, is hardly the thing.

"In relation to the congestion feared in the business part of the city, I think that more than half of the people will use the Back Bay station in connection with the subway. I should be sorry to see anything done to hurt South Boston, but I am confident that if the present plans are carried out South Boston will be benefitted in the development of the flats there, and the increased freight terminal facilities.

A summary of the forty-one interviews shows all to advocate a new union station. Twenty-four of these have no particular preference as far as expressed as to location. Thirteen endorse on Summer street site of Mayor Quincy, and four that of Mr. Hamlin on Beach street. Very few indeed have probably read the bill.

Score Another for Miss Brown.

The adverse report of the Committee on Liquor Law on the petition of Eva M. Brown for legislation to prohibit the maintaining of more than one bar by a person having but one liquor license was negatived by the Senate, and a bill substituted.

Mr. H. H. Faxon's opposition to the repeal of the act of 1894 was unavailing. Under it the State Board of Pharmacy passes upon the question whether a pharmacist is a proper person to have a liquor license of the sixth class. The house, by a vote of 61 to 82, refused to reject the bill, and substituted it for the committee's report which will repeal the act.

The Eliot Club.

The annual meeting of the Eliot Club of Wollaston was held on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. W. E. Simmons. Preceding the election of officers the evening was given up to social enjoyment. Mr. W. G. Corthell gave a very interesting talk on "Mosaic's," of which he has a valuable collection. Mrs. A. A. Lincoln read a selection and Mrs. Ralph J. Saxe, rendered a vocal solo in excellent taste.

The officers :

President,—Ralph J. Saxe.

Vice President,—George S. Woodbury.

Secretary and Treasurer,—Mrs. Edward S. Tenney.

The Rice Reception.

Another calendar day was scored for our young people in the reception by Mrs. and Miss Rice at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston, on Wednesday.

A crisp April day outside, was converted into summer within, with a profusion of flowers, music by Daggett's orchestra, and the varied colors of the dainty toilets. Miss Rice, "May," as she has been known, held a bunch of beautiful jacqueminot roses, which added much to the pleasure of all. The ushers, Mr. G. B. Wendell, Mr. Delcevare King, Mr. H. B. Faxon, Mr. H. E. Russell and Mr. W. S. Osborne, received and introduced the many guests to the hostess.

Misses Edwards, Adams, Vose, Stearns, Hayes, Hall, Chase, King, Dewson, Randall, Whicher, Ware and Mrs. Charles Price poured for Miss Rice.

FUNERAL OF COUNCILMAN.

Mayor Adams and Many City Officials Pay Last Respects.

Louis Rinn of Atlantic, the late Councilman from Ward Six, was laid at rest on Wednesday. It was a large representative gathering of relatives, neighbors and friends, social and business acquaintances, and associates in the city government of Quincy which assembled at the pretty and artistic home on Charles street, which the deceased so richly embellished. Mayor Adams was there, also President Bryant of the City Council, and most of the members of the Councils of 1895 and 1896, several department officials. Rev. J. H. Yeoman his former pastor and others.

The floral offerings were not numerous but were in elegant large pieces—a huge cross of choice flowers from the City Council, a beautiful wreath on pedestal from the Pilgrim Fathers, and a large wreath from the family.

A quartette composed of Misses Coe and Moxon, Mr. W. R. Hall and Mr. W. H. Owen, opened the service with the selection "Abide with Me." Rev. Edward Norton, pastor of the Memorial church read the Scriptures, and the quartette sang "We may Not Climb the Heavenly Steeps." A fervent and touching prayer was offered by Mr. Norton, and as a response the quartette gave "Nearer My God to Thee." After the benediction those present were permitted to view their late friend. The interment was at Mount Wollaston, the bearers being Mr. John Carver, Mr. H. W. Read, Mr. Eben Stocker and Mr. Alonzo Priest.

Creditable.

At the Horse show on Wednesday Mr. Charles M. Bryant's chestnut gelding polo pony "Bulow" was highly commended. The Herald in speaking of Mr. Bryant's riding says, "'Charlie' Bryant, the backstop of the Hingham team, rode his handsome chestnut gelding 'Bulow,' and acquitted himself creditably."

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

Judge E. G. Pratt of this city was on Wednesday re-elected Grand Reporter of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Honor. The new Grand Dictator is Douglas S. Briggs of Boston.

The city officials are having a hearing before the grand jury at Dedham today, and it is rumored an effort is being made to secure an indictment against Albert Keating for trespass.

Now is the time to collect the ashes from the houses in Atlantic, and utilize them to fill in the "famous Ward 6 mud hole,"—Teal pond. The city teams for that purpose would be warmly welcomed at any time.

The Newbury Social club entertained a large number of their young friends at a dancing party, given in Music hall, Atlantic, last Monday evening. Sprague's orchestra furnished music for the occasion which lasted well into morning.

The last dancing party of the Pilgrim Fathers of Atlantic to be given this season will take place this week. The parties which have been held so far this season have been very pleasant and it is generally hoped that they may be repeated next winter.

There are still two or three vacancies in the Sloyd school. The first lesson will be given Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. This class is not included in the regular privileges of the Association, but any boy holding a membership ticket will be admitted on payment of $2 00. There will be twelve lessons in the term.

The Speakers in the affirmative at the closing debate of the Quincy Debating club tonight at 7.45 will be C. A. Price and Fred Tupper; in the negative, Stacy Southworth and A. B. Holden. Mr. T. B. Pollard will be the critic. All present are invited to take part in the debate, which is on the sewerage problem, when the debate is opened to the public.

The Nonpareil Social club held its monthly meeting Tuesday. The following officers elected:—P. A. Lane, President; F. Dufour, Vice President; J. C. Pierce, Secretary; W. Anderson, Treasurer. The club has newly furnished their rooms and will run their first social dance in Hancock hall, Friday evening, April 17.

The monthly business meeting of the First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society, held Wednesday evening, was of unusual interest. After routine business had been disposed of, addresses bearing on the welfare of the society were delivered by the pastor, Messrs. Alex. Clark, C. J. Stewart, John C. Wylie, Murdock Lamont, Duncan McLennan, Mrs. Duncan Chisholm and Miss Belle McLeod. In all the remarks the Pledge was honored as the bulwark of Endeavor life.

Nearly a score of enthusiastic wheelmen gathered in the Y. M. C. A. parlor Wednesday evening to consider the advisability of forming a cycle club. Mr. J. E. Merritt presided and Mr. Herbert A. Thompson acted as secretary. After considerable discussion and many suggestions a committee composed of Messrs. Merritt, Thompson and Wessell was appointed to draft bylaws. The meeting adjourned for one week.

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES.

Mayor Adams, McEttrick and McNary, Everett and Martin.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

Apropos of the recent talk in regard to Mayor Adams and the Congressional nomination, it is perhaps only fair to state what seems to be the almost unanimous wish of the party in which he claims membership. The district is largely Democratic and Republican success can only be attained when the voters of the district forget themselves as they did two years ago. The Democrats of Quincy do not figure largely in the district conventions, and if they were disposed to insist on Mayor Adams it would take considerable outside help to affect a nomination.

But the Democrats claim that they have no intention of doing this and the name of our present mayor will never get before the convention. The probationary period of His Honor's life has not been satisfactory, and considerations that were weighty in the municipal election would be ineffectual in the whole district. It is not thought, even by those who would like to see things different, that any Quincy man is eligible for congressional honors this year.

The caucuses held in Quincy last Thursday showed the preferences of the party in Quincy, since hardly any of the old guard or those who were thought partial to the Mayor, were elected as delegates. Some of the men chosen publicly stated that they did not care for the empty honor, but for the purpose of thwarting the aims of the select contingent to be found in the party, and which heretofore had received all honors without even the asking. Times have changed and it is probable the rank and file will no longer fall in submission to the crack of the party whip and the prestige of name or station will not ensure the election of any man hereafter.

The old conditions with McNary and McEttrick as the contestants for congressional honors may be possible this year, but an effort is being made to get McEttrick out of the way. He desires the nomination as he has stated to many in the district, but whether he intends to enter the convention or not is another question. The State Committee had to knuckle to McEttrick in the State campaign, that his antagonism might not injure Mayor Quincy's chances in Boston, and it would not be surprising if he was invited to enter the convention, but a promise would be exacted from him to abide by the wish of the convention.

Mr. McNary is entitled to the nomination, and would undoubtedly win in the convention, as his treatment by many in his own party made him many friends. The Democracy will take McEttrick rather than have the dissensions of two years ago, or witness the district carried by a Republican because of foolhardiness or stubborness.

It is said that Dr. Everett would like to go to Congress, but his wish can only be gratified by a favorable action by some other district convention. Hon. John B. Martin of South Boston is well thought of in Quincy and if divided party would be the consequence of McNary or McEttrick's nomination, the voters would gladly turn to him. JOSEPH.

An Illustrated Talk.

One of the most instructive entertainments which has been given at Wollaston for some time was the illustrated talk given by Mr. Israel Waterhouse at the Unitarian church upon his travels in the Holy Land, Greece, Italy, Austria, France and parts of our own country. The views were of unusual brilliancy. They were a good education for the members of the Sunday school, for whose especial benefit they were shown. They were taken from Mr. Waterhouse's private collection. The church was crowded.

TODAY'S COURT.

Paul White was fined $3 for transporting swill through Quincy without a license.

QUINCY WAS THERE IN 1861.

And Many of the Survivors Will Attend Reunion April 15.

The 35th annual reception of the Minute Men of '61, to be held in Horticultural hall, at 10 o'clock A. M., and banquet in Faneuil hall, Boston, at 1 o'clock, Wednesday, April 15, promises to be a grand affair. The Governor and other prominent persons will be present to address the meeting.

The president for 1896 is Capt. James H. Osgood; first vice-president, Capt. James H. Griggs; adjutant and secretary, Comrade Frank A. Brown of 31 Cornhill, and Col. George W. Nason, 21 School street, Boston, is the Quartermaster.

Their invitation is general for all veterans and their friends to attend their banquet.

Company H of Quincy was among the first to respond to the call of the government in 1861, and its volunteers are rightly numbered among the Minute-Men. The company was a part of the Fourth Regiment, under command of Col. Abner B. Packard of Quincy. At the call of Gov. Andrew April 15, they assembled at Faneuil hall, Boston, and the regiment numbered 3,805, many of them merchants, mechanics, business men and students, went direct from their places of business, not in gay uniforms, but mostly in citizen's attire, some armed with double-barrel shot guns, sporting rifles and various weapons of defence, to protect our flag and the national capital. Many of these men did not have time to see their wives or children before hastening away; some were school boys, and left school books and dinner pails in their haste to get to the front.

It is to these men credit should be given for preserving our country and national honor. One of our popular historians has written: "A delay of a half hour in the arrival of the Minute Men in Washington would have found our capital and the archives of our government in the hands of the rebels, who would at once have been recognized by England and France," enemies of our country. With this state of affairs it would have been nearly impossible for our government to have again established itself among the nations of the world. The Minute Men put themselves to the front and gave our government time to catch its breath.

The annual reunions should recall old memories.

Two High School Debates.

The Quincy High School Debating society met Wednesday. Mr. Wilder, the president, took the chair.

The debate of the last meeting was concluded.

Miss Hay spoke in favor of University education at the expense of the State.

Miss Lord stated that many go to college for the "name of it." The state cannot afford the expense of giving college education to all.

Miss Mary Pitts spoke of the value of the time used at college. The State might better spend money on the grammar and high schools. The State cannot afford unreasonable expenditures either for education or for any other department. When the debate become general, Miss Leake, Miss Cummings, Miss Mary Pitts, Mr. Walsh and Miss C. E. Healy, spoke.

Mr. Briggs, '97, the critic, read his report. It was duly accepted.

The entertainment included the following numbers:

Recitation, Miss Thomas, '97.

Essay, "Yachting," Mr. John W. Northcott.

Recitation, Miss Walker, '97.

Essay, "A Strange Adventure," Miss Marion Pitts, '96.

The board of decision decided in favor of the negative.

The new debate was begun. Miss Briggs, '96, vice president, took the chair.

The subject of the debate was: "Resolved, That the School Year Ought to be Shortened."

Miss Marion Pitts spoke in favor of shortening the school year.

Mr. Anderson spoke in the negative. The year is already short enough. The shortening of the year could bring about only bad results.

Miss Ramsey said that much of the school year is too warm for study. Teachers and pupils need more time for travel and recreation. Vacations are not long enough for extensive travel.

The conclusion of the debate was postponed.

PROFUSION OF FLOWERS

At the Funeral This Morning of Miss Catherine C. McPherson.

The funeral of Miss Catherine C. McPherson whose death occurred Monday at Deering, Me., while attending school, noted in the Wednesday's LEDGER, was held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. John's church, solemn requiem mass being celebrated by Rev. F. A. Friguglietti with Rev. J. P. Cuffe as deacon, and Rev. D. J. Reardon as subdeacon the De Profundis being by Miss Mary F. White. At the conclusion of the Mass, Rev. A. F. Roche sang "Rest in the Lord," from Elijah, and as the body was taken out of the church, the junior choir sang "Cross and Crown."

The services were very largely attended, among those present being many of the young people who had been associated with the deceased in the parish, in school and in social life. The remains were encased in a handsome white casket, which was almost buried beneath a wealth of beautiful floral tributes among which were: A broken wreath of ferns, carnations and roses, marked "Sister," from Miss Tena McPherson; a large standing cross, with dove, inscribed "Cousin," from Mrs. John Q. A. McDonnell and family of Buffalo, N. Y.; a crescent and star, marked "S. B. V. M.," from sodality of St. John's church; cluster of calla lilies from Rev. Daniel C. Reardon of St. Joseph's church, Boston Highlands; broken wreath and sickle, marked "Katie" from Mr. T. H. McDonnell; heart of roses and carnations from Rev. John P. Cuffe; roses and smilax from Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dinegan; cluster of 17 calla lilies from the Misses Keohan; ferns and carnations from Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Coolidge; cluster of 17 roses from Dr. and Mrs. John H. Ash; bunch of roses from Miss Nellie G. O'Brien; cluster of Easter lilies from Miss Sara F. Costello; bouquet of roses, ferns and carnations from Mr. John and James McGovern; white carnations from Miss Elizabeth Kelly; cluster of cala lilies from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha; roses and ferns from Misses Lillian Pratt, Mary Doliver, Mary Graham and Lucy Mitchell; carnations from Mrs. William T. Spargo and family; roses from Mrs. H. D. Rice and ferns from Mrs. Edward Jewell.

At the conclusion of the services at the church the remains were taken to St. Mary's cemetery for interment; the bearers being John Keohan, Timothy O'Brien, James McDonnell and David Meaney.

Birthday Party.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, held a birthday party at the church last evening. The attendance was large and the evening was spent pleasantly. Refreshments were served during intermission; cocoa being poured by Misses Gertrude Hall, May Melzard, Emma Curtin and Florence Priest.

The entertainment given consisted of zylophone solos by Mrs. Sanford Small, piano solo by Miss Hill, readings by May Nelson, Mrs. Geo. H. DeHuff and Miss Gertrude Austin of Cambridge.

Miss Austin's readings were very interesting and were well received. For a girl of her age, fourteen, she has a most remarkable faculty for elocution, portraying her several characters in a fine manner.

Senator Turpie Objects to Further Dallying With Cuban Question.

No Mincing of Words In Discussing the Subject.

Senator Lodge Made a Special Target For Sarcastic Utterances.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The joint resolution introduced in the senate by Mr. Call (Dem., Fla.), proposing intervention by the United States in the war in Cuba, was taken up yesterday and advocated by Mr. Turpie (Dem., Ind.).

He referred sarcastically to the manner in which the chairman of the committee on foreign relations (Mr. Sherman) and the junior senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Lodge) had, up to this date, "conducted the Cuban campaign." He condemned the "helpless inertia, the delay, the altogether irrational obstruction existing in the chairman of the committee on foreign relations ever since he took refuge in the crypt of the conference committee, from which he barely escaped the day before yesterday, as if by fire, very much importuned, and very glad to be rid of his former action."

Mr. Turpie then turned his attention to Mr. Lodge, referring to "the jingo jargon of that class of extremists so ably represented here by the gifted junior senator from Massachusetts—a senator singularly gifted with the power to clothe an interesting and exciting subject with all the dullness of time-worn commonplaces."

It was impossible, Mr. Turpie said, to conceive of "a more wholly unlegislative legislative proceeding, a more wholly abnormal proceeding, than the action taken by the chairman of the committee on foreign relations with reference to the Cuban question. There could not be a more unfortunate disposition of that matter than that which it suffered from the action, the inaction, and the reaction of the honorable chairman of the committee on foreign relations."

He had listened to 29 or 30 addresses by the junior senator from Massachusetts and to "remarks" on several occasions by the senator from Ohio, but all that he had been able to gather out of them was that there was war in Cuba, and that the Cuban Question Was a Great Question.

The senate had heard nothing from the chairman of the committee on foreign relations as to the territory in the hands of the Cubans. That senator seemed to be as much afraid of approaching that territory as General Weyler himself was. He had "not even looked over the fence."

Mr. Turpie recalled and ridiculed the scene in the senate when Mr. Lodge "began, continued and concluded his personal explanation" in reference to the newspaper statement of the Spanish minister. He had supposed that it was such a serious business that there would have to be a physical adjustment of it.

But when Mr. Lodge on the same day explained his explanation, he began to see a diminution in the size of the Cuban question, and to conceive that there would be a duel between the Spanish minister and the junior senator from Massachusetts. He had been anxious that the senatorial champion should not be mistaken for a mere neophyte, a sciolist, a mere harlequin, with sword of leather and dagger of lath.

But a friend had told him that there would be no fight. His friend had said that all the trouble came from the inordinate fondness of the junior senator from Massachusetts for a certain kind of confectionery, mere puffs.

The Spanish minister, Mr. Turpie said, had been guilty of a breach of one of the conventionalities of the diplomatic corps, but he had also been guilty of what was called in the custom house an undervaluation. The Spanish minister had forgotten these lines of the epic poet of his own country: "Pygmies, though puffed and perched on Alps, are pygmies still."

Mr. Turpie expressed the hope that congress would give to the suffering people of Cuba that consideration that patriotism, a love of liberty and a love of free republics demanded.

The joint resolution was laid on the table without action, and the senate proceeded to consider executive business.

Back In Old Fold.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The Press says that Lieutenant Colonel Peter Glen, the highest officer next to Ballington Booth, in the Volunteers, has deserted, and returned to the ranks of the Salvation Army. A letter to Commander Booth-Tucker from Lieutenant Glen is made public, in which Lieutenant Glen asserts that he is acting conscientiously in this matter. He says that he is now convinced that Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth are in the wrong.

Couldn't Convict.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—James J. Corbett and his sparring partner, Mike Conley, were arraigned yesterday for giving a sparring exhibition contrary to the city ordinance. Both pleaded "not guilty," and Judge Murphy ordered a jury trial. Before the case went to trial, however, Prosecuting Attorney Mulvihill had it nolle prossed, telling Judge Murphy that he felt certain that it would be impossible to secure a conviction.

Many Victims of Explosion.

OGDEN, Utah, April 9.—A terrific explosion, resulting in the killing of seven men and the injuring of several others, occurred last evening in the canyon four miles from this city. The men were employed by the Pioneer Power Dam company, and were about to prepare a blast when a premature explosion occurred. It is generally believed here that the loss of life has been far greater than reported.

Killed Their Father.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 9.—Young Charles Lambern and Annie Lambern, his sister, who are in jail here charged with complicity in the murder of the father, have confessed to having actively assisted Thomas Davenport, the lover of the girl and the friend of the brother, in the commission of the crime.

Men Only.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The Methodist Episcopal conference closed their ninth session yesterday. The amendment recommending that the lay delegates to the general conference be either men or women was voted down by a vote of 99 to 89.

Not One Escaped.

WHEELING April 9.—At Whetstone all entire family were cremated in a fire which destroyed the dwelling house of Jackson Martin.

Sometimes an apparently dead man may be revived—may be resuscitated. Sometimes it is often hard to tell whether the man is dead or alive. We hear of people who have been buried alive. A man must be completely dead before hope should be abandoned. It used to be true that when a man found he had consumption, he gave up immediately. Consumption was considered a necessarily fatal disease. It was considered incurable. As soon as it developed enough so that a physician could decide that it was really consumption, the patient was considered as good as dead. Years ago, Dr. Pierce found out that consumption was not incurable, that it was not necessarily fatal. He not only found this out, but he found out a way to cure consumption. He introduced his "Golden Medical Discovery." The "Discovery" will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if it is taken according to directions. Consumption is a disease of the blood. It is caused by impoverishment of the blood, and by the existence of disease-germs in the system. If the body is perfectly strong and healthy, and the blood perfectly pure, germs are easily thrown off. If the body is weak, if the tissues are incapable of much resistance, the germs find a resting place and develop. That's the way consumption begins.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" searches out the germs, forces them out of the system and cures consumption and other kindred diseases of the throat, bronchia and lungs. No doubt about it, no question about it. It has done it in hundreds and thousands of cases. The "Discovery" is sold at drug stores.

DETAINED AT DIARBEKIR.

Rev. Mr. Knapp Expelled From Bitlis by the Local Governor.

LONDON, April 9.—There is much indignation in England over the intention of the Sultan of Turkey to exclude Christian missionaries from Asia Minor, and those who were active in measures in behalf of the Armenians take a leading part also in voicing the public sentiment on this question. The case of Rev. G. P. Knapp, the American missionary at Bitlis, who is detained at Diarbekir, is attracting much attention.

A special meeting of the Armenian committee was held yesterday to give expression of opinions on this subject. The Duke of Argyle presided, and he stated that the Duke of Westminster had received information that hostile measures against the Christian missionaries were contemplated by the sultan.

The secretary of the committee reported that an irade had apparently already been signed by the sultan decreeing that the missionaries should be banished, and that Rev. Mr. Knapp's withdrawal was viewed with consternation by his colleagues, and would be most disastrous in every way.

After hearing statements of the situation, the meeting adopted a resolution protesting against the measures threatened by the sultan, and urging the British government to do its utmost to secure the immediate withdrawal of the irade.

The case of Mr. Knapp was made the subject of a special expression, a resolution—to the effect that the committee, having heard with deep regret of the imprisonment of Mr. Knapp, at Diarbekir, earnestly request the government to take immediate steps to obtain the release of Mr. Knapp, whose self denying labors in the distribution of relief to starving Armenians had been the means of saving many lives—was adopted.

The meeting then appointed a deputation to wait upon Mr. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, and to urge upon him to increase the number of British consuls in Asiatic Turkey, as their presence there had a salutary effect in restraining the outrages upon Christian subjects of the sultan and in giving countenance to the work of relief by the missionaries.

Bicyclists Shut Out.

ATHENS, April 9.—There were no American contestants in the Olympic games yesterday, which is apparently the only condition in the games which involves there being no American winners. The bicycle races were conducted in a tempest of wind, which made anything like record speed out of the question. In fact all those taking part in the race abandoned the contest, except the Frenchman, Flameng, who pluckily breasted the storm and finished alone. The American bicycle riders who expected to compete in the races were looked upon as winners, but the managers who examined their amateur status were not satisfied with the result, and licenses were refused.

Attributed to Politics.

LONDON, April 9.—The Morning Post assumes that President Cleveland will do nothing on the Cuban resolution, and that it is merely election tactics. A very serious condition of things exists in Cuba, says The Post, but it is not one that is likely to be improved by the gratuitous interference of American jingoism.

TALK OF SURRENDER.

Quay's Attitude the Chief Topic Discussed In Political Circles.

Maryland Bankers Denounce Free Silver Schemes.

Reed and McKinley Divide Honors at McKinley Club Banquet.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Congressman Robinson's statement made Tuesday continues to be the sensation of the week in political circles.

A. A. Stone of Pennsylvania, a Quay leader, took occasion to deny Robinson's prediction that the state was about to fall in line for McKinley, and also to deny the authenticity of the interview itself. Stone asserting that Quay will receive 62 of the 64 votes in the state at St. Louis, and that the reports to the contrary have been spread in Quay's absence to influence delegates in other states.

Robinson, however, continues to stand by his original remarks, and, although a close friend of Quay, declares that his following will go to McKinley.

Reports of negotiations or surrender are rife. General Grosvenor, with characteristic reticence, denies all knowledge of any such deal. Mr. Chandler is also silent.

The rumored antagonism of the A. P. A. to the McKinley candidacy apparently grows out of this incident, which has just come to light: A few weeks ago the board of governors of the A. P. A. in this city, through Representative Linton, asked for an audience with General Grosvenor. The old politician was tremendously busy and could not then make an immediate appointment; in fact, this pressure on his time continued until the board of governors were obliged to leave the city. The McKinley managers are unwilling, however, to lose any votes on this account, and declare that Grosvenor in no sense represented their candidate in his unwillingness to see the A. P. A. men.

The McKinley people are not throwing away votes anywhere, as is evidenced by their offer of a vice presidency to break up the Reed vote in New England, their effective canvass of the south and the reported negotiations with Senator Quay, offering him "anything" in reason in the way of patronage if he will join the procession."

THE CURRENCY QUESTION

Discussed by Men Who Are Thoroughly Posted on Monetary Affairs.

BALTIMORE, April 10.—At the bankers' convention at Sutro hall yesterday, C. C. Homer offered the resolutions which are deemed the keynote of the meeting. They have been endorsed by the Baltimore Clearing House association and have been approved by United States Controller Eckels. They are as follows:

Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver and to every debasement of our currency in whatsoever form it may be presented. We firmly and honestly believe that the true interests of our country will be best served by its rigid adherence to the gold standard of value, the continuance of which will not only preserve its financial integrity and the future welfare of its citizens, from the wageearner to the capitalist, but will insure through the prompt restoration of confidence that rapid development of its resources which will eventually place it first among the commercial nations of the earth.

Controller Eckels made a speech. Among other things, he said: "This country ought to have the highest and best monetary system the world knows of, or else it should cease to claim to be the home of the most progressive people in the world. We must have as a standard of value not only that which the laws fix as a standard of value, but that which the commercial world fixes as such standard.

"The silver metal has ceased to be a standard of value, because the commercial world has so decreed, and all the laws in all the world could not restore it until the commercial laws did so. No people, here or elsewhere, need delude themselves into the belief that a double standard of value will ever again be set up by a civilized nation, or by international agreement."

The speaker reviewed the history of the silver movement, and said that its advocates were once strong enough to get a bill in its favor through both houses of congress, but that President Grant had vetoed it.

"The silver people will never again," said he, "get another such bill through both houses, and if they do the American people will never place a man in the presidential chair who would permit such a measure to become a law."

REPUBLICANS ALL.

Names of Prominent Leaders Cheered at McKinley Club Banquet.

HARTFORD, April 10.—The event of the year in Republican circles of this city—the annual banquet of the McKinley club—was a complete success. Over 200 covers were laid in the Allyn House banquet hall, many of those participating being state leaders who were in attendance at the meeting of the Republican league.

Henry C. Robinson, in an address of welcome, referred to the sound policy of Thomas B. Reed, and the mention of the speaker's name was followed by a demonstration quite as effective as the preceding one. The name of Major McKinley, Speaker Reed and ex-President Harrison were loudly applauded whenever they were mentioned.

The principal speaker of the evening was Governor John F. Griggs of New Jersey. The governor was accorded a rousing reception, and in return delivered a good speech. The following is an extract:

"Connecticut and New Jersey have many qualities in common. Many of us can boast of a common ancestry. These two states have always been alike in the devotion of their peoples to the progressive principles of the age; in superior systems of education; in the establishment and development of great manufacturing industries, and too often and far too long in their adherence to the Democratic party.

"I will not assume the role of a prophet and try to forecast the Democratic candidate. The future is too dark for ordinary political foresight. If they want to be consistent with their tariff record, they will take Mr. Wilson and rely upon the approval of the London board of trade; if they wish to follow the policy of the Cleveland administration in financial matters, they will take Carlisle. Either will suit us.

"The silver question has been argued out, and the people have made up their minds that we cannot alone, against the rest of the world, maintain the free coinage of the white metal.

"When we shall have nominated our candidate, it will be no weakness in him that our opponents shall call him a protectionist. That is exactly the kind of a candidate the people are looking for. They are impatient of the arguments of the professors of political economy; what they want is not cheap goods, but work and wages."

For the White Metal.

PORTLAND, Or., April 10.—In the state Democratic convention yesterday the committee on platform presented a majority and minority report on the financial plank. The majority report favored the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, while the minority report simply endorsed the Democratic national platform of 1892. After a discussion of three hours the majority report was adopted.

None For McKinley.

PROVIDENCE, April 10.—The Republican convention for the election of delegates to the national convention is being held here today. The eight men to be chosen will be for Reed, until that candidate withdraws from the contest. There is no McKinley sentiment in sight, the efforts of Governor Lippitt to create such having been fruitless in the face of the strong Reed feeling.

For McKinley.

FALMOUTH, Ky., April 10.—W. McD. Shaw of Covington and C. N. Valaudingham of Williamstown were yesterday elected delegates from the sixth district to the St. Louis convention and instructed for McKinley.

The particular part to be performed by the governor will be to turn on the current of electricity which will be furnished from Niagara.

From Shoulder to Hip.

LYONS, N. Y., April 10.—Elias A. Cummings, engineer of the Manhattan Silver Plate company's factory, was compelled to resign his position on March 28, suffering severely from what he supposed rheumatism. He was treated by many physicians who had diagnosed his case as such. Last evening he discovered a black object in the center of a swelling on his hip, and extracted it. It was a large sewing needle. About a year ago the needle had been forced into Cummings' body near the shoulder. Since then he has experienced very severe pains from the shoulder right down to the hip, this being due to the passing of the needle down his side.

Out In Blinding Storm.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 10.—Heavy bodies of Arctic ice drove along the shore in the neighborhood of St. John's yesterday, and crowds of fishermen started over the floes in search of seals. A wild snowstorm overtook them on the ice. It is feared that many have been caught and will not be able to return. Much anxiety prevails for the safety of the men, as death is almost certain in the storm. When such storms swept the icefields three years ago, 20 lives were lost in a similar manner.

Quotation Party.

The quotation party under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society at the Washington Street Congregational church, Thursday evening, was not so largely attended as usual. It was the intention to have a spelling bee in connection with the quotation party, but as none could be found who desired to enter into the competition, this was abandoned. The quotation party, however, proved to be very interesting.

About the room were hung cards bearing parts of quotations and each person present was also given a card upon which was also written part of a quotation and the idea was to try and complete the quotation from the parts hung about the room.

The prize to the one who solved the greatest number was an ice cream, which was secured by Miss Annie Carter, who succeeded in solving ten quotations.

Other attractions were some very fine readings by Miss Beckwith, and ice cream and cake.

Sociable.

The last sociable of the season, which was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church, was one of the most successful of the series. There was a good supper and an equally as good entertainment. Mrs. Ralph J. Saxe sang a vocal solo, and Miss Mary Virginia Hastings and Mr. Wm. P. Clark a duet.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Mrs. L. W. Nash, Mrs. R. S. Hewitson, Mrs. A. L. Baker, Mrs. Rufus B. Tobey, Mrs. Stevens and Miss Hinckley.

A CARD.

The family and relatives of the late Mr. Louis Rinn desire to express their warmest thanks and heartfelt gratitude for the kind sympathy and tokens of friendship shown to their departed loved one, at the time of their deep affliction.

Also to extend their warm thanks and best wishes to Mr. S. O. Moxon for his kind and generous impulses in conducting the arrangements of the last sad rites to a departed friend and companion.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE.

An Insurance of $6,200 on Furniture In Dresser House.

It Is Claimed $5,000 Worth of Paintings Were Destroyed.

The Third Fire Mr. Dresser Has Had in as Many Years.

A hearing is being held in Boston today before State Fire Marshal Whitcomb on the fire at Montclair last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Dresser who occupied the lower part of the house has been visited by numerous fires during the past few years. In 1894 he was burnt out in Boston, after which he came to Squantum. About a year ago the house he occupied at Squantum was burned, together with its contents, the family being unable to save anything. The circumstances of this fire were as follows: On the day in question the weather being cool Mrs. Dresser built a fire in an open fire place and then went to the shore near by. While there the house was discovered to be on fire and before the apparatus arrived from Quincy the building was destroyed. At this fire Mr. Dresser claimed his loss was $1800 upon which by the records at City Hall it appear he was paid $1000.

From Squantum the family went to Montclair and commenced housekeeping in the house that was burned Sunday. That day the family upstairs went away for the day and in the afternoon a new fire was built in the furnace, and the Dresser family went out for a walk only to return and find their house on fire.

When seen Sunday at the fire by a LEDGER reporter Mr. Dresser said he could not tell what his loss was but that it was not very large. It appears, however, that he had an insurance on his furniture of $1,200, and in March he added $5,000 more, making a total of $6,200. The question as to where so much value comes in is answered by the statement that Mrs. Dresser is an artist of some repute and that she had a lot of very valuable paintings which were stored in the attic, and as this was the part of the house that was burnt these paintings were destroyed.

There is no evidence to show that anyone had a hand in causing Sunday's fire but under the circumstances the State fire marshal has thought best to have a hearing, which as stated above, is being held in Boston today.

BEAUTIFUL—FUNNY.

"Land of Nod" and "The Grass Hopper" were Good Entertainers.

The "Land of Nod" and "The Grass Hopper," were a success Thursday evening, in points of good audience, good music, faithful work done by all interested. As this was done to put needed money in the Sunday School treasury, and as it entailed such arduous work, it is hoped it can be repeated another evening. It is a pity to make such elaborate preparations for one performance.

The forty little children were most beautiful in their lovely costumes. Better than their dress, was the careful manner in which they took their parts. Cold and mumps have made inroads into their ranks since they began practising for this, and the leading lad, Master Frank Higgins who has a fine, clear voice, labored under great difficulty in singing; but like a plucky lad as he is, he did well. Great praise is due Miss Randall for her patient, painstaking work in getting up the plays. Others too have given steady work to make it go well. The violin solos by Mr. Arthur Hall and singing by Mrs. H. M. Faxon were very fine.

The Grass Hopper was immensely funny. Mr. Harlow's delicate touches and agility made him the centre of operetta, while the most effective dress and thorough incorporation of self in her part, made Mrs. Hunting a perfect success. Mrs. Blackmur and the girls were a delight to the eye. The "bugs" were very funny, and they earned applause in using muscle and voice simultaneously, while Mr. Pratt's lively contortions were a surprise, even to his friends. Mr. Arnold had a full conception of his funny part, and Mr. Terry was effective.

The music of the Grass Hopper is catchy, the interpolations of familiar airs, as given by the soloists amusing in the extreme. The young people gave their chorus with spirit and in good time.

An unexpected addition to this entertainment were the vari-colored electric lights, furnished by Mr. R. G. Curtis. This is a new feature here and lent beauty to the stage effect.

The Land of Nod is to be repeated Saturday forenoon.

Obituary.

Tidings came yesterday of the sudden death of Mrs. Sarah E. Buffum, a long time resident of Quincy. She was sister of Louis Congdon, the first cashier of the Mount Wollaston Bank. She is generally remembered as a successful teacher of dancing; very many Quincy children being pupils of hers, for a very long period.

She is better known among her friends as a woman of rare, generous character, and of great courage and energy; one who was especially beloved by children. She gave of her little, without stint, to those whom she thought more needy than herself.

The burial will be from the chapel of Pine Grove cemetery, Lynn, Saturday afternoon.

President Adams Reelected.

Charles F. Adams presided Thursday at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and was reelected president. An inaugural address was delivered by President Adams in which he discussed at length, and with great clearness and precision of statement, the present financial condition of the society, and the policy which it ought to pursue in the immediate future. After the adjournment, the members and invited guests were entertained at luncheon by the president, at his home on Gloucester street, Boston.

The Neponset Also.

In a personal letter to a friend in Quincy, received Thursday, Congressman Atwood says, there is no doubt about the bill which includes the $10,000 for Town river passing the senate. In the same bill which gives Quincy $10,000, there is also an appropriation for a survey of Neponset river from Quincy bridge, (Granite avenue), to Milton Lower Mills. Milton has been trying for years to get this survey made but has been unable to obtain it. Congressman Atwood certainly is a hustler.

No More Slugging.

The anti-boxing bill as passed to be engrossed in the Legislature Thursday, prohibits any boxing match public or private, where the "contestants have received or been promised any reward, remuneration or consideration whatsoever." A violation of the act is punishable by a fine of not exceeding $200 or three months imprisonment, or both.

The Quincy Debating Society Have Interesting Discussion.

The Sewerage Question in Its Three-Fo'd Aspect.

When, Where and How the Point at Issue Last Evening.

The last meeting of the Quincy Debating club for the winter of 95-96 was a decided success, and all went away feeling that the debate and the several explanatory maps that were hung on the blackboard had clearly set forth the needs and the difficulties of a sewerage system.

The question was stated as follows:—"Resolved, That Quincy should take immediate steps towards constructing a sewerage system with the outlet at Moon Island, and that the total cost should be raised by the assessment, rental, and general tax plan."

C. A. Price in opening the debate said, that while Quincy has many needs, the need of a sewer is the greatest of all. Go to the plains of Wollaston, go to the West district, go to some of the other parts of Quincy and look around you, and if you do not see the need of a sewer then your observations will be different from mine. Soon we must have a sewer, why therefore not take immediate step:—the need is a pressing one and the longer we wait, the greater will be the land damages. Quincy is well and healthily situated, but our physicians will tell you that an epidemic once started here is harder to stop than in most of the surrounding towns. There have been this year many cases of diphtheria due largely if not entirely to the poor drainage. As for entering at Moon Island, consolidation always lessens expense. We can go into the Boston sewer probably on something like a basis of $1,000 a year for 1,000,000 gallons a day, and this is about the amount that Quincy would have now. If we go to Nut island—the alternate outlet—not only will the cost of piping be greater, but Quincy will have to build and maintain a complete discharge system of her own. There will also be the costly and troublesome question of land damages.

Stacy Southworth was the next speaker. There was an ancient legend among the inhabitants of the Euphrates that no one passed into that promised land without complete forgetfulness. Will not you try to forget all this newspaper talk all your prejudices in favor of a sewerage system. The first part of this three fold question is that Quincy shall take immediate steps towards constructing a sewerage system. Quincy needs such a system undoubtedly, and the first thought says "Go ahead;" but wait a moment; stop and think. Can we afford thus to spend one-third of a million dollars. We find these words in our Mayor's inaugural:—"Always bearing in mind that our ambition shall be measured by our means." Take two men who we call Mr. Economy and Mr. Extravagance. Both need a new coat, new hat, new shoes, new clothes. Mr. Economy says, my coat is shabby, my shoes worn out, but with care and patchings I can make them do. What absurdity says Mr. Extravagance. I must have a new coat, new shoes, new hat, new everything, even though I may get deeply into debt. No, gentlemen, we need a sewer, but more than a sewer we need schoolhouses; more than a sewer we need a water supply. Our coffers are low. Shall we be Mr. Economy or Mr. Extravagance?

The hospital is one of our noblest institutions said Fred Tupper. It cures disease, but a sewer prevents. At present there is being discharged through the Boston sewer about 75,000,000 gallons a day while Quincy would discharge only about 1,000,000 so that for Quincy to go in there would necessitate no enlargement and almost no extra expense. If Quincy should discharge at Nut Island she would have to pay no inconsiderable sum for land damages. To be sure the currents may be such that Houghs Neck would be in no way effected and that her claim for damages would be merely a sentimental one, but it is the kind of sentiment that costs. The value of land at this summer resort would inevitably fall and Quincy would be held responsible.

How should our sewerage system be paid for? Fairness says that the expense shall be proportioned exactly in the degree that a benefit is conferred. We cannot devise a perfect system of payments but we claim that our method is the best of any yet suggested. The city and all her citizens are benefitted by a sewerage system and to a certain proportion should fall in the general taxes and this the law provides a still greater benefit is conferred on the owner of land abutting the sewer. The value of his land will rise and so he should pay something for this greater individual benefit, while the greatest benefit of all is conferred on him who not only has the value of his land raised but also makes use of the sewer and he should therefore pay most of all. There are the three classes of people in their relation to the sewer, these three classes of benefits, and in accordance with the benefits conferred the payments should be.

The second speaker on the affirmative, said A. B. Holden, has acknowledged that the damage to Houghs Neck would only be one of sentiment. It does not seem as if we can afford to deal with sentiment, unsubstantial sentiment. The method of payment advocated by the affirmative is practically that adopted by the city of Brockton. It may look well on paper, and it may sound well, but it is only an experiment, whether a successful experiment or not remains to be seen. Let us rather adopt some method, perhaps not ideal, but some method which has been tried in the scales of practical experience and not found wanting. Why should we not use the meter system, thus learning the exact amount of direct benefit conferred. In addition drainable land not connected with a sewer should pay according to the estimated amount of direct benefit conferred.

C. A. Price and Stacy Southworth were then each given five minutes for rebuttal arguments, and after a vote on the merits of the debate (won by the negative) the discussion was made general.

After complimenting the principal disputants on their able arguments, Hon. John Shaw said: Let us make haste by going slowly, and not be carried away with the desire to enter the great Boston sewer. There is a peninsula on either side of Quincy. Boston has made use of one of these; let Quincy make use of the other. If there were not this second peninsula what would Quincy not give to have the land constructed from here to Nut Island, and to have the currents so arranged that the sewerage dumped there would be swept to sea? Quincy is fortunate in having the Nut Island outlet if she only knew it. The almighty dollar tells us to go to Moon Island as it is cheaper in the beginning, but Boston will soon have to lengthen her sewer to Long Island and then will it be cheaper?

Councilman Walter S. Pinkham did not agree with some of the remarks of the gentleman, and some of the gentlemen who followed Mr. Pinkham did not agree with him. All, however, agreement and disagreement, was in the most friendly spirit.

The other speakers were Engineer Branch, Alex Craig, O. C. Colton, W. Fenten and D. King.

Mr. T. B. Pollard then criticised the principal disputants, and the debate was adjourned sine die.

The Lawrence Fight.

HAVERHILL, Mass., April 10.—Bail has been secured by all parties implicated in the fatal fight at Lawrence Saturday night, in which Richard Ingram lost his life, with the exception of Bradley, who has been unable to secure a bondsman, and who will probably remain in confinement until the sitting of the grand jury.

Jim Gilligan is back in town. He is the first man seen who has been willing to talk on the affair. He looks at it as a most unfortunate one, and hardly knows what to expect when his trial will have come, for he intends to stand trial, and will face his music like a man.

"I don't feel quite so badly about it as if all those fellows had been friends of mine. I only knew one of the whole crowd. I met them in Lawrence that night, and they asked me to go. I suppose it was because they thought I knew something about such things."

"What kind of a fight was it, anyway, Jim?"

"Why, it was no fight at all. Those fellows couldn't fight. They did not know a thing about putting up their punchers, and couldn't even protect themselves. They were and calling each other by their first names. The gang would never know it was a fight. It was the slowest thing I ever saw, and there wasn't a good blow struck through it all."

"How about the knockout?"

"Why, I didn't think it was a knockout at all. It was only a push, at the best, and when Ingram didn't get up we thought he was all right. I didn't know he was dead till after I was arrested."

"What kind of gloves were used?"

"I don't know. I should think, though, they were six or seven ounce mittens. They were bags."

Gilligan denied that there was any ring formed, and said that the men simply fought on the floor. The crowd stood up, for the most part, and joked among themselves. He also denied that he was the first to enter the barn, and said that some of the others did that.

There will be no denial on the part of the defendants about the affair, but the legal fight will be made on technical points as to the rights of spectators and those present at a fight where no admission is charged.

The question of sentence is being argued on the streets to a great extent, and the general opinion seems to be that it will vary much in the cases of the several men, owing to the several positions each held in regard to the fight.

Regained First Husband.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., April 10.—Mrs. O. C. Maher was married yesterday afternoon to Buel Seymour of Fitzgerald, Ga. She first married Buel Seymour in Granville, Mass., in 1865. After living 12 years together in the west, having three children, they became accidentally separated. Mrs. Seymour believed her husband dead, came east and married C. C. Maher. Her husband eloped in 1893 with a waiter girl, and Mrs. Maher secured a divorce. She recently learned that her former husband was living in Georgia, and correspondence followed, resulting in their marriage here yesterday.

Shorter Hours Wanted.

BOSTON, April 10. — The cotton mule spinners' convention concluded its labors yesterday afternoon. Robert Howard of Fall River was chosen organizer for the southern states, and directed to make a tour of the localities where the southern textile mills are situated. The delegates were instructed to ask the congressmen from their respective districts to urge upon congress a national law for a shorter working time for women and children in manufacturing establishments.

Saw the Assault.

PROVIDENCE, April 10.—Edward Jansen, who is wanted as a witness for the state in the trial of James Carpenter for manslaughter, was found yesterday, and has made a statement, in which he is quoted as saying he was at Rowen's barn on March 31 and saw Carpenter assault Harry Morse, and that he assisted Morse to his home. Jansen is a very important witness for the state.

A WORD FROM RUSSIA

Will Decide Future Dealings With Missionaries In Turkey.

Knapp Will Be Tried by a United States Official.

Indications That He Will Be Permitted to Return to Bitlis.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 10.—The steps taken in behalf of the missionaries in Asia Minor have had a beneficial effect. The Turkish government yesterday, replying to the renewed representations on the subject made by Ambassador Currie, and the United States charge d'affaires, John W. Riddle, assured the diplomats that the missionaries in Asia Minor would not be molested "so long as they conform with the laws of the country."

But this assurance does not carry with it the weight which it would in coming from any other government, it is claimed, as there is no question but that the Turkish officials have been trying to prove that the missionaries are not "conforming with the laws of the country," and it was on this ground that the sultan prepared and probably signed the irade providing for their expulsion from the Turkish dominions.

But the publicity given to the matter in the press dispatches have certainly caused a hesitation at the palace, and it is now thought likely that the irade will be withheld, at least until Russia has been further consulted on the subject. If Russia says that the missionaries are not to be expelled, the irade will not be made public. On the other hand, if Russia thinks herself strong enough to proceed with the work of Russianizing Asiatic Turkey, the irade may soon see the light of day.

TERRELL'S GOOD OFFICES

Will Make It Easy For Missionary Knapp to Secure Justice.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—It can be stated on authority that there is no reason for apprehension that Missionary Knapp will not meet with fair treatment, and eventually be permitted to return to his post at Bitlis, after he has undergone the forms of clearing himself from the charges that have been lodged against him of conspiracy against the government.

Early in the course of the Armenian troubles, Mr. Terrell, our minister to Turkey, was instructed by the state department to see to it that any American citizen, native or naturalized, who was arrested by the Turkish government be surrendered to the United States minister for trial.

Our government, against the opposition of the porte in taking this step, held that under the treaty of 1830 it had the right to exercise extra-territorial jurisdiction in Turkey where American citizens are concerned. Mr. Terrell was explicitly instructed by Secretary Olney to claim all rights under the fourth article of the treaty, and to offer to try any American citizen charged with insurrection, rebellion, sedition or like offenses, or in the event of such offer being refused, to demand the release of the accused.

So, when Mr. Knapp was about to be arrested by the local Turkish authorities at Bitlis, and notified Mr. Terrell, the latter promptly addressed himself to the porte, and, after much difficulty, secured the remission of the trial of the missionary to himself. This necessitated the coming of Knapp to Constantinople, but as there was good assurance that the charges of sedition against the missionary were without substantial foundation, there was no reason to apprehend that he would not be promptly acquitted upon trial before the United States minister or his representative and be permitted to return to his post. The Knapp case, therefore, can be summed up as follows:

Knapp is being brought to the coast as the result of an agreement between the Turkish government and Mr. Terrell; the minister has secured what might be regarded as valuable concessions from the authorities in having the trial of the missionary taken out of the hands of the Turkish authorities and left to his own court, and, in order to stand trial, the accused must make his appearance before the American authorities at Constantinople.

Miser Found Dead.

NEW YORK, April 10.—John Pugelesy, a recluse, was found dead in a back room of a tenement house in East One Hundred and Eighth street. It was discovered that he owned more than $1,500,000 worth of real estate in Brooklyn, Baltimore and Florida. He was about 75 years of age, and had been living the life of a hermit five months in a miserable cellar that he rented for $3 a month. Pugelesy had been married twice and had two sons by each wife.

Constable After Them.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 10.—High Constable Pillow left here yesterday for Norfolk to arrest and bring back to Petersburg Doyle, Kelley and Brodie of the Baltimore team. The charge against Doyle is that of participating in the fight at the ball park Wednesday afternoon, and that against Kelley and Brodie is for assaulting J. Quarles at the Appomatox hotel. It is reported that the three ball players have left Norfolk very hastily, going to Baltimore.

Farmhand's Murderous Work.

WINNIPEG, April 10.—On the main road, a mile from the village of Holland, was found the body of Hannah Hatton, with the skull crushed in and throat cut from ear to ear. Hannah was the young daughter of a prominent farmer of the district. Last evening Robert Moran, a man servant in the employ of the young girl's father, was arrested for the deed. The detectives charge that he was criminally intimate with the girl.

Crazed by Pain.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Henry Fitch committed suicide here yesterday by shooting himself through the head at his home on Capitol hill. He had been suffering greatly from pains in his head for the past six weeks, and it is believed committed the deed while in a fit of temporary insanity. He was 57 years of age and a native of Ohio, and a man of some means.

The Measles at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—There has been no extension as yet of the measles among the president's children at Woodley, and Esther is reported to be coming along as well as could be expected. Another of Mr. Thurber's children has taken the disease—the third in his family—in the person of his boy Donald.

ALL PURE FICTION.

Secretary of the A. P. A. Talks About Alleged Political Letters.

BOSTON, April 9.—Dr. J. B. Dunn of this city, secretary of the national advisory board of the American Protective association, yesterday made a statement relative to a story emanating from St. Louis, purporting to be an account of an alleged "snub" given the order by Mark Hanna, who is prominently mentioned in connection with the McKinley campaign.

This story alleged that letters were sent by the advisory board to the managers of McKinley, Reed, Morton and Allison, and that all save Hanna replied. A second letter was sent to Hanna, who replied that McKinley would recognize no faction of the Republican party. In consequence of this reply, it is stated that the board notified the different managers that the order would fight McKinley.

It was further alleged that Congressman Linton of Michigan had been selected as a candidate. Dr. Dunn says that he has been present at every meeting of the board, and that no action whatsoever was taken by the board booming Mr. Linton or any other person for the presidency. He said further:

"As utterly false is the statement that the advisory board sent letters to the managers of McKinley, Reed, Morton and Allison, inviting them to appear before the board and state their attitude toward the organization, as they intended to take a hand in the national fight, and that all the managers but Hanna obeyed the summons.

"The board sent out no such letters; its members are not simpletons. As no first letter was sent to Hanna, there was no second, and his reported reply that he would recognize no faction in the Republican party, and would make no pledges or promises to any secret organization, is all fiction, and the St. Louis correspondent had better try again."

SCHEMING IN FLORIDA.

Confab Between Quay and Platt May Bring About a Political Crisis.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The statement of Congressman Robinson of Pennsylvania, which appeared in these dispatches yesterday, is regarded here as of more than passing significance. He is one of Quay's lieutenants, and is a candidate for Cameron's seat in the senate.

For some days the McKinley people have been negotiating with Quay's leaders, promising Quay everything in reason in the way of patronage if he falls in line with the procession, and threatening that his fortunes will be wrecked if he stands longer in the way of the boom.

Quay, somewhat angered by these propositions, has gone to Florida to think over the situation and decide what action it is best to take. Platt has gone to Florida, too, to join Quay, although without invitation from the latter. Platt desires to secure some favorable terms before he surrenders to the conqueror, McKinley, and essentially wishes to arrange with Quay for holding out until each can get what he desires.

The Florida conference now being held is of epoch-making importance. If Platt and Quay decide to accept the offers of the McKinley traders in the way of patronage, and discontinue further opposition under the favorite son guise, the campaign will be over and McKinley's nomination assured. Future developments in New York and Pennsylvania will be awaited with interest.

Robbed Three Places.

WATERLOO, N. H., April 10.—The post-office, grocery store of R. H. Gage and the summer residences of Rev. John C. Ayer of Brooklyn and Senator W. E. Chandler were broken into Tuesday night and considerable property taken. The townspeople spent yesterday searching for suspects. Two tramps were arrested, but they proved alibis and were released.

Hub's Horse Show.

BOSTON, April 10.—Yesterday was the most notable occasion of the horse show. Both afternoon and evening nearly every available seat was occupied. The contests were more marked, and the judges were called upon to display great judgment in order to pick the winners. The out-of-town exhibits came in for a good share of the prizes.

Forger Pardoned.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 10.—The executive council yesterday granted a pardon on the petition of Oscar F. Skillings of Portland, who was sentenced six years' imprisonment four years ago for forgery. The pardon was petitioned for on account of impaired health and a dependent mother 72 years of age.

Katahdin Gives Satisfaction.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 10.—The ram Katahdin yesterday had a speed trial over a course of 36 knots, in Long Island Sound, and developed about 14¼ knots. The government board expresses satisfaction with the vessel's work.

Sheriff's Sale.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. Quincy, March 5, 1896.

BY Virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment in favor of G. B. Bates of Quincy against Martin W. Frolund of said Quincy, at the East Norfolk District Court, for said County, I this day seized and took all the right, title and interest the within-named Martin W. Frolund had on the thirteenth day of February, A. D., 1896, at twenty minutes past five o'clock P. M. (this being the time when the same was attached on mesne process), in and to the following described parcel of real estate, viz.:

A certain parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth, called Montclair, and comprising the lot numbered thirty-one (31), as shown on the plan dated March 16, 1892, H. T. Whitman, surveyor, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 664. Said parcel is bounded and described as follows, viz.: Northerly on lot thirty (30), ninety (90) feet; easterly on land of owners unknown, fifty (50) feet; southerly on lot thirty-two (32), ninety (90) feet; westerly on Montclair avenue, fifty (50) feet; and containing forty-five hundred (4500) square feet of land, and on the twenty-seventh day of April next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, at my residence, No. 53 Franklin street, Quincy, in said County, I shall offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the aforesaid right, title and interest of said Martin W. Frolund, to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale.

IN CONGRESS.

Congressman Fitzgerald Makes a Sharp Attack on the A. P. A.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The house, yesterday, after debating the bill to abolish compulsory pilotage on sailing vessels engaged in the coastwise trade, defeated the measure by a large majority—57 to 117.

The District of Columbia appropriation bill, which was recommitted early in March, after a protracted fight against appropriations for private and sectarian charitable institutions, was brought into the house, with the specific appropriation stricken out, and containing in lieu thereof an appropriation of a lump sum for charities to be expended under the direction of the district commissioners, with the proviso that no part of the appropriation should go to institutions in ecclesiastical or sectarian control. The feature of the debate was a vigorous attack on the A. P. A. by Mr. Fitzgerald (Dem., Mass.), who announced himself to be a Roman Catholic, and who charged that the A. P. A. were responsible for striking out the charitable items from the bill. The bill was passed—134 to 21.

"It has been stated," said Mr. Fitzgerald, "that members of the A. P. A. organization never made any opposition at all to the appropriations for these institutions until the night before, and then they bombarded the committee room and insisted upon the appropriations for these institutions being stricken out.

"The animus of this organization," he proceeded, "is well known. Members of the house have been importuned, not in the interest of justice, of freedom, or of a broad spirit of liberality and Americanism, to oppose this bill because it appropriated money for Catholic institutions. I stand upon this floor, born and bred a Roman Catholic, and proud of it, and I deny the right of any secret organization to come before the legal representatives of the country and by its dark, deep, underhand methods seek to deprive me and the members of the religion which I profess of the rights and privileges and dues of American citizenship.

"What apology is there for a Roman Catholic to live in this country? Is one necessary? Look at the deeds of bravery and heroism and statesmanship that have been performed by Roman Catholics. I challenge any member of the A. P. A. organization in this house or any member in sympathy with it to name any sphere in life or any public duty that has been badly filled or ill performed by members of the Roman Catholic church. In the great War of the Revolution Washington had no firmer friends or firmer supporters than the Roman Catholic members of his staff; and when we look at the great naval struggle, which was the pride and the glory of the American people at that time, the first name that springs to our lips is that of an Irishman, a Roman Catholic, Captain John O'Brien, who achieved the first great naval victory of the war off the coast of Maine.

"It was not asked whether Kosciusko or Pulaski or Lafayette were Catholics when the 13 colonies were struggling for their independence. At that time could you find any fanatics? At that time could you find persons stealthily creeping from one end of the country to the other in secrecy, intriguing against a man's religion? I know we talk about the breadth and liberality of the American people in these days; why, sir, it is not to be compared with the breadth and liberality and wisdom that were exhibited in those times.

"My friends, if we should have war with England on account of the Venezuelan matter, or war with Spain on account of the Cuban matter, where would the members of this famous organization be—where would they be found? They would be found in the same place and under the same auspices that they were found in the War of the Rebellion, taking the steamers for Nova Scotia to put themselves under the protection of the British flag.

"Those would be the conditions that would exist and those are the conditions that always exist when people try to strike with a knife in the back."

After being in retirement for some weeks the tariff silver bill was brought forward in the senate yesterday as a text for a speech by Mr. Mantle (Mon.), one of the five Republican senators who voted against considering the Dingley tariff bill. Mr. Mantle defended the course of the silver Republican senators, declaring that the Dingley bill was not framed as a patriotic measure. He urged that unsectional protection should be linked with bimetallism. A sharp tariff colloquy followed between Senators Mills, Hoar, Hawley and Mitchell as to the effect of the Wilson bill on wool.

Some progress was made an the Indian appropriation bill.

The calendar was cleared of all private pension bills, after an hour specially devoted to pensions.

Triple Tragedy in Texas.

BRENHAM, Tex., April 10.—On the depot platform at Millican, John Brooks shot and killed his daughter, Mollie, and her sweetheart, A. C. Worrels, as they were about to board a train for Bryan, where they were to be married. After the shooting, Brooks went to the rock quarry near Millican and sat down on a box of dynamite, which he exploded, and blew himself to pieces.

No Strike.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The threatened strike of the employes engaged on the 12 lines operated by the Metropolitan Traction company in this city has ended in a fizzle. The original demand on the part of the employes' association to force the Metropolitan Traction company to reinstate the 10 discharged employes has been abandoned.

Senator Morgan Sick.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Senator Morgan's condition has given rise to various rumors to the effect that his disease is of a critical nature, but members of his household deny such is the fact. They say that the congestion of the liver, which has caused the sickness, has been relieved, and express the opinion that he will improve now.

Needed No Urging.

MEMPHIS, April 10.—The Tennessee Derby was won by Dr. McLean's brown gelding Berclair. The start was a good one. Berclair immediately jumped to the front, and, ridden in faultless style by Thorpe, remained there to the end, winning without whip or spur by 1½ lengths. The time—1:55¾—is the Tennessee Derby record.

Bank President Implicated.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., April 10.—Luke Usher, president of the National bank of Potsdam; Fred La Duke, proprietor of the Frontier House, and Henry Legacy, all of Potsdam, were arrested here by a United States marshal for conspiracy. They were admitted to bail in $500 each. They are charged with breach of the alien labor law

WOMEN WANT TO KNOW.

To Whom Can They Tell Their Troubles?

A Woman Answers "To Me"—Anxious Inquirers Intelligently Answered—Thousands of Grateful Letters.

Women regard it as a blessing that they can talk to a woman who fully understands their every ailment, and thus avoid the examinations, experiments and theories of incompetent physicians, whose sex deprives them of knowing by experience. The endless confidence placed in Mrs. Pinkham by American women, prompts them to seek her advice constantly.

Female diseases yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. Inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian troubles, spinal weakness and kidney complaints, all have their symptoms, and should be "nipped in the bud." Bearing-down pains, backache, headache, nervousness, pains in groins, lassitude, whites, irregularities, dread of impending evil, blues, sleeplessness, faintness, etc.

Here is testimony right to the point:

"The doctors told me that unless I went to the hospital and had an operation performed, I could not live. I had falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb.

"I was in constant misery all the time; my back ached; I was always tired. It was impossible for me to walk far or stand long at a time. I was surely a wreck. I decided that I would give your Compound and Sanative Wash a trial.

"I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of Sanative Wash, and I am now almost well. I am stouter and healthier than I have ever been in my life. My friends and neighbors and the doctors are surprised at my rapid improvement. I have told them all what I have been taking."—MRS. ANNETTA BICKMEIER, Bellaire, Belmont Co., O.

Hours of Labor For Women and Minors. Knockout Blow to Boxing.

BOSTON, April 10.—In the legislature yesterday the following important reports were made by committees: Adversely on the petition of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to prevent vivisection in schools; bills authorizing $1,000,000 for park purposes and $1,000,000 for parkways and boulevards; adversely on the bill to give West Boylston employes six months' wages in consideration of their work being taken from them by the taking of land for metropolitan water supply; adversely on the bill to repeal the law exempting from taxation church property; a bill authorizing the appointment of women as special commissioners to take testimony; against relaxing the laws relative to licensing steam engineers.

In the house, the second consideration of the bill prohibiting all boxing contests developed a sharp debate, and the bill was passed by a vote of 149 to 41. The bill aims to prohibit the public exhibitions for purses as well as the scientific meetings of clubs, and is the most stringent measure against this form of athletics ever proposed in the state.

Representative Kelliher made an urgent appeal for boxing in public and private, and contended that the passage of such a bill would tend to drive the sport under cover with disastrous results. He submitted an amendment to permit matches where a trophy not to exceed $25 in value was offered, which, with Mr. Krebs' motion to exempt eight-ounce gloves, was rejected. Representative Mellen of Worcester referred to the bill as a bit of "maudlin sentimentality."

The bill to exempt from taxation personal property situated and taxed outside the commonwealth and shares of foreign corporations was laid upon the table.

Mr. Galloupe offered an order in the senate providing that on and after April 14 that body shal sit regularly at 1 p. m., and, unless adjournment be reached at an earlier hour, shall adjourn at 4:40 p. m.

The bill relative to the hours of labor of women and minors in mercantile and manufacturing establishments to prevent compulsory overtime work was ordered to a third reading—26 to 10.

Tragedy In Salem.

SALEM, Mass., April 10.—What seems to have been a case of murder and then suicide was discovered yesterday morning in the rooms of a Salem dressmaker, Miss Josephine Manning. Fire was discovered in her room, and attempts to put out the fire led to the discovery of her dead body, with a bullet wound in the head, and also to the finding of James P. Flynn, who was just at the point of death, and who died before a physician could reach him. It is believed that Flynn shot Miss Manning, then himself, and that the flash of the powder from the revolver set the clothing on fire. It was supposed that they were soon to be married. People who know Flynn believe that the cause of the trouble was not so much jealousy as it was the result of the use of liquor.

An Adventure In Cuba.

BOSTON, April 10.—Mate Edwin Burke of the schooner Dilloway, now at her pier in this city, was recently a prisoner in the hands of the Spaniards in Cuba. He went there on a vessel from a Texas port which landed arms and ammunition for the Cuban cause. Burke and another sailor named Bridger started to walk to Habana, instead of reshipping to Texas on the same schooner. While on the road they were taken prisoners. Burke and Bridger finally reached Habana, where they were incarcerated for 18 days with many political prisoners. After a time the two Americans were given separate hearings, after which they were sentenced to death. On March 19 Burke says he was taken to the prison commandant's office, where a Mr. Wilde, representing Consul General Williams, heard a statement of his position and his claims to American citizenship. On the 24th he was released and forwarded to the United States. On the day previous to Burke's getting a note forwarded to the consul general's office, by which attention was secured in his case, he says that Bridger and seven others were marched to the "slaughter pen" and "shot like dogs."

Everyone young and old has been to the Horse show in Boston this week.

A pleasing reunion of the Good Will whist club was held last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jones on Foster street. Mr. and Mrs. Jones expected one or two to call in the evening, but as one couple after another began to arrive, Mr. Jones as he expressed it, began to "smell a mouse," and as the last couple arrived he saw the whole rat. The reunion proved to be a very enjoyable one, and as the name denotes, good will and whist prevailed. It was during a brief lull in the festivities that Mr. Friend Crane, in behalf of the club, presented Mr. and Mrs. Jones with a Dresden clock. This also was a surprise but Mr. Jones was soon able to collect his scattered thoughts and responded in his usual felicitous manner, thanking them all for the pleasing remembrance and assuring them that he would ever be on time at all like occasions. Refreshments were served.

Massachusetts Bay Colony of Pilgrim Fathers of Atlantic held their last social dancing party at Music hall last evening.

The attendance was large being about seventy-five couples, but there was a little scarcity of gentlemen. Sprague's orchestra discoursed music for dancing until midnight.

FOLLOWED BAY STATE

Rhode Island Is Emphatically For Reed and Sound Money.

Inflexibly Opposed to Free Coinage of Silver.

A Plea For Settlement of International Disputes by Arbitration.

PROVIDENCE, April 11.—The Republican state convention held in Music hall yesterday was an enthusiastic gathering. It was a Reed gathering, and Reed buttons were prominent in nearly every coat lapel. The name McKinley was not heard, and a man who tried to distribute McKinley buttons was received with freezing looks.

Adin B. Capron came out flatfooted for Reed in a "Republican glory" oration. The mention of the Maine man's name was a token of Reed's strength in Little Rhody.

The convention was called to order by Hunter C. White, and Adin B. Capron of Smithfield was elected chairman. Eugene F. Warner, secretary of the state central committee, was elected secretary, and the temporary organization made permanent. Chairman Capron made a telling speech, in the course of which there were three principles the people of America expected the Republicans to stand up for. They were sound currency, adequate protection and "Tom" Reed.

John C. Wyman of Central Falls also made a short but sparkling address, in which he said the Republican party would knock out every candidate the Democratic party could think of and finally the one they put up to run for president. There was nothing to hinder a Republican president from occupying the White House.

At the conclusion of his speech the committee on resolutions reported the resolutions on the currency questions, which were adopted.

The committee on resolutions then reported as follows:

"Resolved, That the Republicans of Rhode Island are inflexibly opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and they believe the continued agitation of what is called the silver question to be unpatriotic and destructive of all the interests of industry and commerce.

"The existing gold standard is the measure of value adopted by the nations with whom the United States have the most important commercial relations, and the very suggestion of a departure from it inflicts injury to the credit of a nation whose honor should never be questioned at home or abroad.

"To those who toil for their daily bread a currency redeemable in and of equal value with gold is essential. While the capitalist may protect himself against the fluctuations even of silver, the laborer and the artisan, the salaried official and the widow are powerless to guard against the changing values of a currency, which a great and beneficent government should make absolutely secure and unchanging in its purchasing power.

"Believing war, as the ultimate method of settling international disputes, to be unchristian and, consequently, uncivilized, the Republicans of Rhode Island urge upon the national government the creation of an international court of arbitration, to which shall be referred for adjudication all differences with nations consenting thereto, which from time to time may arise, and which, without the intervention of this august tribunal, might lead to appalling destruction of life and property, and to the demoralization of the republic."

The delegates were then elected as follows: Delegates-at-large—E. L. Freeman of Lincoln; F. F. Olney of Providence; S. W. K. Allen of East Greenwich; A. L. Chester of Westerly.

Alternates—A. J. Currier of Cumberland; Lucian Sharpe, Jr., of Providence; C. A. Johnston of Warwick.

First congressional district delegates—John P. Sanborn of Newport; George L. Smith of Barrington. Alternates—Reginald H. Norman of Newport; Charles H. Church of Bristol.

Second congressional district delegates—Walter A. Reed of Gloucester; E. Charles Francis of Woonsocket.

The confirmation of the delegates by the district conventions wound up the official business of the day and the convention adjourned.

Starved Amid Plenty.

EXETER, R. I., April 11.—Charles R. Tefft, an unmarried farmer, 32 years old, will be examined as to his sanity. A visit to his barn yesterday revealed the fact that, although it had been well stocked, the stalls were filled with carcasses of starved sheep, some of which had lain there a month. Two cows, wasted to death, were still tied at the stanchions, and a drove of 25 sheep in the barnyard were almost dead from starvation. The mows of the barn were loaded with hay and grain, and Tefft only explained the condition of affairs by saying the cattle refused to eat when fed.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 11.—The senate rejected the order for an investigation of the state militia by the committee on military affairs sitting in vacation. The senate passed the short lobster bill to be engrossed. The house submitted for an adverse report a bill making the legal height of Boston firemen 5ft. 5in. The same body passed to be engrossed a bill to prevent the carrying of concealed weapons on the persons. The house passed to be engrossed the bill to define the membership of the First Congregational church in Lowell.

Ice Freight Rates Go Up.

PORTLAND, Me., April 11.—The big shipowners of New England have all signed a paper agreeing to the following schedule of freights from the Kennebec and Penobscot rivers during the ice shipping season: New York and Philadelphia, 60 cents; Baltimore and Washington, 65 cents; Richmond, 85 cents a ton. This is to include free wharfage and towage. The shipowners claim that they cannot stand the prices of last season, which were not more than 50 cents.

Hartwell Was Elected.

BANGOR, Me., April 11.—In the supreme court yesterday, the Oldtown contested mayoralty case was decided by the dismissal of the bill in equity brought by Edgar B. Weeks, Republican candidate, asking that Eben T. Hartwell (Dem.) be compelled to vacate the office, and that he (Weeks) be installed therein. By the count, Hartwell had a majority of one vote, and according to the decision the count stands.

Lobster Dealers Protest.

PORTLAND, Me., April 11.—The lobster dealers of this city, who furnish about all of the fish for the New York market, keep them in big cars in the docks in which the board of health says the sewers of the city empty. The health officers ordered the lobster dealers to remove their cars to deep water. This means a loss of thousands of dollars to local dealers, who have protested.

Peter's Sad News From Home.

PORTLAND, Me., April 11.—T. Peter an Armenian, yesterday received a letter from his brother, who is in Armenia. The letter describes the burning and massacre of the inhabitants of Tidem and Kooloo, in which fully 200 were killed. At the first fire Peter's father, sister and mother were killed. The writer says that 10,000 Armenians have lost their lives.

For Russell.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., April 11.—L. S Pratt reorganized the local Democratic body here last night. After a heated discussion on eligible Democrats, delegates were elected to the district and state conventions, and resolutions in favor of William E. Russell were adopted.

Stabbing Affray at Lynn.

LYNN, Mass., April 11.—During a dispute in Northley's shoe factory yesterday, Augustus Hammond was stabbed in the groin and shoulder four times by a fellow workman, Albert W. Charman. Hammond lies in a critical condition, and Charman is under arrest.

Given Up For Lost.

BOSTON, April 11.—The owners of the schooner Otello, which sailed from here Feb. 18, have given the vessel up for lost. The Otello sailed for Savannah, and has never been heard from. Her captain was J. B. Coombs of Foxboro, and she carried a crew of seven.

Some Time In the Future.

BOSTON, April 11.—By a provision of the will of the late D. T. Mills, of the firm of D. T. Mills & Co., the Museum of Fine Arts will some day receive from $500,000 to $800,000. Before this bequest is paid, his immediate heirs must have passed away.

New England Briefs.

Governor Wolcott issued a proclamation naming April 25 as Arbor day in Massachusetts.

At Vineyard Haven, Mass., the wreckage of the stranded schooner Belle Hardy realized $486.35 at auction.

James Gorman, aged 12 years, was fatally injured at Pawtucket, R. I., while attempting to board a freight train.

Benjamin G. Chase, aged 85 years, a man of considerable prominence, dropped dead in a dentist's office at Providence.

A stranded actor named Charles T. Adams, about 40 years old, committed suicide at Portland, Me., by taking morphine.

Boston inspectors arrested Bayard Dudley, charged with breaking and entering and larceny at Weymouth, Whitman and Abington.

George H. Bartlett, a prominent coal dealer of Portland, Me., has mysteriously disappeared from home. He has not been seen since last Tuesday.

The Maine Democratic state committee decided to hold the state convention for the nomination of delegates to the Chicago convention on June 17, in Portland.

The body of George Orr, a 17-year-old boy, who was drowned at Stillwater, Me., early in the winter, was found in the ice in the Penobscot river at Bangor yesterday.

The New Hampshire Democratic state committee voted to hold the state convention in Concord May 20. It was also voted to reorganize the state committee at the May convention.

Luther W. Young was arrested at Haverhill, Mass., charged with being a spectator at the fatal Bradley-Ingram fight at South Lawrence. Young was committed to jail.

The fifth night of the Boston horse show found Mechanics' hall as crowded with admirers of the equine beauty and the representatives of Boston's best society as the first night.

Mayor Robinson of Gloucester, Mass., made the following appointments of license commissioners to replace those whose resignations he demanded: W. W. Wonson, W. B. Davis and B. F. Payson.

The Catholic Total Abstinence society of Suffolk county celebrated the 58th anniversary of Father Mathew's temperance work by exercises in Faneuil hall, Boston, which was filled with members of the order.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The senate took up the question of sectarian Indian schools yesterday, but did not complete it. The debate was very temperate and no reference was made to the organization which has been active in opposition to sectarian schools. An important bill passed at the close of the day was that providing for a transmission and international exposition at Omaha in 1898. The house spent the entire day in general debate on the "filled cheese" bill. A very considerable opposition to the measure has developed and most of the members interested in its passage fear it will fail unless radically amended. The principal objection seems to be raised to the tax features of the bill —$400 on the manufacturer and $40 on the retailer, while there appears general unanimity in favor of a bill to compel the branding of filled cheese.

Woman Swindler Punished.

DULUTH, April 11.—Mrs. Samuel D. Smith was sentenced to 13 months' hard labor in the penitentiary at Stillwater for uttering a forged instrument. Mrs. Smith and her husband succeeded in swindling Mrs. Cameron out of $2500 about a year ago. Mrs. Smith confessed to having collected the money on a certificate of deposit to which her husband forged Mrs. Cameron's name. Smith is still at large.

Severe Weather.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 11.—The parties of seal hunters caught during the storm on the ice drifting along the coast have all reached land safely, though a number of them were frost-bitten. Two fishing vessels, the Nipsiel and the Mazurka, were driven ashore yesterday at St. Pierre, Miq., and became total wrecks. The crews were saved.

Republican Caucus Called.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Mr. Grosvenor, chairman of the Republican caucus committee of the house, has called a caucus of the Republican members for tonight. The caucus was called at the request of members interested in the passage of an immigration bill. No other subject will come up, Mr. Grosvenor says.

Thankful Christians.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 11.—The foreign and native Christians at Mersina declare that the presence of the United States warships Marblehead and Minneapolis undoubtedly saved Mersina, Tarsus and Adana from massacre.

COLONEL COCKERILL DEAD.

Famous Newspaper Correspondent Dies of Apoplexy at Cairo.

CAIRO, April 11.—Colonel John A. Cockerill, the well-known American newspaper editor and correspondent, died suddenly at Shepheard's Hotel in that city yesterday. Death was caused by apoplexy. Colonel Cockerill recently arrived in Cairo from Japan, where he had spent considerable time as the correspondent of the New York Herald. He was representing the same paper in Cairo.

JOHN A. COCKERILL.

John A. Cockerill was born in Ohio in 1845. His father was a man of means, and intended to give his son a college education, but the war broke out, and the lad entered the army as a drummer boy. After the war had ended, young Cockerill became a printer, and set type on The Scion of Temperance. Afterward he was appointed clerk of the United States senate. He next became a partner of Clement L. Vallandingham in the publication of the Dayton Empire, at that time the organ of the Montgomery county Democrats. Later he was a reporter on a paper in Hamilton, where he attracted the attention of J. B. McCullagh, editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who offered him a position on that paper. He afterward became managing editor. He subsequently edited the Washington Post, Baltimore Gazette, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, New York World and New York Morning Advertiser. He went to Japan a year ago as The Herald's special correspondent.

While editing The Post-Dispatch at St. Louis, Judge Slayback came into the editorial rooms to assault him, and Cockerill killed him in self-defense.

Colonel Cockerill was once president of the National Press club, and belonged to the Masons Loyal Legion and other orders.

STARS AND STRIPES

Again In Evidence In Athletes' Trial of Skill at Athens.

ATHENS, April 11.—The American competitors sustained their reputation as athletes yesterday and carried off a goodly share of the honors. An immense crowd was present.

The long-distance race from Marathon, over the historic road followed by the messengers centuries ago bearing the news of the defeat of the Persians, was won by Louis, a Greek peasant, and his victory has caused rejoicing throughout Greece.

Great interest was manifested also in the final contests in the running races and track athletics, in which the American teams carried the Stars and Stripes to victory in every event.

Thomas E. Burke of the Boston team was the winner of the 100 metres race. Time, 12 1-5s.

In the high jump, Ellery H. Clark of the Boston team won the final competition, with 1 metre 81 centimetres to his credit.

In the hurdle race final, 110 metres, Thomas P. Curtis of the Boston team won in 17 3-5s.

The final pole jump was won by W. W. Hoyt of the Boston team, with 3 metres 30 centimetres; A. C. Tyler of the Princeton team was second, with 3 metres 20 centimetres.

Robert Garrett, captain of the Princeton team, and James B. Connolly of the Suffolk A. C. of Boston tied for second prize in the high jump.

In the rifle and revolver practice, two brothers named Payne were the winners.

A Highly Sensational Case.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 11.—A fresh sensation in the murder case of the wealthy farmer J. T. Lamborn has developed. It was alleged by Charles Schaffer, a Kansas City detective, that he had received a detailed confession from the son and daughter of the murdered man. This document he refuses to make public. All three had planned the crime, it is alleged, and for executing it Davenport was to marry the girl and come in on a division of the old man's property, valued at $50,000. Now the children swear that their signatures to the "confession" were forced from them, and deny in toto any connection with the crime or knowledge of the perpetrators. Annie Lamborn is described as a weak-minded girl, capable of being easily influenced.

Tupper vs. Laurier.

WINNIPEG, April 11.—This city is to have a battle royal, and the parochial school question is to be the issue. At the close of parliament at Ottawa, Sir Charles Tupper will leave for this city, and will be invited by the Conservatives here to stand for Winnipeg at the forthcoming general elections. If he accepts, the Liberals will invite their leader, Wilfred Laurier, to oppose him, and here, at the birthplace of the troublesome school question, the battle between the giants will be fought. If it occurs, it will be the most exciting political battle in Canada's history.

A Satisfactory Verdict.

NEW YORK, April 11.—After being out but eight minutes, the jury in the case against the Cubans charged with being concerned in the Bermuda filibustering expedition returned a verdict of not guilty. A cheer went up in the court room when the verdict was announced. Counsel for the defendants, Mr. Rubens, moved for the discharge of the prisoners and the return of the property. Judge Brown said that this would follow in the natural course. The Cubans indicted were warmly congratulated by sympathizers.

Turkey's Way.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 11.—An official note has been issued by the Turkish government, categorically denying that Rev. George P. Knapp, the American missionary who is "visiting" the vali of Bitlis, is imprisoned there, as has been reported. The note also states that the reported expulsion of other missionaries from Asia Minor is devoid of foundation.

Puritana

PRIZE FORMULA OF Prof. Dixi Crosby, M.D., LL.D. DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

Puritana corrects, strengthens, and naturalizes the stomach by an original, common-sense process.

It causes the food to be promptly and properly digested in accordance with nature's laws, and creates new blood, new tissues, new nerve force, new vigor, and new life. These fresh forces expel impurities, humors, and degenerated elements from the body, whether they exist in the Stomach, Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Lungs, Nerves, Brain, or Skin.

Nature's Cure

It makes weak and weary men and women strong and healthy.

Ring Out the Old, Ring In the New.

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light.
The year is dying in the night.
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new;
Ring, happy bells, across the snow.
The year is going; let him go.
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor;
Ring in redress for all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right;
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old;
Ring in the thousand wars of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land;
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

—Tennyson

Ideals.

How fair they rise!
What grace celestial sways these shadowy forms!
What deep and tender radiance stirs and warms
Those lustrous eyes!

Their rosy lips,
With wooing smiles, seem to invite us near,
While to our vision, beckoning, appear
Their finger tips.

We strive in vain
To reach those outstretched hands by one least touch.
The sweet smile mocks—what matters it how much!—
Our yearning pain.

Yet upward still
We follow, step by step, these phantoms fair,
And sometimes breath of strange, sweet heavenly air
Our pulses thrill.

Oh, who shall say
That poet, artist, lover—every soul
That worships longingly its pure ideal—
May not in some far future find it real?
Of this imperfect part complete the whole,
Beyond, some day?

Three Women.

[After Kingsley.]

Three women went sailing out into the storm—
Out into the storm at the break of day,
Each thought of the man in his bed so warm
She'd promised to honor and love and obey;
But women must work while the men they sleep,
For there's much to earn and many to keep,
Though the children at home be a-crying.

Three women came home at the close of day—
At the close of day, as the sun went down,
And the children were weeping and wouldn't obey
The men who were scorching the dinner brown;
But women must work if men will eat,
And men must learn how to cook the meat
And keep the children from crying.

THE WEEK PAST.

The public schools are again in session after a two weeks' vacation, and the school army with its recent recruits is leading the voters a pretty race. In the spring the pupils outnumber the voters, but the latter generally forge ahead in the fall. We wonder if in other cities and towns the school children and voters are as evenly matched.

The death of Louis Rinn leaves a vacancy in the City Council, which must soon be filled by a special election in Ward Six. The people of Atlantic thought too much of Mr. Rinn to make haste in the matter, and no one is prominently mentioned as yet.

It is quite a problem to select a name for one schoolhouse, but now there are to be two and the crop of suggestions is large. A name which meets with some favor for the Norfolk Downs building, is the "Massachusetts Fields school," as it was from that section of Quincy that this grand old Bay State received its name. And "Granite School" is considered a very appropriate name for a school abutting the first railway in this country which was built for transporting the now standard Quincy granite. Quite a number however favor names of persons, as for the other school buildings of the city, and suggest Louis Rinn and Sylvester Brown, William B. Duggan and Gridley Bryant, Billings and Robertson, etc. The LEDGER believes it has the best name yet for one of the schoolhouses and suggests "George L. Gill school." The School Committee would be pleased to receive other suggestions through the LEDGER.

Congressman Atwood, whether a candidate for reelection or not, is doing good work for his district. The appropriation secured by him for Town river will start the work in good shape this year. Perhaps he will also secure for us a new public building.

It is said the Wollaston people feel gloomy and sore over the post office appointment, and that some are more anxious than they were for the extension of the free delivery system of Quincy.

Historical matters are receiving considerable attention of late in this city, as a result of the organization of the Quincy Historical Society, and the craze among Quincy ladies to join associations like the Daughters of the Revolution, Colonial Dames, and Mayflower Descendants. The Historical and Genealogical columns of the PATRIOT will be of interest to all lovers of local history, and to those look ng up their ancestors.

Entertainments have been rather numerous this week, as is apt to be the case in the week following Easter.

The Noon Fire.

An alarm of fire from Box 26 is sure to draw a large crowd and the alarm from that box at 11.46 this morning was no exception to the rule. The alarm was hardly necessary as the fire was burning grass at the foot of Saville street. The department responded promptly and the combination extinguished the fire. The steamer did not respond to the alarm. A recall followed in five minutes after the alarm.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Biliousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists.

A Memoir Delivered before Historical Society Yesterday by Edwin W. Marsh, Esq.

The memoir on our late friend George L. Gill, delivered by Edwin W. Marsh yesterday at the meeting of the Quincy Historical Society was in two parts. First the genealogy of the family, and second the life of Mr. Gill. In this paper the latter part, only, is given and is a worthy tribute to the deceased by an intimate acquaintance and friend. Part first, the genealogy, which will be of interest to the Gills, the Otises, the Beals, the Lewises, and others, will appear the first of next week' and also in the PATRIOT.

George Lewis Gill was born in Hingham, December 20, 1823. His education was obtained in the common schools, supplemented by a course at the Derby Academy, where he was a fellow student of our townsman Mr. Horace B. Spear, with whom he was intimately associated later in life.

In 1838 he removed with his father's family to Quincy and entered into his father's business, that of a book-binder In connection with the bindery they conducted a store for the sale of books and stationery, and also maintained a very good circulating library. After a time, changes in the manner of doing business having made the bindery unprofitable, it was abandoned, and the father having engaged in business in Boston, the store in Quincy, with a more general business, was continued for awhile by the younger Mr. Gill, but in 1868 he abandoned trade and entered the National Granite Bank and Quincy Savings Bank as an assistant to Mr. H. B. Spear, who at that time conducted both institutions in the building at the corner of Saville and Hancock streets, now occupied by Dr. Gilbert. In 1871, Mr. Spear having resigned, the banks were separated, and Mr. Gill was elected Treasurer of the Savings Bank, which position he filled until his death, a period of nearly twenty-five years, to the satisfaction of the officers of the corporation, and of all who had dealings with the institution. He felt a vital interest in the prosperity of the bank and in everything pertaining to its welfare, and it was a source of gratification to him that during his connection therewith, its deposits increased from about one-half million to nearly two millions of dollars. Soon after his appointment, the bank was removed to the location which Mr. Gill had formerly occupied, where it has since remained, so that more than fifty years of his business life were spent in the building in which he commenced in 1835.

Mr. Gill was elected town clerk March 4, 1850, and served until March, 1856, he being at that time a member of the Legislature he declined a reelection and Mr. Franklin Curtis was chosen in his stead. In March 1860, Mr. Curtis being absent from town, leaving a vacancy, Mr. Gill was again elected, and served until the inauguration of the city government in January 1889, making a continuous service of twenty-nine years and a total service of thirty-five years. He was urged by the first Mayor to continue as clerk under the city government, but felt obliged to decline. His conduct of the office was so eminently satisfactory that he often received the votes of all political parties, and if a rival candidate was named, he usually received but indifferent support. In 1855, Mr. Gill served very acceptably as a member of the School Committee, at a time when the duties were particularly arduous, but after a service of one year, he declined a reelection.

He was a member of the Board of Managers of the Woodward Fund from 1869 to 1894, when he declined further service and of the Board of Managers of Mount Wolleston cemetery, or of Public Burial Places, from 1874 to 1895. He was very much interested in the Mt. Wollaston Cemetery and during his term of service gave a great deal of time and thought to its management, but he did not find there a last resting place, having early in life arranged for burial in the cemetery of his native town.

Mr. Gill was elected a representative to the general court in 1856, and again in 1866, serving in the sessions of 1857 and 1867. He was appointed postmaster of Quincy under the administration of President Lincoln in 1861, and retained the office until removed by the administration of Andrew Johnson in 1866.

He was appointed a Justice of the Peace by Governor Banks in 1859, and a Notary Public by Governor Robinson in 1885, and until his last sickness he constantly performed the duties appertaining to both offices.

For many years, and at the time of his death he was a director of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

He has been a useful and respected member of Rural Lodge of Masons since its reorganization in 1850 and has always taken an active interest in the affairs and welfare of the order.

He was an active member of Mount Wollaston Lodge of Odd Fellows in its early days, and on its restoration in 1884, he became its first treasurer.

Mr. Gill married at Quincy, October 11, 1846, Lucretia Ann, eldest daughter of Joseph and Lucretia (Marsh) Burrell, who was born in Quincy, December 11, 1819. Her mother was a daughter of Wilson and Susanna (Savil) Marsh, and a descendant in the fifth generation from Alexander Marsh, who came from England and settled in what is now Quincy soon after 1650. His house stood near the brook in the rear of the residence of the late Joseph W. Robertson on Adams street, where he died March 7, 1697-8, aged about seventy years. He was an extensive farmer, his farm extending back from the old Plymouth road to, and including what is now the "Hall cemetery" and a considerable tract of the adjoining territory. The wife of Alexander Marsh was Mary, a daughter of Gregory Belcher, one of the six persons, who on the seventeenth of September 1639, signed the covenant for a church at Mount Wollaston, now the First church of Quincy, with which church, the family of Mrs. Gill has been connected from its beginning.

Soon after coming to Quincy Mr. Gill became connected with this society, for many years he was actively engaged in its Sunday School, and through life he has taken an ardent interest in its welfare. Its ministers have always found in him a true and constant friend, and he has been rarely absent from its Sunday services.

In this community it would seem hardly necessary to say much of the personal characteristics of Mr. Gill, and yet he was a man who, though very generally esteemed and respected, was to some extent misunderstood. Though during his whole active live before the public in some official capacity, he was to a marked degree, a man of a retiring disposition. Though always ready to enlist in any cause that would benefit the community in which he had made his home, and to contribute his full share of what was needed to carry on the work, he was never prominent as a manager, preferring to work in a subordinate position. At a public meeting he was rarely seen at the front or upon the platform, unless in an official capacity, but if the meeting was for the public weal, he was sure to be of the audience.

It has even been said of Mr. Gill that he had no decided opinions. There could have been no greater mistake. He was not aggressive, he never sought an argument, but at the proper time and place, he did not hesitate to freely express his convictions, and they were very decided. Early in life he became interested in the movement for the supression of intemperance, and from the beginning to the end there was never a question about his position. He was never offensive, but his means, his vote, his example, were always counted upon the right side. So in his political life. Sympathizing with the movement against African slavery, he early became connected with the party which made that a paramount issue, and to that party he was loyal to the last.

Appointed Postmaster under the administration of President Lincoln as a Republican, he was removed as a Republican when a new test of loyalty was required by Andrew Johnson, and no one thought of raising the question, as to which master he would serve. Yet he did not set his party above principle. Almost his last political act, was to write a letter for publication, advocating the election of a faithful County officer against the regular nomination of the party with which he acted. These certainly were not the acts of a time server, nor of one with no decided opinions.

But that which won for Mr. Gill the confidence and affection of the toiling masses was the kind and obliging manner in which he was ever willing to listen to the story of their wrongs, and to assist them in all their difficulties. They came to him for advice in all the troubles of life, he drew their wills at its close and after their death he saw that their estates were properly settled and their families provided for. The simple but sincere expressions of grief, the sense of loss and bereavement shown by the men and by the women of this class when learning of his death, was a touching tribute to his worth, and to the noble generosity of his character.

Generous almost to a fault, it would seem to one not familiar with his nature, that he was continually being imposed upon. But such was not the fact. Though quick and true in his estimate of character he often allowed the shiftless and designing to count him as a victim, rather than shut his kind heart against their tale of woe, and he freely donated a moderate sum as a loan, when he knew full well that it would never return to him. Those whose thankless task it has been to solicit contributions for public, charitable or religious purposes, have found in Mr. Gill a willing donor. Whatever the purpose, society, or creed, it was but to ask and it was given, the only question being as to the amount required. Even periodical itinerant traders learned to lay out their wares and name the price without even waiting to ask whether he wished to purchase. He thought that they were trying to earn an honest living and should be encouraged.

Soon after Mr. Gill's marriage he built a residence upon Maple place, and there with his estimable wife, for nearly fifty years, he has partaken of the joys, and patiently borne the sorrows of life. Three children were born to them, two dying in infancy, while the third, Walter George, who was born December 25, 1852, died on February 28, 1869. Mr. Gill, though not particularly a robust man, and singularly constant to his official duties, and was rarely absent from his desk for a whole business day. He loved a horse and much enjoyed riding, and during the pleasant season his face has been familiar to the residents of our city and its neighborhood as he rode about the country after his work was done. This was his only recreation, but he never rode alone, in this as in all else he was ever thoughtful of others, and many of his friends and neighbors, the old and feeble as well as the young, will sadly miss their accustomed summer driving. On November 20th Mr. Gill was taken suddenly ill while attending to his duties at the bank, and for nearly four weeks was confined to his house, by, what his friends thought and hoped to be, only a temporary illness. But suddenly and unexpectedly the end came, and on the morning of the sixteenth of December, 1895, he passed peacefully from earth.

While there remain those whose burden he has helped to carry and whose cross he has made easier to bear, whose life he has made happier and better, the many kindly acts, the counsel and encouragement proffered in the hour of trial, the kind words dropped, apparently unheeded, by the wayside, will be held in kind and grateful remembrance.

The prize speaking contest by the pupils of the High school will take place Friday evening, April 24.

The thirteenth annual ball of the Thirty Associates takes place in the Town Hall, next Friday, and promises to be a brilliant affair.

Rev. C. L. Crathern has decided to accept the offer tendered to him by the Second parish, provided he has the month of August for a vacation, which has been agreed.

Postmaster Southworth attended the meeting of the New England Postmasters' Association in Boston, Wednesday. The meeting was addressed by the postmasters of New York, Brooklyn and Boston.

Miss Crowell of Harwick, Mass., a graduate of the Bridgewater Normal school and a teacher of experience has been engaged to succeed Miss A. W. Cottle, as teacher of Science and Drawing in the Monatiquot school. She began her duties last Tuesday, at which time a distinct change in the programme of the work in the grammar grades was made. The difference between the old and the new regime is that the latter does away with much of the change of teachers from room to room which was a feature of the former. At present, in some cases, two teachers can do the entire work of one room for a single day, which is a very great improvement. The new system promises much that is of benefit to the teachers and pupils of the Monatiquot school.

Thursday night, as the 8.15 car from Holbrook was nearing a curve in the vicinity of Mayflower Park, an obstruction was found on the rails which proved to be stones and dirt piled up with the evident intention of throwing the car down the bank. It is said this is not the first time an attempt of this kind has been made and it is very fortunate that the car was running slowly at the time. The car was in charge of Conductor Bigelow and Motorman Shay.

People living at the North end of our town were shocked Thurday to learn of the sudden death of Mr. R. S. Storrs of Hollis avenue. Mr. Storrs had an attack of the grip last January which left him in rather poor health, though able to continue his busiess. Friday he went to Manchester, N. H., and after eating a hearty supper retired for the night feeling as well as usual. At about 1 o'clock he was taken ill, and as soon as possible Saturday morning he started for home, which he reached with difficulty. He gradually grew worse and on Thursday morning he sank rapidly; at 11.45 he passed on, that dread disease pneumonia had done its work. A happy home was robbed of a kind, loving husband and father.

Hook and Ladder, No. 2, met last Monday night. Every member of the company was present and much interest was shown. The subject of new uniforms was discussed, but no action was taken. Other matters were talked over in an informal way. Mr. Will Mansfield was chosen as driver in cases of fire during the day. When a fire occurs in the night Mr. David Thayer, who furnishes horses, will furnish the driver.

At the last meeting of Puritan lodge, I. O. O. F., it was voted to attend the grand parade in Brockton, April 27th.

The entertainment given by the Monatiquot school for the benefit of Post 87, G. A. R., took place last evening before a fair-sized audience. The work done by the children in the various drills under direction of Miss Josie Colbert, was, if anything, better than on the previous occasion. On the platform was a campfire, tent and decorations of flags, etc The programme was as follows:

SOCIAL REALM.

The most becoming style for the bicycle waist is the Norfolk jacket, but this season the filled-in Eton jacket is more popular. The Norfolk jacket has the plaits sewed down (and cut away underneath), and there if none of the ugly bulkiness which formerly condemned that garment for stout women. It should be made to come quite below the waistline, and with full skirt effect. At the neck it is cut open just enough to show the necktie—the four in hand, fashionable once again—and has small, flat revers. The sleeves of a correct bicycle costume are much smaller than for other gowns, and are invariably of the leg-of-mutton shape.

The Literary club of Braintree met with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Abercrombie, Monday evening. Twenty-four members were present. The programme was as follows:

First Hour,—Quotations from Wordsworth's. Paper on Andrew Jackson by Col. A. C. Drinkwater.

Owing to absence of Mr. George Arnold and Miss Lane the papers on Calhoun and nullfication and the social conditions in Jackson's time were not read.

Second Hour.—Class in Science and art, Mrs. A. B. Keith, chairman.

Decorative art,—Miss Frances P. Ayer.

X Rays,—Miss Wilcox and Mrs. Crooker.

The next meeting will be Monday evening, April 30th, with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Caldwell. The quotations will be from Patriot's sayings.

My Kidneys

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify; vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

"I want to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. My health has been very poor for three years, due to trouble with my did not trouble me so severely. My appetite returned and I gained strength every day. I am now able to do my own work, and feel perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me and I gladly recommend it." MISS ELLA BARTLEY, 213½ S. Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

Spring Time

Is the time when everyone feels the need of some blood purifyer, strength invigorating and health producing medicine. The real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the reason of its widespread popularity. Its unequalled success is its best recommendation. The whole system is susceptible to the most good from a medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla taken at this time, and we would lay special stress upon the time and remedy, for history has it recorded that delays are dangerous. The remarkable success achieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla and the many words of praise it has received, make it worthy of your confidence. We ask you to give this medicine a fair trial.

Quincy Historical Society.

There was an interesting gathering at the meeting of the Historical society at the First church Friday afternoon when two interesting papers were read. Vice President Samuel A. Bates presided, and first introduced Prof. J. B. Sewall of Braintree, who read a short paper on "The written alphabet of our Colonial Fathers." On the wall beside the speaker were large papers upon which were letters copied by Prof. Sewall from the deed of the Indian Wompatuck to the inhabitants of Braintree and the gentleman in his paper showed how many of the letters of these times differed from those of today.

Mr. Edwin W. Marsh an intimate friend of the late George L. Gill for fifty years then read an interesting memoir on his life which appears in full in the DAILY LEDGER today, and will be continued the first of next week.

At the conclusion of the reading of the two papers Vice-president Bates said he could not help speaking a few words of endorsement to what Mr. Marsh had said. Every word of it was true and he had not said enough about him. Mr. Bates was visibly affected while speaking, and he could hardly find words to express his appreciation of Mr. Gill.

Runaway Accident.

Mrs. Fred Wheeler of Roxburg was quite seriously injured at North Weymouth on Friday afternoon. She was seated in her husband's carriage, which was standing in front of Bartlett's store, when the horse became frightened at a passing car, and jumping one side, threw Mrs. Wheeler out, severely injuring her about the hip and side. Dr. Drake was called and dressed the wounds and she was taken to her home in a hack.

L. J. PASTOR, Ph. C.,

27 SCHOOL STREET, QUINCY.

The book of woman's life is divided into three chapters: Girlhood, womanhood, motherhood. At the time when a young girl passes into womanhood—turning the leaf as we may say between the first and second chapters of her existence—a little care and thoughtfulness will double her chances of future happiness and save many hours of suffering. Every young woman should have an intelligent understanding of her own physical make-up. Half knowledge which is little better than pure ignorance, opens the way to an untold amount of pain and wretchedness.

Few women realize the influence exerted on their bodily and mental well-being by the special organism of their sex. It is hard for them to believe that the little drain which goes on from day to day is sufficient to sap away the very life forces. Yet it is so. The weakness, exhaustion, melancholy; the periodical prostration and sometimes almost torture has no other cause, two-thirds of the time, than the abnormal unhealthy condition of the generative organs. Strangely enough even doctors often fail to recognize the truth, For this condition there is no other remedy in the world so helpful and certain as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores health and vigor to the feminine functions and renewed vitality to the entire body. It heals inflammation, stops discharges, strengthens the ligaments and builds up the internal tissues which cannot be reached by "local treatment." It is of inestimable value to young women and to prospective mothers, greatly lessening the pains and perils of childbirth if taken during pregnancy. During the "change of life" it is invaluable.

Dr. Pierce's great book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," has 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. Over 90 pages are devoted to woman's diseases with suggestions for home-treatment. It will be sent free by World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only.

MOONRISE SERENADE.

Moonrise and a mellow sheen
All the slumbrous hills are steeping.
Wake, my sweet one, nor be sleeping
Through sweet Cynthia's softest phase—
Wake and rise and swiftly glide
To thy lattice, sweet, for, oh,
One who wooes thee for his bride
I love you! I love you!
My heart, I must confess,
Can no more love you more
Than it can love you less.

Moonrise! Through the casement blind,
Lo, the golden lovelight streaming—
Lady, lady, past my dreaming,
Thou art kind, most kind!
He who heard thy garment glide
Swiftly o'er the happy floor,
He who wooed thee for his bride
Sigheth now no more.
I love thee! I love thee!
My heart—oh, happiness!—
Can never love thee more,
Need never love thee less.

—O. K. Bell in New Orleans Times-Democrat.

SHE RODE FOR FUN.

"Jim," said I, breaking in upon his ditty, "what was the yarn you were going to tell about the time you engineered that English hunting party through the Bear Paw mountains?"

We were riding along the trail which stretches its serpentine length at the feet of the eternally grand old Rockies between Forts McLeod and Calgary on a bright, warm afternoon in January. When they have a "chinook" out there, sporting in its rude, boisterous, yet withal genial fashion, through the deep defiles of the mountains from over the Pacific, with a rumble like Niagara at a distance and a force which makes you button your coat up tightly to keep it from blowing off, the snow soon vanishes even in midwinter, and the thermometer jumps from "40 below" to "temperate" so suddenly that you wonder if the sun has not wheeled himself several degrees out of his normal course at such a season or the breath of an approaching prairie fire is not fanning your cheek.

The singer gave the wad of tobacco in his jaw a twist with his tongue and aimed an amber jet at a "bulldog" on his horse's ear before turning upon me a pair of glistening eyes, with black points set in saucers of milk, a short, impudent nose and a rather weak mouth, round the corners of which lurked a musing smile. Then, after a pause, he said:

"Oh, yes. Well, Littlefield was the chief of the outfit, an he hed his wife along—fine, spankin woman, good to look at. There was another Englishman—a great shot—called Wells, an a nigger cook, a big, slashin buck, but with no mo' sand in him than a pusillanimous jack rabbit. Lord, how we did scare that poor critter! His teeth used to chitter like a squirrel's; it's a wonder he didn't shake 'em out of his big woolly head." Fraid of his own shadder after night, an he'd make one any time, even if it was pitch dark, he was so infunal black. You might as soon git this here buzzard head I'm a-ridin to stand on one leg as coax that nigger to mosy outside the flare o' the campfire after sundown fer a pail o' water or fer any other pu'pos', fer the matter o' that. You see, he was a 'pilgrim'—never been on a layout of this sort afore, an he was that blamed tender a goat would nibble him.

"But, I b'leeve, to talk Christian, I was partly re-sponsible f.r his bein so extray-ordinary skittish. He sta'ted oncet or twicet fer water after night to a crick quite handy, sho'tly after we went into camp. I jest stepped off 15 paces into the pines an let a 'yee-ow' or two out of me, an Jumbo, he throwed back his ears an yelled—tee-riffic, I tell you—an come prancin up to the campfire—jest techin high spots, you understand—with his two sighters stickin out like the knobs on the horns of a ornery freight ox, shakin like a sick cow in a north wind, an dern a pail in sight.

"After that a Quaker meetin ner a cyclone wouldn't budge him, an if you asked him to put a tree between him an the blaze after dark he'd weep like a wolf. An that woman! No—she didn't laugh none—o-oh, no-o!" And Jim lay back in his saddle and sent a peal echoing up among the foothills which shook the few lingering traces of soft snow from the branches of the spruces.

That Jim was a "mule skinner" does not imply that he was expert at removing hides—in toto. Simply that he belonged to that select bunch of frontiersmen whose superlative boast is that they can drive or ride "anything that wears hair"—that he was passed master in the craft of teamsterism.

He adjusted the pistols in his belt, gave a forward tilt to his broad rimmed buckskin hat and a hitch to his fringed leather "chaps," and kicked his big, jingling Mexican spurs against his cayuse's flanks before resuming:

"But I was a-goin to tell you 'bout Mis' Li'l'field. She was a mighty fine woman, as I said before, an well put up—fond of out of door sport an of ridin in partic'lar. Well, one bright, warm mornin Li'l'field an Wells went off huntin, an I got orders (I was teamster an guide to the outfit, you know) to move camp acrosst the 'divide'—about 20 mile—in the meantime. So, after breakfast an the dishes hed been wiped, we packed up the outfit an struck camp, but it was well on in the day before we pulled out.

"Now, Mis' Li'l'field hed a spankin bay hoss specially fer her own use. I hedn't no objections to her ridin, of co'se, not commonly. But you know it ain't jest nice to be rollin down a blamed co'kscrew mount'in trail after dark an gettin into camp late an hevin to plant yer tents an square things out, cut yer kindlin an git yer water by cat light an wait till 9 o'clock, mebbe, fer yer supper. This was what hed happened different times through Mis' Li'l'field. She allers wanted to 'ride' when we shifted camp an follered the wagon on her bay hoss. It was unde'stood that when I was goin too fast or hed got too fur in the lead she would wave her handker her, an I was to slack up a stop till she ketched the wagon. So I jest natterly 'lowed I'd give her a song an dance, hevin a pretty smart day ahead o' me an wantin to git into camp early. Consekently I told the nigger—who rode with me—not to look back.

"When we sta'ted, of co'se the fust ten mile or so was up hill mostly, an I couldn't travel extra fast, so it was 'bout 2 when we hit the summit, an everything hed went lovely. Then we hed a little 'hand out,' an the descent begun.

"I didn't lose no time. The mules stepped out gay' me a-poppin the buckskin among 'em oncet an awhile jest to keep 'em chee'ful an in good humor, an the hill—well, chain lightnin could go down—with britchin. I hedn't went a great ways when I heerd a fur off call—like a coyote got astray. Jumbo shifted kind of uneasylike on the seat an squinted sideways at me, but I was a-whistlin 'The Gal With the Travail Train,' and didn't see nor hear nothin, of co'se. Pretty soon the nigger he couldn't set peaceful an onconcerned no longer an stealed a look behin. Then he leaned forrard, 'th his han's 'tween his knees, an chuckled to hisself. I paid no manner of notice. Now he screws round again in his seat, chuckles, an twists a little harder, squints at me sideways again, an says:

"'She's a-wavin, Jim.'

"'Set still, you blamed black breasted sandpiper,' says I. 'Let 'er wave.'

"He was tol'abul quiet fer a sho't space, while you might cut a pipe of terbacker, mebbe. The calls sounded pretty faint now. Far back up the rocky trail I could ketch the clear, sharp ring of her hoss' hoofs—pit-e-pat! pit-e-pat! pit-e-pat!—remindin me somethin of one of them gals from the east down in Benton chassayin up an down the room in a newfangled wardance they call the 'Rushin Polkay.'

"Jumbo's head swung around again on its pivot. He squirmed an twisted an chuckled some more. The fun was too fast fer his ornery, woolly scalp, an he bu'st out:

"'Dah! she waves, Jim. Now—now! she waves. Dah—dah! she's a-wavin. Now—now! she's a-wavin, Jim. Now! she waves. Jim—Jim—Jim!—she waves. Jim—she waves!—she waves!—she waves!'

"Here he throwed out his wings—undulatinlike an very takin an winds up in a loud 'Yah, yah, yah!'—doublin hisself up an contortin an rollin round on the seat till I thought he'd drop out o the wagin. He was the most extropulous coon I ever see—that's right! I tried to kick him under the seat, but fact is, I was a-laughin at him till I was nigh non campus Memphis myself.

"'Pit-e-pat! Pit-e-pat! Pit-e-pat!' come from far back in the distance.

"Now I commenced to pull in my mules. We were gittin pretty well down the slope an a few mile more would fetch us to the camp ground. (I hed changed 'The Gal With the Travail Train' fer 'The Gal I Left Behin Me.') It was still middlin early in the afternoon an mighty hot. After awhile I got my team down to a walk an before long I heerd the hoss' hoofs comin closter.

"I turned around an watched her as she come up. Say! I've eat canned lobsters an heerd talk of spanked babies—but you'd oughter seen that woman's face! * * * Whoosh! To sta't a fire fer the pu'pose o' toastin a bannack while she wer' round an that color lasted, as the poet says, 'wer' onnecessary.' But that wa'n't all, neither. She was mad clean through—as a sage hen with a brood of young uns; it stuck out in pints all over her. An you could see where the tears hed left marks on her cheeks, through the dust, an her hair was like a shower bath on her shoulders.

"'How could you be so mean, Jim,' she says.

"'Well—you see, mum—er—this here—ah—blamed hill is so confounded ornery pu'pendic'lar—uh—I couldn't hold 'em up—'pon honor I couldn't!'

"Of co'se I guess she didn't b'leeve me ha'dly, but what could she say? We traveled pretty slow the rest of the road to camp. I did feel tarnation mean, as well as sorry fer her, an that's right! I wanted to kick myself, to make myself feel—er—ah—oncomfortable. I hed half a mind to make Jumbo do it. But, then, he was a nigger, an didn't know nothin.

"Well, Li'l'field got his leg broke sho'tly after an that bu'st up the expedition—got into a wrestle with a grizzly an took second money. He left his hoss an went close to git a good pull, but the bear was only wounded an charged. He waltzed with him. I reckon it 'ud 'a' been all day with Li'l'field if Wells hedn't been nigh. He was a dead shot, you know. As it was, he got out of it with a broken thigh an a gash in his hip from the bear's claw you might cache a flask in. So as soon as he could be moved, we went into Helena an they left fer England.

"Eh? Oh, the woman! Why—well, she rode with me on the wagin after that when we moved camp—jest ornerly didn't care to much as look at a saddle fer more'n a week. When she shook han's an says goodby (an I was real sorry to see the last of her), she looks at me an smiles an says:

"'An Jim, next time we come to Montana to hunt, try an pick us out a span of mules that ain't so hard to hold up, will you?'

"An I hanged my head, like a derned idjut, an said I would."—William Bleasdell Cameron in San Francisco Argonaut.

Mlle. Hugo.

M. Trebuchet, who died in Paris the other day, was the guardian of Mlle. Adele Hugo, the insane daughter of the poet, now about 60 years old. The fortune which Mlle. Hugo inherited has increased under the management of M. Trebuchet, so that she is now, French papers say, several times a millionaire. She is confined in a private asylum, her only pleasure being to visit the theater. It is always difficult, however, to get her to leave the building after the performance, as she thinks a play never ends.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—Will our excuses stand?—Acts xxvi, 19-28.

Many people have the claims of Christ pressed upon them, but instead of yielding to these claims they begin with one consent to make excuses. Will these excuses stand? Will they stand before God in the day of judgment? This is the question of the topic. To answer it we must put the excuses to a divine test—the test of the word of God. If they will not stand this test, they will not stand in the judgment, for God will be the same there that He is in His word now.

Let us notice some of our excuses and see if they will stand the Biblical test:

1. Fear of ridicule. This is an excuse that keeps many from Christ. They are afraid of what others will say of them if they personally accept Christ. What does the Bible say of this excuse? "Whosoever shall be ashamed of Me and of My words, of him shall the Son of Man be ashamed" (Luke ix, 26). It does not stand the test.

2. Inconsistencies of professing Christians. What a common excuse this is. But it is only an excuse. If we wanted to be loyal to Christ, no disloyalty on the part of others would deter us. It would only intensify our loyalty. The excuse is contrary to reason and to nature and falls before the word of God, which says, "Every man shall give an account of himself to God" (Rom. xiv, 12).

3. Christianity asks too much. Many will not accede to its demands. They are unwilling to sacrifice all for Christ. What does the Bible say? "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" (Mark viii, 36.) It may cost to be a Christian, but it pays.

4. Fear of not being accepted. "I am not good enough," say many. What does God say? "Him that cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out" (John vi, 37). Our acceptance depends not upon our worthiness, but our willingness.

5. Too great a sinner. "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanses from all sin" (I John i, 7).

6. Fear of not "holding out." This is another very common excuse, but it fails. We do not hold out ourselves, but Christ keeps us. "He that hath begun a good work in you will perform it unto the day of Jesus Christ" (Phil. i, 16).

7. Procrastination. "I intend to become a Christian, but not now; some more convenient season." "Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

When put to the test, these and all other excuses fail.

Bible Readings.—Gen. iii, 1-24; II Kings, v, 9-14; Math. xxii, 1-7; Luke, xiv, 16-24; xvi, 19-31; xix, 20-27; John iii, 18; Acts xvii, 31; Rom. i, 20, 21; ii, 12-16; II Cor. ix, 6; Gal. vi, 7; Heb. ii, 1-3; x, 26-29; xii, 25-29; II Pet. iii, 9, 10.

The Pastoral Visit.

Every brother in the Christian ministry knows that if he fails to lead men to Christ he is failing in the most important part of his work. It is very nice to be able to spend most of the time reading and studying. Calling is not the most pleasant work. Winning lost and perishing souls to Jesus is the climax of all. Happy is the minister who can use his studying and calling for the grand purpose for which God has placed him in the sacred office, for he shall have the joy of service and the glory of bringing his sheaves with him.—Christian Intelligencer.

The Truest and Highest.

Let us have the courage to live by the truest and highest revealed to us. The life of our best hours and experiences is our true life. Not to strive to make these best hours the standard by which we daily live; to be disloyal to that which we see and worship and love in the most exalted and most radiant moments of our existence; to make no effort to preserve and perpetuate the glory of this occasional spiritual life, is to resist and quench the spirit.—Churchman.

Prosperity and Pride.

Prosperity and pride are not infrequently associates. The rich man disregards the ladder by which he climbed the heights he has attained, is apt to be inflated with self importance and declare, as Moses foretold, "My power and the strength of my hand have gotten me this wealth." The picture is an accurate one, and the resemblance may seem striking to many a one, although by no means flattering.—Jewish Exponent.

Temptation.

We are never to meet temptation in our own strength, but through the strength that the Lord giveth. Though the mariners may make use of their oars in the time of calm, yet when a storm comes they drop their oars and let down their anchor.—Harold F. Sayles.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

An English Junior society upholstered its pastor's family pew.

"He must increase, but I must decrease." That is the Christian Endeavor spirit.

Floating Christian Endeavor has proved to be the best form of service for the sailors.

All the societies in the Boston union take turns in conducting services in a rescue mission.

Within six months the Texas State Junior superintendent traveled 593 miles for Christian Endeavor.

There are now two colored bishops on the board of trustees of the United Society of Christian Endeavor.

The prayer meeting that is not planned and prayed for will not advance your society's growth in grace.

Christian Endeavor is no more limited to a prayer meeting than religion is limited to one day in the week.

GUIDED BY THE DEVIL.

Holmes Says "Evil One" Was His Sponsor and Never Left Him.

Alleged Confession of the Deeply-Dyed Criminal.

States That He Killed Twenty-Seven Persons and Longed to Kill More.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—H. H. Holmes is the self-confessed murderer of 27 persons, according to a statement, purporting to have been written by him, which appears today in a local publication. It is a most remarkable story, its principal features being as follows:

In prefacing the confession, which covers in full nearly three newspaper pages written in Holmes' own handwriting, he opens with the statement, "I was born with the very devil in me." Even now he believes that the evil spirit is the guiding genius of his destiny. He believes that he is fully under the spell of the damned, and despite the assertions to the contrary that he is receiving the attentions of a minister of God and is gradually imbued with the spirit of forgiveness and religion, he feels that he is lost hopelessly.

He even goes further. He asserts that he is gradually changing in appearance in figure; that his face is becoming distorted, and he sees—whether in the distortion of his bloody imagination, which conjures up hosts of vengeance-calling dead, or not—his face assuming the look, the eyes the leer, and the very pars the exact similitude of the picture of satan himself.

H. H. HOLMES.

"Yes, I was born with the devil in me," says he, in one part of his confession. "I could not help the fact that I was a murderer no more than the poet can help the inspiration to song, nor the ambition of an intellectual man to be great. I was born with the evil one standing as my sponsor beside the bed where I was ushered into the world, and he has been with me since.

"The inclination to murder came to me as naturally as the inspiration to do right comes to the majority of persons. Where other hearts were touched with pity, mine filled with cruelty, and where in others the feeling was to save life, I reveled in the thought of destroying the same.

"Not only that; I was not satisfied in taking it in the ordinary way. I sought devices strange, fantastical and even grotesque. It pleased my fancy. It gave me play to work my murderous will, and I reveled in it with the enthusiasm of an alchemist who is hot on the trail of the philosopher's stone.

"This inclination," continues Holmes, "came to me early in life. I remember when a mere lad my ambition to study medicine that I might know the relative effects of poisonous gases; that I might fully become acquainted with their uses and learn to be an expert in handling them.

"I am convinced," he declares, "that since my imprisonment I have changed wofully and grewsomefully from what I formerly was in feature and in figure. If you look at my picture when I was first taken into custody in Boston, nearly two years ago, and look at my face, you will maybe begin to observe something of what I mean.

"I mean, in fact, that my features are assuming nothing more or less than a pronounced satanical cast; that I have become afflicted with that disease, rare but terrible, with which physicians are acquainted, but over which they seem to have no control whatever. The disease is a malformation or distortion of the osseous parts, causing deformity so marked that in many cases men are made to assume likenesses to the inferior animal.

"It began with pains in all the joints, followed by excruciating symptoms, local on the head and bones of the face. These I attributed at first to rheumatic trouble, until I found that they were gradually causing a change to take place in my whole figure.

Quite In Keeping With My Character.

"The real nature of the malady then began to dawn, and I recollected having studied once about a man whose features had become deformed by this disease in such a way that he gradually grew to resemble a monkey. The horror of the thing did not pall on me, for it was quite in keeping with my nature, and like a true medical student, I began to study the new conditions that had arisen.

"From what I can see, I believe fully that I am growing to resemble the devil; that osseous parts of my head and face are gradually assuming that elongated shape so pronounced in what is called the degenerate head, and that similitude is almost complete. In fact, so impressed am I with this belief," continues Holmes, "that I am convinced that I have no longer anything human in me."

Holmes' confession from this on speaks of his early experiences of his boyhood days on the farm up in Vermont, and the life he led until he entered college to study medicine in Michigan. It was not until after he was graduated, fully equipped with the knowledge of poisons and the easiest way to sever the simple thread of life, that Holmes began his career as a murderer and mutilator.

When he begun, he admits himself, he was ruthless and never once halted until he took 27 lives. "And I would have committed six other murders," he added, "had not certain occurrences intervened. I had planned them and was several times about to carry them out when something intervened."

Possibly one of the worst, most brutal, revolting and disgusting crimes this arch-mutilator ever committed, was one he speaks of in a chapter devoted to his boy—the son of his first wife, whom he married in New England, while but a youth. The chapter in question, tells a story that is hardly credible, coming as it does from the lips of a father, and outranks for barbarous cruelty any act he ever committed. The only explanation he offers is that he did it simply to gratify his love of mutilation.

"It was shortly after I was married," he declares, "and our boy was then but a youngster and playing about with other lads of his own size and age, that I was seized with a wild desire to destroy. I called him in from the road where he was frollicking about like an innocent with a lot of other lads, and took him out to a rear barn.

"I don't know what it was possessed me, but I took a surgical knife along with me. It was not the sudden impulse nor maddening desire of a father seeing his child about to grow up and enter a world of sorrow and sin that led me to the deed. No; it was not that. It was simply the craving of the murderer within me that inspired me to make a subject of my little one.

"I noticed that there was a terrible look of fear on the little fellow's face as I took him into the barn, and he trembled as I took the knife and told him to undress. I have often though since that it was like the look of the scared rabbit laid on the operating table, as its tearful eyes search the group about it, and see them all intent only on the anticipated incision."

With the utmost abandon and with here and there an expressed sigh of regret, Holmes then tells how he went through the operation of mutilating his own son. He tells how his own flesh and blood was made to submit to the barbarous blade, and there and then was mutilated simply to pacify the cravings of a murderer's heart. Finished with that, Holmes felt satisfied and did not murder his boy outright.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Bradstreet's Reports That Things Are Looking a Little Brighter.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Bradstreet's says: While there is no general increase in business there are several encouraging features. First, the advance in prices of flour, wheat, corn, oats, pork and sugar, together with that for steel billets and beams and other iron and steel products, including No. 2 foundry pig and for tin plates.

The advance in wheat has continued so much longer than expected that the trade is again discussing the likelihood of this being the beginning of the long advance for cereals which they believe must come after the extreme depression of the past few years.

Bright and more seasonable weather east, and rain needed in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, have tended to stimulate the belated demand for general merchandise.

Renewed activity is also shown by lumber, now that the building season is open, and by paints, oils, glass and other structural materials for like reasons.

Prices of boots and shoes do not change, though leather is lower. Shipments from the east are now larger, in response to orders some time ago. Leather has been reduced 1 cent for hemlock sole and union and glove and grain, with other quotations revised, so that the decline averages about 4 per cent for the week. Hides are a little stronger at Chicago, receipts being small.

Wool is weaker, with sales for the week only 2,232,000 pounds at the three chief markets, the smallest for many years. Prices tend lower, except for fine washed fleece, and manufacturers are rapidly reducing production. There is fair demand in the dress goods branch. There have been cotton mills stopping or reducing time this week. Further reduction in shirting prints, to the lowest point ever touched, failed to increase the demand materially.

Exports of wheat from both coasts of the United States amount to 1,764,000 bushels this week, compared with 2,934,000 bushels in the week last year.

Total earnings of 115 railroad companies for March are $36,698,000, an increase of 4.6 per cent over a year ago.

Failures for the past week have been 209 in the United States, against 207 last year, and 33 in Canada, against 27 last year.

Straddle In Oregon.

PORTLAND, Or., April 11.—The Republican state convention yesterday adopted resolutions instructing the delegates to the St. Louis convention for McKinley. The financial plank demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money, with such restrictions and under such provisions to be determined by legislation as will secure the maintenance of the parity of the values of the metals, so that the purchasing and debt-paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all time equal.

An Ineffective Bombardment.

CORINTO, April 11.—For several hours on April 6 and 7 the insurgent troops under command of General Boca, president of the revolutionary government of Nicaragua, cannonaded the troops sent by the government of Honduras at Chinandega. The bombardment, however, did not dislodge the soldiers who were sent by Honduras to the assistance of the government of President Zelaya.

SOME FIERY LANGUAGE

Engaged In at the Conference of New England Methodists.

Pastor Brady Sees Nothing Good In Roman Church.

Loves a Catholic, but Thinks There Are Too Many Evils In His Church.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 11. — The Methodist conference yesterday took up the question of appointing a committee on Romanism laid over from Thursday. It was voted to appoint a committee, and three men were named.

Mr. Brady of the People's church, Boston, made a long and exciting address in favor of the appointment of the committee.

The church was crowded at the time, and a wild scene was at once started. Mr. Bradley had some difficulty in securing the floor to call up the resolution, but at last succeeded and made a sensational address, in which he denounced the Roman Catholic church and its methods in stinging terms. The shouts of applause, mingled with cries of derision, made the auditorium a sort of pandemonium.

"No, no," and "Yes, yes," with an occasional "Hear that, will you?" and "That's so," from the clergymen grouped in the front seats, increased the excitement induced by the vehemence of the Boston preacher, and at times during the hot debate the visitors in the rear of the church were unable to distinguish a word of the speaker.

Mr. Brady said: "I realize what a great, exciting occasion this is. I consider myself happy today in being able to speak concerning this great question. I do not appear today to speak because of any bitterness I have for the Roman Catholic, but because of the evilness of the system. I love my brother Romanist. But there are so many evils in his church that it becomes every Christian to lift up his voice against them.

"Why should we have a committee. First, because the system sectionalizes. Through the system the Romanists are brought up to hate and shun the Protestants in the country. There is going to be a grand division in this land. The Catholics are causing it, and it is our business to close the breach before it will have to be filled with blood. It is the duty of the people to keep this country united. Romanism is an alcoholistic power."

Here came shouts of "No, no" and "Yes, yes," in queer confusion.

In answer, the speaker said: "Well, see here. Ninety per cent of the saloon keepers are Roman Catholics. Your sons are becoming intoxicated in their saloons, and it is the duty of every Christian to quarantine this power. God almighty. Your ministers ought to wake up. The church has 90 per cent of the public offices in Boston and pays 5 per cent of the taxes. How's that for monopolizing.

"Let there be justice. Every true Christian ought to lift his voice and protest against such things. It is also a great idolizing system. People come over here and set them up idols (saints) to worship. If anything makes a man's blood boil, this ought to."

At this point C. P. Rice claimed the floor, but Mr. Brady refused to relinquish it, saying:

No Idolatry.

"Rice is a good thing for Chinamen, but we want the old corn of the kingdom in Massachusetts." He continued, by saying: "If there is to be a system of idolatry here they will have to go over our bodies and through our blood to get at the vitals of our institutions."

Rev. C. F. Rice secured the floor after Mr. Brady had taken his seat, and opposed the resolution on the ground that the conference should appoint only committees on the business of the session. In his opinion the exigencies of the case did not require action by the conference. He opposed appointing a committee very strongly, and claimed that many of the charges made by Mr. Brady were exaggerated. He said that he knew of numbers of priests who were ardent temperance workers, and that he did not believe the church was back of rum-selling.

A. H. Herrick, who introduced the much debated resolution, next obtained the floor. In all parts of the room clergymen were on their feet, vainly attempting to get recognition from Bishop Foss. Rev. Mr. Herrick spoke strongly in favor of having a committee. He said the majority of the public offices in the city of Boston were held by Romanists.

"They stand at the doors of the public buildings and demand tribute. Isn't it true that in Boston a former mayor ordered the city messenger to clear the hall of these beggars, and that as soon as the present mayor went into office he discharged the present messenger, and the Romanists are back at the doors of the public offices. Isn't it true that they have succeeded in securing larger appropriations for their schools than we have. Isn't that monopolizing? I want a committee, not one to hurl vituperation at Romanists, however, but one that will bring in a conservative report."

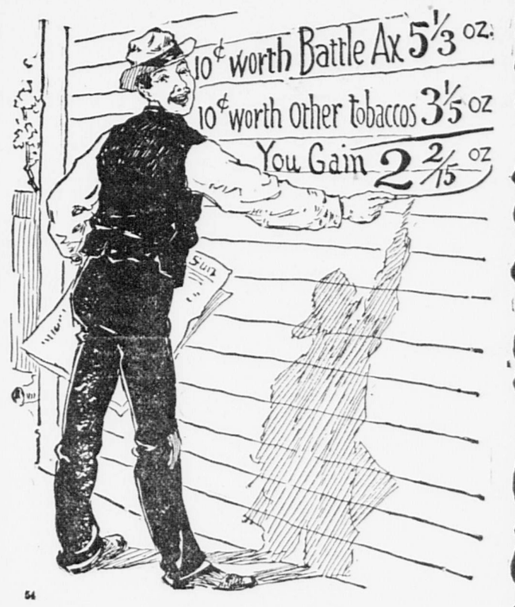

Rev. N. T. Whitaker moved that the word "political" be inserted before Romanism in the original motion. This was carried.

J. H. Pillsbury next obtained the floor. He said that he desired to present a Christian view of the situation. "When it comes to arraying ourselves against a sister church, I protest." As he said the word "sister" there were a number of remarks of scorn.

Hugh Montgomery followed. He said: "I stand before you as one who has spent 40 years in converting Catholics. I know priests who admit what Mr. Brady has said in regard to the number of Catholic saloon keepers." He then presented a book, which he said was used in the public schools, and which, he claimed, taught children to believe the Protestant sect a set of monkeys, and Catholics as the army on "Queen's day" in London. He favored strongly the appointment of a committee, and his remarks elicited much applause.

At the close of his address a substitute motion was made referring the matter of introducing resolutions on Romanism to the committee on the state of the church, adding to this committee Hugh Montgomery and N. T. Whitaker. This was overwhelmingly defeated. The original motion, with the amendment placing "political" before the word Romanism, was then put and carried.

Mr. Brady was named as the third member of the committee. N. T. Whitaker and Hugh Montgomery, who were named in the motion, will serve as the other two members of the committee.

SWITHIN BROS.,
Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we ar prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCE HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

The Braintree Observer.

"The oldest paper in Braintree is the OBSERVER, which was started by the editor of the Register and News about eighteen years ago, and after three or four years of life, was taken by George W. Prescott & Son of Quincy, who have since been its publishers, and made a satisfactory success of the undertaking.

"Mr. F. W. Crooker is now its editor, and is making a better paper than ever before. He treats upon all the live topics current in Braintree, which are often found to be more than alive. In fact, he is working hard for Braintree's interest, and proposes to do so along that line while he is connected with the paper. The OBSERVER publishers and editor have our best wishes for continued success."—Randolph Register.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The Salem Association bought a lot last week for their proposed building. The price was $30,000. This will be their second building.

The service Sunday will be out of the usual order. It will be held in the Association Rooms, and will not be confined to men, but the ladies will be cordially welcomed. Work of the Int. Association Training school at Springfield will be presented. Miss Grace Isaac will sing.

The closing exercises of the educational classes will be held Tuesday evening next. The principal feature of the evening will be the address by Mr. Henry T. Bailey, state supervisor of drawing on "Drawing as a language." Both ladies and gentlemen will be made welcome, whether connected with the Association or not.

The Kind

The Friday Club.

The ladies' Friday club met yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Fred Illsley's on Hancock street. The president, Mrs. Arnold, in the chair.

The literary exercises were under the charge of Miss Small, who presented a dainty souvenir programme to members and guests.

The life and writings of the works of eminent Swedish authors were taken up. Isben and Frederika Bremer were contrasted and the former drew our a lively discussion.

Among the numbers were Ferderika Bremer by Mrs. Babcock, Isben by Mrs. Hardwick, Bjornson, Mrs. Tupper, also Sjoberg, Mrs. Bass; Rumberg, Mrs. Wason; Hidda Gabber, Mrs. Arnold; Swedenborg, Mrs. Morton and Mrs. Illsley; readings by Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Hunting and dramatic recitation by Mrs. Gurney.

Isben's new role in fiction is only begun. Mrs. Bremer's is old and is as vital now in charm as when fresh from her gifted pen. A sweet pure air is breathed in "The Neighbors" from which Mrs. Fredericka Babcock read. This is not now generally read, but is dearly prized by literary people and is simple enough to interest the young.

At the close of the exercises, the usual dainty tea was served.

TODAY'S COURT.

Robert B. Courtney was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued one week.

J. W. Brown was arraigned for breaking and entering the Fore River Engine Works March 4, and the larceny of tools, the property of John Aldrich, to the value of $54. Brown waived examination and was held in $600 for the grand jury.

Mary E. Daley of Holbrook was arraigned for distributing libelous circulars and letters, and was held in $600 until next Saturday.

For a year or more past certain persons unknown has been circulating libelous letters about the streets of Holbrook defaming the character of Mary E. Good, calling her a scab, villian and a bad woman and warning all good people to shun her. So much of a nuisance did the matter finally become that the selectmen were appealed to, and they detailed Officers Crooker and Peckman on the case. These officers soon accumulated nearly a peck of these letters and postals, all of which were directed against the character of the Good girl and all were apparently in the same handwriting. A watch was immediately set to catch the person and last Sunday evening the officers had their watch rewarded by seeing two women approach, one of whom dropped a letter which the officers secured. This proved to be another libelous letter and the officers soon overtook the women and charged them with the offence. They however, denied all knowledge of the business and protested their innocence. The officers were satisfied that they had apprehended the right parties and a warrant was secured. The Daly girl is about 20 years of age and the Good girl about 23. The latter is employed in Paine's shoe manufactory, and has always born ae good name and the only solution to the Daly girl alleged dislike for her is jealousy.

Vesper Music.

On next Sunday, April 12, a vesper service will be held at 4 o'clock in the Unitarian church. A quartette, Mrs. Blackmur, soprano; Miss Towle, alto; Mr. W. S. Hawkins, tenor and Mr. E. W. Arnold, bass; will sing.

Keith's New Theatre.

The beautiful theatre which Mr. B. F. Keith erected two years ago still maintains its freshness, and its beauty is as undimmed today as if it were but yesterday that it was opened to an admiring public. The attractions are always the best obtainable, and usually include stars from the dramatic and operatic stages, and the Lyceum platform. The "wonderful" Craggs, the greatest acrobatic organization which has ever visited this country; Amann, the celebrated mimic and imitator; Jack Mason and Marion Manola, the favorite dramatic stars, and the Royal Hand Bell Ringers, the cleverest organization of the kind which has ever visited America, will all be in evidence during the week of April 13 and 20. Last week a new scene was set on the stage, which is claimed to be the handsomest ever placed in a Vaudeville theatre. It is a Roman palace interior, with the famous circular terrace at Monaco, the gambling resort on the Mediterranean, as a background.

Boston Theatre.

Owing to the phenomenal demand for seats for Fanny Davenport's magnificent production of "Cleopatra" at the Boston Theatre, this play will be continued for one more week, the concluding one of the season in Boston and of her theatrical season of 1895 and 1896. The Boston engagement is by far the most successful she has ever played and the whole year has been one round of triumph for this popular American actress. The great Boston Theatre has been crowded to its full capacity at every performance and several times the past week dozens were turned away. There is no doubt concerning the popularity of "Cleopatra" when presented in the sumptuous style in which Miss Davenport produces it. Such stage pictures and stage realism are rarely seen.

The advance sale for the week has been extraordinary, and an early call will be necessary in order to get good seats, or in fact any seats. Miss Davenport plays nowhere else in New England.

Castle Square Theatre.

After two weeks of a most entertaining series of performance of "Lucia di Lammermoor," the Castle Square Lyric stock company next week will take up Vincent Wallace's "Maritana," considered by many music lovers the best of the lighter operas. Its music is extremely graceful and pleasing, and is full of fun, romance and pathos with little tragedy. The plot involves an amorous king, a crafty minister, a soldier of fortune, a country girl, the beloved of the king, soldiers, nobles, common people and gypsies. Its best songs are "Angels that around us hover," "Of fairy wand I the power," "Let me like a soldier fall," "There is a flower that bloometh," "I am the King of Spain" and "With rapture glowing."

—South Framingham is to be congratulated upon securing the mammoth industry of the Dennison Tag Company to locate in its midst. The hands to be employed will number from 800 to 1000.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. Quincy, March 5, 1896.

BY Virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment in favor of G. B. Bates of Quincy against Martin W. Frolund of said Quincy, at the East Norfolk District Court for said County, I this day seized and took all the right, title and interest the within-named Martin W. Frolund had on the thirteenth day of February, A. D., 1896, at twenty minutes past five o'clock P. M. (this being the time when the same was attached on mesne process), in and to the following described parcel of real estate, viz.:

A certain parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth, called Montclair, and comprising the lot numbered thirty-one (31), as shown on the plan dated March 16, 1892, H. T. Whitman, surveyor, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 604. Said parcel is bounded and described as follows, viz.: Northerly on lot thirty (30), ninety (90) feet; easterly on land of owners unknown, fifty (50) feet; southerly on lot thirty-two (32), ninety (90) feet; westerly on Montclair avenue, fifty (50) feet; and containing forty-five hundred (4500) square feet of land, and on the twenty-seventh day of April next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, at my residence, No. 53 Franklin street, Quincy, in said County, I shall offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the aforesaid right, title and interest of said Martin W. Frolund, to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John O'Brien of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to James Burr of said Quincy, dated July 25, 1891, and recorded with the Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 658, Fol. 305, and for breach of conditions contained therein, will be sold at public auction upon the premises, on MONDAY, the 27th day of April, 1896, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely: The following parcels of land with buildings thereon, situated in the northerly part of said Quincy and bounded in said mortgage as follows, viz:

Beginning at a stake on land of Glover; thence running as the fence stands, nearly easterly in a salt marsh about fifteen (15) feet to the Old Colony railroad; thence running southeasterly on said railroad about one hundred and sixty-nine (169) feet; thence running southwesterly on land of Patrick Farrell and others about twenty (20) feet to a stake near to and south of a little dwelling house; thence running northwesterly about one hundred and sixty-nine (169) feet to the point of beginning. Excepting therefrom the premises conveyed by said O'Brien to Daniel McCarty, by deed dated November 1, 1882, and recorded with the Norfolk Deeds in Lib. 544, Fol. 52, together with all the rights of way mentioned in said deed.

Also another parcel of land situated in said Quincy and bounded: Beginning at a stake in the embankment on Atlantic avenue (Atlantic street) at land of John Minot and running northeasterly on said avenue to the Old Colony railroad; thence running on said railroad about thirty-three (33) feet to a stake in a northwesterly direction; thence running southwesterly in a straight course through the centre of a large house about sixty feet to land of said Minot to a point in a salt pond; thence running southeasterly on land of said Minot to said Atlantic avenue.

Also another parcel of land situated in said Quincy and adjoining the first described parcel and bounded northeasterly on the Old Colony railroad about twenty-two (22) feet; northwesterly on a passage-way and land of Farrell and others, about sixty (60) feet; southwesterly on land now or late of said Minot, twenty-two (22) feet; southeasterly on land of Farrell and others, sixty-eight (68) feet, or however otherwise the same may be bounded.

Said premises will be sold subject to two mortgages, one for two hundred dollars given June 23, 1884, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 538, Fol. 65; and one for two hundred dollars dated February 2, 1886, and recorded as above in Lib. 575, Fol. 182; also subject to all unpaid taxes.

ONE DEAD, ONE DYING.

Fate of Two Young Men Who Were on a Lark at Danbury.

Made Attempts to Forcibly Enter a House.

Refused to Desist and One of the Occupants Used a Shotgun.

DANBURY, Conn., April 13.—There was a shooting affair here early yesterday morning that may result in a double murder. One man is dead and another is dying in the hospital.

William Flitcroft, who did the shooting, is behind the bars. His victims were Frank Ketchum of 31 Osborne street, and Willis Tomlinson, who boards at 62 Beaver street. The former was killed and the latter fatally injured.

Ketchum and Tomlinson were two of a quartet of young men who went on a lark Saturday night. Early yesterday morning they went to Williams lane, which leads out of Main street and into a densely populated settlement occupied by people of various classes.

The four young men went to No. 12, where Mary Fisher, Lizzie O'Brien and William Flitcroft lived, but were denied admittance. Then they endeavored to break in, whereupon Flitcroft appeared with a gun and threatened to shoot if they did not desist.

The young men went away, but soon came back again and tried to get in. Flitcroft repeated his threat to shoot if they did not leave. One of the party made some derisive remarks, and Flitcroft fired. The party then ran to Main street, where Ketchum cried out that he had been shot and Felt As if He Were Dying.

Tomlinson and one of the others went to Ketchum's assistance and helped him across the street, where he laid down by the sidewalk and expired. He had been shot in the heart.

Tomlinson then said he had also been shot, and dropped to the ground. The rest of the party ran for aid, and Tomlinson was taken to the hospital. He had been hit in the neck and face by the shot. Ketchum's body was taken to the morgue.

Flitcroft, the two women, Rufus Gannaway, Theodore Newcomb were immediately taken into custody. The four last mentioned were the companions of the men shot, and ranged in age from 20 to 25 years. The shooting has created a sensation from the fact that all the young men are well known, and their families are prominent in social circles.

Ketchum was 20 years old. He was employed by Breckerle & Co., hat manufacturers. His father is in business in New York city. Tomlinson's parents reside in Danbury. Flitcroft is a well-known pedestrian.

About two months ago a party broke into this same house, and Flitcroft was roughly handled. He had his assailant arrested, and it is said the police advised him to use his gun if another incident of the kind occurred.

Hibernians' Good Showing.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 13.—The Ancient Order of Hibernians held its annual state convention here yesterday. There were 98 delegates present, representing 19 divisions and the military company of the state. President McKenna of Woonsocket presided. The annual report showed the membership to be 1526, an increase of 400 members during the past year. The following officers were chosen: President, J. F. Quinn of Pawtucket; secretary, S. D. Curran of Newport; treasurer, Thomas Madden of Providence.

Beyond the Clutches of the Law.

NASHUA, N. H., April 13.—United States District Attorney Branch has received a decision from the state and claims department at Washington to the effect that Embezzling Cashier Morrill of Manchester and Defaulting Cashier McKean of this city cannot be extradited from Buenos Ayres, because no treaty exists with Argentina. Mr. Branch made application in June, 1894, for the extradition of Morrill, and later, when McKean's whereabouts had been ascertained, for his extradition.

May Be Manslaughter.

BOSTON, April 13.—John J. Sullivan, 63 years old, and his son Frank, aged 24, were arrested Saturday night while in a drunken quarrel at their home in Jamaica Plain. Yesterday morning the father was found in a stupor in his cell and was taken to the hospital where he died last night of a fractured skull. It is alleged that Frank struck his father the fatal blow, and he will probably be arraigned on the charge of manslaughter.

O'Rourke's Dream Came True.

FITCHBURG, Mass., April 13.—John O'Rourke, 24 years of age, was run over and killed on the Fitchburg railroad here yesterday. Saturday night O'Rourke dreamed that he had been run over by the cars, and at the time of the accident his mother, to whom he had related the dream, saw it realized, as she watched him from her window attempt to board the train. O'Rourke was employed by the Consolidated road.

Faith and Mercy.

LOWELL, Mass., April 13.—Sister Beatrice, who for 22 years was at St. John's hospital, has resigned, and will leave for New Orleans to take charge of a hospital for lepers in that city. She resigned early last week, but her reason for so doing was not made known until yesterday. A call for volunteer nurses had been made among the houses of the order and she was one who answered the call.

Lost His Job.

LOWELL, Mass., April 13.—Mizael Carpentier, 42 years of age, who had worked 27 years for the Lawrence corporation, lost his position last week by reason of the corporation closing a portion of its mill. Saturday morning he disappeared and yesterday his body was found in the canal. He leaves a wife and eight children.

Can't Be Found.

BOSTON, April 13.—Alfred B. Smith, a well-known and trusted Grand Army man, disappeared on Feb. 18 and has not been seen since. He was given a bill to change by his employer in view of several suspicious looking characters and it is feared he has met foul play.

Farmer Randall Missing.

LEWISTON, Me., April 13. — Foster L. Randall, a farmer, 72 years of age, living two miles out of this city, came to the city a week ago and sent his team back with a message that he should not return to dinner. He has not been seen since. The police have been notified. He was recently married.

Was a Great Success.

BOSTON, April 13.—The first great horse show that Boston ever had closed Saturday night after a week of unparalleled success, both financially and socially. The attendance of the week was more than 50,000, and while the expenses were enormous, there is a balance of $10,000 in the treasury.

Congressman Morse to Retire.

BOSTON, April 13.—Congressman Elijah A. Morse has issued a letter to the voters of the Twelfth district, finally declining to serve as a candidate for re-election, and declaring that his health demands retirement from public life.

New England Briefs.

The wife of W. H. McGann, "the boy evangelist," secured a divorce at Lowell, Mass.

Augustus Warren of South Boston, was found dead asphyxiated by gas in a room at a Boston hotel.

Two spans of the Fort Point channel, Old Colony railroad bridge, at Boston, fell into the water.

The Bates house, a fine new structure on Jerusalem road, Cohasset, Mass., was ruined by fire. Loss, $12,000.

Jack Trout, a horseman, was thrown from his road sulky at Haverhill, Mass., and is supposed to be fatally injured.

Edward B. Evans has been appointed temporary receiver of the Granite State Provident association in Rhode Island.

Mrs. Fred Steere, 35 years old, committed suicide at Providence by taking poison. She had been sick for two years.

The stables of the Laconia (N. H.) Ice, Coal and Wood company, and contents, including nine horses, were burned. Loss, $3000.

Roscoe Johnson, aged 14, while playing with a rifle at Exeter, N. H., accidentally shot his 11-year-old brother. The latter's Joseph Banigan, a rubber merchant, has made a gift of $25,000 to the new St. Francis Xavier convent, a Catholic institution, at Providence.

Duncan McRae, charged upon oath with aiding and abetting in calls and blows which ended in the death of Richard Ingram at Lawrence, Mass., was held in $1000 for the grand jury.

The cornerstone of St. Jean Baptiste church at Pawtucket, R. I., was laid with elaborate ceremonies. Rt. Rev. Bishop Harkins, bishop of the Providence diocese, officiated.

A man believed to be Bernard Foley, while at work on a bridge now in course of construction at Providence, fell into the water, and though quickly rescued, he was unconscious, and died soon after.

Dr. Oliver Goss, of Lakeport, N. H., a prominent physician, died yesterday from a complication of diseases. He was 76 years of age, studied at Harvard college and was graduated from Dartmouth medical college in 1845.

A false alarm of fire was rung in from a box on the outskirts of Lynn, Mass., and while the firemen of a nearby house were responding, burglars ransacked the firehouse, securing considerable money and many other articles of value.

Along the Nile.

SUAKIM, April 13.—The dervish forces under command of Osman Digna continue to hover in the neighborhood of Suakim, watching their opportunity to do mischief. Minor skirmishes between the dervishes and friendly Arabs on the plain before Suakim are continually occurring and several men have been killed. The practice of the dervishes is to behead whatever prisoners they may take. Osman Digna, with 200 cavalry and 500 infantry, attacked the position held by a sheikh who is friendly to the British, but he was repulsed with 14 killed. Osman Digna has a force numbering 3000 troops. It is well known that large numbers of the Arabs who have been counted as friendly to the British are deserting to the enemy.

Suicide by Drowning.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The body of Horace P. Stilson of 266 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, was found drowned in the North river yesterday. When searched, a pawn ticket for a gold watch, pledged at Mulvihill's pawnshop, two rings, two keys, two pictures and a card, bearing the name and address of Mr. Stilson, were found in the clothing. It was the card which led to the identification of the body as that of Mr. Stilson, who had puzzled the police of this city for the past few days by his peculiar actions.

Bomb For Non-Unionists.

LITHONIA, Ga., April 13.—A dynamite bomb was exploded late at night under a hotel here where non-union laborers were stopping. The building was badly wrecked, but no one was fatally injured. The throwing of the bomb is suspected to be a sequel of a conspiracy on the part of union men to kill the non-union men, who made their habitation exclusively in the wrecked building.

Bluffs From Spain.

MADRID, April 13. — The press here evinces ill-humor because American juries have acquitted the captains of notorious filibuster vessels intended for Cuba. The Epoca declares that in the event of a conflict between Spain and America over Cuba, Spanish diplomats would speedily make the matter a European question, and it insinuates Spain is sure of European aid in such an event.

IT WOULD appear as if the city had incurred an unnecessarialy large debt for schoolhouses. The order should have read for "$75,000 or so much thereof as may be necessaay." We are aware the amount also includes grading and furnishing but it will not require $29,000 or more for these. That the sum is a low one is shown by the figures given Mayor Adams since the passage of the order by Mr. S. O. Moxon. He offered to build them for $32,000 each and to deliver them to the city ready for occupancy within five months from the date of contract. The price named including heating and ventilating and every other building expenditure.

Many Slight Fires.

The alarm from Box 75 at 1.18 Sunday afternoon was for a slight fire in a barn on Main street, owned by Cornelius Ring, and occupied by Edward Costello. The fire seemed to be beneath one of the stalls, but fortunately was discovered and extinguished before much damage had been done, and a recall was sounded in a few minutes. How the fire started is a mystery.

About 11 o'clock Saturday night an excited individual seeing the grass on fire at Sunnyside park and thinking it was near at hand, rushed through the streets shouting fire! He succeeded in gathering quite a crowd, one of whom prevented him from ringing an alarm from Box 37, which he was about to do.

The Combination wagon was called out on a still alarm at 8.15 Saturday night to extinguish a grass fire on the old C. F. Adams estate on Goffe street.

The Combination was called out on a [illegible] residence of [illegible] pendence avenue.

Odd Fellows Banquet.

A banquet was tendered the incoming officers of John Hancock lodge Wollaston, on Friday evening. About sixty members were present. The tables were beautifully decorated, and much credit is due the entertainment committee consisting of Messrs. F. H. Coombs, Benj. Sargent and E. L. Mitchell for the able manner in which they performed their duties. Bates' orchestra furnished music for the evening.

Mr. Frank N. Bates photographed the members at the tables by the flash light process. After the banquet very interesting remarks were made on Odd Fellowship by Noble Grand Hutchins, Past Grands Brown, Chandler and Hoxie, Noble Grand-elect E. M. Dunn, Vice Grand-elect L. H. Milberry and others. The newly elected officers will be installed Wednesday evening.

Cock Fighting at Weymouth.

Officer Fitzgerald discovered a gang of sports in a cocking main on Sunday afternoon in the woods off Front street, Weymouth. There were five in the gang, but as they were on the lookout and saw the officer, they dodged through the bushes and made their escape. However, in their haste to get away, they left three birds and a horse and buggy behind them which Officer Fitzgerald took in charge. Late Sunday night a young man who gave his name as Frank P. Bramley called upon the the officer and claimed the team, but he did not get it.

Reception to Teachers.

At a church sociable of the Centre Congregational society on Thursday evening of this week a reception will be given to the day school teachers. Rev. E. N. Hardy finds that 45 teachers worship at his church regularly, and that others are frequently among the congregation. The number is surprisingly large, and the reception should be a pleasant occasion. Teachers can do better work if they realize that they are appreciated, and good results should follow this social gathering.

SCHOOLHOUSE BIDS.

Many Anxious to Obtain the Contracts.

Some Remarkably Low Prices are Therefore Named.

Appropriation of $75,000 for Two Much Larger than Necessary.

Bids for the two brick schoolhouses, for which $75,000 has been appropriated, were opened at City Hall Saturday afternoon.

The advertisement for proposals stated that bids would be received up to 4 o'clock, at which hour they would be opened in the presence of the bidders, but the accident to the drawbridge at South Boston not only delayed the Mayor but a number of bidders who also were to take the the 3.15 train, which is due in Quincy at 3.40 so that it was 4.10 before Quincy was reached. The Mayor and Commissioners decided to admit the bids of those who were late on account of the trains.

At 4.20 the opening of the bids commenced and at that time representatives of most of the bidders were present. Twenty-five bids were received in all and it was nearly five o'clock before the last had been opened. As a whole the bids did not vary much, although it was impossible to tell just what the lowest bidder incorporated in his bid. The reason for this is that some of the bidders neglected to state whether or not heating and ventilating were included.

The lowest bid was that of George Howard, which was $26,600 for the West Quincy building and $24,256 for that at Norfolk Downs. This may not include heating and ventilating.

The lowest bid where the builder is supposed to have included heating and ventilating was that of Edward E. Strout, whose figures were: West Quincy, $27,865; Norfolk Downs, $26,803; both for $54,805.

The other bids received were as follows:

John R. Sheahan & Co., including steam fitting,—$34,670 for one, $69,000 for both.

Hartwell, Williams & Kingston,—West Quincy, $29,995; Norfolk Downs, $28,595; both $58,590.

Lord Bros., including heating and ventilating, Norfolk Downs, $31,350; both, $64,300.

E. S. Libby.—West Quincy, $26,300; C. G. Locke, including heating and ventilating,—West Quincy, $31,800; Norfolk Downs, $30,028; both, $62,100.

James McNeil,—West Quincy, $31,680; [illegible] Norfolk Downs, $30,000; both, $61,750.

Alfred Hines,—both $60,000.

P. H. Jackson, including heating and ventilating,—West Quincy, $31,044.96; Norfolk Downs, $29,334; both, $60,300.

C. H. Sylvester,—West Quincy, $33,491; Norfolk Downs, $31,891; both, $65,300.

H. C. Witt,—Norfolk Downs, $31,150; West Quincy, $32,750.

George G. Bacon,—West Quincy, $31,675; both, $61,750.

William C. Seelye,—Norfolk Downs, $32,606; West Quincy, $34,400.

J. McCarthern,—West Quincy, $26,965; Norfolk Downs, $27,980; both, $54,945.

R. G. Adams,—$31,000 for either; West Quincy, $1,600 extra.

Angus McDonnell, both, $63,544.

C. C. Blanchard,—both, $65,242, including $7,000 for heating and ventilating.

Frank G. Coburn,—$32,923 for one, or $32,423 each for both.

T. H. Kingston,—Norfolk Downs, $33,360; West Quincy, $35,400; both, $68,760.

William T. Eaton,—Norfolk Downs, $29,184; West Quincy, $32,056; both, $61,241.

Mead, Mason & Co.,—West Quincy, $33,000; Norfolk Downs, $31,550; both, $64,550.

Gouch & Pray,—Norfolk Downs, $28,669; West Quincy, $800 more.

J. Geddings & Son,—Norfolk Downs, $31,924; West Quincy, $33,624; both, $65,548, including $3,500 each for heating.

William I. Mabie,—both, $59,898.

GRANITE CITY CLUB.

Mayor Adams Among New Members —New Quarters Under Discussion.

At the annual meeting of the Granite City Club held on Saturday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—Joseph C. Morse.
Vice President,—D. E. Wadsworth.
Clerk and treasurer,—E. W. H. Bass.
House committee,—Joseph C. Morse, D. E. Wadsworth and E. W. H. Bass.
Finance committee,—Clarence Burgin, H. F. Tilden and W. W. Ewell.
Membership committee,—E. W. Sheppard, W. W. Mitchell and John Curtis.
Entertainment committee,—E. W. H. Bass, H. F. Tilden, George W. Jones, R. A. Sears and J. Warren Nightingale.

The club is in a prosperous condition, and has added lately new members at nearly every monthly meeting. Among the prominent gentlemen recently enrolled are Mayor Adams, ex-Councilman Moxon, C. C. Hearn, the City Square druggist, and others. On Saturday evening, Mr. James Milne was unanimously elected.

The club meets tomorrow evening to discuss the subject of moving to new quarters in the large block to be erected this summer by the Quincy Savings Bank, on the spot where the bank now stands.

South Quincy Literary Club.

"Dead Language as Factors in Education," was the subject presented by Mr. L. J. Pastor at the weekly meeting of the South Quincy Literary club, on Friday evening, April 10. The study of dead languages is something about which diametrically opposed opinions are very often candidly expressed, and the debate was no exception in this respect. Mr. Pastor, as opener, favored the study of unspoken languages on account of the mental exercise it afforded, and also because of the much valuable information contained on the ancient page. They bring us into contact with the master minds of by-gone ages, and teach us that brains and exalted morals are by no means of recent origin.

That the question can be viewed in a different light than that in which Mr. Pastor presented it was brought out in the discussion that followed. The study of dead language is not only useless, but obstructive to the pursuit of aquirements which are immeasureably more important and demand all the time and energy at the disposal of the most acute and industrious. Mr. Pastor's lecture awakened in the members a desire to hear something from him of the thought of some of the ancient Greeks and induced him to take for a subject for Friday, April 17, "The Philosophy of Plato."

Disorders afflict the human race, the large majority arising from impure blood. Hence the wide range of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood purifier of the age.

"I feel it a duty to suffering humanity and to Hood's Sarsaparilla to tell what this medicine has done for me. I know it is an honest medicine. I had

Dyspepsia, and 3 years treatment by physicians did me no good. I could not eat half a cracker without distress. I fell off in weight from 180 to 149 pounds. I also suffered with rheumatism, and was pretty well used up. I heard about Hood's Sarsaparilla and began to take it. I soon noticed that it was helping me, and after taking several bottles found I could eat what I wanted without any distress. Later I had salt rheum or come on my ankles, and I again took Hood's Sarsaparilla. The swelling went down and the eruptions healed. Then I had the grip and it left me in bad shape, with catarrh and other troubles. The doctor said I was all worn out, but might be patched up and live a year or two. But I clung to my old friend Hood's Sarsaparilla and was soon in my better health. I am alive yet, more than three years having passed since the doctor's prediction, thanks to Hood's. I am 69 years old, weigh 170 pounds, am in good health and recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends for dyspepsia, catarrh and rheumatism, and also for cleansing the blood." S. S. HANCOCK STREET GRADE.

Reasons Why the Street in Hollow Should be Raised Now.

Following is a copy of a letter which had been sent to Mayor Adams and to each member of the City Council, and is of interest to the public generally.

DEAR SIR: The petition for a grade on Hancock street, between Granite street and School street is one that should receive the most careful consideration from the Council, and I would call your attention to the following facts as to the conditions as they exist on the street.

1st. The petition asks only for a grade to be given by the Council, which if refused might involve the city in a large expense at some future time, by buildings being located without a grade to build by.

2d. If a grade is given at present level, as you can readily see by examination, the top of the arch of the bridge over Town brook is so near the surface of present grade of street, that it would be impractical to pave the street at that point, and gutters would be impossible.

3d. The only means of running sewer pipe through the street is to break through the arch, running pipes across, as the passage way for the water is now hardly sufficient to carry at high water, any narrowing of same would be liable to flood property on street, for which city would be liable.

4th. If large business blocks are erected on the street at present grade, and the grade should afterwards be changed, (as it must be sooner or later) it would entail an expense of thousands of dollars where hundreds would now suffice.

I trust you will thoroughly investigate this matter, as it is in my opinion, vital to the best interests of every section of our city, that we prepare our business streets for the large increase in population and business that is surely coming.

Quincy from its location, half way between Boston and Brockton, and rapidly becoming a street railway center for the surrounding towns, is destined to become the most popular city south of Boston.

JOHN F. MERRILL.

Teachers Invited.

The Young Men's Christian Association extends a cordial invitation to the public and particularly to the teachers of the city to attend the closing exercises of the educational department tomorrow evening.

Mr. Henry T. Bailey, State supervisor of drawing, will speak on "Drawing as a language." The exercises will begin at 7.45. The work of the Sloyd drawing and modeling classes will be on exhibition at 7 o'clock. Refreshments will be served at the close.

Suit Abandoned.

Through the efforts of City Solicitor Blackmur the State solicitor has abandoned the suit of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts against the city of Quincy. This was a suit of the Commonwealth against the cities of Quincy and Boston to fix the liability for the care and maintenance of one Henrietta Melvin, a person alleged to be of feeble mind, now cared for by the State. The city of Quincy witnesses will however be used in the case against the city of Boston.

The Gale Struck Him.

Benjamin Bevins of the Cape Cod fish market had a narrow escape from a watery grave Saturday night. That morning he went to Orleans to sail up a new Cape cat boat for the assistant engineer at Stearn's mill. Mr. Bevins, who has a fondness for cats, was right in his element and everything went well until off Plymouth, when he found himself in a north west gale. It struck him and he was obliged to put into the same harbor that the Pilgrims entered years ago for safety, which he did with some difficulty. Sunday morning he started out again and reached a safe harbor at Neponset Sunday afternoon.

GILL GENEALOGY.

Ancestors of the Late George Lewis Gill.

They Settled in Hingham About the Year 1635.

As Told by Edwin W. Marsh, Esq., in His Memoir.

In his introductory to the memoir of the late George L. Gill before the Quincy Historical society, Mr. Edwin W. Marsh said:

The town of Hingham, in our adjoining County of Plymouth, appears to have taken its name from a Parish of that name in the County of Norfolk in Old England, which was the early home of some of its first settlers.

From that Parish came Rev. Peter Hobart, who, after a brief stay in Charlestown, where he had relatives, came with a company to the New Hingham, and established a church there in 1635, four years before the church was gathered at Mount Wollaston. About the same time, and very likely of the same party, came John Otis, progenitor of James Otis the eloquent patriot, and Thomas Gill, progenitor of the subject of this memoir. The former was born in Barnstable in the County of Devonshire, England, in 1581, the latter, probably in the same neighborhood, about 1616. Thomas Gill received a grant of five acres of land in Hingham in 1635, and January 30, 1745-6, was one of those chosen to order the prudential affairs of the new town. His name appears in connection with town affairs through the remainder of the century, the last entry upon the record concerning him being,—that he was drowned, February 24, 1704, while sailing towards Boston. He must then have been nearly 90 years of age.

Thomas Gill married Hannah, a daughter of the John Otis before named, by whom he had eleven children. She died in Hingham Jan. 25, 1675 6. John Otis died in Weymouth, May 31, 1657. By his will he bequeathed to his daughter Hannah Gill, "two feather bolsters, one rugg, a cotton blanket and his biggest brass kettle;" and to his grandson Thomas Gill, Jr, he gave one musket. This musket may have been of service, as the recipient afterwards carried the title of Lieutenant, and the names of his descendants are found among those who did service in the later wars.

Thomas Gill, Jr., fifth child and first son of Thomas and Hannah, was born in Hingham, March 8, 1648-9. He was for several years one of the Selectmen of the town, and died there September 3, 1725, married Susanna Wilson in Hingham, December 31, 1673. She died December 29, 1725. They had six children.

Nathaniel Gill, oldest child of Thomas and Susanna, was born in Hingham December 31, 1674. He also was for several years a Selectman of the town, and died there April 4, 1734. He was married in Hingham August 15, 1705 to Abigail, daughter of John and Mary (Russell) Jacobs, who was born in Hingham, November 13, 1683, and died there April 30, 1749. They had five children.

Nathaniel, second son of Nathaniel and Abigail Gill, was born in Hingham, November 1, 1810. He married, December 23, 1731, Hannah, daughter of Caleb and Ruth (Hersey) Beal, who was born in Hingham, November 5, 1710. He died there February 12, 1762. His widow lived until December 24, 1785. They had nine children.

The third Nathaniel Gill, second son and sixth child of Nathaniel and Hannah, was born in Hingham January 3, 1742 3. He married there, November 26, 1767, Sarah, daughter of John and Deliverance (Porter) Beal, who was born April 14, 1743, and he died in Hingham, August 22, 1818, his wife having died on the 13th of the previous month. They had three sons and three daughters.

Caleb Gill, their second son and third child, was born in Hingham, August 14. 1774. He married, October 21, 1798, Caty Beal, who was born in Hingham, October 17, 1779, and died there, May 12, 1859. She was a daughter of Elijah and Caty (Lewis) Beal, her father being a grandson of John Beal, who came to Hingham from the Parish of that name in England in 1638. He died at his new home, April 1, 1688, at the advanced age of one hundred years. Caty Lewis, the mother, of Caty Beal, was a descendant, in the fourth generation, from George Lewis of East Greenwich in Kent, who came to Plymouth in 1633, and the next year was given with others a discharge from the church there, on condition that they join in a body at Scituate. In 1640, he, with others, removed with Rev. Mr. Lorthrop to Barnstable, where he died in 1662 Caleb Gill was by trade a silversmith, he served as a Selectman, and in other positions of trust in his native town, and died there, July 1, 1855. He had three sons.

The second Caleb, the oldest son of Caleb and Caty Gill, was born in Hingham August 23, 1799. He married there, Dec. 8, 1822, Charlotte, daughter of Peter and Betsy (Davis) Howard, who was born in West Cambridge Jan. 1, 1802. He was, during his early and middle life, closely identified with the affairs of his native town serving for several years upon the Board of Selectmen and in other positions of trust, and from 1838 to 1846, he was a respected and influential citizen of Quincy. In the latter year he removed to Boston, but subsequently returned to Hingham, where he died July 22, 1869. In her declining years, his widow found a home with her son in Quincy, where she died in her 87th year. February 10, 1888.

The children of Caleb and Charlotte Gill were George Lewis, the subject of this memoir, and Edwin Howard, who was born in Hingham July 26, 1825, was married in Quincy, October 1, 1848, to Sarah J. Roulston, and who survives him.

Thus it appears that the progenitors of the subject of this sketch in the male line, were Thomas Gill and John Otis, who were among the settlers of Hingham in 1635, while his grandmother, Caty Beal, was a great grand daughter of John Beal, who, the record says, came with his wife, five sons, three daughters and two servants from Hingham in England in 1638; and she was also a descendant of George Lewis, who was at Plymouth as early as 1633. This brings him down by four distinct lines from the earliest English settlers of New England. His great grand father, Elijah Beal was a corporal in a company which started from Hingham on the morning of the battle of Lexington, and were afterward in service about Boston, and his great grandfather, Benjamin Beal was an ensign in the continental army. It is notable, that though his ancestors in the male line for nearly two hundred and fifty years, lived and died in Hingham; were prominent in its affairs, lived to a good old age and raised families, the average age for seven generations being 72 years. Not one of the family name can now be found among the residents of that town.

A sketch of George L. Gill, of two columns in length, was published in the LEDGER of Saturday.

LOVE FOR AMERICANS

Prime Cause of Rebellion In the Salvation Army Ranks.

General Wanted Everything on English Plan.

Ballington Booth and Wife Once More Ventilate Their Grievances.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth held a long conference yesterday afternoon in the Bible house with influential friends of the Volunteer movement. The direct result is a statement of their differences with the Salvation Army, which culminated in entire separation therefrom. It is in part as follows:

"Since our statement, written in response to the urgings we received to inaugurate a new movement, was issued, we have avoided making any reply to the inaccurate statements which have from time to time appeared in print from the present leaders of the Salvation Army. In this attitude of silence we have been endorsed by our friends and the public. It was our intention to maintain this silence, but during the last few days news has reached us that portions of our private letters are being shown by London's representatives, who are putting their own interpretation upon our reasons for our present position.

"Hearing of this, our friends and our officers who wish their position at our side to be understood, urge us to state some of our reasons for deciding not to take another command under international government. It must, however, be conceded that our position has been, and is, a very delicate one. It must be stated with emphasis that no one letter embraces all the reasons for our inability to accept another command.

"Upon receipt of orders to leave America we wrote a letter dated Jan. 10, asking if international headquarters had taken into consideration all the consequences of the change of command at that particular time. The feeling toward England then existing in this country, the heavy financial responsibility of our new building, and our own peculiar and unfortunate relations with the general, made it appear to us a most unfortunate and ill-advised step. This letter was forwarded by others from us stating that we were preparing to fulfill their orders and to relinquish our command.

"On Jan. 31 we wrote to London stating some of our reasons for being unable conscientiously to accept another command, but making plain that we did not wish to injure the army.

"It must be distinctly understood that our feeling regarding the matters of controversy were known by London prior to the sending of our farewell orders. Many letters passed between us and the general, after our interview with him in this country, previous to the time when direct communication from him to us ceased.

"First—The general's visit was the primary cause of disagreement between us. From first to last he impressed us with his displeasure and his dissatisfaction with us personally and with our method of administering affairs. We loved and understood this country. He exhibited prejudice and misconception of it and its people. He objected to the display of the national flag upon our badges and in our halls and homes, and constantly spoke depreciatingly of the country, its people and its institutions. He spoke no word in public of approval of our toil, service or success, and in other ways we need not mention made the visit one of the Bitterest Experiences of Our Lives.

"Second—During our experience in America we have gradually become convinced that the system of governing the work in this country from a foreign center by laws made by those unaware of the needs and conditions of the country is neither wise nor practical.

"Third—Our judgment has been forced upon points we do not approve, and we have been made to feel that the government was such that we could not accept another command where we should have to administer the affairs, while we ourselves could not agree with the rules it demanded and enforced.

"Fourth—The rules and regulations governing the army to the minutest detail were being made in England, and the commissioners of foreign commands were obliged to enforce them, though they had themselves in nowise been consulted on the formulating of the same.

"Fifth—For years we had not been consulted on the important measures of the innovations of the army, although supposed to be two of its most prominent and responsible officers. Great schemes involving large sums of money had been formulated and launched by international headquarters, and our first intimation of the same was through some publication.

Sixth—Our judgment was not accepted on matters vitally affecting the welfare of the work in this country. For example, some years ago, in counsel with our leading officers, it was decided to enforce a rule against the use of tobacco by our uniformed officers. Some two years since a book on soldiers' rules and regulations was sent from England, in which it was distinctly stated that this was no longer to be a rule. We stopped the sale of the book and wrote. We were told in reply that America must come into line with other countries, and the law be abandoned. We refused, and crossed out the paragraph in the books, and told London of the harm such a change would accomplish. They wrote us the following ultimatum on the subject:

"'You should let it be known immediately what your own view of the matter is (as though our view had not been that of our officers on the question) privately to officers who confer with you on the subject, you should say that you regret very much that you issued the orders you did, and that they were issued with a misapprehension on the subject and without the knowledge of international headquarters, and that, of course, the general has had far wider experience than you have.'

"To this we replied: 'We cannot possibly do this, as with our present feelings it would be inconsistent, for, instead of wishing we had not issued such a rule, on the contrary we only wish you would declare this a law to the whole world.' We have since learned that leaders in other countries have had their judgment forced on the same subject.

"Seventh—During his last interview with us in America, the general stated that he wished us to assist the struggling work in Canada by giving up a certain portion of the United States to be annexed to the Dominion. We expressed our willingness to further assist our comrades in Canada with money (having already helped them financially), but that the annexation of American territory to Canada was quite impracticable and would damage the work. Though they could not win our judgment, they forced us to make the annexation, and at the present time the army work in Dakota, North Montana and North Washington is governed from Toronto.

"Eighth—Though we repeatedly urged after the resignation of our chief secretary, William Evans, that for the sake of the advance and safety of the work in America, it was absolutely necessary to chose for that position an officer from the ranks in this country who was an American citizen and familiar with the thought and sentiment of the American people, our request was ignored by international headquarters. We were told that the officer holding the position must be some one trained in England and well known to the general and chosen by international headquarters. We had reluctantly to restrict our choice to an officer from England, and Colonel Eadie was sent.

"Ninth—In relation to our going to London for conference with the general, we believed it was useless, as we had had lengthy and unsatisfactory interviews with him here. We consider the above sufficient reasons for our letter of Jan. 31.

"Apart from the above reasons, the unjust manifestoes and unchristian assertions made by the leaders of the army and their representatives in this country are sufficient reasons for refusing to entertain any suggestion of returning to the ranks of the old movement.

"By remaining in the movement we did not think that our influence would have affected the points at issue, as our judgment was disregarded, but now that this separation has occurred there will undoubtedly, for policy's sake, be great caution used in all these matters.

"There will undoubtedly be denials and counter-statements made to the above, but we can only add that we believe that our lives before the American public will at least exonerate us from insincerity of motive and unworthiness of purpose. We wish the army no evil and would not have thus written had they taken our advice and remained silent."

Sunday at Athens.

ATHENS, April 13.—The festival in honor of the 75th anniversary of the independence of Greece continues, though most of the important athletic events have been decided. A luncheon was given at the palace yesterday in honor of the visitors in the games, the guests at which included the members of the various committees connected with the festival and the correspondents of newspapers. The chief event of the day was a bicycle race from Athens to Marathon and back, the distance being 90 kilometers, which was won by a Greek named Constantinides in 3 hours 21 minutes and 31 seconds.

A Loss to Germany.

WILHELMSHAFEN, April 13.—A collision occurred between two torpedo boats which were being tried by the government officials in the vicinity of the naval station. One of the torpedo boats sank and five persons were drowned.

HESITATE NO LONGER.

Modesty in women is natural. It is one of women's chief charms.

No one cares for one who really lacks this essential to womanliness.

Women have suffered fearfully because of over-sensitiveness in this direction. They couldn't say to the physician what they ought to say to someone. Mrs. Pinkham has received the confidence of thousands. Women open their hearts to her. She understands their suffering, and has the power to relieve and cure.

In nearly all cases the source of women's suffering is in the womb. In many cases the male physician does not understand the case and treats the patient for consumption—indigestion—anything but the right thing.

It is under such circumstances that thousands of women have turned to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and opened their heart and lives—woman to woman—and received her help.

You ask how she can tell if the doctor cannot? Because no man living ever treated so many cases and possesses such vast experience.

Displacement, inflammation, torpid action, stagnation, sends to all parts of the body the pains that crush you.

Lydia E. Pinkham's "Vegetable Compound" is the sure cure for this trouble. For twenty years it has done its grand work and cured thousands.

HOPE IN THE FUTURE.

Colonel Ingersoll Thinks the World Is Growing Wiser and Better.

Too Much Belief In Supernatural at Present.

Religion, Capital and Labor and Domestic Problems Discussed by the Agnostic.

CHICAGO, April 13.—"What next?" ask Christians and freethinkers alike of the Windy City, since the arch-agnostic, Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, consents to address a church congregation. And he has not only consented, but fulfilled his engagement.

Recently Rev. Mr. Rusk, pastor of the Militant church of this city, invited the colonel to address his flock upon what Christianity should do for mankind. The event occurred yesterday in Hooley's theater.

"It made no matter," said Dr. Rusk, in his introduction, "whether a man believed in God or not, if he expounded the truth; then the truth was there and God was there." As Colonel Ingersoll stepped to the rostrum he was welcomed with applause.

"There is no darkness but ignorance," began the great debater. "Every human being is a necessary product of conditions, and everyone is born with defects for which he cannot be held responsible. Nature seems to care nothing for the individual, nothing for the species. The present is the child, and the necessary child, of all the past and the mother of all the future.

"The wants of the savage are few, but with civilization the wants of the body increase, the intellectual horizon widens, and the brain demands more and more. The savage was a natural believer in the supernatural, and, finding himself beset by dangers and evils, he sought in many ways the aid of unseen powers. His children have followed his example for many ages.

During all these ages the brain of man was being slowly and painfully developed. Nature, generous and heartless, extravagant and miserly as she is, is our mother and our only teacher, and she is also the deceiver of men. Above her we cannot rise, below her we cannot fall.

"Every science rests on the natural, on demonstrated facts. So morality and religion must find their foundations in the necessary nature of things.

"Ignorance being darkness, what we need is intellectual light.

"Man in a savage state relies upon his strength and decides for himself what is right and what is wrong. Civilized men do not settle their differences by a resort to arms. They submit the quarrel to arbitrators and courts. Nations, however, sustain the relations of savages to each other.

"For 1800 years peace has been preached, and yet the civilized nations are the most warlike in the world. There are in Europe today between 11,000,000 and 12,000,000 of soldiers ready to take the field, and the frontier of every civilized nation are protected by breastwork and fort. The sea is covered with steel-clad ships filled with missiles of death.

"The civilized world has impoverished itself, and the debt of Christendom, mostly for war, is now nearly $30,000,000,000. There must come a change or Christendom Will Become Bankrupt.

"There is another direction in which the wealth and energies of man are wasted. From the beginning of history until now man has been seeking the aid of the supernatural. For many centuries the wealth of the world was used to propitiate the unseen powers. In our own country the cost is about $2,000,000 a week, and, counting 10 hours as a working day, this amounts to about $500 a minute.

"For this vast amount of money the returns are remarkably small. There is no great diminution in crime. The decrease of immortality and poverty is hardly perceptible. In spite, however, of the apparent failure here, a vast sum of money is expended every year to carry our ideas of the supernatural to other races.

"The home is the unit of the nation. Everything that is possible should be done to keep this from being a nation of tenants. The men who cultivate the earth should own it. I wish to go a step further. I want, if possible, to get the people out of the tenements, out of the gutters of degredation, to homes where there can be privacy.

"Nothing is more important to America than that the babes of America should be born around the firesides of homes. It is also of the utmost importance to the human race that women, that mothers, should be free. Without doubt the contract of marriage is the most important and the most sacred that human beings can make. There can be no real marriage without mutual love.

"All children should be children of love. No woman should by law or by public opinion be forced to live with a man whom she abhors. There is no danger of demoralizing the world through divorce."

Of the labor problem, Mr. Ingersoll said he saw no final and satisfactory solution except in the civilizing of employers and employed. Employers are supposed to pay according to their profits. They may or they may not. Profits may be destroyed by competition. Employers are at the mercy of other employers. They cannot govern prices. When we become civilized, corporations will pension their worn-out workmen.

Mechanics will finally, perhaps, become intelligent enough really to act in absolute concert. Then a reasonable rate of compensation can be fixed and enforced, and nothing that is not reasonable will be demanded by them.

Every child should be taught to be self-supporting, that useful work in worship. Not only financial, but mental honesty, should be inculcated. Beliefs, superstitions, theories, should not be treated like demonstrated facts. The great thing is to make people intelligent enough and strong enough not to keep away from temptation, but to resist it.

These reforms cannot, perhaps, be accomplished for many centuries. Meantime, let each one, to the extent of his ability, help others and put forth every effort to hasten the coming of a better day. This, in my judgment, is real religion.

When Colonel Ingersoll concluded, the applause was loud and long continued, many of those in the foyer waving their handkerchiefs and hats. The congregation united in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and with the pronouncing of the benediction the unique service came to an end.

Congress Will Probably Have Disposed of All Its Work.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—An unusually early adjournment of congress is being predicted by the Republican leaders in both houses, and every sign points to the fulfillment of their prophesies. No congress in many years has made the record for the transaction of routine business which stands to the credit of the present one, so far as the lower house is concerned at any rate.

With all of the regular appropriation bills, except two, already passed by the house, with one of those remaining reported from the committee, and likely to be passed with only a day or two of debate, and with the other in process of preparation, house leaders are placing the limit of this session at June 1, allowing, as they think, sufficient time for the senate to take care of the important bills sent to it from the house.

No other business except the regular appropriations is absolutely necessary to be done, and although the house may take up some of the more pressing of the general matters before it, such as the settlement of the Pacific railroad debts, the statehood and bankruptcy bills, it is expected that many other minor matters will be passed over in the interest of an early adjournment.

It seems probable that the house will have passed the last of the appropriation bills before May 15. Of these bills five—the pension, military academy, urgent deficiency, diplomatic and consular and army bills—have been signed by the president and are law. The agricultural bill has been passed by both houses and is ready for the president's signature. The postoffice bill has been passed by both houses, but the senate amendments have not yet been agreed to by the house, and the legislative, executive and judical bill is also in conference between the two houses.

The Indian bill is in the senate and the naval bill is ready for consideration. The sundry civil and the river and harbor bills have been sent to the senate and referred to committees. In the house the fortifications bill stands ready for consideration, and the last of the list, the general deficiency, is being prepared by the appropriations committee. There remain, therefore, but two appropriation bills to be passed by the house and six for the senate to act upon.

The senate committee on appropriations is well up with its work on the appropriation bills and the senate is not far behind its committee. The general opinion that the appropriation committee can complete its work on the bills still to be considered within three or four weeks' time and it is possible to finish them by the middle of May.

There are some who estimate that it will require until June 1 to accomplish this result. No one puts it later. With the appropriation bills out of the way, it will be exceedingly difficult to hold the senate in session for any purpose. Consequently, the prevailing opinion in the senate is that the final adjournment of the session will not be far beyond the beginning of the first of the summer months.

Republican members of the house gathered at the Capitol Saturday night in the second caucus of this congress to determine the party policy on the immigration question, but because of the failure to secure a quorum no definite action was taken.

The meeting was chiefly interesting for a speech made by Mr. Dingley of Maine, the leader of the party on the floor of the house. Speaker Reed was not present, but Mr. Dingley spoke, outlining the views on general legislation held by the leaders of the house. So far as legislation relating to immigration was concerned, Mr. Dingley's speech did not inspire its friends with much hope. The general tenor of his advice was that the Republicans should use every endeavor to bring about an early adjournment of congress, to adjourn, if possible, within a month, as soon as the appropriation bills could be passed by both houses.

Filled Cheese Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—After two days' debate, the house, by a vote of 160 to 58, passed the Grosvenor "filled cheese" bill. The Democrats voted solidly against the measure, together with 11 Republicans. The bill requires the manufacturers of filled cheese to pay a tax of $400 annually, the wholesale dealers $250, and the retail dealers $12, and for failure to pay such tax imposes heavy penalties. It also requires the branding of "filled cheese" and its sales only from original packages. The bill requires all retail dealers to post conspicuously a sign "filled cheese sold here." In addition, it imposes a tax of 1 cent a pound on filled cheese, the tax to be paid by the manufacturer. Imported "filled cheese" is subject to a duty of 8 cents a pound. The act is to go into effect on the 19th day after its passage.

A Triple Murderer.

NEW HAMPTON, Ia., April 13.—Herman Beak of this city yesterday shot and killed Mike Bartz and fatally wounded the latter's son and daughter. Beak is a son-in-law of Bartz. Beak's wife recently secured a divorce from him. He laid in wait in the brush for them while they were on their way home from church and discharged both barrels of a shotgun at them at short range. Beak mistook the girl for his wife. He gave himself up immediately after the shooting.

With Usual Rows.

MADRID, April 13.—Elections for the new chamber occurred yesterday throughout Spain, and were accompanied by serious disorders at Barcelona, where a factory was burned. Thus far there have been returned 280 Conservatives, 65 Liberals, 3 Republicans and 5 Carlists. There are in all 431 deputies.

May Yet Be Safe.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 13.—Twenty-eight men were driven off shore on the ice Saturday night. Two steamers which have been cruising for them returned last night unsuccessful. One of the men landed yesterday, and it is supposed the others have got ashore at desolate points on the coast.

Why Not Try It?

BRUSSELS, April 13.—The Turkish Reform league has issued an appeal to the great powers to depose the sultan as the only remedy for Turkish misrule. They declare that the Dardanelles could be forced and the sultan deposed without the loss of 20 lives.

With a Proviso.

LONDON, April 13.—The Turkish embassy has issued a statement to the effect that Christian missionaries and priests peacefully executing their work will not be molested in Turkey, but that the porte reserves the right to remove those guilty of illegal acts.

General Fitzhugh Lee Appointed Consul General at Habana.

Good Reasons For Not Recognizing Cuba Just Yet.

General Garcia Sends a Letter to the People of the United States.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A great deal of misapprehension exists as to the attitude of the administration toward the Cuban insurgents. Why the president does not recognize Cuba, how long before he will, and what the insurgents will have to do that they may be so treated, and a thousand other questions of like import, are constantly asked.

Are Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Olney devoid of sympathy for a brave people struggling against great odds? Have they no sentiment that teaches them that this continent is dedicated to liberty, and that Spanish rule on the hemisphere is an anachronism?

The president and his secretary possess both sentiment and sympathy, but a recognition of belligerency is a question that comes under neither head. Why are not the Cubans belligerents? They have kept up a hard fight, and are now nearing the close of a second campaign. The best troops of Spain sent against them have been unable to subdue them, and they hold a greater part of the island of Cuba.

But continued fighting and the holding of an area of country, although elements necessary to establish the fact of belligerency, are not all the elements necessary. The usages of nations codified in the rules of international law expressly declare that other elements of warfare must exist, and some of these other elements cannot be found in the Cuban struggle.

What are these elements? The possession of a considerable area of land, of a seaport or prominent town which the insurgents may call their own and hold against their adversaries; a well-established civil government controlling the armed forces in the field, and able to receive diplomatic representatives of other nations under their authority and protection. These and other things go to make up the notion that the subjects in rebellion may reasonably expect to throw off the parent government and become one of the nations of the earth. Unless such an expectation may be justified, foreign governments have no right to interfere.

But the poor Cuban insurgents have thus far no ships, no legislature, no regular army, no one city of size which they are holding steadily against her enemies. Moreover, the insurgent bands are not working under the control of a definitely organized civil government. This is an important distinction.

Where is their capital, where the seat of their government, and to what point would Mr. Hitt go were he appointed envoy extraordinary to the Cuban republic? These considerations account for the failure of the administration to act.

The administration has not recognized the belligerency of the insurgents because as a question of fact, viewed in the dignified and impartial light of international procedure, it believes belligerency does not exist.

This is the administration position, and it is so clear that it ought not to be misunderstood.

The Nomination of Fitzhugh Lee

as consul general to Habana, in place of Williams, resigned, is not without significance. Lee was already holding the office of internal revenue collector. Also his appointment to Habana is taken to mean that his particular services were especially in demand.

A West Point graduate, an eminent general in the Confederate army, and a life-long student of military affairs, his selection is evidence of a desire on the part of the administration to make a careful study of the military side of the Cuban question. "Belligerency a question of fact" is the administration motto, and to ascertain this fact Mr. Lee has been selected as a competent expert.

The nomination of General Fitzhugh Lee to be consul general of the United States at Habana has caused no little commotion in the senate. There is not much doubt of the confirmation of the nomination, as Lee is generally liked personally. But in view of the quasi diplomatic character of this particular post, and the somewhat strained relations between this country and Spain, there is much curiosity as to the present attitude of the general on the Cuban question.

Always, heretofore, he has been a good deal of a jingo and very quick to resent any suspected affront, public or private. He is "intensely American," as the phrase goes, and the cause of the Cuban revolutionists is one which would naturally stir his sympathies.

General Fitzhugh Lee, ex-governor of Virginia, is a grandson of the famous "Light Horse Harry" Lee, and a nephew of the late Robert E. Lee, the southern military chieftain. He graduated at West Point in the class of 1856 and entered the regular army as a lieutenant in the Second cavalry. For three years preceding the rebellion he was on duty on the frontier, and once, in an encounter with the Indians, was seriously wounded in the chest.

At the outbreak of the war he resigned from the army and followed his state into secession. He fought in the Confederate army throughout the rebellion, acquiring distinction as a cavalry leader. After the war he settled in Virginia as a farmer and miller.

In 1875 he entered political life, and in 1876 attended the national Democratic convention as a delegate. The next year he was Democratic candidate for governor, but was defeated. In 1879, he became a candidate for the state senate, but was defeated by the readjuster candidate.

On July 29, 1885, General Lee was nominated for governor of Virginia by the Democratic convention, which met at Richmond. He had for his opponents some of the most prominent men of the state, and the struggle was fierce, it being remarked on all sides that the convention reminded old politicians of the great gatherings of ante-bellum days.

He was elected. That time has eradicated the scars left by our late war was already shown some years ago, when General Lee was invited to be present at the obsequies of General Grant.

A Letter From Garcia.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The following letter has just been received in New York by Estrada Palma from General Garcia, who lately landed in Cuba. It is addressed "To the People of the United States of America:"

I am fully aware of the obligation which I have contracted to stand trial for my alleged violation of the laws of your country. I have not remained to face the consequences of the uncertainty of my acts simply because I feel that I have a higher duty to perform as a soldier and a Cuban. Having fought for the independence of my country for 10 years, and having ever since then promulgated the idea for which we then fought, I deem it my highest and holiest duty to fight and bleed, and if necessary, die, to attain the independence of my country.

Should I fail, my death will expiate, I hope, in your eyes, any possible offense for which I might have to stand trial there; should I survive, I give you my word as a man and a soldier to return to your country and cheerfully abide by the consequences which the authorities may visit on me.

My conscience tells me that in this proceeding I will satisfy the law of justice, and I am confident that the citizens of the United States will so judge of my conduct.

Concerning Maceo.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—First Lieutenant Abelardo Peraza, of the staff of General Lacret of the Cuban insurgent army, is in the city, convalescing from a wound received in the war. In an interview yesterday he denied that General Gomez is in a serious condition. "He has been sick from liver troubles, but is in a fair way to complete recovery and as active as ever," said the lieutenant. "He has under him an army of 12,000 men, most of whom are well armed. Counting the divisions of Maceo and other generals, his total strength is about 30,000. What is mostly lacking is ammunition."

PREPARED BY BALFOUR.

A New Irish Land Bill Brought Before House of Commons.

LONDON, April 14.—Gerald Balfour, chief secretary for Ireland, introduced a new Irish land bill in the house of commons yesterday. It is of much wider scope than that of John Morley.

In introducing the land bill Mr. Balfour said that the government believed that the land question was at the root of the agitation for home rule. The bill provided to facilitate the purchase of holdings and prevented the lessee from having rent levied on his improvements.

They proposed that the tenants should be deemed, on the payment of two years' arrears, to be in just possession of their holding, leaving the landlord to recover the remainder of the arrears in the ordinary way. Continuing, Mr. Gerald Balfour said that the government had decided not to alter the statutory term of 15 years for fixing a fair rent.

Purchase would not be compulsory, the secretary proceeded, as such a scheme would require possibly £200,000,000, while the terms could not be so advantageous to the tenant. The terms for repaying would be extended, and relief would be given to the tenants toward the end of their tenancy, when they were more likely to need it, the payments decreasing with the length of the tenancy. Every purchaser could buy in less than 20 years. While at the start there would be 20 per cent less rent than they were now paying, they would also be relieved of 10 per cent during the first 30 years. The bill, he said, extended the powers of the congested districts board, enabling it to borrow to the extent of £1,500,000.

With regard to evicted tenants, Mr. Balfour said the government had already declared that they could not consent to the use of public money, believing that aid should come from private sources; but they were prepared to re-enact the clause of the land act for a year and so act as mediators. Mr. Balfour concluded by saying that the bill was an honest endeavor to facilitate the substitution of peasant ownership for dual ownership.

Teamster Killed.

Alexander Smith of 7 Penn street, a teamster, met with a fatal accident at Charlestown on Monday. He left South Quincy at 2 30 Monday morning with a three-ton monument for Malden. While passing through Charlestown he in some unknown way fell from his team, the wheels of which passed over his left side. He was found unconscious in the street and removed to the hospital, where he was identified by cards in his pocket. His family were notified and his wife and son left for his bedside. He lingered until afternoon when he died. He was 43 years of age and leaves a widow and one son.

A Prize Problem.

If 100 cats can kill 100 rats in 100 days, how many cats will it take to kill 300 rats in 300 days?

A prize of $1 is offered for the first correct answer received by "Prize Editor, Quincy Daily Ledger," if accompanied by 25 cents to pay for the DAILY LEDGER one month on trial. This is one-half the usual price of the paper, and someone will receive the cash prize.

Both Legs Broken.

A Boston paper reports, J. L. THE CITY COUNCIL.

Debate of the Evening on Victuallers' Licenses.

Eleven of the Councilmen Spoke on One at Issue.

Resolutions Adopted on the Death of Councilman Rinn.

The City Council of 1896 put itself on record Monday evening as opposed to Sunday traffic, under the protection of a common victualler's license. Councilman Sidelinger and Barker of the Committee on Licenses reported adversely, but Councilman Holt of the committee offered an amendment granting the licenses. Half the Council took part in the debate, nearly equally divided on the question. The persistence of Councilman Sidelinger carried the day, although it was necessary for President Bryant to cast the deciding vote.

COUNCILMAN SIDELINGER.

Councilman Rice was the only absent member.

Jurors.

Councilman Sprague assisted the Mayor in drawing the names of Henry F. Abbott, Alexander Marnock and George H. Osborne as traverse jurors.

Communications.

The Mayor returned without his signature the order authorizing the Chief Engineer to place a fire alarm box at the junction of Copeland and Crescent streets, giving as his reason that the appropriation for "Miscellaneous Fire Expenses" has been cut down as low as is consistent with the absolute needs of that department, and if any unexpected item of this sort is added, it will probably not be sufficient. He also suggested that if the Council deems it wise at present to increase the fire alarm expenses that an increase be made in the appropriation asked for fire alarm purposes. The order was reconsidered and laid on table.

Petitions were received for common victuallers' licenses from John H. Sawyer, Mary Deldorf, Thomas J. Farrell, E. Wightman, Angeline L. Macomber, Mary E. La Pierce, Natale Fossato; for two public carriages from F. A. Rogers and Michael J. McGrath; to collect junk from Charles H. Kendrick and Alfred McGlone; pool and billiard table, J. H. Welsh and J. H. Cunningham; to keep and sell gunpower from Oriental Powder Mills all of which were referred to Committee on Licenses.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Timothy F. Ford as inspector of animals and provisions.

Councilman Holt asked if it was not contrary to charter for one man to hold two salaried offices.

Mayor Adams replied that he did not see any objection in this case. Mr. Ford was inspector of the board of health and by combining the two offices better results were obtained.

Petitions.

Albert Keating petitioned for an auctioneer's license. To Committee on Licenses.

Members of the Wollaston M. E. church petitioned to have the gutters in front of the church fixed so as to carry off the water. To Committee on Streets.

Mary McCarthy petitioned for increase of soldiers' relief, and Mary Lowney for State aid. To Committee on State Aid.

The Electric Light & Power Company petitioned for location of poles at Wollaston. To Committee on Streets.

Reports of Committees.

The special committee reported resolutions on the death of Councilman Rinn which were adopted by a rising vote as follows:

WHEREAS, our beloved brother Louis Rinn has passed on to another world, and

WHEREAS, he has faithfully served the City of Quincy with great ability and unflagging energy, to the very last days on earth, and

WHEREAS, he has endeared his memory to all his associates in this council by so doing, as well as by his gentle and courteous bearing toward them all,

Be it resolved,—That we, members of the City Council do now express our profound sorrow at the loss of so worthy a member of this body, and so good and true a citizen of this city, and

Be it further resolved, that we tender to the widow and children of our late lamented friend, our deep sympathy with them in their great loss and sore affliction—

And be it further resolved, that these resolutions be properly engrossed, and that a copy thereof be forwarded by the City Clerk to the bereaved family.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the executive department the petitions for repairs on North street. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported no legislation necessary on petition for two oil lights on Walker street as they had already been put there. Adopted.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on petition of Electric Light & Power Co. for location of six poles on Newport avenue as said location was not now needed. Adopted.

The Committee on State Aid reported in favor of granting James M. Cleverley $4 per month. Adopted.

The Committee on Licenses reported that Everett S. Gilpatrick and Daniel Lyons for common victuallers' licenses have leave to withdraw.

Councilman Holt, of the committee offered an order granting Mr. Gilpatrick a license.

President Bryant divided the question and first came the amendment as offered by Councilman Holt.

Councilman Holt said he had investigated this case. He found Mr. Gilpatrick had all the facilities for selling eatables. He said he would not sell groceries on Sunday. His wife was sick and he had hard work to support himself. Then again a car station is needed there.

Councilman Sidelinger, chairman of the Committee on Licenses, said at the meeting of the committee Councilman Holt said he did not care to go down and look at the place and the committee voted leave to withdraw. After that Councilman Holt came to him and said he had changed his mind, and the only reason he could see why he had done so was because some one had told him Gilpatrick should have a license. If this was Mr. Gilpatrick's only means for support it would be all right. He has a good business in his grocery store. Health has nothing to do with granting common victualer's licenses. The people of Ward Two would take good care that he did not suffer. Councilman Sidelinger further said that he saw Gilpatrick Saturday night and he refused to close door leading into the grocery store and he was in the same position as last year. If anyone wanted anything in grocery line on Sunday he should consider it a necessity and should deliver them. There was no call to have this place open Sundays.

Councilman Phillips hoped minority report would be accepted. He believed the license should be granted. He did not believe that Gilpatrick intended to act any farce under the license. He had heard no complaint against the place.

Councilman Nickerson thought the Quincy & Boston street railway able to support all the waiting rooms necessary. This case was gone through with last year and it was simply a scheme to do a Sunday business.

Councilman Field said he had looked into the matter and thought Gilpatrick should have a license.

Councilman Barker hoped majority report would prevail. If he is granted a license why should we not grant a license tress in the stomach and other symptoms of dyspepsia demand careful attention to diet and a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla to tone the stomach and other digestive organs, purify the blood and sustain the nerves. Mr. J. W. Gerry, a well-known business man of Hopkinton, Mass., relates his experience.

"I was troubled with indigestion for many months. My food gave me great distress. Physicians prescribed for me, and although they gave me help for a time, they did not cure. I felt and discouraged and could not sleep at night. My friends advised me to give up business, the doctors declaring that I needed a change. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought it might do me good. I am glad to say that I felt the benefit right away, after commencing to take the medicine. Three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured me of indigestion. It also relieved me of costiveness and I have not had any trouble of this nature since. I have taken several bottles of the medicine in the of the year since my first treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla and I have thus kept myself in perfect condition. My wife has also taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with equally good results. I am 60 years old and I feel as well as when I was 30 years of age. I cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. W. GERRY, Cor. Grove and Main Streets, Hopkinton, Mass.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

James P. Ballou has retracted his plea of not guilty of breaks at Quincy and pleads guilty.

By the new Methodist appointments Rev. W. J. Pomfret will be at Byfield, Rev. W. F. Lawford at Tapleyville, Luther Freeman at Newton Centre, Rev. C. W. Wilder at Holliston, Rev. J. H. Humphrey at Millbury, and Rev. Victor Witting at Worcester.

The Methodist appointments in Quincy are as follows: St. Paul's (Swedish) Svente Svenson; Wollaston church, Rev. S. C. Carey; Atlantic church, to be supplied by Rev. C. E. Price; West Quincy church, to be supplied by Rev. A. A. Brown. The LEDGER welcomes the reverend gentlemen to Quincy, and invites them to forward each Friday their church services and church news.

Some one has recently dumped a load of loose papers on the dump at Teal pond with the result that all the neighboring yards and grounds are now strewn with them. While the privilege of dumping clean filling is allowed it seems unwise and unfair to intrude on the privilege by dumping such material as will cause a nuisance.

The committee for the last Unitarian church sociable is Mrs. Emery, chairman; Mrs. Fenno, Mrs. G. H. Field, Miss French, Mrs. J. F. Faxon, Mrs. A. E Faxon, Mrs. H. M. Faxon, the Misses Field, Miss Hatch and Miss Fotler. A new departure will be made tomorrow night in some informal music by members of the parish. The usual half-past six o'clock supper will have a spring flavor as salad will take the place of turkey and beans.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Quincy Yacht Club was held on Monday evening. Secretary Whiting was authorized to procure plans and estimates for the proposed alterations to the club house. After these have been procured the executive committee will call a meeting of the club requesting that they be authorized to make the alteration. If the club endorses the committee's plans it seems as though it would have one of the finest club houses on the coast.

A number of the young Quincy friends of Miss Mary Mahan of 36 Delle avenue, Roxbury, tendered her a reception Sunday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Vinton, Mount Pleasant, where the young miss had been stopping since Wednesday. The young friends present were Misses Lillian Cunningham, Teresa McGrath, Teresa Roche, Geneviere Tate, Mary Swain, Margaret Powers, Marie Coughlin, Catherine Deady, Mary Burns. It was the intention to compliment Miss Mahan during this week, but she was unable to prolong her visit on account of the opening of school. A lunch was served by Mrs. Vinton for her appreciative guests.

CITY COUNCIL.

to any grocer who lives in his own building who by cutting a door from his kitchen into his store, could keep open Sundays.

Councilman Pinkham did not think this license should be granted because he was a good fellow. He has said he would sell groceries on Sunday if anybody wanted them and it seems half he wants a license for is to sell groceries on Sunday.

Councilman Phillips was proud of his city's reputation for sobriety and would not countenance any act to lower the standard of the city. It was a convenience to many people to go there to get something to eat.

Councilman Rideout said he had looked into this case and people of Ward Two thought he should have a license.

Councilman Sidelinger said Gilpatrick had stated to him that he would sell all the groceries he wanted to, as he should consider it a necessity. He had been told by the last speaker (Councilman Rideout) that Gilpatrick was an Odd Fellow and he should be granted a license. It was a good time now to decide if the Council wantedto spread these places all over the city. The settees outside of the building are filled with loafers half of the time and the inside so filled with smoke that ladies would not stay there.

Councilman Phillips said he might be an Odd Fellow, but did not belong to the order. He had seen Gilpatrick last evening and he said he did not intend to sell groceries.

Councilman Sprague did not think there was any danger of opening grocery stores on Sundays. He understood that Gilpatrick sold tonics and soda and the kind of goods a store of that kind usually did, but when a man says he will sell a pound of sugar he should vote for him for he would be more honest about it than a man who said he would not sell it.

Councilman Holt said parties had come to him. He went down there and asked questions and inspected his place. There is a demand for such goods as coffee and sandwiches. I looked him in the eye and asked him if he would comply with the law and he said he would. He had seen the Chief of Police and he said no complaint had been made against the place.

Councilman Lamb stated he had called upon Gilpatrick last year and asked him if he sold groceries on Sunday and he said he did. He would not close the grocery part of his store, and Councilman Sidelinger says he has not changed his mind from last year.

Councilman Rideout said an Odd Fellow had come to him and said they had to help Gilpatrick.

Councilman Hayden said he was at Quincy Point seven days every week and as far as he could learn there was but two men who favored granting this license, one was Councilman Phillips and the other was Gilpatrick.

The question on accepting the order offered by Councilman Holt was then put, ten voting in favor and ten against. President Bryant decided the question by voting against.

The question on accepting the majority report, which was leave to withdraw, was accepted by a vote of 11 to 10, the chair voting in the affirmative. The report on the petition of Daniel Lyons was also accepted.

Other Reports.

The Committee on Ordinances reported properly engrossed the order granting the N. E. T. & T. Co., the location for one pole on Washington street, and the order was passed to be ordained.

The Committee on Licenses reported an order granting a licence to Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., for entertainments at Revere hall. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order authorizing the Mayor to contract with the Electric Light & Power Co., for street lights for a term of three years at the same terms as before or better. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order laying out a right of way across the "Water Company lot" at South Quincy. To Committee on Ordinances.

The same committee reported an order appropriating $600 for regrading Cross street. Read once.

The same committee reported an amendment to the order for the paving of Copeland street, substituting $18,000 for $25,000. The amendment prevailed, and upon motion of Councilman Field the order was laid on the table.

New Business.

Councilman Sprague offered an order for discontinuance of oil lights on Arlington and other streets and substituting electric lights at same cost. Read and referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Field is still persistent in his efforts to probe the alleged crookedness in Norfolk county, and upon his motion the Council adopted this resolution:

That the Mayor be and hereby is authorized and directed to petition the General Court for an investigation of the accounts and proceedings of the County Commissioners for the County of Norfolk.

Voted that when the Council adjourn it be until April 27, the 20th being a holiday.

Voted that hearings advertised for April 20, on petitions of the Quincy & Boston street railway, be given May4.

Schoolhouses Again.

Councilman Sprague is still anxious to set himself right on his schoolhouse stand.

He rose to a question of privilege and quoted from the DAILY LEDGER, as follows: "Councilman Nickerson denied charge of Councilman Sprague that the Moxon plans were an entirely new set of plans. He would ask if at a joint meeting Mr. Moxon did not remark that he would draw them out more specifically so that they could be better understood."

Councilman Nickerson raised a point of order that schoolhouses were not under consideration, but the chair ruled that it was not well taken.

Councilman Sprague, continuing, read a letter which he had received in January from Mr. Moxon, stating that the plans and specifications were completed and needed no explanation from him.

Adjourned at 8 47.

Dedham Sentences.

Judge Hammond of the Norfolk Superior court imposed the following sentences on Monday:

Patrick Mara of Medfield, drunkenness, three months.

Coleman McDermott of Quincy, adultery, nine months.

William J. McMinimin of Cambridge, breaking and entering dwelling-house of Herbert L. Watson in Cohasset, two years and six months.

Dolly Lynch of Boston, 30 days.

William Sullivan of Braintree, breaking and entering a stone shed in Quincy and larceny of bush hammers, two years and six months.

Peleg O. Leonard of Quincy, larceny from the person, one year.

John McKay of Randolph, larceny of $19 from Thomas Devine in Milton, 18 months, all the above to the Dedham house of correction.

Church Officers.

The annual meeting of the Park and Downs Union society was held Monday evening in the chapel on Rawson road and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President,—L. H. Milberry.
Vice President,—C. W. Page.
Secretary,—H. J. Polk.
Treasurer,—A. E. Linnell.

The above officers, together with W. D Given, C. F. Marr and A. W. Polk, were elected trustees.

After adjournment the board of trustees organized with William D. Given as president.

Advertised Letters.

At Wollaston: Miss Annie Bain, Mr. LeRoy Barrett, Warren Bates, Mr. A. C. Beal, Mr. Elisha Besse, Mr. Alphonse Bearwais, Mrs. Elmer Brown, Mrs. William Cherrington, Mr. Carswell, Mrs. Michael Donovan, Mr. Peter J. Hand, Mr. William Thomas, Mrs. N. D. Wentworth, Mrs. George Wilson.

Boys, Boats and Church.

It is almost time for the Sunday services at "Ambrose's," as Mr. Lelois' yard is called. Our boys need the influence of all that our New England summers can give, and it is suggested that a short out of door service be conducted there. Brother Butler could do it, so the fellows would not realize they were listening to a sermon and they do need some leavening. We believe in boats, down the bay and a church service. If the boys will not go to church after May comes in, why not take a piece of church to them?

Closing Session of the Methodist Conference Was an Exciting One.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 14.—The centennial conferene of the Methodist church at Asbury church, this city, closed last night with the reading of the appointments.

The principal business of the morning was the vote on the admission of women to the general conference. As the majority favored this, the only matter of interest was whether the Hamilton resolution, which presents the issue in a negative way, that women shouldn't be admitted, should prevail.

The committee on the subject protested against putting the amendment in this form, and recommended that members be allowed to decline to vote, and to have their refusal recorded.

The committee's protest was defeated, but the recommendation as to allowing refusals to vote to be registered prevailed. The Hamilton amendment was defeated by a large majority, only four voting for it.

Then the Baltimore and Colorado resolution, stating the question affirmatively, was carried, as was also the resolution in favor of reducing the basis of representation to 1 in 61.

At the afternoon session it was voted to recommend to the general conference the election of stewards and trustees by vote of the members of the quarterly conference over 21 years of age.

A resolution to the general conference was adopted, calling for firm and dignified action in regard to national rights, and deploring both sycophancy and jingoism.

The Evening Session

was packed with delegates, the only sensational feature being the discussion on the report of the committee on Romanism, which was presented by N. T. Whittaker of Lynn, his associates being Hugh Montgomery and A. H. Herrick.

In the preamble of the report it was stated that the Catholic church has succeeded in securing the political control in a large number of cities, giving strength to the supposition that it is the object of the present pope to secure temporal power again. The report closed with the following resolutions:

Resolved, That as members of the New England conference of the Methodist-Episcopal church, we urge all Americans to be alive to the lessons of history, and not to be so absorbed in the advancement of personal interests as to fail to oppose the aggression of political Romanism.

We are unalterably opposed to all appropriations of public moneys for sectarian purposes. We commend the national house of representatives for its recent refusal to make such appropriations. We respectfully and earnestly request the United States senate to ratify this action of the house of representatives, and Grover Cleveland, our president, to give to it his sanction.

We reaffirm our hearty support of the American public school system as one of the great bulwarks of our civil and religious liberties, vital to the development of true Americanism.

We commend most heartily the Roman Catholics who are faithful in temperance and other moral reforms who accept as the truth God's word when interpreted according to the dictations of their own judgment, and while taking their religion do not take their politics from the pope.

Mr. Whittaker spoke in support of the resolution, and Frederick Woods of Boston gave a sharp reply, in which he said that the attack on the Catholics was allying the Methodist church with the A. P. A.; also that the chairman of the committee, Mr. Whittaker of Lynn, had given an address on "Why Every Man Should Be an A. P. A." The attack, he said, claimed to be only against "political" Romanism; that was not true. The papers teemed with abuse of the Catholics, and it was heard in the conference last Friday.

Mr. Whittaker's speech was received with mingled applause and hisses, and the report was accepted by a large majority.

The Seed Question.

PORTLAND, Me., April 14.—A few days ago H. F. Farnham, one of the managers of the New England fair, wrote Secretary of Agriculture Morton, and suggested that an exhibit of all the seeds that a congressman has the right to distribute, if shown at the New England fair, would be interesting. In reply, Mr. Morton said the exhibit might be made if the Maine congressmen would furnish the seeds. "How long the government will continue to distribute thousands of dollars' worth of common seeds to a few people at the expense of the many, I am unable to say," wrote Secretary Morton. "But it is a crying evil, and the custom should be abolished."

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 14.—The house voted 117 to 24 to substitute for an adverse report a bill to prevent the subway commission from making an exclusive lease of the subway to any street railway company. An order was introduced into the house for a committee to straighten the lines of the congress districts into which Boston wards enter. The senate ordered the Worcester court house bill to a third reading, and after reconsidering the engrossment of the short lobster bill again passed it by one majority. The same branch refused to reconsider the rejection of the bill to investigate the state militia.

Something Unusual.

AMESBURY, Mass., April 14. — John Woodman yesterday killed a cow for a Mr. Roby of this town, and on opening her found five perfectly formed calves—three bulls and two heifers. They were supposed to be about four or five months advanced. Dr. Cooper will take means to preserve them. No such thing was ever heard of here before.

Confesses Incendiarism.

CONCORD, Mass., April 14.—Bert Getchell of Boston was arrested yesterday on the charge of setting fire to the Hastings house and barn in West Acton, on March 23, by which the loss was $5000. Getchell made a confession and was held in $1000 to the grand jury. Getchell was married four weeks ago.

BOSTON, April 14.—Harry Wright day was observed in the baseball world yesterday. In commemoration of this favorite player and manager, baseball games were played in all the principal cities of the country. The proceeds will be used to construct a monument in memory of Wright.

The Story of Puritana.

Prof. Dixi Crosby, M. D., LL. D., who for thirty-two years was at the head of Dartmouth Medical College, belonged to the famous Crosby family of physicians, which for several generations has furnished more distinguished medical men than any other family in America. His father was Dr. Asa Crosby, of Dartmouth, who procured the charter of the State medical society, of which he was for thirty years a conspicuous member; one brother, Dr. Josiah Crosby, invented the invalid bed and the method of making extensions of fractured limbs by adhesive strips; another brother, Dr. Thos. R. Crosby, was chief surgeon in Columbian College Hospital during the war, and later professor of animal and vegetable physiology at Dartmouth College; while Dr. Dixi Crosby himself was the inventor and discoverer of various important improvements in medicine and surgery, including a new and unique mode of reducing metacarpophalangeal dislocation, opening of abscess at hip-joint, etc., etc.

At the early age of twenty-four his extraordinary skill and success in overcoming disease had already attracted the attention of medical men throughout the world, and won for him the highest honors. His greatest achievement was the discovery of an original method for perfecting and compounding in permanent form what has become known as his "prize formula," and which, under the name of Puritana, is legally protected.

The foundation of this remarkable medical discovery consists of simple New England roots and herbs, and the original family recipe for it has descended to the long line of Crosby physicians from their Puritan ancestors. Its peculiar vegetable composition rendered it necessary to brew it whenever needed in the early days of its history, and after the scattering of the Puritan families to remote localities, where the necessary ingredients were not to be found, many attempts were made to put it up in permanent form, all of which failed until Dr. Dixi Crosby discovered means and methods, the result of which is: Nature's Cure compounded in the laboratory of Common Sense.

It cures from head to foot.

Puritana

Nature's Cure

For diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Blood, Kidneys

And for Weak Lungs, Starved Nerves, Fagged Brain

It cures after everything else has failed. It cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. It cures pleasantly. It cures positively. It cures permanently

It cures from head to foot.

Puritana is the prize formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby, M.D., LL.D., for over 30 years at the head of Dartmouth Medical College.

If you are a sufferer, get of your druggist this great disease-conquering discovery (the price is $1 for the complete treatment consisting of one bottle of Puritana, one bottle Puritana Pills, and one bottle of Puritana Tablets all inclosed in one package) or write to the undersigned, and you will bless the day when you heard of Puritana. MEMORY OF JEFFERSON

Honored by Democrats at the Home of Father of Democracy.

Ex-Governor Russell the Orator of the Day.

Advocates Party Unity, Sound Money and Adherence to Jeffersonian Principles.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 14.—Under the auspices of the National Association of Democratic clubs, the 153d anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party, was celebrated yesterday at Monticello, where the author of the Declaration of Independence lived and died.

Out on the lawn in front of the historic mansion were gathered a concourse of the yeomanry of Albermarle county, Va., many of them men whose grandfathers had followed the political fortunes of Jefferson. Mingling with them were Democrats who had come from states as far south as Georgia and as far north as Massachusetts.

The guests included Vice President Stevenson, Secretary Herbert, Postmaster General Wilson, Attorney General Harmon, ex-Governor Russell of Massachusetts, Chauncey F. Black and Lawrence Gardner, president and secretary, respectively, of the National Association of Democratic clubs, and nearly two score of senators and representatives, besides a number of the national committeemen.

The party left Washington on a special train yesterday morning, arriving in Charlottesville about noon, and proceeded at once to Monticello, about two miles distant from the town, where they were welcomed by Jefferson M. Levy, the present owner of the estate.

The exercises commenced shortly after 2 o'clock, and on the broad lawns were assembled several hundred people who had come from the surrounding towns and farms. Three addresses were delivered—the first by Chauncey F. Black, the second by ex-Governor Russell and the third by Senator Daniel of Virginia.

The address of Mr. Russell, the orator of the day, follows:

We meet today as Democrats to pledge our loyalty to our party and to consult together for the promotion of its interests; but, first and foremost, we meet as Americans, to serve our country and to keep our party steadfast to her welfare. As Americans and Democrats we honor the memory of him whose birthday we celebrate, and out of whose life and work were largely wrought the independence and stability of our nation, and the principles and policies which have made her great and glorious. His work was fundamental, national, establishing equality, liberty, creating a great republic, enlarging its territory, and making it supreme over a continent and respected everywhere. He founded a great party as the necessary instrument to accomplish large purposes and the permanent power to maintain and enforce undying principles.

Here in the home where he wrote and taught the truths of Democracy, and now on the eve of our party's 25th presidential campaign, it is fitting for us to consider his teaching, the principles he proclaimed, the conditions out of which they sprung, their application to present issues, and their assistant inspiration for us in the leadership. In the days of '76, when the northern states were going to the front, passed the Old South meeting house in Boston, he reverently raised his cap, for a voice within its homely walls spoke to him and sent him forth a braver, truer man. We Democrats, now going forth to battle, reverently pause at the tomb of Jefferson to catch the inspiration of his voice.

What Democracy Has Done.

The speaker then reviewed at some length the political history of the time of Jefferson, and paid a glowing tribute to the record of the party he founded. Continuing, he said:

It has always resisted the control of government by monopolies and organized wealth; it has given power to the people, trusted them, made their welfare its mission, and their will law. It has stood for individual freedom, defending the sailor against foreign impressment, the Catholic against the proscription of bigotry, and every citizen against unnecessary burdens, restrictions or taxation. It has preached and practiced economy, exposed and denounced corruption, extravagance and the abuse of power for selfish or personal ends. It has met, defeated and outlived all its opponents, and is still in power, and in the full strength of vigorous youth. It lives and rules because it has a living gospel, just and enduring principles, and ever work for them to do. We find its present to its past, not as a reminiscence, but as an incentive, and turn to Jefferson not as a blessed memory, but as still our leader.

For many years the Democratic party, through a long agitation and a struggle within its ranks, has asserted that taxation is to be only for revenue and public purposes. To this end, upon the emphatic demand of the country, it has reversed its war tariff policy. This it has done conservatively, and on the broad lines of first cheapening the necessaries of life and freeing the raw materials of industries. It has not sought to reach the goal by one effort, but step by step, with all the aid experience can give. It now demands a fair test of its law. It vigorously opposes any reaction or return to a tariff policy defeated and discarded, and recognizes the right of business interests to a period of rest. It firmly believes in the separation of government and taxation from the control of private interests and selfish influences, and confidently expects that the history of 1846 and 1857 will be repeated, and, through discussion and education, we shall, with the hearty approval of the country, return to the sound principles and tariff policy of the days before the war.

One further question remains, for whose solution we turn to Jefferson for help and guidance. We are in the midst of earnest agitation over our monetary standard. The agitation crosses party lines and tends to geographical division. It involves the welfare of our country, and demands explicit and courageous treatment. To Jefferson it could never be an issue between Colorado and Wall street, or between a debtor and a creditor class. His broad Democracy abhorred geographical and class division. With true patriotism he would ask where lie the honor and credit of our common country, where rest the interests of our whole people? For one I believe that our country's honor demands scrupulous fidelity to her plighted word, honest payment of her obligations, and that the people's interest is best served by strictly upholding here the monetary standard of the civilized world. Free coinage of silver, or its compulsory purchase, or any compromise legislation by us in that direction, in my judgment is distinctly class legislation, which would unsettle business, impair credit, reduce all savings and the value of all wages, and whose injurious results no man can measure. We are still ready, as we always have been, to confer with other nations upon any sound system of international bimetallism.

Let us leave compromise and expediency to the Republican party, which is ever ready to trim and evade to harmonize its warring factions. Let us, if need be, through discussion and agitation, find the truth, bravely assert it, and trust our cause to the conscience and patriotism of the people.

The secret of Jefferson's power and leadership was his steadfastness to principle. With firm belief in popular government he trusted the intelligence of the people to correct passing errors and to establish safe and sound policies.

His courage, his faith, his resolute leadership, have guided the latest, as they did the first, of the Democratic administrations, which, with vigor and patriotism, have made dominant the wishes, the rights and the welfare of the whole people. Whatever the storm, whatever the gusts of passion or of prejudice, however threatening the clouds of panic or disaster which have hung over all nations, our president has kept the rudder true. To no political flaw has he trimmed sail, in no stress has he lost courage or abandoned principle. There is inspiration for us in the leadership of Jefferson and Cleveland. It nerves us to stand fast to principle, to put aside expediency and compromise, and with courage and fidelity to meet all pending issues. So shall we merit and win success and hold the confidence of the country as we have in the past. We need not fear defeat. We met it in '88, and then went forth united and strengthened to triumphant victory. We should fear the discredit of sacrificing principle to expediency or of turning aside from the safe course which Jefferson established. Let our good Democratic ship avoid the passing flaws which would drift her hither and thither, content to wait "the powerful and steady gale which will carry the nation upon her true course."

Mr. Black's enunciation of the sentiment of Jefferson that the primary principle of Democracy was "absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority," was heartily applauded.

The greatest interest attached to the speech of Mr. Russell, standing squarely on a "sound money" platform. He was received by the crowd with ringing cheers. He spoke as though accustomed to open air speaking, and his sonorous voice could be heard to the utmost confines of the assembly. His many patriotic allusions and points were rapturously applauded.

When Senator Daniel of Virginia arose to speak his popularity in his native state was made plainly apparent by the enthusiasm with which he was received. He pictured to his audience in an eloquent manner the prominent traits of character of Virginia's gift to the national Democracy—Thomas Jefferson. Mr. Daniel combatted Mr. Russell's position with a free silver argument.

Nobody Hurt.

PARIS, April 14.—The Prince of Fagan and M. Hermant, the dramatic author, fought a duel yesterday at Auteuil, a suburb of Paris. The weapons used were pistols. Four shots were exchanged, but neither of the combatants was wounded.

Knights of old—crusaders who went to conquer the world, could not hope to succeed unless they were in virile, hearty health. A man cannot face difficulties if his stomach isn't in good order. Disordered digestion will make a sluggish coward out of any man. It makes his mind stagnant, and he cannot think quickly enough to accomplish anything. It makes his movements slow, and takes all of the snap out of him. Every man in business in America has a fight on his hands just as much as ever had belted knight. It is a matter of life and death, just the same with him as it was with the crusader. Indigestion and all the ills that go with it, most frequently start in constipation. That keeps all sorts of impurities in the body, forces them into the blood, and so deranges the whole system. Constipation is one of the commonest ills, and to it are traceable most of the disorders that make people sick. Once it gets a firm hold on a man, it is most difficult to overcome it. Temporary relief can be obtained in a thousand ways. There are medicines on the market that will help as long as you take them. There is only one remedy that is a real remedy—that you don't have to keep on taking forever. That is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. The "Pellets" are tiny, sugar-coated granules, mild and efficient in their action. They effect a permanent cure. You don't become a slave to their use, as with other pills.

If you will send at one cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, we will send you FREE the most useful medical book extant. This is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English; a book of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated, the great expense of preparing which has been covered by the sale of 680,000 copies at the regular price, $1.50 per copy. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

In Favor of Women.

PITTSBURG, April 14.—The question of the admission of women delegates to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church has been practically settled in their favor. A letter received by Rev. C. W. Smith, D.D., editor of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate, from Rev. D. S. Monroe, D.D., of Altoona, secretary of the general conference, stated that the constitutional amendment, which carried with it the fate of the proposed women delegates, had received more than the requisite three-fourths vote of those present and voting in the annual conferences. The vote to date is 6637 in favor of the amendment and 2187 against it. This gives the requisite majority, with 375 votes to spare.

Collided With Warship.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Captain Ludlow of the Monterey has reported to the navy department the collision on Sunday between his vessel and a 3000-ton Swedish merchant marine. The Monterey was lying at anchor at the time in Puget Sound. The Swedish steamer struck the warship on the starboard dead abeam, denting in one plate below the water-line and knocking off three rivet heads. The Swedish steamer was reported to be in danger of sinking at the time of sending the dispatch. The Swedish steamer has been libeled for repairs.

Booth-Tucker's Turn.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army denies the charges of Ballington Booth against his father. He denies that General Booth objected to the prominence given the American flag by the Salvation Army, and that he declared the time had come to stop carrying it at the head of processions. Also that General Booth declared it his intention to divide the United States into three parts, so far as the work of the Salvation Army is concerned.

One May Escape Gallows.

CARROLLTON, Mo., April 14.—George Taylor, who escaped Saturday night, 19 days before the day set for his execution for the brutal murder of the Meeks family, is still at large, with little chance of being recaptured. His brother William is still in jail, which is heavily guarded. Deputy Sheriff Shelton, fearing an attempt to lynch the prisoner, has ordered the local militia company to be in readiness to act

Awarded to McKeever.

MASPETH, L. I., April 14.—In the 20-round go at catchweights between Young Griffo of Australia and Charley McKeever of Philadelphia, last night, McKeever had by far the greater number of points to his credit when the gong ended the bout, and amidst a great deal of excitement Referee Hurst decided that the Philadelphian had won. The spectators cheered the verdict as a just one.

Expulsion Irade Repealed.

LONDON, April 14.—Under Secretary Curzon was asked yesterday regarding the irade of the sultan expelling the Protestant and Catholic missionaries from Asia Minor. Mr. Curzon said that the United States charge d'affaires at Constantinople, Mr. Riddle, had been informed by the Turkish government that the irade expelling the missionaries had been repealed.

May Mean a Lynching.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., April 14.—A negro named Henry Edmunds, who had not been living with his wife, slipped into her home, and after abusing her, shot her to death. The woman's sister ran to her aid and Edmunds shot and dangerously wounded her. Edmunds made his escape. Excitement is at a high pitch.

Sugar Goes Up.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—All grades of refined sugars advanced ¼ cent yesterday, with the exception of Nos. 14 and 15, which advanced 1-16 cent. The rise is caused by the general decrease in the raw material and the fact that there is no Cuban sugar coming to this country.

JEALOUS WIFE'S ACT.

Shot Her Husband In the Back at a Boston Entertainment.

Says She Intended to Kill a Woman, Too.

Objects of Her Wrath Were Partners In the Show Business.

BOSTON, April 15.—The 300 spectators who were assembled in a Hanover street museum at 9:30 last evening were startled by the sharp report of a revolver, which rose above the din of their applause and laughter. Lying on the floor of the theater, writhing in pain, lay James A. Andrews, the proprietor of the Andrews sprinting machines, while a few feet away stood his wife, Josephine A. Andrews, grasping a smoking revolver in her hand.

This dramatic scene was the finale of what Mrs. Andrews intended to be a double tragedy, for when she entered the door of the museum last evening she had determined not only to kill her husband, but also take the life of Kitty Connors, known in museum circles as the champion lady sprinter of the world.

Throughout the scene which followed Mrs. Andrews showed remarkable coolness, and only expressed regret that she had not been successful in killing her husband and the woman whose past actions, she claims, have been the cause of her troubles.

James H. Andrews, the victim, was immediately removed to the city hospital, where it was found that the bullet had entered his back near the spinal column. Although in a precarious condition, the physicians say the wound may not prove fatal.

Andrews is a stonecutter by trade, but some four years ago he purchased the rights of a newly invented sprinting machine, which he has since been exhibiting in various parts of the country.

Kitty Connors had displayed marked ability as a sprinter and had been engaged by Andrews to go about with him, being Taken Into Partnership.

They opened an engagement at the museum here on Monday, having arrived from Pittsburg some time ago.

After the shooting Mrs. Andrews was removed to station 2, where she was booked upon the charge of assault with intent to kill. She was in a very excitable condition, and talked freely with the lieutenant in charge.

She said: "I entered the museum with the express purpose of shooting my husband and his alleged partner, Kitty Connors. I passed the woman's parlors, but did not see Miss Connors, so I continued upstairs to find my husband.

"He saw me coming and advanced toward me and I told him to keep off, showing him the revolver I held in my hand. He turned to run, when I fired with the result which you all know."

Mrs. Andrews is 48 years of age and has been the wife of Andrews for 31 years. The couple have had seven children, only four of whom are now living, and but one, a daughter, is living at home. She conducted a boarding house at 4 Cypress street, Chelsea, and for the last two years she claims she has kept her husband supplied with money, which she claims he has spent on the Connors woman.

Mrs. Andrews desired that her daughter be not informed of the shooting, and that she simply be told that her mother was detained in town over night.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 15.—The house, by a vote of 65 to 52, adopted an amended bill to forbid the incorporation of safe deposit, land and trust companies with less than $100,000 capital. The senate, by a vote of 18 to 12, defeated the bill providing for the election of city councillors in Boston and a board of appointment, as asked by the Municipal league. The bill provided for the abolition of the common council, with its contingent fund, and the election of 27 councillors to a single legislative board, each to receive $3000 salary. In the house, Mr. George advocated a bill which provides that the civil service rules, as applied to laborers, shall be permissive and not obligatory in cities of 100,000 inhabitants and under. It was opposed by Mr. Myers and Mr. Parsons. The bill was ordered to a third reading by a vote of 94 to 10.

An Important Capture.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., April 15. — The police of a number of cities and towns are pleased at the capture of Thomas O'Brien and John T. Dennehy, the burglars who were caught here yesterday. O'Brien and Dennehy are believed to be the men who have robbed many houses in East Somerville during the past six weeks, and not only there, but in other nearby cities. The breaks charged to the two men were of the boldest nature. The police of Malden, Medford, Brookline and Charlestown stand ready to accept the care of the two men when the Somerville authorities have done with them.

Weavers' Wants.

WALTHAM, Mass., April 15.—At the weavers' convention here yesterday it was recommended that an adjustment of wages to secure a uniform price-list on the same kind of goods in various establishments be made. It was also decided to organize all weavers in cities and towns where at present there is no union, that the aims of the Weavers' federation may be understood.

Not Yet Settled.

PROVIDENCE, April 15.—The public hearing on the claim of the Narragansett tribe of Indians for $4,000,000 for alleged state appropriation of their land was closed before the legislative commission yesterday and the matter taken under advisement.

Cold Comfort For Consul.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of John D. Hart, owner of the steamer Bermuda; John O'Brien, master; Edward Murphy, and A. Simonson, mate, and Emilis Nunez, on a charge of filibustering. The warrant was issued at the instance of Spanish Consul Congosto, and charges that on April 13 the above named men aided in preparing a military expedition and enterprise to be carried from New York to Cuba to aid the Cuban insurgents, and by so doing violated the United States neutrality laws. Hart was taken into custody and held on his own recognizance. O'Brien and Murphy are not in the city, and neither the United States authorities nor Mr. Hart know who Simonson or Nunez are.

Suspected of Arson.

NEW YORK, April 15.—As the result of investigations at the instance of insurance companies, Mrs. Margaret C. Logue, Louis Myers, her son, and Thomas McLaughlin, have been arrested at Yonkers, and are charged with having started the fire which destroyed 14 buildings in that city on April 6, entailing a loss of $100,000. The woman and her son are held in $10,000 bail each and McLaughlin in $5000. It is also stated that McLaughlin had his stock and fixtures insured a week or two before the fire occurred.

Foreign Dry Goods Burned.

NEW YORK, April 15.—A fire alarm box which happened to be out of order and a defective water tower, the machinery of which failed to work when it was most needed, cost dry goods merchants and insurance companies of this city something like half a million dollars last night. The fire originated in the five-story building 73 Grand street, which, with an adjoining building at 33 Greene street, was occupied by C. A. Aufmordt & Co., importers and agents of foreign dry goods firms.

Conneff vs. Bacon.

NEW YORK, April 15.—A formal challenge has been forwarded to the London Athletic club for a race at one mile between F. E. Bacon of the London Athletic club, the holder of the English mile record, and Thomas P. Conneff of the New York Athletic club, to be run in this city next September for a suitable purse. The challenge, it is said, will be accepted.

BROOKLINE ALSO.

Would Have an Investigation of Norfolk County.

Norfolk county financial methods were discussed at some length at a town meeting in Brookline last evening. Although there was some opposition to resolution offered for an investigation, they were adopted on a viva voce vote by a large majority. The principal objector was Fred Williams, who in 1895 was counsel for the County Commissioners and advised said board not to open their books to inspection.

The Boston Advertiser says: "The act of the city government of Quincy in passing an order requesting the legislature to investigate the acts and accounts of the county commissioners of Norfolk regarding the expenditures on the court house at Dedham, followed up by the similar action taken by the town of Brookline at its town meeting last night, makes it difficult to see how the legislature can longer ignore the matter. The committee on counties, after allowing the impression to go out that it would favor an investigation, provided charges were filed, voted not to investigate, so the affair is now out of their hands. But Sen. Dallinger now proposes to introduce an order on his own account, calling for an investigation.

"At this time the suspension of the rules by a four-fifths vote will be necessary to get the matter before the legislature. With such definite charges as have been made in public committee hearings against the methods of the county commissioners of Norfolk, it would seem that there could be no opposition to such a suspension of the rules especially from the the county commissioners themselves who are thus put under fire.

"Should such an investigation be ordered it is the opinion of those interested that such an investigating committee should sit during the recess as there is no time to properly conduct such an investigation during the busy session of the legislature."

ANNIVERSARY DAY.

Thirty-five Years Ago Quincy Men Went to the Front.

In Response to the First Call of Governor Andrew.

A List of the Minute Men and Residence or Death.

There was issued from the Adjutant General's office of the Commonwealth, April 15, 1861, to the colonels of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, the following order:

BOSTON, April 15th, 1861.

SIR:—I am directed by his excellency the commander-in-chief to order you to muster your command on Boston Common forthwith, in compliance with a requisition made by the President of the United States. The troops are to go to Washington.

By order of his excellency, John A. Andrew, Commander-in-Chief.

WILLIAM SCHOULER,
Adjutant General.

Col. Abner B. Packard of Quincy received one of these orders, and the following men marched from Quincy that April morning thirty-five years ago today. We are indebted to Capt. Franklin Curtis, one of the few survivors, for the list. He has always endeavored to keep track of his comrades at the front but has not been successful in all cases. He would be thankful to receive information concerning those in the list marked with an asterisk, whether living or dead. If living, he desires their address; if dead, the date of death.

The company was in the 4th regiment, M. V. M., A. B. Packard colonel, and started April 17 from Boston for New York, and thence direct to Fortress Monroe. An historian says it was the first regiment to leave the State, and also the first to step foot on rebel soil. The marker upon which the company formed at Fortress Monroe April 20 is now in possession of Paul Revere post 88, G. A. R., having been presented by Capt. Curtis.

This morning at 10 o'clock there was a reunion of the "Minute Men of '61," at Horticultural hall, Boston. At 12 o'clock noon, the several organizations, in numericle order formed line on Bosworth street and proceeded via State House and City Hall to Faneuil Hall, the old "Cradle of Liberty," where the annual banquet and camp-fire is being held.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

Large Barn and Contents at Quincy Neck Destroyed.

The alarm from Box 73 at 4 o'clock this morning called out the department to a disastrous fire in the large barn of James Murdock on the old Sargent estate on Howard avenue, Quincy Neck.

The building was practically destroyed when the department arrived, and but little was left to be done except to extinguish the burning embers and save the house which was within a few feet of the barn.

The steamer was located at the corner of South street and Howard avenue and another line of hose was run from a hydrant just beyond the burning building, but as the latter was nothing more than a dead end, the stream from that did but little good.

In the barn was a horse and cow, a quantity of hay, harnesses, sleighs, carriages, furniture machinery, safes, etc. also a bicycle owned by James Reed, all of which with the excepton of the live stock were destroyed.

The losses will be quite heavy, the barn being valued at $2,000 and the contents at $3,000, upon which there is an insurance of $2,000.

This is another fire which will call for an investigation, as it was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, and the party or parties evidently intended that the house should also have been fired, for the side near the barn was covered with kerosene oil. Had the wind been blowing from another quarter the house would also have gone.

Mr. Murdock sleeps in the lower part of the house and says when he discovered the fire the building was a mass of flames, and he with difficulty was able to save his live stock.

Inspector Adams is making an investigation, and Chief Engineer Williams has requested that there be a court investigation.

THE BEST YET.

The Third and Last Concert of the Quincy Musical Society.

The third concert by the Quincy Musical society was given at Hancock hall on Tuesday evening and was the best yet.

The chorus work was fine, the voices blending well, being full and rich, showing the faithful work done under the instruction of the well known Boston instructor, Mr. Dudley.

In the opening piece "Wreck of the Hesperus" Mrs. Herbert Drake and Mr. Kilby were the soloists, and were in good voice.

Miss Carrie Follett Spear, Mr. Hawkins and Mr. Kilby sang several solos and were warmly encored, especially Mr. Hawkins who seemed to be a general favorite.

The cornet solo "Concert Waltz" by Mr. Pierce was very pretty and called forth loud applause.

Of the chorus selections, "Where are you going, my pretty maid," seemed to please the audience, and so imperative was the encore it had to be repeated. "Bridal Chorus," the closing selection, was exceedingly well rendered and brought the concert to a close all too soon.

The accompanists were Mrs. W. W. Adams, Mr. Dowley Williams and Mr. James F. Harlow.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what we say, but by what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It has a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and exclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which give it merit peculiar to itself. This is the secret of its wonderful power, of its wonderful sales, of its wonderful hold upon the confidence of the people. This is why it cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Rheumatism, all Humors, Kidney and Liver troubles, Dyspepsia, That Tired Feeling, builds up the nerves, creates an appetite and strengthens the whole system. TRADE MARK

LOWER R. R. FARES.

Quincy is Discriminated Against by the N. Y., N. H. & H.

Says a Committee in Report to Our Board of Trade.

Committee Appointed to Wait Upon Railroad Officials.

There was an attendance of about 50 at the regular monthly meeting of the Quincy Board of Trade held at Durgin & Merrill's block, Tuesday evening. President Adams presided.

There was but little new business to come before the board at this meeting. President Adams called attention to the advantages secured by becoming members of the State Board of Trade, which was a consolidation of all of the boards of trades of the State, which worked for the State's interest. The cost of joining was $25 and each board was entitled to three delegates.

Upon motion of George H. Brown it was voted that the Quincy Board of Trade make applications for membership in the State Board of Trade.

There was an informal talk on the method to adopt and obtain members and upon motion of Stephen O. Moxon it was voted that the president be empowered to employ a canvasser to obtain subscriptions for membership.

John O. Hall, the clerk, stated that there were something like one hundred signatures now of which but 29 had paid. During the evening, however, several who were present, signed the by laws and paid their $5.

John A. Duggan of the committee on railroad fares made a report for his committee by diagrams.

This diagram showed the relative rates of fares paid on the different railroads running out of Boston up to a distance of 8 miles out which showed that stations within the limits of Quincy were being discriminated against.

The committee also said that their investigation disclosed the fact that in places where the fare was the cheapest the service was the best and the development most rapid.

John R. Graham thought some method should be taken to bring this matter before the officials of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

George H. Brown moved, and it was voted, that a committee of five be appointed, to include the president, with the committee on transportation, to see the railroad officials to see what could be done.

It was also voted that this committee have the diagrams published in the local papers whenever they saw fit.

President Adams stated that negotiations were still going on with the above company but had not come to a head as yet, as there was some difficulty in getting railroad sidings.

President Adams was authorized to secure the services of some gentleman to address the members at the next meeting.

In the matter of the Desk Manufactory that desired a location, John R. Graham said, he had looked into the matter and was satisfied it was useless to try and encourage that business in Quincy. He did not think there was any one who would put money into it as they could not understand how they could do business the way they intended to operate. It was voted that the matter be dispensed with.

I. O. O. F. Installation.

An event of the evening was the presentation to the lodge of a painting of the late George L. Gill, a charter member and Past Grand. The speech was made by City Auditor, John O. Hall, who also presented to the lodge an album of members. For some time a collection has been in progress, and there are in the book over sixty.

Further arrangements were made for the visit to Brockton Monday, April 27. A collation was served.

VOTED TO MOVE.

Granite City Club to Have Commodious Quarters.

The Granite City club took another step forward at a largely attended meeting Tuesday evening, when it was voted to lease half the upper floor of the proposed Savings Bank building in City Square. The floor space will be 30x80 and will be conveniently arranged with larger parlor, card room and billiard room than at present, and with bath and toilet rooms, all of which will make very desirable club quarters.

The building will be erected on the site of the present bank building, and work will be commenced at once, so that it will be completed on or before Nov. 4. A description of the building will be given in a few days. It will be a grand structure of brick with Quincy granite trimmings and an ornament to the business centre of the city.

The Granite City club is composed of the prominent business men of the city and has very recently admitted many new members. Ex-Councilman Morse is the president, and he has a wide-awake board of officers with him.

Ex-Representative Beck.

There was hardly a better known man in Milton that Walter P. Beck, who died Tuesday, and certainly there were none who enjoyed the respect of the citizens at large regardless of sect or creed more than he, and he will be greatly missed. Mr. Beck has not enjoyed good health for a year and although his death was not unexpected the blow is none the less hard to bear. Mr. Beck was a son of Gideon Beck, of the well known firm of Gideon Beck & Son, auctioneers, and was born in Milton, Jan. 21, 1850. He was the eldest of two sons. He was educated in the public schools of Milton from which he graduated with high honors. Shortly after leaving school he entered the office of his father and was subsequently made a member of the firm, and upon the death of his father he assumed the management of the business, which he carried on up to his death. He married Miss Barber of Milton who with two daughters survive him.

In 1888 he was elected a member of the General court, as a Democrat, from the fourth representative district, and served his town with honor. In 1894 he was a candidate for Senator from the first Norfolk District, but was defeated by Senator Darling, it being a Republican year. In 1891 he was elected a member of the school committee of Milton for three years and was reelected in 1894, being a member of that board at the time of his death. He was also a member of the warrant committee for many years, and to him is due in a great measure, the credit for the new school building at East Milton.

He was a member of Rural lodge of Masons, and Dorchester lodge of Odd Fellows.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence on Adams street, Saturday, at 3 o'clock.

A Small Pox Grave.

A peculiar case has arisen at West Quincy over the burial at St. Mary's cemetery of a body of a person who died recently at Neponset. It seems that some years ago the family lost a child by small pox, which was buried in the lot at St. Mary's cemetery. Some few days ago another member of the family died and it was desired that the grave of the small pox patient be opened that it might be buried there. The Board of Health was applied to and they gave permission to do so. Reputable physicians of the city however say that although the child was buried years ago the germs of the disease still remain and it would be a dangerous thing to do. The cemetery authorities have therefore forbidden the grave to be reopened. The authorities of the cemetery have offered a grave in an adjoining lot. This, however, does not appear to satisfy the family and legal steps may be taken to decide the question.

How Many Cats?

If 100 cats can kill 100 rats in 100 days, how many cats will it take to kill 300 rats in 300 days?

But a few answers have been received to the above problem and it has been decided not to make the award yet. Here is the first answer. Do you think it should receive the prize?

I think 300 is the answer to the problem published in today's LEDGER, and I should like the seventy-five cents, counting off 25 from the dollar for the month's subscription. If 300 is not the answer I think one cat is.

IN CONGRESS.

Fortification Appropriation Bill Passed—The Bond Issue Again.

WASHINGTON, April 15. — The house passed yesterday, without amendment, the fortification appropriation bill, carrying appropriations and authorizations involving an expenditure of $11,384,615.

The appropriations for fortifications since the Endicott commission in 1886 reported its plan for the defense of the 27 seaports at an approximate cost of $100,000,000 have averaged something over $2,000,000 annually.

During the debate yesterday there were a number of references to our foreign complications and the necessity of preparing for any possible emergency. Only one voice was raised against the passage of the bill, Mr. Berry (Dem., Ky.) thought it would be wisdom to build ships capable of coping with the most powerful battleships of other nations rather than erecting fortifications on our coasts. Mr. Cannon, chairman of appropriations, said the bill was the best reported in 20 years.

It was made apparent after a lively colloquy in the senate that there was no disposition among the silver and Populist senators to allow the resolution for a senate inquiry into recent bond issues to lapse.

By unanimous consent it had been set for consideration at 2:15 yesterday, but at that time Mr. Chandler was proceeding with a speech on the Dupont case, Mr. Gray was waiting to follow and Mr. Cullom had an appropriation bill in reserve. This precipitated a clash, in which Mr. Peffer, re-enforced by Mr. Wolcott and Mr. Stewart, asserted with emphasis that the bond resolution could not be crowded out, either by design or inadvertence. An agreement was finally reached that the bond resolution would come up as soon as Mr. Chandler and Mr. Gray concluded their speeches. Mr. Squire (Rep., Wash.) made an elaborate presentation of the pressing need of coast defenses, pointing out the defenseless condition of our great harbors.

Will Satan Lose Him?

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—The North American today prints a story to the effect that H. H. Holmes will become a Catholic. He will be baptized by a Roman Catholic priest, says the story, and with all the ceremony of a papal benediction. Rev. P. F. Dailey of the Church of Annunciation, who has been administering to Holmes' spiritual welfare since the conviction of the murderer, will officiate.

One Ship Enough.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Two of the three warships sent by the United States to give protection to American interests in Turkey have been withdrawn from Turkish waters, leaving the cruiser Marblehead to look out for the affairs of the missionaries. The quietude in Armenia for some months is understood to be the reason why these vessels have been permitted to leave the Syrian coast.

A Mississippi Flood.

ROYALTON, Minn., April 15.—The bridge over the Mississippi west of here, built six years ago, was swept away yesterday, along with the Platt river dam at this place. The Pine Knoll dam, McMean's dam on Skunk brook and the two river dams have gone out also. It is the biggest flood for years.

Three Children Cremated.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 15.—Three young children of Sheridan Moore were burned to death in a barn, near their home, 40 miles south of here. They went to the barn to play, and half an hour later the barn was wrapped in flames and all entrance cut off.

Gold Hard to Get.

SANTIAGO, April 15.—The financial situation of Chili is serious, owing to the want of confidence. Gold is being exported or hoarded, and the petition of the banks to the government for assistance has been refused.

Solution In Sight.

SANTIAGO, April 15.—It is believed here that Chili and Argentina will agree that England shall arbitrate the boundary dispute between them.

Annual of Savings Bank.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Savings Bank was held Tuesday evening and the following officers elected:

President,—Rupert F. Claflin.
Vice President,—Edwin W. Marsh.
Clerk of Corporation,—Clarence Burgin.
Trustees,—Rupert F. Claflin, Edwin W. Marsh, Horace B. Spear, George A. Brackett, Charles A. Howland, John Q. A. Field, Charles H. Porter, Elias A. Perkins, Walter T. Babcock, John R. Graham, Frederick H. Smith, Charles F. Adams, 2d.

The trustees have declared a semi annual dividend of 2 per cent.

Another important action on the part of the trustees is the vote recently passed to erect a building on the present site occupied by them. The new building for which the plans are about complete will be of brick with Quincy granite trimmings, three stories high, and will have a frontage of 62 feet and a depth of 80 feet. The LEDGER will publish a description of the new building as soon as the plans are completed.

HELL ALREADY HERE.

Nearly All Mankind Has Felt Its Fangs, Says Dr. St. John.

An Eminent Methodist's Reply to Colonel Ingersoll.

Finds Much to Criticise In the Famous Agnostic's Recent Address.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The following reply to Colonel Ingersoll's Sunday lecture at the Militant church is made by Rev. Dr. John, a prominent Methodist divine.

I do not wish to abuse Mr. Ingersoll. Abuse is not argument. He has proposed some difficult questions to the defenders of the Christian faith. It is not a sufficient answer to say that he is a blasphemer; that is to beg the question. Let him be a good man; that will not serve as a crutch for his logic if it be lame. Let him be a bad man; that will not make his logic limp if it be sound. Truth is in a sorry plight if it must rest upon epithets. It is old enough to stand alone. The truth is worth its face value, though uttered by the devil, and sophistry does not become logic in the mouth of the saint.

Mr. Ingersoll claimed that the Christian religion and its reputed author are both man-made, and therefore no better than the man that made them. He objects to the author of the Bible on the ground that he is ignorant, cruel, savage, unjust, immoral, inconsistent, unfaithful, and that he is opposed to art, science, education, progress and liberty. He objects to the Christian scheme on the broad ground that it is unscientific; that having been made by unscientific men the Christian scheme is contrary to fact, unnatural, superstitious, and not adapted to the task it proposes.

The Bible must be judged by the manner in which it does what it professes to do, and not by a foreign standard. It came to teach men of duty, and is destined not to teach art, science or literature. If the Bible is opposed to these things because it is not a good text-book on these subjects, Mr. Ingersoll must be opposed to public schools, because he does not make a plea for them in his eloquent oration at his brother's grave.

Judge a funeral oration by what it says of death and the dead rather than by what it fails to say after an educational system. Judge the Bible by what it says of duty and destiny and not by what it omits saying of the things it did not come to teach.

I will put all of Mr. Ingersoll's charges under two heads, namely, moral objections against the character of God, and intellectual objections against his revelation. First, the objections against his character for ordering in ancient times, and permitting in both ancient and modern times, acts which men cannot commit against their fellows without being guilty of robbery, of oppression and murder. I will put these two classes: First, those instances in which God destroyed life by natural agents, such as flood, fire and the like; and, second, those instances in which infliction of pain, confiscation of property and destruction of life occurred through human agency, under his order or by his permission.

First, natural agency. The answer is short: Life is the gift of God in trust. The most refined ideals of justice demand that a trust once received must be surrendered according to its terms. But the agnostic replies that about the trust and that it is unjust to make him a compulsory participant in the transaction. He has, however, accepted the terms of the trust, and he stoutly claims all the advantages arising therefrom. Attempt to relieve him of his embarrassment by taking his life and he protects himself against your well-meant endeavor. He gets vaccinated when the smallpox comes, and when the cyclone begins to blow he hurries to the cellar. As long as men continue to live on God's bounty, human life is a trust as sacred as if it had been originally sought from the hand of God.

But what of the savageries of war and the infamies of slavery permitted and ordered by Jehovah in the early history of the race? The only new element in the case is the reflex influence on the men who acted as God's agents. Society may for its own protection deprive men of what would otherwise be their rights when the exercise of the right becomes destructive of society itself; and shall not the maker of heaven and earth be permitted to do as much?

But what of the reflex influence on the men who acted as God's agents in the deprivation of liberty and the destruction of life? Why did not God, with whom a miracle is so easy, says Mr. Ingersoll, make the Israelites at once what he wanted them to be without educating them through war and slavery? Because he could not. God can make clods in the way he wants them, and so they will remain, but he cannot make parallel lines meet, for they will not longer be parallel, and he cannot make men virtuous against their wills, for they will no longer be men.

Education is a process of steps, and not a sudden bridging of extremes. Ancient Israelites had been slaves for centuries, and they came out of their bondage ignorant, animal and brutal. God could not train them by the methods he would use under the civilization of the 19th century. You cannot train a lion by the methods of the lamb.

Education must proceed in harmony with environment. A magnet will not lift a feather, though it will lift a ton of steel. The feather does not know the magnet. Ancient Israel did not know truth, beauty, tenderness and lofty sentiment, and God himself could not do otherwise than adapt his methods of education to their feeble capacity for truth.

But Mr. Ingersoll raises his chief objection against God because of his proposed dealing with men in the next world. He hates hell, he says, and so do I, but neither of us can hate it out of existence. Hell is already here. The majority of mankind are already in its fangs. There is no hell, here or hereafter, other than that whose fires are kindled by the law of sowing and reaping. Hell has already come, because sin has come, and it will remain as long as sin endures. The fires of hell cannot go out till sin disappears from the universe.

Mr. Ingersoll exalts science, but science declares that hell will be eternal if sin be eternal. All the intellectual objections against the Bible may be but the one general charge that it is unscientific; that is, it is contrary to fact, unnatural, superstitious and not adapted to its work. Does the Bible conflict with any known fact of modern science? If so, that much of it is not inspired. If not, it must have been inspired, for the best astronomical, geological and biological knowledge, contemporary with the age of the sacred writers, was a chaotic mass of ignorance.

If you had been guessing 3000 years ago about the creation of light—yes, less than a century ago, you would have guessed the sun first and light afterward. But Moses made a happier guess. He saw without the spectroscope what our generation has seen with one. There are universes now in process of evolution before our eyes in which light has appeared, but their blazing suns will not appear for years yet to come. That is and is not incorrect up to date. There are obscurities in his account of the evolution of the universe which, to conflict with the uncertainties in science when the obscurity on both sides shall disappear, we may expect the apparent conflicts to vanish.

A THREAT BY GORMAN

To Keep Republicans In Congress Until Conventions Are Over.

Russell Is Out For the Democratic Nomination.

Reed Not Far Behind McKinley In Figures Regarding Delegates.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Opposition has arisen from an unexpected quarter to the widely heralded program of the Republicans for an early adjournment.

Senator Aldrich yesterday told a friend that Senator Gorman had said: "Your people may as well give up your plan for getting away from Washington so very soon. Our side does not propose to let you go before the two conventions are held." If Senator Gorman is in earnest he can make good his threat by a little factional maneuvring.

Senator Platt's motion for adjournment names May 2 as the date, but Republicans generally admit that June 1 is nearer the practicable time. The desire of Senator Gorman to upset the Republican program may be due to a general disposition to antagonize Republican ideas, or it may be that he hopes to put the Republicans on record after the St. Louis convention, in a few yea and nay votes, which will disclose their hopeless variance on questions treated in their own platform. He has not at present a united Democratic support for his plan, but he has enough of a following to carry out his scheme, if he is resolved upon it.

Russell Means Business.

Ex-Governor Russell and General Taylor left this city yesterday for Boston, greatly pleased with the reception they received in Virginia. The ex-governor's friends all were in consultation with political leaders in New York with a view to attracting support there for the Massachusetts candidate.

Although Mr. Russell declines to speak of his presidential aspirations, no doubt is entertained that from now till July 7 his friends will make the most effective canvass possible in his behalf.

No Cinch For McKinley.

Representative Aldrich of Illinois, in giving out a statement of Mr. Reed's strength, says that there have been 166 delegates elected, who are divided between Morton, Allison, Quay, Cullom and Bradley, and 48 who are properly classed as doubtful. The summary is as follows: Reed, 111; McKinley, 169; the field, 166; doubtful, 48; total, 494. No note is made of the four delegates recently elected in South Carolina, because the legality of that convention is questioned, and, in any event, they would belong to the doubtful column.

Considerable significance is attached here to a statement in the Lewiston Journal, ex-Governor Dingley's newspaper, denying the current report that Speaker Reed intends to retire from congressional life with this congress. This is welcome news to all the speaker's friends in case he is not nominated at St. Louis. The report that he was to leave public life and go to New York to enter law practice and there be in readiness for his party's call at any future time could not have been but injurious to his present campaign, and all are glad of a denial seemingly so authoritative.

It is reported on apparently good authority that President Cleveland has prepared a letter, which will be made public in a few days, in which he asserts that he will, under no circumstances, be a candidate for renomination, and in which he comes out strongly in favor of making the campaign on a sound-money platform.

It is said the communication is addressed to a friend in answer to an appeal to have the president define his attitude. There is a general desire among Democratic politicians here that the report may prove true. They are all anxious to know just where the president stands at the earliest possible moment, and any declaration from him will tend to greatly clear the atmosphere.

McKinley—Or Someone Else.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 15.—The "Lily White" or Melton faction of the Republican party held a state convention yesterday, lasting until after midnight. It was presided over by Dr. Sampson Pope, an ex-Independent candidate for governor. The convention elected E. M. Brayton and L. D. Melton (white), and Congressman Murray and S. E. Smith (colored) to the national convention. A resolution endorsing McKinley was overwhelmingly defeated, but resolutions were adopted saying that either McKinley, Reed, Allison or Quay would be accepted.

Going Bradley's Way.

LOUISVILLE, April 15.—The state Republican convention today will endorse the presidential candidacy of Governor Bradley, but not without a struggle. The gathering promises to be very interesting, the degree of interest depending upon the strength the McKinley, or, more properly, the anti-Bradley, leaders will be able to muster. The governor and his friends will have control of the organization from the start. The state central committee, which is favorable to Governor Bradley, met last night and decided upon a plan of action.

A Voice From Missouri.

SEDALIA, Mo., April 15.—At a late hour last night friends of ex-Congressman Richard P. Bland decided to offer a resolution in the Democratic committee endorsing the free silver leader as the Missouri candidate for the presidency on the Democratic ticket. J. W. Farris, the state central committeeman from Mr. Bland's county, and his closest political adviser, authorized a statement of his candidacy.

Rhody's Candidate.

PROVIDENCE, April 15.—The Republican leaders, with the motto "Give Rhode Island a chance," are working for the nomination of ex-Governor D. R. Brown as a candidate for the vice presidency. Politicians have been sent to New York and Boston to aid the Brown campaign.

The Democratic Clubs.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The executive committee of the National Association of Democratic clubs held a meeting in this city yesterday. Representative McMillan of Tennessee presided. It was decided to hold the national convention of the association Sept. 30 next at St. Louis.

Silver Men on Top.

NEW YORK April 15.—The World's Washington special says: Administration leaders privately admit that the free silver Democrats will control the Chicago convention by not less than 100 majority.

WOODLAND IS ABLAZE.

Fire Dangerously Close to Many Villages In the Bay State.

Lack of Fire Apparatus Makes Matters Worse.

Large Crowd of Fire-Fighters Making but Very Little Headway.

SANDWICH, Mass., April 16.—A forest fire which started in Cataumet yesterday morning, and has raged all day over a tract of land between that place and Sandwich, about 15 miles in length and from one to four miles in width, is not under control, and has destroyed some of the most valuable woodland in this vicinity, and the loss cannot be estimated as yet. Workmen from Sandwich, numbering over 100, are busy fighting the fire, but have made little headway.

The fire has reached what is known as Great Hollow hill, and is moving in a northeasterly direction, and is within about two miles of the town. Back fires are built all along the main thoroughfares between Cataumet and Cotuit, and it is hoped that the efforts of the fighters will soon be rewarded.

The conflagration had a small beginning, starting in the back yard of Dr. Williams' premises, thence into a heavy pine grove. Soon the flames were beyond control, and a general alarm was sent out. Over 50 men responded, who were joined later by 100 citizens from Sandwich. The fire-fighters are being supplied with food and water as they work by women and children.

Along the main road between Cataumet and Wenaumet are a number of very handsome residences, which will be certainly burned if the fire is not soon got under control. Already many lives

Have Been In Imminent Peril.

One party of men were caught on a blind roadway and only escaped with their lives by a miracle.

All the afternoon and evening the wind has blown at the rate of 15 miles an hour from the southwest and the fire at about 40 miles. The roar of the flames can be heard from a long distance and the air is filled with flying embers.

Residents of Monument Beach and Sandwich are preparing to remove their personal property to a place of safety. The conflagration is on the same territory as that consumed in the Old Colony railroad fire 12 years ago.

Great suffering from thirst obtains among the men fighting the flames, and it is with considerable difficulty that water can be taken to them.

There is no fire apparatus of any kind in any of the villages, and the building of back fires and the heavy fall of rain, for which the villagers are all praying, is the only hope they have that the flames will be extinguished before further damage is sustained.

All the male residents of the adjoining villages have either responded or are making their way to the fire, but the heat is growing so intense that they soon get exhausted, and the flames continue to defy all their efforts.

The fire is raging in the thick pine woods back of Wenaumet, and is spreading in the direction of the Bourne village. The head of the fire, which is sweeping along at a surprising rate of speed, is about two miles wide.

Has Long Been Missing.

BOSTON, April 16.—Little Celia Leonard was queen of Norwich street yesterday, after a six months' absence, and no queen on her throne ever received more sincere worship from subjects than she, a 3-year-old baby, sitting on the knee of her big brother in the back yard of her humble home. The baby was found yesterday at 46 Market street, Lynn, where she was known as Rose Kilham. She had been there under that name since Oct. 6, 1895, when Mr. and Mrs. Kilham brought her there, and where she was found through the intervention of Mrs. Kilham's mother. Mrs. Kilham was fond of children, particularly so of little blue-eyed Rose, as she called the baby, whom she says she found on Harrison avenue on a memorable Sunday afternoon of last October, when the child was given to her and her husband by a young woman whom she does not know.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 16.—The senate rejected the bill to establish separate institutions in Boston for the insane, paupers, etc., by a vote of 19 to 6. A bill was substituted for an adverse report in the matter of a fish hatchery in the western part of the state. The house ordered to a third reading the bill for the regulation of bakeries in the state. The bill to give the Boston common councilmen $300 a year was ordered to a third reading after an amendment making the sum $50 each had been defeated. In the senate a bill was substituted for an adverse report to give officers in the state militia a hearing in certain cases.

Epping Sued on a Note.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 16.—The Epping embezzlement case came up in two suits entered in the supreme court by Mrs. Catherine Norris of Epping to recover $1000 on a note held by her against the town. The note, on the death of Charles E. Folsom, chairman of the selectmen, was declared to be a forgery. Two suits are entered, one against the town of Epping and one jointly against Frank P. Blaisdell, one of the selectmen, and Town Treasurer Pike, whose signatures are on the note with that of Folsom. The holders of other alleged forged notes intend to institute proceedings if Mrs. Norris' suit is successful.

Grandfather Escaped.

WINSTED, Conn., April 16. — Bertha Hakins, aged 11 years, and Alice Woodin, aged 9, were burned to death in the home of their grandfather, Nelson Bishop. Mr. Bishop managed to escape, although quite badly burned. The loss on the house was $1000.

Indicted For Murder.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., April 16. — John Hunter, who is charged with murder in the first degree, in shooting Angelo Aborn last week at Crystal Lake, was yesterday indicted by the grand jury of Tolland county. His trial will probably take place in June.

Boutelle Renominated.

BANGOR, Me., April 16.—The Republican Fourth district convention assembled late yesterday afternoon. Stanley Plummer of Dexter presided, and delivered a long speech. There were present 191 delegates. Charles A. Boutelle was renominated by acclamation for representative in congress. This is the eighth time he has been named. The district delegates to St. Louis are Stanley Plummer and W. C. Nash. Alternates, I. K. Stetson and G. R. Campbell.

The alleged James McGunnigle, escaped pyromaniac from Howard, R. I., has been freed from prison at Ellsworth, Me., no one having appeared to take him to Rhode Island.

Daly defeated Garnier in the third contest of the international billiard tournament at Boston by a score of 300 to 251. The game was long-drawn out and rather tiresome.

Olympian Games Ended.

ATHENS, April 16. — The Olympian games were closed yesterday with the distribution of prizes to the victors in the various contests. The king personally handed to each winner of a first prize a wreath fashioned of wild olive plucked from the trees at Olympia, and laurel wreaths were given to the winners of second prizes. All of the prize winners then received diplomas and medals. The total number of athletes who received crowns was 41, of which 11 were Americans, 10 Greeks, 7 Germans, 5 French, 3 English, 2 Hungarians, 2 Australians, 2 Austrians, 1 Dane and 1 Swiss.

An Alabama Episode.

SELMA, Ala., April 16.—The residence of Judge Alonzo Irwin, seven miles west of here, was surrounded by negroes, who threatened to murder the family. Sheriff Kennedy and a posse hastened to the scene. The negroes heard the posse coming to the house and dispersed. The leader, Llewellyn Osborne, was found in a house a short distance away. Osborne refused to surrender and the posse killed him. Two other ringleaders have been jailed. The trouble grew out of a difficulty between Judge Irwin's son and a child of Osborne's.

An Important Mission.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Leo Bergholz was nominated yesterday to be consul at Erzoom. He is a native of New York; about 38 years of age. He is a graduate of Heidelberg university and a lawyer of ability. He went to China in 1882 as private secretary to James R. Young, then United States minister there, and three years later became United States consul at Chin-Kiang, China. In 1888 he returned to the United States and has since practiced law in New York city.

No Good Likely to Result.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 16.—The grand jury yesterday began the consideration of the indictment against the directors of the Commercial bank. The bill of indictment contains 30 lengthy counts. The cases have been shelved for the past 12 months, and it is now believed that the grand jury will find no bill, necessitating the discharge of the directors and the collapse of the trials.

Over Mayors' Veto.

ALBANY, April 16.—The municipality of greater New York, a city of 3,600,000 inhabitants, is likely to be accomplished within a year. The senate passed the greater New York bill yesterday by a vote of 34 to 14. A poll of the assembly demonstrates that it will probably pass that body by a clear majority, and Governor Morton will undoubtedly sign it.

Deaths From Tornado.

FAULKTON, S. D., April 16.—A tornado passed near here last evening. Considerable damage was done at Cresshard, Millard and Burkemere. Several houses and barns were blown away. The residence of E. T. Evans, near Cresshard, was completely destroyed, killing his two children and badly injuring himself and wife. Many persons were injured.

Cuban Gold Bonds.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The World says that gold bonds of the provisional republic of Cuba will soon be on the market. The securities are already engaged. Sealed proposals for their purchase have been asked, so that the long-anticipated financial move on the part of the revolutionists in Cuba is actually made.

Grecian Art Tableaux.

One of the most refined and interesting entertainments ever held in Quincy was that given at Hancock hall on Wednesday evening by the Grecian Art Tableau Company of Boston, of which Miss Alberta Turner of West Quincy is a member. Among the audience were a large number of West Quincy people who came to see their favorite. The programme consisted of instrumental duets by the Misses M. Isola and Blanche B. Sears, contralto solos Miss Lois Shepard, and readings by Miss Elizabeth Flower Willis. Miss Turner was not down on the programme but she was announced as a surprise and gave a pleasing recitation entitled "The Typical Race," which captivated the audience. Besides the above there were a series of beautiful tableaux which were illuminated with the stereopticon.

His Eighteenth Vote

Jacob Flint, a respected octogenarian, who has voted for seventeen Presidents of these United States, is particular as to his candidate next fall. He called at the LEDGER office today and enlisted our aid for Thomas B. Reed of Maine. He desired that the New England delegates promise their support for vice-president to some strong western candidate, and thus strengthen the man from Maine and sweep the country. For a man who was 85 years old last December, he is taking a remarkable interest in National affairs. He has always voted the Republican ticket.

Rev. Mr. Butler on our Boys.

Rev. Mr. Butler says he was astonished when he came here, to find the Quincy fellows went sailing so much on Sundays. He says the young men on the North Shore would as soon have gone out to play foot ball as to have sailed as our Quincy yachtsmen do. He believes, and so do we, in more of the old Sabbath. Rev. Mr. Wilson believed in church Sunday forenoons and a quiet sail, may be, in the afternoon. As the tide does not consult church hours, will not, this season, our Quincy fellows divide the time Sundays between church duties and boats? We mean those who lay their religion on the shelf in May.

The Granite Ladies.

The lady friends of the Granite City club had a large and nice party at the rooms yesterday afternoon. Eight tables were occupied and the whist prizes were taken by Mrs. George Holmes of Wollaston, Miss Sadie Jones, Mrs. Frank L. Patch, Miss Lottie B. Spear, Mrs. Herbert Drake, Mrs. Samuel Crane. Frappe and cake were served. It was a very enjoyable time.

SHORT ENOUGH.

High School Debating Society Against Reducing School Term.

President Wilder took the chair at the meeting of the Quincy High School Debating society on Wednesday. Secretary Nichols offered an interesting report of the last meeting.

The debate of last week was concluded on the subject: Resolved,—"That the School Year Ought to be Shortened."

Mr. Coe said: The year is already short enough. McGill College at Montreal had so short a year that the students are overworked. Such a system gives little opportunity for recreation. Our system gives not only the long summer vacation, but many holidays besides. The actual number of school days is comparatively small.

Miss Roche said: The heat affects the pupils' brains. The month of June is very trying to students. Just as much work can be done in a short year as in a long one.

Mr. Northcott said: Pupils can study in hot weather. Sweltering weather does not diminish the attendance at base-ball games. English schools have much longer school years.

Miss Rothwell said: The teachers' occupation is a hard one. Teachers do not have so much leisure as people suppose. Pupils and teachers alike need more out-of-door recreation. Good health is of greater importance than a knowledge of books.

Mr. Warshaw said: One who cannot study in warm weather, cannot study in any weather. Some of us, who are worked at high pressure now, if worked still harder, might burst. A shortening of the year implies a falling off in quality. The mathematical result of this constant shortening of the year will be to reduce it to nothing. How many know how many steps there are from the hall to the landing? Yet many say that the pupil should be left to nature.

Miss Willett said: More pupils could attend for a short time. Pupils would study harder. Pupils would have better chances to observe nature.

Mr. Wilder said:—"Knowledge is power." The shorter school year would mean less knowledge. The year is too short. Business men have to work ten hours a day. Competition is so keen that the longest school year is not long enough to fit pupils for good positions.

In the general discussion Mr. Coe, Miss Rothwell, Miss Leake, Miss Mary Pitts, took part.

The decision was in favor of the negative.

Miss Cummings, '96, reported as critic very favorably.

The entertainment was as follows:

Declamation,—Mr. Badger, '97.

Music,—Miss Daisy Bemis, '95.

The Alumni and Alumnae are always welcome.

Miss Bemis's very pleasing instrumental solo was greatly enjoyed by all.

First Church Sociable.

Wednesday evening's sociable closed those begun in this church. The excessive sultriness of the afternoon made the departure from winter to spring viands agreeable. Looking at the tables, the various colors in the spring salads were a pretty sight. The red of radishes and beets, shades of green in lettuce, cream of dressing, white in other salads, bits of green to garnish beef, were tasteful. There were roses in front of the minister's wife and our youthful Mayor. For a while business was in order, the girls flying about, the matrons discreet by overseeing. This time the fellows "poured."

Up stairs after supper the family went, and a genuine social talk followed. For good reasons the music could not be given. Mr. Butler pacified, it is hoped, those who like the music committee regretted this.

The able management of Mrs. Henry Emery, with the willing corps of assistants made this a good success. Mrs. Warren W. Adams and Mrs. Charles N. Ditson inaugurated the system, which has been at work a long time in sister churches, of getting up a fine supper for two or three hundred, where the machinery runs so smoothly and the workers slip into place so easily that no friction is felt.

Supt. Lull's Father.

The Manchester, N. H., Union reports the death on Sunday afternoon of Lewis M. Lull, after a prolonged illness, at the age of 74 years 9 months. Mr. Lull was born on the Fourth of July, 1821, in New Boston, and went to Boston at the age of 21 to seek his fortune. He was in the employ of the old Boston and Lowell railroad company for twenty-eight years, rising by regular promotions to the charge of the entire freight department at that terminal. In 1872 he moved to Manchester, where he has since presided. In 1845 he married Jeannette A. Tewksbury of New Boston, and last November they celebrated their golden wedding. Mrs. Lull survives her husband. There are also two sons and a daughter, Herbert W. Lull of Quincy, Mass., George Ed Lull of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Fred T. Dunlap of this city.

TODAY'S COURT.

Cornelius Doreity was sent to the House of Correction for three months for the larceny of a rug valued at $6, from Mrs. William Field at Quincy.

In the case of the two game cocks in the possession of Officer Fitzgerald of Weymouth, the court issued an order that the cocks be forfeited and killed. These were the two game cocks that were seized by the officer at Weymouth last Sunday, when he surprised a party of sports who were holding a cocking main.

At the drive whist party of the members of the Granite City club last evening, Dr. Hallowell took the first prize and John Curtis the second.

The new bowling alleys of J. F. Costello will be opened informally tonight at which time Auctioneer Crane will sell at auction the privilege of rolling the first ball.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church, Atlantic, are preparing for an apron sale, which will be held in the vestry of their church next week. In addition to the sale of aprons the ladies are to serve ice cream and cake.

At the mid-week prayer meeting of the First Presbyterian church this evening, the pastor will take for his subject, "The coming meeting of Presbytery." This meeting is to be held in the Presbyterian church Water street on the 21 and 22 of this month.

On the cars yesterday a faithful young mother was heard to say: "Oh dear, I almost wish this good time could keep on and on. It seems hard to return to the demands of the children and house cleaning. Another answered the one who asked if she had began house cleaning: "Yes I am on last year's accumulation of dirt."

The Wollaston Baptist society gave a very enjoyable sociable in the church vestry on Wednesday evening. The entertainment consisted of a piano solo, "Dieu Eigen Ling" by Miss Avis Williams; a soprano solo, "Daddy" by Miss Mabel Winship; and the reading of "The Station Agent's Story" by Miss Brown. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

QUINCY'S FINEST.

H. L. Kincaide & Co.'s New Emporium Will be All This.

Four Stories and a Basement, Each 60 x 100 Feet.

Passenger and Freight Elevators; Electric Bells, Etc.

The new emporium of H. L. Kincaide & Co. will be the first four-story business block in Quincy, and it promises to be a grand structure, the material being brick with brown stone trimming with a solid plate glass front on first and second floors.

The building will be 60 feet frontage by 100 feet deep and with a furnished basement will give five complete floors with a total of 30,000 square feet for furniture display. This will permit the enterprising firm to carry a larger and more extensive line of furniture, carpetings, interior decorations, draperies, upholstery goods, and in the basement a full and complete line of kitchen furnishings, crockery, glass, tin and wooden ware.

The reader has already formed the opinion that it will be a metropolitan store. H. L. Kincaide & Co. intend it shall be. They do not intend to rely upon Quincy alone for their trade, but upon Milton, Braintree, Randolph, Holbrook, Weymouth, Hingham and all the South Shore. But not half has been told that go to make up his "Boston" store. There will be a large deep entrance in the centre of mosaic tiling with the occupant's name worked therein. The front entrance doors will be of plate glass nearly to the ground. The street floor will be beautifully fitted with polished hard wood floor, tinted ceiling and walls, with elegant combination electric light and gas fixtures. The offices, toilet and waiting-rooms will be finished in oak. Passengers and freight elevators will run to all floors. The shipping and receiving rooms will be in the rear and all parts of the building will be connected by electric bells and speaking tubes with the offices. The building will be heated throughout with steam.

When completed it will undoubtedly be one of the finest and best equipped stores in the State. Such enterprise is commendable and should be encouraged. It is more than a local store and will draw people to Quincy. It will do much to make our city the centre of trade for the South Shore, and it will not be long before we will have more metropolitan stores in our midst.

Henry L. Kincaide & Co. will retain their present store in the Tirrell block as a first-class second-hand furniture store, while the upper floor will be fitted and used during the season as a bicycle riding school.

Quincy Admitted.

The Quincy Board of Trade was admitted to the Massachusetts State Board on Wednesday, and President Adams, the Mayor of the city, was present to speak on the proposed South Union Station for Boston.

He said he had not studied this question fully enough to be able to pass an opinion upon it. It was certainly one of the most puzzling questions which ever came before the Legislature. He did not believe in being in a hurry, but yet there was another side to this matter. A year's delay meant a great deal in these hustling days. If Boston was going to be in it, she must be up and doing. Only one other man has brought forward a substitute plan, and that was Mr. Hamlin. His scheme was impracticable, and he thought any engineer would say so. He was not an engineer himself. Those South Boston docks were not useful for modern dock purposes. The land there could be used for manufacturing purposes, and that was all. He thought that the proposed improvements of the South Boston lands would bring the commerce of the West to Boston, and it would be a good thing for the city. He did not think that the association should act hastily in this matter.

Norfolk County Probate Court.

It was a very busy session of probate court which Judge White held at Dedham on Wednesday. These wills were allowed: James Glispin, of East Dedham; Edwin Moulthrop, of Foxboro; C. O. Haynes, of Dedham; Charlotte Woodward, of Franklin; Helen Putnam, of Dedham.

Administrations were granted on estates of Matthias Ridley, of East Dedham; Christopher Jaquith, of Canton; T. H. Hinckley, of Milton; Elizabeth Wolkins, of Dedham; Susan Ray, of Franklin; L. G. Daniels, of Foxboro; Albert Battelle, of Dover; Catherine Burrell, of Weymouth; M. M. Reed, of Hyde Park; S. L. Young, of Weymouth; John Ellis, of Norwood.

Among the inventories filed were those on estates of Freeman White, of Braintree, and Mary Cullinane, of Weymouth. Several accounts were allowed, guardians appointed, trusteeships granted, and sales of real estate authorized.

A NEW CRAZE.

Costello's Bowling Alleys Will Afford Popular Amusement.

Bowling, one of the most popular and health giving sports of the day is destined to receive a great impetus in Quincy by the opening of the bowling alleys of J. F. Costello, on Hancock street. The building was especially erected for the purpose and no expense has been spared to arrange first-class accommodations for the public.

The building is 150 feet in length, 35 feet wide, and is 14 feet in the clear from floor to ceiling, giving the best of ventilation and light

The main door way is 9 feet in width and the plate glass windows, 9½ by 12 feet, are the largest in the city, making a very pretty front.

The four regulation alleys were built by the Narragansett Machine Co. of Providence, R. I, under the direction of the company's head foreman, John Stephenson, and they are beyond a doubt the best alleys in the State. The company's inspector takes considerable pride in this contract, and he has had many well known bowlers and club men in Quincy the past week to look them over. The ball and pins and other fittings were furnished by Wright & Ditson of Boston.

It is the intention of Mr. Costello to make every accommodation for the ladies and two of the alleys will be fitted up especially for them for morning and afternoon bowling.

The private office and lavatories on the left of the building will be reserved for the ladies on these occasions, and portieres will shut off the alleys from the public.

The alleys will be ready for bowling this evening and Auctioneer Crane will auction off the privilege of rolling the first ball. Bowling will continue both day and evening beginning tonight and a grand opening will be held Thursday evening of next week, at which time the front of the building will be fitted and the shooting gallery in operation.

Prompt Arrest.

Wednesday afternoon an able bodied man who afterward proved to be Cornelius Dhoreity was going from house to house in the vicinity of the High school building asking for a coat. He told a pitiful story about his having a job at which he was going to work the next day. In the course of his wonderings he ran against Probation Officer Spear and later against a rug which Mrs. Field had hung out upon the line. He did not take Frank, but he did take the rug, and started off with it toward Boston. Officer Charles N. Hunt happened to be about shortly after and upon being informed of the theft he started after the fellow. Arriving at Wollaston he saw the fellow with the rug enter Maguire's blacksmith shop and following him in saw him attempt to sell the rug. Capt. Hunt placed the fellow under arrest and locked him up. He was arraigned in court this morning and sentenced.

100 Cats.

If 100 cats can kill 100 rats in 100 days, how many cats will it take to kill 300 rats in 300 days?

Several answers have been received to the cat problem published for two days in the DAILY LEDGER. Singularly with such a simple problem, more were wrong than right. A few said 1 cat, some 100 cats, many 300 cats, and one 900. The LEDGER decides 100 cats to be correct. For in the words of one of the answers: The same number of cats will do three times the work in three times as long a space of time.

Another reasons thus: If 100 cats kill 100 rats in 100 days it would take one cat 100 days to kill 1 rat, or one cat could kill the whole 300 cats in 30,000 days. If 1 cat can kill 300 rats in 30,000 days it will take as many cats to do it in 300 days as 300 is contained in 30,000 which is just 100.

The LEDGER reasons this way: If 100 cats kill 100 rats in 100 days they will kill 1 rat a day, or 300 rats in 300 days, and therefore 100 is the answer.

The cash prize of $1 is awarded to Mr. E. B. Marsh of Irving place.

MILTON.

Another of the series of dances by East Milton's 400 will be held at Ellsworth hall Friday evening.

The Baptist society will hold an entertainment at Ellsworth hall next Monday evening.

The old Dustin estate on Edge Hill road presents quite a scene of activity just at present. Twenty-five lots have been sold thus far this season and the foundation for a number of houses have been commenced.

A number of East Milton bicycle riders are entered for races at Dedham next Monday.

HENRY H. FAXON'S bill which provides that liquor license fees shall be paid into the State Treasury has been assigned for next Wednesday, April 22. It is a good thing and should receive favorable consideration.

THE CITY of Malden evidently intends to have good roads and sidewalks. The aldermen passed orders this week appropriating $5000 for surface drains, $20,000 for new streets, and $10,000 for brick sidewalks.

—Large posters are up all over Kentucky, announcing Gov. Bradley's candidacy for the presidency.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

—The best evidence in the world that the Raines liquor law, which Governor Morton signed recently, is a good temperance measure is given by the fact that the liquor interests of New York state were unanimously opposed to it. It affects every town, village, city and county in the state, and, in spite of the criticisms of it that have been made, it is probably the most effective temperance reform measure ever adopted in New York.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

PULL OF SILVER MEN

Causing Sound Money Democrats Much Worry.

Maine Men Prepared to Fight Hard For Reed's Nomination.

CLEVELAND, April 16.—The following statement is given out by James B. Morrow, editor of the Cleveland Leader, a newspaper which, perhaps, more nearly represents Mr. McKinley than does any other paper in the United States:

"Persons who pretend to be conspicuous members of the American Protective association have given circulation to the statement that Hon. William McKinley is a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; that M. A. Hanna, who is Mr. McKinley's personal and political friend, is a Roman Catholic; that Mr. Boyle, Mr. McKinley's private secretary, is also a member of the Catholic church, and finally, that while Mr. McKinley was governor of Ohio, his appointments were largely made from the membership of a certain religious denomination.

"This statement is untrue in part and in whole. Mr. McKinley's Americanism reaches back to the war for independence. William McKinley himself was a private in the Union army, while yet a boy, and carried a musket for four years. He is a member of the Methodist-Episcopal church, and has been a member of that denomination nearly all his life. His ancestors and his family for two centuries have been Protestants—Methodists and Presbyterians. At this time Mr. McKinley is one of the trustees of the First Methodist-Episcopal church of Canton.

"Moreover, Mr. McKinley is not a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians nor of the American Protective association. However, he is a Free Mason and has been for many years. He is a Knight Templar, a Knight of Pythias, a comrade of the Grand Army, a member of the Union Veteran union, of the Sons of the American Revolution, of the Loyal Legion, and of a college fraternity. And these are the only secret societies with which Mr. McKinley has any connection whatever.

"The charge that his appointments to office while he was governor of Ohio were largely made from the Roman Catholic church or any other church is ridiculous and untrue. He believes that all men should be permitted to worship God in the manner that squares with their conscience.

"I am authorized to say that Major McKinley knows nothing whatever about the application of a committee from any organization to visit him at Canton. He has never refused to meet any person or committee of any kind, nor declined to have any committee interview him upon any subject whatever.

"It should also be stated that both Mr. Hanna and Mr. Boyle, who is private secretary to Major McKinley, are life-long members of the Protestant Episcopal church. I make this statement in behalf of truth, so that every American citizen may know the exact facts."

A WHOLESALE BOLT

In the Event of Silverites Controlling the Chicago Convention.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Sound-money Democrats are seriously alarmed over the outlook for the control of the national convention. The free-silver Democrats are making a most thorough campaign, carrying everything in the south and west and claiming that they will have a large majority at Chicago.

In Missouri, the free-silver Democracy was so overwhelmingly successful that even so popular a man as ex-Governor Francis was dropped out of sight, and the city of St. Louis itself showed a large majority for free silver.

In Tennessee, even the Memphis district, known as the Gibraltar of sound money in the south, went two to one for free silver.

The Monticello celebration showed the platform applauding ex-Governor Russell for his sound-money sentiment, but the assembled multitude cheered Senator Daniel's free-silver oration to the echo. With the possible exception of Richmond, it is claimed that Virginia will be solid for free silver.

West of the Mississippi, Minnesota and possibly Washington will send sound-money delegations to Chicago. The free-silver leaders claim that everything else will be solid for free silver.

Silver men have headquarters at Washington, St. Louis and Chicago in active operation, supplied with plenty of funds and equipped with multitudes of documents, which are being sent out generously.

One thing is certain, should the convention declare for free silver, there will be a wholesale administration bolt of the regular Democratic ticket. Several cabinet officers have so declared their intentions, and those who know Mr. Cleveland best predict with confidence that he would antagonize free silver in whatever form it appeared.

That every one of the cabinet would bolt the ticket in such an exigency is hardly likely, but a pretty complete disruption of the party, beginning at its very top, would result from the adoption of free silver by the Chicago convention.

REED, AND REED ONLY,

Will Be the Choice of Maine Delegates to the St. Louis Convention.

PORTLAND, Me., April 16.—Not since the convention which chose the delegates to support the late James G. Blaine in 1884 for the presidency have the Republicans of Maine gathered in such force as they have in this city in anticipation of the election of delegates for the national convention at St. Louis in June.

On every man's coat is a Reed button, in every mouth is the name of Maine's favorite son, and confident, enthusiastic and jubilant the masses of delegates are planning the work to be done by Maine and other Reed states at St. Louis.

Sometimes when the last spark of life seems almost extinguished it is fanned into flame again by prompt, vigorous action. It is a mistake however, to put off action too long; another mistake is to despair too easily. Both these mistakes are made in dealing with disease, particularly with consumption. It is neglected at first until someone names it. Then the name strikes terror to the mind; the nature of the disease is misunderstood: It is a blood disease, settled in the lungs. If it settled somewhere else the doctors would give it a different name:—scrofula, kidney disease or "liver complaint." But the name only tells where it settles. It is really all one disease:—Bad blood; and there is only one cure:—Good blood.

An abundance of good, rich, red, blood put into the circulation, cures every one of these complaints, consumption as well as the rest—if it hasn't gone too far. It is on this true physiological principle—fully proven by experience—that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption and all other blood diseases. It tones up the blood-making organs to produce a fresh supply of healthy, red blood; this carries new nourishment and life to the wasted lung tissue; or any other tissue that is affected. It drives out the poisonous disease-germs which clog the skin, liver or kidneys. It is simply a question of purifying and building up; where there is anything left to build on the "Golden Medical Discovery" will infallibly build up and cure. It cures cases which doctors declare "incurable." That word has lost its meaning since Doctor Pierce's wonderful "Discovery."

The plain and hopeful truth about disease is shown in the light of the best science of the century in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is a volume of 1008 pages; illustrated. It also contains letters from many who have been rescued from consumption. This great book is free, if you send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

J. H. Manley of the Republican national committee, Reed's right-hand man, is here to see that everything goes according to Reed's best interests.

Hon. Hannibal E. Hamlin of Ellsworth presided at the convention today and delivered a short speech. The following delegates-at-large were chosen: Amos L. Allen, Reed's private secretary, from the First district; Charles E. Littlefield of Rockland, who will present Mr. Reed's name in nomination at St. Louis, from the Second district; ex-Governor E. C. Burleigh of Augusta, from the Third district. Senator Harrison Hume of Robinston and D. E. Thompson of Dover contest for the honor from the Fourth district, the ballot not yet having been taken.

Prior to the state convention, George M. Seiders of Portland and J. T. Davidson of York were chosen as delegates from the First district to the St. Louis convention.

The electors nominated were: Edward Parsons of Kennebunk, A. R. Nickerson of Boothbay Harbor, J. S. Pendleton of Searsport, Dr. C. E. Lain of Calais and Dr. John F. Hill of Augusta. The sixth man is in doubt.

The platform says that the Republicans of Maine join with those of other states as supporting for their candidate for the presidency the present speaker of the national house of representatives, with his record as his platform. He is the exponent of protection for American industries, as supported by Lincoln, and tested and improved by the experience of the country, and is supplementary to the reciprocity of James G. Blaine, with the details to be established as the experience of the country shall indicate, subject to the modifications as shall be required by the changing conditions.

He favors the maintenance of the present gold standard of currency, and the honest payment of our creditors, not for the sake of the creditors, but upon the principle that "he who pays with honor may borrow with ease," and that square dealing in case of war or distress is most indispensable for the safety of the nation.

He favors a restriction of immigration and favors the restoration of such legislation as may restore the shipping of the country to its former glory.

The platform closes by cordially and unequivocally endorsing Mr. Reed.

Nebraska For McKinley.

OMAHA, April 16.—The state convention of Nebraska Republicans, to select four delegates to the national convention, convened in Omaha last night, 1057 delegates being present. Notwithstanding the general concession that the body was unanimous for McKinley for president, ready to accept any thing fathered by Senator Thurston, the session was by no means harmonious. Ex-Governor Crouse, one of Nebraska's pioneer Republicans, introduced a resolution intended as a rebuke to Senator Thurston for his activity in the campaign throughout the state leading up to the selection of delegates. The resolutions were tabled without discussion. Four delegates were selected by acclamation and instructed to support McKinley—J. L. Webster, Peter Jensen, T. P. Kennard and George H. Thummel.

The resolutions congratulate the country upon the certain return of Republicans to power. The financial plank says: "We pledge ourselves in advance to the platform of the forthcoming Republican national convention, believing that it will declare against the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and for a currency of gold, silver and paper, as sound as the government and untarnished as its honor, and for that American system of protection and reciprocity of which Mr. McKinley is the best living exponent, and under which the people attained the greatest individual prosperity.

Bradley Safe In Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, April 16.—The Republican convention was called to order yesterday afternoon by John W. Yerkes, chairman of the state central committee, who made a brief speech congratulating the Kentucky Republicans upon recent victories, paying an eloquent tribute to Governor Bradley, Major McKinley and other leaders, and in conclusion placing in nomination as the choice of the central committee for temporary chairman Thomas Z. Morrow. The anti-Bradley men placed in nomination George Denny, Jr., and a call of the roll by counties was ordered.

The call occupied over 2½ hours, during which time the hall was a scene of great confusion, and speakers were heard with the greatest difficulty. The vote resulted: Morrow, 833 4-5; Denny, 742 1-5. Delegations aggregating 123 votes were passed because of contests.

The convention adjourned shortly after midnight until today. While nothing more than organization and a few nominating speeches were accomplished, the result of the day's proceedings served to make certain the control of the Bradley men over the convention, securing to the governor the endorsement of his state as a presidential candidate, the adoption of a platform to his liking, containing a flat declaration for the gold standard and the election of delegates-at-large from this state favorable to him.

A Silver Neighborhood.

DENVER, April 16.—The Democratic state convention yesterday was an anti-administration convention throughout. Temporary Chairman McAlleny made a strong silver speech, as did Permanent Chairman Royal. The latter, after making a long and sincere plea in favor of the white metal at a ratio of 16 to 1, eulogized prominent silver advocates. When he mentioned the name of ex-Congressman Bland, the delegates applauded. The platform, which was unanimously adopted, deals with no other question but that of monetary issues, and favors free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Charles S. Thomas of Denver, who was elected at large by acclamation, addressed the convention, and his remarks regarding the action of the Colorado delegation at the Chicago convention may be considered insignificant, inasmuch as he is and has been for many years a representative Democratic leader. He censured the present administration in strong terms for the issue of bonds, and concluded his address: "If in the efforts of our delegates at Chicago silver is not recognized, I will withdraw from the convention."

As Mr. Thomas will likely lead the Colorado delegation, his utterances in this respect are taken meaningly.

Against Free Silver.

FARGO, N. D., April 16.—At the Republican state convention yesterday free silver was turned down. The delegates to the St. Louis convention were instructed to use all honorable means in support of McKinley.

Pattison For President.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 16.—The Tenth district Democrats yesterday nominated Edward D. Reilly of this city for congress, and passed resolutions endorsing Robert E. Pattison for the presidency,

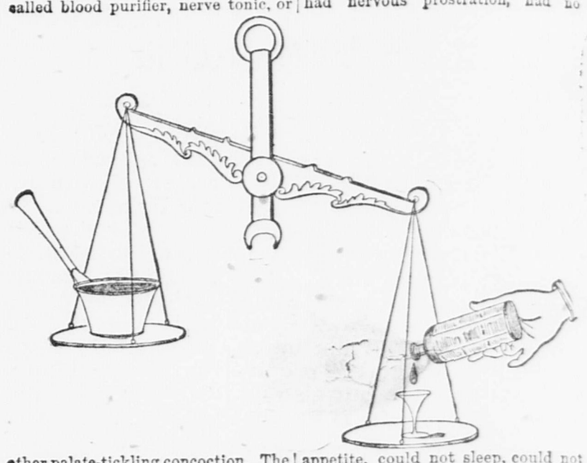

DROP AND DIPPER PUZZLE

It looks Strange but it is True.

A Case in Every-day Life Where a Single Drop Weighs More Than a Whole Dipperful.

IT looks like a puzzle, and it is a puzzle until you try it yourself. That solves it. Every man can solve it. Every woman can solve it. On one side of the scales is a single drop. On the other side is a dipperful. Yet the drop carries the most weight. Why is it, and how is it? Here is the explanation.

The one drop is a drop of Puritana. The dipperful is a dipperful of so-called blood purifier, nerve tonic, or other palate-tickling concoction. The one drop of Puritana is real medicine—it cures. The dipperful is anything, everything, and nothing, when it comes right down to a real cure.

Puritana is the prize formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby, who was for thirty-two years at the head of Dartmouth Medical College. It strikes at the root of 92 per cent. of human suffering, and brings new strength, new health, new life through the power producer of the system. Puritana makes the heart right, lungs right, liver right, blood right, kidneys right, nerves right, and health right, because it makes the stomach right. To any man, woman, or child who will take it as directed, Puritana will practically give a new stomach. That is why hundreds and thousands of people have proved that it cures from head to foot.

J. F. Scott, for years a prominent contractor and builder in Concord, N. H., says:

"I have used Puritana for torpid liver, indigestion, and a species of dyspepsia, and it has given me such relief that I felt made over new. For these troubles I would rather have one bottle of Puritana than a barrel of any other medicine."

She can eat anything now, but her life was hanging in the balance, when her stomach could not digest the simplest food. Mrs. Belle W. Cale, of Charlestown, Mass., tried country air and seven doctors in vain, but Puritana gave her a new stomach and a new lease of life.

Mrs. Henry W. Craigue, of Concord, N. H., was ill for years. She had no appetite, no strength, no ambition. Her life was one constant round of misery and suffering. Puritana gave her an appetite and rugged strength. It made a new woman of her.

No chance, was what the doctor said about George H. Dunning, of Faneuil Hall Market, Boston. He had nervous prostration, had no appetite, could not sleep, could not walk alone. Puritana made him over new from head to foot. It gave him sleep, appetite, and strength.

After trying many doctors, hospitals, and medicines in vain, Mrs. J. S. Daly, of Cambridge, Mass., had also abandoned hope, when Puritana was brought to her relief. It gave her strength and health, pure, rich blood, vigorous digestion, and raised her from the sick bed to the full vigor of happy womanhood.

Yes, one drop of Puritana will bring more real relief, more real cure, more real strength, more real nerve force, more real power and vital energy, more real "life-is-worth-living," than a dipperful, a bucketful, a barrelful of so-called tonics, blood cures, nerve foods, pills, and doubtful preparations from unknown sources, that is the reason why Puritana is the most economical medicine as well as the most effective in the world.

FOR PRESIDENT.

Maine Formally Nominates Her Favorite Son.

BRADLEY IS ENDORSED

But McKinley Is Second Choice of Kentuckians.

Silver Shouters Claim That They Will Control Chicago Convention.

PORTLAND, Me., April 17.—The Republican state convention was the event of the state, which was represented from all parts by large numbers of Republicans bent on helping the prospects of the man who for years was a co-laborer with them in many a Republican contest.

It was a perfect day, not a cloud in the sky, and the weather, while not extremely hot, was calm and just comfortable enough for the hundreds of delegates and their friends who swarmed to city hall long before the large assemblage were called together.

The convention was called to order by J. H. Manley, chairman of the state committee. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Dalton of Portland. Mr. Manley read the call and announced Hannibal E. Hamlin of Ellsworth as chairman. Chairman Manley happily introduced Mr. Hamlin as presiding officer as one who was one of the leaders of the party 40 years ago.

Mr. Hamlin was received with great applause, and his speech was often interrupted with applause, particularly when he spoke the name of Thomas B. Reed. The chairman reviewed the birth and history of the Republican party, its devotion to the cause of protection and a sound currency; paid his respects to the blunders and shortcomings of the Democracy, and concluded as follows:

The people of Maine love and appreciate her mountains, her rivers, her lakes, her rugged seacoast, her villages, her towns, her cities, her industries and her public men. They need no monuments of marble or brass to keep fresh in their minds her Evans, her Fessenden, her Morrill, her Blaine and a host of others who have passed to that far-off land from which they will return no more.

Nor are they lacking in love or appreciation of her living statesmen. For the past few years the old Pine Tree state has had that pure, able and efficient administration second to none in the long line of its history under the guidance of that noble governor, Hon. Henry B. Cleaves. Look at our delegation in congress. With membership on the most important committees, on the floor of the house and the senate, it has prominently identified itself with all important measures, and will have a record that will shine bright for all time in its own glory.

From that most worthy delegation the Republicans of Maine desire now to take one as the standard bearer of the Republican party in the coming campaign whose ability, wisdom, integrity and honor are beyond question; who has demonstrated his fearlessness and courage ever to stand by his convictions; whose record is clear on questions of protective tariff and honest money; who is in himself a platform of Republican principles; that brilliant leader and matchless parliamentarian—Thomas B. Reed.

I will not occupy your time to talk of him whom you know so well. We name him as our choice for president. We shall go to the national convention at St. Louis with a solid delegation from New England. Let them throw any thought of failure to the winds, and, standing shoulder to shoulder, with the influence of good New England felt mightier than ever before in any convention, God grant they may succeed.

If nominated, so sure as the tide ebbs and flows, Thomas B. Reed will be elected, and, if elected, the country and the world need no assurance of ours that he will prove worthy to fill the chair in times past occupied by Lincoln, Grant, Garfield and Harrison.

Reed's Principles.

E. B. Boutelle, brother of Congressman Boutelle, was chosen secretary, with a long list of assistant secretaries. When the formal organization had been completed, Herbert M. Heath of Augusta, chairman of the committee on resolutions, presented the following platform:

The Republicans of Maine gladly join with their brethren in other states by presenting to the Republicans of the nation for nomination to the presidency the speaker of the national house.

He needs no platform save the record of his life. Under his administration, as his public efforts conspicuously show, would be restored that Republican policy of protection taught by Lincoln, illustrated by the signal prosperity of the country for 30 years, and rounded out by the reciprocity of Blaine; a policy which would be adapted to the business of the country and adjusted with care from time to time to the changed conditions.

Then, with confidence and prosperity restored, the revenue will be made adequate to the support of the government, and the issuing of bonds, ostensibly for the maintenance of the redemption fund, but really to meet the deficiency, will cease.

He is opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, except by international agreement, and until such agreement can be obtained he believes the present gold standard should be maintained. He has always been uncompromisingly for the maintenance of the highest national credit by the utmost good faith toward the public creditor; not for the creditor's sake, but for the nation's sake, for the sound reason that the most valuable possession of any nation in time of war or distress, next to the courage of its people, is an honorable reputation. Whoever pays with honor, borrows with ease.

Sound finance and certainty at the treasury and protection for the producers will mean prosperity and peace. He favors measures for the restriction of immigration. He favors a just administration of all pension legislation and is an earnest friend of American shipping and its restoration to its former rank in the world.

He stands for the preservation of national honor at home and abroad. Under his administration the Republican party can say with him, "And when the time comes, as it surely will come, for us to lead this land back to those paths of prosperity and fame which were tried under Republican rule for so many years, we shall take back with us our ancient glory undimmed by adversity, our ancient honor unsullied by defeat."

The following delegates-at-large were then elected: Amos L. Allen, Alfred; Charles E. Littlefield, Rockland; Edwin C. Burleigh, Augusta; Dr. E. A. Thompson, Dover.

Governor Cleaves, Hon. Llewellyn Powers and Herbert M. Heath all made brief speeches endorsing Reed and his policy.

John O. Patten of Bath endeavored to introduce a resolution favoring legislation to discriminate in favor of American ships. The resolution was not accepted by the convention, Patten being ruled out of order.

He then tried to present the resolution as a minority report of the committee on resolutions, saying that if Mr. Reed favored American shipping it wouldn't hurt him to say so. Mr. Patten was ruled out of order on this also, and the convention then adjourned.

SECONDARY CONSIDERATION.

Silver Men Will Furnish a Candidate When the Time Arrives.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The all-absorbing interest in the national convention centers in two questions! Will the Democrats declare for free silver, and will the Republicans nominate McKinley? B. B. Smalley of the Vermont national committee, and a life-long Democratic manager, now in Washington, says he is going to Chicago to fight for sound money, and that he has no interest in candidates.

He believes the sound-money men will win by a majority vote on platform, and cover. In other words, he has no fear that by the two-thirds rule 40 per cent of the delegates will block the nomination of a candidate agreeable to the majority platform. The returns from Washington state are also encouraging. Although the Democratic convention declared positively for free silver, they sent a delegation headed by Hugh C. Wallace, a son-in-law of Chief Justice Fuller, and a stanch sound-money man, if he can consistently vote his own convictions. In any event, his selection to head the delegation is regarded as a partial victory.

Secretary Smith has returned from Georgia, taking a hopeful view of the situation, but practically acknowledging that the silver people are in a majority, the only question being how large a minority can be held for the gold standard.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, when asked if there was not a possibility that the silver men would be persuaded to put up such a ticket as would secure the eastern sound-money men, replied:

"No; the silver issue has been forced to the front this year as never in the past, and the delegates have been elected on free-coinage platforms and because of their known fidelity to that principle. The committee of silver men, consisting of Senators Harris and Turpie, Mr. Hinrichsen of Illinois, Casey Young of Tennessee and myself, have made it a point to know just who were to be selected as delegates to Chicago, and our suggestion has been heartily acquiesced in by the various states."

"Then the result in Alabama was not a surprise?"

"Not in the least. The only state of which we were fearful was Oregon, and that went for free coinage. In Kansas the sentiment is all for free silver. In Nebraska we look for two delegations, one composed of federal officeholders, who will be with the administration, and the other coming from the people. We have a good organization in Iowa, and hope to get that state, and in Illinois we have no doubt of the result. The ground swell for silver is tremendous, and cannot be stopped."

"Who will be the candidate?"

"Just now that is a secondary consideration. We will find a candidate as Abraham found the ram in the bushes."

New testimony comes each day on the great Republican puzzle whether McKinley or the field will control at St. Louis. Cannon of Illinois has met a severe defeat; his own district has instructed for McKinley, while Cannon has tried his utmost to get the district to declare for Cullom first, Reed second, and then for a man whom the anti-McKinley combination might select. But this plan was upset by a straight declaration for McKinley. On the other hand, the general outlook for Cullom in Illinois is improving, and conservative estimates give McKinley only 16 of the 48 votes of the state. Votes kept for Cullom now will probably never reach McKinley.

THE BLUEGRASS STATE

Would Like to See Bradley Nominated For President But—

LOUISVILLE, April 17. — The Bradley slate was considerably damaged in the contests for delegates-at-large in the Republican convention. A. R. Burnham, who has been a pronounced McKinley man, was chosen delegate by the second highest vote received by the candidates for these places. The other three delegates are Bradley men. The governor secured the endorsement of his presidential candidacy in the platform, but his satisfaction at this triumph over his opponents within the party of this state cannot be unalloyed, for the instructions are coupled with the provision that, when his name shall be withdrawn, the vote of the state shall go to the Ohio champion of protection.

The hottest fight of the convention occurred after these delegates had been chosen on the question of negro representation on the delegation at large, but it was ended in the colored brother's favor before the vote was half through.

An Elkins Boomlet.

ELKINS, W. Va., April 17.—The Republican county convention of Randolph county, the home of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, yesterday adopted a strong resolution instructing the delegates to the state and district conventions to support delegates to the national Republican convention at St. Louis who are in favor of Hon. S. B Elkins for president, and in the event he is not or he will not consent to be a candidate, then to vote for such delegates as will support William McKinley.

Eight Pages Saturday. No Ledger Monday. Eight Pages Tuesday.

The amount of news and the demand for advertising space makes a larger paper really necessary at least once a week, and it is possible the eight-page LEDGER on Saturdays has come to stay. Monday being a holiday, it will also be necessary on Tuesday to have another eight-page paper to contain the news of three days.

Among the Saturday features will be the society news, church services, Christian Endeavor column, a story, gems in verse, illustrated humor, and the news of the day, both local and telegraphic.

On Tuesday the observance of Patriots' day, particularly in the field of sports, will be reported, and there will be a piece of music, a story, and columns of selected miscellany.

$40 FOR FIRST BALL.

Costello's New Alleys Opened With Much Enthusiasm.

The lovers of bowling, and their number is legion, who have for some weeks past been patiently watching the bowling alleys of J. F. Costello approach completion, had their desire gratified Thursday evening when the alleys, of which it can truly be said there are none better in the state, were thrown open to the public for the first time.

At 7.30, when Auctioneer Crane mounted a box to auction off the first ball and privilege of rolling it on the new alleys, there was a large crowd present, and it would have been difficult to have accommodated many more. Previous to calling for bids Auctioneer Crane made a few remarks of welcome and referring to the alleys which he said were the best in the state. As he finished he shouted: "Now, gentlemen, how much am I offered."

Someone in the audience said 25 cents and from this it jumped to $1. Henry De Cost raised it to $5 and D. E. Wadsworth to $8. From this point it went up dollar by dollar until the bidding was between B. J. Weeks and Brainard Dyer. Weeks last bid was $39 and this Mr. Dyer raised to $40, at which high figure it was knocked off.

Mr. Dyer then prepared to enjoy his privilege and there were several gentlemen present who were willing to wager that he would not knock down a pin. All eyes were now turned on Mr. Dyer. He stepped back and made ready to give the ball the necessary impetus, and it looked as though the ball might go through the end of the building. But it did not. It rolled gracefully down the alleys for a short distance then off the side and spent its force against the cushion, and not a pin fell. With the second ball he was more fortunate and succeeded in downing six pins.

The bowling then became general on all of the alleys the highest score on a single string being 176 which was made by Peter T. Fallon and Mr. Anderson. Other scores were Brainard Dyer 160, D. E. Wadsworth 165 and W. C. Harrison 175.

The highest score on the candle pin alley was 87, which was rolled by Mr. Williams.

A PUBLIC DUTY.

Senator Darling Speaks on Norfolk County Affairs.

Senator Darling of Norfolk County and a resident of Hyde Park, the home of Chairman Morrell of the County Commissioners, has given notice in the Senate that he will soon offer resolutions for an investigation of the charges against the Norfolk County Commissioners. His speech in full is given below:

"Mr. President: For a long time many insinuations and charges have been in circulation touching the conduct of the county commissioners of the county of Norfolk in the repairs and building of the court house at Dedham. The commissioners of our county have given to the citizens of Norfolk a court house of true magnificence. Norfolk county does not regret the expenditure of a dollar of its cost if the moneys have been judiciously and honestly expended.

"No county in the State can better afford the luxury. If she has been extravagent, that is her own concern. On this score she proudly repels either sympathy or criticisms from any quarter. If, on the other hand, there has been added to the cost of her building the slightest taint of official corruption, the cost has been indeed excessive. I occupy indeed a very embarrassing position in the consideration of the advisability of an investigation.

"I have been fully aware of the many motives, not in all cases praiseworthy, which have controlled the action of the local cities in our country. I am personally acquainted with the members of this board and I trust that no action of mine will interfere with our cordial relations.

"At the same time I could not, under any circumstances, permit the ties of official or personal friendship to swerve me from a duty when that duty clearly appears. I will not at this time enter at any length into the consideration of charges or counter charges.

"The fact remains that many prominent taxpayers of Norfolk have asked for an investigation along the lines stated. Within a few days the largest and wealthiest town in our county, in open town meeting, and the only city within our borders, have asked for this investigation, the town of Brookline and the city of Quincy. My personal desires might lead me to remain quiet, but my public duty remains clear.

"I therefore at this time, and in this rather unparliamentary manner, under your gracious permission, give notice that within a few days I shall introduce an order for an investigation into the board of county commissioners of the county of Norfolk."

Sen. Darling said to a reporter: "In taking this step, I am fully aware that I am antagonizing the strongest organization in the state in a political sense, the Norfolk County commissioners, and that should I ever again seek political preferment in Norfolk County I would have the powerful influence of these men against me. But when people all over the county are demanding an investigation into their acts and when I cannot find a citizen of my own town, Hyde Park, who does not want an investigation, I cannot but concede that there is no sound reason for suppressing the effort to have an official inquiry."

Patriotic Entertainment.

About one hundred and fifty gathered at the chapel of the First church on Thursday evening to listen to an interesting lecture by Miss Elizabeth Porter Gould, of Boston. It was given under the auspices of Adams chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, and the chapel was handsomely trimmed in buff and blue, the colors worn by the Continental soldiers in 1776, and adopted as the colors of the Daughters of the Revolution.

On the platform beside the lecturer, Miss Gould, were: Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, regent of the Adams chapter, Mrs. George F. Daniels, of Boston, secretary of the state society, who represented Mrs. Lee, the State Regent, who was unable to be present on account of illness, and a chorus singers from the High school.

Mrs. Titus, in her words of welcome regretted the absence of Mayor Adams, who sent word that he was unable to keep his engagement on account of urgent business. After the singing of America, Mrs. Titus called upon Rev. C. E. Butler for a few remarks and Mr. Butler responded in his usual breezy, cordial way, his remarks being interesting and to the point.

The High School chorus sang a pretty selection after which came the event of the evening, the lecture on Abigail Adams by Miss Gould. It was a treat in every sense of the word and Miss Gould thoroughly understood her subject, or subjects, as John Adams of course was a most important factor in the life and history of Abigail Adams.

Miss Gould held the close attention of her audience from beginning to end, being an agreeable and interesting speaker. The little homely, commonplace incidents in the life of Mrs. Adams were made prominent and interesting and all agreed that it was one of the most enjoyable lectures ever given in Quincy.

The entertainment closed with the singing of Star Spangled Banner, Master Warren Mitchell singing the solo and the audience all joining in the chorus. Master Mitchell has a remarkably clear soprano and is a general favorite, being greeted with applause as he stepped forward to sing.

We understand that this is the first public entertainment given by the recently formed Adams chapter and if it is a guarantee of what is to follow, many patriotic and enjoyable entertainments may be looked forward to and all our ladies will want to become Daughters of the Revolution.

A woods fire in the direction of West Quincy furnished a pretty illumination Thursday evening.

Friday night the regular prayer meeting followed by baptism at the Calvary Baptist church. All are welcome.

The temperature today at noon, as recorded by Mr. Pettengill's glass was 58 degrees against 78 for the same hour Thursday.

A large audience heard Rev. George A. Crawford of Methuen deliver his patriotic lecture at the Calvary Baptist church on Thursday evening.

Miss Gavin, clerk for City Clerk Keith, has been transferred to the Water Commissioners' office, her place at City Hall having been filled by Miss Lizzie Sheppard.

The Crystal Spring Ice Company is attracting the attention of our readers and the citizens generally. The company has a large supply of excellent ice, which they are selling low.

Jeweller Williams is bound to be in it. He recognizes the fact that young men will not buy a watch if they spend their money for a bicycle, so he has become agent for the Bostonian wheels.

Many of the engineers and janitors of the city are planning to take the course of lectures on steam engineering to be given at the Y. M. C. A. rooms beginning next week. Already over a dozen names have been received.

The services at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, on Sunday, will be patriotic throughout the day. In the morning the pastor will preach, and in the evening there will be addresses by the pastor and others.

Mr. R. M. Armstrong, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., says that Evangelist W. S. Martin, who has been secured by the local Y. M. C. A. to conduct special men's meetings April 19 and 26, is one of the most successful workers among young men in Mass.

The Wollaston Trap club is making preparations for a great shoot on Patriots' day. It will be an all day shoot and will begin at nine o'clock sharp. Prizes will be shot for in four classes. Sandwiches and coffee will be served free in the club house. It is needless to add that the club extends its usual cordial invitation to all gunners to be present.

Dixie's Novelty Co. and Bijou entertainers gave a pleasing entertainment at Hancock hall, Thursday evening, under the auspices of Francis L. Souther camp S. of V., consisting of humorous selections by Emery Coulter, vocal solos Mrs. Emery Coulter and solos, duets, etc., on the banjo, mandolin, and guitar by Miss Grace E. F. Bacon, Harry Bacon and Master Walter Bacon.

Miss Ethel, the four year old daughter of Mr. Benjamin J. Weeks, observed her birthday anniversary this afternoon by a gathering of a few of her young friends at her parents residence on Edison street. The afternoon will doubtless pass all too quickly for the little ones in the enjoyment of the usual children's games, not forgetting the delicacies so dear to children's hearts. Miss Ethel was assisted in receiving by Master Earl Weeks.

Two farces will be given at Hancock hall April 24 by the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, and a good entertainment is promised. "That Box of Cigarettes" will be one, and the other "Murder Will Out." In the cast of the first will be Mr. William Dickie, Mr. James Marr, Mr. Robert McKeen, Mr. John Ross, Mrs. Lizzie Perry, Miss Lizzie Esson, Miss Maggie Booth and Miss Mabel Ellis. In the latter Mrs. Lizzie Perry, Miss Georgiana Levack, Miss Annabella Mason, Miss Lizzie Esson, Miss Mabel Ellis and Mrs. Josie Daw.

Teachers' Reception.

The sociable of the Centre Congregational church on Thursday evening was principally a reception to day school teachers, an unusually large number of those who train the young ideas to shoot being regular attendants at this church. They include our public school teachers, residents of Quincy who teach in Boston and her suburbs, teachers at the Quincy High, the Woodward and Thayer academy, and there was one, the life of the evening, labelled thus: "Theophilus King, Teacher of Antics, School of Experience."

All the teachers wore placards and there was a good joke in connection therewith. The committee in their invitations had requested each teacher to wear a card with name, school and address. Two wags conceived the idea of furnishing the badges, and in haste prepared some spring poetry bringing in the name, school and address in humorous style. Their plans were more successful than they anticipated, for all the teachers sacrificed themselves and displayed them, not mistrusting that it was the joke of outsiders, although some did declare at first that they would not go if they must be thus labelled. By request we reluctantly refrain from giving a few of the gems.

The sociable was largely attended and one of the most enjoyable the church has given. It was under the direction of the Stranger's committee, Mr. W. W. Parry, Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. George H. Hitchcock, Mrs. Helen F. Fitts and Mr. James F. Merrill. The address by Mr. Orlando Dimick of Watertown, the master of the Wells school, Boston, on his personal experiences in the Rebellion, was a stirring talk. He told of his capture, his imprisonment and escape in an interesting manner. Sudden sickness of one of the members cancelled the engagement of a ladies' quartette but the audience listened with pleasure to a solo by Miss Carrie Follett Spear and gave her a hearty encore. Henry H. Faxon, Esq., supplied ten gallons of ice cream for the occasion, and fancy cakes were also served.

Wollaston Sociable.

The regular April sociable, and the closing one of the season given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Wollaston Unitarian church, was held on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance. The entertainment was of the usual high order, being principally musical.

The vocal soloists were Mr. E. Walter Arnold of the First church quartette of Quincy, and Mr. Edward E. Bullock. Both did magnificent work. Miss Jeannette Packard played a couple of delightful piano solos. Mrs. Wm. C. Pierce was the accompanist. There was some excellent quartette work by Mr. E. Walter Arnold, Mr. Frederick H. Bishop, bassos; and Mr. Edward E. Bullock and Mr. Albert R. Moulton, tenors. One of the most pleasing features of the evening's entertainment was the reading by request by Mr. W. E. Simmons of a paper on Metropolitan Boston in 1999, which he had previously read at an Elliot club meeting. It was a very cleverly written article. Refreshments followed the entertainment.

The committee who were responsible for such a pleasant evening's entertainment were: Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, Mrs Charles W. Tucker, Mrs. Seymour Field, Miss Thayer and Mrs. Henry Smith.

"RELIABILITY."

The Grave Question.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

Please allow me to correct an article in Wednesday's issue. Evidently the source from which you received your information did not know the truth of the case in question.

The facts are as follows: The deceased who died recently at Neponset was the mother of my wife. The victim of the small pox was an adult of another family and died in Atlantic 23 years ago, and was buried in a grave near the one we wish to have opened. We had no desire to endanger the health of the public, and consulted the proper authorities to decide such a case, namely, the Board of Health, and was granted a burial permit. I presented the permit to the Superintendent of St. Mary's cemetery and he ignored it, thereby assuming full authority in the matter. If the Board of Heath are to be ignored at will then their appointment is only a farce.

It was not our wish to make this case public gossip, but we wish, as it is brought to the public notice, to have the truth known. This matter has been submitted to Dr. Abbott, Secretary of the State Board of Health, and he sustains the action of our local board, evidently proving that they knew their business. Dr. Abbot states that there is absolutely no danger by opening the grave in question. I know of local doctors who are of the same opinion as the Board of Health. We have broken no rules. We have complied strictly with the law and feel satisfied that we are justified in taking the stand we have.

Respectfully,

DANIEL C. LITTLE.

West Quincy, April 16, 1896.

[Chairman Curtis of the Board of Health, learning that there was to be a communication today, called on the LEDGER. He says the board has thus far received no complaint, and has taken no action, and claims no jurisdiction.

The trustees of the cemetery are supreme, except that aggrieved parties may seek redress in the courts. Members of the board say there is no danger of contagion in opening a grave four feet from a small pox body, but have not passed judgment for less than four feet.]—Eds.

Wants Justice and Fair Play.

MR EDITOR:—I see that the City Council refused Mr. Gilpatrick a license for Sunday. Is it piety or prejudice? It looks like prejudice. Councilman Hayden said there were only two that he could find. He could not have made many enquiries for I could find twenty in one hour and taxpayers at that. Councilman Sidelinger said those seats are occupied by loafers. If that is so it includes our best citizens. Men who are equal morally and intellectually to their critics or any of the City Council.

As regards the store, I have never seen it filled with tobacco smoke and I have visited it a good many times. I have heard ladies who are as fastidious as he is, say how neat it was.

Now if the noble Councilmen are so set on observing the Sabbath why do they patronize Sunday newspapers and the electric cars? Why do they allow skating Sundays during the winter? Why allow ball playing? Why not stop yacht work by out of town people? Stop steamer coming to the pier with rough crowds and free rum? Will the gentleman name a grocery in the city that has not let goods out of their store Sunday. If the gentlemen are so much for reform, please shut up the vestry at the Y. P. S. C. E. meetings, for it is a great loafing place and they cannot learn any good unless robing ladies' pocket-books and contribution boxes are in that category.

I asked a Councilman why they did not stop the electric car people from working Sunday. He said that was too big a job for the City Council to undertake, but they could handle an insignificant person like Gilpatrick. Is that honest and just? Is that one of their religious creeds; to crowd and cow the weak? Let us have justice, honesty and fair play.

Arrangements have been made for a spring evangelistic campaign. Evangelist W. S. Martin, of Georgetown, has been secured as speaker for the men's meeting the 19th and 26th.

The services next Sunday will be held in the Presbyterian church, South Quincy. Mr. Martin will speak on the subject: "No man on the Fence." Miss Horton, gospel singer of Boston, will assist in the services.

The semi-annual meeting of the Association held on Tuesday evening was one of the most successful gatherings of the year. The address by Mr. Henry T. Bailey, State supervisor of drawing, on "Drawing as a Language" was interesting, instructive and elevating. The gymnasium was filled with young men who thoroughly enjoyed every word spoken by Mr. Bailey.

The reports of the educational department of the association were exceedingly gratifying both to teachers and officers. Eighty-three men and forty-two boys were enrolled. The total enrollment was 176. Eleven nationalities were represented. Fifty per cent. of the men are engaged in the granite business. The following statistics give some idea of the work accomplished.

Free hand drawing,—total number lessons, 22; average attendance, 17; average number belonging, 22; per cent. of attendance, 77; total enrollment, 39.

Monumental drawing,—number of lessons, 21; average attendance, 18; average number belonging, 21; per cent. of attendance, 86; total enrollment, 86.

Clay modelling, H. B. Beattie, instructor,—total number of lessons, 22; average attendance, 7; average number belonging, 10; per cent. of attendance, 70; total enrollment, 20.

Swedish English, Charles Sampson, instructor,—total number lessons, 22; average attendance, 7; average number belonging, 10; total enrollment, 12; per cent. of attendance, 70.

German, Bernhard Schroeder, instructor,—total number lessons, 22; average attendance, 4; average belonging, 6; total enrollment, 8; per cent. of attendance, 66.

Vocal music, A. J. Sidelinger instructor, —total number lessons, 18 (to date); average attendance, 10; average number belonging, 12; total enrollment, 22; per cent. of attendance, 83.

Intermediate Sloyd, J. M. Nowland, instructor,—total number lessons, 34; average attendance, 9; average number belonging, 10; total enrollment, 13; per cent. of attendance, 90.

Junior Sloyd, J. M. Nowland instructor, —total number lessons, 37; average attendance, 11; average number belonging, 12; total enrollment, 14; per cent. of attendance 91.

Intermediate clay modeling, H. W. Beattie instructor,— number lessons, 10; average attendance, 8; average belonging, 10; total enrollment, 12; per cent. of attendance, 80.

Junior clay modeling, — number of lessons, 10; average attendance, 4; average number belonging, 5; total enrollment, 8; per cent. of attendance, 80.

The General Secretary gave some interesting facts in his report as follows: Membership, 270 men, 60 boys; average daily attendance at rooms, men 73, boys 21. Total from October to April, 14,916. Total number of baths taken, 4,195. Total attendance at gymnasium, 2,659. Average attendance at 25 men's meetings, 44; 22 Bible Class sessions, average 6. Three young men have been led to church membership. Boys' meetings and Boys' Bible classes have been instituted. The average attendance at 8 sessions of debating club was 30. $2,850 have been subscribed and $400 more is needed.

A Conundrum Tag Social.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Memorial church, Atlantic, gave a tag conundrum and natural history drawing party in the church, Thursday evening. The attendance was not as large as it would have been had the young people generally known what a rare treat was offered them.

The entertainment consisted of piano solos by Miss Gertrude Hall, readings by Miss Barbara Vogler, and soprano solos by Miss Mabel Burr.

After the entertainment the conundrums were answered and many strange answers were given causing much merriment. Refreshments come next in order and consisted of lemonade and cake, served by the young ladies of the social committee, and was in great abundance. The balance of the evening was taken up by the drawing upon the black-board of pictures (so called) of animals, each person present being given a tag, numbered and having the name of some animal written upon it.

The tags were called by numbers and were responded to by the person having such tag, whose task it was then to draw on the board a correct picture of the same, animal represented there to be guessed by the audience. There were indeed some very queer looking animals, even the most domestic ones would have been capable of frightening the bravest had he met with one of them when alone.

The affair as a whole was a grand success socially and similar entertainments will follow, it is hoped at least once a month.

POPULISTS ROASTED.

Senator Hill Says They Have Votes to Sell or Exchange.

Classed as Deserters From the Old Parties.

Proposed Bond Investigation Brings Out Some Sharp Criticism.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—In the senate yesterday, Mr. Peffer's resolution for an investigation of recent bond issues was taken up for consideration, after considerable antagonism by the appropriations committee.

Mr. Hill spoke in opposition to the resolution. It was, he said, a Populistic resolution. Investigation was pressed, without formal charges, without allegations of wrongdoing, of irregularities, or of corruption.

The only reason assigned for it was "public curiosity." There was no question to be investigated. Everybody knew what had been done and that it had been done in pursuance of law.

Mr. Hill said that while the author of the resolution was anxious to "throw mud on government officials," yet he hesitated to use the word "secretary" and had struck out the word. "What senator dare rise in his place," asked Mr. Hill, "and utter the slander that the secretary of the treasury or some of his subordinates have received some compensation, some reward? There is no answer. This is a mean, contemptible insinuation, not a direct charge."

Mr. Hill went on to ask why the authors of this resolution, if they really believed their insinuations, did not propose impeachment. If what they insinuated was true, then an impeachable offense had been committed. After showing the need of raising revenue by bonds, when the Dingley tariff bill failed, Mr. Hill added: "Instead of an investigation, the secretary of the treasury should have a vote of thanks of the senate for sustaining the credit of the government."

Mr. Stewart interrupted frequently, at last asking: "Is the administration opposed to this investigation?"

"I am not authorized to speak for the administration," replied Mr. Hill in ringing tones. "I have never exchanged a word on this question with any officer of the government, high or low, and never will. Why, the secretary of the treasury has never even answered the courteous request for information which I framed. I oppose these resolutions because they embrace silly, foolish, unworthy propositions. I would oppose it whether a Republican or Democratic secretary was involved."

Populists Turned Down.

Mr. Hill arraigned the Populist senators in scathing terms. He first described them as the "Tailors of Tooley street," who got together and solemnly said: "We, the people of England." He characterized them as "deserters" from the old parties who had "polled their grievances." They had offered their votes for sale, or rather for exchange, on the tariff question when it came here. They are men of no fixed ideas, said he. They are the advocates of disorder and scandal. The Populist party thrives on scandal. Their main purpose is to throw mud at the Democratic and Republican parties. "And the time has come," declared he, "for the old parties to take common cause against these men."

Referring to the silver movement, Mr. Hill spoke of the profound agitation and discussion throughout the country on the silver question. "This administration says," Mr. Hill went on, "'We found the gold standard established here and will maintain it.' They may be wrong. You may differ from them. But it is unworthy of any supporter of silver to adopt this means of undermining them."

The senator caused great amusement by reading a letter he received from Mississippi, asking him to have the senate investigate the loss of a silver dollar sent in the mail. The writer said in the course of the letter: "I am in favor of you for president in 1896." As Mr. Hill read this, he added, jocularly: "That man has common sense." The letter asked for a senate investigation. Mr. Hill said he thought he would make this amendment to the bond investigation.

At this point Mr. Hill exploded a distinct sensation. He said the prevalence of charges of irregularity and wrong was shown by the recent public allegations of Senator Chandler.

"I had supposed Mr. McKinley was making an honorable canvass," proceeded Mr. Hill, "and I was startled at reading in my morning paper the headlines: 'Campaign of Boodle,' 'Can the Republicans Meet the Fat Frying Issue Again?' 'Deplored by Senator Chandler—the New Hampshire Senator Calls Upon the Ohio Champion of Protection to Repudiate the Methods Accredited to His Agents,' etc."

The Chandler charges were sent to the desk and read in full. Mr. Chandler sat on the Republican side, smiling as the reading proceeded. After the reading had concluded, Mr. Hill went on.

"Here are charges of a corrupt use of money to buy a presidential nomination!" exclaimed Mr. Hill. But no senators—not the senator from Kansas—asks for an investigation. Here is an offense against the franchise, a stab at our institutions, when it is charged that $250,000 has been raised to secure the nomination for the presidency, and yet no investigation is proposed. Let the Chandler charges be investigated, too."

Mr. Hill next passed to the sugar investigation, almost two years ago, and ridiculed its results. One senator had the courage to say to the investigating committee: "Yes, he had dealt in sugar." "Did it hurt him?" asked Mr. Hill. "No; today he is the candidate and favorite son of the leading Republican state of the Union for the presidency, with a host of friends and supporters."

After ridiculing the fruitless investigation, Mr. Hill said he would yield, expecting to go on today.

Franklin Remains.

Mr. Blue's fight against the reappointment of General William B. Franklin as a member of the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteers, which was the feature of the proceedings in the house Wednesday, terminated unsuccessfully yesterday, when his amendment to substitute the name of General O. O. Howard for that of General Franklin was rejected—61 to 149. The resolution adopted yesterday appoints General Franklin and Mr. Steele of Indiana to succeed themselves; George L. Beal of Maine to succeed General Fessenden, and General Thomas of Illinois to succeed General John C. Black.

Will Stick to Silver.

DENVER, April 17.—The Rocky Mountain News says editorially that the representatives of Colorado in the national gathering of the Democratic party will walk out of the hall and out of the party unless the platform contains an unqualified declaration for free coinage and the candidate is suited to the platform.

A Carroll Boom.

LOWELL, Mass., April 17.—At the Democratic caucuses last night a resolution was adopted deprecating the "machine methods of the state committee," and the delegates were instructed to "fight against the machine nominations." Well-informed Democrats say that the instruction given in the caucus means the selection as their candidate for a national delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention, James B. Carroll of Springfield, and, furthermore, if they win, his nomination for governor in the fall.

An Important Capture.

LONDON, April 17.—Two men, whose real names the London police say are William Turner and William Roberts Dunlop, were arraigned yesterday afternoon, charged with the illegal possession of a quantity of jewelry. The prisoners were remanded into the custody of the police for a week. The two men are undoubtedly either the actual burglars or accomplices of the burglars who robbed I. T. Burden's house in New York city some months ago. They were arrested yesterday on information received by the Scotland Yard from New York. On arrival at the station the men were searched, and 28 uncut diamonds, valued at £3000, were found in their pockets. They refused to give any explanation. The police found in their lodgings jewelry to the value, as they say, of £40,000. The other jewelry was sown up in belts and in the linings of their clothes. The police says the jewelry corresponds to the description of that stolen from Mrs. Burden, and they think all that was missing has been recovered.

Fruitless Conferences.

WINNIPEG, April 17.—The Manitoba legislature was formally prorogued yesterday. Touching on the school question, Governor Patterson said: "Since your last adjournment my government have met the commissioners lately appointed by the Dominion government to confer upon the educational question at issue between the two governments. The interviews were of the most harmonious nature, but the commissioners of the Dominion government did not consider themselves at liberty to accept the propositions made by the government, and I regret to say, therefore, no settlement was effected."

The Nicaraguan Rebellion.

MANAGUA, April 17.—A telegram from Magarote says that a messenger from the rebels is now on his way to this city bearing a message from the leaders of the revolt to United States Minister Baker. It is supposed here that they want Mr. Baker to intervene and arrange peace between the contestants. The only terms that President Zelaya has, up to this time, been willing to consider are unconditional surrender on the part of the armed forces and the giving up for trial of the leaders. The progress of events recently has been steadily against the rebel cause.

Palpable Fraud.

MADRID, April 17.—The figures of the poll at Madrid give more votes than registered electors. The Marquis Cabrinana was not elected. He only obtained 14,000 votes, and has protested, contending that votes in his favor were given to other candidates. It was the marquis who brought the sensational charges of fraud against the municipal council which resulted in a riot and considerable legal complications. The arts and crafts guilds demand that the elections be annulled.

Verdict For $330,275.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Dudley Porter of Haverhill, Mass., in a suit against J. M. Sigafus for $1,000,000, secured a verdict in the United States circuit court for $330,275. The plaintiff charged that the defendant sold him a gold mine in Riverside county, Cal., and misrepresented its character. The defendant was given a stay for 30 days.

Newfoundland's Resources.

MONTREAL, April 17.—George F. Bearns, a prominent business man of St. John's, N. F., who has been here for several days, has formed a company to develop the oil properties of the colony. Tests show the yield to be rich and of good quality. The coalfield discovered by the government survey is likely to be developed this season.

Burghers on the Alert.

LONDON, April 17.—A dispatch from Johannesburg points out the threatening condition of affairs in the South African republic. It says that while President Kruger's policy is to dissuade England from displaying force in South Africa on the plea that it might excite the burghers, the Transvaal is arming to the teeth.

Porte Breaks Its Word.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 17.—Mahmoud Pasha, a Mussulman, has been appointed governer of Zeitoon, in defiance of the Zeitoon agreement, which stipulated that the governor of that place should be a Christian, and the assurance given by the porte to the six protesting powers that the stipulation would be carried out.

Outpointed by Choynski.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Sharkey managed to last three rounds with Choynski and was given the decision. He was frightfully punished by Choynski. In the first round Sharkey fouled Choynski and the police stopped the fight for 20 minutes. At the end of that time Choynski went on with the contest.

At the boxing exhibition at St. John, N. B., the police arrested Dan Scott and Archie Green on a charge of prize fighting.

The American Railway association elected E. T. D. Myers of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad as its president.

Charles M. Murphy, the professional bicyclist, has deposited with The American Wheelman $100 to bind a match between himself and Walter C. Sanger of Milwaukee.

The international copyright conference opened at Paris, 29 nations being represented. M. Bourgeois, the premier, made a speech of welcome and M. de Freycinet was elected president.

The funeral service of the late Baron von Schrader, who fell in a duel with Count von Kotze, was held at Potsdam. There were elaborate wreaths from a great portion of the court society.

Red Men's Birthday.

Red Men in large numbers trailed to the wigwam of Hodenosaunee tribe of Wollaston on Thursday sleep to assist in celebrating the first anniversary of the institution of the tribe. Coming from Rockport, Milford, Lawrence, Braintree, Boston and other hunting grounds.

As soon as the order of business was finished, stumps were prepared and the paleface game of whist was started, all present participating. When the game ended it was found that Sachem J. A. Jordon had made the largest number of points and won first prize. Chief J. F. McLeod won second and Past Sachem W. A. Boern, of Rockport, third. Meanwhile the hunters of the tribe had been scouting the forest and returned with a bountiful stock of corn and venison, which was disposed of by the hungry Red Men, and long and short talks were made by all present. The visitors all expressed a wish to assist Hodenosaunee at some other birthday.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. Quincy, March 5, 1896.

BY Virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment in favor of G. B. Bates of Quincy against Martin W. Frolund of said Quincy, at the East Norfolk District Court, for said County, I this day seized and took all the right, title and interest the within-named Martin W. Frolund had on the thirteenth day of February, A. D., 1896, at twenty minutes past five o'clock P. M. (this being the time when the same was attached on mesne process), in and to the following described parcel of real estate, viz.:

A certain parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth, called Montclair, and comprising the lot numbered thirty-one (31), as shown on the plan dated March 16, 1892, H. T. Whitman, surveyor, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 664. Said parcel is bounded and described as follows, viz.: Northerly on lot thirty (30), ninety (90) feet; easterly on land of owners unknown, fifty (50) feet; southerly on lot thirty-two (32), ninety (90) feet; westerly on Montclair avenue, fifty (50) feet; and containing forty-five hundred (4500) square feet of land, and on the twenty-seventh day of April next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, at my residence, No. 53 Franklin street, Quincy, in said County, I shall offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the aforesaid right, title and interest of said Martin W. Frolund, to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale.

PURSUANT to a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by William A. Smith to Richard D. Chase, dated Feb. 7, 1894, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, libro 712, folio 383, and for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, will be sold at Public Auction on the premises, on MONDAY, May 4, 1895, at four o'clock P. M. Said premises in said mortgage deed are described as follows, viz.:

A certain lot of land, with the buildings thereon, situated in said Quincy, and numbered 27 on a plan made by Whitman and Breck, recorded with Norfolk Plans in Plan Book No. 11, Plan 461, and bounded and described as follows: Northeasterly on lot 28, one hundred [100] feet; southeasterly on Trafford street, sixty [60] feet; southwesterly on lot 26, one hundred [100] feet; and northwesterly on lot 48, now or formerly owned by Edward J. Martin, sixty [60] feet. Containing 6,000 square feet of land. Subject to prior mortgage for Twenty-four Hundred Dollars. Being the same premises conveyed to me by Adams Real Estate Trust, deed dated March 8, 1893, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, libro 701, folio 368.

Said premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes.

Terms: Cash at time and place of sale.

RICHARD D. CHASE,
Mortgagee.

HOBART OF NEW JERSEY

Pushed Forward as an Available Candidate For Vice President.

TRENTON, April 17.—The Republicans of New Jersey met here in convention yesterday afternoon and unanimously elected the slated candidates, William J. Sewell, Garrett A. Hobart, John Kean, Jr., and Franklin Murphy, as delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention, with Congressman Loudenslager, C. E. Breckenridge, Barker Gummere and Charles A. Reed as alternates.

The delegates were not instructed regarding the presidential nomination, but the platform contained a strong recommendation of Garrett A. Hobart as an available man for the vice presidency. Some friends of Mr. Hobart, led by Congressman McEwan, endeavored to secure the adoption of a specific endorsement of McKinley, but the leaders regarded such hampering of the delegates as impolitic, and hurriedly adjourned the convention, after tabling the proposition.

The principle interest in the platform centered in the money plank, which declared for a gold standard.

The friends of Mr. Hobart declare that his candidacy for vice president will be vigorously pushed. They recognize, however, that if an eastern man heads the ticket, his chances are weakened, and it was for this reason that some of his friends endeavored to secure the endorsement of McKinley.

Do Not Despair because you have tried many medicines and have failed to receive benefit. Remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail to do any good whatever.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Harmless, reliable, sure.

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO all persons interested in the trusts under a certain written instrument, dated Feb. 28, 1891, from Mary A Leake, then of Chelsea, Mass., now of Quincy, Mass., to John J. Underhill of Chelsea, in the County of Suffolk lately deceased.

Whereas, said Mary A. Leake has presented to said Court her petition, praying that for reasons therein stated the trusts created by said instrument may be now terminated and annulled.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Hyde Park, in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-second day of April, A. D., 1896, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the QUINCY DAILY LEDGER, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, George White, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-six.

FIRES ON THE CAPE

Threaten to Get Entirely Beyond the Control of Villagers.

Thousands of Acres Already Burned Over.

Monstrous Wall of Flame Being Fought Under Great Difficulties.

SANDWICH, Mass., April 17.—The fires in this vicinity have increased alarmingly, extending for 16 miles across country. The men fighting the fire are nearly exhausted. Food is being conveyed to the woods for them. Several men were compelled to run through the flames yesterday to get out of the way of the fire. Several houses have been burned. The summer residence of Dr. Wesselhœft, at the head of the upper lake, was totally destroyed. A house at South Sandwich and two houses at Cataumet have also been destroyed.

Twice has a general alarm been sounded in Sandwich. The first one was at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, when the entire town turned out, as the flames were threatening the community's destruction. There was little sleep for the 2000 souls, as they knew by previous experiences the dangers from a woodland fire.

Again at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Selectman Howland, who is in charge of the fire-fighters, was thoroughly aroused to the imminence of the danger, for the fire had crept up even nearer than the night before.

Now there is even more cause for alarm. The flames, which were forking from Falmouth toward Sagamore, have taken a new course, and are creeping toward this town. The fire is little more than a mile distant, and the smoke is so thick as to Compel People to Grope.

In another direction the fire has spread, and started on the outskirts of East Sandwich. The fire-fighters say it will reach there, or West Barnstable, a mile away, before long.

A southeast wind is blowing at the rate of 25 miles and fans the flames. All of 10,000 acres have been burned over, and the standing timber, owned by not less than 1000 different persons, will be a total loss, reaching $75,000, and there certainly will be more wood destroyed.

It is the belief that the fire will not burn itself out until it has reached the extreme end of the cape to the east and south, as many more acres of timber lay on both sides of its path.

It was an innocent bonfire at Cataumet that has caused all Cape Cod to be alarmed. It is said that a Dr. Williams was the one who was the innocent cause of the catastrophe by igniting some brush in his back yard. The wind was blowing east from his place and the woods were invitingly near. They at once caught fire.

In New Hampshire.

NEWMARKET, N. H., April 17.—Two hundred acres of valuable timber land were burned over yesterday by a fire which was set by the careless burning over of a pasture. The fire is still burning, and men are working hard to prevent the flames from sweeping over a large lot of sawed lumber. The damage will reach several thousand dollars.

Victims of Brush Fires.

SOUTH MANCHESTER, Conn., April 17.—Rev. John B. Griswold, a retired Congregational clergyman, was burned to death yesterday while burning brush at his farm here. Mr. Griswold's clothing accidentally caught fire from the burning brush. He was evidently on his way to a spring to get water when he was overcome. He was 70 years old.

WESTERLY, R. I., April 17.—Henry C. Burdick, aged 85 years, was burned to death yesterday while endeavoring to extinguish a brush fire on his farm. When relatives found his body, the flesh and bones had been burned to a crisp.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 17.—The house rejected the bill to provide in Boston that 12 candidates for aldermen shall be nominated and elected at large. The house killed the bill allowing the transfer of fraternal beneficiary certificates. The senate passed the bill making the salary of a common councilman in Boston $300 annually. In the senate, Mr. Darling gave notice that he should introduce an order for an investigation of the county commissioners of Norfolk county in a few days.

Youngsters' Peculiar Theft.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 17.—The police here are searching for six boys who drove the team of Thomas M. Guydon from Prospect street three miles to Brighton. The Brighton police found the wagon and harness in the road, near the abbatoir, and learned that the boys had led the horse to the abbatoir, where they said the horse was a kicker and sold him for $2. The horse was killed there yesterday afternoon, and the boys are at liberty.

Two New Mills.

PROVIDENCE, April 17.—The Grosvenordale company, this city, will begin the erection at once of two stone mills, 300 feet long. One will be located at Grosvenordale, and the other at North Grosvenordale; they will cost $750,000, and employ 1000 people in the manufacture of cotton goods.

At Least Three Years.

BOSTON, April 17.—Charles Stezelecki, the Pole, who committed 23 burglaries in the Back Bay district and in whose behalf Dr. Edward E. Hale testified, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Bond to not more than 15 and not less than three years in the state prison.

Held by Spaniards.

HABANA, April 17.—Police have detained the Protestant bishop, Alberto Jesus Diaz, who had received a call, and his brother, Alfredo Victoriano Diaz. These two men are naturalized Americans. The police report that they found in their possession certain insurgent documents.

Czarewitch Is Sinking.

NICE, April 17.—The czarewitch, Grand Duke George of Russia, who has consumption, has had a relapse, and he spits blood constantly. Royal personages from all over Europe are constantly telegraphing here for news of the patient's condition.

Ex-King Coming.

LONDON, April 17.—The Standard announces that ex-King Milan of Servia will start in May for a tour of the United States, which may extend to San Francisco and around the world.

CRANKS OUT IN FORCE.

Twenty-Three Thousand People Saw Boston Beat Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Twenty-three thousand people saw the Phillies beaten by Boston in the opening game of the League championship season. It was the largest crowd ever collected on a Philadelphia ball field, and thousands were clamoring for admission when the gates were closed in their faces. Many purchased tickets who failed to get in. Every seat was occupied and thousands stood.

The Phillies were outplayed in all departments of the game and were really beaten from the start. The Boston team played almost perfect. Nichols pitched good ball from start to finish, keeping the hits so well scattered that they amounted to little in the way of runs.

Murderer Holmes Baptized.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—H. H. Holmes was baptized and received into the Catholic church yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. J. Daily, pastor of the Church of the Annunciation, in Holmes' cell in Moyamensing prison. After a brief conversation of a general nature, Father Daily began his brief preparations for the ceremony. The white surplice and stole, which are always worn during the Catholic baptismal service, had been brought to the prison. These were donned by Father Daily, who then proceeded to receive from Holmes the confession of faith. The condemned man went through the ceremony slowly and solemnly. His responses were made in a firm voice.

The Blue and the Gray.

BALTIMORE, April 17.—"The first defenders," survivors of that handful of Pennsylvania soldiers who were mobbed in this city 35 years ago, while on their way to join the Union troops at Washington, marched here again yesterday, the honored guests of the people who attacked them in times gone by. The visitors were met by a delegation of Baltimoreans, headed by Governor Lowndes, Mayor Hooper, Adjutant General Wilmes and committees from both branches of councils.

Charges Were Groundless.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The secretary of the treasury has approved the proceedings and findings of the board which investigated allegations of drunkenness, immorality and incompetency against Second Lieutenant Daniels and First Assistant Engineer Dorry of the revenue cutter service. These officers, after an exhaustive investigation, were honorably acquitted of all allegations against them.

Worried Over Press Attacks.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 17.—It is probable that the counsel for the defense in the case of bank directors will move in the supreme court in the matter of the sensational attacks which are being made upon the bank directors by a section of the press, with the purpose, it is alleged, of influencing the grand jury to find true bills against the directors. There is great anxiety to know the outcome.

SACRED CONFIDENCE.

No Woman's Letter Published Except by Request.

Mrs. Pinkham's Tender Relations With the Suffering of Her Sex—Women Who Cannot Hide Their Happiness.

There is a class of women who, from their own experience, sympathize with their suffering sisters, and in order that such suffering may be lessened, nobly put aside false modesty and in heartfelt gratitude publish to the world what every woman should know.

Mrs. W. L. Elliott, Liscomb, Iowa, is one of those women, and has requested us to publish the facts in her case, otherwise it would not be done, as all such evidence is treated in sacred confidence, unless publication is requested by the writer.

She says to Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish you would publish the circumstances of my case, in order that other women may be benefited by my experience.

"I doctored nearly all the time for two years. I spent several hundred dollars without receiving much benefit. Last June I wrote to you and described all my aches and pains. Such a long list as there was: headache, backache, bearing-down pains, terrible soreness, constipation, dizziness, feeling of extreme lassitude, irregularity and nausea; but you answered my letter and told me just what to do. I followed your advice.

"After taking eight bottles of the Vegetable Compound and three bottles of Blood Purifier, I am glad to write you that I have not enjoyed such good health for years, and I am able to do all my own work. I can surely sound the praises of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and a number of my friends are taking it upon my recommendation."—MRS. W. L. ELLIOTT, Liscomb, Iowa.

The dancing class of Miss O'Brien closed last evening with a very successful ball given at Faxon hall. From 7 to 9 an exhibition was given by the pupils, and the young misses in light dresses mostly white made a charming spectacle which delighted about 200 parents and friends. The dances by these young people included the two step, heel and toe, lanciers, polka glide (German), Varsouvienna, baby polka, Portland fancy and Amsterdam. After refreshments of cream and cake served by Wales, all present were given an opportunity to dance, delightful music being furnished by Miss Jennie Alden of Boston. Mayor Adams was invited to be present, but was unable to be there, and sent his regrets.

How uncomfortable the people did look in those wooden kitchen chairs at the musical society's concert, Tuesday evening. Oh, for a hall with comfortable opera chairs, would be the cry no longer, if some of our enterprising citizens could only be induced to sit on those chairs for several nights.

The Crystal whist club met Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. William S. Glover on High street and the evening proved to be one of unusual enjoyment. Whist was enjoyed for two hours, being followed by refreshments.

Miss Mabel Elliott, of Boston, has been the guest of Miss Louise M. Cook for the past few days.

* * *

Miss Carrie F. Spear favored the audience at the Congregational church Thursday evening with two of Schumann's songs. They were so enthusiastically received she responded in a very pleasing manner with "Coming through the Rye." Quincy can well boast of her musical talent.

* * *

Miss Rose M. McLeod, a very popular young lady employe of the Tubular Rivet & Stud Co., Wollaston, leaves today for her home in Spring Hill, Nova Scotia. During the short time that she has been here, she made many friends, and this feeling of sincere friendship was made manifest Friday afternoon, when she was presented with a gold neck-chain, beautiful moonstone ring, and silver link bracelet, Miss Sadie Bradshaw of Neponset locking the bracelet upon her arm. All Miss McLeod friends both in Wollaston and Quincy wish her a pleasant journey.

Mrs. Lyman Chick of Roxbury is making a pleasant visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Hathaway, on Franklin street, Braintree.

Mrs. Muirhead of Edinburgh, Scotland, is coming here to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah P. Quincy.

Miss Carlena Walker daughter of Mr. James Walker celebrated her eighth birthday anniversary Friday, by entertaining a few of her many young friends and neighbors at her parents' home. The entertainment which was unique and successful and which was very pleasing, if encores count for anything, was under the supervision of Professor Brewster Walker and consisted of selections from "Father Gander's Melodies" and a lecture the "Frog who would a wooing go," the latter being beautifully illustrated with a magic lantern. Miss Carlena was the recipient of a number of presents, among which was a parlor suit of five pieces, upholstered in plush, the presentation speech being made in a masterly manner by Prof. Brewster Walker, who although but five years of age gave good evidence of future oratorical powers which some day may resound through the halls of Congress. Many congratulations were showered upon Miss Carlena upon her return to health from her recent illness and well wishes for the the future.

The following notice in Harper's Bazar about one of our most indefatigable students will will be of interest to her many friends in this city. Miss Mary Parker Follett, of Radcliffe College, has prepared what is probably the longest and most elaborate paper ever written by a woman on a historical matter concerning the United States government. The subject of the monograph is "The Speaker of the House of Representatives," and Miss Follett has spent several years in work upon it. The book will contain about four hundred pages.

Mr. Eugene M. Carter and family of Wollaston are soon to become residents of Winter Hill, Somerville.

Only very lately has a musical taste been developed in Quincy that will give us music by native talent. Heretofore, we have had the trouble of going to Boston for concerts. While the Quincy Musical club is young, the members are doing good work, and with wise handling much can be expected from them in the future. They deserve praise and encouragement for what they are doing and a gentle hint as to where they most need improvement. From the first to the last of their concerts a gain was made. They need shadding, toning down, to be held back, rather than crowded as to volume, quantity of tone. This can not be better understood by laymen, than for them to compare the execution and artistic management of voice in Mr. Hawkins with that of other soloists. Mrs. Hunting also has this, a refinement of intonation that is sometimes a natural gift, and is not always secured by training. Teachers, conductors, fail as often as vocalists themselves, so we get poorer results than one might by critical work. So we say, please Mr. Conductor Dudley repress the exuberance of your chorus a degree. A young new chorus has the same failing that an untrained singer has; it does too well as to volume of tone pitch and even time; but the best quality is lost. Will our Quincy chorus accept this in a friendly spirit that is loyal to home talent, and faithful as a friend who will be sincere in helping them to better results as time goes on.

Patriots' Day at Coddington.

The teachers and pupils of the Coddington school have always been prominent in observing in an appropriate manner all historic days and therefore they naturally observed Patriots' day in a most fitting manner Friday afternoon. It was generally admitted by all who were present to have been the most successful in every way of any previous observance held in this building.

The exercises practically commenced just before the opening of the afternoon session, when the pupils assembled in the yard and raised a new flag to the masthead with three rousing cheers.

The exercises proper were then held in the several rooms, those of the primary grades between 2 and 2.30, the C and D grammar between 2.30 and 3, and the A and B grammar between 3 and 4. The rooms were appropriately decorated with flags, large and small, and besides these there was in each room a large portrait of the late Gov. Greenhalge, which was appropriately draped with the nationa colors. In the upper rooms the blackboards were covered with pictures representing historic scenes and incidents, and on each desk with the staff in the ink well was a small flag.

The exercises were largely attended by the parents and friends of the pupils, much interest being taken in the new kindergarten school in the lower grade.

The exercises in the lower grades were of an appropriate nature consisting of songs and recitations, and even the youngest seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion.

In the upper grades while the guests were entering, there was singing and gymnastic exercises. After all had been seated the following programme was carried out.

Song, "Onr Country," School.
Recitation, "Lexington," Arabella Murphy.
Declamation, "Paul Revere's Ride," (new version) Harry Field.
Song, "Hail Columbia," School.
Declamation, "Who was He," Joel Sheppard.
Recitation, "The Battle of Lexington," Florence Howe.
Singing, (a) "Merrily Trip and Go," (b) "Sweet and Peaceful."
Declamation, "The Minute Men of '75," James Haley.
Recitation, "A story of an April day," Florence Newcomb.
Song by a group of ten boys, "Yankee Doodle."
Recitation, "The 19th of April," Cora Greer.
Composition, "Patriots' Day," John Brooks Keyes.
Concert recitation, "By the rude bridge that arched the flood."
Declamation, "The Buff and the Blue," David White.
Song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," School.
Recitation, "The color Guard," Jennie Harris.

This number was very nicely executed by Miss Harris, who as she recited stood with a flag in her right hand, and after reciting a few lines she would sing a stanza of the "Star Spangled Banner," and at its close the school arose and saluted the flag.

Brief remarks of an interesting nature were then made by Dr. H. C. Hallowell, Mr. Edwin W. Marsh and Mr. James F. Merrill.

At the conclusion of the exercises the children of the entire building marched into the yard and saluted Old Glory.

Castle Square Highly Praised.

John Knowles Paine, Professor of music in Harvard University says in the course of an interview in the April issue of Music: "I am heartily in favor of opera in our own language, and do what I can for it. Now, take that company at the Castle Square. Miss Lane deserves as much credit for her work as does Mme. Melba. Seldom in my life have I found so sweet and sympathetic a voice as hers. Her Marguerite was a revelation. While that company remains there, there is a proof of what can be done by American artists, trained in America, singing in America, in the American language.

Next week, grand opera will have the stage again, and it will be good news to many that the opera selected for production is Gounod's "Faust." This opera is an extraordinrry favorite, and a great week is assured. The features of the Castle Square production is the wonderful electrical effects, which surpass anything of the kind ever seen in Boston.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Wheelmen will meet tonight for final organization. They are planning to run to Dedham Monday.

The rooms will be open all day Monday. Cycle riders will find a good storage room for their wheels and plenty of good ice water to drink.

"No man on the Fence" will be the subject of Evangelist Martin's address at the men's mass meeting, Sunday at 3 30, in the Presbyterian church, South Quincy.

Evangelist Martin will preach in the Washington street Congregational church Sunday morning and the Centre Congregational church in the evening.

A number of Sloyd models made by Carl Lewis, an eleven-year-old boy, in the Y. M. C. A. Sloyd school are on exhibition in the window of the Granite Shoe Store. One of the pieces is a hatchet handle, which is a beauty. Visitors are always welcome at the session in the Association rooms Saturday afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock.

THE "OUT OF DATE" COUPLE.

We are "so out of date," they say,
  Ned and I:
We love in an old fashioned way,
  Long since gone by.
He says I am his helpmate true
  In everything.
And I—well, I will own to you
  He is my king.

We met in no romantic way
  'Twixt "glow and gloom."
He wooed me on a winter day
  And in—a room.
Yet, through life's hours of stress and storm,
  When griefs befell,
Love kept our small home corner warm,
  And all was well.

Ned thinks no woman like his wife—
  But let that pass;
Perhaps we view the dual life
  Through roseate glass;
Even if the prospect be not bright,
  We hold it true
The heaviest burdens may grow light
  When shared by two.

Upon the gilded scroll of fame,
  Emblazoned fair,
I cannot hope to read the name
  I proudly bear;
But, happy in their even flow,
  The years glide by.
We are behind the times, we know,
  Ned and I.

—Chambers' Journal.

THE WILL.

I knew this tall young man who was called Rene de Bourneval. He was very agreeable in company, although a trifle sad, seeming to dislike everything, very skeptical—a formal and biting skepticism—clever especially in laying bare in one word worldly hypocrisies. He often repeated, "There are no virtuous men—or at least they are only relatively temperate."

He had two brothers whom he did not visit, the MM. de Courcils. On account of their different names I believed him the offspring of a second marriage. I had been told on several occasions that a strange story had happened in this family, but no details had been given me.

This man being entirely agreeable to me, we were soon good friends. One evening, after I had dined with him, I accidentally asked him, "Were you the offspring of your mother's first or second marriage?" I saw him turn slightly pale, then blush, and he remained some seconds without speaking, visibly embarrassed. Then he smiled in a sweet and melancholy manner which was peculiar to him and said: "My dear friend, if it does not tire you, I will give you some singular details of my parentage. I know you for an intelligent man. I do not therefore fear your friendship for me will suffer, and if it should suffer I should no longer care to have you for a friend.

"My mother, Mme. de Courcils, was a poor, timid little woman, whom her husband had married for her fortune. Her whole life was a martyrdom. Affectionate, fearful, delicate, she was ill treated without intermission by him who should have been my father, one of those churls who are called country gentlemen. After they had been married a month he lived with a servant. He had besides for mistresses the wives and daughters of his tenants. This did not prevent his wife from having two children; including myself, three should be reckoned. My mother said nothing. She lived in that ever noisy house like those little mice that slip in and out under the furniture. Effacing herself, flying away, trembling, she looked at people with her clear, restless eyes, which, always in motion, looked scared with the fear that never left them. She was still pretty, very pretty—very fair with a grayish fairness, a timid fairness, as if her hair had faded a little from her incessant fear.

"Among the friends of M. de Courcils who came frequently to the castle was an old cavalry officer, a widower, a formidable man, tender and violent, capable of the most energetic resolves—M. de Bourneval, whose name I bear. He was a tall, spare fellow, with a heavy black mustache. I resemble him very much. This man had read and thought far more than those of his class. His great-grandmother had been a lover of Jean Jacques Rousseau, and it was said that he had inherited something from this connection of his ancestress. He knew by heart the 'Social Contract,' the 'New Heloise' and all those philosophical books which have prepared beforehand the future overthrow of our ancient customs, of our prejudices, our obsolete laws, our foolish morals.

"He loved my mother, it appeared, and was loved by her. This affair was kept so secret that no one suspected it. The poor woman, sad and abandoned, clung to him desperately and imbibed all his habits of thought, theories of free opinion, boldness of independent love; but, as she was so timid that she never dared speak loudly, all of it was driven back, condensed, pressed into her heart, which was never opened.

"My two brothers were harsh toward her, like my father—did not caress her—and, accustomed to seeing that she did not count for anything in the house, treated her almost like a servant.

"I was the only one of her sons who really loved her and whom she loved.

"She died. I was then 18. I ought to add, in order that you may understand what is to follow, that, by legal advice, her husband had been provided for, and she had retained her own separate estate, having, thanks to the artifices of the law and the intelligent devotion of a notary, preserved the right to make her will as she pleased.

"We were, therefore, informed by this notary that a will existed and invited to be present at its reading.

"I recall it as if it were yesterday. It was a grand, dramatic, burlesque, surprising scene, called forth by the posthumous revolt of the dead woman, by this cry of liberty, this claim from the depth of the grave of this martyr crushed by our morals during her life. From her shut coffin she threw a despairing appeal toward independence.

"He who believed himself my father, a stout, plethoric man, who put one in mind of a butcher, and my brothers, two robust fellows of 20 and 22, waited tranquilly on their seats. M. de Bourneval, who was invited to be present, entered and placed himself behind me. His frock coat was buttoned tightly. He was very pale, and he often nibbled his mustache, now a little grizzled. He doubtless expected what was coming.

"The notary double locked the door and commenced the reading, after having in our presence broken the red wax seal of the envelope, of whose contents he was ignorant."

Suddenly my friend was silent, rose and took from his secretary an old paper, unfolded it, kissed it for a long time and resumed. "Here is the last will of my dearly loved mother:

" 'I, the undersigned, Anne-Catherine Genevieve Mathilde de Croixluce, lawful wife of Jean Leopold Joseph Gontran de Courcils, being of sound mind and body, do hereby make my last will.

" 'I ask forgiveness of God above, and then of my dear son Rene, for what I am now going to do. I think my child is stout hearted enough to understand and to forgive me. I have suffered all my life. I was married from considerations of advantage and was afterward despised, disregarded, oppressed and deceived unceasingly by my husband.

" 'I forgive him, but I owe him nothing.

" 'My elder sons have not loved me, have not caressed me, have scarcely treated me like a mother.

" 'I have been to them during my life all I should have been; after my death I no longer owe them anything. The ties of blood do not continue without the constant, sacred affection of each day. An ungrateful son is less than a stranger. He is a culprit, for he has not the right to be indifferent to his mother.

" 'I have always trembled before mankind, before their iniquitous laws, their inhuman customs, their infamous prejudices. Before God, I no longer fear. Dead, I throw away from me that shameful hypocrisy; I dare to utter my thoughts and to openly avow the secrets of my heart.

" 'Therefore I leave in trust the whole of that part of my fortune of which the law permits me to dispose to my dearly loved lover, Pierre Germer Simon de Bourneval, afterward to revert to our dear son Rene.'

(This will has been drawn up in addition, in a more formal manner, by a notary.)

" 'And before the Supreme Judge, who hears me, I declare that I should have cursed heaven and my existence if I had not found the deep, devoted, tender, unshaken affection of my lover, if I had not learned in his arms that the Creator has made human beings to love, to sustain and to console each other and to weep together in hours of bitterness.

" 'My two eldest sons are the children of M. de Courcils. Rene alone owes his existence to M. de Bourneval. I pray the Ruler of mankind and their destinies to place the father and son above social prejudices, to make them love each other until their death, and love me still in my grave.

" 'Such are my last thoughts and my last desire.'

"M. de Courcils had risen. He cried, 'That is the will of a mad woman.' Then M. de Bourneval stepped forward and declared in a loud and decisive voice: 'I, Simon de Bourneval, declare that this writing contains only the strict truth. I am ready to prove it by letters in my possession.'

"Then M. de Courcils walked toward him. I thought they would seize each other by the collar. There they stood, both tall, the one stout, the other spare, quivering. The husband of my mother stammeringly articulated, 'You are a villain!' The other said, in a dry, vigorous tone: 'We will meet in another place, monsieur. I should have affronted and provoked you a long time ago if I had not valued above all else the tranquillity during her life of the poor woman whom you have made to suffer so much.'

"Then he turned toward me: 'You are my son. Will you come with me? I have not the right to take you away, but I will take you if you wish to accompany me.'

"I pressed his hand without answering. Indeed, I was almost overcome.

"Two days later M. de Bourneval killed M. de Courcils in a duel. My brothers, afraid of a frightful scandal, kept silence. I transferred to them and they accepted their share of the fortune left by my mother.

"I took the name of my true father, renouncing that which the law gave and which was not mine.

"M. de Bourneval died five years ago. I have not yet found consolation for my grief."

He rose, took several steps, and, placing himself in front of me, said: "Well, I say that my mother's will was one of the most beautiful, most loyal, grandest things a woman could accomplish. Is not that your opinion?"

I stretched out both hands to him, "Yes, surely, my friend."—Guy de Maupassant.

New Orleans Tennis Courts.

"I was walking out St. Charles avenue this morning," said a northern visitor, "and I saw several tennis courts, the lines of which were marked out on the sward by grass of a different color from that which carpeted the court. I made inquiries about the matter and found that nearly all the New Orleans tennis grounds were marked off in that way. It is a very pretty idea, and one that I have never seen anywhere else." — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Prelate's Eloquence.

In 1104, when Henry I was in Normandy, a prelate named Serlo preached so eloquently against the fashion of wearing long hair that the monarch and his courtiers were moved to tears.

Taking advantage of the impression he had produced, the enthusiastic prelate whipped a pair of scissors out of his sleeves and cropped the whole congregation.—London Fun.

DREAMS OF DRESS.

The sack back coat is already with us, endeavoring to oust the ripple back, fitted variety of past seasons.

Four and one-half or five yards is now the limit of best made skirts that appear most graceful and look the most finished and artistic.

The prettiest trimmings for the new grass linens, batistes, chambrays, ginghams and zephyrs are the openwork embroideries wrought upon the goods themselves.

A very easy and charming way to freshen a black, white or colored silk or satin bodice is to cover it with an overwaist of chiffon the shade of the bodice, or, if liked, of a contrasting color.

Spangled and sequined garnitures ad infinitum still hold the place of honor beside elegant laces and chiffon draperies on "dress" toilets and costumes for the coming spring and summer.

A marked feature of the modes of the new season is the lavish decoration about the neck ruches, ruffs and frills of gauze plaited lisse or chiffon; also bows of plain or fancy ribbon and of enormous size.

There is a whisper—a sort of stage whisper—that hip pads in watteau fashion are surely to be worn. If this be true, then we may look for rather startling revelations regarding new dress skirts for summer wear.

Even the tweeds and cheviots for spring have caught the color craze and display many gorgeous dyes, and the staid serges and mohairs show a reckless tendency to frivolity, with their gay chameleon patterns, Dresden devices and dashes of brilliant color.

Medium priced crepons have been sold this week at greatly reduced rates, for fashion has nominated mohair and alpaca to reign in the place of these pretty and stylish fabrics. The new alpacas are unattractive as to texture, looking like canvas.—New York Post.

THE EYE.

Brown eyes are said by oculists to be the strongest.

The eyes should not be used in weakness or sickness.

Unsteady eyes, rapidly jerking from side to side, are frequently indicative of an unsettled mind.

It is said that the prevailing colors of eyes among patients of lunatic asylums are brown or black.

Eyes placed close together in the head are said to indicate pettiness of disposition, jealousy and a turn for fault finding.

All men of genius are said to have eyes clear, slow moving and bright. This is the eye which indicates mental ability of some kind, it does not matter what.

The ostrich is believed to see objects behind him as well as those in front. Persons standing directly behind an ostrich can see the pupils of his eyes, and are thus easily seen by the animal.

Bach became blind through a weakness of the eyes contracted when a boy. He copied a musical manuscript by moonlight, and thus caused a weakness which troubled him all his life and finally destroyed his sight.

The contraction and dilation of the pupil of the eye is one of the most wonderful operations of nature. It is effected, automatically and unconsciously, by a series of muscles, which contract or expand the opening in the center of the iris.

POINTS FOR PIANO PLAYERS.

Too much pedal in playing is worse than none at all.

Do not place books on the piano if it can be avoided. It tends to deaden the tone of the instrument.

Never place your piano close against the wall. It will sound much better if drawn out into the room. If this is not possible, allow a space of 8 to 12 inches between it and the wall.

If you love your piano, do not allow bric-a-brac to rest upon it. It is in wretched taste; besides it is often the cause of an unpleasant rattling while the instrument is being used.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 19. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—What should we be doing to save the lost?—Luke xv, 1 10. (A temperance topic.)

The Lord Jesus Christ came into the world to seek and to save the lost. It was for this He left heaven. It was for this He lived upon earth. It was for this He died upon Calvary's cross. That this was His mission to this world is illustrated in the topical reference. Christ is associating with the lowest classes of people, the publicans and sinners, when He is upbraided for so doing by the scribes and Pharisees. In answer He speaks the three parables of this chapter—the lost sheep, the lost coin and the prodigal son—to illustrate the fact that He came to seek and to save the lost.

Christ's mission should be the Christian's mission. If He lived to save the lost, we should live to save the lost, for if we truly dedicate ourselves to Christ we are crucified with Him and live no longer, but He lives in us.

Christ's method of work should also be ours. He should be our guide and our model in all things. Therefore what He did to save the lost we should be doing to save them. What did Christ do to save the lost as represented in these parables?

1. He loved the lost. The shepherd loved the lost sheep, because it was dear to him and was of value to him. Christ loved sinners. He loved us so much that He died for us. We must hate men's sins, but we must love men and their souls before we can lead them to salvation.

2. Christ went to search for the lost. He did not go to the temple and say, "Here we have a beautiful, comfortable building and an interesting and instructive service, and if men want to be saved let them come and be saved." He went after them out in the highways and byways. We must do the same. A lost sheep will not return to the sheepfold. It has to be sought. We must go out and compel men to come in that they may be saved.

3. Christ associated with the lost. He received sinners and ate with them. This many Christian people do not want to do. They may receive them into the church, but they draw the line on eating with them, associating with them upon terms of social equality. What would the world say? What did the world say of Christ? It scoffed at Him; but did He desist? Not he. "The servant is not greater than his lord." If Christ could associate with sinners, in spite of rebuke and scoff, we should do the same if necessary to save them.

Bible Readings.—Isa. xlv, 20-25; lii, 7; Dan. xii, 3; Nah. i, 15; John i, 40-42; iii, 1-8, 14-17; Acts ii, 42-47; iv, 12; viii, 26-39; xvi, 30, 31; Rom. x, 1, 12-15; I Cor. i, 17-21; ix, 19-22; I Tim. iv, 16; Jas. v, 19, 20.

The Prize Banners.

Three prize banners will be awarded at the Washington convention to three Christian Endeavor local unions. The first banner will go to the union making the best showing in the way of definite and practical Christian citizenship work. The second will be awarded to the local union having the largest number of individual members who give not less than one-tenth of their income to God. The third, or fellowship banner, will be secured by the unions organizing the largest number of new Christian Endeavor societies of any kind. Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia respectively secured these banners at the Boston convention. Local unions should send detailed reports of their work to Secretary Baer before June 15.

Free Thought.

Condemn no man for not thinking as you think. Let every one enjoy the full and free liberty of thinking for himself. Let every man use his own judgment, since every man must give an account of himself to God. Abhor every approach in any kind or degree to the spirit of persecution. If you cannot reason or persuade a man into the truth, never attempt to force a man into it. If love will not compel him to come, leave him to God, the judge of all.—John Wesley.

Inexplicable Without God.

The ecstasy that fills us on a day in spring, when through budding boughs we see the shining clouds and the brilliant rain washed blue; the eclipse of happiness in the heart of the child who feels "cross," the willingness of love to one another, and a worthier preferred—these are inexplicable without God.—Coming Day.

Christian Endeavor Jottings.

The Turkish sword evidently has few terrors for Christian Endeavor. During the height of the excitement concerning the Armenian atrocities a Junior Christian Endeavor society was organized at Mersine, Turkey.

Not content with doing remarkable evangelistic work among the heathen of their own town and neighborhood, the Endeavorers of Nellore, India, talk of adding a foreign missionary committee to their working forces. They want to have a share in mission work outside of India.

Brooklyn, which so royally entertained the state Christian Endeavor convention last year, is now in the field for the National Baptist Union convention of 1897.

The stream of Christian Endeavorers faced toward the foreign field increases weekly. Will you be found among them?

"In prison and ye came unto me." This word is fulfilled of hundreds of Christian Endeavor societies throughout the land.

Washington, 1896, will be a convention of conventions. A great number of simultaneous practical sessions are being arranged.

The life of some meetings is impaired by the constant effort to make them "lively." Rather seek spiritually; interest follows earnestness.

HE CAUGHT AT A STRAW.

And Found a Bulwark of Strength and Safety.

C. B. Downs, of the freight department of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Portsmouth, knows what it is to suffer from hunger with food within reach, which he could eat, but not digest. He lives at 39 Daniel Street, and tells his experience in the following words:—

When I was 14 years old I began to be troubled with indigestion, which as I grew up became worse instead of better, until I found it hard to keep any food on my stomach. Everything I ate caused me pain and distress, but I did not look like a dyspeptic and so did not get much sympathy.

I tried as many as a dozen different things, but they all failed to cure me, and like a drowning man I was ready to catch at any straw offering the least hope of rescue. Then I tried Puritana and was not only relieved by it from the pain, but in a short time completely cured of my indigestion. I could eat sausages without their hurting me, and I found that Puritana had given me a new stomach that would digest any food. I believe that I was the first person in

TO MISERY

Portsmouth to use Puritana, but not the last, as I know that since then many people have taken it, with wonderful results.

James H. Crowley, of Concord, N. H., is not only an athlete but one of the fastest amateur runners in the State. What he says below shows how a man's strength will go if the stomach is not right.

I had dyspepsia for years. Sometimes I could hardly stand up, and I could not eat anything without pain and agony. Of course I tried to get relief, but met with failure after failure until there seemed to be no hope left. At last I was persuaded to give Puritana a trial. The result was marvelous. It not only relieved me, but it made me perfectly well. Instead of being doubled up with pain, Puritana has given me a stomach like an ostrich, that will digest almost anything. There is nothing too strong for me to say in favor of Puritana.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Matabeles Massing In Large Numbers In Vicinity of Buluwayo.

Fears That Wholesale Massacre Is Planned.

The Present Situation Regarded as One of Extreme Danger.

CAPE TOWN, April 18.—A Buluwayo dispatch reports that the Matabeles are massing, not only on the north but on the east of Buluwayo, and are sending out looting parties which boldly appear within a half hour's march of the town.

A feeling of apprehension as to what the next step of the revolting Matabeles will be permeates all circles there. Information coming from the country around makes it certain that the natives are preparing an offensive movement against Buluwayo. The number of Matabeles reported gathering at points near by is sufficient to appall the hearts of even experienced fighters. There is a dread in the minds of many that the place is in danger of being overwhelmed by a rush of hordes of Matabeles and the inhabitants put to a wholesale massacre.

The fear of treachery is added to the apprehension of overwhelming numbers. Many indications point to a connivance with the war parties of supposed friendly natives. There are many of the latter in the town itself and no white man feels sure how far he can trust his dusky associates or servants.

On Wednesday evening three Dutch scouts were sent out from Buluwayo to secure some definite and accurate information of the position and movements of the natives. What they found has served little to relieve the anxiety and suspense. They report that the Matabeles are gathered like ants in a hill near Umgasi river, only six miles north.

That some treacherous plot is being concocted is indicated by the fact that native women are secreting European clothes. The native men on the veldt wear the native costume, while most of those in Buluwayo wear clothes approaching the European fashion. By attiring the native warriors in European garments, the Matabeles hope that they will be enabled to enter the town unquestioned.

It is plainly noticeable that the natives in the town are becoming as thick as bees. In ordinary times the natives come and go in the town without attracting attention. The native population is at all times a shifting one, and a large number of the men that make it up are not known individually to the white people of the town or to the authorities. The fact that the natives in the town live apart from the whites adds to the difficulty of identifying

Those Who Belong In the Town.

But there is little more confidence in the natives who belong in the town than in the hostile men, who, it is believed, are being surreptitiously induced to aid from within when an attack shall be made from without. It looks now as though that might occur at any time. The roads by which communication is had with the south, both the one to Tuli and the one to Mafeking, are felt to be in peril. There are undoubtedly large numbers of hostile natives between Buluwayo and the settlements to the south, some of them in open revolt. The situation is felt to be most serious and threatening.

An official dispatch received here from Buluwayo reports the safe arrival there of the coach, indicating that the roads are still open. It is felt that the greatest danger to Buluwayo, unless the natives should muster in crushing force, is that of a possible running short of supplies, of food and of ammunition. The food supply is reported sufficient to last for a month, but there have been appeals for additional supplies of ammunition, which must come from the south and must be two or three weeks on the way, even if the convoy meet with no violence.

The keeping open of communication is, therefore, of first importance. The road for 20 miles south of Buluwayo runs through a difficult and dangerous country, and if the Buluwayo forces are shut up in the town and unable to patrol the road from Buluwayo and Mangwe, 50 miles south, it will, it is believed, be impossible to keep the run open and get through provisions.

Relieving Burghers' Minds.

The apprehension in the mind of the British government that the dispatch of re-enforcements of troops to South Africa may again endanger the strained relations with the Transvaal is indicated by a statement made by Governor Robinson to President Kruger.

Governor Robinson, on behalf of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, explained to President Kruger that the British re-enforcements which are being dispatched to Cape Town and Natal do not imply any change in the friendly policy of the British government toward the Transvaal.

Mr. Chamberlain wishes the Transvaal to be informed of the decision to send troops, the statement continues, because he is aware that efforts may be made to misrepresent the intentions of the imperial government in order to prevent a satisfactory understanding between Great Britain and the Transvaal.

An interview has been published with General Joubert, commander-in-chief of the Transvaal military forces, in which he denies that there is any danger of a native uprising in the Transvaal, as has been reported.

A Soaker.

WATKINS, N. Y., April 18.—One of the most severe hailstorms in years visited this village yesterday, and lasted about half an hour. Cellars were filled with water and sewers overflowed. Hail as large as walnuts fell, doing considerable damage. The railroad bridge, just this side of Montour Falls, is washed away. For the first time in a generation, the highway between here and Montour Falls is impassable. The Glen creek overflowed its banks, and fish was caught in door yards.

News Sticks to Its Story.

LONDON, April 18.—Despite the official denials which have been issued, The Daily News repeats its assertion that 10,000 British troops are going to the Soudan in the autumn. These will include, says The Daily News, three battalions of the household troops, who have received private orders to be ready by the end of July.

Russia's Friendship For Wiggins.

ODESSA, April 18.—A ministerial rescript gives Captain Wiggins, the Arctic explorer, for an indefinite period the exclusive right to import foreign merchandise, duty free, into Siberia via the Kara sea and the Yenisei.

PAID THE PENALTY.

Insurgents Captured at Candelaria Executed by Spanish Soldiers.

HABANA, April 18.—Three prisoners, named Borges, Hernandez and Bacallao, were shot at the Cabanas fortress yesterday. Two of the men were colored and one was white. They were taken prisoners in the action at Candelaria.

Borges, while in the death chapel of the fortress, was very nervous and would only drink a little lemonade, while his companions took something stronger.

Hernandez showed a very bold front and displayed admirable coolness. He presented Dr. Gomez, who had been appointed to care for the prisoners, with a yellow belt and asked him to write to his mother and beg her to pardon him for his misdeeds, while assuring her that he died in the bosom of Christianity.

Bacallao, in his "death bed," as he termed it, was full of life and even haughty. He tried to run away from the chapel, as if by so doing he could shorten his period of torture by being shot and killed by the soldiers on guard, but he was watched so closely by the officers on duty that it was impossible for him to carry out his intention.

At 4:30 a. m., Bacallao and Hernandez had a breakfast of beefsteak and eggs and each drank a cup of wine. They confessed to several priests, having been entreated to conform to all religious customs. This caused Bacallao to remark: "What is the use of conforming in my case, father; considering that within a short time I have to die?"

At 7 o'clock the square was ready and the troops were drawn up under Major Carlos Justiz. The prisoners were conducted there in the usual solemn manner. Bacallao and Hernandez were courageous and cool; but Borges, who had been so nervous in the chapel, and who had refused any stimulant with his breakfast, turned out to be the bravest of all and met his fate with the most remarkable courage.

Bacallao smoked a cigar during his last moments, and calmly threw it away as he knelt down with his face to the wall and his back toward the firing squad. Borges knelt down with his hands in his pocket, and coolly turned his head toward the soldiers who were to shoot him. Hernandez attentively watched the shadows of the soldiers on the wall in front of him.

When all was ready, the officer in command of the squad lifted his sword, the rifles were aimed, there was another movement of the sword and the report of the volley echoed from the fortress walls.

Plunger Pardridge Dead.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Ed. Pardridge, the wheat speculator, who had been ill for several weeks with bright's disease, is dead. Mr. Pardridge's specialty was wheat. It was no uncommon thing for him to deal in 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels in one day. On one memorable occasion he was short 15,000,000 bushels. Pardridge's name was upon every lip. Up the market scored, 5, 8 and even 10 cents; still the little Napoleon of the bears stood out on a great part of the 15,000,000. He instinctively anticipated a rapid decline in the bolstered market. It came, and so sharply that no cover was left to the bulls. Pardridge made more money thereby than any man had ever before taken out of the market under similar circumstances in Chicago.

The plunger's gains in one year were estimated by conservative operators to have reached the total of $1,500,000. Almost equally large were his losses, approaching the $600,000 or $800,000 mark in certain memorable squeezes. His income from selling privileges ranged from $2000 to $3000 a day. At one time he sold calls on 5,000,000 bushels of wheat, for which he received $5000. Much of Pardridge's surplus in fortunate periods was safely invested in choice real estate. A short time ago he sold his State-street property, near Madison avenue, for over $600,000.

Slugged With a Flat-Iron.

LYNN, Mass., April 18.—The autopsy over the body of Carl Meyers, who died at Deer island, which was conducted by Medical Examiner Pinkham, yesterday, discloses facts that the officials here believe warrant an investigation. Meyers became involved in an altercation with a Chinaman on Harrison avenue, Boston, a few weeks ago, during which he was struck over the head with a flat-iron. He was arrested later and sent to Deer island for 30 days. He died before his sentence was completed. It is believed that death was due to the blow from the flat-iron.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The debate on the bond resolution proceeded yesterday in the senate, Mr. Hill continuing in opposition his speech, which is not yet completed. The net result of work on the private calendar in the house was the passage of four pension bills, one to pension the widow of Rear Admiral Foote at $50 per month, and the passage of a war claim of less than $600. The latter was the first war claim brought before the house for consideration and naturally provoked a general debate on the policy of paying war claims.

Typhus Raging at Marash.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Clara Barton cables from Constantinople to the national Armenian relief committee as follows: "Hubbell in charge of the Red Cross relief expedition at Marash reports April 13: 'Three thousand sick of typhus, including the English consul.' On the 15th he reports: 'Sickness at Zeitoun increasing, with 40 or 50 deaths daily. Great and immediate need of funds.' General condition for relief work favorable."

Given Papers of Release.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—The filibustering steamer Bermuda has finally secured British papers of release. British Consul Clipperton yesterday yielded to the efforts made to induce him to regularly enter the vessel in the consulate registry and give the noted craft a clean bill of health. All objections against the vessel had been withdrawn, under orders from the British government.

Disgruntled Spaniards.

MADRID, April 18.—A number of the newspapers of this city and elsewhere demand that the elections in Cuba be annulled. Ex-Premier Sagasta intends to ask the chamber of deputies to annul the Cuban elections on the ground that the electors, owing to the state of rebellion prevailing, were not free to vote as they pleased.

Conservatives' Big Lead.

MADRID, April 18.—Making allowance for duplicate elections, the next chamber will be constituted as follows, including the deputies for Cuba and Porto Rico: Conservatives, 303; Liberals, 102; Carlists, 10; Independents, 10; Dissident Conservatives, 8; Republicans, 3, and Ultramontane Catholic, 1.

A DISTINCT GAIN.

Bradstreet's Presents an Encouraging View of the Business Outlook.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Bradstreet's says: Favorable weather, except in some northwestern states, has stimulated demand for seasonable merchandise, notably light clothing.

On the whole, the week presents a distinct gain. This is not so much apparent at eastern centers, except Baltimore and Pittsburg, as in the central Mississippi valley.

At some northwestern cities the movement of merchandise has declined, but at a number east it is unchanged, while at southern cities, in most instances, business is quiet, and in other cities less favorable.

There is a better demand for cotton machinery to go south. Eastern cotton dyers are busier, and there is a demand for hardware, machinery and locomotives.

Preparations are making at most lake ports for the opening of navigation, one of the first effects of which will be to release 10,000,000 bushels of grain in store at Chicago.

Less business is doing in iron and steel than expected after the formation of the big steel pool, and the stronger tendency of special forms of the metals, because of combinations of makers.

At the west almost every town seems to want steel for some building, and good orders have been placed for bars.

Mercantile collections generally continue slow, and improvement in sales of general merchandise is relative, as merchants prefer to carry goods rather than accounts.

The boot and shoe makers have put some quotations a shade lower, since leather has fallen below the average a year ago, and hides to the lowest average since November, 1894, having declined 3 per cent this week. Prices of shoes now average a fraction lower than a year ago. Most shops have orders for some time to come, mainly in lighter and cheaper goods.

Several more woolen mills have shut down, and some have reduced wages 10 per cent, while many are working only half time, but recent advances by appraisers not only disclose heavy undervaluations in the past, but tend to check future imports. Sales of wool for two weeks of April at the three chief markets have been only 5,464,600 pounds, against 11,559,200 pounds last year and 10,182,500 pounds in 1892. Somewhat more demand for staple cottons has been aroused by bargain prices, but the closing of many mills for a time is urged as necessary.

Wheat rose about 5 cents last week, met some reaction, but is a shade higher than a week ago.

Cotton rose 1-16 cent on Thursday. Heavy commercial and mill stocks hinder most buyers, and possibilities of injury to the coming crop retard sellers at current prices.

Failures for the past week have been 223 in the United States, against 241 last year, and 36 in Canada, against 34 last year.

LIKE THURSDAY'S GAME.

Only the Conditions Were Reversed In Play In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The Philadelphias turned the tables on the Bostons. The score was the same as that of yesterday, and in other respects the two games were alike.

On Thursday the Philadelphias played in an over-anxious manner, and thus lost many fine opportunities, while the Bostons played with confidence and a snap that presaged victory from the start. Yesterday the conditions were just reversed.

Many a nervous woman sits up all the night and tries to read herself sleepy. Nine to one she don't accomplish her purpose. Nine to one, she gets more and more nervous. The slightest sound strikes terror to her heart. The dark corners of the room contain a thousand frights. She doesn't know what she is afraid of, but she is afraid, actually, honestly, nervously, abjectly afraid. Healthy women are not cowards. If a woman is nervous and sleepless and afraid of the rustle of her own dress, there is something the matter with her. The most delicate nerves in her body are set on edge by weakness or disease. Nine-tenths of the nervousness, irritability and bad temper in women is merely a symptom of ill health—ill health of the delicate and sensitive organism that makes her a woman. If she is overworked, or over-worried, the effect will show itself there first. There is no use taking harmful and deadly narcotics for nervousness and sleeplessness. It will leave the body in a worse condition than it was before. The way to effect a cure is to cure the cause. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do it. It has cured tens of thousands of cases of female weakness and nervousness. It is a most wonderful invigorating nervine or nerve food. It brings sound healthy sleep and restores the glow and bloom of health. It is the only medicine now before the public for woman's peculiar ailments, adapted to her delicate organization by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in these maladies. It cannot do harm in any condition of the system. Its sales exceed the combined sales of all other medicines for women.

The story of its discovery and its wonderful success is told in one part of Doctor Pierce's great thousand page book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser," which will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay for mailing only. THE "OUT OF DATE" COUPLE.

We are "so out of date," they say,
  Ned and I;
We love in an old fashioned way,
  Long since gone by.
He says I am his helpmate true
  In everything,
And I—well, I will own to you
  He is my king.

We met in no romantic way
  'Twixt "glow and gloom,"
He wooed me on a winter day
  And in—a room.
Yet, through life's hours of stress and storm,
  When griefs befell,
Love kept our small home corner warm,
  And all was well.

Ned thinks no woman like his wife—
  But let that pass;
Perhaps we view the dual life
  Through roseate glass:
Even if the prospect be not bright,
  We hold it true
The heaviest burdens may grow light
  When shared by two.

Upon the gilded scroll of fame,
  Emblazoned fair,
I cannot hope to read the name
  I proudly bear:
But, happy in their even flow,
  The years glide by.
We are behind the times, we know,
  Ned and I.

THE WILL.

I knew this tall young man who was called Rene de Bourneval. He was very agreeable in company, although a trifle sad, seeming to dislike everything, very skeptical—a formal and biting skepticism—clever especially in laying bare in one word worldly hypocrisies. He often repeated, "There are no virtuous men—or at least they are only relatively temperate."

He had two brothers whom he did not visit, the MM. de Courcils. On account of their different names I believed him the offspring of a second marriage. I had been told on several occasions that a strange story had happened in this family, but no details had been given me.

This man being entirely agreeable to me, we were soon good friends. One evening, after I had dined with him, I accidentally asked him, "Were you the offspring of your mother's first or second marriage?" I saw him turn slightly pale, then blush, and he remained some seconds without speaking, visibly embarrassed. Then he smiled in a sweet and melancholy manner which was peculiar to him and said: "My dear friend, if it does not tire you, I will give you some singular details of my parentage. I know you for an intelligent man. I do not therefore fear your friendship for me will suffer, and if it should suffer I should no longer care to have you for a friend.

"My mother, Mme. de Courcils, was a poor, timid little woman, whom her husband had married for her fortune. Her whole life was a martyrdom. Affectionate, fearful, delicate, she was ill treated without intermission by him who should have been my father, one of those churls who are called country gentlemen. After they had been married a month he lived with a servant. He had besides for mistresses the wives and daughters of his tenants. This did not prevent his wife from having two children; including myself, three should be reckoned. My mother said nothing. She lived in that ever noisy house like those little mice that slip in and out under the furniture. Effacing herself, flying away, trembling, she looked at people with her clear, restless eyes, which, always in motion, looked scared with the fear that never left them. She was still pretty, very pretty—very fair with a grayish fairness, a timid fairness, as if her hair had faded a little from her incessant fear.

"Among the friends of M. de Courcils who came frequently to the castle was an old cavalry officer, a widower, a formidable man, tender and violent, capable of the most energetic resolves—M. de Bourneval, whose name I bear. He was a tall, spare fellow, with a heavy black mustache. I resemble him very much. This man had read and thought far more than those of his class. His great-grandmother had been a lover of Jean Jacques Rousseau, and it was said that he had inherited something from this connection of his ancestress. He knew by heart the 'Social Contract,' the 'New Heloise' and all those philosophical books which have prepared beforehand the future overthrow of our ancient customs, of our prejudices, our obsolete laws, our foolish morals.

"He loved my mother, it appeared, and was loved by her. This affair was kept so secret that no one suspected it. The poor woman, sad and abandoned, clung to him desperately and imbibed all his habits of thought, theories of free opinion, boldness of independent love; but, as she was so timid that she never dared speak loudly, all of it was driven back, condensed, pressed into her heart, which was never opened.

"My two brothers were harsh toward her, like my father—did not caress her—and, accustomed to seeing that she did not count for anything in the house, treated her almost like a servant.

"I was the only one of her sons who really loved her and whom she loved.

"She died. I was then 18. I ought to add, in order that you may understand what is to follow, that, by legal advice, her husband had been provided for, and she had retained her own separate estate, having, thanks to the artifices of the law and the intelligent devotion of a notary, preserved the right to make her will as she pleased.

"We were, therefore, informed by this notary that a will existed and invited to be present at its reading.

"I recall it as if it were yesterday. It was a grand, dramatic, burlesque, surprising scene, called forth by the posthumous revolt of the dead woman, by this cry of liberty, this claim from the depth of the grave of this martyr crushed by our morals during her life. From her shut coffin she threw a despairing appeal toward independence.

"He who believed himself my father, a stout, plethoric man, who put one in mind of a butcher, and my brothers, two robust fellows of 20 and 22, waited tranquilly on their seats. M. de Bourneval, who was invited to be present, entered and placed himself behind me. His frock coat was buttoned tightly. He was very pale, and he often nibbled his mustache, now a little grizzled. He doubtless expected what was coming.

"The notary double locked the door and commenced the reading, after having in our presence broken the red wax seal of the envelope, of whose contents he was ignorant."

Suddenly my friend was silent, rose and took from his secretary an old paper, unfolded it, kissed it for a long time and resumed. "Here is the last will of my dearly loved mother:

" 'I, the undersigned, Anne-Catherine Genevieve Mathilde de Croixluce, lawful wife of Jean Leopold Joseph Gontran de Courcils, being of sound mind and body, do hereby make my last will.

" 'I ask forgiveness of God above, and then of my dear son Rene, for what I am now going to do. I think my child is stout hearted enough to understand and to forgive me. I have suffered all my life. I was married from considerations of advantage and was afterward despised, disregarded, oppressed and deceived unceasingly by my husband.

" 'I forgive him, but I owe him nothing.

" 'My elder sons have not loved me, have not caressed me, have scarcely treated me like a mother.

" 'I have been to them during my life all I should have been; after my death I no longer owe them anything. The ties of blood do not continue without the constant, sacred affection of each day. An ungrateful son is less than a stranger. He is a culprit, for he has not the right to be indifferent to his mother.

" 'I have always trembled before mankind, before their iniquitous laws, their inhuman customs, their infamous prejudices. Before God, I no longer fear. Dead, I throw away from me that shameful hypocrisy; I dare to utter my thoughts and to openly avow the secrets of my heart.

" 'Therefore I leave in trust the whole of that part of my fortune of which the law permits me to dispose to my dearly loved lover, Pierre Germer Simon de Bourneval, afterward to revert to our dear son Rene.'

(This will has been drawn up in addition, in a more formal manner, by a notary.)

" 'And before the Supreme Judge, who hears me, I declare that I should have cursed heaven and my existence if I had not found the deep, devoted, tender, unshaken affection of my lover, if I had not learned in his arms that the Creator has made human beings to love, to sustain and to console each other and to weep together in hours of bitterness.

" 'My two eldest sons are the children of M. de Courcils. Rene alone owes his existence to M. de Bourneval. I pray the Ruler of mankind and their destinies to place the father and son above social prejudices, to make them love each other until their death, and love me still in my grave.

" 'Such are my last thoughts and my last desire.'

"M. de Courcils had risen. He cried, 'That is the will of a mad woman.' Then M. de Bourneval stepped forward and declared in a loud and decisive voice: 'I, Simon de Bourneval, declare that this writing contains only the strict truth. I am ready to prove it by letters in my possession.'

"Then M. de Courcils walked toward him. I thought they would seize each other by the collar. There they stood, both tall, the one stout, the other spare, quivering. The husband of my mother stammeringly articulated, 'You are a villain!' The other said, in a dry, vigorous tone: 'We will meet in another place, monsieur. I should have affronted and provoked you a long time ago if I had not valued above all else the tranquillity during her life of the poor woman whom you have made to suffer so much.'

"Then he turned toward me: 'You are my son. Will you come with me? I have not the right to take you away, but I will take you if you wish to accompany me.'

"I pressed his hand without answering. Indeed, I was almost overcome.

"Two days later M. de Bourneval killed M. de Courcils in a duel. My brothers, afraid of a frightful scandal, kept silence. I transferred to them and they accepted their share of the fortune left by my mother.

"I took the name of my true father, renouncing that which the law gave and which was not mine.

"M. de Bourneval died five years ago. I have not yet found consolation for my grief."

He rose, took several steps, and, placing himself in front of me, said: "Well, I say that my mother's will was one of the most beautiful, most loyal, grandest things a woman could accomplish. Is not that your opinion?"

I stretched out both hands to him, "Yes, surely, my friend."—Guy de Maupassant.

New Orleans Tennis Courts.

"I was walking out St. Charles avenue this morning," said a northern visitor, "and I saw several tennis courts, the lines of which were marked out on the sward by grass of a different color from that which carpeted the court. I made inquiries about the matter and found that nearly all the New Orleans tennis grounds were marked off in that way. It is a very pretty idea, and one that I have never seen anywhere else." — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Prelate's Eloquence.

In 1104, when Henry I was in Normandy, a prelate named Serlo preached so eloquently against the fashion of wearing long hair that the monarch and his courtiers were moved to tears.

Taking advantage of the impression he had produced, the enthusiastic prelate whipped a pair of scissors out of his sleeves and cropped the whole congregation.—London Fun.

DREAMS OF DRESS.

The sack back coat is already with us, endeavoring to oust the ripple back, fitted variety of past seasons.

Four and one-half or five yards is now the limit of best made skirts that appear most graceful and look the most finished and artistic.

The prettiest trimmings for the new grass linens, batistes, chambrays, ginghams and zephyrs are the openwork embroideries wrought upon the goods themselves.

A very easy and charming way to freshen a black, white or colored silk or satin bodice is to cover it with an overwaist of chiffon the shade of the bodice, or, if liked, of a contrasting color.

Spangled and sequined garnitures ad infinitum still hold the place of honor beside elegant laces and chiffon draperies on "dress" toilets and costumes for the coming spring and summer.

A marked feature of the modes of the new season is the lavish decoration about the neck ruches, ruffs and frills of gauze plaited lisse or chiffon; also bows of plain or fancy ribbon and of enormous size.

There is a whisper—a sort of stage whisper—that hip pads in watteau fashion are surely to be worn. If this be true, then we may look for rather startling revelations regarding new dress skirts for summer wear.

Even the tweeds and cheviots for spring have caught the color craze and display many gorgeous dyes, and the staid serges and mohairs show a reckless tendency to frivolity, with their gay chameleon patterns, Dresden devices and dashes of brilliant color.

Medium priced crepons have been sold this week at greatly reduced rates, for fashion has nominated mohair and alpaca to reign in the place of these pretty and stylish fabrics. The new alpacas are unattractive as to texture, looking like canvas.—New York Post.

THE EYE.

Brown eyes are said by oculists to be the strongest.

The eyes should not be used in weakness or sickness.

Unsteady eyes, rapidly jerking from side to side, are frequently indicative of an unsettled mind.

It is said that the prevailing colors of eyes among patients of lunatic asylums are brown or black.

Eyes placed close together in the head are said to indicate pettiness of disposition, jealousy and a turn for fault finding.

All men of genius are said to have eyes clear, slow moving and bright. This is the eye which indicates mental ability of some kind, it does not matter what.

The ostrich is believed to see objects behind him as well as those in front. Persons standing directly behind an ostrich can see the pupils of his eyes, and are thus easily seen by the animal.

Bach became blind through a weakness of the eyes contracted when a boy. He copied a musical manuscript by moonlight, and thus caused a weakness which troubled him all his life and finally destroyed his sight.

The contraction and dilation of the pupil of the eye is one of the most wonderful operations of nature. It is effected, automatically and unconsciously, by a series of muscles, which contract or expand the opening in the center of the iris.

POINTS FOR PIANO PLAYERS.

Too much pedal in playing is worse than none at all.

Do not place books on the piano if it can be avoided. It tends to deaden the tone of the instrument.

Never place your piano close against the wall. It will sound much better if drawn out into the room. If this is not possible, allow a space of 8 to 12 inches between it and the wall.

If you love your piano, do not allow bric-a-brac to rest upon it. It is in wretched taste; besides it is often the cause of an unpleasant rattling while the instrument is being used.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 19. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—What should we be doing to save the lost?—Luke xv, 1 10. (A temperance topic.)

The Lord Jesus Christ came into the world to seek and to save the lost. It was for this He left heaven. It was for this He lived upon earth. It was for this He died upon Calvary's cross. That this was His mission to this world is illustrated in the topical reference. Christ is associating with the lowest classes of people, the publicans and sinners, when He is upbraided for so doing by the scribes and Pharisees. In answer He speaks the three parables of this chapter—the lost sheep, the lost coin and the prodigal son—to illustrate the fact that He came to seek and to save the lost.

Christ's mission should be the Christian's mission. If He lived to save the lost, we should live to save the lost, for if we truly dedicate ourselves to Christ we are crucified with Him and live no longer, but He lives in us.

Christ's method of work should also be ours. He should be our guide and our model in all things. Therefore what He did to save the lost we should be doing to save them. What did Christ do to save the lost as represented in these parables?

1. He loved the lost. The shepherd loved the lost sheep, because it was dear to him and was of value to him. Christ loved sinners. He loved us so much that He died for us. We must hate men's sins, but we must love men and their souls before we can lead them to salvation.

2. Christ went to search for the lost. He did not go to the temple and say, "Here we have a beautiful, comfortable building and an interesting and instructive service, and if men want to be saved let them come and be saved." He went after them out in the highways and byways. We must do the same. A lost sheep will not return to the sheepfold. It has to be sought. We must go out and compel men to come in that they may be saved.

3. Christ associated with the lost. He received sinners and ate with them. This many Christian people do not want to do. They may receive them into the church, but they draw the line on eating with them, associating with them upon terms of social equality. What would the world say? What did the world say of Christ? It scoffed at Him; but did He desist? Not he. "The servant is not greater than his lord." If Christ could associate with sinners, in spite of rebuke and scoff, we should do the same if necessary to save them.

Bible Readings.—Isa. xlv, 20-25; lii, 7; Dan. xii, 3; Nah. i, 15; John i, 40-42; iii, 1-8, 14-17; Acts ii, 42-47; iv, 12; viii, 26-39; xvi, 30, 31; Rom. x, 1, 12-15; I Cor. i, 17-21; ix, 19-22; I Tim. iv, 16; Jas. v, 19, 20.

The Prize Banners.

Three prize banners will be awarded at the Washington convention to three Christian Endeavor local unions. The first banner will go to the union making the best showing in the way of definite and practical Christian citizenship work. The second will be awarded to the local union having the largest number of individual members who give not less than one-tenth of their income to God. The third, or fellowship banner, will be secured by the unions organizing the largest number of new Christian Endeavor societies of any kind. Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia respectively secured these banners at the Boston convention. Local unions should send detailed reports of their work to Secretary Baer before June 15.

Free Thought.

Condemn no man for not thinking as you think. Let every one enjoy the full and free liberty of thinking for himself. Let every man use his own judgment, since every man must give an account of himself to God. Abhor every approach in any kind or degree to the spirit of persecution. If you cannot reason or persuade a man into the truth, never attempt to force a man into it. If love will not compel him to come, leave him to God, the judge of all.—John Wesley.

Inexplicable Without God.

The ecstasy that fills us on a day in spring, when through budding boughs we see the shining clouds and the brilliant rain washed blue; the eclipse of happiness in the heart of the child who feels "cross," the willingness of love to one another, and a worthier preferred—these are inexplicable without God.—Coming Day.

Christian Endeavor Jottings.

The Turkish sword evidently has few terrors for Christian Endeavor. During the height of the excitement concerning the Armenian atrocities a Junior Christian Endeavor society was organized at Mersine, Turkey.

Not content with doing remarkable evangelistic work among the heathen of their own town and neighborhood, the Endeavorers of Nellore, India, talk of adding a foreign missionary committee to their working forces. They want to have a share in mission work outside of India.

Brooklyn, which so royally entertained the state Christian Endeavor convention last year, is now in the field for the National Baptist Union convention of 1897.

The stream of Christian Endeavorers faced toward the foreign field increases weekly. Will you be found among them?

"In prison and ye came unto me." This word is fulfilled of hundreds of Christian Endeavor societies throughout the land.

Washington, 1896, will be a convention of conventions. A great number of simultaneous practical sessions are being arranged.

The life of some meetings is impaired by the constant effort to make them "lively." Rather seek spiritually; interest follows earnestness.

HE CAUGHT AT A STRAW.

And Found a Bulwark of Strength and Safety.

C. B. Downs, of the freight department of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Portsmouth, knows what it is to suffer from hunger with food within reach, which he could eat, but not digest. He lives at 39 Daniel Street, and tells his experience in the following words:—

When I was 14 years old I began to be troubled with indigestion, which as I grew up became worse instead of better, until I found it hard to keep any food on my stomach. Everything I ate caused me pain and distress, but I did not look like a dyspeptic and so did not get much sympathy.

I tried as many as a dozen different things, but they all failed to cure me, and like a drowning man I was ready to catch at any straw offering the least hope of rescue. Then I tried Puritana and was not only relieved by it from the pain, but in a short time completely cured of my indigestion. I could eat sausages without their hurting me, and I found that Puritana had given me a new stomach that would digest any food. I believe that I was the first person in

Portsmouth to use Puritana, but not the last, as I know that since then many people have taken it, with wonderful results.

James H. Crowley, of Concord, N. H., is not only an athlete but one of the fastest amateur runners in the State. What he says below shows how a man's strength will go if the stomach is not right.

I had dyspepsia for years. Sometimes I could hardly stand up, and I could not eat anything without pain and agony. Of course I tried to get relief, but met with failure after failure until there seemed to be no hope left. At last I was persuaded to give Puritana a trial. The result was marvelous. It not only relieved me, but it made me perfectly well. Instead of being doubled up with pain, Puritana has given me a stomach like an ostrich, that will digest almost anything. There is nothing too strong for me to say in favor of Puritana.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Matabeles Massing In Large Numbers In Vicinity of Buluwayo.

Fears That Wholesale Massacre Is Planned.

The Present Situation Regarded as One of Extreme Danger.

CAPE TOWN, April 18.—A Buluwayo dispatch reports that the Matabeles are massing, not only on the north but on the east of Buluwayo, and are sending out looting parties which boldly appear within a half hour's march of the town.

A feeling of apprehension as to what the next step of the revolting Matabeles will be permeates all circles there. Information coming from the country around makes it certain that the natives are preparing an offensive movement against Buluwayo. The number of Matabeles reported gathering at points near by is sufficient to appall the hearts of even experienced fighters. There is a dread in the minds of many that the place is in danger of being overwhelmed by a rush of hordes of Matabeles and the inhabitants put to a wholesale massacre.

The fear of treachery is added to the apprehension of overwhelming numbers. Many indications point to a connivance with the war parties of supposed friendly natives. There are many of the latter in the town itself and no white man feels sure how far he can trust his dusky associates or servants.

On Wednesday evening three Dutch scouts were sent out from Buluwayo to secure some definite and accurate information of the position and movements of the natives. What they found has served little to relieve the anxiety and suspense. They report that the Matabeles are gathered like ants in a hill near Umgast river, only six miles north.

That some treacherous plot is being concocted is indicated by the fact that native women are secreting European clothes. The native men on the veldt wear the native costume, while most of those in Buluwayo wear clothes approaching the European fashion. By attiring the native warriors in European garments, the Matabeles hope that they will be enabled to enter the town unquestioned.

It is plainly noticeable that the natives in the town are becoming as thick as bees. In ordinary times the natives come and go in the town without attracting attention. The native population is at all times a shifting one, and a large number of the men that make it up are not known individually to the white people of the town or to the authorities. The fact that the natives in the town live apart from the whites adds to the difficulty of identifying

Those Who Belong In the Town.

But there is little more confidence in the natives who belong in the town than in the hostile men, who, it is believed, are being surreptitiously induced to aid from within when an attack shall be made from without. It looks now as though that might occur at any time. The roads by which communication is had with the south, both the one to Tuli and the one to Mafeking, are felt to be in peril. There are undoubtedly large numbers of hostile natives between Buluwayo and the settlements to the south, some of them in open revolt. The situation is felt to be most serious and threatening.

An official dispatch received here from Buluwayo reports the safe arrival there of the coach, indicating that the roads are still open. It is felt that the greatest danger to Buluwayo, unless the natives should muster in crushing force, is that of a possible running short of supplies, of food and of ammunition. The food supply is reported sufficient to last for a month, but there have been appeals for additional supplies of ammunition, which must come from the south and must be two or three weeks on the way, even if the convoy meet with no violence.

The keeping open of communication is, therefore, of first importance. The road for 20 miles south of Buluwayo runs through a difficult and dangerous country, and if the Buluwayo forces are shut up in the town and unable to patrol the road from Buluwayo and Mangwe, 50 miles south, it will, it is believed, be impossible to keep the run open and get through provisions.

Relieving Burghers' Minds.

The apprehension in the mind of the British government that the dispatch of re-enforcements of troops to South Africa may again endanger the strained relations with the Transvaal is indicated by a statement made by Governor Robinson to President Kruger.

Governor Robinson, on behalf of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, explained to President Kruger that the British re-enforcements which are being dispatched to Cape Town and Natal do not imply any change in the friendly policy of the British government toward the Transvaal.

Mr. Chamberlain wishes the Transvaal to be informed of the decision to send troops, the statement continues, because he is aware that efforts may be made o misrepresent the intentions of the imperial government in order to prevent a satisfactory understanding between Great Britain and the Transvaal.

An interview has been published with General Joubert, commander-in-chief of the Transvaal military forces, in which he denies that there is any danger of a native uprising in the Transvaal, as has been reported.

A Soaker.

WATKINS, N. Y., April 18.—One of the most severe hailstorms in years visited this village yesterday, and lasted about half an hour. Cellars were filled with water and sewers overflowed. Hail as large as walnuts fell, doing considerable damage. The railroad bridge, just this side of Montour Falls, is washed away. For the first time in a generation, the highway between here and Montour Falls is impassable. The Glen creek overflowed its banks, and fish was caught in door yards.

News Sticks to Its Story.

LONDON, April 18.—Despite the official denials which have been issued, The Daily News repeats its assertion that 10,000 British troops are going to the Soudan in the autumn. These will include, says The Daily News, three battalions of the household troops, who have received private orders to be ready by the end of July.

Russia's Friendship For Wiggins.

ODESSA, April 18.—A ministerial rescript gives Captain Wiggins, the Arctic explorer, for an indefinite period the exclusive right to import foreign merchandise, duty free, into Siberia via the Kara sea and the Yenisei.

PAID THE PENALTY.

Insurgents Captured at Candelaria Executed by Spanish Soldiers.

HABANA, April 18.—Three prisoners, named Borges, Hernandez and Bacallao, were shot at the Cabanas fortress yesterday. Two of the men were colored and one was white. They were taken prisoners in the action at Candelaria.

Borges, while in the death chapel of the fortress, was very nervous and would only drink a little lemonade, while his companions took something stronger.

Hernandez showed a very bold front and displayed admirable coolness. He presented Dr. Gomez, who had been appointed to care for the prisoners, with a yellow belt and asked him to write to his mother and beg her to pardon him for his misdeeds, while assuring her that he died in the bosom of Christianity.

Bacallao, in his "death bed," as he termed it, was full of life and even haughty. He tried to run away from the chapel, as if by so doing he could shorten his period of torture by being shot and killed by the soldiers on guard, but he was watched so closely by the officers on duty that it was impossible for him to carry out his intention.

At 4:30 a. m., Bacallao and Hernandez had a breakfast of beefsteak and eggs and each drank a cup of wine. They confessed to several priests, having been entreated to conform to all religious customs. This caused Bacallao to remark: "What is the use of conforming in my case, father; considering that within a short time I have to die?"

At 7 o'clock the square was ready and the troops were drawn up under Major Carlos Justiz. The prisoners were conducted there in the usual solemn manner. Bacallao and Hernandez were courageous and cool; but Borges, who had been so nervous in the chapel, and who had refused any stimulant with his breakfast, turned out to be the bravest of all and met his fate with the most remarkable courage.

Bacallao smoked a cigar during his last moments, and calmly threw it away as he knelt down with his face to the wall and his back toward the firing squad. Borges knelt down with his hands in his pocket, and coolly turned his head toward the soldiers who were to shoot him. Hernandez attentively watched the shadows of the soldiers on the wall in front of him.

When all was ready, the officer in command of the squad lifted his sword, the rifles were aimed, there was another movement of the sword and the report of the volley echoed from the fortress walls.

Plunger Pardridge Dead.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Ed Pardridge, the wheat speculator, who had been ill for several weeks with bright's disease, is dead. Mr. Pardridge's specialty was wheat. It was no uncommon thing for him to deal in 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels in one day. On one memorable occasion he was short 15,000,000 bushels. Pardridge's name was upon every lip. Up the market scored, 5, 8 and even 10 cents; still the little Napoleon of the bears stood out on a great part of the 15,000,000. He instinctively anticipated a rapid decline in the bolstered market. It came, and so sharply that no cover was left to the bulls. Pardridge made more money thereby than any man had ever before taken out of the market under similar circumstances in Chicago.

The plunger's gains in one year were estimated by conservative operators to have reached the total of $1,500,000. Almost equally large were his losses, approaching the $600,000 or $800,000 mark in certain memorable squeezes. His income from selling privileges ranged from $2000 to $3000 a day. At one time he sold calls on 5,000,000 bushels of wheat, for which he received $5000. Much of Pardridge's surplus in fortunate periods was safely invested in choice real estate. A short time ago he sold his State-street property, near Madison avenue, for over $600,000.

Slugged With a Flat-Iron.

LYNN, Mass., April 18.—The autopsy over the body of Carl Meyers, who died at Deer island, which was conducted by Medical Examiner Pinkham, yesterday, discloses facts that the officials here believe warrant an investigation. Meyers became involved in an altercation with a Chinaman on Harrison avenue, Boston, a few weeks ago, during which he was struck over the head with a flat-iron. He was arrested later and sent to Deer island for 30 days. He died before his sentence was completed. It is believed that death was due to the blow from the flat-iron.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The debate on the bond resolution proceeded yesterday in the senate, Mr. Hill continuing in opposition his speech, which is not yet completed. The net result of work on the private calendar in the house was the passage of four pension bills, one to pension the widow of Rear Admiral Foote at $50 per month, and the passage of a war claim of less than $600. The latter was the first war claim brought before the house for consideration and naturally provoked a general debate on the policy of paying war claims.

Typhus Raging at Marash.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Clara Barton cables from Constantinople to the national Armenian relief committee as follows: "Hubbell in charge of the Red Cross relief expedition at Marash reports April 13: 'Three thousand sick of typhus, including the English consul.' On the 15th he reports: 'Sickness at Zeitoun increasing, with 40 or 50 deaths daily. Great and immediate need of funds.' General condition for relief work favorable."

Given Papers of Release.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—The filibustering steamer Bermuda has finally secured British papers of release. British Consul Clipperton yesterday yielded to the efforts made to induce him to regularly enter the vessel in the consulate registry and give the noted craft a clean bill of health. All objections against the vessel had been withdrawn, under orders from the British government.

Disgruntled Spaniards.

MADRID, April 18.—A number of the newspapers of this city and elsewhere demand that the elections in Cuba be annulled. Ex-Premier Sagasta intends to ask the chamber of deputies to annul the Cuban elections on the ground that the electors, owing to the state of rebellion prevailing, were not free to vote as they pleased.

Conservatives' Big Lead.

MADRID, April 18.—Making allowance for duplicate elections, the next chamber will be constituted as follows, including the deputies for Cuba and Porto Rico: Conservatives, 393; Liberals, 102; Carlists, 10; Independents, 10; Dissident Conservatives, 8; Republicans, 3, and Ultramontane Catholic, 1.

A DISTINCT GAIN.

Bradstreet's Presents an Encouraging View of the Business Outlook.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Bradstreet's says: Favorable weather, except in some northwestern states, has stimulated demand for seasonable merchandise, notably light clothing.

On the whole, the week presents a distinct gain. This is not so much apparent at eastern centers, except Baltimore and Pittsburg, as in the central Mississippi valley.

At some northwestern cities the movement of merchandise has declined, but at a number east it is unchanged, while at southern cities, in most instances, business is quiet, and in other cities less favorable.

There is a better demand for cotton machinery to go south. Eastern cotton dyers are busier, and there is a demand for hardware, machinery and locomotives.

Preparations are making at most lake ports for the opening of navigation, one of the first effects of which will be to release 10,000,000 bushels of grain in store at Chicago.

Less business is doing in iron and steel than expected after the formation of the big steel pool, and the stronger tendency of special forms of the metals, because of combinations of makers.

At the west almost every town seems to want steel for some building, and good orders have been placed for bars.

Mercantile collections generally continue slow, and improvement in sales of general merchandise is relative, as merchants prefer to carry goods rather than accounts.

The boot and shoe makers have put some quotations a shade lower, since leather has fallen below the average a year ago, and hides to the lowest average since November, 1894, having declined 3 per cent this week. Prices of shoes now average a fraction lower than a year ago. Most shops have orders for some time to come, mainly in lighter and cheaper goods.

Several more woolen mills have shut down, and some have reduced wages 10 per cent, while many are working only half time, but recent advances by appraisers not only disclose heavy undervaluations in the past, but tend to check future imports. Sales of wool for two weeks of April at the three chief markets have been only 5,464,600 pounds, against 11,559,200 pounds last year and 10,182,500 pounds in 1892. Somewhat more demand for staple cottons has been aroused by bargain prices, but the closing of many mills for a time is urged as necessary.

Wheat rose about 5 cents last week, met some reaction, but is a shade higher than a week ago.

Cotton rose 1-16 cent on Thursday. Heavy commercial and mill stocks hinder most buyers, and possibilities of injury to the coming crop retard sellers at current prices.

Failures for the past week have been 223 in the United States, against 241 last year, and 36 in Canada, against 34 last year.

LIKE THURSDAY'S GAME.

Only the Conditions Were Reversed In Play in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The Philadelphias turned the tables on the Bostons. The score was the same as that of yesterday, and in other respects the two games were alike.

On Thursday the Philadelphias played in an over-anxious manner, and thus lost many fine opportunities, while the Bostons played with confidence and a snap that presaged victory from the start. Yesterday the conditions were just reversed.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Korea will try to borrow $8,000,000 from Russia.

Omaha railroad men object to the new section inserted in the Pacific railroad settlement bill.

The prospects for bringing to trial the men implicated in bank scandals at St. John's, N. F., are not bright.

Steamer Laurada, which left Savannah, March 1, with 300 negro colonists for Liberia, has not reached port yet.

M. Menier, the French chocolate manufacturer, who intends to colonize Anticosti, has sent forward the first expedition.

It is reported that an unusually powerful fleet is being prepared to impress Spain, in case any utterances by President Cleveland relating to Cuba may be resented.

Delegates representing 1000 coopers in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City say that if the bosses refuse to withdraw the reduction in wages, a strike of all the men will be ordered.

The paint firm of George D. Wetherill & Co., Philadelphia, have made an assignment. Wetherill says the liabilities will reach $175,000, but the assets will exceed that amount.

At Salvation Army headquarters in New York, Colonel Eadie said that no statement would be given to the newspapers until Commander Booth-Tucker returned from the west.

Dick Moore, the pugilist, has issued a sweeping challenge to meet any 158-pound man anywhere for a purse, and especially announces that he will best Paddy Purtell in 10 rounds or forfeit everything.

Rose A. Chabot, aged 17, while riding a bicycle at Worcester, Mass., was thrown directly under the wheels of a cart loaded with gravel. Her skull was crushed and she died on her way to a hospital.

Steamer Harlow, from the Gulf of St. Lawrence seal fishery, has arrived at Halifax with 4000 seals, about half a cargo. She reports very unfavorably respecting the sailing vessels operating there.

At Centre college, Danville, Ky., L. C. Atherton lowered the amateur record for 50 yards to 5 2-5s., and Hereford Smith lowered the collegiate record of 10 seconds for 100 yards, held by Crum, to 9 4-5s., equalling the world's professional record.

Many a nervous woman sits up all the night and tries to read herself sleepy. Nine to one she don't accomplish her purpose. Nine to one, she gets more and more nervous. The slightest sound strikes terror to her heart. The dark corners of the room contain a thousand frights. She doesn't know what she is afraid of, but she is afraid, actually, honestly, nervously, abjectly afraid. Healthy women are not cowards. If a woman is nervous and sleepless and afraid of the rustle of her own dress, there is something the matter with her. The most delicate nerves in her body are set on edge by weakness or disease. Nine-tenths of the nervousness, irritability and bad temper in women is merely a symptom of ill health—ill health of the delicate and sensitive organism that makes her a woman. If she is overworked, or over-worried, the effect will show itself there first. There is no use taking harmful and deadly narcotics for nervousness and sleeplessness. It will leave the body in a worse condition than it was before. The way to effect a cure is to cure the cause. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do it. It has cured tens of thousands of cases of female weakness and nervousness. It is a most wonderful invigorating nervine or nerve food. It brings sound healthy sleep and restores the glow and bloom of health. It is the only medicine now before the public for woman's peculiar ailments, adapted to her delicate organization by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in these maladies. It cannot do harm in any condition of the system. Its sales exceed the combined sales of all other medicines for women.

The story of its discovery and its wonderful success is told in one part of Doctor Pierce's great thousand page book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser," which will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay for mailing only. No Ledger Monday.

Eight Pages Tuesday.

The amount of news and the demand for advertising space makes a larger paper really necessary at least once a week, and it is possible the eight-page LEDGER on Saturdays has come to stay. Monday being a holiday, it will also be necessary on Tuesday to have another eight-page paper to contain the news of three days.

On Tuesday the observance of Patriots' day, particularly in the field of sports, will be reported, and there will be a piece of music, a story, and columns of selected miscellany.

THE WEEK PAST.

It is self evident that there is a difference of opinion as to the granting of common victuallers' licenses. The debate and tie vote in the City Council showed this. It is pleasing to note that the deciding vote of President Bryant was in line with a proper observance of the Sabbath. There should not be an indiscriminate granting of these licenses which are wanted merely to keep open shop on Sunday. Every day in the week is too much for storekeepers, and the tendency is toward Sunday closing, early closing, afternoon closing, and shorter hours generally.

——

The Board of Trade finds it difficult to enroll a large membership. Perhaps this is indifference on the part of the citizens of the city. Possibly it is the bylaws adopted which make the board of directors the governing board. A Board of Trade can do good work for Quincy, but it must be a popular organization with 100 to 200 or more members.

——

There seems to be some doubt as to the City Council taking favorable action on the change of grade of Hancock street. The City Council should look into the near future, and think of the changes which five or ten years will make in Hancock street between School and Adams street. The year 1896 will witness great changes which we believe mark a new era for Quincy. If we want Hancock street to be something more than a local street; if we want to see it built up with metropolitan stores which will attract the citizens of all neighboring towns; if we want to see a a large increase in taxable property; then Hancock street should be widened, straightened, regraded and paved, and wide brick sidewalks, constructed on both sides. In the words of Mayor Adams on another subject—A year's delay means a great deal in these hustling days.

——

The Quincy Savings Bank and the Quincy Real Estate Trust should be complimented upon their enterprise in deciding to erect large ornamental business blocks, and we are pleased to note the grand success of H. L. Kincaide & Co,, and the Granite City club. Other large buildings are under consideration and it is hoped they may materialize, as one helps another.

——

April has been an unusually disastrous month for fires in Quincy. The city has not been visited by any conflagration—we are fortunate to escape them—but the loss was quite heavy at the Dresser and the Murdock fires.

——

That was a grand eulogy which Mr. Edwin W. Marsh paid to our late friend George L. Gill in his memoir before the Historical society. Not empty words of flattery but the straight-forward statement of the Christian life of a much respected citizen. A gentleman who was admired for his own works, but who appears to have been a descendant of several old English families.

——

A matter of some interest to Quincy Granite Manufacturers was disposed of in the United States circuit court Thursday when Judge Putnam granted an interlocutory injunction in the case of D. M. Ladd et. al. vs E. P. Oxnard, to be issued April 23, restricting him from infringing upon the credit ratings published by Ladd, Hunt & Co. unless by that day the defendant files a bond of $2,000 to pay any sum which may finally be decreed against him. The defendant E. P. Oxnard is the publisher of the so-called Blue Book.

ASSOCIATES BALL.

Many Quincy People at the Braintree Dance.

The thirteenth annual ball of the Thirty Associates which has been looked forward to for the past few weeks with much pleasure took place last evening in the Town Hall, Braintree.

The shower of the early evening laid the dust and cooled the temperature, so that nothing in the way of weather could have been more desirable. Inside the hall was a "scene of beauty." The decorations which were the work of Mr. Thomas Stoddard were tasty in the extreme.

Over the stage was an arch bearing the words:

"1883 THIRTY ASSOCIATES 1896," and from the four corners of the hall long streamers drooped gracefully to the electrolier in the centre, the walls were covered with flags of various nations.

The platform and windows were decorated with potted plants from the greenhouse of Hayden & Bates, who donated the use of the plants for the occasion. The music was furnished by Porter's orchestra of Brockton and it was excellent. The musicians were complimented many times during the evening. The gentlemen wore full evening dress.

The ladies, Oh, my, we can not attempt in this brief article to describe the beautiful costumes which they wore, but that they were admired goes without saying.

The caterer was Mr. D. H. Maynard of Plymouth. Every detail so far as one could see moved pleasantly, and this the thirteenth annual may be called the most successful ever held by the associates.

From 8 to 9 the orchestra gave a fine concert consisting of the following programme:

1. March,—"King Cotton" Sousa
2. Overture,—"Around the City" Beger
3. Duo for Flute and Clarinet,—"Nocturne" Behr

Messrs. Riordan and Rowe.

4. Morceau Elegant,—"Love's Young Dream" Puerner
5. Selection Medley,—"The Latest" DeWitt

The grand march was formed at 9 05 and was led by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Woodsum, who were followed by about seventy-five couples.

The committee of arrangements were Louis W. Thayer, chairman; Harry A. Simonds, secretary, and Harry S. Bates, treasurer. The Floor Director was Mr. Wilford F. Woodsum.

The assistants were Fred M. Buzzell, Charles R. Richards, Harry A. Simonds, Orin W. Jackson, Harry S. Bates, John W. Burnham and Henry W. Mansfield.

The following named gentlemen, who are "associates," were present with their wives or lady friends and acted as aids:

Azel R. French, George E. Bullard, Edward H. Bryant, John H. Briggs, Horace L. French, William F. Nott, Warren R. Page, Leonard M. Hobart, E. Forrest Watkins, James T. Week, George H. Williams, M. L. The highest score made at Costello's alleys yesterday was 206 which was rolled by J. P. Murphy of West Quincy.

The Nonpareil club held a largely attended dance at Hancock hall Friday evening. Wilson's orchestra furnished music.

Quincy is bound to look attractive this spring. We never remember seeing so many houses painted and fixed up as is the case this year.

Patriots' Day the office hours at Quincy post office will be: 7 to 10 A. M., 5 to 7 P. M. One delivery and collection only. Evening mail will close for all parts, Boston New York and the west at 6.30 P. M.

Friday afternoon a three-horse grain team was left standing in front of Hodge's bakery when the horses became frightened and ran as far as School street, when the team struck a post smashing it somewhat.

The LEDGER today prints the eulogy of senator LODGE on the late Governor Greenhalge, delivered today at memorial exercises under auspices of the State in Boston.

An investigation of the fire which destroyed the barn of James Murdock Wednesday morning was held before Fire Marshal Whitcomb Friday but the result of the investigation has not been made known as yet.

Friday afternoon Robert Craig was riding down Hancock street on his bicycle when he ran into a swill team breaking the shaft. This started the horse which ran and before he was stopped a wheel of the wagon was broken. The bicycle was practically ruined.

At the annual meeting of the Merry Mount tennis club of Wollaston, which was held at the residence of Mr. Howard W. Battison, these officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Robert B. Witham; Vice-President, Charles W. Bates; Secretary and Treasurer, Herbert H. Albee.

Dr. Cutting had a narrow escape from being killed by the cars at the Quincy Adams station Friday morning. He attempted to cross the track in front of an approaching express train, which was nearer to him than he supposed, and had he been a second later he would have been killed. As it was, many on the opposite side of the track thought he was struck.

At the Methodist Conference which closed at Springfield, Monday night, Rev. Ira E. Price was appointed for Atlantic. The elder sent Mr. Price to preach at this place Easter Sunday on trial, which is rather out of the established custom, in Methodistism, and he was found to be above the usual order of preachers, and both members and non-members consider that they have been well favored by this appointment. The elder speaks very complimentary of Mr. Price, not only as a preacher, but as a thorough Methodist in all that that term implies. He is a full member of conference, and has a family of a wife and three children. He begins his pastorate next Sunday and will soon move his family here.

JUST WHO will step into Hon. E. A. Morse's Congressional shoes would be hard to guess at this time. Our neighbor Thomas of Weymouth has an eye on them, and he is a very able young man but there is a feeling that another section of the district should be represented this fall and Mr. W. C. Lovering of Taunton is talked of. If the shoes go to Taunton, Mr. Lovering would find no trouble in filling them to the satisfaction of the district.

NEXT SATURDAY is Arbor day. Plant a tree and do anything you can to beautify the place you live in.

BALL SEASON OPENED.

The Adams Academy Nine Wins the First Game.

The Adams Academy nine played a game of base ball yesterday with a strong local picked nine. The score is given below. The first game on the regular schedule will be played on Wednesday next with the Roxbury Latin school. There will also be a game with Hopkinson school on Saturday next. Both these games will be at Merry Mount park. The score:

—Sewerage in Hyde Park is no longer a question but a fact. Already have the contracts for this long needed adjunct to better healthful conditions been awarded, and a completion is to be effected at an early date.—Times.

My

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

"I want to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. My health has been very poor for three years, due to trouble with my

Kidneys

I was nervous, had pains in my back. I cannot tell what I suffered. My eyesight became affected and I was so despondent I did not have any interest in life. I had two physicians, but my complaints became worse. I was told that I was affected with Bright's disease. A relative urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and in a short time I began to notice a change in my condition. Things began to appear brighter, my eyes improved and did not trouble me so severely. My appetite returned and I gained strength every day. I am now able to do my own work, and feel perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me and I gladly recommend it." MISS ELLA BARTLEY, 213½ S. Grant Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

My Back

DURGIN'S.

Durgin's Extract Malt.

Ask Your Doctor About It,

Or ask anyone who has taken it and you will hear the most favorable reports. It is warranted to be equal to any Extract of Malt in the market, and superior to a great many, and sold at a price one can afford to take the full dose, thereby receiving the great benefit that is certain to come to those needing a good Nutritive Tonic. This particular preparation of Malt as a restorative to those suffering from faulty nutrition and inability to digest solid food is unexcelled. Richer in food product than any other and possessing the properties of not only producing heat and fat, but also of restoring the waste due to exhaustion. In fact it is the kind that seems to go right to the spot. If it is inconvenient for you to get to my store, order it of your grocer. Don't forget the kind—Durgin's, and the price—17 cents per bottle, or $1.75 per dozen.

Mr. Gilpatric's Position.

Editors Daily Ledger:

In your report of the proceedings of the Council last Monday night, on the question of granting a common victualler's license to me, a number of statements were made by Councilmen Sidelinger and Hayden of Ward Two which are wholly at variance with the truth and in justice to myself I desire to make contradiction.

The statement by Councilman Sidelinger that "I would sell groceries on Sunday and should consider it a necessity," is absolutely untrue. I had no intention of doing a grocery business on Sunday and told him so.

The statement by Councilman Sidelinger that "the settees outside of the building are filled with loafers half the time, and the inside so filled with smoke that ladies would not stay there," is false and evidently intended to injure my business. I forbid smoking on my premises and have always enforced the rules, in order that ladies may wait in my room for the cars without inconvenience. The settees outside are, in warm weather, often occupied by both ladies and gentlemen, waiting for the cars, who prefer to stay outside on account of the heat.

The statement by Councilman Hayden, "that only two persons in Ward Two, Councilman Phillips and Gilpatric himself were in favor of granting the license," is completely refuted by the petition for my license, with numerous signers, filed with the Council last year and by the large number of people who have voluntarily come and expressed their sympathy with me at the apparently personal persecution I have undergone at the hands of the two Councilmen from my ward. I have no hesitation in saying that their opposition to me is due to the fact that I openly stated that I should vote against them at the last election.

In years past Councilmen who represented the ward and city in a far abler manner than they, have always unanimously granted me a license, and the conditions governing my business have remained the same. This spasm of religious virtue on the part of these two gentlemen is apparently applied solely and exclusively to my particular case, as we have never heard of their test being applied to any other license than mine.

That other Councilmen voted with them is due to the fact that they were undoubtedly influenced by the false statements made by those two Councilmen about me and my business.

EVERETT S. GILPATRIC.

Quincy Point, April 17, 1896.

Mr. Higgins Answered.

Editors of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

My attention was called to an article in your issue of the 17th inst. and as President of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Washington Street Congegational church, I beg leave to reply.

The attack made on our society is shameful and utterly false. The writer very rarely if ever attends a house of worship and it is not strange that he should be unfamiliar with the work carried on there. Our society holds meetings every Sunday evening in the vestry referred to by Mr. Higgins and quite a large number of the young people have been influenced by them for the better.

It is a sad thing to realize that one of our oldest residents should prefer to see the young people roam about the streets on Sunday when they should be in church.

As regards Mr. Higgins attack on the councilmen it does not effect our society, as they are not connected with it. The writer is to be pitied that he has so far forgotten himself as to try to injure a society which has been formed to promote God's work in our midst.

While we expect some opposition to our endeavors it is unjust for a person to attack our society in this way. We hold no hard feelings toward Mr. Higgins for we fully realize his utter ignorance of our work May God grant us many more just such meetings as we have held and may the person who has endeavored to injure us soon be made to see his error.

GOV. GREENHALGE.

The Scholarly Eulogy Today by Senator Lodge

At the Memorial Exercises of State of Massachusetts.

The great mystery of death is always the same. Whether we behold it "under the canopies of costly state" or on the edge of a murky city river where the body of some nameless outcast has been washed ashore, we bare our heads and bow in reverence before the poor piece of earth; yesterday humanity, today in its stillness the visible sign of that overruling power which alike guides the universe and "Doth the ravens feed, yea providently caters for the sparrow." Yet there are certain circumstances which heighten and sharpen the always solemn lesson of death. When a man is cut down in his prime, with all his natural forces unabated and his power of mind and character still widening and strengthening, the blow strikes us with peculiar keenness. When that man is also the actual representative of the sovereignty of the state, to whom has been given authority and command, and in whose hands have been placed the power to give or withhold liberty and life, his death touches the heart and the imagination alike, and the lesson of mortality sounds to us in louder and deeper tones than ever before. Then come home to us the words of the Elizabethan poet:

> The glories of our blood and state
> Are shadows, not substantial things;
> There is no armor against fate;
> Death lays his icy hands on kings.

Such has been the sad experience of Massachusetts within the last month. For the first time in 70 years, the Psalmists' span of human life, the governor of the commonwealth has died in office. He has died with all his honors thick upon him, in the meridian of his usefulness, beloved and respected by all conditions of men. The office of governor has always meant a great deal to the people of Massachusetts. The early colonial tradition of the days when under a trading charter the Puritans built up an independent state, has never been lost. That tradition taught men to hold in reverance the head of the state which embodied for them and their fathers before them the great struggle for religious and political independence, which had brought them to the wilderness. Never has the governorship of the old state sunk in importance or come to occupy a secondary place in the political world. To be governor of Massachusetts has always been regarded by the people of the state as one of the highest honors to which a son of Massachusetts could attain. The people of other states have sometimes jested at this sentiment of ours, but it is none the less noble and wise. It springs from the just state pride which we all feel and has done much to give us the long line of distinguished men who have filled the high place of our chief magistrate. This sentiment in regard to the office encircles our governors with respect and honor while they live, and brings us in reverence and affection to mourn them when they are dead. Thus it is peculiarly fitting that the state should show to the memory of a governor who died at his post, faithful to the last, the honor in which his high office is held by all the people of the commonwealth.

But there is another and still better reason than this for the grief of the state, for the action of the official representatives of the people, and for these services here today. The governor, in virtue of his high place, is entitled to these honors; but the man himself has earned them by his public service, his character and his career, better titles to the respect and sorrow of Massachusetts than any official distinction can ever give.

The old saying, 'speak nought but good of the dead,' although sometimes abused and still oftener sneered at, is yet like many other old sayings, founded on the broad and generous sense of mankind. Men who make their mark upon their time in any way, and especially public men, are certain to meet with abundance of censure and misunderstanding in the heated struggles of our active, energetic life. When they have passed into history, when Dr Johnson's limit of the hundred years necessary to a right estimate has come and gone, history is sure to again criticise them, in its turn, with entire coolness, and let us hope with more even justice than their contemporaries. It is only right, therefore, and it is necessary also to that final summing up of history, when friendship and enmity have alike paled their fires, that there should be a moment in which all that is best in a man's life and work should be set forth without deduction, free alike from the sharpness of the contemporary critic, or the cold balancing of the future historian. Such a moment comes when we stand beside the hardly closed grave, and when grief and affection for the dead are uppermost in our hearts.

It is the fashion to call such utterances at such a time eulogy, which, after all, means merely the good word; and it is also the fashion to think of eulogy as in a large measure conventional and insincere. But this is, after all, a shallow and a narrow view. Rough manners do not necessarily mean rugged honesty, although they are sometimes employed to convey that idea. Eulogy is more likely to be true than invective; and good words than bad. Criticism has fallen so much into the evil habit of mere fault-finding that it is generally understood to mean only hostile comment. It is too often forgotten that the true function of criticism is to point out the virtues as well as the defects, and that the highest criticism is that which, unblinded by prejudice and fearless in its blame of error, points out to the world what is best in a book or in a man. Therefore, we meet today not to utter the vain commonplaces of perfunctory praise in memory of a man who loved truth and hated shams, but to eulogize our dead governor because he deserves eulogy, the good words of truth which love and sorrow bring naturally to our lips.

The highest praise we can bestow upon any man is to say that the story of his life, of what he said and what he did, of what he was and how he took part in the life of his time, is his best eulogy. We can say this truthfully of our dead governor and it is enough, for that simple statement is in itself the full meed of honor. It is in his life that I have found his best eulogy, for there his own works praise him better than any words of mine can possibly do.

His Early Life.

Frederick Thomas Greenhalge was born in Clitheroe, county of Lancaster, England, July 19, 1842, the only son in a family of seven children of William and Jane (Slater) Greenhalge. The father, William Greenhalge, was the son of Thomas Greenhalg of Burnley. The latter was the son of John Greenhalg, who was the son of Thomas Greenhalg, attorney-at-law in Preston. The surname of the Lancaster family was apparently spelled without a final "e," and is thoroughly and characteristically English. William Greenhalge, the father of the governor, is described by those who knew him as a man of education, and possessed also of much artistic ability. Some of the pictures painted by him are said to be still preserved in Edenfield, where the family lived for a time. About the year 1847 William Greenhalge joined his brother Thomas as a master engraver to calico printers, under the style of Greenhalge Bros., their works being situated at Stubbins Bridge, between Rams Bottom and Edensfield. The business, however, did not prosper, and in May, 1855, William Greenhalge with his wife and family emigrated to America, in order to improve his fortunes, and in pursuance of an engagement with the Merrimac Printing company at Lowell, to take the general management of the engraving department, at a salary of £400 per annum, and an increase at the expiration of three years. The salary was a high one for those times, and it shows beyond all doubt that William Greenhalge was a man of training and artistic capacity, able to take control of the important department of design, upon which the success of print works so largely depends.

As soon as he had settled in his new position his children were sent to school, and his only son was evidently a precocious lad, and early took high rank in his classes. In the high school, at Lowell, he is recalled as a leader of his class and the first winner of the Carney medal. He also showed even at this early age the taste for literature which accompanied him through life by establishing a school review, edited and written by the boys, which I believe is still continued. As was to be expected, this eager, active-minded boy longed for the highest education, and, in the fall of 1859, after the usual preparation, he entered Harvard college. His course there was not without distinction. At the close of his sophomore year he was elected orator of the "Institute of 1770," and subsequently became one of the editors of the old Harvard Magazine.

Love of learning brought him to Harvard through much hard work and many sacrifices. But he was not a mere book worm. He had then as always that sanest of qualities, a great love for outdoor air and outdoor sports. His fondness for them indeed resulted in an accident from which he suffered for many years. Those were the days, not of the football games which we know and which timid people denounce because now and then some one is hurt, but of what were known as football fights, in which there was very little football and a great deal of fighting. The classes faced each other on the Delta with the football between them and fought. It was a rough pastime in which in one form or another English speaking boys have always indulged and which has done the race a great deal of good in the long run. The Duke of Wellington thought that the spirit it engendered enabled him to win the battle of Waterloo.

Greenhalge went in with his fellows because he was thoroughly brave and healthy minded, and loved to taste the delight of battle with his peers. If he had not had that spirit he would not have been the man he was, and it went with him through life. He had the ill luck to be one of those who were seriously hurt. In a fall he injured his back, and suffered much from it for some time afterwards, but he never complained, and was always glad that he stood up in the rough football fight just as he stood up in later years, with the same spirit, in the greater battles of professional and public life. He loved his college life, but was not destined to complete his course at that time. His college career was suddenly interrupted by the death of his father in 1862, his junior year at Harvard, and the young student of 20 suddenly became the mainstay and sole support of his mother and six sisters.

Like many another college boy brought sharply face to face with the hardest realities of life, Greenhalge found temporary employment as a school teacher at Chelmsford. Subsequently he was employed in the American Bolt Shop at Lowell, but devoted all his spare time to the study of law in the office of Brown & Alger. While he was thus meeting the responsibilities thrust upon him, the nation was engaged in the mighty struggle of the civil war. To this Mr. Greenhalge could not remain indifferent. He had become a thorough American. He hated slavery and love of country was strong within him. So he put aside all private interests and Determined to Enter the Army.

Unfortunately his physical condition at that time, owing to the accident in college, was not good, and the examining surgeon, to whom he presented himself, rejected him with the comment that there were enough "sick boys in the hospitals already."

Greenhalge's action was characteristic of the man. Despite the medical verdict he determined to go to the front, be the cost what it might. Accordingly, in October of 1863, he went to Hewberne, N. C., and was there placed in charge of the commissary department. When the city was attacked in February, 1864, he offered his services in the defense and was given a command of a force of colored troops. While engaged in that duty, he was stricken down with malarial fever and after a few weeks' illness was sent home and discharged. This was his first glimpse of the south, to which a little more than 30 years later he was to return on another and far different errand, as the Governor of Massachusetts bearing a message of fraternity and good will to a sister state. He had thrown his whole energy into the Union cause, and the result of his efforts was bitterly disappointing. There was a touch of pathos in the way he summed up his army experience. "I got," he says, "neither commission, pension nor record—nothing but malaria." Yet he deserved as well as men who got all three, for he gave all he could. He served whenever he could help his country without a thought of self, and no man can do more.

After his recovery from the sickness caused by his service in the Union army he renewed his law studies, and in 1865 he was admitted to the Middlesex bar, entering at once upon the practice of his profession. In 1870 he received from Harvard the degree of A. B. Two years later he married Miss Nesmith, daughter of Lieutenant Governor John Nesmith, whose name and family have been so long and honorably connected with the growth and upbuilding of Lowell from the earliest days of the city. He was now established in life. Happy in his home and his marriage, devoted to his children, earnest in the pursuit of his profession, he was also respected by his fellow townsmen and popular in society, where his charm of manner, his wit and humor, his cleverness as an amateur actor, were all appreciated.

Four years before his marriage he had taken his first step in public life. In 1868 he was chosen to the common council and was re-elected the following year. He also organized the Grant Campaign club in Lowell and was its business manager. It has been said that Mr. Greenhalge's friends found it difficult at first to interest him in active politics, although the larger public questions always absorbed his attention. How true this may be I do not know, but his aptitude for political affairs and his gift of eloquent speech were unmistakable, and once embarked in a political career he soon became a leader in municipal affairs. Such honors and responsibilities as the city could give came to him in varied forms for well nigh a score of years, and it is evident that he early won and never lost a high place in the esteem and affection of the people of Lowell. From 1871 to 1873 he was a member of the school board. In 1874 he was made a special justice of the police court at Lowell and served for 10 years, when he resigned.

Is Elected Mayor.

In 1879 he was brought forward as a candidate for mayor. This was done in the face of the opposition of many of the older politicians, who feared that he could not develop strength enough to beat his opponent, a popular Democratic leader. His friends thought otherwise, went vigorously to work, and carried Greenhalge delegates in four of the six wards. Events justified their wisdom and their belief in their candidate, for Mr. Greenhalge was elected by a handsome majority, and served during the years 1880 and 1881, showing the same independence of thought and action which were so characteristic of his whole career. During his term of office he presided at the memorial exercises held on the South common in memory of President Garfield and delivered upon that occasion an address which was much admired at the time, and which added to his growing reputation as a speaker. He also drafted the memorial resolutions adopted by the city council. In 1881 he was an unsuccessful candidate for state senator. Three years later he was elected a delegate from the Lowell district to the Republican national convention at Chicago.

It was there that I was first brought into close relations with him. I had known him before, but only slightly. At Chicago I came to know him well, and I have very seldom met any man who attracted me so strongly and so quickly. We were fighting a losing fight against the popular candidate, because we thought it our duty to do so. I was at once impressed by Mr. Greenhalge's good sense, by his modesty, his entire fearlessness, and his indifference to personal considerations. What most drew me to him was that quick sympathy which was his greatest charm and which was enhanced by his sense of humor, the most sympathetic of all qualities.

As is well known, we were beaten in the convention, but, although the contest had been heated, and even bitter, Mr. Greenhalge did not swerve or vary in his loyalty to his party or in the fidelity which we believed simple honesty and good faith required us as delegates to show to the brilliant leader whom we had opposed and whom the convention nominated. A soon as he reached home, Mr. Greenhalge at once made a strong speech in Lowell in support of Mr. Blaine and of the Republican party, whose principles and policies he believed essential to the welfare and prosperity of the country.

As he began so he went on and gave generously, as he always did, of his time and strength to upholding and advocating the Republican cause. In the year following the presidential election he was one of the Lowell representatives to the lower branch of the state legislature, where he did excellent service. He was elected owing to his personal popularity in a Democratic district, but was defeated for re-election by one vote. Upon the occasion of the semi-centennial of Lowell in 1886, he delivered the historical address which added still further to his reputation as an orator. In 1888 he was chosen city solicitor.

His successful career in Lowell, together with his popularity, his services in the political campaigns and his standing as a public speaker, marked him for higher preferment and as a man fit for a larger field of action. The presidential campaign of 1888 brought the opportunity, and his party in the district turned to him as their candidate for congress. The fight which followed his nomination was a stubborn one, but he made an aggressive and effective canvas, and was elected by a handsome plurality.

In the Nation's Congress.

When he resigned his office as city solicitor in 1889 to go to Washington, the first period of his life closed. He was now to enter upon the broader field of national politics, and he came to it at a time of great stress and excitement. The Fifty-first congress was not a peaceful one. It was the second Republican congress since the days of Grant and the party majority hung by a slender thread.

There was a great work to be done, nothing less than the reform of the rules and the restoration to the majority of its rights and responsibilities. The opening days of the session were marked by great turbulence, and all the known tactics of obstructive parliamentary warfare were resorted to by a resolute and defiant opposition. It was a time which demanded the best resources of trained and experienced leadership, and there seemed to be but a slight opening for new and untried men.

When the house organized and the committees were announced, Mr. Greenhalge found himself placed on the committee on elections, revision of the laws, and reform in the civil service. To the first of these committees was entrusted the important function of hearing and deciding contests for seats, of which there was an unusually large number in this congress, most of them coming from southern states. Party feeling ran high and the debates which followed the various reports on election cases provoked great partisan bitterness. To the work of this committee Mr. Greenhalge devoted himself with his accustomed energy and ability.

The first case to be called up was the one of Smith vs. Jackson from West Virginia. During this debate Mr. Greenhalge made his maiden speech. The occasion could not have been more happily selected. The House was crowded and the interest was intense. His analysis of the legal points involved was lucid and convincing, and the whole speech was tinged with a delicious satire which caught the house at once. At the close he was accorded hearty and enthusiastic applause. The house recognized at once that he was a sound lawyer, a brilliant speaker and a strong debater, and the opinion of the house on those points is of the best and is not easily won. It was a triumph for a first speech. Henceforth his place was secure and he became at once one of the leaders of the house.

His reputation thus made, he found himself beset by every contestant for assistance. These appeals he found it difficult to resist, and he did much effective work in placing these election controversies before the House. The amount of labor involved in sifting evidence in each case was immense, but the reward came in the form of an established legal and forensic reputation.

It is impossible to do more than allude to perhaps his most eloquent effort while a member of the house—the speech made in the Waddill vs. Wise case. Edmund Waddill, Jr., the Republican candidate, contested the seat of his Democratic opponent, who had been given the certificate of election from one of the Virginia districts. It was clearly shown in the evidence that in three precincts of one ward in the city of Richmond long lines of colored voters had remained standing in front of the election booths throughout the night before election and during the entire election day until the polls were closed, in the vain hope of being allowed to cast their ballots. The whole question of the right to the seat turned upon whether these ballots should be counted.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Greenhalge said: "Shall the law be ineffectual? Shall the white majesty of the law stand silent, powerless, inactive as yonder obelisk, or shall that law be clothed with power and strength enough to give to every man in that colored line the same rights that the white millionaire has? Mr. Speaker, I have heard and read with admiration of that memorable 'thin, red line' which repelled the fiery onset of Napoleon at Waterloo, but I say that this 'thin, black line,' standing from sunrise to sunset in Jackson ward, means as much for human freedom and civil liberty as the memorable 'thin, red line, at Waterloo.

"I go further, Mr. Speaker, I say that if this house does not do justice to every man in those lines in the first, third and fourth precincts of Jackson ward, in the city of Richmond, and count every vote there legally tendered, then the flaming lines of Gettysburg were nothing more than a vain and empty show, and even the grand words of Lincoln spoken over the graves of Gettysburg become only as 'sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.'"

The wave of popular discontent which engulfed the party in power in 1890 carried Mr. Greenhalge down with it, despite his personal popularity, and owing to his neglect of his own interests by going out of his district to give generous aid to other Republicans. He made a gallant fight, but was defeated by about 450 votes. If his disappointment was acute at thus finding himself unexpectedly thrust back on the threshold of a brilliant congressional career, no sign of it escaped him. He went cheerfully back to the practice of his profession, and there is no doubt that for a time he regarded his public life as closed. As early as April, 1892, in a letter to the chairman of the congressional committee he declined to have his name considered as a candidate for congress in the approaching canvass.

Is Elected Governor.

The unlooked for and accidential defeat of the Republican nominee for governor in 1892 made the selection of a new candidate probable in the succeeding year. Several gentlemen were put forward, and during the summer months of 1893 a friendly and earnest contest was waged for the nomination. Sometime before the convention assembled, however, it became apparent that Mr. Greenhalge was the popular choice, and the other candidates withdrew.

The incidents of the campaign that followed are still fresh in the public mind. After a canvas of great brilliancy, Mr. Greenhalge was triumphantly elected, thus restoring the line of Republican Governors, which had been broken for the longest period in the history of the party since it had been dominant in Massachusetts, and on the 4th of January, 1894, he was inaugurated. In the fall of 1894, and again in 1895, he was re-elected by enormous majorities, the largest that had been cast for any governor in almost a generation.

When he first received the nomination he told the convention that he accepted it as the greatest responsibility of his life, and his subsequent career showed that this feeling never left him for an instant. Throughout his administration he did his duty as he conceived it, without regard to his personal interests or to the effect of his acts upon his own political fortunes. He may have made mistakes; every successful man who does things worth doing is sure to err at times, and he would have been the last man to claim infallibility, for he was too human and too manly, but he never acted from a mean or low motive, and he had a quick and sound judgment. He decided each question as it was presented to him independently and fearlessly, not infrequently against the advice and judgment of some of his warm supporters. He had entire courage, physical and moral.

Early in his first term a mob entered the state house. They had done no harm, but they were in that uncontrolled condition when serious danger was likely to spring up in an instant. A mass of human beings in a panic or in a mob, excited and leaderless is always a peril. When the governor heard that this crowd was in the state house and menacing the legislature, he did not stop to consider what should be done, but went out at once, and looked disorder so squarely in the face, that quiet was restored. This was the quick instinct of the high spirited man, when the sudden pressure comes, the two-o'clock-in-the-morning courage which Napoleon admired. Governor Greenhalge sent no one; he went himself to meet the peril if there was one, and at his coming the danger faded and fled.

Courage of a different kind he had also, that moral courage which makes a decision among conflicting interests and after careful consideration as he showed on various occasions. He did not shrink from putting his veto upon a measure which had a powerful interest or a popular cry behind it, whenever he thought his duty to the state required it and the state sustained him, and even the people whom he disappointed in the end respected and trusted him more. He was not opinionated, but for none of his more important acts, when he came to review them dispassionately, did he experience any regret.

He was justly conscious of his purity of motive and the apologetic attitude was one he never assumed. A conspicuous instance of this trait appeared the last time he faced a Republican convention. He alluded to certain strictures which had been passed upon him, and then with an outburst of deep feeling he closed a brief reference to his course in office by saying to the delegates who had just nominated him for a third time, "In the language of the great reformer, 'So help me God, I could not do otherwise.'"

He was diligent and industrious in his daily work and never shirked details. With the growth of the state the labors of the executive have multiplied, and Governor Greenhalge discharged them all conscientiously and faithfully. The work now incident to the office, the work really due to the public, is enough to tax sufficiently the strength and ability of any man.

But, insensibly, there has grown up the habit of expecting the governor of Massachusetts to be present and to speak at all sorts of gatherings and on all kinds of occasions, wholly unofficial and in no sense properly pertaining to the office. These incessant demands Governor Greenhalge met with the generosity which was so marked a quality of his character. But the demands ought never to have been made or complied with, for they put upon him such a burden and so strained both body and mind that at last his health gave way.

At first the illness seemed trifling. Then with a terrible shock we heard that he was dying; and in a few days the end came. He died in his prime, worn out in the public service, and the people of a great American commonwealth watched with loving sympathy over his last hours, and mourned beside his grave, near the busy city which he loved, and to which he had come, a little boy of English birth, forty years before.

A Thorough American.

So this honorable life of work and conflict, of happiness and success, closed. The first thought that comes to me as I look back over the record, is the strong race quality shown by Governor Greenhalge. He was born in England. He was of ancient English stock formed by the mingling of Saxon and Dane years before the "galloping Norman came." He was 13 years old when he came to Lowell and all the strong associations of his childhood belonged to England.

Yet no better, no more thorough American ever lived than he. There was no foreign prefix and no hyphen attached to his Americanism. He got his education here; he absorbed the spirit of our life; he was full of patriotism; he was for America against the world. The fact is he came from the old home of the English-speaking people, to find here the larger part of that people as it exists today, and in both branches the great race qualities, forged and welded through more than 1000 years of toil and strife, are the same. The differences are superficial, the identities profound.

To a man like Governor Greenhalge, the ideas, the beliefs, the habits, the aspirations of the great American democracy appealed more strongly than those of the land he had left. The air of America was more native to him than that of the country of his birth. So he became and lived and died an American in every fibre of his being, something always worthy of remembrance among a people proud of their country and believing in its destiny.

One reason for his Americanism was that he was Democratic in the true sense, cringing to no man, courteous to all. He was simple in his life, devoted and tender to wife and children, a lover of home, the alter and shrine of the race who read the Bible in the language of Shakespeare. He was brave and loyal; loyal with that chivalrous loyalty which is not too common, but which leads a man like him to come unasked to the aid of a friend and to give and take blows in a friend's behalf, as the black knight came to the side of Ivanhoe when he was sore beset.

He was honest in word and deed, and untouched by the unwholesome passion for mere money, which is one of the darkest perils of these modern times. He loved literature and books with a real love and reverence, and held scholarship in honor as it has always been held in New England, and I trust ever will be.

Of his qualities and gifts as a public man there is little need for me to speak. They are known to you all, and are fresh in your remembrance. The echoes of that ready speech, now flashing with humor and satire, now rich in eloquence and feeling, in imagery and allusion, still sound in our ears.

With memory sharpened by sorrow, we all recall his ability in administration, his capacity for business, his unfailing charm of manner, his simple but strong religious faith, and his large and generous tolerance. These qualities were known and honored of all men, and they had their reward, not in the high offices that came to him, but in the confidence and affection which he inspired.

His life was worth living. He made it so both for himself and for others. He did a man's work, he fought a man's fight, he made his mark upon his time. It is a life worth studying, not merely because it was an example of the rise from small beginnings to great conclusions, which it is one of the glories of our country to make possible for all men, but because it was a life of lofty aims, of high hopes, of honorable achievement.

He has left us a fine and gracious memory to be treasured in the history of the old state he served so well, and let this thought mingle with our sadness, and linger longest in our memories. Let us end, as we began, with the Elizabethan poet, no longer stern, but in a softer, tenderer strain.

> Let us not forget that if "The garlands wither on our brow," it is also true "The actions of the just smell sweet and blossom in the dust."

"Is Life Worth Living?"

Life is worth living if we live aright,
Eyes to the front, the final end in view—
The end when all aims trivial or untrue
Must burst like airy bubbles on our sight.

Life is worth living if we do our best.
Our best is often greater than we dream.
Immortal souls with mighty forces teem;
They are revealed by him who makes the quest.

Life is worth living when our secret thought
Hides no least wish or impulse, hope or aim,
That can bring disappointment, sorrow, shame
Or hurt to any fellow being's lot.

Life is worth living when we strive to be
Of greater use tomorrow than today,
Molding ourselves from rough, unsightly clay
To something lovely for the world to see.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Youth's Companion.

Uncle Jotham's Boarder.

I've kep' summer boarders for years and allowed
I knowed all the sorts that there be,
But there come an old feller last season along
That turned out a beater for me.
Whatever that feller was arter I vow
I hain't got the slightest idee.

He had an old bait net of thin, rotten stuff
That a minner could bite his way through,
But he never went fishin—at least in the way
That fishermen gen'ally do—
But he carried that bait net wherever he went;
The handle was p'inted in two.

And the bottles and boxes that chap fetched along!
Why, a doctor would never want more!
If they held pills and physic, he'd got full enough
To fit out a medicine store,
And he'd got heaps of pins, dreffle lengthy and slim,
Allers droppin about on the floor.

Well, true as I live, that old feller jest spent
His hull days in loafin about
And pickin up hoppers and roaches and flies,
Not to use for his bait to ketch trout,
But to kill and stick pins in and squint at and all.
He was crazy's a coot, th' ain't no doubt.

He'd see a poor miller a-flyin along—
The commonest, everyday kind—
And he'd waddle on after it, fat as he was,
And foller on softly behind,
Till he'd flop that air bait net right over his head,
And I'd laugh till nigh out of my mind.

Why, he'd lay on the ground for an hour at a stretch
And scratch in the dirt like a hen;
He'd scrape all the bark of the bushes and trees
And turn the stones over, and then
He'd peek under logs, or he'd pry into holes.
I'm glad there ain't no more sech men.

My wife see a box in his bedroom one day,
Jest swarmin with live caterpillers.
He'd fed 'em on leaves off of all kinds of trees—
The ellums and birches and willers—
And he'd got piles of boxes, chock full to the top
With crickets and bees and moth millers.

I asked him one time what his business might be.
Of course I 'fust made some apology.
He tried to explain, but sech awful big words!
Sort of forren, outlandish and collegey.
'S near's I car tell, 'stead of enterin a trade,
He was tryin to jest enter mology.

And Hannah, my wife, says she's heerd of sech things;
She guesses his brain warn't so meller.
There's a thing they call nat'ral histerry, she says,
And, whatever the folks there may tell her,
Till it's settled she's wrong she'll jest hold that air man
Was a nat'ral histerrical feller.

JOHN STETSON DEAD.

A Bostonian Who Became Famous as a Theatrical Manager.

Accumulated a Large Fortune In the Business.

Head of Banking House and Recently Opened a Large Hotel.

BOSTON, April 18.—John Stetson, the veteran theatrical manager of this city and New York, died at 1:30 this morning at his residence on Commonwealth avenue. To members of the theatrical profession, both in this country and in Europe, the news will be received with great regret.

As a business man, Mr. Stetson bore a high reputation for integrity and fair dealing, while socially he possessed a host of friends.

Although not enjoying good health for several months past, his last sickness dates from last Tuesday evening, when he was taken with a chill. Nothing serious was looked for, however, until last Thursday night, when pneumonia developed of so acute a form as to require the constant attendance at his bedside of his physician, which state of affairs continued until his death.

The most important business connection of Mr. Stetson began about 35 years ago, when he became connected with the Boston Police News and Boston Job Print, which concerns he was instrumental in placing upon a solid financial basis. Later he became the proprietor of the Howard Athenæum in this city, which during its palmy days was a noted variety theater. His next theatrical venture was as owner and manager of the Boston Globe theater, where appeared, owing to Mr. Stetson's enterprise, the most prominent theatrical stars and companies visiting this country.

He was a associated with Isaac Rich in certain ventures, and managed many stars throughout the United States, such as Sothern, the elder; Mary Anderson and companies presenting the "Mikado" and several other Gilbert and Sullivan's operas. For many popular operas he and, considering the enormous royalty, made a large fortune out of them.

Upon the burning down of the Globe theater, Mr. Stetson secured possession of the Park theater, which he retained up to the time of his death, building upon the site of the old Globe theater the magnificent Savoy hotel, which has just been opened. Mr. Stetson was also the head of the Stetson banking house in this city, and was also the owner of a brokerage establishment which at one time had a branch in nearly every city in New England. Of late years everything with which Mr. Stetson has been connected has turned out very successfully financially.

John Stetson was born in Charlestown in 1836. He had a stormy youth, and had but little, if any, supervision over his childish life. His father was a native of Maine, and his mother was born in Charlestown.

As a small boy he spent a considerable portion of his time in and around stables, being employed at one time at East Cambridge in a livery stable connected with a hotel. From this humble beginning he became probably the wealthiest theatrical manager in the United States, and accumulated a fortune which was not the result of accident or what is commonly designated luck.

He was a keen student of character, possessed large administrative ability, and, though his education was scanty, he understood the management of his large business thoroughly, and was the head and front of it in all its ramifications. He was an indefatigable worker and was always found equal to the occasion.

He married, in 1887, Miss Kate Stokes, daughter of the formerly well-known circus proprietor. Mrs. Stetson, with her three sisters, received a thorough training as equestriennes and were all popular. Mrs. Stetson is a handsome woman. She gave up her profession upon her marriage. Her first husband was Carl Anthony, a horse trainer and rider, from whom she was divorced.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

In Memory of the Bay State's Governor Who Recently Died.

BOSTON, April 18. — The Greenhalge memorial exercises in Mechanics' building this afternoon are worthy of the state of Massachusetts. The hall is tastefully decorated with black, relieved by clusters of flags and state emblems.

Many hundred yards of laurel are employed for garlands to decorate the balconies, and the stage is adorned with potted plants, surrounding a large floral arch in front of the organ. The entire stage is given up to the musicians. Fifty-nine of the Symphony orchestra are playing by the courtesy of Colonel Higginson, and the Cecelia choir of 150 voices is to sing Brahms' requiem, conducted by Mr. Lane. The orchestra is also to play the overture to the oratorio of "St. Paul," by Mendelssohn, and the national hymn, "America," is to be sung by all.

The committee congratulate themselves upon securing the services of Senator Lodge to deliver the eulogy. In front of the stage occupied by the musicians a platform, 12 feet broad, is built out into the hall. On the corner of this is placed the bust of the late governor, in front of a screen of palms on a pedestal draped with flags.

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott presided on this platform, with the orator on his right hand, and the chaplain, Dr. Hale, on his left, while behind him were seated the governors of Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, each accompanied by his staff. Two hundred officers of the army, navy and militia were in uniform on the floor.

Fire Conquered.

FALMOUTH, Mass., April 18.—Seventy-five men fought fire for their homes, their families and their own safety yesterday afternoon. They conquered, and in their success they overcame the greatest forest fire the Cape Cod region has seen for half a century. For two days and two nights they struggled with the element, harassed on every side, threatened at every quarter, and, until yesterday afternoon, defeated at every point, until finally they were rewarded by success.

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 18.—The senate passed to be engrossed the bill to define the membership of the First Congregational church in Lowell, which will put the Kengott faction on top there. The house rejected the bill to except Boston from the provisions of the law allowing abutters to object to granting of liquor licenses within 25 feet feet of them. The bill to divide Boston into aldermanic districts was recommitted after a substitute bill of Mr. McCarthy of Boston had been rejected, providing for the nomination of 12 candidates of each party by districts, to be elected at large. A bill was reported for the control of the Franklin fund of the city of Boston by a new board of trustees.

Five Children Suffocated.

TURNER'S FALLS, Mass., April 18.—This village experienced its saddest fatality yesterday, when five children were burned and suffocated to death in a tenement house on L street. The names of the dead are Alme Dubois, 4 years; Lena Dubois, 7 years, both children of Joseph Dubois; Rosie Roumier, his stepdaughter, a girl of 13; Josephine Coumartine, a girl of 12, and Edward Coumartine, 10 years, the children of Charles Coumartine, a baker. All were of French nationality. The fire broke out in the basement of a market occupied by Roberts & Son, in a four-story brick tenement house owned by the older Roberts. It was first discovered by Henry Roberts in his tenement above the market.

Don't Want Him to Leave.

GREENFIELD, Mass., April 18.—All the pupils in the high school, with one exception, yesterday petitioned the school board not to accept the resignation of Principal Whiting. A petition circulated among the business men, asking the committee not to accept the resignation, was generally signed. At the board's meeting many friends of Mr. Whiting presented a petition and an informal hearing followed. After the hearing the board voted unanimously to ask Mr. Whiting to withdraw his resignation. This he will do.

Bank Must Settle.

PROVIDENCE, April 18.—A verdict of $700, with interest at 2 per cent yearly, was yesterday rendered in the suit of Annie E. Miller vs. the Westminster bank. In this instance the plaintiff alleged that six years ago she gave Teller Curtis Aylesworth (now deceased) of the bank $700 to invest for her, and that an account had not been made of the money. The bank claimed that it had nothing to do with the money.

Shoe Workers Quit Work.

MILFORD, Mass., April 18.—The lasters and lasters' fitters of the Milford Shoe company's factory struck yesterday for an increase in the price of piece work. The fitters demanded an increase of 6 cents a dozen on box-toed shoes. The firm assented to the proposition, but deducted the 6 cents from the plain-toed work. The men refused to submit to the arrangement and went out, the lasters following in sympathy.

Ives Defeats Schaefer.

BOSTON, April 18.—Frank Ives won the closing game and the championship in the second series of international billiards last night, defeating Jake Schaefer 300 to 284. Both Schaefer and Ives had each two victories to their credit, and last night's game decided the championship. Schaefer was the favorite with the majority of the spectators, and his defeat was a great disappointment.

The Killhams Arrested.

BOSTON, April 18.—Officers last night arrested William W. Killham and his wife Etta Killham of Lynn, charged with assault and battery and false imprisonment of 3-year-old Celia Leonard since Oct. 6 '95. The parents and the police have had a long hunt for the missing child, and it is claimed that Mrs. Killham led the child away while playing near her home in Boston.

Wife Murderer Convicted.

NEW HAVEN, April 18.—The jury in the Colombe murder case, after being out 8 hours and 42 minutes, brought in a verdict of guilty in the second degree at 11:45 o'clock last night. Colombe, who is a French-Canadian woodchopper, killed his wife last winter at Bethany during a jealous rage, by beating her brains out with a club.

Bosses Won't Post Forfeit.

BOSTON, April 18.—After several weeks of fighting for increased wages, the painters and decorators of this city have won a promise of 30 cents an hour from the bosses, and now demand that the bosses post $100 forfeit as a guarantee of the fulfillment of the promise. This the contractors refuse to do, and the strike will be prolonged.

Won't Help Contractors.

BOSTON, April 18.—The Housesmiths' union of this city, acting on advices from New York, will refuse to supply any vacancies in that city, in the strike now on, from the demand of the New York union for nine hours' pay for an eight-hour day. Should the strike reach Boston, two thirds of the shops will be affected.

Horribly Lacerated by a Saw.

BELFAST, Me., April 18.—Charles Wing, 22 years of age, was engaged in cutting out barrel heads with a circular saw at Morrill, when the carriage stopped suddenly, throwing Wing upon the revolving saw. Wing's back, head, shoulders and ribs were cut, and his heart and abdomen laid open.

Marblehead's Strong Man.

SALEM, Mass., April 18.—An interesting contest occurred here last evening between Goodfin of Marblehead and De Beau of Salem, for the championship of the United States. Goodfin won, lifting 1299 pounds.

Not the Hugger.

HARTFORD, April 18.—Michael E. Crowe, an employe at the Pope company's factory, who was arrested Wednesday as "Jack the Hugger," was yesterday discharged, there being no evidence against him.

New England Briefs.

The fire in the woods near Newmarket, N. H., has stopped. The loss cannot be estimated as yet.

Timothy Riley, aged 26 years, was killed by a large stone falling upon him while at work in a quarry at Niantic, R. I.

John Craig, assistant steward on the steamer Scotsman, fell into the hold of the steamer at Portland, Me., and was fatally injured.

John L. Orseau, a sailor on the French bark Federation, fell from the gangplank, while boarding the vessel at Boston, and was drowned.

The body of a colored man about 27 years old was found in a ditch alongside the railroad track near Niantic, R. I. His skull was fractured.

Professor John Fullonton of Lewiston, Me., is dead. He was about 80 years old, and was for many years a professor in the Cobb divinity school.

A marriage license was issued at Providence for Lee Loy, a laundryman, to take as his bride Alice Maud Blanche Hodgkins of Newouryport, Mass.

NO FINANCIAL TRACTS.

People Interested In Politics Prefer to Look Into Tariff Question.

Linton Does Not Desire a Presidential Nomination.

Massachusetts Democrats Will Push Russell For Nomination at Chicago.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Secretary Dowling of the National Republican league, who is now in the city, gives some significant facts concerning the demand for campaign literature now springing up.

The call is almost exclusively for tariff literature, according to Mr. Dowling; in some instances calls specify that they want no financial speeches, and from certain quarters financial literature is pronounced of no value. But the volume of popular demand is for the tariff and its allied topics.

A very careful system has been inaugurated through newspapers, clubs and reading clubs in each town for the distribution of this reading matter, and so marked has been the demand that the league is determined, unless specially ordered, to send out only tariff documents.

RUSSELL NAMED.

Massachusetts Democrats For Him First, Last and Always.

BOSTON, April 18.—Says the Post: Ex-Governor William E. Russell is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. His candidacy will be indorsed at the state convention of the party next Tuesday.

WILLIAM E. RUSSELL.

He will not be elected as a delegate-at-large from the state to the national convention.

This news was not made news till yesterday, when the young ex-governor announced his candidacy.

Thus one of The Post's prophecies as one of the results that might come from the great gathering of the national Democratic leaders at the home of Jefferson has been fulfilled, and the able and statesmanlike speech of the son of Massachusetts has brought him into the broad sunlight of the national Democracy.

On all sides the determination of the ex-governor to be a candidate is hailed with pleasure. He is popular as no other Democratic leader has ever been before in the history of the state.

There will be no differences in the convention. Is will be for "Billy" Russell, as his supporters delight to call him, first, last and always.

LINTON OUT OF IT.

Is Not and Has Not Been a Candidate For Presidential Nomination.

SAGINAW, Mich., April 18.—Congressman W. S. Linton, who has been urged by certain of the A. P. A. leaders as a possible candidate for president, is here at present. Mr. Linton denies that he is or has been a candidate, and says that the use of his name in connection with the Republican nomination for president is unauthorized, and that his name will not be presented to the St. Louis convention with his consent, and that he will not be a candidate on an independent A. P. A. ticket. Mr. Linton is a candidate for renomination for congress for this district.

Hard to Please Tillman.

WICHITA, Kan., April 18.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina made an extended free silver speech here yesterday. In an interview Tillman said in answer to a question: "If Whitney of New York is nominated at Chicago I would walk out of the convention; if Morrison is nominated I would feel like walking out, but would wait until I look up his record. I do not know where Morrison stands on the silver question, and I have not seen anybody in recent years who does."

Missouri's Silver Status.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Despite the free silver hurrah at the state convention in Missouri, those best informed declare that Bland himself could not carry the state on that issue. The last congressional elections support that view. As compared with their associates, free-silver men have not fared particularly well at the polls.

Wanted In New York.

ALBANY, April 18.—Governor Morton yesterday received a telegram from Secretary of State Olney, containing a telegram from Ambassador Bayard, announcing the capture of William R. Dunlop and William Turner—supposed to be the men who stole the Burden diamonds in New York city several months ago—by the London police. Requisition papers will be signed by Governor Morton. London authorities will be asked to hold the suspected men.

Goodby to Athens.

ATHENS, April 18.—At the reception to the foreign athletes who competed in the Olympic games the Americans presented to the Crown Prince Constantine a memorial crown. The American minister, Mr. Alexander, and their Greek competitors attended the foreign athletes to the railway station upon their departure yesterday amid great enthusiasm. The Americans have been the object of special attention here.

No Street Exhortations.

LONDON, Ont., April 18.—The citizens here have a decided aversion to the excitable methods of worship of the Salvation Army. The result of this feeling is that the Salvation Army officers have been notified by the chief of police that they will be arrested if they continue to hold meetings on street corners.

You consult a Physician,

But of what use can the doctor possibly be to you, if any "Tom, "Dick," or "Harry" is allowed to compound the prescription.

There are druggists-and-druggists, just as there are Physicians and so-called ones or Quacks.

A good thing to remember is that the man having the largest amount of capital invested in the business is not necessarily the best Pharmacist or Chemist. It is a question more of "BRAIN" than of "LUCRE."

The undersigned is not a doctor, and what is more, he does not claim to be in a position to give "pointers" to the qualified physician, but he attends to his own special business; and in prescription compounding he recognizes no superior.

BRAINTREE.

The Universalist ladies are making plans to have a May festival. They intend to make an enjoyable time of it.

The next regular meeting of the Norfolk Association will take place in the Paster church, Brockton, April 21. Parts will be taken by Revs. Kendall, Beale, Hardy and Hudson. This will be the annual meeting.

At Castle hall of Monatiquot Lodge, No. 83, last Monday evening, Mr. O. Q. Ball, P. C., presented to the lodge an elegant crayon portrait of himself, framed in oak and steel.

Conductor Harry Bates' new house on Sampson avenue is progressing.

The Osmodeus Orchestra will play in Weymouth next Tuesday night.

Two new open cars arrived Tuesday for the Braintree & Weymouth street railway.

Last Tuesday night, Grand Chief Templar Joseph A. Fancy and suite of Boston, initiated fifteen members into Monatiquot lodge, I. O. G. T., and installed the officers. Ten more members will be initiated next Monday night.

There was a grand Easter concert in the M. E. church at East Braintree last Sunday night. Short addresses were made by Dr. Cutting of Quincy and I. W. Horne. There was also singing and recitations by members of the Sunday school.

Rev. W. J. Kelly of Hope, R. I., who is now the new pastor of the M. E. church at East Braintree has already become very popular, and is preaching to a crowded house. He has hired one of Mr. Bates' tenements on Alta terrace.

Citizen Hobart, having passed a successful civil service examination and been thoroughly searched, has just been elected chairman of the delegation to the Democratic state convention, to choose delegates to the national convention. The Citizen has been kept on the outskirts of probation for the past two years, but now he is on the ground floor of solid Democracy.—Norfolk County Gazette.

Andrew Dyer, superintendent of streets, with his men has been busy this week repairing Union street.

Autumna Lodge, L. K. & L., held their meeting last Monday evening at Old Fellows hall. The meeting was well attended.

Mr. C. G. Thompson was the first man to pay his dog tax and the name of the only legal dog in town for next year is George Washington Bitters.

The bottom has dropped out of winter and there are signs that show that spring is here. The grass is green, the wild geese have gone north, the editor has on his straw hat and the popular post master of East Braintree has had his semi-annual "hair cut."

Thursday evening a concert and entertainment was given in the Town hall under the auspices of the Baptist society. There were a goodly number present. The programme was well rendered, and the various selections were much enjoyed.

Patriots' day coming on Sunday this year, it will be observed on Monday by the closing of all the schools.

Mrs. Clarissa B. Minchin, widow of the late John Minchin, died at her home on Middle street, at 5 o'clock, April 17, of pneumonia at the age of 84 years.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas B. Hayes of Quincy was arraigned upon three complaints, viz, drunkenness, disturbing the peace and assault with a plate on Julia Hayes. He was fined $10 for drunkenness, discharged on the disturbing the peace case, and held in $400 until next Saturday on the assault warrant.

The continued case of Albert I. Perigo for drunkeness was called and he was defaulted.

Robert B. Courtney paid his fine of $5 for drunkenness.

Harry Tirrell was arraigned for the larceny of one fowl valued at $1 from Clarence A. B. Sherman at Braintree. Case continued one week.

The continued case of Mary E. Daly, of Holbrook, for criminal libel by distributing letters and circulars to injure the good name of Mary Good. Asa French appeared for the government and J. W. McAnarney for the defendant. A large number of witnesses were sworn. At 12 30 a continuance was taken until Tuesday, April 28.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

The reported death of Alma Stuart Stanley is denied.

May Howard, the statuesque burlesquer, is quite ill at her home in New York city.

Fay Templeton is now featured—the next best thing to starring—in "Excelsior, Jr."

Charles Frohman promises that John Drew will appear in a new play within a month.

James O'Neill and family will leave for Europe at the end of his present season, on June 1.

Minnie Palmer's company has disbanded, and her starring tour has been brought to a conclusion.

M. A. Kennedy will play the principal comedy part in A. M. Palmer's production of "The Absent Boy."

W. H. Thompson, Leo Dietrichstein and Blanche Walsh will play leading roles in "Under the Polar Star."

"When New York Sleeps" is the peculiar title of a new play that William A. Brady will produce next season.

Jessie Bartlett Davis gave a banquet to the chorus girls of the Bostonians at the Imperial hotel, New York, recently.

"The Reckoning," a sensational drama by Silvanus Dauncey, was recently produced at the Amphion theater, Brooklyn.

There will be nearly 50 speaking characters in the dramatization of "A Daughter of the Tenements." Every type in New York city is represented.

Maxine Elliott remarks that she prefers horseback riding to bicycling. She is an enthusiastic horsewoman and claims that that is the reason of her good health and spirits.

Loie Fuller may go to Chicago for two appearances at the termination of her engagement at Koster & Bial's at New York. Chicago is her home, and she has never appeared there since she became famous.

A FEW POKER DON'TS.

Don't ask what's trumps when playing poker. The other players may think you are jesting and frown upon you by means of a chair.

Don't expect to win every time you make a bet. There are lots of people still living who disobeyed this rule, but most of them are in the poorhouse.

Don't deal yourself more cards than you deal the others. Besides being an extremely selfish habit, it also causes adverse criticism and oftentimes sudden death.

Don't put all the chips you have in the center of the table for a bluff and then try to pull them back suddenly if somebody "sees" you. People have been severely injured for doing this very thing.

Don't open a jack pot with a pair of trays. Some players who have done this thing in a thoughtless moment are alive and well, others are in the hospital, and not a few have left this vain world entirely.

Don't, when playing with strangers, ask permission to examine their inside pockets and look up their sleeves for a cold deck. Such a proceeding is very rude and ungentlemanly and might cause some one to rise-up-Willie-Riley and smite you athwart the cheek.

Don't get angry when some one calls you and discovers that you have been talking eagerly with nothing in your hand save a flush that has the springhalt at one end. According to Hoyle, the rule in this case is to smile blandly, excuse yourself politely, retire into the hall and fall carelessly out of the second story window.—Exchange.

If we make a notable exhibit at Chicago showing our progress in cotton manufacturing and also bring some of our other leading interests to the front, it is safe to say that the result will be closer commercial relations between the south and the northwest.—Atlanta Constitution.

The people of the west and northwest are looking southward for homes. They want to know what the south can produce, and in what quantities. To carry our products to their doors and give them ocular proof will be the most convincing way in which to give them the information they seek.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Down in Georgia they will use the north pole to knock persimmons off the trees if Dr. Nansen will lend it to them.—Sparta Herald-Advertiser.

Perhaps we might compromise the Monroe doctrine to the extent of letting the European powers have the north pole on the strength of the icebergk line.—Detroit Free Press.

Possibly Nansen changed the combination while at the pole and that may account for the American weather bureau's persistent miscalculation of meteorological phenomena.—Keokuk Gate City.

The north pole's discovery is doubtless of great importance to humanity, but humanity doesn't fully realize the great work that will have been accomplished when the pole is safely secured and lodged in the Vatican or the Smithsonian Institution or the British museum.—Des Moines Leader.

RUSSELL'S BOOM

Formally Launched by Democrats of Massachusetts.

VOTE OF THE A. P. A.

Will Be Cast For Anybody but McKinley.

Rhode Island Democrats Would Like to See Whitney Nominated.

BOSTON, April 21.—The Democratic state convention met in Music hall today to elect four delegates-at-large and four alternates to the national Democratic convention to be held in Chicago July 7.

Judge John Corcoran called the convention to order. Hon. John R. Thayer of Worcester presided and Hon. Thomas J. Gargan read the resolutions.

The delegates-at-large chosen were Hon. John E. Russell, Judge John Corcoran, Hon. George Fred Williams and Hon. James Donovan.

Following is Chairman Thayer's address:

We meet as representatives of the Democratic party, to take such action and consider such measures as will be most conducive to Democratic success in the nation and in the state. The Democratic party seeks the election of no man to office for personal reasons alone, but rather as he may represent the principles which the welfare of the country and the greatest good to all our people demand. Our party is pre-eminently a party of the people, and we look with just pride upon its efforts in their behalf and the results already accomplished.

A very large proportion of the members of the party are to be found among the industrial masses and wage-earners of the country, and it is a fact of special interest and pride that by the long continued effort and untiring devotion of our party to the cause of labor, taking shape here in education, there in counsel, and still again in preparing, introducing and sustaining legislative enactments in state and nation for the advancement of the well-being of the labor classes.

Capital and labor are coming as never before to a more intelligent understanding of the rights of both, so that each is better prepared to intelligently and justly settle in an amicable way these great economic and industrial questions, which are so urgently forcing themselves upon the attention of the present, and will, we trust, in the near future, be amicably settled and effectually adjusted upon the broad principles of eternal justice to all.

We have cause this day for congratulation, in the fact that the promises and pledges made with the people at our last national convention have been redeemed and faithfully kept. At that convention our party pledged itself, if admitted to power and entrusted with authority, to repeal the three prominent political enactments which the Republican party, for the manifest purpose of perpetuating itself in power, had foisted upon the people.

We recall the long contest, the mighty struggle against an obstinate and determined opposition, strongly entrenched behind the money interests in the highly protected industries of the country, and while the results for long weeks and months hung trembling in the balance till, "hope deferred made the heart sick," finally the victory came and the pledges were redeemed, the promises fulfilled, and the force bill, the Sherman bill and the McKinley tariff bill were things of the past.

They went like a thief in the night, and may we hope and pray never to return. And, while it is true that our people, in common with those of most other countries, suffered from a general depression of business in the first two years of our Democratic administration, every candid, impartial mind will admit that the cause of this depression was not traceable to the Democratic administration or to Democratic enactments; that the causes were multifarious and their effects common to all nations.

In fairly considering this matter, it must be remembered that in this country this depression came upon us when the McKinley bill was in full force and effect. We also remember that this depression followed fast upon the depleted treasury which the Republican party left us as an abiding evidence of its economy and thrift. We saw the Republican administration resorting to every known scheme in the way of transferring balances in order to provide for and meet its current obligations during the last months of its existence. This was the legacy bequeathed to our party by our opponents. This is the evidence of their capacity and astuteness as public financiers.

Our administration accepted the situation and resolutely confronted the inevitable, and while it was unable for more than a year to stem the tide of depression which had set so strongly against us while the McKinley tariff bill was in active operation, yet in due time, after the repeal of the McKinley bill and after the repeal of the Sherman silver bill, and after the enactment of such measures as freed the raw materials of most industries and reduced and modified the practically prohibited duties on many others, we see prosperity returning to its normal condition and business interests reawakening to new life, mills, workshops, and manufactories teeming again with contented activity.

Two pests, apparently having much in common, made their appearance among us at about the same time. The one among cattle is known as tuberculosis; the other—among cranks and in the Republican party—is known as A. P. Aism, each alike destructive of health, liberty and life, and each in due time certain to destroy the body to which it attaches itself.

It is a lamentable fact that at least one-third of the Republican party in many of the northern states have their names enrolled upon the records of the American Protective association, and nearly as many more are fully in sympathy with their principles or want of principles, but are deficient in courage to publicly admit it.

Whatever accusation, true or false, our opponents may have made against the Democratic party, we have been spared the pain of fathering any such political deformity of progeny. This proscriptive association, like a forward, ungovernable child, is dictating terms which must be complied with if the parent is to have its assistance and support. The members who compose it are not backward or bashful. They know their strength and propose to assert it. What the outcome of this domestic infelicity will be, time alone can tell. It is sufficient for us that we have no part or place in the settlement of these two domestic difficulties, and we do not envy them their happiness in contemplating their parent's future prospects of success.

Who will best lead the Democratic hosts in the impending struggle for the continuance of honest government is a question which you may or may not feel called upon to consider. Our party is pre-eminently fortunate in having many distinguished Democrats whose names sparkle like stars in the political firmament, conspicuous among whom are two of Massachusetts' most able and worthy sons.

There has been no administration of any president for the last 20 years, more satisfactory to the business interests of the country in dealing with the national finances, under conditions imposed by an unsympathetic, do-nothing congress, than has been that of President Cleveland, and despite demagogic clamor and irresponsible jingoism, there has never before been more commanding dignity, courage and bright thinking in conducting our foreign affairs.

President Cleveland has shown himself at all times master of the situation. Under him our system has been restored to the honest simplicity impressed upon it by its founders. Integrity and ability have been substituted for artifice and incapacity in public places. The true spirit and letter of civil service has been zealously guarded and practically adhered to as never was attempted by any former Republican administration. No lisp of suspicion, scandal or dishonesty has been heard ever from the lips of our opponents. The rights and privileges of every citizen have been defended and maintained at home and abroad.

It is in him the business interests of the country, now reawakening to new life and hope, confide for that economy and repose which shall send capital and labor forth like twin brothers, hand in hand, to the great work of building still higher the country's prosperity.

And when his slanderers shall sleep the long sleep of oblivion in the grave of obscurity and their slanders are more dead than they; when the newspapers that have grossly maligned his intentions and traduced his motives have all passed from foul expression to fulsome eulogy, he will still live in the respect and gratitude of the nation, and the history of this nation will keep his name in proud and perpetual remembrance.

All honor and praise to Grover Cleveland, who will go down in history as one of the greatest men in public life in America in the last quarter of the 19th century.

Declaration of Principles.

Thomas J. Gargan read the platform, which follows:

When Grover Cleveland came to the presidency in 1885, he was confronted with this condition of our finances. By his courage and fidelity, and by the prudence and economy of a Democratic house, there was accumulated at the end of its first term, a surplus of more than $300,000,000 in the treasury, $190,000,000 of which was in gold to protect the national promises; on the return of the Republican party in 1889, this surplus of gold reserve had been reduced one half. The reckless expenditure of the public money and the passage of an act for the purchase of silver debauched the currency and impaired the credit of the nation.

When the Democracy again came into power in 1893, they found an empty treasury, a want of confidence on the part of the holders of American securities in foreign countries, which threw these back on our markets, forcing individuals and great corporations into liquidation. Thus the financial policy of the Republican party produced widespread distress and disaster.

The Democrats of Massachusetts, in convention assembled, recognize the exalted position which the President of the United States occupies as the chosen ruler of a nation of 70,000,000 of people. We feel that in his presence all hereditary rulers sink into significance. We rejoice in the fact that never in any epoch in our country's history has the chair been filled by a broader minded statesman than the president chosen by our party, Grover Cleveland. We extend to him our heartfelt congratulations on the firmness, ability and wisdom with which he has guided the helm of state, as the pilot to whom the people and the business interests of the country have looked anxiously, yet confidently, during the past three years to steer them through many troublous and stormy seas.

Recognizing the duty devolving upon the Democratic national convention, which is to assemble at Chicago to nominate candidates for the presidency and vice presidency and formulate a platform we declare that the Republican party practically controlled the finances of our country for one-quarter of a century. They inaugurated a currency system which led to the inflation of values and the creation of corporations with fictitious capital. Watered stocks and securities were floated upon the markets of the world at their face value, while in many instances they were not worth half that amount.

The leaders of this party have the unparalleled audacity to attribute the distress and disaster to a Democratic administration that had just come into power and had not changed a single law. With such a record, they ask the people of this country to restore them to power. With as much propriety might the incompetent and discredited directors of a bank corporation, wrecked by them, ask to have an honest receiver removed and the old directors returned to control. We protest against such a party being entrusted with the administration of the government, and declare that their return to power would be fraught with danger to the business interests and to the people of the country.

Believing that the true interests of the people require that the earnings of trade and wages of labor be paid in money that is intrinsically worth in all the markets of the world, what it purports to be worth, we demand the maintenance of the existing gold standard of value, and that the government shall keep all its obligations at all times redeemable and payable in gold, and we oppose the free coinage of silver and any further purchase of silver bullion, or the coinage thereof of government account.

We reaffirm the demands of our recent state platform, that the government shall take the initial steps for the withdrawal from circulation of the legal tender notes, issued in time of war under the pledge of prompt retirement.

We denounce the action of the Republican majority in the present house of representatives in attempting to reaffirm the law of 1878, requiring the perpetual reissue of these notes and their failure to deal properly and honestly with this problem. We declare our belief that this inaction has added to the impairment of our credit caused by their silver legislation enacted during two Republican administrations.

We demand that the necessity for an adequate medium of exchange in all sections of the country shall be met by provision of an elastic banking currency, subject to such government control as shall insure uniformity and redemption in standard coin on demand.

We tender our earnest thanks to the secretary of the treasury, Hon. John G. Carlisle, for his able efforts in behalf of sound money, not only in his conduct of the treasury, but also in his lucid and convincing presentation of this cause to the people of the country.

We recognize the benefit that has resulted to our manufactures and to the people of the country by the admission of wool and certain other raw materials free of duty. We believe the country could enjoy a much larger measure of prosperity if all raw material used in our manufactures were admitted free. The return of the Republican party to power means the enactment of a high protective tariff and the return to silver legislation, which will unsettle all values and seriously disturb the finances and business of the country.

The Democratic party, in sustaining through all its history the great pricipie of equal and exact justice to all men, has ever been the truest friend of the laboring classes, and we demand the suppression of all trusts, the strictest regulation of all monopolies and the enactment and execution of such laws as shall protect the rights of labor as well as those of capital with justice to all.

The Democratic party, adhering to its principles affirmed by its several conventions, respecting the rules governing appointments to office, demand that the legislative departments of the government shall co-operate with the executive in his efforts for the further reform of the civil service, to the end that merit, fitness and fidelity may be the only qualifications for public offices.

As a party that has sympathized with every people struggling for a larger liberty, we send to the brave Cubans words of encouragement and hopes for their success in the conquest they are now raging for independence.

We denounce the cowardly policy of the Republican party in coquetting with a secret political organization, and by inuendoes and platitudes in its platform endeavoring to conciliate men, whose object is to prevent a large number of the citizens of this republic from exercising their constitutional rights.

The Democratic party of Massachusetts adheres to the principles of our constitution and the Massachusetts bill of rights, pledges itself to equal rights, equal privileges and equal burdens, and declares that every denomination whose members demean themselves peaceably and as good citizens shall be equally under the protection of the law; that no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall be established by law, and that it is the absolute right of each citizen to worship God as his conscience dictates.

We believe the preservation of national life, the highest of all laws national. To threaten the life of the nation it is not necessary that a direct attack should be made upon us. It is the policy of this republic in the words of President Monroe "that the attempt of any European nation to extend its system to any portion of this hemisphere we consider as dangerous to our peace and safety; with the existing colonies or dependences we have not interfered, but with the governments that have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have acknowedged, we cannot view with indifference any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or in any manner controlling their destiny by any European nation.

The Democracy of Massachusetts believes such attempts to acquire territory would, if permitted, result in increased aggressions, so strengthening such nations as to make them in the near future too powerful for our continued peace.

"We have a duty resting on us which we cannot shirk without abandoning the traditional and established policy of the American people. This duty is to resist with our whole national strength any attempt by a European government to deprive our neighboring republics of portions of their territories.

This has been the doctrine proclaimed by every Democratic administration from James Monroe to Grover Cleveland. We endorse the firm and dignified position of the President of the Venezuelan boundary question, and we congratulate the country that in this crisis the office of secretary of state was filled by a man whose state papers have reflected new lustre on American diplomacy. An epoch-making statesman—a distinguished son of Massachusetts—a great American—Richard Olney.

Following long established Democratic custom, the Democrats of Massachusetts in convention assembled, will not in any way instruct their delegates, but they do declare that it is the wish of the Democratic party of the state to present, and they earnestly recommend to the consideration of the national convention, to be held in Chicago, as their candidate for the office of President of the United States, the name of their victorious, courageous, high principled ex-governor, William Eustis Russell.

SHOWING ITS HAND.

The A. P. A. Opposed to the Nomination of the High Priest of Protection.

CINCINNATI, April 21.—Since last Thursday there has been here a secret national meeting of the supreme officers and national executive boards of the A. P. A. Members have not registered at the hotels, in fact most of them have slept at boarding houses. Among those present are: Supreme President W. H. Traynor, supreme secretary, C. T. Beatty, Supreme Treasurer Ryan, national executive committeeman Thompson, and many others. Officers from Ohio and other states will arrive today.

Their purpose is confessedly political and hostile to McKinley for president. Judge J. H. Stevens, chairman of the national advisory committee and chairman of the propaganda and campaign committee, issued a circular to correct some misstatements in the press, the substance of which is as follows:

"The hostility of the organization to McKinley is not against him as a man, but against him for his antipathy to the order shown in his appointments while governor. The order does not oppose McKinley or any man because of his religion. The order made every effort, consistent with manhood, to reach McKinley without success. Congressman Grosvenor's denial that he refused to see the A. P. A. committee, and that he virtually insulted it, is untrue."

"All statements of Congressman Linton's withdrawing at St. Louis are unauthorized, and they were sent out by enemies of the A. P. A., to defeat its aim. Mr. Linton is neither directing any movement of his nomination nor making a personal effort in that direction. On the contrary, the A. P. A. recognizing him as their leader, and knowing him to be too good an American to refuse to do what patriotic citizens of this country require of him, have taken him up as their candidate before the St. Paul convention."

Rhode Island's Preference.

PROVIDENCE, April 21.—The Democratic delegates of Rhode Island who met in state convention last March, to nominate candidates for governor and other state officers, re-convened today with the same organization, to appoint the delegates to represent this state at the national convention in Chicago.

The Democrats of the state do not take into consideration the congressional districts in choosing their delegates to the national convention, but elect the entire delegation according to county divisions, giving four to Providence county and one to each of the other four counties.

The probable choices of the convention will be: Providence county, Richard B. Comstock, Miles A. McNamee and Jesse Metcalf, all of Providence, and George W. Greene of Woonsocket; Newport county, James G. Van Alen of Newport; Bristol county, John F. Conley of Warren; Kent county, John H. Tucker of Warwick; Washington county, David S. Baker of Wickford. The delegates will choose their own alternates.

R. B. Comstock presided and delivered a brief address, defining the questions at issue in the campaign, and declaring Rhode Island's position.

The platform endorses the Cleveland administration, and advocates the gold standard. The delegates will be for W. C. Whitney of New York for president, with ex-Governor Russell of Massachusetts as second choice.

Patriotic Services.

Patriots' Day was fittingly observed at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, on Sunday. Rev. Edward Norton preached a stirring patriotic sermon in the morning to a large congregation. A quintette including Misses Moxon, Coe, Hall and Messrs. Owens and Hall furnished most excellent singing. The evening service was very novel, being a social patriotic meeting. Addresses being made by Mr. C. F. Merrick and Mr. W. F. Cummings. Special singing of national airs, including Columbia, Star Spangled Banner and America by the congregation and a solo by Mrs. Cummings, were very pleasing.

—The best way to exterminate the gypsy moth, says the Somerville Journal, is to appropriate enough money to exterminate it now, and not simply enough to keep up the work of extermination for an indefinite length of time.

THE WISH.

So you would kiss the poet's lip
And catch the music his heart feels;
Would in his honeyed garden sip
The sweetness that each flower conceals

Oh, you have asked a foolish thing.
The poet's lip is not divine;
It cannot through its passion fling
The secret of the jealous nine.

But if you truly love, and he—
A poet lover—loves you, too,
His lip will drop a melody
More golden than the sirens knew.
—Charles T. Lusted in Blackwood's Magazine

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

When 15 years old, I was one of a crew of three that manned the little 28 ton schooner Ornament, which lay moored in Monhegan harbor—a deep, narrow strait between the islands of Monhegan and Manana, Maine. The entrance is from the south, and is unobstructed, while to the north the passage is barred by a rocky islet called Smutty Nose. This is separated from Manana by a narrow passage on the westerly side called Drunken Gut. The harbor is fairly good shelter except when the wind is from the southwest.

At daylight on the morning after our arrival at Monhegan there was a stiff breeze, with rain from the southwest, and by noon it had risen to a heavy gale. All day coasters, traders and fishing vessels ran in till about 20 sail were in harbor when night fell.

They were anchored as near together as they could be and yet swing clear of each other. This compact gathering would be well enough in a smooth harbor, but on little Monhegan, exposed to the increasing gale, with night coming on and the probability of a heavy sea running into the strait, the prospect looked serious. Should a vessel part her cables or drag her anchors, collision with those to leeward of her would be inevitable, and the result of collision might be disastrous.

When darkness came, the gale's fury increased. The unobstructed sea rolled into the narrow harbor in huge billows that dashed against Manana or Smutty Nose, or raged as breakers on the reefs about Drunken Gut. The vessels, hampered by their anchors and unable to rise freely on the surges, strained at their cables, plunging and rolling wildly, while nearly every wave toppled its crest upon their decks, or swept them from stem to stern.

About 9 o'clock, when the gale seemed at its height, a little craft that had been anchored all day just on our port bow dragged her anchors. Her crew, like some others, had sought safety on shore long before night. Swinging to our broadside, she began to pound against us and to break into pieces.

Her bowsprit snapped, her bulwarks crushed in fore and aft, her masts went over her taffrail. At last, plunging from the top of a big sea, we crashed down upon her forward deck. Her windlass bits gave way, and off she went, broadside to the wind, till she was lost in the gloom and rain.

Anxiously we crouched by the windlass, the captain's hand almost constantly upon either one cable or the other, that he might detect the first vibratory motion, indicating that the anchors were being dragged over the rocky bottom. But they seemed to hold securely. Our danger was of another sort.

I was crouching in the lee of the foremast to shelter myself from the wind and spray, when I heard the captain suddenly shout:

"Up, up with you, boys, quick! There's a coaster adrift, coming right for us!"

Through the driving rain, sure enough, came a big schooner stern first, wildly swinging to and fro, now toppling on a crest, now wallowing down in the hollow depths. Her gunwales almost rolled under, and her main boom, free from its lashing, swayed madly from side to side.

Just as we were receding from a rolling swell she crashed into us and snapped our bowsprit. Then she hung square across our bow.

"Quick, quick! Give me the ax!" cried the captain.

In a moment he severed both cables at the windlass, and we were drifting with the gale. No vessel lay directly astern of us. The captain's hope was that we might not only go clear of the coaster but drive upon a small, sandy beach at the end of Smutty Nose. But the heave of the sea and the slant of the wind drove us to one side, and we went upon the rocks instead.

There was a shock, a grinding crash as she struck. Then we seemed to stop, and now the sea broke over us in fury.

"To the dory, boys! The schooner will go to pieces!" shouted the captain.

Without much difficulty we got the dory into the water to leeward. Jack, my shipmate, flung his clothesbag into the stern of the boat, while I threw a coil of small rope into her ere I tumbled in myself. There was but one pair of oars. These the captain took and began to pull toward Manana.

Away from the lee of the schooner we were exposed to the full fury of the gale, and the course to which we were compelled kept us in the trough of the sea. Every moment it seemed as though we must be swamped, and in spite of all that we could do we were drifting rapidly toward Drunken Gut.

Suddenly a thole pin broke. Before another could be put in the place we were afoul of the standing rigging of a sunken vessel, the dory almost on her broadside and we in imminent danger of being washed overboard. But clinging instinctively to the uppermost gunwale we succeeded in righting the dory and working her clear of the wreck. Again we were adrift indeed, for we had lost an oar and now had but one.

Our destruction now was apparently but a question of moments, for if we escaped the reefs and boiling surf upon one side we were almost certain to be dashed against the iron sides of Manana upon the other.

I was in the bow, peering ahead, when the hull of a vessel suddenly loomed up almost directly before us and apparently at anchor. While the captain endeavored to keep the dory headed for her I bent one end of my coil of line to the painter ring. Then, grasping a bight in my hand as the dory grazed the schooner's sides, I made a spring for the rail and climbed on board. Then I caught my line round a cleat, checked the drift of the dory and brought her alongside.

We soon found that the schooner was deserted. Her crew had sought safety on shore. We thought ourselves exceedingly fortunate that their vessel had been in our way.

But we had been upon the deck scarcely 20 minutes when the captain started us with the announcement that the vessel was rapidly filling. It was evident that she had dragged from the harbor, and first striking upon the reef had swung to her present position.

While the captain searched for a spare oar, I grasped the line by which I had fastened the dory and was horrified to find it slack. No dory was there—the rope which had held her trailed away astern and was lost in the darkness. Our last hope seemed to have departed.

But no — as I peered through the gloom I caught sight of a boat attached to a long warp that trailed over the taffrail of the schooner. It was a seine boat. We quickly drew it up and got into it.

Our drift in the dory had carried us considerably to the leeward of Smutty Nose, so that in our present position the force of the sea was much broken. As we crouched beneath the gunwale of our new refuge, momentarily expecting to see the abandoned schooner go down, a light from Smutty Nose gradually shone out over the waters.

We saw that a fire had been kindled upon the island. Down at the water's edge people were moving about among the rocks. In a little while a boat seemed to leave the shore and drift slowly toward us.

As her erratic movements seemed to indicate that she had no one aboard, but was drifting at the will of the wind, I attached no special significance to her appearance, though I glanced toward her occasionally. Yet nearer she came, sometimes directly toward us.

At times a heave of the sea would throw her far to one side; then she would seem to linger a moment, to start off anew in our direction. Half dazed from exhaustion, I watched her with flagging interest until she was close at hand. Then I saw the captain reach out and grasp her by the gunwale and hold her fast alongside.

He shouted for us to get into her. No sooner had we all obeyed than she started swiftly for the shore. Then I perceived that a long warp led from her to Smutty Nose and that the people there were pulling us toward them.

Owing to the direction of the current the boat could not be dragged back to the point from which she started, and we struck the outer edge of the wide reef of rocks. It was nearly low tide, and though the sea did not break upon the reef every wave that rolled through the narrow passage boiled up over it in a swelling flood, submerging the rocks many feet, to subside again, leaving them entirely bare.

To run this gantlet was our next trial. Waiting until a sea retired, we started over the slippery, weed grown rocks and ran as fast as we could until an incoming wave overtook us. Then we flung ourselves flat upon the reef, while the flood boiled up over us, clutching the rockweed with both hands and clinging to resist the terrible undertow backward.

When the reflux left the reef bare again, we rose and ran once more. Four times the flood passed over us. Then, breathless, bruised and half dead, I felt a grasp upon my collar, and I was dragged up out of the grip of the sea, safe at last.—George H. Hosea in Youth's Companion.

A Tunnel Through Pike's Peak.

It is reported that the actual work on the tunnel through Pike's peak was begun eight miles from the Cripple Creek goldfield. The work is done under contract with the city of Colorado Springs, and the tunnel is to run from Beaver Creek canyon to West Beaver creek, bringing the water down the canyon and into the control of the waterworks at Colorado Springs. The tunnel is 11,900 feet above the sea level and is to be over a mile and a half long. The workmen will drill through solid granite, and a tunnel 5 by 7 feet will be built. The contract calls for the completion of the work within two years. The price to be paid is $16 per foot, and at this rate it is estimated that the work will cost $250,000. Workmen have begun operations at both ends of the proposed tunnel. Owing to the fact that gold has been found in paying quantities in so many places near Cripple Creek, the contractors have great expectations as to the result of boring through Pike's peak, and a sufficient number of claims have been secured to protect any find that may be made during the progress of the work.—Railway Review.

Purple Ink.

The Roman emperors always signed their names in purple ink. No subject of the empire was permitted to use or even to have this ink, and, on at least two occasions, the possession of a small quantity of it was considered treason and the person owning this emblem of royalty was put to death.

Rapid Counters.

Two of the most interesting automata in the United States are those used by the government for counting and tying postal cards into small packages. These machines will correctly count 500,000 cards in ten hours and wrap and tie the same in bundles of 25 each.

Town Libraries In Massachusetts.

The number of towns in Massachusetts that have no free public library is now reduced to 24, according to Librarian Tillinghast's annual report. We'll wager that there is not another state in the Union that can make so proud a boast as that.—Boston Herald.

THE BLIND PLAY BASEBALL.

They Pitch and Catch, Bat Hard and Run Bases Like Veterans.

People unacquainted with the fact are inclined to be incredulous when the statement is made that baseball has become so familiar and adaptable to all circumstances and conditions that even the blind can play the game. Yet the fact remains firm and incontrovertible, and it is indeed pathetic to know that blind people are doing all in their power to secure the pleasure from the national game generally denied to all who cannot see. The inmates of several blind asylums in various parts of the country have learned to play a mild form of baseball, and it is astonishing how much pleasure and healthful excitement they derive from it.

The games are played upon an irregular sized diamond provided with bags for bases.

The infielders are stationed about the same as in the National league game, with the exception that there is added a right shortstop. In the outfield any number can play, each getting his turn at the bat. The catcher sits on the ground just behind the batsman, in such a position that the ball will fall within his knees. To guard against possible injury, a mask is generally worn.

The pitcher stands at close pitching distance, and when all is ready he counts one, two, three slowly and distinctly. As he says three he pitches the ball in old style, the object being to give the batsman a ball he can hit. When the batter thinks sufficient time has elapsed for the ball to reach him he strikes, and it is surprising how often a hit is made. If the batsman should miss, it bounces into the pad in the catcher's lap. The blind runner usually has some one who can see partially to run the bases with him. Once on a base, it is ordinarily only a question of time until the runner scores. Of course the game is not played in any way appertaining to the scientific, yet it is really astonishing, everything considered, that the players manage to play with such skill.

BASEBALL BREVITIES.

Pittsburg will carry six pitchers through the season.

Hamilton, Lowe, Long and Duffy head Boston's batting list.

Hill, the Louisville pitcher, is said to have developed into a star.

All the teams in the National league are now getting down to good hard work.

Chris Von der Ahe says he wishes that all baseball magnates were as easy as Connie Mack.

J. C. Orth pitched eight games for the Phillies last year. He won six, lost one and tied one.

Jesse Burkett has bet a suit of clothes, even up, that he will lead the League in batting this season.

A New York player says that Harry Davis swings too hard at the ball to become a heavy hitter.

President N. E. Young of the National league says he has not offered Sunday a position as umpire.

Bowen, the Hoosier twirler, looks at a distance when in motion a little like lanky Fitz of the prize ring.

Umpire Tim Hurst thinks that the Baltimores and Clevelands have the best chance of finishing one and two.

Bob Leadley has signed for his Seattle team Sexton, the U. of M. pitcher who played with Boston last year.

It is predicted that young Cavelle of the New York team is going to prove a "phenom" before the season is over.

The Baltimore team seems to have run up against a hoodoo early in the season. Five of the club's players are in the hospital.

Catcher Zearfoss of the New Yorks wears a shin guard on his left leg. He is as heavy as Clements of the Philadelphias.

Hard Work Ahead For Niagara.

The 20 rater Niagara will have a hard row to hoe in England this year. All the English designers are anxious for a shy at her. Sibbick thinks he has a rod already in pickle for her in Goelet's new Samphire. English yachtsmen thought the same thing of Eucharis last year, but when the test came the boot was on the other leg. Fife has a new boat on the stocks which is said to be a "radical departure." So was Ailsa, in her way, and Ailsa has proved a disappointment, and a not over brilliant one at that. However, there will be a big fleet of new 20 raters in English waters this season, and Niagara's meteoric career last season is practically responsible for all of them.—Exchange.

McAuliffe's Small Victory.

While a victory over Harry Pidgeon of Canada in seven rounds is not a remarkable achievement for any lightweight possessing sufficient speed to keep out of his own way, it pleased Jack McAuliffe's friends to hear he had won a fight. This contest at Hot Springs was a profitable affair. Of course the authorities did not interfere any more than they would have interfered with the big fight last October if Fitzsimmons had gone to the valley town instead of giving himself up to Governor Clarke's lynx eyed detectives.

McAuliffe is still talking about a match with Kid Lavigne, but he is not going to England after it.—New York World.

A Strong Cricket Team.

The cricket team which Australia has sent to England and which will try issues with American elevens next fall is an unusually strong one, comparing favorably with any former aggregation of Australian talent, and is especially powerful in bowling, the quality and variety being considered likely to prove more effective than the star performances of Spofforth, Palmer, Garrett or Boyle. Giffen, Graham, Trumble, Gregory and Trott are well known in the United States, for they were with the team which played here in 1893, and they will prove formidable on any field.

THE LEATHER TIRE.

A Cycling Authority Discusses Its Alleged Advantages and Disadvantages.

Leather tires, it is thought, can be made at less than one-quarter the cost of rubber tires. A single tube leather tire, we think, has never been contemplated. It would obviously be impossible to make one that would hold air effectually. As an outer covering for an inner tube of rubber the possibilities of leather are worth considering.

It is quite impossible from any present knowledge of the subject to have any adequate opinion of the qualities of leather for tiremaking purposes. There is reason in the supposition that an outer shoe of leather would be fairly durable provided care were taken to prevent it becoming hard and intractable under that influence of moisture to which every bicycle tire is subjected. Every one is familiar with the effect of water upon shoe leather. The shoe becomes horny and liable to crack unless some pains are taken to renew its pliability by oiling or otherwise.

The point of resiliency in tires has been widely discussed. In the case of the rubber pneumatic it would seem that the elastic qualities of the material have something to do with resiliency without regard to the lively qualities of confined air. Either the leather tire would be a "dead" tire or else the popular idea that more or less "life" centers in the rubber itself is entirely erroneous. So far as we can judge, a leather tire would lack resiliency to a degree which would render it entirely inferior to the rubber tire.

There is no question that a tire with a leather outer covering would be perfectly ridable and possess more or less of what we now consider the pneumatic quality, but elasticity at the point of contact, which, we believe, accounts in no small degree for the fine riding qualities of the rubber tire, would apparently be lacking, and, as previously said, bad effects of wetting would have to be looked after sharply to insure durability.

However, we do not wish to wholly condemn the leather tire without a hearing. It has been announced that such tires will soon be manufactured in considerable quantities, and we await with interest their introduction to practical use.—American Cyclist.

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

In learning to ride a bicycle one notices the scenery is very striking.—Adams Freeman.

The people who last year predicted that the bicycle was a fad are now standing in line at the stores inquiring when their wheels are coming.—Minneapolis Journal.

Radbourn—What was that girl arrested for? Chesney—For being a foolish virgin. Radbourn—Nonsense! Chesney—Fact. She had no oil in the lamp of her bike.—Larks.

Watts—How can a man tell which is the best bicycle? I'd like to know. Potts—Buy one. After you have had it a week it will be the best wheel in the market. It always works that way.—Indianapolis Journal.

Duzby—What are bells on bicycles for? Dooby—Don't you know? Why, the riders ring them, you know, when wheeling through the streets so's to let people know they're going to run them down.—Roxbury Gazette.

One great moral influence not yet credited to the bicycle is indicated by the fact that horses are now so cheap in the west that horse stealing is no longer worth while, and that species of crime has practically disappeared.—New York Sun.

The prospect of having bicycles carried free on the railroads of the state was much improved by the action of the senate and assembly recently. To say they are to be carried free, however, is not strictly correct. They are to be treated like baggage, and baggage is not carried free, because the passenger pays for its transportation when he buys his first class ticket.—New York Tribune.

THE SWIFT CYCLISTS.

Charley Murphy now talks of challenging Zimmerman.

Albert Schoch has gone to London, where he will compete in the six day bicycle race to be held there next month.

John S. Johnson has succeeded in arranging a series of match races with Michael, the little Welsh wonder and the champion of Europe.

Fred Allert of the Brooklyn Bicycle club finished his year's mileage record recently. Allert closed his 52 weeks' work with a total mileage of 16,172 miles.

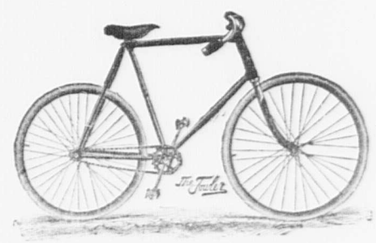

Pither, the smart Australian who defeated Zimmerman, is very outspoken on the subject of alcohol and tobacco, each of which he holds to be an abomination.

A New Tire Repair Device.

A new device for repairing punctures and cuts in tires is on the market and so far as theory goes seems one of the most perfect affairs of the kind attempted. It consists of a section of rubber of the kind used in the manufacture of a tire, to which is fastened eyelets at either end. The rider, seeking to repair a puncture, places this piece of rubber over the hole in his tire, draws it tightly and laces it securely with a stout cord passing through the eyelets. For temporary use this newly contrived patch would carry a wheel many miles.—New York Telegram.

A New Cycling Business.

The bicycle has given occasion for a new line of business in Brooklyn. Four or five rods from the bridge station on that side of the river an enterprising man has set up a cycle storage place, where for 10 cents a man who rides down to the bridge in the morning may leave his wheel in safety until his return in the afternoon.—New York Tribune.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Adams Academy Schedule.

A CASE OF SHAMMING.

Doctors' Opinion Concerning Alleged Sickness of Dr. Moore.

High Sheriff Will Now Take Him In Charge.

Failed to Appear In Court When His Case Was Called Yesterday.

LACONIA, N. H., April 21.—A particularly sensational feature of the case of Dr. Joseph Clifford Moore, full as it has been of remarkable episodes for over three years, came this morning just before 1 o'clock, when Sheriff Healey of Manchester, high sheriff of Hillsboro county, decided to place the ex-journalist and former capitalist and financier under arrest at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. Henry Tucker, in Lakeport, by authority of the capias issued by Judge Wallace of the supreme court at Nashua yesterday afternoon.

Under this document, Dr. Moore will be held in confinement and under the direct control and charge of the sheriff until he can be removed to Nashua to appear before the court for trial, as was arranged for yesterday morning, but was prevented by the non-appearance of the defendant.

At midnight a council of three physicians said he could be safely moved; that there was nothing the matter with him except the effect of the opiates that had been freely administered to him during Sunday night and all day Monday, from 1 o'clock in the morning until the doctors arrived last evening.

The report of this council is, to give it in a word, that Dr. Moore is shamming. They made a thorough examination, and found not the slightest evidence of the passage of a gall stone. They were Unanimous in This Opinion.

This council was made up of Dr. Towne of Manchester, Dr. McQuesten of Nashua and Dr. Abbott of Laconia.

Dr. Moore came to Laconia last Saturday afternoon, and the last time he saw his counsel he gave them to understand that he would be on hand for his trial Monday morning. Therefore, they gathered in Nashua yesterday morning, ready to proceed with the case.

While they were discussing it a telephone message came to General Burns, saying that Dr. Moore was seriously sick in bed, and was unable to be in court.

Revolution Sons' Protest.

BOSTON, April 21.—Two hundred and fifty Sons' of the Revolution held their annual banquet here last night. At the business meeting resolutions were adopted protesting against the destruction of the old historic Bulfinch front of the state house, declaring that its architectural beauty is famous throughout the country, and its historic associations, from the days of Governor Samuel Adams and Paul Revere to the present time render it of priceless value to posterity. Following the banquet patriotic speeches were made ex-Governor Russell, William Draper and Rev. E. E. Hale.

Over a Dam to Death.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 21.—Frank Feeley and Herbert Kennedy lost their lives by going over the falls in the Merrimac river yesterday afternoon. When a short distance from the shore the swift current made their boat unmanageable. Before they realized it they went over the dam, embraced in each other's arms. Both were 20 years of age. Two young women who were to accompany them got frightened at the high water and remained on shore and witnessed the accident.

Prominent Worcester Man Dead.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 21.—Francis Plunkett, one of the liquor license commissioners in this city, was found dead in his bed yesterday. His death was probably caused by apoplexy. He was born in Ireland about 57 years ago and came to this country when a boy. He was a lawyer by profession. He had been a member of both branches of the city council, of the legislature, of the school committee and of the board of trustees of the city hospital. He was unmarried.

Wanted In Minnesota.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 21.—Charles Holmes, assistant cashier of the Merchants bank at Lake City, Minn., is under arrest in this city, charged with being a fugutive from justice. It is alleged that he and his uncle, who was cashier of the bank, embezzled about $60,000 of the bank funds. The uncle was arrested and is now awaiting the decision of the court. Holmes was arrested in Greenwich, where he was working as a farm hand. He says the money was used in speculation and that he did not profit by it.

Charged With Bigamy.

RUTLAND, Vt., April 21.—Clinton L. Sherwood is in jail in default of $1500. Sherwood married Mrs. Mattie E. Barney, a divorced woman of this city, and on their return from their wedding trip, Mrs. Nellie E. Berry of Newport appeared and produced a certificate of her marriage to Sherwood at Montpelier, Aug. 25, 1891. Thereupon Sherwood was arrested for bigamy.

Colonel Linehan's Aspiration.

CONCORD, N. H., April 21.—Colonel John C. Linehan has consented to allow the use of his name as a candidate for commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. at the coming annual encampment at St. Paul. Colonel Linehan was born in Ireland 56 years ago and enlisted in 1861 in the Third New Hampshire volunteers, and served with distinction throughout the rebellion.

Dog Days In Boston.

BOSTON, April 21.—The dog show opened in Mechanics' hall yesterday, with a remarkable attendance of dog fanciers. There are 800 entries, and, as a whole, the exhibition is far ahead of any previous one in this city. Some of the most notable animals are those just sent over from the New York show.

Massachusetts' Holiday.

BOSTON, April 21.—Patriots' Day was observed throughout the state by the ringing of bells at morning, noon and night, and the national flag was displayed from many public and private buildings. The feature in this city was the parade of the Hibernians, 8000 strong.

Packet Schooner Lost.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 21.—A letter dated Bissau, Africa, March 24, from Jose Bento, mate of the schooner Grace H. Benson, states that the vessel has been lost. All hands were saved. The schooner plied between New Bedford and Cape Verde Islands as a packet.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

WHEN ON A TOUR.

Advice For the Tyro at This Form of Cycling Entertainment.

The tyro may not be aware that to undertake a more than usually long trip with pleasure and with comfort some preliminary practice is absolutely necessary, and that preliminary practice should be of a constant, not a desultory, nature—little and often, as the saying is. There are many points that the novice is inclined to overlook, and we may especially notice the continued strain upon the ligaments and muscles, to say nothing of the question of saddle soreness, which latter item may often mar the pleasure of an otherwise enjoyable tour. And here a hint may not be out of place. Should the muscles get weary, there are three sources of temporary remedy which may afford considerable relief. The saddle may be lowered half an inch or brought forward or put backward from half an inch to two inches. This will in many cases be found of considerable efficacy. For saddle soreness an alteration of the tilt of the saddle may be made. It may be canted slightly higher in front, or vice versa, and the application of plain yellow soap to the chafed parts is often of considerable value. It must be borne in mind that the most foolish thing to do is to push fatigue to the point of exhaustion. If fatigue shows itself rather too plainly, an earnest rest and a light meal will often set things right, and novices should notice that one of the worst forms of fatigue is that caused by riding too long without food. This induces cramp in the stomach and a feeling of nausea which will be remembered a long while among those who have had the misfortune to suffer from it. Little and often applies to the wheelman's commissariat department. When touring, the chief meal of the day should be left until the riding is over. A fairly substantial breakfast may be taken, provided that the pace is slow for at least an hour afterwar d. A light lunch will not be out of place, leaving dinner until the evening. There may, however, be sundry entr'actes. About every two hours a biscuit and some raisins or a sandwich may be taken, and the slight halt necessary will be found very beneficial.—Wheeler.

WHEEL WIT AND WISDOM.

Golf stockings nowadays cover a multitude of shins.

Ammonia is the latest cycle motor. The smell of it is usually enough to move most any one.

Talk of your own ability as a wheelman if you wish to make enemies. If you wish to make friends, listen while other riders tell of theirs.

The lighthouse keeper leads a very lonely existence, no doubt, but there is one compensation—he is not annoyed by wheelmen riding on his sidewalk.

A good tire and postage stamp resemble each other in so much as the usefulness of either depends upon its ability to stick to one thing till it gets there.

French racing men have a grievance against the bands at race meets. The racers say the musicians become interested in the race, stop playing fast music, and then the racers are unable to keep up a fast pace. Music hath charms evidently for the racer as well as the savage breast.

As a rule the balls on one side of a crank axle wear more than those on the other side. This is due to the fact that there are few riders who do not depend upon the right foot to do most of the machine's propulsion; hence the strain and consequent wear are greater on that side than on the left one.—Wheel.

FAMOUS FOLK WHO RIDE.

Max O'Rell says that nothing but heaven can be prettier than an American girl on her bicycle.

Miss Blanche Walsh of "Trilby" fame is an ardent cyclist and thinks that no woman who can afford it should be without a wheel.

The ameer of Afghanistan has ordered a bicycle from an English firm. We look for an early fall in Afghanistan this year, says the New York Press.

Lillian Russell's wheel, a drop frame, is a beauty and was made especially for her. The mountings are of gold, as is also the address plate. The spokes are nickel.

Rudyard Kipling has been taking his first lessons on the bicycle. He has mastered the wheel and takes long rides every day. Kipling has long been a rabid anticyclist, so his conversion is a proof of the all conquering powers of the wheel.

Tandems More Popular.

There will be more tandems built this year than were put together during the past three years. "A bicycle built for two" is a wheel that meets with ready popularity for several reasons. It is possible to be more companionable on a two seater. The wheelmen who ride in pairs can converse along the road, while on single wheels this is an extremely difficult occupation. Then, too, the exertion is much less. Two men on a 35 pound tandem can cut pigeon wings around cyclists on single wheels and then not half try. A lady who is not able to guide the intricate silent steed may be escorted around the country without any danger of a mishap—not so much chance, at least, as though she were riding a single wheel. Tandem riding is becoming very popular.—New York Times.

Sour, but Sure.

Lamps are dirty things; therefore the need of cleaning them becomes absolutely necessary. Vinegar is an admirable liquid for this purpose. When burners have become coated with oil, they may be restored to their original state of cleanliness by boiling in vinegar. If wicks are soaked in vinegar before they are used at all and are then thoroughly dried, they will draw well and will not smoke.—Wheel.

A SAVAGE DOG.

A BISHOP'S WILD RIDE

RODE FORTY MILES CLINGING TO THE STEPS OF A VESTIBULE CAR.

Hung on Desperately While the Train Flew on at the Rate of Fifty Miles an Hour—A Keen Wind and Rain Cut Into His Flesh.

Bishop John J. Esher, 72 years of age, head of the Evangelical association of Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania, had an exciting experience the other night that would have tried the nerves of a stronger and younger man. However, he has been all over the world, has crossed the Atlantic 30 times and is not easily frightened. His latest adventure was riding on the lower step of a sleeping car on a fast train going at the rate of 50 miles an hour, he being unable to either get off the train or into the car. Bishop Esher had been going the rounds of the churches in his diocese, his last stop being at Reddick, Ills., a small town on the St. Louis division of the Wabash railroad. He preached to a large congregation there. He lives in Chicago.

BISHOP ESHER.

The limited train came through Reddick at 4 o'clock in the morning and stopped at a water tank for a few minutes, so the bishop, accompanied by Rev. Jacob Schwartz, pastor of the Reddick church, drove to the tank and waited. When the train came along, the venerable bishop mounted the steps of the last sleeper just as the cars began to move. But being incumbered by a heavy satchel he could not knock on the vestibule curtain so as to attract the attention of the porter.

Faster and faster the train moved, and the bishop, his flesh cut by the keen sleet driven by a strong wind, and thoroughly drenched by a heavy rain, clung to the railing of the platform for dear life. Station after station flew by, and the train showed no disposition to stop, although the aged prelate prayed that it might. But it was the limited, and would not pause until it reached Englewood, 40 miles from Reddick. Almost dead from cold, the bishop hung on, although his senses were nearly gone, and several times he thought he would surely lose his grip, but he didn't, and just as the train was drawing up to the station at Englewood the colored porter happened to look out.

"Fo' de Lawd's sake," he gasped, as he saw the white haired bishop balancing himself on the lower step, and, hastily unlocking the door in the vestibule curtain, he seized the old man by the shoulders and dragged him inside. Stimulants judiciously administered soon restored the bishop, and when the train rolled into the Dearborn station he had almost recovered from his exciting experience.

The bishop said that, although he had traveled a great deal, this was decidedly the roughest trip of his life.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A MOVING MOUNTAIN.

It Moves Fifteen Feet a Day—Causing Great Alarm and Much Wonder.

The object of greatest interest in continental Europe at this minute is a walking mountain in Gard, France, which is moving toward the river of the same name at the rate of 15 feet a day. The advance has destroyed the machinery in the pits of the Grand Combe colliery and nearly a mile of the Alais railway. The great thing now is to prepare new channels for the Gard and Gardon rivers, which are sure, when the landslide comes, to be completely choked up.

Six hundred persons have been obliged to leave their homes at Grand Combe. The lower strata of the mountain, which rises sheer from the valley, are grit and green marl. Both have given way owing to filtration of rain. Recently 5,000 persons went from Nimes to see the moving mountain. The noise it makes is frightful, and there are wide cracks in all directions. Nobody is allowed to go on the mountain or into the valley on which it advances.—New York Journal.

LIKE A STORY BOOK.

Runaway Frank Thornleigh Returns to Save His Father's Home.

Frank Thornleigh left his home in Hamilton, Mich., 12 years ago because his father had married a widow. He shipped as a cabin boy on a boat to Buffalo, where he fell in with a Canadian horse dealer, with whom he remained until the old gentleman died, a short time ago, leaving Frank his estate of $50,000. Thornleigh visited his old home last week and was just in time to save his father's home from being seized on a mortgage.

His stepsister, whom he had left as a little girl, had grown up into a beautiful young woman. They have just been married.

A Statue of Dempsey?

It is said that there is a movement on foot to erect a statue to the memory of the late pugilist, Jack Dempsey. The statue will, according to the story circulated yesterday, be placed over Dempsey's grave in Calvary cemetery, Long Island.

Dempsey's body has not yet been interred in Calvary, but will be brought on from Portland, Or.

The statue is to be a life size figure in ring costume, if the story told is true.

The statement was made that many noted sporting men, among them Fitzsimmons, would subscribe for the monument. Fitzsimmons was alleged to have offered $200. This was denied by Fitzsimmons.—New York World.

Good Rule to Enforce.

Profane or indecent language is to be sufficient cause for removing a player from the baseball field the coming season. Good strike!—Boston Herald.

There are a great many wrong ways of treating disease. It is easy to make mistakes. Doctors make mistakes just the same as anybody else. The doctors who make the fewest mistakes are specialists. They do one thing over and over and over, so that they know all that there is to know about it. In the 30 years that Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have been sold, hundreds of thousands of people have taken them, and have been cured by them. There is no longer any possible question of their efficacy. They are the product of experience, tried by time. They are intended to cure constipation. They are good for men, women and children. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, very easy to take, very quick in their action. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two "Pellets" a mild cathartic. A great many people make the mistake of "sandbagging" their digestive organs. They take some strong and violent medicine, which creates worse troubles than it cures. Strong purgatives shock the system unnecessarily, and they do not cure constipation. Constipation is a thing that makes people listless and languid; makes their breath bad; wakes them up with foul taste in their mouths; puts black spots before their eyes; makes them dizzy; causes headache; makes them bilious; produces pimples and blotches—runs into all sorts of serious consequences. All this is cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—cured absolutely, perfectly, permanently.

Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and receive absolutely gratis, Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, and find out how to keep yourself and family healthy; contains 1008 pages, over 300 illustrations and over 680,000 copies have been sold at $1.50 each. THE USE OF STONE.

Some Pertinent Suggestions to Increase Its Use.

Writing to the April Stone "Cy Bl" has the following of interest to our granite trade:

How much have we done to increase the use of stone, while the use of terra cotta, iron and other materials in the construction of buildings have increased? In many places stone has been at a standstill. Is it because the stone men are too selfish and afraid if they increase the use of stone some other fellow may secure the work, or is it because stone men have been satisfied with what they got and did not exert themselves to increase the use of stone, generally?

We think it true that stone men have filled any demand upon them for stone to suit any purpose in a most complete manner which has gone a long way toward holding their own, but to put forth a concerted movement to increase the use of stone in directions not now using stone or not having already been using stone, we think they have fallen short of what might have been done.

With improvements in manufacturing and cutting with pneumatic tools, etc., and quarrying with electricity, steam, compressed air, etc., and closer union between stone workers for their general good, perhaps we may be able to run down many of the substitutes for stone. All this advancement in manufacturing and quarrying is really the machinist's achievement.

If stone men would stop and give the matter of pushing of stone as a material as a whole a thought, we believe they would see that to keep their place in the front ranks of trade in these progressive times that a step toward furthering the use of stone might be made by them and not left all to the machinist.

Say establish a regulation size of sample and have every agent instructed to furnish architects with one, with address of agent or quarry on same. The architects could arrange the samples then so they would be of a ready reference. Then a book with all stone classified, names of owners, or quarries, with description of quarries and plants, analysis of the stone, with mention of a few buildings or places where used. We believe a good deal of use could be made of such a book by architects, builders and engineers, making stone information as easy as possible.

This is but one of many suggestions which might be made. Any ideas which may be advanced looking toward the furthering of stone interests should receive the co-oporation of all stone men; even though many of the ideas may be impracticable, some may be of great value.

Newspaper Man Dead.

Mr. Wendell O. Hunt, correspondent of the Boston Globe for Hingham and the South Shore, died at his residence on Hersey street, Hingham, Monday afternoon, after an illness of about a week's duration.

Mr. Hunt had enjoyed his usual good health up to last week Monday, when he complained of illness his face being sore. The disease proved to be erysipelas and spread rapidly, resulting in blood poisoning.

Mr. Hunt was a son of Mr. Nathan Hunt, one of Hingham's well known residents, and was born in Hingham, Oct. 9, 1852. He received his education in the public schools of his native town and in early manhood he took a hand at railroading, and was for a number of years conductor on the South Shore freight.

Tiring of this he took a hand at expressing and painting, and then entered the office of the Hingham Journal where he learned the printer's trade. He was employed by Editor Miller for some time, and also in a Quincy office.

July 5, 1885, he began his duties as reporter of the Boston Globe and has been the faithful correspondent of that paper ever since.

He was a member of Old Colony lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Globe Mutual Benefit association. He leaves a widow and three children. Funeral services were held from his late residence at 3 o'clock today.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Last session of singing class tonight.

Steam engineers' course begin tonight at 7.45.

Evangelist Martin gave a plain and interesting talk at the men's meeting in the Presbyterian church, South Quincy, Sunday afternoon. Miss Horton, who was to have sung, was unable to be present on account of sickness, and Miss Addie Wishman of Boston took her place, singing several solos, accompanied by the autoharp.

Mr. Martin will speak next Sunday afternoon in the Congregational church on "Work, Wages and Duties." Miss Wishman will sing. This meeting will be open to ladies and gentlemen and the various churches will be invited to unite in the service.

Mr. Martin is conducting the noon-day meetings at the Bromfield Street church, Boston, this week and also in the Bowdoin Square tabernacle in the evenings. He is just publishing a new singing book called "The Songs of the Gospel."

"The Quincy Triangle Wheelmen" is the name of the new cycle club organized at the Young Men's Christian association Saturday evening. The officers are Walter McBirnie, captain; Herbert A. Thompson, 1st lieut.; Joseph E. Merritt, 21 lieut.; Wm. Lamb, secretary and treasurer; Russell Badger, ensign; and Thos. Parsons bugler. The membership in the club is divided into two classes, active and honorary. The former includes members of the association who desire to enter actively into the work of the club, participating in runs and having voting privileges while the honorary membership consists of those who encourage good roads, also the enactment of laws and ordinances favoring the best interests of wheelmen. The club made this provision at the suggestion of one of the leading business men of the city who believes that there should be in the city an organization which shall include all of those who desire to be banded together to promote the interests of wheelmen. Any person whether a member of the association or not can become an honorary member on the payment of one dollar per year to the secretary and treasurer.

An All Day Shoot.

The greatest shoot which has ever been held under the auspices of the Wollaston Trap club was the one on Patriots' Day. The day was perfect, barring a stiff breeze which sprang up from the westward in the afternoon. Twenty-two gunners took part and 1600 birds were thrown. Federhen was easily high man with 25 birds out of a possible 25. The prizes in the four classes were awarded as follows: first class, Federhen; second class, Whitmarsh and Bates; third class, Kelley; fourth class, Baker and Thompson. A handicap prize was won by J. C. Morse.

As it was an all day event lunch was served. The sandwiches which were built by Fay and Bates were out of sight.

The result:

Federhen,	25

Wanted in Quincy, A Large Hall.

Cooler weather today.

Arbor day Saturday.

It was a grand summer holiday.

Next week Friday will be May day.

Today's temperature at noon was 53 degrees.

The flags on City Hall, the schoolhouses and at many private residences were at mast head on Patriots' Day.

Division 4 and 5, A. O. H., of Quincy, participated in the parade in Boston, Monday and made a very creditable appearance.

The grocery and provision stores in the Centre were kept open for a few hours Monday morning and then closed up for the day.

The Foreign Missionary society of the Wollaston Baptist church meets on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur F. Pinkham.

The fine weather on Sunday and Monday was taken advantage of by many yacht owners, who put in the time getting their boats ready for the water.

The public is invited to the Presbytery meetings which begin this afternoon, and all Evangelical Christians are invited to partake of the Lord's Supper tonight.

People have found that they can trade to advantage with Miss E. M. Freeman, whether it be groceries or newspapers. She is constantly enlarging her stock and variety.

Auctioneer Johnson will have another grand auction May 9, when the valuable estate recently occupied by John R. Graham will be sold. It includes eleven acres of land.

Miss Helen Follansbee a teacher of the Quincy High gave a two-minute talk on the "Public School Work of Quincy" on Patriots' day at the Chandler Shorthand convention in Boston in the interests of stenographic and higher education.

Mr. Wallace Davis and family of Portland, Me., have been visiting Mrs. Davis' mother, Mrs. Johnson of Spear street. Mr. Davis returned today and Mrs. Davis will visit a while longer. Little Blanche and Beatrice are visiting their aunt Mrs. Sprague at Malden for a few days.

The Sunday morning service at the Wollaston Baptist church took the form of a patriotic anniversary. Rev. Mr. Gurney's text was taken from Psalm 16:6 "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places, yea, I have a goodly heritage." Mr. Gurney contrasted America with other nations and claimed that the New England States was the best place in which to live.

House cleaning time has come and we need an accident policy to get about. May be the practice of one of our leading physicians is falling off and he is laying a trap to catch more patients. It is as much as one's life is worth to try to see him. Such thorough renovation is going on at his house. So it goes in many households, but the result justifies the end as soon all will come out fresh and lovely within as without where nature is accomplishing such fair results in the same seeming disorderly way.

The street railway did a large business Monday, the pleasant day calling out many. Open cars were run on all lines, and at every trip from early morning until late at night every car went loaded and on the Neponset line it was necessary to double up the service. On the Houghs Neck line the riding was much heavier than was expected and this line carried large crowds at every trip. Many of course went down to spend the day near the salt water and others doubtless went down to look after their cottages and get them ready for occupancy.

Mr. George S. Waterhouse, one of the conductors on the Neponset line of the Quincy & Boston street railway, and one of the most popular men in the employ of the company has been appointed to the office of assistant superintendent, the duties of which he entered upon Monday. During Mr. Waterhouse two years' services as conductor, he has by his uniform courtesy and strict attention to business not only won the respect of the many patrons of the road but its officers as well, who recognizing his worth tendered him the appointment. In entering upon his new duties he does so with the best wishes for future success of his many friends.

Mr. Higgins' Reply.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I am sorry to have to write to a lady in an unfriendly manner but my self-respect calls for it. As regards what is done inside, I acknowledge I am ignorant but I can see the gatherings outside. But I do know that a gentleman called on me last year, saying he was president or had the control of the meeting. That he was absent the night before; there had been complaints made to him of too much hilarity at the meeting.

As the lady seems to know how much I go to church, calls for an explanation on that theme. The last time I attended that church I was attacked by the preacher because I dared have an opinion of my own, when attacked by persons on the street. The last time I attended the Baptist church the preacher told a story that was utterly false which has caused me to keep away.

As regards going to church I do that every day. I can learn, and with reverence, more from the God of nature in one day, than I can from the Christian church in a life time.

I hope the lady will not be too personal if she replies to this; causing me to tell things that will be for the welfare of many to be kept silent. DANIEL HIGGINS.

City Should Take Ashes.

Editors of the Ledger:

Now that spring is rapidly approaching it would please many of the citizens of Atlantic to have the city fathers make some arrangements about removing the ashes from the houses which have been accumulating all winter, in many cases amounting to a great deal of them. Most cities the size of Quincy have such conveniences and it certainly would please their taxpayers and property holders a great deal.

Also the "famous mud hole and disease brooder," Teal pond is still threatening the health of the community and needs all the ashes and other clean filling that it can get. It seems as if it would be far more expedient for the city to fil in this pond with ashes than to purchase gravel for the purpose, as for the need of abating the nuisance, all that would be necessary to convince the board of health of its danger would be for them to take a trip down and examine it on any still day after a heavy rain has stirred it up somewhat.

Disorders afflict the human race, the large majority arising from impure blood. Hence the wide range of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood purifier of the age.

"I feel it a duty to suffering humanity and to Hood's Sarsaparilla to tell what this medicine has done for me. I know it is an honest medicine. I had

sia, and 3 years treatment by physicians did me no good. I could not eat half a cracker without distress. I fell off in weight from 180 to 149 pounds. I also suffered with rheumatism, and was pretty well used up. I heard about Hood's Sarsaparilla and began to take it. I soon noticed that it was helping me, and after taking several bottles found I could eat what I wanted without any distress. Later I had salt rheum or come on my ankles, and I again took Hood's Sarsaparilla. The swelling went down and the eruptions healed. Then I had the grip and it left me in bad shape, with catarrh and other troubles. The doctor said I was all worn out, but might be patched up and live a year or two. But I clung to my old friend Hood's Sarsaparilla and was soon in my better health. I am alive yet, more than three years having passed since the doctor's prediction, thanks to Hood's. I am 69 years old, weigh 170 pounds, am in good health and recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends for dyspepsia, catarrh and rheumatism, and also for cleansing the blood." S. S. PHILLIPS, Wardsboro, Vermont.

Eczema

Liquid Extract of Malt.

Ask Your Doctor About It,

Or ask anyone who has taken it and you will hear the most favorable reports. It is warranted to be equal to any Extract of Malt in the market, and superior to a great many, and sold at a price one can afford to take the full dose, thereby receiving the great benefit that is certain to come to those needing a good Nutritive Tonic. This particular preparation of Malt as a restorative to those suffering from faulty nutrition and inability to digest solid food is unexcelled. Richer in food product than any other and possessing the properties of not only producing heat and fat, but also of restoring the waste due to exhaustion. In fact it is the kind that seems to go right to the spot. If it is inconvenient for you to get to my store, order it of your grocer. Don't forget the kind—Durgin's, and the price—17 cents per bottle, or $1.75 per dozen.

Adams Academy Schedule.

The Adams Academy nine will play at the Park tomorrow afternoon with the Roxbury Latin school. The game will begin at 3 o'clock.

A new interest has been given to athletic sports at the school through the formation of a dual league in baseball, football and track sports, between Adams Academy and Thayer Academy. The track sports will occur on Saturday, May 23, at a place to be announced later. Training for these games has already been going on for some time. A series of five base ball games is to decide the supremacy in that sport.

The complete schedule of games for this season, arranged by the manager of the Adams Academy nine, is as follows:

April 22,—Roxbury Latin school, at Quincy.
April 25,—Hopkinson school, at Quincy.
April 27,—Thayer Academy, at Braintree.
April 29,—Milton Academy, at Quincy.
May 2,—Dean Academy, at Franklin.
May 4,—Thayer Academy, at Quincy.
May 6,—Milton Academy, at Milton.
May 9,—Belmont Academy, at Quincy.
May 11,—Allen school, at West Newton.
May 13,—Boston College Freshmen, at Quincy.
May 16,—Belmont Academy, at Belmont.
May 18,—Thayer Academy, at Braintree.
May 21,—Somerville High School, at Quincy.
May 23,—Track Athletic Games.
May 29,—Thayer Academy, at Quincy.
June 4,—Thayer Academy, on neutral grounds.

Spear—Fry Nuptials.

The residence of Mr. George H. Bean on Bigelow street was the scene of a quiet but pretty home wedding Sunday evening, when Mr. Charles Franklin Spear of Weymouth and Miss Mary Ann Fry of Quincy, daughter of Mr. William Fry were married in the presence of the immediate family friends. The bride entered the room leaning upon the arm of her father, who gave her away. She was met within the large bay window by the groom and the few words necessary to make them one were read by Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity church, Weymouth. The bride was unusually pretty, gowned in a creme pongee silk, trimmed with point lace. She wore a beautiful bride rose in her hair and carried a large bunch of the same flowers in her hand, which she graciously distributed among the ladies.

A reception followed the ceremony, showers of congratulations being bestowed upon the newly wedded couple with many wishes that the new life they have just voluntarily entered might be strewn with flowers.

When the bridal party departed the shower of rice almost rivaled the elements which were holding supreme sway without.

Mr. and Mrs. Spear will take up their residence in Braintree.

The Chief Surprised.

Chief Engineer Williams was presented with a handsome gold mounted combination harness Saturday evening at his residence on Indepence avenue. It was about 8 o'clock when the members of Hose 1 and the district engineers called upon their chief, and in a few words ex-Councilman Powers presented him with the harness, which is a very handsome one, being gold mounted as stated above. It will look very nicely with the Chief's new wagon. Chief Williams responded, thanking them all for their gift. Refreshments were then served.

Real Estate Sales.

C. H. Johnson reports the following sales on Patriots' Day.

The fine sightly residence formerly occupied by Fred E. Drake, situated corner of Washington and Edison street to Sarah E. Blanchard of Quincy.

The estate of Michael McNeil situated off West street, West Quincy, by auction to Eliza D. Upham.

Keith's New Theatre, Boston.

That continuous performance patrons prefer clean, wholesome fun, to any other sort of entertainment, is quite evident from the number of comedy "turns" found in the Keith programme each week. Next week Helene Mora, the most phenomenal female baritone singer of the world, is to be heard for the first time at this house, and those who have never listened to her remarkable voice have a treat in store. Willis P. Sweatnam, the blackface philosopher, is to deliver one of his original fun-creating addresses, and John Till's Marionettes will furnish amusement for the little folks. The Masons will, of course, continue and there are a dozen other entertaining acts on the programme.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Many new advertisements today.

Costello's alleys were thronged all day Monday.

Eight pages again today, and replete with news.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Coombs are shortly to move to Dorchester.

Harry Garey of Charlestown spent Monday with Mr. Cephas Drew.

Mr. and Mrs. William Craig have taken rooms at the Hancock House.

Mr. Edward E. Hoxie of Wollaston is suffering from a severe attack of erysipelas.

Mr. Silsby's new cat boat, The Scud, built by Lelois, is ready, and had a trial trip Saturday.

The City Council will meet next Monday evening, when the appropriation order will be reported.

Mrs. Mary Woods has moved from Norfolk Downs to a tenement in the Boisclare house on Squantum staeet.

Mr. James H. Churchill is one of the latest additions to the circle of lady bicyclers in Atlantic this spring.

Jacob Kolb of Clive street is having his house newly painted, and intends to set a good example on Clive street.

The annual church meeting of the Evangelical Congregational church will be held tomorrow evening.

Several candidates were propounded for admission into the Evangelical Congregational church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Green entertained the Ponkapog whist club at their cottage at Houghs Neck, Monday.

Miss Bessie Drew has purchased a new wheel this spring and expects to "wheel" to school when the weather permits.

The new Swedish Baptist church at Brewers corner recently described in the DAILY LEDGER will be dedicated May 10.

Mr. John T. Hunt, formerly of Squantum street, has moved his family to Botolph street, occupying the house of Mr. Everson.

A neighborhood cottage meeting of the Centre Congregational church will be held tonight at the residence of Mrs. William Gragg, Crescent street, West Quincy.

There will be an excellent entertainment at the Universalist vestry tomorrow evening, consisting of a drama, charades, reading, singing, etc. Everybody is invited, and the proceeds will go towards painting the church.

Eliza Ann (Pratt) Nickerson of Mattapan, formerly of Quincy, celebrated her eighty-first birthday Monday keeping open house. There were about fifty present. Among those who congratulated the lady on reaching another milestone in life's journey, were Mrs. N. B. Furnald, Mrs. J. M. Glover and Mrs. J. A. Pratt of this city. Mrs. Nickerson is own cousin to Mrs. Joseph Burrell of this city.

There was a large audience and the usual fine singing at the vesper services at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday. The Rev. James E. Bagley made a few remarks of a patriotic nature. Mr. Bagley was decidedly opposed to the proposed amendment to the United States constitution recognizing the Diety. "We do not need a theological definition in the constitution of the United States," said he, "any more than we do in a bank or a corporation charter."

Will Quincy Keep Apace?

Arbor day was the theme of Rev. E. N. Hardy's Sunday morning sermon. He read the proclamation of Gov. Wolcott, and endorsed the sentiments. Arbor day was one in which the church should be a leader. It was the duty of Christians to assist nature. God lives close to nature. He thought Quincy was hardly keeping pace with cities of its size. Then churches should be neat and attractive. His own church was central, he said, and should set an example. The grounds were well kept but might be more attractive. There might be more flowers for interior decorations. The 400 families worshipping here by improving their homes will stimulate neighbors. He knew the public press voiced the sentiment and would do all it could to help movement. There was something in nature to worship. We should sow seeds for others—for the hospitals and the sick. Many hunger for flowers. He bespoke a larger interest of the church for all public matters—the schools, business prosperity, amusements and the institutions of the city. This church should be a leader. Let us give Arbor day, on Saturday, thought and attention and do God's work.

A SAVAGE DOG.

He Attacks a Girl at Wollaston—Frequent Complaints.

A large mastiff owned by Mr. George A. Litchfield of Wollaston badly larcerated the hand of a maid in the employ of Rev. Edward A. Robinson, Saturday. The Litchfield dog engaged in fight with a dog belonging to Mr. Robinson and the girl attempted to separate them, when the mastiff turned and made a savage attack on her. The injury was so severe that the girl was sent to the hospital.

The mastive then started for his home when he met a dog owned by Mr. Frank P. Waterhouse. He tackled this dog and chewed him up.

Complaints have been made to Mr. Litchfield about this animal. It was but a few days ago that he made a savage rush at a lady, who was seated upon her piazza. The dog did no injury to her.

Patriots' Day.

"And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then Heaven tries the earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays."

Well, might have been said of the twentieth day of April as well as of a day in June. It is rare that so perfect a day for a holiday, for recreation and outdoor sports, is had in the early spring. The temperature was just right for those engaged in outdoor sports, as well as for those who wished to roam through the fields and woods to commune with nature The dust on the roads was laid by the copious rain of the day before making the conditions for driving and bicycling nearly perfect.

ANOTHER RAID FEARED

Boers Showing a Disinclination to Be Caught Napping.

Kruger Sends a Friendly Reply to Chamberlain

But Will Not Permit Foreign Powers to Settle Transvaal's Affairs.

LONDON, April 21.—A dispatch from Mafeking says: There has been a meeting here of representatives of Cape Colony, Natal, the Transvaal, Orange Free State and the Chartered African company, by which the whole of Bechuanaland was declared to be infested with the rinderpest. It was resolved that there was necessity for combined action.

A large force of Boers, estimated at 1500, is massed 25 miles from Mafeking (which is on the borders of the Transvaal) with a machine gun. Their purpose ostensibly is to prevent the spread of the rinderpest, but they are really there because another raid is feared, owing to the massing of British troops here (to be forwarded to Buluwayo. Dr. Jameson's raid started into the Transvaal from Mafeking).

A dispatch from Pretoria says that President Kruger's reply to Mr. Chamberlain is friendly and conciliatory, but it fails to advance the negotiations.

The dispatch repeats that the president cannot ask the volksraad to consent to his visit to England until a basis for the discussion is settled. No agreement has been arrived at, but the hope is still entertained of a satisfactory settlement, says President Kruger. The Transvaal, he continues, cannot admit any right of a foreign power to interfere with its internal matters. It relies upon its independence in that respect provided by the London convention.

Patriotic Aims.

BOSTON, April 21.—The annual meeting of the Massachusetts branch Patriotic Sons of America was held yesterday. The aims and principles of the order were stated to be patriotism, fraternity and education. It opposes foreign interference in state of national affairs. It opposes the appropriation of public money for sectarian purposes. It aims to preserve the constitution of the United States, and to defend the American system of public schools. Resolutions were passed mourning the death of the late Governor Greenhalge. W. A. Dodge was re-elected president.

Woman Against Woman.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 21.—Because she refused to reveal the hiding place of her new born baby, Miss Annie Boatner of Hyckory Ridge was nearly lynched by a crowd of infuriated women yesterday. They placed a rope about her neck, but not until it was considerably tightened did she admit giving birth to a child. She then made a confession of her crime. A number of men kept the women at bay, else they would most likely have lynched her. Miss Boatner is now lying in a critical condition in the poorhouse.

Disastrous Floods In Canada.

MONTREAL, April 21.—The floods at Sherbrooke, Richmond and Three Rivers, Nicolet and other points, continue to do immense damage. One-fourth of the city of Three Rivers was under water yesterday and the authorities had boats removing families from their homes. Twenty-four houses were swept away from Isle de Grace and St. Anne.

New England Briefs.

James Davidson, a veteran shipbuilder, died at New London, Conn., aged 72.

At Concord, N. H., Thompson of Concord defeated Foley of Lewiston, Me., in a set-to.

Fire in the confectionary store of F. & A. Paturel at Lynn, Mass., did $4000 damage.

Fire in the music store of Fred W. Peabody at Haverhill, Mass., did $5000 damage.

The Fourth of July committee of the Providence city council voted to hold a regatta on July 4.

The East Maine Methodist conference adopted resolutions of sympathy with the people of Armenia and Cuba.

The journeymen tailors employed by Luther & Huber, Providence, are out on a strike for an increase of 10 per cent in wages.

Brakeman Frank Giles was killed between cars at Windsor, Vt. He had both arms cut off, his neck broken and his head crushed.

Memorial services in honor of the memory of the late Governor Greenhalge were held under the auspices of the city government of Everett, Mass.

The Gounod society, under whose auspices an elaborate musical festival was held at New Haven, will be a loser by the festival to the extent of about $2000.

A livery stable at Waltham, Mass., owned and occupied by B. T. Lyman, was gutted by fire, and four cows, three horses and many carriages burned. Loss $2500.

Artemus W. Stearns, aged 80, one of the wealthiest and oldest citizens of Lawrence, Mass., is dead. He was a native of Hill, N. H., and had been in the dry goods business half a century.

George W. Hoyt, for 20 years landlord of the famous Travellers' Home hotel at Newton, N. H., is dead, aged 66. He was one of the best known horsemen in New Hampshire.

A terrific hailstorm caused a panic and created great havoc in the southeastern portion of Berkshire county, Mass., and that portion of Connecticut which is near the Massachusetts state line.

The B. H. Douglas and Sons company, with a capital stock of $25,000 was organized at New Haven. The concern is to succeed the old firm of that name, manufacturers and wholesalers of confectionery and cigars.

The jury in the Brooks will case at Winsted, Conn., returned with a compromise verdict, agreeing to give to Mrs. Brooks, widow of the testator, a division of the estate with Edgar M. Clossy, the contestant.

The glass blowers of the Hartford City Window Glass company refused to go to work because a blower had been discharged in alleged violation of the agreement with their union. Six hundred men are thrown out of employment.

The annual convention of the Merrimac Valley Associates of Christian Fidelity was held at Amesbury, Mass. These officers were chosen: E. E. Collins, president; Miss H. A. Cobb, vice-president; Miss Amy Roberts, secretary; Miss Anna Collins, treasurer.

GROUNDS TOO SMALL

To Accommodate the Thousands Who Wanted to See the Boston Game.

BOSTON, April 21.—The Bostons gave the champions a terrible drubbing. The score was 21 to 6, the game being called in the eighth inning to allow the visitors to catch a train. Over 18,000 people saw the game, and thousands were turned away.

Boston	2	2	8	1	7	0	0	1	—21
Baltimore	0	1	2	2	0	0	0	1	— 6

Base hits—Boston, 28; Baltimore, 8. Errors—Boston, 7; Baltimore, 6. Batteries—Boston, Nichols, Mains and Bergen; Baltimore—McMahon, Hemming and Robinson.

Want the Money Back.

CAIRO, April 21.—The French and Russian members of the Egyptian debt commission have summoned the other members before the mixed tribunals on a claim for the repayment of the funds which they allege were illegally advanced for the expenses of the Nile expedition. This is the sequence of the action of the French and Russian members protesting against the advance to Great Britain of the £500,000 required for the Nile expedition, and their withdrawal from the meeting of the commission when the grant was voted. The mixed tribunals are established under the auspices of the European powers, and are provided for the purpose of litigation between natives and foreigners in Egypt.

Fish Business Declining.

HALIFAX, April 21.—The last year has been one of disaster among the fish exporters of Nova Scotia. "I think I would not be underestimating it," said a large shipper, "if I place the amount of money at $500,000 that has been sunk in the business since the depression in the southern markets began. The serious part of the situation is that we do not see any indication which would lead us to hope for an improvement within the next 12 months. A low price for fish means a large deficit in the receipts of at least one-third of the population of this province, and its loss is bound to be reflected in the sales and collections of trade generally.

After Long Delay.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The long expected distribution of Columbian World's fair diplomas and medals has begun at last, and yesterday about 3000 diplomas and medals, covering all of the successful German exhibitors at the fair, were turned over to Baron Thielmann, the German ambassador. Those awarded to American exhibitors will be ready for delivery within the next 10 days or two weeks at the farthest, and the shipments to England, France, Russia, Spain, Italy and other foreign countries will be ready for delivery to their respective diplomatic representatives here within the next month.

Pere Hyacinthe to Wed Again.

PARIS, April 21.—Pere Hyacinthe, the distinguished Protestant priest, formerly Abbe Charles Loyson, will marry Laura, daughter of the late William Bucknell, an American. Pere Hyacinthe is 68 years old. He has been a prominent figure in the religious world since 1859, when he published his manifesto against what he deemed were abuses in the Catholic church. His former wife, whom he married in London in 1872, was also an American.

Prince and Princess Wedded.

COBURG, April 21.—The wedding of Princess Alexandra of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha to the hereditary Prince Ernest of Hohenlohe-Langenburg took place yesterday. The civil ceremony took place at 10.30 a. m. A procession was then formed and proceeded to the castle church at 11 o'clock. At the moment of the exchange of rings an artillery salute was fired. The wedding breakfast took place in the Throne room.

More Money Needed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 21.—Miss Clara Barton has received the following communication from Dr. Hubbell, dated Marash, April 19. "Your telegram received. Also the £400. I would suggest as much more for farming utensils. Your physicians from Beyreuth, Dr. Harris and party arrived yesterday with medical supplies. We start for Malatia today. Typhus is increasing. We are well here."

Collier Badly Damaged.

HAMBURG, April 21.—Steamer California, Captain Schmidt, from this port for Baltimore, collided yesterday with the English collier Tynemouth. The Tynemouth had to be beached to prevent her from sinking. The California was obliged to return to her dock as her stem was stove in.

Long Overdue.

HALIFAX, April 21.—The schooner Chorus left Halifax a month ago for Arichat, C. B., with a full general cargo. Although it takes but a few days to make the voyage, nothing has since been heard of the vessel or crew, and it is believed she went down with all on board.

Bicycles as Baggage.

ALBANY, April 21.—Governor Morton last evening signed the bill compelling railroad companies to carry bicycles as baggage free of charge. He is doubtful about the constitutionality of the bill, but believes the courts can decide that.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

The Theosophical society in America will hold its annual conclave in New York city April 26.

F. W. Morse has accepted the office of superintendent of motive power of the entire Grand Trunk system.

Charles Husche, manufacturer of picture frames and mouldings, Chicago, has assigned. Liabilities $30,000.

Dr. H. P. Roedel of Lebanon, Pa., made an assignment. The amount involved is between $30,000 and $40,000.

The Rothschilds have acquired a large interest in one of the leading silver smelting works in New South Wales.

The Democratic state central committee of Illinois, decided to hold the Democratic state convention at Peoria, on June 23.

The trial of Mrs. Alice A. L. Fleming for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Bliss, at New York, has been postponed until the May term.

In the contest between Steve O'Donnell of America and Owen Sullivan of South Africa, at London, O'Donnell beat Sullivan in 10 rounds.

Secretary of State Olney has issued a warrant for the surrender to the British authorities of David Breen, now held in custody in New York, on a charge of embezzling £175,000 in Dublin.

ODD SPOKES.

An analysis of 2,000 accident policies on which benefits were paid shows that only 76 were hurt in bicycle accidents.

It may seem paradoxical, but it is none the less true, that the bicycle makes the fat man thin and the thin man fat.

During 1894 about 30 people were killed while riding bicycles in England and Wales. The same year street cars killed 55.

It is estimated by interested and close observers that $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 new capital has been invested in bicycle plants this past year.

Bicycle footmen or valets, who ride at a respectful distance behind the fair cyclist, is the latest fashionable fad, which owes its birth to Washington society folk.

Samples of folding bicycles are being tested by the Russian and Prussian army authorities, and it is reported that if they prove satisfactory the latter country will order several thousand of them.

Charles G. Kilpatrick, the one legged trick rider, is untiring in his efforts to introduce new ideas into his business. His latest accomplishment is to ride hands-off and shoot glass balls a la Buffalo Bill.

General Miles says there are at the present time in the United States army nearly 5,000 officers and soldiers who use the wheel, either in service or for recreation, and he seems to feel that the next era of war will be the cycling era.

An ammonia "squirt" is considered a desirable item in the complete outfit of a bicyclist. It is not well to carry firearms with which to dispose of dogs that attack the bicycle when the ammonia "squirt" drives the beast off without serious injury.

ADJUSTING THE SADDLE.

The Rider Should Be as Nearly Over the Pedals as Possible.

A poorly adjusted saddle may cause an injury that will last a lifetime. The front of the seat should be lower than the back, but not so low as to cause the rider to slip forward or to cause the greater part of his weight to rest on the handle bars. Women in particular should be careful in this respect, and instructors cannot impress too strongly the importance of a proper adjustment of the saddle. Many riders prefer the saddle placed well forward over the pedals, while others ride with their seats behind the upright post, which fits into the frame. However, it is conceded by experts that the proper method is to put the rider as nearly over the pedals as possible. Many saddles are now made with a very broad, flat back and a very narrow front, and some well known makers have discarded the "nose" entirely, leaving the saddle simply a broad, flat seat. Some newly invented contrivances are arranged so that the saddle responds to every movement of the body and limbs. The general utility of these is to be tested as yet.

Riders, dealers and manufacturers are almost unanimously in favor of a strong, rigid seat, as hard as asphalt, with only enough spring to take up the vibration of a wheel upon a level surface, the rider taking care to lift himself over a rough piece of road by rising in his pedals, thus making it as easy as possible both for himself and for his mount.—New York Post.

ALL SORTS.

An Indiana circuit court jury has fined a man $100 for allowing his dog to bite a wheelman.

A Massachusetts man is about to place upon the market a cyclometer which weighs but one ounce and will list at $2. The case and cog wheels are aluminium.

The committee in charge of the Irvington-Millburn road race has decided to give a special medal to the cyclist who covers the distance in 1 hour 11 minutes or better.

A man who has tried it says the safest place in the world for cycling purposes is Rio Janeiro. The reason for this statement is that on the busiest streets all vehicles must proceed in one direction only.

President Elliott of the League of American Wheelmen announces that by a unanimous vote of the executive committee of the L. A. W. it is decided to reduce the sanction fee for open race meets from $10 to $5 and $2 for each additional day.

Everything is giving way to cycling. In the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, the $4,000,000 temple of music where only song has reigned, the cycle now will be king. The whole orchestra floor of the big auditorium is to be boarded over level with the stage and used as a cycling academy.

Lillian Russell as a Cyclist.

Lillian Russell is an enthusiastic wheelwoman. She has great endurance, and none of the ladies who ride with her can keep the pace she sets.

On returning from one of these trips Miss Russell is rubbed down with Turkish towels and alcohol and sleeps an hour. She does not believe in bloomers or knickerbockers and thinks few women can wear them gracefully. One of her costumes consists of a jacket with wide lapels, a short skirt reaching to between the knee and ankle, russet boots and trousers like the third piece to a riding habit. The skirt is properly weighted and never interferes with the wheel. She considers biking one of the most healthful and invigorating of exercises.—New York World.

The Scheme Failed.

A western agent thought he had originated a great idea when he sent out a bill collector in the shape of a pretty wheelwoman on a brand new wheel. The scheme failed most completely. The collector looked so charming that every delinquent she interviewed deliberately refrained from paying his bill so as to make her call again.—Wheel.

Melodies.

A robin sang.
The dull world wakened from its sleep,
Cast off its robe of winter sadness,
The leaves from bondage 'gan to peep.
The brooks o'erflowed in jolly madness.
All nature listened to the warning
And laughed with glee in springtime's morning
When robin sang.

A poet sang.
It was a song that reached the heart
Of many a man, of every woman.
It was the fruit of perfect art,
It showed a power divinely human.
His name was known to all, and then Fame on her tablets wrote it, when
The poet sang.

A mother sang.
Two little eyelids blinked and drooped,
And bright curls nestled on her breast.
Contentment's bounty richly trooped.
Sweet innocence found loving rest.
The slumber fairies tiptoed near,
And all the angels stopped to hear
When mother sang.
—Charles Emerson Cook.

My Tender Conscience.

I have a tender conscience
That measures five feet three,
Whose slight reproof is worth whole tomes
Of cold divinity;

Who leads me by "a still small voice,"
And, with a loving glance,
Reminds me while the lamp holds out
This sinner has a chance;

Whose form is ever by my side,
And at the door of sin
Thrusts out a white and rounded arm
And bars the way within.

No man can ever go astray
Who pauses to reflect
That he must meet those modest eyes
And keep his self respect.

So with a firm, unshaken front
I bid old satan flee,
For I've a tender conscience
That measures five feet three.
—Harry Romaine in Ladies' Home Journal.

It Would Be Better.

If more would act the play of life
And fewer spoil it in rehearsal;
If bigotry would sheathe his knife
Till good becomes more universal;
If priestcraft, gray with ages grown,
Had fewer blind men to adore it;
If talent shone
In truth alone,
We all would be the better for it.

If men were wise in little things,
Affecting less in all their dealings;
If hearts had fewer rusted strings
To isolate their kindly feelings;
If men, when wrong beats down the right,
Would strike together and restore it,
If right made might
In every fight,
We all would be the better for it.

Song.

The song we never sung
The pine trees sigh in chorus;
The eyes our eyes must shun
Our hearts keep still before us.

The rose we gathered not
Blooms in the soul forever,
And hands ne'er joined in life
Death has no power to sever.
—Lilla Cabot Perry in Century.

Genius.

As one who stands upon the sunlit peak
Amid the deep infinity of space,
Too thrilled to move, too charmed and awed to speak,
I contemplate the genius of the race
And worship at its solitary shrine
In deep solemnity, as near divine.

One at a Time.

"Oh, Madge, the basket already quite empty! I didn't mean you to eat all those figs at once."

"No more I did, mummy, dear. I eat 'em one by one."—Punch.

"Would you stand up for the new woman?"

"In a debate or in a street car?"—Exchange.

At the Wrong Time.

At the farther end of the sofa he sits,
Which is only one of her woes;
When they go abroad he nothing buys—
He is inopportunely close.

BUSY DAY FOR CO. K.

A Target Shoot, Public Drill and Dance on Patriots' Day.

Co. K, Fifth Regiment, observed Patriots' Day by a target shoot, public drill and dance.

The target shoot took place in the morning and although the sun was rather bright for good shooting some excellent scores were made. Following are the scores out of a possible 25:

Lieut. Whitney,	4	4	5	5	4—22
Corp. Higgins,	3	3	4	4	3—17
Priv. Frampton,	4	3	4	3	4—18
" Holmes,	3	4	4	3	2—16
" Johnson,	5	4	3	5	3—20
" Tucker,	3	3	2	3	4—15
" Berry,	4	4	4	4	3—19
" Prario,	4	2	4	4	3—17
" Odom,	4	5	4	4	3—20

The public drill and dance, which was held in the evening was a decided success, both socially and financially. The men first appeared in fatigue uniform and were drilled in company and platoon movements which were finely executed. A change was then made to the campaign uniform and the skirnish drill was exemplified, using blank cartridges.

Last on the programme was the presentation of the marksmen's badges for the season of '95. The presentation speech was made by Mr. W. L. Gage of the Braintree post of the G. A. R. He spoke of the good work done by the company, both in drill and marksmanship. The following men received medals:

Sharpshooters,—Lieut. W. H. Whitney, Corp. Ivers Lowe, Corp. Higgins.

1st Class,—Lieut. H. L. Kincaide, Serg't. Wm. Cahill, Priv. J. S. Odom, Priv. W. R. Frampton, Priv. E. L. Frampton.

The 2d Class,—Capt. W. E. Morrison, Sergt. Maurice A. Colbert, Sergt. John R. McGrath, Mus. P. E. Quill, Priv. F. L. Bent, Priv. D. F. Foster, Priv. M. Gunderson, Priv. C. W. Hunter, Priv. H. H. Holmes, Priv. Frank Jones, Priv. O. A. Johnson, Priv. W. J. Leslie, Priv. J. W. McGrath, Priv. W. J. Boyce, Priv. G. F. Phillips, Priv. F. C. Woodworth.

3d Class,—Corp. H. F. Barrett, Corp. T. B. Crane, Priv. H. L. Berry, Priv. T. C. Brown, Priv. T. T. Davidson, Priv. A. L. Morrow, Priv. Geo. Leonard, Priv. D. Millbury, Priv. A. L. Odom, Priv. W. C. Moses, Priv. O. Peterson, Priv. F. H. Raymond.

Dancing was then enjoyed until 11 30, music being furnished by Tirrell's orchestra.

—Holmes, the murderer, has at last written out a confession in which he tells of the taking of 27 human lives. It is an awful recital, and reveals a condition of mind that happily has no counterpart in modern times. The capture and condemnation of this atrocious criminal puts him beyond the power to do more harm, but it cannot recall the victims of his greed and thirst for blood.

—Greater New York will have an area of 359 square miles, making it the largest American city and nearly three times the size of Philadelphia. But London spreads over 688 square miles. The consolidation will advance New York to the position of the world's second city, and as its rate of growth is nearly double that of London it should be the first before the end of the coming century.

☞ Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. ALL SORTS OF SPORTS.

Pennsylvania and Cornell have agreed to meet in football in 1896 and 1897 at Philadelphia.

The Florida Athletic club is still trying to arrange for a big fistic carnival next December.

It is reported that the Olympic Athletic club of New Orleans will soon go into liquidation.

Two recent boxing matches have resulted fatally, one in Massachusetts, the other in Indiana.

Champion Tim, the famous Irish setter that died recently at Chestnut Hill, Pa., was valued at $10,000.

Lord Dunraven has consented to become the president of the Surbiton Model Yacht club of London.

Edward Zellars of Calcium, Berks county, Pa., caught 68 fish during the recent rise of the water. One sucker measured 18 inches.

The recent billiard tournament at Madison Square Garden, New York, proved that Schaefer is not a "back number" by any means.

A silver trophy for hurdlers to be held by the fastest man from year to year has been presented to the University of Pennsylvania Track association.

Because of a woman's race having been held there last year the Buffalo Driving Park association's track has been placed on the league's black list.

Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., experienced no difficulty in disposing of Isaac W. Budd of Pemberton, N. J., in their live bird championship shoot at Chicago.

The fight between James Daly of Buffalo and Joe Dunfee of Syracuse, scheduled for May 14, is off, the Buffalo police having refused to permit it to take place.

The Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club will probably offer a special prize for one raters next year, as the half rater is scarcely large enough for racing in strong tides.

Johnny Murphy, the Boston featherweight pugilist, who has been matched to fight Peddler Palmer for the bantamweight championship, will sail for England next month.

LARGE RACING STAKES.

It Is Claimed That Big Prizes Mean Good Sport.

The policy of offering very large prizes is a good one so long as it can be done conservatively. The practice may very readily be overdone, as both we and our Australian friends have discovered to our cost, but the fact remains that if the best horses are to be brought together the only medium through which that may be done is by offering handsome amounts for them to race for, at a season of the year when they may reasonably be supposed to be at their best. We should have in this country at least one great weight for age race set for decision in late September. The distance should not be less than a mile and three-quarters, and the value of the prize as great as can be offered in accordance with the present racing situation. It has been proved time and again that the people will eagerly attend when a long distance race is to be run, and we still have many horses that can run well over plenty of ground if trained with that object in view. Of later years our greatest all age events have been run at the very beginning of the season, and many chance victories have been scored in consequence. With these races run in September they would have been more true to form. The institution of "the American Cup" would be a very popular move.—Horseman.

McCoy Reveals His Identity.

In his autobiography, recently published, "Kid" McCoy talks of himself as follows: "Knowing that I am somewhat of a mystery to the followers of American pugilism, I will attempt to make myself plain to the sporting world. My right name in Norman Selby, the name of Charles McCoy having been adopted when I ran away from a happy home at the age of 13. I was born in Rush county, Ind., in 1873, and took up my residence at Indianapolis. I never intended to follow boxing for a living. I thought that I would make a good drummer. I was advised to take up the art, and finally came to the conclusion that I might make a successful boxer, so I started out in 1893. I have never kept a record of my contests, although I have fought 45 fights since I became a professional. I lost two decisions out of the lot. I always pick my company, keep well dressed and look as neat as possible. I never pose as a pugilist only when in the ring at work. I take good care of myself, and I intend to be in the game in ten years from now if I live that long and continue in good health."

A Theoretical Billiardist.

The prestige of the French billiard player, Garnier, was sadly shattered by his recent overwhelming defeat at the New York tournament, that series of contests having fully set forth his inferiority. While he may have a more extensive theoretical knowledge of the game of billiards than Schaeffer and Ives, he is evidently far behind them in actual ability to play the game. He simply cannot equal their skill with the cue, although he can probably give a more lucid explanation of scientific shots than either of the American experts.

A Bright Bird.

A remarkable performance of a homing pigeon was reported recently from Girardville, Schuylkill county, Pa. In September, 1894, A. J. Mayer of Gordon sold a pair of young homing pigeons to Benjamin Camp of Girardville. Not long since Mr. Camp concluded to give them their liberty. The cock immediately proceeded to his former home in Gordon. As the bird was never trained and was housed up for 19 months, this is certainly unusual.—Philadelphia Ledger.

PRESBYTERY MEETING.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every time it will cure Backache.

It has cured more cases of leucorrhœa by removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is of great value for local application.

—An Audubon Society has lately been organized in Boston, in the hope of arousing the community to the fact that the fashion of wearing feathers means the cruel slaughter of myriads of birds and threatens the extermination of some of the most beautiful of those which inhabit the United States. Its purpose is to discourage wearing and buying for ornamental purposes the feathers of wild birds and to further the protection of our native species. Miss Harriet E. THE New State law requires all persons in charge of steam engines, boilers and heaters, to take examination and secure a state license.

Beginning Tuesday evening, April 21, a course of six lectures will be given in the Young Men's Christian Association Rooms by Mr. George B. Haven, instructor in the Institute of Technology, Boston, on Steam Engineering.

These lectures have been planned especially by the Association to assist the men in preparing for the examinations.

Full information can be secured at the Association Rooms, junction Hancock and Washington streets.

BOTH GOOD MEN.

Reed and McKinley Have Friends In Connecticut.

RHODY FOR RUSSELL.

Maryland Platform Will be Patterned After Maine's.

Alabama Democrats Declare Themselves In Favor of Free Silver.

NEW HAVEN, April 22.—The first gun of the Connecticut campaign was fired last night, when the Republicans of the state assembled in the persons of their delegates for the opening of the Republican state convention, called for the purpose of nominating delegatesto the St. Louis convention.

It did not take long for an observer to determine that a keen interest is felt in the wish of this convention. The great question which prevails is as to the probability of a Reed or a McKinley delegation from Connecticut. The supporters of the Ohio statesman were on hand in large numbers, and their arrival was followed by the extensive distribution of large red badges bearing a portrait of the major and inscribed: "The Nation's Choice."

The convention hall, in the Hyperion theatre, is located directly opposite Yale university, and the students aided and abetted the delegates in making noise and wearing McKinley badges, which were peddled by boys gratis to all who cared to accept. No Reed badges or emblems were in evidence, but the Reed men claim that it will be a unanimous Reed delegation that will proceed from Connecticut to Missouri.

After the delegates had assembled the two chief booms became largely evident. Reed booms and McKinley booms cavorted all over the hall, with now and then a hint at a Harrison boom. All in all, however, it was a case of Maine vs. Ohio, and it now looks as if there is to be a fight before the convention is over.

Hon. Herbert E. Benton, chairman of the Republican state central committee, called the convention to order amid cheers. His opening remarks took the form of a welcome to the delegates. He said that the conditions surrounding this convention are the most auspicious in his memory. In closing Mr. Benton stated that the Republicans of Connecticut are in favor of protection and honest money, and predicted overwhelming majorities for the Republican candidates in the November elections. He then announced that Hon. Edgar M. Warner of Putnam had been appointed temporary chairman and as that gentleman advanced to the front platform he was greeted with great cheers.

The convention did not really wake up until Judge Warner reached that point in his address, in which he referred in order to Allison, Morton, Reed and McKinley. The mention of the first two was greeted with a cordial cheer, but when the speaker in a climax, reached the name of Thomas B. Reed pandemonium broke loose. For nearly a minute the delegates were on their feet cheering, and the speaker continued at a disadvantage for some time. When Judge Warner rounded up his list of candidates with a eulogy of Major McKinley the convention went wild. The Ohio statesman had the better of the cheering, and his adherents seemed unwilling to desist.

At the close of the address of Judge Warner, the convention proceeded to organize. Andrew F. Cates of Hartford was chosen as secretary, after which committees on credentials, on permanent organization and on the platform were chosen and the convention was organized.

Congressman Russell entered the hall, and in an instant he was hurried to the platform, where he indulged in an anathema on the Democratic administration and urged the necessity of the insertion in the Connecticut platform of a gold plank.

He was followed by ex-Speaker Sam Fessenden, who by brilliant wit and great eloquence moved the delegates to a point of great enthusiasm. Right here it was that Reed got his first real boom, when "Genial Sam" fairly took the breath away from the McKinleyites by lauding to the skies the son of Maine.

After the convention adjourned the district caucuses were held and at 9.45 the first session of the convention ended.

RUSSELL THE MAN

Whom Rhode Island Democrats Would Like to See President.

PROVIDENCE, April 22.—The Democratic state convention was not the tame affair that it promised to be. When the name of General Olney Arnold of Pawtucket was presented as the first delegate to the national convention, an antagonistic movement was at once commenced. He was twice nominated and twice defeated by a concerted movement on the part of the Providence delegates.

Chairman Richard B. Comstock, after calling the meeting to order, said that there were two issues to be fought—finance and the tariff. The people of Rhode Island were not satisfied with the Wilson bill because it had not gone far enough. Opposition to the McKinley tariff and a stand for a gold standard were the planks on which the Democratic party stood.

It had been said that there would be a split in the Democratic convention, but this he branded as false. The convention, he said, would nominate the man who represented Democratic principles to the core, a man who would make an ideal president, and one who had thrice led the Democratic forces to victory and would again—William E. Russell of Massachusetts.

Richard B. Comstock, Miles A. McNamee, George W. Greene of Woonsocket and Jesse H. Metcalf were elected delegates to the national convention. All but Greene are of Providence.

The committee on resolutions reported the following platform, which was unanimously adopted:

The Democratic party of Rhode Island cordially approves and indorses the able, efficient administration of Grover Cleveland. We especially commend the administration for its firmness and ability in maintaining, unaided by the congress of the United States, the credit of the nation. It is vital to the interests of our people that there should be no departure from the gold standard, to which all money, whether gold, silver or paper, should conform, and we are opposed to the free coinage of silver until at least four of the great powers of the eastern world shall come to an international agreement establishing the ratio at which gold and silver shall be admitted to mintage.

We affirm our belief in the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine, as interpreted by our president. We believe that the Wilson bill was a step in the right direction, and should be given a fair test. We do not believe in reciprocity, as it is impracticable and unnecessary, and tends to create hostilities against us. We congratulate the country that under the Wilson tariff bill our commerce is rapidly increasing, as evidenced by the treasury reports on exports of agriculturl implements, cotton manufactures, india rubber goods, machinery, iron, steel, leather and oils. As nobly representing these principles, we commend to the delegates here chosen and to the Chicago convention, one who will make an ideal candidate and an ideal president—William E. Russell of Massachusetts.

Dr. Garvin presented rules for the governing of future caucuses of the Democratic party in Rhode Island, which were referred to a committee, to be reported on at the next convention.

THE COTTON STATE.

Free and Unlimited Coinage of Silver Is Called For.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 22.—The Democratic state convention was called to order by J. B. Knox of Calhoun, chairman of the executive committee. Temporary chairman Crook made an address recommending the adoption of a free silver plank and exorting the minority in the convention to bend to the will of the majority. In the appointment of the committees the free silver men had safe majorities.

Congressman Bankhead assumed the chair and delivered the address of the occasion, advising the Democrats that they must stand together and that their only chance to win was undr the 16 to 1 banner. The committee on credentials reported, seating the Johnston contesting delegation from Lee and Pike counties. Resolutions were introduced as follows;

That the Democracy of Alabama favors the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, without regard to international agreement.

To endorse the national and state administrations, without reference to their financial policy.

To endorse Cleveland and Carlisle's policy specifically.

To require the delegates from Alabama to the national convention to vote as a unit at Chicago.

To refer the financial plank to the national convention.

To endorse the patriotic policies of Senators Morgan and Pugh of Alabama. All of the resolutions were referred to the committee on platform and resolutions.

The committee is understood to be a free coinage one, and it is said the platform will contain the first resolution mentioned verbatim, and that favorable reports will be made on the fourth and sixth resolutions offered. The second, third and fifth resolutions will be reported adversely.

The Situation In Maryland.

BALTIMORE, April 22.—The Republican state convention begun at the Lyceum theater at noon today. Senator-elect George L. Wellington called it to order, as chairman of the state Republican committee and will have much to do with its action, as most of the delegates thus far chosen are following his leadership. There is no doubt he will head the Maryland delegation to St. Louis as a delegate-at-large, and his associates, to be named will be James A. Garry, William T. Malster and Robert P. Graham.

The platform will probably be built on the lines laid down in that recently adopted in Maine, and the present program is to send the delegation to St. Louis uninstructed. Its first vote will be cast for Governor Lowndes, after which it will be divided between McKinley and Reed, as the adherents of both candidates are sure of places in the delegation. There is but little doubt that the convention will be harmonious, as all the trouble which heretofore existed between the opposing factions within the party seems to have been smoothed over.

Gold Men to Organize.

DALLAS, April 22.—Five hundred gold standard men from almost every county in Texas met here yesterday in convention and, by a vote of 10 to 1, resolved to reorganize the Democratic party in Texas, and make the fight in the state and in every congressional district and county in in the state. Delegates will be elected to a state convention to meet at Austin, June 23, and if they are not seated by the free silver, or Dubley wing, a contesting delegation will be sent to the national convention at Chicago. The reorganization of the party will be begun at once and will be pushed as rapidly as circumstances will permit.

Negroes Couldn't Vote.

OPELOUSAS, La., April 22.—Regulators, after remaining in camp near this place until after midnight, and announcing that they would come in and take possession of the court house, quietly dispersed. There was no interference with the voters as far as known, although it is asserted that many negroes, for fear of violence at the hands of the regulators, had surrendered their registration papers or signed certificates agreeing not to register or to vote.

PEOPLE TELL us they are often surprised to see news in the LEDGER so promptly. The full report of the Democratic State convention in yesterday's paper was one example, and the eulogy of Senator Lodge at the Greenhalge memorial exercises another. We propose to be "up to date."

REMEMBER THIS, friends: the DAILY LEDGER, like any other well-arranged journal, awaits only its opportunity to do you some good turn. Do not forget this when you feel disposed to speak lightly of the local paper.

Runaway of Hack.

There was a lively runaway this morning just before noon. One of Penniman & Son's hacks stood near the bowling alley in charge of a boy. From some unknown reason the horses became frightened, and getting away from the boy started toward City Hall at a breakneck speed. As they passed through City Square some ladies who were crossing the street barely escaped being run over. The now thoroughly frightened animals turned into Temple street, thence into Washington street toward the stable. They did not turn into the stable, however, but kept on. When opposite the residence of John W. Nash, the hack struck a post, demolishing the door of the hack, and when in front of the residence of N. B. Furnald, a carriage of John Hall was struck, overturning it and spilling out the driver, who was however uninjured, although the carriage was quite badly smashed.

The horses attached to the hack did not stop to see what damage they had done but kept on down Washington street until opposite the Universalist church, where they ran onto the newly laid street car track where the pole came out and the horses were stopped. The damage to the hack will not be much.

Superior Court Adjourns.

Judge Hammond closed court at Dedham Tuesday, after imposing sentences as follows:

Antonio Fortonartio of Quincy for keeping a liquor nuisance, $70.

Chares Hayes of Brookline, for larceny from the person, state prison at Charlestown for not more than 3 1-2 nor less than 2 1-2 years.

Thomas White, of Franklin, for violation of the liquor law, fined $100 and sent to Dedham house of correction for 2 months.

Willliam W. Burke of Weymouth, charged with passing a spurious check, fined $25.

Daniel Falvey, of Stoughton, assault and battery, 60 days in Dedham house of correction.

Steam Engineering.

The first of the series of lectures on steam engineering was given at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Tuesday evening by Mr. Geo B. Haven, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Haven spoke particularly on cylinders, pistons and valves. Of cylinders, he explained the object and working of parts, jackets, lagging, dups and glands and the meaning of clearance and how it was estimated. Of the piston he explained the rings, rod and fastenings and gave the rules for piston displacement. Of valves he spoke of the plain slide valve, caps and revolution of stroke. The next lecture will be on Tuesday evening. These lectures will be given on the steam engine and then on the steam boiler.

The Keating Case.

The case of Albert Keating for obstructing the highway was heard at Dedham, Tuesday, when the case was continued until the September term, Mr. Keating having agreed in the mean time to remove his buildings.

THE PRESBYTERY.

Quincy Presbyterian Church Presents Good Report.

A Thoughtful Sermon on "Revelation and Inspiration."

Romanism and Other Matters to Receive Attention.

The Presbytery which met in Quincy, Tuesday, organized with Rev. Henry C. Fay of Somerville as moderator, and Rev. William E. Archibald, Ph. D. of Brookline was reelected temporary clerk.

Rev. James H. Turnbull, M. A., of Fall River, was admitted to the Boston Presbytery from the Presbytery of Pictou, N. S.

A motion to appoint a committee of three to prepare a paper on "Romanism" to be read before the close of the meeting was laid on the table.

The question of dividing the Presbytery into three or four Presbyteries, and constituting them the synod of New England, was assigned for 10 o'clock Wednesday; and the business of electing commissioners to the general assembly was assigned for 11 o'clock Wednesday.

At 5 o'clock a recess was taken and at 6 o'clock supper was served in the lower room. At 7 30 Rev. Horace C. Hovey, D. D., of Newburyport, retiring president, delivered the annual sermon, which was followed by the Lord's supper.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Hovey's sermon was "Revelation and Inspiration" and the LEDGER gives a good abstract below:

The Annual Sermon.

Two texts were given, namely, Galatians 1:11, 12, and II Tim. 3:16. One of these mentions revelation, and the other inspiration as the source of the gospel. Much of the prevailing controversy about the Word of God grows out of a confusion of these very different terms. If there is a God it is reasonable that he should somehow show his will to his rational creatures. We do not deny that God is in nature; but we affirm that he has also given supernatural manifestations of himself. As it is said in our confession of faith: "The light of nature is not sufficient to give that knowledge which is necessary unto salvation, and therefore it pleased the Lord to reveal himself." The light of nature is good enough for the things of nature—for geography, geology, and all the circle of the sciences. But it never yet saved a soul.

Enoch, Noah, Abraham, and hundreds of others, who never wrote an inspired sentence, had revelations from God. And on the other hand no revelation was needed, even by inspired men, to enable them to copy genealogical tables or to write plain history. Luke says expressly that he wrote his gospel because he "had perfect understanding from eye-witnesses." The Holy Bible, God's best gift to man, is the joint product of revelation and inspiration. It is not a single book, but a sacred library of sixty-six books that men have bound up into one volume. Its authority does not rest on its grammar no its rhetoric, any more than on its paper and ink. But the mysterious breath of God flows through it from first to last, and makes us feel the throbbing of the heart of infinite love. This is what is meant by the term "plenary inspiration," as distinguished from that which is purely mechanical. The Lord chose his inspired messengers from all classes and left each man in full possession of his individuality. They did not stand passively before him, like an organ before the organist; but intelligently and voluntarily, like an orchestra before its leader.

Inspiration is spiritual. Spirit inspires spirit. As Paul said on behalf of the sacred writers, "We have the Mind of Christ." They "spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost;" but they spake thus as men and for man's salvation. The reason for prizing the Bible is that assigned by Paul to Timothy: "The Scriptures are able to make thee wise unto salvation." The original autographs of those scriptures no living man ever saw. What we have are copies of copies of copies. Hence there is room for judicious criticism. Two kinds are recognized: Lower criticism that deals with the history of manuscripts, and the purity of the Greek and Hebrew text; and higher criticism, that investigates the contents of the book itself.

It is possible for critics to be as absurd as anybody else if they get to be conceited and opinionated. We resent dictation from critics as well as from priests, when immortal souls are at stake. Those who have gained the summit-level of modern scholarship must testify and the rest of us must listen; only demanding that they shall not trifle with what we regard as a sacred and infallible spiritual guide to an everlasting home without a cloud and without a tear.

Critics must not be flippant nor arrogant, under the penalty of being indignantly spurned by men of common sense. And on the other hand, men of faith and prayer should accord double honor to men of consecrated learning who try honestly to find out exactly what was said in the days of old by Moses, Isaiah, Matthew, Paul and John, and other inspired writers who taught lost men how to be saved. "Blessed are they that hear the Word of God, and keep it."

Report of Quincy Church.

From a report issued by the local church these facts are taken: The First Presbyterian church of Quincy was organized by a Commission of Boston Presbytery, consisting of the Rev. V. A. Lewis, the Rev. J. L. Scott, Elder Robert Gilchrist, and Elder E. M. McPherson, in 1884. The meetings were held in Robertson Hall. On October 28, the Commission received 55 members by letter and eight by confession of faith. On November 19, the church was formally organized. The election of a session was deferred until February 17, 1885, when three elders were elected, ordained and installed, also one deacon. At the same meeting Mr. D. B. McLeod of Lane Theological Seminary was elected pastor. March 31, 1885, the roll shows a membership of 98, of whom fifteen had been received upon confession of faith.

The ministers have been Rev. Mr. McLeod, May 12, 1885; Rev. Eben Muse, Nov. 30, 1886; Rev. John Ramsay, M. A., June 4, 1891; Rev. William Steele, March 6, 1893, and the present pastor.

Rev. Robert Westly Peach, met with the session for the first time November 29, 1894. Between that date and March 31, 1895, when the active membership was reported at 200, 50 were received on confession of faith and 4 by letter, while 9 were dismissed by letter, a net gain of 45, and this, subtracted from 200, indicates an active membership of only 155 at the beginning of this pastorate. The accessions during the year closing March 31, 1896, were 51 by confession of faith and 9 by letter; and the active membership reported to this meeting of Presbytery is 240.

Continuing the report says: "It is also worthy of record that the year just closed, despite the continued severe financial depression, has been the best in the history of this church in respect to benevolences. The average for each member for the boards of the Presbyterian church has been:—In 1886 42 cents, and in the succeeding years, respectively, 44, 75, 82, 77, 56, 23, 27, 67, 61 cents, but this year $1.11. The total benevolences, including "miscellaneous," have averaged for each member,—1886, 42 cents, and so on, 62, 83, 98, 84, 60, 23, 52, 67, 81 cents, but this year $1.70. The best years hitherto for giving to Christ's work outside of our own parish were 1889 and 1890, but the people were greatly more prosperous then than now, and the present increase is proportionately two fold. This is cause for rejoicing as evidence of growth in grace. A striking fact is discovered by the above table. Of the ten years preceding this, the five which had the largest benevolent offerings had the largest number of conversions; this year is also one in which many souls have confessed the Saviour in this church. The Congregational expenses have neither increased nor diminished in any discoverable ratio to the benevolences. The presence and power of the Holy Spirit are manifest not only in the saving of sinners, but in the causing of believers to give of their means to supply the preaching of the gospel of salvation throughout the world."

The Meetings Today.

Today meetings were held at 9 A. M, and 2.15 P. M., and this evening the Women's Presbyterial Missionary society will hold a popular meeting at the Presbyterian church to which the public is invited. Miss M. Katharine Jones and Rev. George L. Robinson, Ph. D., will speak.

The Missionary society opened its meetings this morning at 10 o'clock in the Baptist chapel on Franklin street, and is also in session this afternoon.

Woman's Alliance.

The last of the papers on "The Pentateuch" was given by Mrs. George Saville Tuesday afternoon in the Parish parlor of the First church. Clear, carefully compiled, this was a good ending of the papers on the first five books in the Old Testament.

This has been the first original work of this kind, as far as we know, in any church in Quincy. The only change in method that would be an improvement, would be more time given to each book. The insight into this, has created an interest in and stimulated a desire to study more leisurely, the remaining books.

The ladies have done conscientious work and have shown of what value a mere glance of any subject is to a student. The papers have dealt with the sacred histories rather in the light of history than in any spirit that could detract from the halo which has ever dwelt around these inspired writings and which is increased rather than lessened by comparative study. Such study can not fail to keep those taking an active part, and to benefit a community by indirect influence. Probably a continuance of these papers another season, would call a larger audience than that made up of the Alliance.

At the close of the paper Mrs. Morton read with feeling the beautiful poem "The Burial of Moses."

Sunny Hour Entertainment.

Patriots' Day was observed in a very practical manner by the Sunny Hour club, which is connected with the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School. The club gave an entertainment in the church vestry. Three farces were well played and staged. They were "Ignorance is Bliss," "Coals of Fire," and "Humors of the Strike." Besides these there was music, Avery Bennett played a piano solo and Albert S. Armstrong a solo on a violin.

It took a large company of actors to properly present these plays. They were: Ernest Arnold, Avery Bennett, Fred Thayer, Tyler Brigham, Ernest Armstrong, Jack Simmons, Walter Hewett, Fred Mitchell, Fred Jacobs, Bert Armstrong, George Judkins, Richard Polson, Horace Thomas, Avery Bennett, and Ed. Mitchell.

Mr. A. E. Brownville of Wollaston and Miss Cornelia Elliot of Quincy were on the committee of arrangements for the convention of the Norfolk County Christian Endeavor held at Brookline, Patriots' day.

The City Books of 1895 are not yet out, although when bids were asked it was with the understanding the work should be done in a month. The bids were opened March 10, and the contract awarded that day, over six weeks ago.

It is remembered by his many friends that Samuel Curtis Gregg, who was formerly a resident of Quincy, died in San Francisco a year ago. His remains have been brought to this city and were interred in Mt. Wollaston cemetery on Tuesday, April 21. The burial was private, the service being read by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth of Braintree.

HAD FOUR HUSBANDS.

Connecticut Woman Arrested In Empire State on Charge of Bigamy.

NEWBURG, N. Y., April 22.—A woman who gave her name as Jeannette Hall was arrested in this city last night by Chief of Police Parrott, charged with being a fugitive from justice. It is said that she is wanted by the authorities at Danbury, Conn., at which place she is alleged to have jumped a bail bond of $1,000 last July, which she was under on a charge of bigamy. The woman was arrested here last January and taken to Matteawan, where she escaped from Chief of Police Hall. She then returned to Newburg, and it is said has been living here since. Mrs. Hall admits having had four husbands, but claims that two of them are dead. She will be held for the arrival of an officer from Danbury.

A Correction by Eckles.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Hon. J. H. Eckles said yesterday: "A curious typographical error has made me say precisely the thing which I did not say respecting my impressions of the president's attitude at this time, and I understand that this typographical error has been reported all over the country. What I did say was this: 'I do not know anything positively about President Cleveland's intentions or wishes relative to the presidency, but my impression is that he feels that there is no reason why he should be willing to enter another presidential canvass.' The printers made it unwilling instead of willing, exactly reversing my meaning."

On Beacon Hill.

BOSTON, April 22.—The street railway lease bill was ordered to a third reading in the house, 82 to 32. Speaker Meyer appointed the house committee on congressional district redistricting, with Mr. Light of Hyde Park, chairman. The aldermanic bill was committed to the committee on metropolitan affairs. The committee on mercantile affairs reported leave to withdraw on the petition for the burial of the trolley wires of the West End. The short lobster bill was passed to be enacted in the senate.

Sawed Himself Free.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 22.—Patrick Breitgna, a brakeman on the Reading and Columbia railroad, was instantly killed in a wreck at Manheim yesterday. Freight conductor Johnson received a broken arm and other severe injuries. Johnson was pinned under the engine by the step for 1½ hours, and was held in such a position that it was impossible for the wreckers to release him. Finally a saw was passed under to him, when he sawed off the timber that bound him and crawled out.

The Venezuelan Squabble.

LONDON, April 22.—The Times says in an editorial that it cannot share to the full extent the gloomy anticipations of its correspondent in Washington regarding the Venezuela dispute, and thinks that Lord Salisbury's non-acceptance of America's overtures does not amount to an absolute rejection. In regard to the draft of the arbitration treaty, the Times continues: It is gratifyying to know that a counter proposal, formed on different lines, is now on its way from Washington to London.

Matters Nearing a Crisis.

LONDON, April 22.—The Daily Telegraph publishes a dispatch from Pretoria which quotes a telegram sent from Buluwayo on Monday, saying that at noon a great battle at close quarters was imminent, and that the enemy was visible at a distance of four miles, entrenched behind stone mounds. The dispatch from Pretoria continues: The Johannesburg volunteers have telegraphed Earl Grey, offering him a corps of 300 equipped men.

Baron Hirsch Dead.

VIENNA, April 22.—Baron Maurice de Hirsch, the great financier and philanthropist, died on his estate at Presburg, Hungary, from a stroke of apoplexy. Baron Hirsch was one of the wealthiest men in the world, and from his philanthropy was regarded by the Hebrews as a protector and guide. Maurice Hirsch was born at Munich about 62 years ago and came of a respectable old Hebrew stock.

Menelik Changes His Mind.

MASSOWAH, April 22.—King Menelik has written to General Baldissera, the commander-in-chief of the Italian forces, asking him to return his letters regarding the peace proposals. This is regarded as a rupture of the peace negotiations between Italy and Abyssinia.

Dis-

tress in the stomach and other symptoms of dyspepsia demand careful attention to diet and a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla to tone the stomach and other digestive organs, purify the blood and sustain the nerves. Mr. J. W. Gerry, a well-known business man of Hopkinton, Mass., relates his experience.

"I was troubled with indigestion for many months. My food gave me great distress. Physicians prescribed for me, and although they gave me help for a time, they did not cure. I felt and discouraged and could not sleep at night. My friends advised me to give up business, the doctors declaring that I needed a change. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought it might do me good. I am glad to say that I felt the benefit right away, after commencing to take the medicine. Three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured me of indigestion. It also relieved me of costiveness and I have not had any trouble of this nature since. I have taken several bottles of the medicine in the Spring

Nervous

of the year since my first treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla and I have thus kept myself in perfect condition. My wife has also taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with equally good results. I am 60 years old and I feel as well as when I was 30 years of age. I cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. W. GERRY, Cor. Grove and Main Streets, Hopkinton, Mass.

The City Assured of Two Well Built Schoolhouses.

The contract to build the two new brick schoolbuildings at Quincy, for which $75,000 was appropriated by the City Council, has been awarded to George Howard of Brockton, the lowest bidder. His bid was $50,856 exclusive of heating and ventilating.

Commissioner Knowlton says he has looked up Mr. Howard's reputation and finds him to be thoroughly reliable, and the city is assured of having two good buildings.

The contract for heating apparatus at the West Quincy building was given to Lynch & Woodward, and that at Norfolk Downs to Walworth Construction and Supply Co., while the contract for the sanitary arrangements has been awarded to Fuller & Warren. The figures for the heating and ventilating of both buildings is $7,000.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

A little more snow fell this afternoon.

Henry P. Kittredge returned Tuesday from his southern trip.

Do not forget the fine entertainment at the Universalist vestry this evening.

The pastor of the West Quincy Methodist church will deliver a sermon to the young ladies next Sunday evening.

The last meeting of the season of the Crystal Whist Club will be held this evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Foster.

The Quincy Triangle Wheelmen will hold a special meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening to decide on club colors and transact other business.

From the stories which have been told to the LEDGER about Mr. G. A. Litchfield's dog since Saturday's sad occurrence, it seems as if there was hardly a person in Wollaston but what has had an unpleasant, and sometimes exciting experience with him. Mr. Litchfield owes it to the community to put this animal out of the way.

The funeral of William J. Faircloth was held from St. John's church this morning, solemn requiem mass being celebrated with Rev. F. A. Frigugliett as celebrant, Rev. J. P. Cuff as deacon, and Rev. A. F. Roche as sub deacon. The interment was at St. Mary's cemetery, the bearers being, Lawrence Garrity, Cornelius Moynihan, Michael Burns, Michael Daly, Timothy F. Ford, and Peter McConarty.

The Quincy Court.

John T. Ford was fined $5 for drunkenness at Milton.

Edward Reed of Holbrook was fined $5 for drunkenness and $5 for using indecent language.

Robert B. Courtney was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case placed on probation for one month.

The continued case of Thomas E. Bramley of Randolph for assault was called and he was fined $8.

Thomas Murray, John Hennessey and John Haynes, three tramps, rolled into the Milton police station Tuesday night, somewhat the worse for liquor, and attempted to run the place. They struck the wrong locality however and Chief Pierce put them under lock and key. This morning the hurry up wagon was brought out and the three men brought into court. Murray was fined $8, and the other men $5 each, and not having the necessary funds they will rusticate at Dedham for the next three months.

At the Bowling Alleys.

The best strings at Costello's alleys Monday were 183, 178 and 176. With the candle pins the best string were made by John W. Sanborn and A. M. Clements, each scoring 98. On the cocked hat the best string was 33, which was made by Mr. Garbrett.

During the day, team D of the Duck's Nest alleys, consisting of Messrs. Reed, Coe, Whall and Fratus paid a visit to the alleys and tried their luck.

Among the many spectators at the alleys were Representative Newcomb, ex Senator Merrill and ex-Representative Hammond.

Quincy May be Transferred.

Representative Thompson was appointed by Speaker Meyer on Tuesday on the committee to rearrange the boundary lines of the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th Congressional districts. Sixteen of the Norfolk County towns are now in the 11th district, where Quincy and Milton more properly belong. The 11th was also smaller in 1890 and the difference is probably greater now. Three wards of Boston—Wards 21, 23 and 25—are now in the 11th and more properly belong in the 10th. Will Representative Thompson get us out of the South Boston district?

FIVE HUNDRED KILLED.

Bodyguard of the Khalifa Meets With Terrible Slaughter.

Slatin's Prophecy Bids Fair to Be Fulfilled.

Wretched Ruler's Reign Not Likely to Last Much Longer.

LONDON, April 22.—The Daily News has a dispatch from Wady Halfa which says: It is difficult to appreciate the full importance of the news from Omdurman that the Khalifa's bodyguard is a standing army of 20,000, half of blacks and half of Arabs. There is a constant struggle for supremacy, and the present conflict is likely to be the precursor of other affrays.

The details of the engagement and its cause are not known, but the reports say that 500 of the khalifa's bodyguard has been killed and that his forces are disheartened. This news is considered to favor the advance of the Anglo-Egyptian forces upon Dongola, and to indicate that the jealousies which have been frequently reported as existing among the khalifa's lieutenants, are bearing fruit. The work of sending troops to the front, supplying them with food and ammunition, building the strategic railroad, and fortifying Akasheh is going on with promptness and smoothness.

If there has been fighting among the khalifa's troops, as reported, Slatin Pacha's prophecy is fulfilled. But a few months after the fall of Khartoum the mahdi died. Following out the arrangement, the khalifa Abdulcah reigned in his stead. The death of the mahdi so plainly falsified his prophecies as to himself that the element of religious fanaticism in the Kahdists weakened steadily from the day of the announcement that he had died, and the khalifa soon became an ordinary Oriental despot.

The chief cause of the successes of the Madhists was thus gone forever. While all the forms and ceremonies instituted by the mahdi are kept up, and while thousands of pilgrims visit his tomb daily, fear, in the opinion of Slatin Pacha, has more to do with it than piety. For the khalifa realizes that this religious idea is his principal excuse for existing, and strives to keep the people in subjection to it.

The mahdi was ignorant, but he could at least read and write his native Arabic. But the khalifa can neither read nor write. He looks upon all education with horror. He believes only in the most brutal ignorance. He has no idea of improvement of any kind. He does not wish his people to communicate with the outside world in any way. He is enormously vain, believing implicitly that the whole earth does nothing but think of him and tremble at the thought.

He has had nothing but reverses in his wars with surrounding people. He has seen a large per cent of his people carried away by pestilence and has seen the most terrible diseases prey upon the rest, reducing his subjects to a physical condition that is almost incredibly wretched. But these things please him, because he thinks there is less chance of effective rebellion against him.

Prosperous districts, with a teeming population, have been reduced to desert wastes, inhabited only by wild beasts. The great plains over which the western Arab nomads once roamed are deserted, while the homesteads of the Nile dwellers are now occupied by those nomad tribes, who have driven out the rightful owners of the soil or enslaved them. The once comparatively civilized Soudan is now occupied by a barbaric power hostile to both European and Ottoman influence.

The khalifa's throne is defended by a standing army of about 100,000 men, 40,000 of whom are fairly well armed with rifles. There are 6000 cavalry and 60,000—the great bulk of the army—armed with swords and spears. When the mahdi was alive and fanaticism burned in the heart of every soldier, the Mahdist army inspired well-grounded fear in the Europeans that fought against it, for every soldier would fight until he died and flight was unknown.

But now all this is changed, and there is good reason to believe that the Europeans are exaggerating the courage of the Mahdists of today. The Mahdist empire is doomed. For even while Statin Pasha was a prisoner there were almost daily conspiracies, and the khalifa was always engaged in suppressing some revolt, while the tribes that once formed the outermost limits of the empire have shaken off their allegiance. As long as the Mahdist stands guard the great fertile garden of Africa is shut off from civilization and from every civilizing influence.

Work For Ten Thousand.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Electrical Review states that it is credibly informed that the General Electric company will close its large factories at Schenectady, N.Y., Lynn, Mass., and Harrison, N. J., and will remove its entire manufacturing business to a new and modern plant to be erected for the company near Elizabeth, N. J. The deal is one of great magnitude, and has been hanging fire 1½ years. The combination of the company's manufacturing interests in one place, means that 10,000 or more hands will find employment in their factories, and a good sized town will be required to accommodate the workmen and their families.

High Water In Maine..

LEWISTON, Me., April 22.—Reports from towns up the Androscoggin indicate that the river is again at freshet pitch, and if the rain which is now falling proves of any account, the floods of March 1 may be repeated. At Berlin the river is higher than for a number of years, and the principal street is flooded. At Canton there are several millions of logs boomed, and if the river rises much higher there is great danger of their going out.

Investigation Favored.

Personal.

Munroe Crane, a native of Quincy, was in this city on Patriots' day. He was in good health and spirits, and we think we never saw him looking better. He is now a wealthy and prosperous merchant in New York city.

When a boy he made his first money in carrying the QUINCY PATRIOT from week to week to subscribers along the road to Quincy Point and Neck. He was a smart boy, and by saving his pennies soon earned enough to take him to Chicago, Ill.

After living in that Windy City a number of years, he accumulated sufficient funds and acquired the knowledge of killing and dressing hogs in a quick and scientific manner. He then went to the Empire City, where he had built in the most improved manner an abattoir, capable of slaughtering from 500 to 2,000 hogs a day; which he has most successfully managed to the present time.

Grave Case In Court.

The trouble between the family of Mrs. Bridget Nugent and the authorities of the West Quincy Catholic cemetery, which was noted in these columns last week, is to be settled in court, papers will be served in a suit in equity upon the cemetery authorities, to show cause why they should restrict the Nugent family from burying Mrs. Nugent in the family lot.

BACKACHE.

A Very Significant Indication of Organic Derangement.

The back, "the mainspring of woman's organism," quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in loins, and weight in lower part of body, blues and "all gone" feeling, that nature requires assistance, and at once. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for twenty years has been the one and only effective remedy in such cases. It speedily removes the cause and effectually restores the organs to a healthy and normal condition. Mrs. Pinkham cheerfully answers all letters from ailing women who require advice, without charge. Thousands of cases like this are recorded.

"I have taken one-half dozen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has relieved me from all pain. I cannot tell you the agony I endured for years; pains in my back (Oh, the backache was dreadful!) and bearing-down pains in the abdomen extending down into my limbs; headache and nausea, and very painful menstruations. I had grown very thin, a mere shadow of my former self. Now I am without a single pain and am gaining in flesh rapidly."—MATTIE GLENN, 1561 Dudley St., Cincinnati.

A McKinley District.

NASHVILLE, April 22.—The state Republican convention convened yesterday. All the prominent Republican leaders are here, including H. C. Evans of Chattanooga and W. R. Moore of Memphis, both seeking vice presidential endorsement. All the candidates for delegates-at-large, with one exception, are absolutely for McKinley.

Russell Indorsed.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Democratic Young Men's organization, and what was formerly known as Sheriff James O'Brien's party, last night adopted resolutions indorsing William E. Russell of Massachusetts as "a most desirable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination."

Louisiana's Election.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—The state and city election took place yesterday. The Citizens' league has elected its candidate for mayor by upwards of 10,000 majority. The vote for governor is close, but Foster (Dem.) will probably be elected.

FUN IN THE HOUSE.

Speaker Reed Had to Hurry to the Rescue of Mr. Barrett.

Congress Will Adjourn First of June, Says Gorman.

Will Give Politicians Time to Look After Their Fences.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The house yesterday unseated James F. Cobb (Dem.), representing the Fifty-fifth Alabama district, and voted, 121 to 45 to seat Albert T. Goodwin (Pop.), but the point of no quorum being made the house adjourned with the final vote still pending. Five Republicans voted with the Democrats to recommit the case, with instructions to the committee to permit the contestant to offer testimony in rebuttal. The senate spent the day on the Indian appropriation bill, but did not complete it. The sectarian school question was taken up late in the day and brought out animated debate.

An exciting incident occurred toward the close of Mr. Cobb's remarks. Mr. Barrett (Rep., Mass.) who was temporary chairman, let the hammer fall, and with the announcement that the time of the minority side had expired, recognized Mr. Daniels of New York, chairman of the elections committee. Mr. Cobb indignantly protested that he could not be taken from the floor; that he had an hour in his own right.

Mr. Bailey (Dem., Tex.), Mr. Turner (Dem., Ga.), Mr. McMillen (Dem., Tenn.), and several other Democrats jumped to their feet and demanded recognition as matters of privilege and to make parliamentary inquiries.

Mr. Barrett was deaf to their clamor, refusing to recognize them for any purpose unless Mr. Daniels yielded.

Mr. Bailey, with flushed face, insisted upon recognition for a parliamentery inquiry as a right, not a courtesy, and he shouted above the storm of protests from the Democratic side that if the occupant of the chair had any knowledge of the rules he would know that a parliamentary inquiry was always in order.

But Mr. Barrett was obdurate. Just as the strain was going on, Speaker Reed who had been hurriedly summoned from his private room in the rear of the lobby ascended the rostrum. He took in the situation at a glance. The trouble had arisen, he explained very quietly, to the irate Democrats from a misunderstanding on the part of the temporary occupant in the chair. "Ignorance not misunderstanding" shouted Mr. Bailey.

Early Adjournment.

Congress will adjourn by June 1, or not much before that date. Senator Gorman made this prediction yesterday to a friend, adding that it was subject, of course, to any unexpected circumstances that might arise to delay the adjournment.

But his statement is very significant, because he was the strongest among those Democrats who thought it would be good politics to try to keep congress here until after the two conventions, on the ground that the large appropriations ought to be thoroughly discussed in connection with the failure of the Republicans to provide revenue to meet them.

The majority of the Democratic senators did not take this view, and now it appears that it will be generally abandoned, and that adjournment by the end of next month will be had. Although this will not be as early as Speaker Reed desires, it will be very much earlier than usual, and will give the politicians in congress ample time to look after their fences.

Human Heart Visible.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Nikola Tesla, in a long communication to the Electrical Review, announces, among others, two interesting results he has achieved. One of these is that if a sensitive film be placed between two plates, say of magnesium and copper, a true Roentgen radiograph would be obtained after a very long exposure, and that by the use of a new type of fluorescent screen devised in his laboratory, he has been able to greatly increase the sharpness of the outlines in a shadow on the screen and to actually see the human heart.

Cabinet Won't Resign.

PARIS, April 22.—In the senate yesterday, M. Demole made an attack upon the cabinet and denounced their remaining in power, after having been defeated in the senate, as a violation of the constitution. The senate, by a vote of 171 to 90, adopted a motion to defer discussion until a new ministry should be formed. The ministers left the senate chamber when the vote on the motion was announced. It is believed they decided not to resign, but to convoke the chamber of deputies and demand a revision of the constitution.

Gaffney Will Be Tried.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 22.—Thomas F. Gaffney, who was arrested Sunday on a charge of counterfeiting, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Aldrich, waived examination and bail was reduced from $2500 to $1500, which was furnished. Gaffney will be tried in the United Staees circuit court in Boston, May 15.

Cattle Receipts and Quotations.

Amount of live stock on the markets at Brighton and Watertown:

	Cattle.	Sheep and Lambs.	Swine.
Western	3,997	11,085	26,225
Massachusetts	99	199	128
Maine	136	10	49
New Hampshire	92	807	77
Vermont	123	15	88
Totals	4,407	12,216	26,567

Cattle—Cattle on the market made up largely of western, and exporters take a good share. Market on western rules ¼c lower, and of good quality mostly at 4 to 4¼c.

Milch cows—Slim qualities prevail. Good grades seem scarce. Sales at $30 to $48 mostly; a few fancy at $50 to $60.

Fat hogs—Market price on country lots, 5¼c, d w, or ¼c decline; western steers rule steady at 3¾c to 4¾c, l w.

Sheep—The supply as laid down here not larger than last wsek and very light from the north. The lots were few and far between from New England. Western sheep cost mostly 4 [illegible] and lambs 5 to ¼c, being of good quality.

Veal calves—Dealers were instructed to pay lower prices [illegible] the country or not to buy at all, [illegible] before less calves. A year ago over [illegible]00 head were shipped in here by rail, but not one-half that number last week. Ranged generally 4 to 4¾c.; a few [illegible]5 to 5¼c., but very few.

Live poultry—1500 lbs. at 10 to 11c. per lb.

Directors Escaped Indictment.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 22.—The grand jury in the bank cases yesterday threw out the indictments against the directors of the Commercial bank, but found a true bill against Manager Cooke. The crown counsel threatens to prosecute the directors under a provision of the English law enabling criminal cases to be tried without the intervention of a grand jury, upon the attorney general laying before the court sworn information reciting charges and showing reasons why the cases should proceed.

Handled Live Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Lynford C. Biles, 64 years old, was instantly killed yesterday by coming in contact with an electric wire which crossed the roof of his house, and his son was fatally injured. Mr. Biles endeavored to remove a telephone wire which had been crossed with an electric light wire during the storm. The son was shocked while endeavoring to rescue his father. Biles was foreman of the jury which convicted H. H. Holmes of murder.

More Trouble For Dr. Brown.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 22.—Rev. C. O Brown, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational church, San Francisco, is again fighting for his ministerial existence. The Bay conference of Congregational ministers, angered at Brown's refusal to accept the slight censure imposed by the council which tried him upon charges of immorality and unministerial conduct, has preferred new charges against him and reopened the old complaint. The new allegations state that the pastor is untruthful and unfit for the ministry.

Shell Exploded.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 22.—While light battery F, Third United States artillery was firing a salute at Fort Sam Houston yesterday, commemorating the day Texas achieved her independence from Mexico, the premature explosion of a shell in the open breach of a cannon instantly killed Private Parkhurst and wounded three others. Parkhurst's right eye and arm were blown away by the charge. He was a nephew of Dr. Parkhurs of New York.

Lived 106 Years.

HARTFORD April 22.—The oldest person in Connecticut, Mrs. Emily R. Talcott of West Hartford, is dead. She was 106 years of age, and was born in Weathersfield, Dec. 20, 1790. She remembered distinctly the death of Washington and the visits of Lafayette to Connecticut in the early part of the century. Four children survive.

Strikers Defeated.

CHICAGO, April 22.—The strike of the clothing cutters, which has been in progress for the last three months, has been declared off. The employers won an unconditional victory. The garment makers' union is now expected to give in. About 15,000 men were out, clothing cutters and garment workers combined.

The Sop For Cuba.

THREE PISTOL SHOTS

Which May Result In the Death of Mrs. McKenna of Franklin.

Sad Sequel to a Quarrel With Her Husband.

He Is Said to Have Been Drinking Hard and Is Now Prostrated.

Franklin, Mass., April 23.—During a quarrel last evening, John McKenna fired three shots at his wife. Three bullets entered her body, one probably penetrating her lungs.

Mrs. McKenna is about 23 years old and a daughter of William McCormack, who lives here and is employed in Boston.

The couple have been married four or five years. It is said they have had trouble before.

McKenna is said to have been drinking hard for some time, and a few days ago he assaulted his wife.

After the shooting, McKenna disappeared, but was found on the stret near Nason's crossing. He surrendered to Officer Connor.

He was badly prostrated by drink and the terrible situation in which he is placed.

Lawyer Smith's Sorry Plight.

Boston, April 23.—The case of Frank C. Smith, the Boston and New York lawyer, charged with forgery, was called up in the municipal court yesterday, but owing to the fact that Smith is confined in the jail at Northport, L. I., on another charge of forgery, the case could not go on, and the defendant was defaulted. Smith is accused of forging the name of Edwin E. Davis of this city to two checks, amounting to $950, which were cashed by the American Loan and Trust company. A hearing on the case was given, and the defendant was released on $1200 bail. He immediately left this city for Northport, where, upon his arrival, he was arrested on a charge of having forged the name of E. F. S. Saunderson to a check of $300 on the People's Bank and Trust company of Rutherford, L. I. Mr. Smith was formerly secretary of the New York Bar association and of several other legal associations.

A Female Robber.

Boston, April 23.—A very mysterious robbery was explained yesterday by the confession of Mrs. Delia Brown, aged 40, which followed her arrest on the charge of having robbed the house of Eckel Herman on the night of Dec. 27, 1895. The Herman house was thoroughly ransacked while the family were asleep, and about $150 worth of property was stolen. Last Sunday, Mrs. Herman, while out walking, recognized a cape worn by a young woman as one stolen from her. The police then learned that the cape had been given the young woman by a relative named Brown. This information resulted in the discovery and arrest of Mrs. Brown, who confessed her guilt, asserting that most of the articles stolen she had given away to relatives and others.

Bail Reduced.

Hartford, April 23.—The case of Max Gerstel, an architect's clerk of this city, who was arrested as being the man who accosted a number of women in this city after dark and hugged them, had a hearing in the police court yesterday afternoon, which continued until 11 o'clock last night. There were about a dozen women on hand to testify, but they could not positively identify Gerstel as the man who assaulted them. In consequence of the light weight of testimony against the accused, Judge Bill decided to reduce the bonds from $2000 to $300. Joseph Barbour appeared for Gerstel. He says that the young man is innocent, and alleges that his arrest is due to a blackmailing scheme.

On Beacon Hill.

Boston, April 23.—The house rejected the bill to provide that all the fees from the granting of liquor licenses shall be turned into the state treasury. The senate took up the report of the committee on ways and means, cutting down the gypsy moth appropriation from $100,000 to $50,000, and restored the sum appropriated to the original figures, $100,000. The house passed the bill defining the membership of the First church of Lowell to be enacted. The bill to allow the Springfield United Electric Light company to do business in adjoining cities was ordered to a third reading. The bill to take a slice off Boston common was advanced a stage.

Females In the Majority.

Boston, April 23.—The census of Massachusetts for the decade including 1895 was issued yesterday by Horace G. Wadlin, chief of the bureau of statistics of labor. The state's population is 2,500,183; there are 1,214,701 females and 1,241,701 males, an excess of females of 70,781. The total gain in population since 1885 is 558,042, an increase of 281,817 males and 276,225 females. There are 560,802 legal voters. The largest city is Boston, with 496,920 inhabitants, and the smallest town is New Ashford, with 116.

Francis Jewett Dead.

Lowell, Mass., April 23.—Hon. Francis Jewett died suddenly of apoplexy at his home here yesterday. Mr. Jewett was one of the principal shareholders in the Wamesit National bank, and a prominent Odd Fellow, Knight Templar and Mason. He had been councilman, alderman and mayor. He was a strong Republican, with prohibition proclivities. He was sent to the senate from Lowell two terms, and served in the governor's council from the Sixth district two years.

Bankers In Court.

Winsted, Conn., April 23.—Further developments in the cases of the bankrupt banking house of Eldridge & Cowles of Norfolk occurred yesterday, when J. N. Cowles, the junior member of the firm, was brought before Judge Wheeler in the criminal section of the superior court at Litchfield and held in $3000 bail to answer to the charge of embezzlement preferred by D. J. Warner of Saulisbury, who caused similar proceedings to be instigated against President Eldridge.

Considered a Success.

Newport, R. I., April 23.—A trial was held at the torpedo station yesterday of the target-seeking steering device attached to a torpedo, fired from the bow of a tug. This device is intended to steer a torpedo after it gets within magnetic range by a needle which is attached by a vessel's iron or steel hull. The trial was pronounced very successful, a speed of 30 knots an hour being developed with a projectile seven feet in length, weighing 130 pounds.

To Avoid Litigation.

Greenfield, Mass., April 23.—Edward Parker Deacon says in regard to the reported reconciliation with his wife: "I am not reconciled to my divorced wife. I am not in precarious health. To avoid constant litigation, I have given my two eldest children to their mother's care, and keep the youngest, who is to be entirely under my care."

The large hat factory of MacKenzie & Sons in East Danbury, Conn., was completely destroyed by fire, and the factory of Davenport & Bengal adjoining was damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars. The cause has not yet been determined. The loss is placed at $60,000.

Mrs. Marshall Crane and her daughter Clara were being driven in a closed carriage over a wooden bridge spanning the Housatonic river at Dalton, Mass., when the bridge gave way and they were precipitated into the water. Four men saved the women after considerable difficulty.

Weyler's Predictions.

Habana, April 23. — Captain General Weyler yesterday expressed his view of the situation in Cuba, both present and prospective, which he claims to feel is very encouraging for the Spanish cause. He believes that it will be impossible for Maceo to pass the Trocha and get out of Pinar del Rio, even in the rainy season. General Weyler said that the rebellion is more broken up than he expected would be the case, considering its earlier development. In view of the demoralization and lack of resources throughout the island, he now expresses the hope that the pacification of the island will be only a question of about eight months' time.

Leonists Defeated.

Managua, April 23.—The government forces have secured a great victory over the Leonist rebels by capturing Obrage city, which has hitherto been held by the rebels. The railroad in possession of the insurgents has also been cut by the government troops at Amatitan and the bridge destroyed. For the fourth time Momotombo will fall into the hands of the government. President Zelaya is still with his army in the field.

Poverty Party.

The Knights of Honor gave a large dancing party Wednesday night at Hancock hall. As a poverty party it was not a success, but it was jovial and a good time for the one hundred couples in attendance. Messrs. Nightingale and Carson in the crazy quilt suits were very noticeable; also Theodore Hermanson, the white clown, and the little old man who wore "chiners" and a hat. Algier Gardner who took the gentleman's prize of a pipe wore plaid pants, and a seersucker vest and an old style Prince Albert coat the worse for wear. The ladies' prize, a toilet case, was awarded to Mrs. Walter Thayer who appeared in a white Mother Hubbard. The judges were Mrs. Emma Marnock, Miss M. Lizzie Furnald and Mrs. George Monk.

The grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. James Birnie. Thayer's music.

Falsehood Never Justifiable.

The regular meeting of the Quincy High School Debating society was held Wednesday at the usual hour. After the reading of the records by the secretary, Mr. Curtis Nichols, '97, the unfinished entertainment of last week's meeting was completed. The following numbers were given:

Essay, "A Visit to the Old Manse," Miss Ramsey, '96.

Vocal solo, Miss Roche, '96. A pleasing selection rendered very effectively.

Essay, Miss Cummings, '96.

The debate was then begun. Miss Bemis, '97, and Miss Briggs, '97, spoke on the affirmative side of the subject: "Resolved, That Falsehood is Never Justifiable." In consequence of the absence of several speakers the conclusion of the debate was postponed. Miss Peterson acted as critic and Miss Briggs, '96 presided.

Quincy Among Largest.

There are in Massachusetts according to the census of 1895, 36 towns having a population under 500; 59 ranging from 500 to 1000; 47 from 1000 to 1500; 39 from 1500 to 2000; 23 from 2000 to 2500; 18 from 2500 to 3000; 46 from 3000 to 5000; and 46 from 5000 to 10,000. These towns taken together constitute 88.96 per cent. of the total number of the cities and towns, while they contain 31.21 per cent. of the entire population of the state.

Eleven cities and towns have from 10,000 to 20,000, and Quincy is among the 28 with over 20,000 population.

The total number of cities and towns Jan. 1, 1896, was 353, of which 32 were cities and 321 were towns. In 1885 there were 23 cities and 325 towns, making a total of 348 cities and towns.

For the Painting Fund.

The entertainment given Wednesday night in aid of the painting fund at the Universalist church was in every way a success. The entertainment consisted of readings, vocal solos and tableaux, closing with the comedy "A Love of a Bonnet." All of the parts were well taken both in tableaux and comedy. The readings by Miss Tinker of the Emerson school, Boston, were very fine, and the solos by Mrs. Bullard of Braintree should call for special mention. The whole entertainment under the direction of Mrs. Alex. Craig was a perfect success. Herbert Fay Nye was accompanist for the evening.

A White Mark.

Some papers have poked fun at Congressman Morse because he is so widely known as the proprietor of Rising Sun stove polish. But Mr. Morse has proven himself a capable legislator and a special champion of the farmer and of all people who want pure food. The loud-mouthed Cannon of Illinois tried last week to make capital against the filled-cheese bill at Mr. Morse's expense, but was squelched by the latter's reply: "When blacking is used for butter, there will be time to compare it with cheese made of hog oil. And I have never seen any blacking so good but it would make a white mark on any man who defends fraudulent butter or cheese, or advocates continuing this fraud upon consumers and farmers." That's the kind of talk!—New England Homestead.

Uncollected Taxes.

The report of the Tax Collector shows that upon the first of January there was over $100,000 due the city for upaid taxes, as follows:

Year 1890,	$2,467.21
Year 1891,	2,548 38
Year 1892,	3,480.53
Year 1893,	4,001.80

Spirited Discussion at the Presbytery Yesterday.

Over the Independent Presbyterian Society of Quincy.

The Question of Dividing the Presbytery Postponed.

The second day's session of the spring meeting of the Presbytery of Boston, Wednesday at the Presbyterian church, South Quincy, was very largely attended. Rev. Henry C. Fay, of Somerville, moderator, presided and led the devotional meeting that opened the session.

The following commissioners to the general assembly were elected: Rev. Gerhart A. Wilson, Rev. Scott F. Hershey, Rev. J. A. F. McBain; alternates, Rev. W. H. Dexter, Rev. W. Davis, Rev. J. E. Wildey.

A committee was appointed to install Rev. Mr. Baird, as pastor of the New Bedford church.

Rev. J. B. Dunn was received into the Boston Presbytery from the Philadelphia Presbytery.

The question of dividing the Boston Presbytery into three or four presbyteries and constituting them the synod of New England, came up for discussion which was prolonged for over three hours and action was finally postponed until the fall meeting.

The question of establishing another church in Quincy, among the Independents who sometime ago withdrew from the South Quincy church and have been holding meetings at Wilson's hall, also came up and created a spirited discussion, which was settled by the Presbytery voting to give leave to the petitioners to withdraw their application.

These discussions prolonged the session so late that instead of adjourning at 5 o'clock, as was intended, it was nearly 7 o'clock before an adjournment was made.

The concluding session was held this forenoon. A committee of three ministers was appointed to bear to the body which meets in Wilson's hall the Christian sympathy of the Presbytery, to inform them that they are still under the spiritual authority of the Session of the First Presbyterian church of Quincy, and to affectionately advise them to return to that church.

At the same time the session was instructed to grant letters of dismission to the members who so requested, upon their designating the church with which they desired to unite, as in regular standing.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what we say, but by what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It has a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and exclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which give it merit peculiar to itself. This is the secret of its wonderful power, of its wonderful sales, of its wonderful hold upon the confidence of the people. This is why it cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Rheumatism, all Humors, Kidney and Liver troubles, Dyspepsia, That Tired Feeling, builds up the nerves, creates an appetite and strengthens the whole system. Its merit, its sales, its

LIQUOR BILL REJECTED.

Eloquent Speech in Favor by Representative Newcomb of Quincy.

Our special State house reporter writes: "Newcomb of Quincy really surprised himself and the house Wednesday by the force and eloquence of his speech in favor of the bill for turning all liquor license fees into the State treasury. It was a vigorous debate and was well sustained on both sides, but the Quincy representative acquitted himself finely. After he finished several members came around him to offer their congratulations. He is not one of the talkative members of the House and hence what he says receives more attention when he occupies a few minutes. He was a high credit to the city and his constituents will be very likely to give him another term after having shown his mettle so nobly for a good cause."

The vote was 88 yeas and 95 nays. All the Representatives from the Fifth Norfolk district—Flint, Newcomb and Thompson—voted in favor.

Mr. Newcomb of Quincy thought the cause of temperance would be promoted by the passage of the bill. He characterized as a humbug the argument that any city or town derives any real benefit from the money received for liquor licenses.

Cambridge to Celebrate.

This 50th birthday anniversary of the city of Cambridge is not to be passed over by a simple notice, but will be celebrated by its citizens with appropriate exercises in the schools, with parades, illuminations, decorations, the ringing of bells, the firing of salutes, with atheletic events, receptions and banquets, all of which will occupy two days, and during which time the whole city will devote itself to one grand, gala holiday. The celebration will occur on June 2d and 3d, and will be the proudest event in the history of corporate Cambridge; it will be one of the largest celebrations ever undertaken by a city of New England outside of Boston, and from a commercial standpoint, certainly, the event will be one of much interest to all New England cities and towns.

Almost every grammar school pupil in New England, probably knows of the historic interest of Cambridge, of beautiful streets bordered by magnificent elms, of its fine old estates, of its famous institutions of learning, and of its fame as the home of literary men and women. But a feature of Cambridge represented in this anniversary celebration which will be sure to attract much more attention than any other, will be the manufacturing and other commercial progress of the city, and the advantages this so-called "quiet" city possesses for business as well as for education and beautiful homes.

The idea of a 50th anniversary celebration originated with the Cambridge Trade association, which, after a concurrence of plans with the city government, appointed a committee of 50 citizens. The chairman of that general committee is Hon. William A. Bancroft, mayor of the city, and Ex-Gov. William E. Russell, and other prominent gentlemen are active on the committee. The Quincy Board of Trade should keep its ear to the ground and observe the way in which the anniversary is planned and carried out.

That Biting Dog.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

With regard to the biting of our girl, Emma Anderson, by Mr. George A. Litchfield's English mastiff, Hugo, there certainly are extenuating circumstances to be brought forward in the dog's behalf.

In the first place he was invited into the house by our girl, who thought the children would be interested in seeing so large a dog at close quarters. This was a great mistake, though she thought she had guarded against the presence on the scene of our dog "Lancet," by shutting the doors.

In the second place, when our dog came into the room at the heels of one of the children, finding another dog on his own particular bailiwick, he did not wait to hear the story of how and why the other dog was there, but took matters into his own hands and began the fight which ended so unhappily.

It was while trying to separate the two dogs by pulling off our dog that the girl was bitten.

Now, I confess to feeling a bit nervous over very large dogs that act as though I had not been properly introduced to them, especially if they are larger than my dog. And I am not at all sure that "Hugo" is not too large or Wollaston too small for the comfort of all concerned. From all that I hear there would be many who would breathe easier in going near Mr. Litchfield's corner if they knew that the dog had gone on a long vacation to a farm, but in regard to this particular case he was not so blameable as might be supposed, if one did know the facts.

Very sincerely yours,
EDWARD W. ROBINSON.

OVER $1700 FOR MISSIONS.

Missionary Society of Boston Presbytery Meets in Quincy.

The twelfth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the Boston Presbytery was held Wednesday in the Calvary Baptist church. The meeting was very largely attended about 100 delegates being present, and much interest was manifested throughout the whole session. Miss Fannie G. Bray of Newburyport presided.

The session opened at 10.30 with devotional exercises led by Mrs. Robert Westly Peach, which were followed by the roll call, and reading of reports of the treasurer and secretary. That of the treasurer showing the receipts during the year to have been $1734.94 while the expenditures were: $756 to foreign missions, and $978 to home missions.

At 1930 there was a conference on "Young Peoples Work," led by Mrs. S. F. Hershey, which was followed by letters from missionaries.

The society has missionaries in China, Dakota, and among the Freedmen and letters from these were very interesting. Miss J. F. McKissick gave a report of the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Board in Syracuse.

After lunch the election of officers was in order, resulting as follows:

President,—Miss Fannie G. Bray.

Vice Presidents,—Mrs. Robert Gilchrist, Mrs. J. A. F. McBair, Mrs. S. C. Gunn, Mrs. J. T. Black, Miss E. L. McPherson, Mrs. H. C. Hovey, Mrs. S. F. Hershey.

Secretary,—Miss J. F. McKissick.

Treasurer,—Mrs. J. F. McPherson.

Secretary of Literature,—Mrs. William D. McKissick.

Committee of Young people,—Mrs. S. F. Hershey, Mrs. E. M. McPherson, Mrs. M. D. Kneeland, Mrs. Henry Martin.

It was voted that the fall meeting be held in Manchester, N. H.

At the conclusion of the business session Miss M. Katherine Jones gave an interesting address on missions and the work they were doing, after which the session closed with a brief prayer meeting.

In the evening the society held a popular meeting at the Presbyterian church where addresses we made by Miss Jones and Rev. George L. Robinson, Ph. D.

The church was filled with a deeply interested congregation, and the addresses were of a high order. These were preceded by devotional exercises led by the Rev. Dr. Scott F. Hershey, the Rev. Dr. Horace C. Hovey and the Rev. Alvah R. Scott. The pastor of the church presided.

At the close of the meeting, the Rev. James T. Black gave the narrative of the state of religion in the Presbytery. One gratifying item was that out of forty-two churches Quincy was highest in accessions by confession of faith during the year.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Assistant Superintendent Waterhouse is proving to be the right man in the right place.

The lot upon which will be located the new school building at West Quincy is nearly graded and ready for the foundation.

Wednesday's Herald had a two column article on the Muster Hill stock farm which is owned by Mr. Geo. A. Litchfield of Wollaston.

The laying of the new rails on the Quincy Point line of the electrics has reached Foster street and will be completed this week.

Miss S. E. Brassil the special teacher of nature in the Quincy public schools is quarantined out of town, and is unable to attend to her duties here.

The Rev. Alvah R. Scott, of Worcester, will preach in the church tonight. Mr. Scott is one of the most scholarly and earnest young ministers in the Presbytery.

About thirty members of Wollaston lodge, I. O. G. T., visited Loyal lodge, Milton, on Monday, going and returning in barges. Joseph A. Fancy, G. C. T., and other grand officers were present.

Auctioneer Bradlee will sell estate at 136 Willard street at auction on Saturday. It comprises a store and tenement and 8,160 feet of land on the line of the electric street railway.

The Malden Y. M. C. A. will give a reception to the Women's Auxiliary of that city Association Friday afternoon. Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D. D., of Cambridge will deliver an address. Several members of the Quincy auxiliary will attend, a special invitation having been received for all who care to attend.

Mr. I. Howland Jones of Wollaston, has been for nearly two years in Europe finishing his architectural studies, is now with Peabody & Stearns of Boston. Mr. Jones has just completed the plans for the new portico and front entrance to the Quincy Yacht club house.

Wollaston lodge I. O. G. T., held one of the best meetings of the quarter on Tuesday evening. D. C. T. P. J. Chisholm addressed the members, and visitors were present from Loyal lodge of Milton, Belcher lodge of East Milton and Merry Mount lodge of Quincy. The social committee served fruit and confectionery. A very pleasant evening was spent in music, readings, etc., by the members of the various lodges, Wollaston lodge doing its share.

The Young Ladies' Charitable association of Atlantic will give its first grand concert in Music hall, May 21. Excellent local and outside talents has been secured, and a good concert is promised. This association was organized in February, 1896, in aid of the Free Home for Consumptives. The objects are the promotion of works of charity and benevolence among the sick and poor, providing them with delicacies and necessities, and securing for them admission to hospitals in case of need. The proceeds of the concert will go toward the building fund of the Home. The presence of every one interested in the welfare of the Free Home for Consumptives is requested.

FOR SOUND MONEY.

Gold Standard, Pure and Simple, Favored by Connecticut Republicans.

New Haven, April 23. — The Republican state convention yesterday adopted the following platform:

The Republicans of Connecticut reaffirm their belief in the doctrine of protection, with reciprocity, as advocated by James G. Blaine, believing that upon its maintenance, depends the development of American industry, the elevation of American labor and the protection of the products of the American farm.

We believe in maintaining the flag of America, in protecting every citizen of the United States in his legal rights, at home and abroad, and in preserving the homes of Americans. We are unalterably opposed to the issue of unsecured currency, either by the government or the banks; the free coinage of silver at any ratio, and favor a single standard of value, and that standard gold. We believe that this policy, with a sound and stable currency upon a gold basis, will furnish sufficient revenue to meet all repuirements of the government and properly support it.

We believe in such discriminating duties in favor of American bottoms as will again revive our shipping interests, and extend our trade and commerce to every land. We believe in the Monroe doctrine, and in supplying the government with ships and fortifications, and the men to make them sufficient at all times to uphold and maintain it. We are opposed to the immigration of paupers, insane and criminals. We are firm in our convictions that the maintenance of these principles and the enactment of laws to carry them into effect under a Republican administration, charged with the duty of enforcing such laws, will, in the near future, guarantee to our country the financial and industrial supremacy of the world.

So long as a deserving Union soldier or sailor, his widow or orphan, remains in the land, a due sense of gratitude demands that the nation extend to all such its special care and protection.

We pledge the nominees of the national Republican convention, from whatever states they may come, our unswerving loyalty and the elctoral vote of the state of Connecticut.

The delegates were chosen as follows:

Delegates-at-large — First congressional district—Morgan G. Bulkeley.

Second congressional district—John I. Hutchinson.

Third congressional district — A. H. Brewer.

Fourth congressional district—Samuel Fessenden.

County and district delegates were chosen as follows: Hartford county, J. A. Cheney; Tolland county, George Sykes; New Haven county, Rufus W. Blake; Middlesex county, J. M. Douglass; Windham county, Charles E. Searles; New London county, Thomas H. Allen; Fairfield county, E. A. Kellar, and Litchfield county, Herbert Williams

Tennessee Is For McKinley.

Nashville, April 23.—The Republican state convention met here yesterday to elect four delegates for the state at large to the national convention and nominate candidates for the court of chancery appeal. George W. Winstead of Knoxville was chosen permanent chairman. The resolutions instructed for McKinley; endorsed H. C. Evans for vice president; protested against free silver; endorsed the Tennessee centennial exposition, and condemned the gubernatorial troubles in Tennessee in 1894. The financial plank of the platform is as follows: "We are unalterably opposed to any scheme that will give to this country depreciated and debased currency. We favor the use of silver as currency, but to the extent only that its parity with gold will be maintained, and, in consequence, are opposed to a free and unlimited and independent coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. We believe that every American dollar should be an honest 100-cent dollar, always and everywhere."

H. C. Evans E. J. Sanford, James Jeffreys and Ernest Coldwell were elected delegates to the national convention.

Right in the Swim.

Washington, April 23. — Not only is Secretary Carlisle a presidential candidate, but he has a manager like any of the other well-developed aspirants for the White House, is the report which comes from those who pretend to know. His manager is W. H. Pugh, auditor for the navy department, and his claims to the presidency are not only being considered so that they can be presented to the Chicago convention with force, but everything possible is being done to effect a powerful organization on practical lines. The president has not underestimated the strength of the silver men in his party, yet he believes it is necessary that the sound-money Democrats should make a strong fight in the convention, and, as the rumor runs, he has simply chosen Mr. Carlisle to make this fight.

Harrison Not In It.

Indianapolis, April 23.—Ex-President Harrison has effectually set at rest the question of his selection as a delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention and his friends will no longer urge that he accept a position on the delegation. He says that while he would regard the trust as an honorable one under ordinary circumstances, he would not entertain such a thought under present circumstances. Private Secretary Tibbetts made a similar statement for publication.

Not For Reed.

Rutland, Vt., April 23.—The Republicans held caucuses last night for the choice of state and district convention delegates. Every caucus passed a resolution expressing a hope that William McKinley would be the next president, and declaring for protection. The tickets on which delegates were chosen were headed, "McKinley and Protection."

Where Ben Is Popular.

Owensboro, Ky., April 23.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina spoke to 5000 people here yesterday. He was introduced by ex-Congressman Ellis. Senator Tillman's speech caused much enthusiasm, the applause being especially marked during his denunciation of the financial policy of Cleveland and Carlisle.

Drive Out the impurities from your blood and build up your system by creating an appetite and toning the stomach with Hood's Sarsaparilla, if you would keep yourself well.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

THE ANGEL OF PEACE

Will Hover O'er the World When All Nations Recognize Arbitration.

The United States, Though Strong, Is Peaceable.

Difficult Problems For the National Arbitration Conference to Solve.

Washington, April 23.—The first session of the national arbitration conference was called to order yesterday afternoon at Metzerott's Music hall in this city. Written acceptances were received from nearly 400 prominent men in 46 states and territories.

The meeting was opened by Chairman John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state, and ex-Senator George F. Edmunds was selected as permanent president. After extending a welcome on behalf of the local committee and the municipal authorities of Washington, Mr. Foster said:

"I cannot refrain from expressing my pride at the record which our country has made, in the past half century, of unbroken peace with all the nations of the earth, and of a steady adherence to the settlement of international differences by the pacific method of arbitration—a record almost without parallel among the nations of the earth. You have not, therefore, assembled to recommend to our government any new departure in its policy on this subject, but rather to strengthen and confirm it in the policy so long and so consistently followed.

"Compulsory arbitration between nations presents problems and difficulties not easy of solution, and it will be a great gain to the general cause if out of your deliberations a plan shall be evolved which will meet the objections and solve the difficulties. It seems a Utopian idea to anticipate a general disarmament of nations in our generation, and until barbarism and the spirit of conquest and oppression shall be banished from the earth, governments will be forced to maintain armies and navies. But certainly among peoples who profess to be governed by the principles of a common Christianity, and especially between nations kindred in lineage, languages and institutions, a better method of adjusting the differences which must arise between them may be found than by the bloody arbitrament of war."

Next Judge Daley, for the committee on permanent organization, reported the election of the following officers: President, George F. Edmunds; vice presidents for New England — Connecticut, Charles D. Warner; Massachusetts, Charles L. Elliott; Maine, Josiah Crosby; New Hampshire, B. A. Kimball; Rhode Island, Roland Hazard; Vermont, Governor U. A. Woodbury.

Edmunds Chosen President.

Mr. Edmunds was escorted to the platform, and in a graceful speech he said: "This assemblage, representing the largest civilized homogeneous body of men and women on the globe, is extraordinary. The United States is among the strongest nations of the world. It has the best reason of any great nation, in a mere selfish sense, to wish for arbitration. It is strong enough, in any but the most absurd cause, to defend itself, to promote its policies and to carry on war, but it very strength impels it backward."

The convention he said had met to aid and promote the interests of the government, and so far as example could go, the kindred government, to practice the principle of arbitration, and finally all other nations might follow their example. It was a pitiful thought that in this time of peace over nearly all of the world more than 1,000,000 of men capable of taking part in the progress of civilization were kept under arms, and $100,000,000 devoted to their support.

The time must come when the armies of the world, like that of the United States, would be a mere police body. The force of public opinion must be as constant as the law of gravitation for solving the difficult problem of ending war. The time would come when armies, for aggressive purposes, would be dissolved, and the angel of peace would blow her trumpet over all the world.

A letter from Chief Justice Fuller was read, conveying regrets that his health and public duties would prevent him from testifying by his presence his approval of the cause of the conventfon. Also, a letter from Andrew Carnegie, who referred to the movement as "The noblest cause of this generation." In a postscript he mentioned the enclosure of a check of $1000 to help defray the expenses of the meeting.

Rev. L. T. Chamberlain, D.D., of New York, made an address on the history and purpose of the conference.

In the course of the general business, John Domphon of St. Joseph, Mo., created no little stir by moving that Mr. Carnegie's gift be returned to him because Mr. Carnegie had made his wealth through contracts to furnish the government with munitions of war. "And," he continued, "the press charge him, whether justly or unjustly, with making large profits by stinting the employes in his works." He declared that the boards of trade of the country should pay the expenses of the meeting, and that it would be a humiliation to accept Mr. Carnegie's gift. The motion was opposed by Delegate Weeks of Pittsburg, and was buried under a large majority.

The night session of the conference attracted a large audience. The speakers were Carl Schurz of New York, President Angell of Michigan university and Edward Atkinson of Boston.

President Angell took issue with most of the speakers in a ringing declaration that the United States should stand ready to fight for her honor and her territory. Each of the speakers at the night session touched upon current questions.

Bank Troubles In Denver.

Denver, April 23.—The American National bank failed to open its doors yesterday. A run was at once precipitated on the National Bank of Commerce, but it stood the strain, and at noon had paid every check presented. It is understood the associated banks will aid the Bank of Commerce should it be necessary. John R. Hanna, president, and Howard Evans, cashier of the American National bank, were arrested last night on warrants charging them with receiving deposits when the bank was known to be in a failing condition. Both were released on bonds.

If you could look ahead a few months and see what was coming from those spells of weakness, loss of appetite, wasting of flesh and energy you wouldn't wait for disease to get a grip on you. You would begin right away to tone up your constitution with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It doesn't work miracles; but it does what other medicine can't do and what doctors say can't be done—until they see it done right under their noses—it cures consumption.—Not always; to say that would be an exaggeration, but in a large majority of cases; in advanced cases which have been given up as hopeless.

LOOKING AHEAD.

The "Discovery" is not called a consumption-cure; it is a blood-maker. It gives energy to the blood-making organs to create new blood, full of healthy red corpuscles. This rapid supply of pure, rich, red blood drives out all diseases that have their roots in the blood: Consumption is one of these; scrofula, malaria, eczema, erysipelas, catarrh—are others. It is absurd to doctor them separately as lung, or skin, or head diseases. They must be driven out of the blood. You can rely on the "Golden Medical Discovery" to do this every time.

It is not a patent medicine. It is the perfected result of 30 years, practical experience by one of the most skillful physicians and eminent medical authorities in this country:—Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's 1008 page book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," reached the enormous sale of 680,000 copies at $1.50 each. This enormous sale having paid him a fair profit on the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he is now giving away absolutely free 680,000 copies, the recipient only being required to mail to him, at the above institution, 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post-paid.

Supposed Body of Delia Keegan Found by Gotham Police.

New York, April 23.—The police yesterday afternoon found an unknown woman dead under the stairway of the house 636 Second avenue.

DELIA KEEGAN.

Later it was believed that the body was that of Delia Keegan, the woman who several years ago sued Russell Sage for $50,000 for breach of promise. It is supposed that the body had been under the stairway about a week, as it was very much decomposed.

Pitcher Pond Had No Difficulty In Disposing of the Bostons.

Baltimore, April 23.—"Dr." Pond, the Champions' remarkable young pitcher, prescribed for the Bostons as he did for the Brooklyns Saturday, and with almost identical the same result. In other words, the young ex-college pitcher from the University of Vermont, pitched a masterly game, and had the heavy-hitting Bostonians completely at his mercy from start to finish.

President Not Hurt.

Washington, April 23.—An accident to one of the horses attached to the carriage in which President Cleveland was being driven to Woodley last evening, caused alarming statements as to the safety of the president to spread quickly over the city. Mr. Cleveland left the White House at 6:30 o'clock, and just after crossing a car track the nigh horse slipped and fell. The other horse, becoming frightened, plunged about and fell over the pole of the carriage and on top of his mate. A large crowd gathered, and the frightened horses were quieted. The president had remained perfectly cool, and stepped from the victoria. By cutting some of the harness, the horses were liberated. A lamp had been kicked off the carriage, but other than this the vehicle suffered no damage. The president continued his trip to Woodley in another carriage.

Peruvian Justice.

Lima, April 23.—The press and society are indignant at the imprisonmnt in solitary confinement of the editor of The Opinion Nacional. His only offense is that he published details of an outrage committed by gen d'armes and intimated that President Pierola's police were imitating those of ex-President Caceres.

Rebels Lost Heavily.

The Hague, April 23.—A dispatch from Batavia says that the endangered Dutch post in the Atchin territory has been relieved after a fight with the rebels under Toekoedjohan, who lost 70 killed and had 200 wounded. The Dutch loss was one officer wounded and 33 killed or wounded.

Man and Wife.

(From the Boston Globe.)

The following letter tells a plain, straightforward story, in which every man and woman is interested. Hundreds of just such letters have lately been sent to publishers by grateful people, whose hopeless lives have suddenly been brightened by the wonderful discovery of Prof. Dixi Crosby, of Dartmouth College. No wonder that men like Eugene Low pronounce Puritana "As great a discovery as electricity."

3 Mt. Vernon Place, Charlestown,

To the public:

We know the misery that is caused by stomach troubles, for both my wife and I have been so afflicted with suffering of the worst sort that there seemed no longer any hope of health or even comfort. In fact, my wife's life was despaired of, and I was about to give up active employment.

Mrs. Cale was for a number of years a victim of dyspepsia, which grew more and more severe until she was completely prostrated. She was sent into the country by her doctor, but when she returned she could not stand up without support. For a long time she was unable to eat solid food, and even on a diet of prepared milk she was unable to gain strength or escape suffering. We sought the best advice we could obtain, but the result was failure in every case.

When we first tried Puritana we were without other hope and as far as my wife was concerned, I did not believe that she would ever recover. After a few weeks there was a marked change and from that time on her improvement grew more rapid from day to day. The stomach trouble disappeared and her whole system was brought into a healthy condition.

Mrs. Cale belongs to the Daughters of Rebekah and other Charlestown societies, and when she could attend the meetings, and also eat her share of the dainties, it was a great surprise to the ladies who had known of her infirmity. For the first time in years she found that she could eat a piece of New England pie, and now her stomach digests any food.

My own suffering has been so great that I could not engage in any exhausting occupation. The effect of Puritana in my case has been only less wonderful than in the case of my wife. I have received greater benefits from it than from all other medicines and the doctors put together, and recommend it in the highest terms to my friends.

We bless the day when we heard of Puritana, for it has given us new life.

Thomas Cale Mrs Belle M Cale.

Mr. Cale has been for many years connected with the Boston & Maine railroad, and his word is as good as any man's bond.

THE INDIANA'S EQUAL.

Experts' Opinion Regarding the New Battleship Massachusetts.

Developed Remarkable Speed on a Trial Trip.

Details of the Spin For the Benefit of Her Constructors.

Boston, April 24.—The United States battleship Massachusetts, on a preliminary trial over a portion of the Cape Ann-Cape Porpoise course, off the New England coast yesterday, with weather conditions quite favorable, maintained an average speed equivalent to 15.59 knots an hour. This extract from the log was officially announced when once more the great floating fortress came to anchor in Boston harbor. The actual development in speed and power, and the relative behavior of the battleship, are known only to her builders and her officers, but the bare mention of her speed in a run of 24 4-5 knots makes most significant her day's performance, and gives weight to the statement likewise officially made that the Massachusetts is the equal of her sister ship, the Indiana.

The trial trip was for the builders' information, and also intended to familiarize her officers especially those in the engineering department, with the conditions likely to exist during the official trial on Saturday. It is natural, therefore, that only speed figures were announced, while nothing is said of the horsepower developed by her engines, the amount of steam used to drive them and the quantity of fuel consumed.

The run was made under a cloudless sky, over a sea which was moderately smooth except for a long and strong ground swell which so often follows easterly storms along the New England coast, and in a breeze which blew out of the west, strong through the day and exceedingly lively at times.

The Massachusetts left her anchorage in President Roads under command of Captain Redford Sargent about 8:30 o'clock, on the arrival of tug Kate Jones, with guests of the builders, including a number of naval officers and engineers. After the anchor had been weighed the battleship swung around under her own engines and was headed for the ship channel, through which Pilot Cooper slowly found his way and headed her for the open sea.

While outward bound, and just clear of the harbor, the ship began to poke her nose into the heavy swells which were rolling in from the sea. Wave after wave broke over the foredeck, and then in quick succession several gigantic combers came tumbling aboard, submerging the crew at work stowing the anchor. As the brine flowed off the deck one seaman came floating aft, but fortunately no one was seriously injured by this unexpected encounter with the waves.

Except for the few minutes following this incident, when she was eased off to allow the anchor to be stowed, the Massachusetts held to her course, breasting the waves as beautifully as could be desired. The log was heaved when off the lightship and the course laid to Cape Ann, the increasing volume of smoke belching from the funnels giving evidence that below decks the stokers were warming up the furnaces for the test.

Speeding Up.

It was a two hours' run to Cape Ann, off which was the first buoy which marked an imaginary starting line of the course. The battleship had been gradually increasing headway, and with a screech from the siren whistle the first buoy was passed at 11:07:40.

Smoke clouds from the funnels grew denser under the forced draught, and the numerous white sails which dotted the sea within range were quickly left astern. Buoy No. 2 was passed at 11:33:28, the first stretch being run at the rate of 14.42 knots an hour. On the next stretch the highest speed was developed, according to the figures given out, that of 16.21 knots. On passing buoy No. 3 with both engines going ahead full speed the helm was put way over, and instantly the battleship answered it, swinging around with no apparent effort, describing three-fourth of a circle, to get the range of buoy No. 3, to which she was returning for the run home.

It was expected that the entire course would be run over, but apparently the magnificent performance of the ship during her run to this point was satisfactory to those in command.

The battleship picked up No. 3 buoy again at 12:23:20, and with no perceptible dimunition of speed she rushed along to buoy No. 1, which was the finish line, from which point speed was slackened, until shortly after 3 o'clock she anchored below Boston light to await the turn of the tide, when she returned to her former anchorage.

The rate of speed on the run as given out is as follows: Buoy No. 1 to 2, 14.42 knots an hour; from 2 to 3, 16.21; from 3 to 2, 15.90; from 2 to the finish, 15.83, or an average of 15.59 knots.

It is stated that the average revolutions of the engines were about 125, and the steam pressure from 125 to 150, but it is apparent that no extraordinary effort was made to get speed out of her except that forced draught was used. It was confidently predicted by many that should the official run be made under equally favorable conditions the speed developed will be far in excess of the 15 knots as required by contract.

Today the battleship will be officially inspected by the naval board, and with that completed preparations will be made for the official trial.

Boston, April 24.—In the house the bill relative to the incorporation of safe deposits, loan and trust companies came back from the senate, so amended as to require such companies hereafter organized to have at least $200,000 capital, the house having permitted incorporation with $100,000 capital. The house—73 to 102—refused to concur with the senate, and a committee of conference will be appointed. In the senate an order was adopted without debate for the appointment of a committee of three members of the senate, with such as the house of representatives may join, to investigate the acts of the several boards of county commissioners of Norfolk county since the year 1890. The senate refused to cut down the gypsy moth appropriation to $50,000. The resolve ($100,000) debt paying power. Faithful to its record, believing that the people are entitled to the use of the best money, and anxious to restore and preserve the industrial and commercial prosperity of the Union, the Republican party favors international bimetallism, and until that can be established upon a secure basis opposes the coinage of silver, except upon government account, and demands the maintenance of the existing gold standard of value.

There should be no statute of limitation against a grateful recognition by the goverment of the services and sacrifices of the soldiers and sailors who preserved the Union. We denounce the present administration of the pension bureau for its betrayal of the interests of those heroes and its attempt to nullify existing laws.

We believe in the enactment of such restrictive legislation as will admit to our shores only those immigrants who have the capacity and desire to become good American citizens.

We congratulate the administration of Governor Hastings upon its wise discrimination in keeping expenses within their proper limits, and yet remembering that it reflects the interests and views of a great and progressive state. It is justly entitled to the continued confidence of the Republicans and the people of Pennsylvania.

We affirm the declarations made in the state platform of 1895, looking to needed reform in state and municipal government and to the purification of elections and the exercise of the elective franchise. We earnestly recommend to the consideration of the next legislature the several reform bills promulgated by the Republican state committee, and request the Republicans of both houses to give them favorable consideration and support.

The last act of the convention was to re-elect Senator Quay as state chairman by acclamation.

In Congress.

Washington, April 24.—The day in the house was consumed in further debate of Mr. Pickler's general pension bill. The Democrats, as a rule, refrained from participating in the debate, although Mr. McClellan (Dem., N. Y.), a son of George B. McClellan, made a vigorous speech in opposition to the bill and defense of the administration of the pension office. He argued that the bill would put on the rolls bounty jumpers, deserters from the Confederate army and other unmeritorious persons. After the senate had spent most of the day on proposed reform of conditions in the Indian Territory, the presiding officer ruled out the entire subject on the ground that it was general legislation. The Indian appropriation bill, carrying $9,000,000, was passed at the close of the day. In view of Utah's entry of statehood, Mr. Brown of that state secured the passage of bills appropriating $500,000 for a public building at Salt Lake City and $188,000 for a similar building at Ogden.

More Money Needed.

Boston, April 24.—Advices from Eastern Turkey state that the Armenian nation is deeply grateful for the aid which they have received from America and Great Britain. It is also stated that food, clothing and bedding, amounting in value to more than £70,000 has already been distributed to more than 100,000 suffering ones, mostly widows and fatherless children. The chief distress of the missionaries is now that the means at their command are so inadequate when compared with the demands for aid.

Strained Relations.

Honolulu, April 16.—The refusal of the American minister to observe Hawaiian Independence day on Jan. 17 last caused this government to lay the matter before Secretary of State Olney through Minister Hatch. It is an open secret here that the social relations between Minister Willis and the Hawaiian government are not cordial. It is stated that none of the officials of the government were invited to be present at Washington's birthday celebration at the American legation.

Relatives to Contest It.

Boston, April 24.—The late Thomas F. Wyman of this city leaves more than $500,000 to public institutions, but the will is to be contested by relatives. Mr. Wyman died on April 3, leaving several nieces and nephews. A bequest of $150,000 is revoked by council, as his wife had died. After granting his relatives amounts averaging about $5000, the sixth clause contains bequests of $10,000 each to about 25 charitable institutions, which by the codicil is raised in each case to $20,000.

Biggest In America.

Washington, April 24.—Captain Ludlow, commanding the Monterey, has telegraphed from Seattle that the Monterey entered the new government drydock at Port Orchard, and is resting entirely on blocks and shores very easily without the least indication of strain of any kind. This is the first ship to test the new dock, which is the largest on this continent and capable of receiving easily any of our new battleships at any stage of the tide.

Husband Cut Off.

Boston, April 24.—The supreme judicial court, by verdict of the jury yesterday, sustained the will of Henrietta G. Dorr of Roxbury. Henry Dorr, husband of the deceased, who was disinherited, was the contestant. About $50,000 is the amount involved. The property was willed to Mrs. Dorr's two sisters. Mrs. Dorr died last July. For 18 months before her death she was separated from her husband.

Sidewalks by Assessment.

Commissioner Eaton in his annual report for 1895 had the following to say about sidewalks. Will the City Council act on his suggestion?

"The sidewalks in our city are very poor, and no satisfactory results can be obtained until some action is taken to establish permanent sidewalks with edgestones, whereby the abutters are obliged to pay one-half the cost. If these sidewalks could be constructed on certain streets each year, in a comparatively short time we would have some improvements that would be lasting and also beneficial to the public. As it is now, it is impossible to maintain a good sidewalk without edgestones, and they are few and far between. One thousand dollars was appropriated for this work, and a few have taken the advantage of securing for themselves a permanent sidewalk."

The City Debt.

Candidly consider the municipal debt of Quincy is not large and the mortgage does not run for a long period. The annual report of City Auditor Hall on Jan. 1, showed the total, outside of water and playgrounds, to be but $264,895 61, a trifle over one and one-half per cent. of the valuation. Were no new debts contracted all this amount would be paid within six years, as the following summary shows:

Matures in 1896,	$49,980
Matures in 1897,	51,600
Matures in 1898,	49,280
Matures in 1899,	53,980
Matures in 1900,	45,300
Matures in 1901,	14,755

The debt would not be so much of a burden, however, if it covered a few more years, as it now requires over $3 of the tax rate each year.

The Massachusetts Benefit.

The Massachusetts Benefit Life Association was again under fire at a hearing before the Committee on Insurance, on Thursday at the State House as to State supervision over mutual companies.

Counsel Coolidge for the policy holders of the Massachusetts Benefit objected to one company having the power to take in others; also to the expenditure of the mortuary fund in contesting claims. He asked that the Governor under certain conditions have power to appoint a committee of five with full power to investigate. The hearing adjourned at 12 30.

Yachts.

Mr. Arthur Keith is in Quincy, from Washington, planning extensive alterations on his yacht, the Sphinx; cutting down her sheer and increasing her overhang.

Mr. Colby is putting a new cabin trunk on his yacht, Gismonda.

The club house will be opened May 15. Plans for proposed additions are made and the builders are figuring on cost.

The Sunbeam has changed her rig to jib and mainsail, increased her sail plan and made other improvements.

Two Senators and to Spare.

Norfolk county will have two senators and 3,525 legal voters to spare by the new apportionment, for the redistricting committee has decided that the basis of senatorial representation shall be 14,020 legal voters. Norfolk county by the census of 1895 had 31,565 voters.

According to the present district lines the number of voters would be: First Norfolk, 15,502; Second Norfolk, 15,398.

Beautiful weather.

The last Friday of the month.

The City Books of 1895 are out.

Eight page LEDGER tomorrow.

Minihan auction at West Quincy tomorrow.

Edward Price, Jr., has moved his family to Neponset.

The Assessors will begin their rounds a week from today.

The Sullivan house, on Madison street, is being reshingled.

Another special sale of confectionery at Durgin's tomorrow.

Rev. J. H. Yeoman is enjoying a two weeks' vacation at home.

A lodge of Good Templars is to be organized in Atlantic next week.

A Kindergarten school is soon to be opened in the room under Music hall.

Thomas Whalen has moved his family to the Downey house on Squantum street.

Mr. Frank Badger is setting out some shade trees in front of his house on Clive street.

The temperature at noon today was 56 degrees against 61 degrees for the same time Thursday.

The regular Friday prayer meeting of Calvary Baptist church tonight. A cordial invitation to all.

Auctioneer Kincaide's sale of the Baptist church at Quincy Point tomorrow should command the attention of investors.

One of the steam yachts, which has been laying in Neponset river all winter, has been removed to be put in commission.

Dr. W. G. Kendall of Atlantic had his dog "Squanto" at the dog show in Boston this week and was the recipient of several prizes.

Spring cleaning time is on,—the Electric Light Co. is painting the arc lamp hoods inside and out, and the fire alarm and letter boxes are being painted and varnished.

The government prediction for Saturday and Sunday is warmer with continued fair weather, though some cloudiness is probable; winds generally from southwest.

S. D. Ramsdell has purchased a tract of land, containing about an acre, between Newbury street and Neponset river. On the land are two or three hills consisting almost wholly of fine plastering sand.

Invitations are out from Mary Munroe Faxon to celebrate the first anniversary of her birth. Babies will be chaperoned by their mammas, and it is feared the bottle may circulate in spite of her grandpapa.

The grass has come forward remarkably early and the lawns are looking finely. Those in front of the Hardwick estates are among the most beautiful, and W. H. Bennett, the gardener, feels proud of them.

Several of the Atlantic yachts were put into the water for the coming yachting season last Monday, and by the end of another week, if the weather continues warm, the season will be fairly well opened.

It is understood in Atlantic that the street department is to make a needed change in the grade on Newbury avenue very shortly, by filling in the hollow at Teal pond and taking off part of the hill near the Methodist church.

Bicycles are very plenty in Atlantic this season, so much so that on last Sunday parties who in previous years have condemned bicycle riding on Sunday, as being immoral, were noticed riding and were apparently enjoying themselves.

It was a good programme which the Boston Press club presented at its eleventh annual benefit at the Boston theatre, and several Quincy friends of Henry H. Faxon were in attendance. Irving especially appeared at his best, faithfully representing the veteran of Waterloo. Fanny Davenport gave a scene from La Tosca, and for four hours attraction followed attraction.

There was a good attendance at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening, despite the fatigue of those who had worked in entertaining the Presbytery of Boston; and all present were rewarded for their faithfulness by hearing a very wise and helpful sermon from the Rev. Aivah R. Scott of Worcester, whose subject was "Help in Narrow Places."

☞ Granville Smith's great painting "New Faces in Old Places" in Truth, tomorrow. Buy it. Take it home.

TO INVESTIGATE.

Senate Passes an Order to Probe Norfolk County Affairs.

The following order introduced by Senator Darling of Hyde Park in this county passed the Senate Thursday:

"Ordered, that a committee of three members of the senate, with such as the house of representatives may join, be appointed to investigate the acts of the several boards of county commissioners of Norfolk County since the year 1890, to ascertain if there has been any illegal payment or expenditure of the county's moneys or funds in the construction, enlargement, repairs and furnishings of the court house at Dedham, and to ascertain if there has been any illegal or improper transfers of appropriations made by said commissioners during said time.

"Said committee may sit during the sessions of the senate and house of representatives, shall have authority to send for persons and papers and to employ a stenographer and accountant, shall be provided with a room in the state house by the sergeant at arms and shall report to the present general court not later than the 27th of May, 1896."

There was no debate on the passage aside from the explanation of Senator Darling, who said: "I have acted and am now acting with the hearty approval of my colleague, the senator from the second Norfolk district. Neither my colleague nor I believe that such investigation will bring to light anything which would savor of dishonesty on the part of the commissioners. They are all able men who have been chosen to their positions by large and decisive majorities, and whom the people as a rule hold in high esteem. I believe that for these reasons and for their sake the investigation should be ordered. I feel that a greater question is involved in your action than that immediately at issue, the question of the responsibility of the state to the taxpayers of a county, whose money the state authorizes the county commissioners to expend in such amounts as the state chooses, without any redress to the county in case of maladministration save by appeal to the legislature."

A Troubled Conscience.

When the postman handed Mr. C. C. Hearn his mail Thursday, among the letters was one with the following address written with a pencil: "Druggist, Quincy Square, Quincy."

Wondering who could have written him such a letter he tore open the envelope when out rolled one of Uncle Sam's greenbacks of the denomination of $1.

Mr. Hearn stored this away in his vest pocket and proceeded to investigate for more. There was no more money but written on one side of a sheet of letter paper was the following: "I was given an extra dollar in change last summer and I return it to you."

There was no signature to the letter, and it was evidently a case where the writer's conscience had troubled him, and to relieve himself, he had returned to the rightful owner the money he unfairly obtained. Mr. Hearn has no idea who the party was but says whoever it was they have his thanks.

5000 Years Represented.

The aggregate number of years represented at the birthday party, held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening was 5000 years. As each year represented one cent, the society consequently made $50.

The idea was a very clever one and the whole affair was well carried out by the committee,—Mrs. Edmund F. Taylor, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Charles K. Crane, Mrs. Charles T. Baker and Mrs. George W. Bennett.

At seven o'clock supper was served in the vestry. At that time about 115 people were seated at several handsomely appointed and well laden tables.

After the supper there was an entertainment and also vocal music by Mrs. H. W. Lull and Mrs. F. A. Page.

THE SQUANTUM CLUB.

Many New Boats and Members—Change of the Courses.

The Squantum Yacht club was never in a better condition than now, and the coming season promises to be the most successful of any in its history. It has a membership of 120 and the number of boats enrolled, including twelve new ones, is 60. Among the new is an electric launch, a steam launch and two large sloops. The new members admitted thus far this year number fourteen.

The club has in contemplation a number of improvements to its club house, among which is an addition 20x55 feet with a long piazza, from which a fine view of the bay can be obtained and from which those who do not desire to participate in the races will have a splendid opportunity to witness them. The courses have been changed, all being inside, so that it is possible to have a view of the yachts during a race from the start to the finish.

The addition to the club house will not only contain a number of lockers for members but a ladies' room and a gentlemen's smoking room. Besides the above two large floats, 20x60 feet each, will be put into position early in May.

The club is a member of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association, and has adopted its rules for racing and measurements for the government of all races. Financially the club is in good standing there being outstanding only a small mortgage on its club house.

Atlantic's New Pastor.

Rev. Ira E. Price began his pastorate last Sunday at the Methodist church, preaching morning and evening. His sermons are such that people can ill afford to miss. Mr. Price came on last week with his family stopping at Hotel Greenleaf, at the Centre, but his furniture arrived this week and they have moved into the lower suite of the "Elmer" No. 35 Atlantic street. They are very agreeably impressed with Atlantic; stating that they have never been more cordially received at any place they have ever been.

$10,000 Suit for Injuries.

Frederick A. Thayer has entered a suit against the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co., for $10,000 for injuries received. Thayer was an employe of the company and while in the discharge of his duty received two shocks, one he claims on account of faulty construction, and one on account of carlessness of incompetent workmen. As a result of these shocks his health is completely broken down.

The Quincy Court.

Jeremiah Doran of Braintree was arraigned for being an idle and disorderly person, visiting tippling shops, etc. Jeremiah said he was guilty but pleaded hard to be let off, and promised if let off he would get out of Norfolk County. The court continued the case one week with the understanding that he should leave town.

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

Scrofula

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

SWITHIN BROS.,

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

THE GOLF SEASON.

Special Meeting to be Held—A Schedule of Matches Arranged.

A special meeting of the Wollaston Golf Club will be held on Saturday to vote on the following proposed By-Laws: "The entrance fee shall be five dollars. There shall be no annual dues; but whenever the funds in the treasury are below $200 the Executive Committee may levy an assessment not exceeding $3 on each member. Failure to pay an assessment for thirty days shall work a forfeiture of membership."

It will be noticed that this is an increase in the admission fee from $1 to $5; in the assessment from $1 to $3; and in the treasury fund, or reserve, from $10 to $200. The proposed increase in the assessment, admission fee and reserve fund will undoubtedly bring out a large attendance at the meeting.

The following matches will be played in May and June:

May 9,—Men's handicap, 18 holes.
May 16,—Mixed foursanes, 9 holes.
May 23,—Longest drive, 6 trials.
May 30,—Men's handicap, 18 holes.
June 6,—Ladies' competition, scratch, 9 holes.
June 13,—Men's competition, scratch, 18 holes.
June 27,—Ladies' handicap, 9 holes.

Prizes will be given at each game, members paying twenty-five cents at time of game to be used for prizes.

The notices issued from a Boston office schedule three of the dates on Sunday, but this was a mistake.

THE FRENCH M'KINLEY.

Meline Will Probably Succeed Bourgeois as Head of Cabinet.

The Latter Retires, After Uttering Protests.

Explains What He Has Tried to Do In the Way of Reform.

Paris, April 24.—The municipal elections are approaching, and following them comes the election of one-third of the members of the senate, the senators being elected for a term of nine years, one-third retiring every three years. The sucessors of many of those senators who retire this year are to be elected by the new municipalities.

It is therefore highly significant that the socialist group of the Republican party last night issued a manifesto calling upon citizens and workmen to utilize their rights of universal suffrage in the coming municipal elections so as to establish the popular power in the municipalities and spread the socialist spirit in the mayoralties. This is preliminary to securing the election of senators. By giving up office and going to the electors in opposition to the senate, which overthrew his cabinet because of his socialistic tendencies, M. Bourgeois hopes thus to rally a large Socialistic vote in the municipal elections.

There is nothing definite apparent as to the head of the next cabinet, but M. Meline is considered the most likely successor to M. Bourgeois. M. Meline, by reason of his earnest advocacy of the theory of protection, has been called by some persons "The French McKinley."

Almost immediately after the reassembling of the chamber of deputies yesterday, M. Bourgeois announced the resignation of the cabinet. The chamber of deputies was crowded. M. Bourgeois and his colleagues withdrew as soon as the announcement was made.

M. Bourgeois, in announcing the resignation of the ministry, read a statement contesting the right of the senate to overthrow a ministry or interpret the constitution, but he said that in view of the impossibility of securing proper military reliefs for Madagascar, the cabinet was compelled to resign. The premier was frequently interrupted with cries from the extreme Left of "Down with the senate!" and when the minister filed out of the house there was loud applause from the Right and Centre, to which the Left replied with loud cries of "Turn out the senate!" "Down with the senate!"

A prolonged tumult followed. M. Bourgeois said: "The chamber has often given us proofs of its confidence, and we feel our inability to present to the president our resignations before informing you of our reasons for taking such action, and assuring you that no other reason influences us in quitting our posts. We cannot allow the error to gain hold that we, in resigning, abandon the principle of our most illustrious predecessors, such as Leon Gambetta and Jules Ferry, that the chamber is able to make or unmake cabinets. Fidelity to this doctrine has caused us to incur the reproach of being an unconstitutional ministry. The national assembly alone is entitled to interpret the constitution of a ministry."

M. Henri Ricard moved a resolution declaring that the chamber affirmed the right of preponderance in the representation of the principle of universal suffrage.

Ex-Premier Goblet expressed regret at the retirement of M. Bourgeois and his colleagues and continuing his remarks, said: "The chamber of deputies cannot abdicate in favor of the senate." M. Goblet then offered a motion proposing that the chamber declare itself as supporting the cabinet.

M. Maurice Lebon, Republican, moved that the chamber adjourn.

M. James, the leader of the Socialists in the chamber, argued that the adjournment of the chamber would be equivalent to the submission of the chamber to the senate.

The motion to adjourn was rejected by a vote of 283 to 268, and M. Ricard's motion was adopted by a large majority.

Bourgeois Defends Himself.

M. Bourgeois' statement opened with recalling the vote of confidence of the chamber of deputies and the attitude of the senate toward the ministers. Continuing, he said:

"Whatever the latter's motives, the government thinks that patriotism imperiously commands it to bend before the loftier question of national security and dignity which the credits asked for Madagascar have involved. There is no interest in the internal policy which compares in gravity with such a question; but, in handing the direction of affairs to another ministry the cabinet has not forgotten that it had duties toward the chamber and the republic, and deemed it impossible to resign until it explained to the chamber the patriotic motives of the government's decision, and had given it the assurance that no other consideration would have determined the government to quit a post in which the confidence of the chamber had hitherto energetically sustained it. The government desired to make clear," M. Bourgeois continued, "that they had not abandoned for a moment the doctrine professed by their illustrious precursors, Gambetta and Ferry, which laid down that the chamber elected by universal suffrage alone had the power to make and unmake ministers. The government believed that this doctrine was consonant, not only with constitutional law, but with the spirit of the political institutions in a great democracy, which recognizes no other sovereignty than universal suffrage."

M. Bourgeois declared that it was for affirming this doctrine that the government was accused of being an unconstitutional government. There was only one reply to this, and that was one showing that the right to pronounce upon the constitution belongs to neither chamber, but to the national assembly. The government retired, he said, was undiscouraged. They wished to express their hope in the majority of the reform which sustained the government against almost daily attacks. Men would pass away, but principles, when just, would live and triumph. The government for the past five months had striven to steer French democracy in its natural course, to inspire the Republican party with confidence in itself, and to inculcate in all citizens a healthy interest in political struggles.

"We have done our best," said M. Bourgeois, "to form and inspire the great democratic party, whose aim it is to make the republic the instrument of moral and social progress and a lasting means of lessening the inequalities of the classes and the increase of solidarity among the new chambers, it has not ceased to approve and to support us in this great task. We await with confidence the hour when the country will pass sovereign judgment upon us."

After the withdrawal of the ministry M. Ricard, in the name of the progressionists, presented a motion in the chamber of deputies affirming the predominance of the chamber of deputies.

M. Goblet declared that the senate's conduct was unconstitutional, and moved that the chamber side with the ministry, which was resolved to realize democratic reforms and compel respect for the superior rights of the chamber and the virtue of universal suffrage.

M. Lebon asked that the discussion be adjourned, seeing that the ministry had resigned, and amid considerable uproar he submitted a motion, which was defeated by a vote of 283 to 268, that the house adjourn.

The discussion was then continued, and M. Goblet announced that he would support M. Ricard's motion that the chamber reaffirm the predominance of the representatives of universal suffrage and its resolution to pursue a policy of democratic reforms.

The first part of the motion up to the word "Suffrage," was adopted by a vote of 309 to 83, and the second portion was adopted by a vote of 417 to 37. Later, amid much excitement, the motion was adopted in its entirety.

Several proposals for a revision of the constitution were then presented and sent to a committee, after which the chamber adjourned until Tuesday next.

The ministers visited the Elysee palace during the afternoon and had a brief interview with President Faure, who formally accepted their resignations. The president will consult with the presidents of the chamber of deputies and senate in regard to the formation of a new ministry.

ORIOLES WHITEWASHED.

Nichols' Superb Pitching Proved to Be Too Steep For Them.

Baltimore, April 23. — The Champions could not hit Nichols a little bit, and that was the sole reason why they suffered the ignominy of the first shutout of the season. Nichols pitched one of his most masterly games, and kept the local team guessing from start to finish. The visitors put up a snappy fielding game, full of confidence and ginger, and without an error, while the home team gave Clarkson very rocky support.

Adjournment Before June.

Washington, April 24.—The Republican senators held a brief caucus yesterday for an exchange of views on the subjects of final adjournment and order of business before adjournment. Senator Chandler suggested that adjournment ought to be possible by May 20, and was supported in this opinion by an almost unanimous vote of the caucus. Brief speeches were made by Senators Allison, Frye, Cullom and others, all concurring in the opinion that an early adjournment was desirable and possible. It was the general opinion that the appropriation bills should be kept to the front until disposed of, and no more adjournments over Saturday are contemplated.

By Eighteen Votes.

Baltimore, April 24.—All the returns have been received from Methodist Episcopal conferences in America and in mission fields of the vote on the woman question, and have been tabulated by Rev. Dr. Lucien Clark. They show that the proposition to make women eligible for election as lay delegates to the general conference has been defeated by only 18 votes. The vote is shown to be 7515 for the admission of women and 2529 against. The total vote was 10,044. Three-fourths of this would be 7533, or 18 more than were required.

Dan Stuart's Offer.

New York, April 24.—Dan Stuart, who has been arranging plans to bring Corbett and Fitzsimmons together in the ring, has invited the two boxers, or their representatives, to meet him on Saturday to sign articles of agreement. Stuart will offer a purse of $12,000 for a glove contest, to be held sometime during next November, and will guarantee to furnish a battleground where a fight can be held without interference, or forfeit the entire purse to the principals.

Died Together.

Menomonee, Wis., April 24.—Eda Varney and Emma Cunningham, aged 16 and 15, respectively, committed suicide by drowning in a mill pond at Brownsville yesterday. Letters have also been found which throw some light on the cause of the double suicide. The names of prominent parties are mentioned in the letters, and Brownsville people are in a fevor of excitement in consequence.

Vague Promises.

Madrid, April 23.—It is again positively denied that negotiations are in progress between Madrid and Washington on the subject of guaranteeing home rule to Cuba. Premier Castillo, who has recovered from his sickness, says that the reforms projected for Cuba will be applied only when circumstances are favorable to such a movement. The premier also said the reforms would not be applied to Cuba until asked for by Captain General Weyler, who, up to the present, has said nothing on the subject.

Costly Obedience.

Toronto, April 23.—Fire broke out yesterday afternoon in a shed attached to a planing mill on Dufferin street. Four firemen were ordered into the burning structure and were driven out by the flames. The chief ordered them in again. The shed finally collapsed, and the men were rescued with great difficulty. One had his skull crushed and another was injured in the spine, and these are not expected to recover. A third had his hip broken and the fourth was burned on the head. The two latter men may live. The shed was not worth $50.

—Queen Victoria is to leave, by will, Osborne House to one daughter, the lease of Abergeldie House to another, and Balmoral, the royal residence in the Highlands, to the Duke of Connaught. It was discovered a few years since that the Queen owned six hundred houses in various parts of England, not royal residences, but rent-yielding property, and that about six thousand houses had been built by crown leases on building leaseholds held of the Queen. She then had also rents from markets and tolls from ferries, besides the proceeds of mines and other works upon her property or the crown property.

NORFOLK, ss. Quincy, March 5, 1896.

BY Virtue of an execution which issued on a judgment in favor of G. B. Bates of Quincy against Martin W. Frolund of said Quincy, at the East Norfolk District Court, for said County, I this day seized and took all the right, title and interest the within-named Martin W. Frolund had on the thirteenth day of February, A. D., 1896, at twenty minutes past five o'clock P. M. (this being the time when the same was attached on mesne process), in and to the following described parcel of real estate, viz.:

A certain parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and said Commonwealth, called Montclair, and comprising the lot numbered thirty-one (31), as shown on the plan dated March 16, 1892, H. T. Whitman, surveyor, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds at the end of Book 664. Said parcel is bounded and described as follows, viz.: Northerly on lot thirty (30), ninety (90) feet; easterly on land of owners unknown, fifty (50) feet; southerly on lot thirty-two (32), ninety (90) feet; westerly on Montclair avenue, fifty (50) feet; and containing forty-five hundred (4500) square feet of land, and on the twenty-seventh day of April next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, at my residence, No. 53 Franklin street, Quincy, in said County, I shall offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the aforesaid right, title and interest of said Martin W. Frolund, to satisfy said execution and all fees and charges of sale.

A QUAY CONVENTION

With a Sprinkling of McKinley Men to Keep the Ball Rolling.

Turbulent Scenes at the Pennsylvania State Convention.

Platform Declares In Favor of Protection and Gold Standard.

Harrisburg, April 24.—Representatives of the Republicans of Pennsylvania assembled here in convention yesterday and formally launched the boom of United States Senator M. S. Quay for the presidential nomination, which was accomplished amid scenes of turbulence. Men, ordinarily sedate, lost their tempers and said harsh things to each other, and at least one distinguished gentleman made demonstrations of violence.

The violent scenes were the result of the efforts of the anti-Quay delegates to secure the adoption of a resolution naming McKinley as the second choice of the convention. After an exciting debate, the proposition was defeated by a vote of 178 to 65.

The convention nominated the slated candidates for congressmen-at-large and selected the delegates and electors-at-large named by Wednesday night's caucus. The platform drawn up by Senator Quay's friends was adopted without material change. In fact, it was a Quay convention all through, although those opposed to that gentleman made things lively on the floor of the convention and in committee rooms.

A disturbance arose when Congressman Robinson offered as an amendment a resolution instructing the delegates-at-large for McKinley for second choice. Cries of "No, no!" and "Quay, Quay!" came from all over the hall.

A motion to lay this on the table was made, and the chair decided the question not debatable.

Mr. Robinson insisted on speaking on a point of order, and the chair ordered the rollcall to proceed, the ayes and nays having been called for. Pandemonium followed, during which Mr. Robinson stood in the aisle shaking his fist at the chairman and shouting that he "demanded his rights."

Order was finally obtained, the chairman withdrew his ruling and Mr. Robinson took the platform and made his speech in support of his resolution. He declared he was heartily in favor of Senator Quay's candidacy, and would as a delegate vote for him at the St. Louis convention. He felt, however, that back of the Quay success there is a feeling in favor of McKinley; after all it is not possible to confer the high honor of the nomination upon Mr. Quay.

Mr. Robinson was interrupted at this point by loud cheers for McKinley, with strong shouts for Reed.

Senator Penrose responded to Robinson's speech. He brought the delegates to their feet with the most genuine enthusiasm of the day when he declared he was opposed to any action that would belittle and make ridiculous the grand compliment the convention had paid to Mr. Quay. Mr. Penrose accused Mr. Robinson of working a small political scheme for his own political aggrandizement. Mr. Robinson attempted to interrupt Mr. Penrose, but the crowd hooted him down.

When Senator Penrose concluded, Mr. Robinson asked for an extra teller, saying that there had been cases of impersonation on the previous rollcall. This precipitated a scene of violent disorder, Mr. Robinson being hooted and hissed for some minutes.

C. L. McGee said Mr. Robinson's demand was a reasonable one, and this gentleman was hissed and hooted as heartily as Mr. Robinson had been. The chairman quickly named Mr. Robinson as a teller, but the latter declined, saying he was "An interested party."

The Robinson proposition was defeated—yeas, 65; nays, 178.

Mr. McGee made a speech against the endorsement of Mr. Quay for president. He said he represented a McKinley district, and as a delegate to the St. Louis convention he would be recreant to his trust if he did not publicly enter his protest against Mr. Quay. This ended the fight on the platform, and it was finally adopted, as follows:

The Platform,

For fidelity to the principles of Republicanism, Pennsylvania holds the first rank among all the states. Year after year it has returned great majorities for the candidates of that party, with no selfish demands for recognition of any of its own citizens as a national candidate.

The time has come when the state, which has so long and faithfully led the Republican column, may justly and properly submit its own preference for the Republican nomination for the presidency. In the presentation of Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay, the Republicans not alone of Pennsylvania, but of the entire Union, will recognize one of their foremost leaders, wise in council, and brilliant and able in action, at once the type of the American citizen, scholar, soldier and statesman.

First of all national issues stands protection, and first among its advocates have been the Republicans of Pennsylvania. We believe in protection as a right to all American industries, but as a special favor to none. It should be neither partial, sectional nor hypocritical, and should be as nearly as possible equal and universal. We are not pledged to any schedules, but we demand a restoration of the policy of protection, and we pledge it as soon as the Republican party shall be fully restored to power in the executive and congressional departments of the government, and it shall be restored equitably to the farmer and the miner, to the manufacturer and artisan.

We demand the restoration of that wise policy of reciprocity, which was framed by James G. Blaine, and adoted by the wise and beneficent administration of President Harrison, to the great benefit of the commerce of the country and would be abandoned by the Democratic administration.

We approve the policy of national protection to our shipowners and to our ship building interests by discriminating duties in favor of American shipping, in order that the American flag be restored upon the high seas.

The Republican party has always maintained the national honor and credit. It enforced the resumption of specie payments. It kept faith as to every debt created for the preservation of the Union, and has paid the greater part of it in accordance with the spirit and the letter of the laws under which it had been created. It largely reduced the interest charges upon the balance of the debt by refunding at lower rates. It substituted for the fluctuating and inadequately secured notes of the state banks an uniform national currency of stable value and of equal purchasing and was then passed to be engrossed. The house refused to reconsider the rejection of the bill to pay all liquor license money into the state treasury by a vote of 66 to 94. The senate resolutions relative to the Monroe doctrine were rejected—32 to 52—without debate, the yeas and nays being refused.

A Despicable Trick.

New Haven, April 24.—A large dynamite bomb was exploded last evening on the window sill of the residence of Major George E. Albee in Westville. Major Albee and the members of his family were in the house at the time, but were not injured. The shock broke all the windows on one side of the house and also shattered the glass in the adjoining dwellings. Immediately after the explosion Albee saw a man running down the street. He tried to capture him, but the stranger escaped. Albee is an inspector of arms at the Winchester Repeating Arms company, and also brigade rifle inspector of the Connecticut National Guard. The perpetrator of the act is believed to be a man who was discharged at the Winchester company's works, and meant to have revenge upon Albee by exploding the bomb.

Aggressor Was Killed.

Boston, April 24.—John Linburg and William Mahoney, longshoremen, had a dispute last week. Yesterday afternoon, while Linburg was at work on an elevator "run" unloading a coal schooner, Mahoney appeared on the wharf, intoxicated, and climbed to the "run" where Linburg was at work. Both men grappled at sight, and a desperate struggle followed. It had lasted but a moment, when the men, held in each other's vice-like grip, tumbled off the edge of the "run" and fell headlong to the wharf, 30 feet below. Both were picked up unconscious. Mahoney died in the ambulance, and Linburg is in a critical condition.

Law Against Him.

New Haven, April 24. — The supreme court yesterday handed down a decision in the case of Dr. George E. Whitten of Newton, Mass., who appealed from the decision of Superior Court Judge Shumway in declining to grant the writ of habeas corpus in the case against the doctor, charging him with murdering Maggie Schloss by criminal practice. The supreme court finds no error, thus adding one more to the already long list of court defeats for the physician. Dr. Whitten has already lost a decision at the bar of the United States supreme court, but he may take another appeal to that tribunal.

Robbed a Dead Man.

Boston, April 24.—Delia Brown, the female burglar, has made a more complete confession to Captain Wescott. The most startling piece of information she confessed was the robbery of clothing and silverware from the room of James Frawley a few hours after his death. She brought the stuff to her room and told her husband, who is a colored man, that it had been given to her. It is believed the prisoner is not entirely responsible for her acts, as she seems to take the incidents connected with her arrest with an indifference little short of stupidity.

Fournier Indicted For Manslaughter.

Greenfield, Mass., April 24.—The grand jury yesterday returned an indictment for manslaughter against Levi Fournier. Fournier's wife was found dead under suspicious circumstances last December at her home in Montague. Levi claimed he found her in a dying condition on his return from Greenfield. An autopsy showed indications of strangulation, however, and Fournier was charged with choking her to death.

Bullet Near Her Heart.

Franklin, Mass., April 24.—Mrs. McKenna, who was shot by her husband, is in a critical condition. Although three shots were fired, only one took effect, and that entered Mrs. McKenna's body near the heart, where it remains. The revolver which McKenna used is of 32 caliber.

Jurymen Read Papers.

Nashua, N. H., April 24.—The jury that sat in the trial of Dr. J. C. Moore was discharged yesterday because of the publication of opinions read by several of the jurymen on the case, which appeared in newspapers. Next Wednesday a new panel will be drawn.

New England Briefs.

Joseph Boie and Eustace Berube were stabbed in a street fracas at Fall River, Mass.

Eddie Connolly of St. John, N. B., was knocked out by Billy Ernst of Brooklyn at Lynn, Mass.

Ezra E. Beaman of Ayer, Mass., the oldest Shaker in the United States, died of old age. He was 101 years old.

The Kilhams Held.

Boston, April 24. — In the municipal court yesterday the hearing in the case of Westerly Kilham and his wife Etta, charged with the false imprisonment of the 4-year-old girl, Celia Leonard, of this city, last October, and who was found at the Kilhams' residence last week, was finished. Judge Brown thought there was sufficient cause to hold the prisoners and ordered them in $500 to the grand jury.

Caught In a Squall.

Rockland, Me., April 24.—While James Beecher, William Roberts and Thomas Owens were crossing Long Cove bay yesterday afternoon a sudden squall capsized the boat. Beecher and Roberts were drowned, but Owens clung to the upturned boat till help came. The victims of the accident were stone cutters, employed at Clark's Island quarry.

Negotiations Proceeding.

London, April 24.—Under Secretary of State Curzon, answering a question in the house of commons yesterday, said that the negotiations with the United States regarding Venezuela were proceeding, and it was not advisable to make a statement on the subject until they were concluded.

A WOMAN'S STORY.

It Should Be of Interest to Every Thinking Woman.

Women who reason well know that no male physician can understandingly treat the complaint known as "female diseases," for no man ever experienced them.

This, Lydia E. Pinkham taught them twenty years ago.

when she discovered in her Vegetable Compound the only successful cure for all those ailments peculiar to the sex. Many women have a fatal faith in their physician, and not till they can suffer no longer, will they think and act for themselves.

The following testimony is straight to the point, and represents the experience of hundreds of thousands of now grateful women: "For six years I was a great sufferer from those internal weaknesses so prevalent among our sex. After having received treatment from four physicians of our city and finding no relief whatever, I concluded to try Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has proved a boon to me. It can truly be called a "Savior of Women."—Mrs. B A Perham Waynesboro, Pa.

The Social Realm.

The gathering of Daughters of the Revolution at Dr. Miner's church in Boston on Patriots' day was very much saddened by the resignation of the State Regent Mrs. William Lee. This was Mrs. Lee's first public appearance for several months, and she received a most cordial greeting which turned to tears when she read her resignation, which she did with much reluctance but at the imperative demands of her physician. Mrs. Lee was made Honorary Regent, and it is hoped to welcome her back again to active service after a good long rest.

Dr. Kendall of Atlantic entered five terriers in the dog show in Boston this week and took five prizes. There is no mistaking, says a Boston paper, the fact that the Boston terriers are the most interesting dogs on the benches. New York society belles tried to introduce the Scotch terrier as the fashionable dog, but this canny looking, wiry-haired little fellow cuts no ice with the Boston terrier. The exhibition of Boston terriers is the largest ever presented at any dog show. Ninety-three dogs and bitches help swell the confusion in the show, and one, at least, out of this lot is valued at $1,000. This is Commissioner II, owned by a New York gentleman. He won first as the best dog under 25 pounds and not under 15. He got the special as the best dog, and as the best dog or bitch. Commissioner II was given a close call by a sweet morsel of Boston terrier, only ten months old. This was Dr. W. G. Kendall's Squanto, named for an Indian chief, whose hunting grounds in the long ago were near Quincy, where Dr. Kendall lives. Squanto took two firsts, one second and two specials. That's what Monte did last year. Dr. Kendall is a member of the Megantic fish and game club, a thorough sportsman and a good judge of dogs.

AMUSING FARCES.

The Loyal Ladies Give an Enjoyable Entertainment.

The need of a large hall in Quincy was very apparent Friday night when the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, No. 1, observed their fourth anniversary by an entertainment and dance at Hancock hall.

When the hour arrived for the entertainment the hall was full, every available seat being occupied, and there were many standing who were unable to find seats, and even His Honor, Mayor Adams, who looked in upon the ladies, must have been impressed with the need of a large public hall.

The entertainment, which for the most part was given by local talent, was very pleasing and the efforts on the part of those who took part was duly appreciated if the applause that greeted their efforts counts for anything.

The first part consisted of a farce entitled, "That Box of Cigarettes," the several characters being impersonsated by William Dickie, James Marr, Robert McKeen, John Keen, John Ross, Mrs. Lizzie Perry, Miss Lizzie Esson, Miss Maggie Booth and Miss Mabel Ellis. To say that one excelled the other would not be right, for all did equally well.

Then came pleasing vocal selections by Miss Mary Duthie and Mr. John Dailey; fancy dancing in Highland costume by little Miss Violet Wood of Cambridge; and some excellent tumbling by John Ross, G. Anderson and W. Donovan, three of Quincy's rising artists in this line. Mrs. Maggie Smith officiated as accompanist.

The last part of the entertainment consisted of a laughable farce entitled, "Murder Will Out," the characters being impersonated by Mrs. Lizzie Perry, Miss Georgina Levack, Miss Annabella Mason, Miss Lizzie Esson, Miss Mabel Ellis and Mrs. Josie Daw.

In this farce, as well as in that which opened the entertainment, the parts were well taken, although special mention should be made of Miss Mabel Ellis, who impersonated the character of Dinah, the colored cook.

At the conclusion of the entertainment dancing was in order until 3 o'clock this morning, music being furnished by Smith's orchestra.

The grand march, which was participated in by a large number, was led by Mr. John Daly and Miss Mary Daly.

Mary Daly was Floor Directress, Lizzie McIntosh assistant and Agnes Kennedy, Jessie Wood, Maggie Booth and Lottie Mundie aids.

The committee or arrangements were: Lizzie Chalmers, president; Annie Pratt, secretary; and Lizzie Smith, Elizabeth Malcolm, Maggie Stronach and Lillian Ross.

A GHOST COMMUTER.

The wind drove the hail and sleet violently against the car windows, and what with its melancholy howling, accompanying the incessant rattle of the panes, I could hardly hear the shrieks of the locomotive's whistle as the train plunged through the dense darkness. It was a hard night to travel, and I did not wonder that the car was empty save for the man who had just seated himself beside me. Such being the case, however, I could not but feel surprised that this single other passenger should have crowded into my seat when he might have had a whole one to himself. I cannot say that I was indignant, for though he forced me to move toward the drafty window he was company, and I had felt lonely from the very beginning of the forlorn trip on the midnight express. Then, too, he was such a mild, harmless looking fellow.

I glanced toward him, intending to open the conversation, when my eye fell upon the time table in which he was deeply engrossed. It was a thumb worn piece of paper, and no wonder, for across the top I read in big black type, "To go into effect on April 1, 1884."

It seemed strange that a man should consult a train schedule 11 years old. My curiosity was aroused, and I drew my own time table from my pocket and held it toward him.

"Pardon me, sir, but perhaps this will be of more use to you. Where are you going?"

"Thank you," he replied sadly, "but you cannot help me. I would that you could, though. You see, I am bound for Tutherford, but it seems that I will never get there."

"Tutherford!" I exclaimed. "Why, you are on the wrong train!"

I knew this place well as one of the prettiest little suburban villages on the line of the New York, Lackahudson and Western, but I also was aware that this train never stopped there and that we had long since passed it.

"That is just the devil of it," replied my companion vigorously. A melancholy smile passed over his pale face, and then he added: "I've been getting on the wrong train for 11 years. But excuse me, sir, you are sitting on my beefsteak."

Curiosity now gave place to astonishment. My first impulse was to believe that I had a madman for a companion, but his every look belied such an idea. Every detail of his clothing denoted extreme neatness and self respect. He was a small, slender man, with a slightly bald head and clean shaven face. At his feet were two large, neatly done up bundles; at his side and partly under me was a third parcel, wrapped in brown paper, which I had no reason to believe contained meat.

"A thousand pardons," I said, rising so that he could rescue his steak from destruction. "I am afraid that I have ruined it. I was not aware that I was sitting on anything."

"Little wonder," he replied quietly. "No human being could feel that steak. And as for injuring it, I purchased it 11 years ago and have been trying to get it home to Tutherford ever since. To make things plain, that is a phantom beefsteak."

I broke out into a hearty laugh and exclaimed, "You are either considerable of a wag, sir, or else an idiot."

My fellow traveler drew himself up and cried hotly: "Do you know whom you are addressing? I am the late R. G. Jones, sir, for many years a leading citizen of Tutherford."

"The late R. G. Jones of Tutherford!" I retorted, and then I made a motion to give him a little jovial dig in the ribs, but to my horror my hand went right through him and struck the arm of the seat on his other side. He smiled. I drew back in amazement.

I will not attempt to depict my sensations. Wonder gave way to utter astonishment, astonishment to horror, horror to fright. But this last emotion passed, for I knew that there was no escape. I could not leave the car, and then the very appearance of the ghost was so peaceable and respectable that a sense of security came to me. Reason prevailed, and I soon found myself traveling on the best of terms with my strange companion.

"I see you travel on a pass, Mr. Dockboy," said the late R. G. Jones after our relationship had assumed a state of mutual confidence. "That is why I made myself known to you. I suppose you have a pull on this road."

"My fourth cousin is the wife of the president of the New York, Lackahudson and Western," I replied proudly, for I was not a little vain about this relationship.

"That is good news for me," began the late R. G. Jones. "You see, Mr. Dockboy, I have long needed a friend with some influence on the road, for I want to have this train stopped at Tutherford just once."

"What!" I cried.

"Yes, stopped at Tutherford," he continued. "I do not wonder at your surprise, but then you will not be much astonished when you know my reasons. I have told you my late name, and perhaps it will interest you to hear that for many years I was an alderman in Tutherford—a place of no mean importance. My business was in New York. Every morning for ten years I left my house promptly at 8:22, reached the station at 8:30 and took the 8:31 for town. At just 5:13 o'clock in the evening I reached the Jersey City station and boarded the train for home. It so happened that for the last five years of my life I always got on the third car from the engine and took the third seat from the rear. It became a habit with me. I was known and respected on the road, and there was a tacit understanding among the other commuters that that place should always be reserved for me. This is the same car, No. 335, and the very same seat."

"And you are haunting it?" I asked, for the light was beginning to break.

"Temporarily and accidentally," replied the late R. G. Jones. "When I can get this train stopped at Tutherford, I will get off and go back to my old home. Don't you remember seeing in the papers about ten years ago how R. G. Jones, a prominent citizen of Tutherford, succumbed to an attack of heart failure brought on by overexertion while trying to catch the 5:13?"

"Oh, yes, I recall that well. A very sad case, indeed." Of course I didn't, but that didn't matter.

The late R. G. Jones looked grateful.

"That was when I became a ghost," he said. "A few days later I received my orders to proceed to Tutherford and haunt my old home. There have always been strange and confused ideas existing about ghosts. These impressions, that we do everything in a higglety pigglety way are all erroneous—decidedly erroneous. I couldn't go sailing back home in any way but an orderly one—by train, just as I did when I was not late. And, moreover, custom required that I should travel on car No. 335, third seat from the rear, as I had done day in and day out for years. So I went to the station with my phantom umbrella, bundles and beefsteak. Promptly at 5:12 I got off the ferry, stopped at the newsstand which is run for the phantom commuters and purchased a sporting extra of a phantom evening paper, repaired to the train shed and got on this car, No. 335, and took this very seat. But the train did not start as usual. It was midnight before we left the station, and then, to my horror, we whirled through Tutherford and never made a stop until we reached the junction 60 miles west. I will not dwell on my sorrow when I realized my predicament. Car 335 had been shifted to the midnight express, and until it could be stopped at Tutherford I was doomed to haunt this uncomfortable seat instead of my own pretty suburban home.

"Years have passed since then, and every night I have got on the same car and sat in this same seat, oftentimes crowded between two men, who could not see me, always doomed to go whirling by the familiar little station without a speck of a chance of getting off. Did you ever travel in the same car seat with two fat women with babies and bundles?"

"No," I replied. "But I can conceive more pleasant positions."

"Yet such has many a time been my fate," continued the late R. G. Jones, in spectral mournfulness. "I have traveled with noisy drummers, with chattering Italians, opium smelling Chinese, with every possible kind of man that it is unpleasant for a sensitive man like I was to sit in the same seat with. Once, in desperation, I made myself visible to the conductor and pleaded with him to stop the train at Tutherford. He refused absolutely, and not only that, he demanded my ticket. I got out my commutation card, seven years out of date, and handed it to him. He asked me if I thought he was a fool and used very violent and personal language. When I told him I could not pay, he declared that he would put me off the train. 'Please leave me off at Tutherford,' I said foolishly. I have regretted those words greatly, for the man saw that nothing would suit me better than to get off the train, and he carried me to the end of the line. Since then I have in vain watched a chance to speak to some one who has a pull on the road. They have been wearisome years to me, and when tonight the longed for opportunity came I seized it. I saw you had a pass."

"My dear Mr. Jones," I said, for I was deeply affected by the story of my companion, who, with his eyes filled with cloudlike tears, was now leaning eagerly toward me, awaiting my reply, "you have my sympathy. I have heard much of ghosts, but you are the first I ever met. Your story is a sad one, and I will do what I can to alleviate your sufferings. I see what you want. You wish to have this car stopped at Tutherford so that you can get off the train like an ordinary phantom and obey your instructions to haunt your own house."

A look of joy and expectancy came over the phantom's face.

"You have my word that I will use my influence with my cousin, the president of the New York, Lackahudson and Western, to have this train stopped just once at Tutherford. I will take such steps as soon as I get back to town."

"It is almost daylight, and we are approaching the junction, where I always get off," said the late R. G. Jones. His voice was husky, but a gleam of hope and happiness transfused his face. "I must leave you now. It is probable that I will never be able to repay your kindness, Mr. Dockboy, but you will have the consciousness of having done a noble deed in freeing a phantom commuter from an awful thrall."

Then he gathered up his phantom bundles and walked down the aisle, but before he reached the door he had passed from my sight.

I kept my word to him. Many were the subterfuges I used to have the midnight express stopped at Tutherford, but I succeeded, thanks to my cousin, the president of the road, and the knowledge that the respectable and late R. G. Jones has at last got off that train at his late place of residence after 11 long years of travel has been to me a source of continued satisfaction.—New York Sun.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 26. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Choose the good part.—Luke x, 38-42; Math. vi, 31-34.

The incident referred to in Luke of Christ in the home of His friends, Mary and Martha and Lazarus, is a beautiful one. But in studying Christ's language to Mary and Martha upon this occasion we must guard against seeing in them nothing but commendation for Mary and condemnation for Martha. Christ does not intend to hold up Martha as the embodiment of worldly mindedness in contrast with Mary as the embodiment of spiritual mindedness. Each is a type of a different class of Christians, but, though different in disposition, none the less Christians for that fact.

What was the good part that was chosen by Mary? She chose to sit at Jesus' feet. "She had a sister, who also sat at Jesus' feet." This was the place chosen by Mary. Oh, that we might all choose to sit at the feet of Christ, to hear the precious truths that fall from His lips rather than to have our minds filled only with self and the world, trying to feed our souls upon the husks which nourish us not. Mary chose also to hear Christ's word. "She heard His word." This was why she sat at His feet—that she might listen to Him as He spoke perhaps to His disciples, perhaps to her. The good part then chosen by Mary in receiving the Saviour was undivided devotion to His word, the feeding on the bread of life, which cometh by hearing. In the highest sense the good part is the spiritual reception of Christ Himself.

This should be the choice of all. Christ should be our first choice. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness." Many put temporal wants first, for fear they may be wanting, but God says if we seek first the kingdom of God these things shall be added unto us. We should trust God. We should take Him at His word, for "if God clothe the grass of the field, which today is and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, oh, ye of little faith?"

Mary's part was good because it could not be taken away from her. "Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her." The most satisfying food apart from God must one day fail and forsake us; therefore let us seek the good part—Christ as the bread of life to our souls, of which bread, if a man eat, he shall never hunger.

Bible Readings.—Deut. vi, 5; Joshua xxiv, 14-21; Ruth i, 17, 18; I Sam. xii, 23-35; I Kings xviii, 21; Ps. xxvii, 4; xxxiv, 8; cxlv, 9; Prov. ii, 1-12; xxii, 1; John vi, 66-69; xv, 16; Phil. iii, 13, 14; I Thess. v, 15; III John xi; Jas. i, 5; I Pet. iii, 11; Rev. vii, 9-17.

Lookout Committee Glances.

Look out for the dangers that threaten your society.

Look out for the members who are growing cold.

Look out for those who neglect the participation clause.

Look out for the nervous, timid member. Give him or her all the help you possibly can in whatever way you can.

Look out for the associate members' welfare, and try, when they are fit, to induce them to "take the next step."

Look out, above, around and about your society; don't think it perfect.

Look into your own hearts. What needs purifying there? Are they Christ's every whit?

Look up to God for everything you need in your work, and He will guide and bless you.—Golden Link.

Lifted Higher.

A child lay dying and said plaintively: "Lift me higher! Lift me higher!" The father took the little one in his arms and lifted her up high as he could raise her, as she continued to plead with failing strength, "Lift me higher!" Soon she was gone, lifted out of her earthly father's trembling arms into the bosom of her Heavenly Father. On the child's grave they cut her name and the words, "Lifted higher!" God wants us all to come up to Him, to get closer to Him, to be lifted higher into life's better things.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

Cut a Little Deeper.

When a certain French soldier was wounded in battle, he looked up while under the surgeon's knife—he was wounded near the heart—and said, "Cut a little deeper and you will find the emperor." A speaker before a Tasmanian convention thus applied this story: "There are many people that do not understand the Christian Endeavor movement, but if they cut deep enough and get at the heart of it they will find the Lord Jesus Christ."—Exchange.

Creating a Home.

Six things are requisite to create a home. Integrity must be the architect and tidiness the upholsterer. It must be warmed by love and lighted with cheerfulness, and an honest purpose must be the ventilator, renewing the atmosphere and bringing in fresh salubrity day by day, while over all, as a protecting glory, nothing will suffice except the blessing of God.—Hamilton.

Jerusalem, the Golden.

Jerusalem, the golden,
With milk and honey blest,
Beneath thy contemplation
Sink heart and voice to rest!
E'en now by faith I see thee;
E'en here thy walls discern;
To thee my thoughts are kindled
And strive and pant and yearn!

Thou hast no shore, fair ocean!
Thou hast no time, bright day!
Dear fountain of refreshment
To pilgrims far away!
Upon the Rock of Ages
They raise thy holy tower;
Thine is the victor's laurel
And thine the golden dower.

With jasper glow thy bulwarks;
Thy streets with emerald blaze;
The sardius and the topaz
Unite in thee their rays;
Thine ageless walls are bounded
With amethyst unpriced.
The saints build up thy fabric;
The cornerstone is Christ!
—Bernard of Cluny.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

A Solace

It's pleasant to be from man in the choir,
To sort o' stand out as a leader,
To have all thet tuneful persuasion an fire
Thet'll win back the doubtin seceder:
But in this here existence we can't, poor or rich,
Decide on the path thet's before us,
An some kin stand up an sing solos an sich,
While other must jine in the chorus.

It's the low trailin vine thet in safety endures
The storm when the haughty are broken;
It isn't the hero thet oft'nest secures
A true hearted friendship's dear token.
When envious sneers are launched ruthless an free,
When the venomous darts whistle o'er us,
Why, between you an me, it's a comfort to be
Jes' a feller thet jines in the chorus.
—Washington Star.

Mischief Done.

"I've been told Rivers' name is in old Rocksworthy's will."

"Yes, his name is in it. He signed it as a witness. That's all, and—good gracious! What's the matter?"

"Nothing, only I've lent him $500 on the strength of it!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Ones Who Suffer.

"One has to undergo a great deal to secure a musical education," remarked the young woman who hopes some day to be a prima donna.

"But one's neighbors have to undergo a great deal more," suggested the young man from the next flat.—Chicago Post.

His Breaks.

He broke the ties of mother love
By his satanic art,
Nor rested there—this ruffled dove
Then broke a maiden's heart.

And once again did fortune's stroke
His killing pace reveal—
The lightning breaker grandly broke
The record on his wheel.

Still guided by his evil bent
He wrought full many a prank,
And when, alas, in business went
And promply broke a bank.

So thus this breaker broke away
Until a broken wreck,
And then the sheriff came one day
And badly broke his neck.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lost His Usefulness.

Philanthropic Lady—And you mean to tell me that you lost your employment through giving up drinking?

Tramp—Yes, mum. It's as true as gospel. I was a horrible example to a temperance league.—New York Herald.

Audacity.

The pert wind kissed Priscilla's cheek
And made it red.
Then, fearing lest rebuke she'd speak,
Away he fled.

But tasted sweets do sharpen taste
To crave for more,
And one can do again at least
What's done before.

So in anticipated bliss
Straight back he goes.
Oh, most impertinent! This kiss
Makes red her nose. —Truth.

Mystery of Mysteries.

Curse not the web of circumstance.
Is God no God to thee?
A brooklet ripples not by chance
To join the brimming sea:
By law its babbling waters dance
And skip in minstrelsy.

And are the laws of sea and brook
But fables in thine eyes?
And are the leaves of nature's book
Writ with eternal lies?
Is there no God of law to look
On man and sympathize?

Are great worlds moving without plan?
Were they by chance begot?
The smallest insect doubt may scan
Shows wisdom without blot.
Then, be ye patient, foolish man—
God is, or law were not.
—Blackwood's Magazine.

The Veterans.

We met at Chickamauga. I hadn't seen him since
We looked across the trenches and his bullet made me wince;
But we both shook hands in friendship, as hearty as could be,
Though he had marched with Sherman and I had marched with Lee.

We walked across the battlefield where once the bullets flew,
And the green and bending grasses felt the fall of crimson dew,
And we talked the whole thing over where the flag was waving free—
How he had marched with Sherman and I had served with Lee.

The drums had ceased their beating. We saw no sabers shine.
The hair about his forehead fell as snowy white as mine,
And voices seemed to call us o'er the far, eternal sea,
Where the men who marched with Sherman are in camp with those of Lee.

We parted: eyes grew misty, for we knew that nevermore
Would we meet until the roll call on the other peaceful shore,
But both shook hands in friendship as hearty as could be,
Though he had marched with Sherman and I had fought with Lee.
—Frank L. Stanton in Chicago Times-Herald.

Threescore and Ten.

Who reach their threescore years and ten,
As I have mine, without a sigh,
Are either more or less than men—
Not such am I.

I am not of them. Life to me
Has been a strange, bewildered dream,
Wherein I knew not things that be
From things that seem.

I thought, I hoped, I knew one thing
And had one gift, when I was young—
The impulse and the power to sing,
And so I sung.

To have a place in the high choir
Of poets and deserve the same—
What more could mortal man desire
Than poet's fame?

I sought it long, but never found.
The choir so full was, and so strong
The jubilant voices there they drowned
My simple song.

Men would not hear me then, and now
I care not, I accept my fate.
When white hairs thatch the furrowed brow,
Crowns come too late.

The best of life went long ago
From me. It was not much at best,
Only the love that young hearts know,
The dear unrest.

Back on my past, through gathering tears,
Once more I cast my eyes and see
Bright shapes that in my better years
Surrounded me.

They left me here, they left me there,
Went down dark pathways, one by one—
The wise, the great, the young, the fair—
But I went on.

And I go on! And, bad or good,
The old allotted years of men
I have endured as best I could—
Threescore and ten!
—R. H. Stoddard in Philadelphia Press.

STRADDLES ON MONEY

Will Result In the Loss of the Vote of Business Men.

Archbishop Ireland Talks of A. P. A. Politics.

Secret Organization Should Not Besmirch Great Parties, He Says.

New York, April 25. — Henry Hentz, chairman of the sound money committee of the Chamber of Commerce, referring to the active efforts of various commercial bodies throughout the country to secure the adoption of sound money planks by the two political parties, said:

"Our information is that a strong revolt will be initiated by leading business men in all parts of the country against any party which does not specifically declare against the free coinage of silver. The intensity of feeling that it is a matter of national importance and of great interest to all men engaged in business that the country should give forth an unequalified declaration in favor of the existing gold standard of value, is greater now than it ever has been before. If either party declares in favor of the free coinage of silver, the fate of that party at the polls is settled before the nomination is made. If one party should declare in favor of the free coinage of silver and the other should dodge the question, there is a widespread sentiment in this country for a third party movement, designed to promote, protect and defend the standard of value which puts us on a level with the strong nations of the civilized world."

COMPOSED OF CROAKERS.

Archbishop Ireland Thinks A. P. A. Should Have Conventions of Its Own.

New York, April 25.—Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, who has been in Washington attending the consecration of the new bishop of Sioux Falls, Dr. O'Gorman, was at the Fifth Avenue hotel last night. In reply to a number of questions in regard to his views on American politics, his choice for president and the possible influence of the A. P. A. in the coming campaign, he said:

"Yes; I take an interest in American politics. Why should I not? I am an American citizen, in duty bound to have a deep interest in the welfare of my country, and politics is very closely connected with this welfare. And I shall always try to act as an American citizen should.

"Who is my candidate for the presidency? Well, as the summer advances I shall be better prepared to answer that question.

"The A. P. A.'s? Well, I have heard a great deal about them; but I have seen very little of them. They are not numerous in America, and where they are found they are usually imported Americans. They croak a good deal, to make believe that they are numerous. Two or three frogs in a swamp may keep a whole household from sleep. The chief reason of the secrecy they attach to their meetings and their membership is that they must hide their fewness of numbers. If they counted votes by millions, as their spokesmen say, why do they not come out and support a regular A. P. A. ticket. This they will never dare do.

"Their usual plan of campaign is to hitch themselves to the tail of a party or of a man whom they think likely to win, and afterward to claim the victory as their own. I have known several cases in the west where politicians affixed the stigma of the A. P. A. on tickets which they wished to defeat, and to which it did not at all belong. A good deal of intriguing goes on under cover of this shibboleth.

"The avowed principles of the A. P. A. are utterly anti-American and worthy of our supreme contempt. No man deserving of American citizenship, and of the liberties it ensures, would countenance them for an instant. The only peril I forsee is that politicians and leaders of political parties show cowardice, and thereby bring ruin to themselves by believing that A. P. A.'s are lying around as thick as autumnal leaves in Vallambrosa. They may thus be frightened into speaking and voting so as to curry favor with them. In giving the least heed to A. P. Aism, politicians show their own folly, their own lack of principle, and they lose immensely more than they could gain.

"Every concesion to A. P. Aism gives offense to multitudes of good citizens who may not say many loud words but who do a lot of quiet, solid voting. Any political party which departs from principle to court A. P. A. votes is doomed to defeat in America.

"I have no fear whatever that A. P. Aism will receive in any convention the slightest indirect recognition. If it does, my knowledge of the good sense as well as the political shrewdness of Americans is much at fault. Let the A. P. A.'s be made to organize conventions of their own, and let them not be allowed to besmirch by their foul breathings the conventions of any great American party."

Louisiana Is Democratic.

New Orleans, April 25.—Full returns from the state, with a few precincts estimated, show on the face of the returns 106,859 votes for Foster (Dem.) for governor and 83,164 for Pharr (Rep.), a majority for Foster of 23,695. The Republicans still declare that Pharr has been elected, and say that they have indisputable proof that 50,000 votes for Foster were stuffed in the ballot boxes in the black belt, where the Democratic majority comes from chiefly.

On A. P. A. Lines.

Springfield, Mass., April 25.—The first steps looking to the organization of a secret political society to control the A. P. A., while at the same time helping that order in its original plans, were taken in this city last evning. The new order is nameless, that it may work in greater secrecy even than the A. P. A. The New England organizer, who is from Boston, claims that similar organizations have been formed in different parts of the New England states.

A. P. A. After Bland.

St. Louis, April 25.—Every indication points to a bitter fight on "Silver Dick" Bland in the event of an effort being made in the Chicago convention to nominate him for the presidency. It has leaked out that Mrs. Bland is a member of the Catholic church, and has raised her children in that faith. The opposition to the nomination of the great 16 to 1 free silver apostle will come from the members of the A. P. A.

Makes Plain Sailing.

Boston, April 25.—W. M. Crane, Dalton, last night authorized the statement that he will be a candidate for the lieutenant governorship next fall. Mr. Crane declined to be interviewed on the matter, contenting himself with the simple announcement given above. The publication of Mr. Crane's entrance as a candidate simplifies the state political situation as the course of several other prominent Republicans has depended upon his action.

Will Stick to Free Silver.

Greenville, Miss., April 24.—A telegram was received here yesterday from Congressman Thomas C. Catchings announcing that he will vote for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, if the Democratic convention which meets here on May 18 renominates him.

Awful Crime of Burglars.

La Plata, Md., April 25.—The dead bodies of Mrs. Joseph Cocking and Miss Daisy Miller, her niece, and the unconscious, but living, form of Joseph Cocking the murdered woman's husband, were found yesterday in the village storkept by the Cockings at Hilltop. The affair has created intense excitement, and feeling runs so high that the culprits if caught probably will be lynched. Robbery was the incentive for the crime. Cocking was left for dead by the burglars. He had been securely bound with a heavy rope and brutally treated, but though unconscious when found and suffering from frightful wounds about the head, probably will recover.

Satolli's Probable Successor.

St. Louis, April 25.—The apostolic delegate, Cardinal Satolli, will be succeeded in this country, it is asserted by Mgr. Averardi, the present Nuncio to Mexico. This news is sent to the United States by Thomas Convano, a merchant of Venice, who has been on a visit to the capital of Mexico. Convano said that while in Mexico he met Mgr. Averardi. He asked the prelate when he expected to return to Rome, and was told that he did not expect to see the Eternal City inside of three years, as he expected to come to the United States as soon as his mission in Mexico is ended and become the apostolic delegate.

A Plumber's Bad Error.

Lancaster, Pa., April 25.—The interior of the new synagogue of the Shhaari Shomayn congregation, a handsomely erected temple which was to have been dedicated last night with services extending over tomorrow, was wrecked yesterday by an explosion of gas, and Janitor Croetfield was seriously injured. The building had been filled with an odor of gas, and a plumber was sent to discover the leak. He struck a match, when an explosion followed, which, beside wrecking the whole interior and breaking some of the memorial windows, shook all the houses in the vicinity.

Turks Up to Old Tricks.

Constantinople, April 25.—By an order from Stamboul, an American missionary at Hadjin has been forbidden to give relief. The vali there has formally accused him of being an abettor of treason, on the ground of the pretended discovery of an insurrectionary plot, in connection with which many young men have been arrested. There are many threats of a renewal of the massacres at Kharput. Crowds of Armenians would emigrate to America, but the government refuses its permission. Typhoid fever is raging all around. It is unsafe for foreigners to travel without an escort.

Missionary Knapp's Case.

London, April 25.—Under Secretary Curzon, replying to a question yesterday, said that Rev. George P. Knapp, the American missionary, was charged by the authorities of Bitlis with breaking the peace and stirring up the Armenians against the Turks, who were thereby moved to reprisals. Mr. Curzon added that the United States legation, under the circumstances, considered it best to arrange the difficulty by the withdrawal of Rev. Mr. Knapp.

Died In Squalor.

Washington, April 25.—John Riley was removed from his squalid home near the river a few days ago to the almshouse, where he died. He was at one time worth $7,000,000 in St. Louis. Riley built St. Patrick's church in St. Louis and gave large amounts to charity. He was a big steamboat man on the Mississippi river during the war and rendered valuable service to the government.

Didn't Die Poor.

Chicago, April 25.—Edward Partridge, the board of trade plunger, who died a few days ago, was worth $2,700,000. Yesterday the announcement was made that the noted speculator left no will. The estate will thus be divided among the five children of the deceased, the widow being allowed her share of one-third of the personal property and a life interest in one-third of the realty.

Burglar Fatally Shot.

Utica, N. Y., April 25.—Eugene Tully, the deputy postmaster at Leonardsville, who slept in a room over the postoffice, was aroused shortly after midnight by the noise made by a ladder which was placed against his window by two men, one of whom was about to enter when Tully shot him. The other fled. The captured burglar gives his name as Thomas Wilson. He cannot survive.

Closely Watched.

Norfolk, April 25.—The steamer Howard Cassard has arrived at Newport News, from Washington, and is under the strict surveillance of the custom house authorities and the Spanish consul at this point, official dispatches being received that she was suspected of being a filibuster and that her mission in these waters was to secure coal and supplies.

Big Company Involved.

London, April 25. — The Standard's Paris correspondent says that The Temps has a dispatch from Pretoria saying: it is declared that the prosecution in the trial of the national reform committee will produce crushing proofs of complicity against the Chartered South African company.

Tired of Ahlwardt.

Berlin, April 25.—Herr Ahlwardt, who went to America some time ago, has been offered 5000 marks by his constituents to remain there. This amount, they have advised him, will be made payable after the reichstag has accepted his resignation.

MORE HOPEFUL FEELING

At Many Trade Centers Reported by Bradstreet's Weekly Review.

New York, April 25. — Bradstreet's says: The feeling is more hopeful at many trade centers, owing to continued improvement of demand in retail lines, better weather, generally favorable crop reports, and the activity which naturally follows renewed building operations, distribution of implements and farm supplies and attendant activity.

More favorable reports come from commercial travelers representing Pittsburg, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Milwaukee houses. Moderate improvement is shown at a few other western centers, but at most of the larger distributing points throughout the country the improvement of merchandise on the whole shows no material change.

While seeding is progressing rapidly in the northwest, country trade there is unfavorable. Lack of rain in Florida is the cause of scarcity of earlier vegetables, and at almost all cities mercantile collections continue slow, remaining relatively the most unfavorable feature of business, even where the tendency in other directions is toward improvement.

In industrial lines, the only marked change for the better is the manufacture of shoes, orders for which have been placed in excess of preceding weeks. Wholesalers at the more important distributing centers in this line report larger sales, except at Chicago.

Transactions in wool have increased moderately, but supplies continue heavy, and prices, while nominally unchanged are weak.

In Rhode Island fair orders for woolens have been placed with mills.

The movement of dry goods continues unsatisfactory, but is improved in retail lines, due to the continued favorable weather. Prices for cotton goods are depressed by overproduction, not even the higher quotations for raw material having an influence under these circumstances.

Beneficial Measure Indorsed.

Albany, April 25.—Governor Morton has signed Mr. H. T. Andrew's bill lessening the hours of labor for women and children in mercantile establishments. Sixty hours per week is the maximum time of labor; chairs are to be provided for clerks; sanitary arrangements are to be perfected and approved by the board of health, who shall examine cellars and other places where women and children work and certify as to their healthfulness.

THE WEEK PAST.

The recommendations of our city officials lose much of their value by not being made to the City Council, instead of being printed once a year in a city book which is not issued until three or four months after the official is out of office. Had Commissioner Eaton during either of his two years sent a special communication to the Council, on sidewalks for instance, they would have received special consideration and possibly a start would have been made. It is a bad reputation to become current that "the sidewalks of our city are very poor." Why not make a start in 1896?

It would have been impossible to have picked out a more perfect holiday than that of Monday. Nature smiled on Patriots' day, and the people communed with nature.

Contracts were this week awarded for the new schoolhouses. If the city secures two well built nine-room brick buildings, complete with heating and ventilating systems, for less than $60,000, it will be fortunate indeed. Work will now be rushed.

Chief Williams maintains the good will of the firemen and admiration of the citizens to a marked degree, and it is by this hearty cooperation that efficient work is secured. "Pete" is happy this week over his new harness which the boys gave him.

The base ball season has opened, but Quincy does not "cut much ice" with this sport as other cities of 20,000 on less population. Brockton has enthused over base ball for years. Quincy could take Brockton for an example in many particulars.

Mr. Henry H. Faxon is generous to the churches at their fairs, keeps in the good graces of the young ladies, and frequently gives the representatives of the press a treat. In his work for the temperance cause he has been of inestimable benefit to the city. There is an opportunity now for him to meet a pressing need and give Quincy a large hall. He owns the most desirable locations for such a hall. Locations which should be built up with modern business blocks.

It has gone abroad in Boston papers that the Wollaston Golf club will play matches on Sundays in June. An unfortunate libel on the fair name of Ward Five.

Superintendent Lull is doing much to have Quincy known as the "City of Presidents." It appears on all his recent printing, which goes all over the United States, and the appelation will soon be National.

THE LOT of the moderator in a Braintree town meeting is not always desirable, although he is the supreme ruler, and is responsible largely for the conduct of the meeting. Whether his ruling in regard to discharging the committee Tuesday night was correct, or not, it certainly would have been anything but courteous to discharge a committee before it was able to report; and we fail to see how the moderator could have done otherwise than he did. It seems to us also that to have allowed any discussion upon the action of the committee, when their report was not before the house was not in order, and not only used up valuable time but caused unnecessary hard feelings. These meetings have already been strung out too long. Outsiders are watching our actions and long evenings spent in frivolous talk make us ridiculous in the eyes of our neighbors.—Observer.

NEARLY EVERY week, for the past two months, some one of the papers within a radious of ten miles has printed the following item, and we hasten to give space this most important announcement: "A tramp house is being built near the lockup in North Abington and a contract has been entered into with a citizen to feed the tramps for fifteen cents a head for supper and breakfast."

OPEN CARS have been running this week, and the "end-seat" fiend is again with us.

THE STATE Board of Agriculture has issued a very comprehensive report on the extermination of the gypsy moth.

THE HOUSE AGREES.

Norfolk County Investigation Now Assured—Mr. Utley's Speech.

The House adopted unanimously yesterday the order passed by the Senate Thursday, for the Norfolk county investigation, with an amendment that the committee report by May 20.

In moving the adoption of the order Mr. Utley of Brookline said:

"The adoption of this order seems to be the only proper and right step to take at the present time in justice to the inhabitants of Norfolk county as well as to the county commissioners.

"For over two years reports and statements ranging from vague and indefinite rumor; to positive statements, charging action on the part of the county commissioners more or less deserving of criticism if correct, have been circulated, have appeared in public print, and to some extent have been made before the committee on counties of this legislature.

"To such an extent have these reports been circulated that Norfolk county has been placed in a most embarrassing and unenviable position. Whatever is said in disparagement of the county of Norfolk reflects upon every town that forms the county, and the inhabitants of these several towns as well.

"The town of Brookline, which I represent, has freely considered this matter in a recent town meeting and passed a vote requesting an investigation. The city of Quincy and the town of Braintree have taken similar action and I believe it is the wish of more than a majority of the residents of the county that such an investigation be given by the legislature. From whatever point of view the investigation is regarded it seems as if it must meet with approval.

"If the commissioners have done what is improper, illegal or dishonest, it is due the residents of the county who have reposed their confidence in them that such conduct be fully exposed. If on the other hand the actions of the commissioners have been legal, honest, proper, and for the best interests of the county, it is due to them that reports inferring the contrary be effectually and fully refuted and that they be exonerated and stand before their constituents freed from all taint of suspicion. I sincerely hope the result of the proposed investigation will demonstrate the latter condition."

Two High Records.

George O. Peverly now holds the record at Costello's alleys for a single and three string total. Last night he bowled 222, 256 and 165; total 643. He made 8 strikes and 2 spares on the first string and there were two breaks that brought down the score at a very critical point. On the second string Peverley wound up with seven straight strikes and put up the highest string yet bowled—256. There was not a break in the roll. On the third string Peverley made his first miss and two bad breaks lowered the total materially. The Atlantic team will bowl in the alleys tonight.

A Valuable Legislator.

Speaking of the coming retirement of Representative Morse of Massachusetts, his colleague, Mr. Walker said:

"I do not think Massachusetts has had a Representative here in many years who has exceeded Mr. Morse in successfully serving his constituents in legislation and every other respect. I regard him as a very valuable legislator. His years of experience here make him far more efficient than it is possible for a new man to be for some time. He always votes on the right side. Mr. Morse is a most faithful and vigilant Representative, and has been untiring in his devotion to the wants of his constituents."

Mr. Apsley said: "Congressman Morse has advocated since his election to Congress nearly all the great measures that have been before it relating to tariff and and finance, and those measures especially affecting his constituents; usually speaking like a business man, briefly, and presenting business views. But he has especially distinguished himself and acquired a national reputation as a champion of moral reforms. Mr. Morse has been recognized as a spokesman and leader upon moral questions, and we, his colleagues, regret his retirement."—Washington Post.

Afternoon Runaway.

A horse attached to one of McConnell's fruit wagons became frightened while left standing in front of Crane's grain store this afternoon and ran as far as Mr. McConnell store where he stopped. As he dashed up to the store the racket frightened another horse of Mr. McConnell's who was feeding, and turning about he broke away from the man who attempted to stop him and ran down Hancock street. He was stopped near the Adams Academy, and fortunately but little damage was done to either team.

The Quincy Co-operative bank has just declared a semi-annual dividend of three and one half per cent. Seven years of increasing success is a commendable work for an institution which comes in close touch with our wage earners and others who like a systematic plan of deposit.

Mr. and Mrs. Thayer of Spear street and their daughters have the sympathy of friends in their sad loss this week of a loving, devoted daughter and sister, Miss Mabel E. Thayer. The funeral services were held Wednesday at noon. Flowers, which she was always so fond of were every where, her favorites, pink roses, predominating.

The two events of the season in entertainments to be given after the first of May are the matinee, for women only, by the Episcopalians in Faxon hall, for the benefit of the "music fund," and Madame Arcan's troupe of trained young people and children, some fifty or more, in the Unitarian chapel.

The Young Men's Christian Association is preparing for an unusually interesting evangelistic meeting Sunday afternoon in the Centre Congregational church, beginning at 3.30. Evangelist Martin preached in three different churches in Quincy last Sunday and each time very acceptably. The singing, also, of Miss Addie Wishman made for her many friends in our city. Rev. R. F. True, well known to all who attend the Monday meetings at Bromfield street church will assist in the service.

A White Mark.

Some papers have poked fun at Congressman Morse because he is so widely known as the proprietor of Rising Sun stove polish. But Mr. Morse has proven himself a capable legislator and a special champion of the farmer and of all people who want pure food. The loud-mouthed Cannon of Illinois tried last week to make capital against the filled-cheese bill at Mr. Morse's expense, but was squelched by the latter's reply: "When blacking is used for butter, there will be time to compare it with cheese made of hog oil. And I have never seen any blacking so good but it would make a white mark on any man who defends fraudulent butter or cheese,' or advocates continuing this fraud upon consumers and farmers." That's the kind of talk!—Nwe England Homestead.

A TART RETORT.

Henry H. Faxon Jumps Upon A Boston Paper With Both Feet.

The following editorial and correspondence make interesting reading:

"It is satisfactory to see that, by the vote of the House of Representatives, the bill which would turn the money received for the sale of licenses in licensed towns and cities in to the state treasury for general distribution has been defeated. This change was supported by a large number of persons on what seems to us to have been a distortion of moral principle.  To vehemently condemn as contrary to the laws of God a species of business, and then to arrange to divide the profits of this business, is to adopt a course similar to that followed by a professed Massachusetts abolitionist before the days of our civil war, who, having been bequeathed by a distant relative a small plantation in Mississippi and a number of negro slaves, could not bring his conscience to sanction the working of these, and, therefore, sold off the whole establishment to the highest bidder."—Herald.

To the above Mr. Henry H. Faxon of Quincy promptly replied in his tart way, as follows:

"I was amused at your editorial today concerning the defeat of the bill to turn all the license fees into the state treasury, and was surprised that you should assume the role of a thin-skinned moralist, declaring with a show of outraged feelings against a proposition which deals, however remotely, with the revenue derived from the sale of intoxicating liquors.

"There are thousands of politicians with pious pretensions, any one of whom, if a rascal owed him a bill, and tendered in payment money which the creditor knew had been stolen, would not hesitate to accept the shekels. Some time since prominent Republicans denounced the Prohibitionists for receiving campaign funds from the Democrats, and I have known many instances where such an arraignment served as a scarecrow. I have always laughed at and disregarded such exhibitions of political integrity.

"All evil is built upon a foundation of dollars cemented with sin. If I could steal the gold from that foundation and expend it in digging a pit in which I could bury Satan and his followers, I would gladly do so.

"How to rid the commonwealth of the curse entailed by the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage is a perplexing problem, which taxes the ingenuity of our wisest reformers. We must not be finical as to methods, but employ all agencies at our command which promise alleviation from existing evils."

BRAINTREF.

The plan of forming a bicycle club in town is receiving much favor.

John R. Graham, Esq., tells us that in all probability the electric road to Randolph will be in operation by June 17.

The Ladies' Aid connected with the Universalist church met at the home of Mrs. Haseltine near South Braintree depot, Wednesday afternoon.

A new street is soon to be cut through between Thayer Academy and the Monatiquot school, from Washington street, to Tremont street. Mr. William May has the contract to do the work.

On Sunday, April 26, there will be a missionary conquest meeting under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U. A special programme is being prepared. The collection taken that evening will be used for repairs on the church.

Mr. John C. Weeks is now engaged in fitting his sloop for a pleasure boat. It arrived last week and he will spare no pains or expense in making it perfect. He promises to give his friends many a fine sail down the harbor the coming summer.

Several Braintree people attended the High school reunion at South Weymouth, Wednesday evening. Among the number were: Mrs. George Wheeler in black net over crimson silk, and Miss Elsie Drinkwater in organdie with trimmings of ribbons and violets.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First church propose to have a May sale at the chapel on May 1. The proceeds to go towards the lighting of the chapel.

The funeral of Mrs. Clarissa Minchin took place last Monday afternoon, Rev. A. A. Ellsworth officiated. Many from the First church, of which the deceased was a devoted member, were present. The house was filled by those who desired to pay respect to a beloved sister and neighbor. The remains were placed in the old cemetery.

The Thayer Academy nine will play the Burdett College nine this afternoon.

Prof. O. W. Crosby of the Institute of Technology, contemplates giving a course of four lessons in the field study of geology, to begin either May 24, or 9th, and to continue during successive pleasant Saturday afternoons, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

The principals of all our schools met with Supt. Horne and ex-Post Commander Gage, at the superintendent's office, Thursday evening, to consider the proper observance of Memorial day in our schools.

It was decided to accept the cordial invitation of the Post for the children from all the schools to meet with the G. A. R. in the Town Hall, Friday May 29, at 2 o'clock P. M. The exercises will consist of singing by the schools and an address especially prepared for children by Major Austin S. Cushman of Post No. 1, G. A. R., of New Bedford.

The Pine Tree Club is making preparations for its annual supper to take place about May 20th.

The Universalists are preparing for a May festival to take place in Pythian hall, April 30 and May 1.

Rumor says that M. F. Drinkwater has engaged thirteen stalls at Readville for the coming season, and that he proposes to train his horses there.

Mrs. Woodbury of the American Missionary Association will speak in the First church chapel next Thursday evening at 7 30. Subject: "The industrial work in the south." All are invited.

—The largest sale of postage stamps and other forms of postage in the history of the United States postal service was the record of the quarter which ended March 31. The number of stamps, envelopes, and postal cards was 1,102,165,965, and the value was $21,023,613. These figures are regarded at the Post-Office department as an encouraging indication of reviving business activity. The experience of many years has shown that the sales of postage rise and fall with the state of trade.

—A shot from the old-fashioned sixty-eight smooth bore cannon cost $1.80. A shot from a modern 110-ton gun costs $1200.

SHED AND QUARRY.

Many of the Quincy Granite Firms Have Large Orders.

The shipments of granite during the month of March were: from West Quincy, 3,911,405 pounds; from South Quincy 2,996,635 pounds; and over the Quincy Quarry railroad 14,597,960 pounds.

The New England Monumental Design Co. is hard at work upon a design for a large mausoleum.

Long & Saunders have a large sarcophagus nearly completed, the cap of which is elaborately carved. This firm reports more work on hand now than for a number of years.

McDonnell & Kelley have recently fitted a new boom to their derrick.

Joss Bros. report business as being good. They have all they can do and are shipping quite a lot of work for Memorial day.

H. W. Adrian has his new boiler and compressor in position and running. He reports business as rushing.

The Craig & Richards Granite Company has closed the contract for a $50,000 Mausoleum for Massachusetts parties.

Swingle & Falconer are running their plant to its full capacity, giving employment to forty cutters.

Fuller, Foley & Co. report quite a demand for their "snow flake" stock. Business is a little better with them.

The Manet Granite Company has ready for shipment a large all polished sarcophagus monument for a western party. The base of the monument is 9x5-10.

The Granite Railway Company has secured the contract for a large all polished tomb job to be cut of Quincy granite.

The Glencoe Granite Company is now employing seventeen cutters and has several good sized sarcophagus monuments under way.

The Quincy Quarry Company has the contract to furnish the city of Brockton with 1,500,000 pavers, and Charles Wilson has the contract for a large number to go to South Framingham.

John B. Reinhalter is to reopen his quarry in East Milton about the 1st of May.

C. H. Hardwick & Co., have shipped this month two large sarcophagus monuments; one of which consisted of two bases, die and cap. The second bases and die were polished, and the cup had a handsome egg and dove moulding at its base. They are quite busy at their quarry.

John Thompson & Sons have ready for shipment a handsome canopy job for western Massachusetts. It is of medium Quincy granite and stands 18 feet high. The bottom base is 7 2 square and on the polished third base are four polished columns with carved capitals, between which is a carved statue. On the face of the arch stone is a scripture quotation in old English lettering. The cap and dome are both elaborately carved, the latter terminating in a carved final.

Thomas and John Bishop, formerly of the firm of J. H. Bishop & Co., have occupied their new sheds near the works of Fred Barnicoat.

George H. Hitchcock & Co. are quarrying the rough stock for a Philadelphia building job.

The Nicol's Granite works have ready for shipment a handsome all-polished sarcophagus monument, with inclosure of extra dark Quincy granite. The bottom base is 2x6—10 and the name "Morriss" appears on the third base in raised polished letters.

W. T. Spargo & Co. have recently booked orders for four large sarcophagus monuments of dark Quincy granite, ranging in price from $700 to $1,100. The Middleboro soldiers' monumont, which this firm is cutting, will be shipped this month.

Carey Bros. are clearing a large lot of land near their present works, upon which they are to erect large new cutting sheds and a polishing mill.

—It is claimed that there are nearly 3,000 A. P. A. recruits in Brockton, and that five-sevenths of the officials in the City Hall belong to the local council.

—Harvard has the largest attendance of any college in America, and the University of Paris of any college in the world.

—The census of the whole of France is taken in a single night and that of London in a day. This is one of the operations in which the Yankee must admit he is not up to date.

—The largest bell in France has just been hung in the belfry of the church of the Sacred Heart, in Paris. It weighs 28 tons, can be heard at a distance of 25 miles, and its vibration lasts six minutes.

—Mr. C. O. Elms of Scituate has a Jersey cow, called the Jersey Belle, whose milk makes 25 pounds and 3 ounces of butter a week; 705 pounds of butter a year.

—The recent report of the loss of $1000 by a Wisconsin farmer at the hands of "green goods" men in New Jersey leads the Worcester Spy to remark that there should be a law to punish, not only the confidence men themselves, but the would-be purchaser as well, whose object in buying the worthless counterfeit money is to defraud others to whom he may be able to dispose of it.

—Letters which go out from the Washington post-office will have the weather indications stamped on them. It will be the usual date stamped with a circle around it in which will be printed a word indicating the kind of weather to be expected, such as "rain," "snow," "colder," "fair," and the like.

Raising Funds.

"I'll give $10," announced the man in the third pew from the front.

To Make a Good Cup of Tea.

A young man who was being joked about the appearance of the young lady he was going to marry said in an apologetic way, "Well, she can make a good cup of tea anyhow." This is a qualification that not many girls possess. Very few know how to make a good cup of tea. Here are some pointers: Tea should never touch metal. It should be kept in paper, wood, glass or porcelain. To make it, put a small quantity in a porcelain cup, fill the latter with boiling water, cover it with a porcelain saucer and let it stand three minutes. Then, if you desire to be an epicure, drink only the upper layer of the golden liquid, throw the rest away, rinse the cup and begin again. Never use sugar. Do not use milk. It ruins the flavor of the tea, and the combination injures the stomach, so the Chinese say, and they ought to know their own beverage. Above all things, do not boil the tea.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class ocality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Quincy, Dec. 31—tf

A PUBLIC RETRACTION.

Rev. Dr. Pullman Sorry For Statements Made From His Pulpit.

French Actress Had Sued For $25,000 Damages.

She Now Acknowledges Satisfaction and the Slander Case Will Be Withdrawn.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 25.—The slander case against Rev. Dr. Joseph Pullman of the First Methodist church of Bridgeport, brought by Mlle. Jane May, the French actress and pantomimist in which she asks for $25,000 damages, claiming that the preacher from the pulpit referred to her as a "low, brilliant, swell Parisian courtesan," is to be withdrawn. Rev. Dr. Pullman published a retraction over his signature, in which he says of the words used in his sermon on Dec. 1, 1895:

"At that time I knew absolutely nothing of Mlle. May, beyond her relation to that performance; and it was my deliberate purpose that my remarks should be impersonal. I have from the first regretted exceedingly that my words were connected with the actress.

"It is a great satisfaction to me that Mlle. May repudiated the aforesaid article as a truthful description of her performance; and if I have done her any injury or injustice by assuming that the article was published with her consent, or used any expressions which in any degree may have reflected upon her private character, I regret it. And this has been my attitude in this case from the first."

Mlle. May's Letter.

In her letter expressing her satisfaction of the retraction, Mlle. May says:

"Your retraction of the reckless and unchristian-like charges against my moral character has been submitted to me, and is accepted. But I feel that I can without impropriety suggest that it is my hope that the course I have pursued in this matter may at least be the means of deterring clergymen who think less in the pulpit of the gospel of Christ than notoriety and self-aggrandisement from making unprovoked and malicious attacks upon actresses of whow they know absolutely nothing.

"When we meet on that last awful day before him who will judge us all, he will decide between us and right the wrong which you have done me, but which it is beyond your power to undo."

Dr. Pullman stated last night that in the settlement of the case he had not been called upon to pay one cent.

On Beacon Hill.

Boston, April 25.—There was a sharp scrap in the house between Messrs. Mellen of Worcester and Forbes of Milton, during the discussion of a street railway bill. A bill was substituted for an adverse report on the petition for an act to compel street railways to provide appliances for protecting motormen from the inclemency of the weather. A bill to give the courts the power to enforce orders of the gas commissioners was ordered to a third reading. A bill was reported in the senate giving a charter for the Massachusetts Maritime Canal company with a capital of $6,000,000, to build a canal across Cape Cod. The house refused to substitute for an adverse report a bill for a bridge across the Charles river from Charlestown to Boston.

Pastor Fuller's Case.

Malden, Mass., April 25.—Rev. Samuel R. Fuller, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and whose deposition is recommended by a court of inquiry, refuses to deny or confirm the report that the ecclesiastical council, which recently tried him for an alleged breach of canonical law, has found him guilty. Rev. Mr. Fuller was tried because he had married, after securing a divorce on statutory grounds from his first wife, without ecclesiastical sanction, although his marriage was perfectly legal. It remains for Bishop Lawrence to make known the court's decision.

Still a Mystery.

New Haven, April 25.—A police investigation has been productive of no information leading to a solution of the mystery surrounding the supposed attempt to blow up with dynamite the residence of George E. Albee at Westville. The damage to Albee's house is not so great as at first reported, being confined to the breaking of windows and the tearing of a large hole in the earth near the house.

Kept Secret.

Newport, R. I., April 25 — The final trials of the Haskin's self-steering torpedo occurred yesterday at the naval station. The invention was tested for reliability and subjected to severe experiments. The result of this trial is kept a secret. Regarding the future use of the invention Mr. Haskins stated that the matter would rest entirely with the secretary of the navy.

Bold Daylight Robbery.

Boston, April 25.—Two young men broke into M. F. Carr's pawn shop in Charlestown yesterday, while the broker was at lunch, and helped themselves to about 100 watches and 200 rings and chains, all valued at $2000. Passers by saw the thieves leave the store carrying a brown bag.

New England Briefs.

A 3-year-old boy was burned to death at Malden, Mass.

A fire at North Manchester, Conn., caused a loss of about $50,000.

Raymond J. Gregory has resigned as captain of the Amherst college baseball team.

Elsie Green, aged 4, was run over by a carriage and probably fatally injured at Providence.

The New England road has been forced to make a reduction in freight service in Connecticut.

Archibald McDonald, 56 years old, committed suicide at Melrose, Mass., by hanging himself.

Kirk Street Congregational church of Lowell, Mass., voted to extend a call to Rev. E. C. Bartlett of Chicago.

Freeman B. Trow, a truckman, was killed at Nashua, N. H., by his horses running away, throwing him from his wagon.

The dead body of William F. Gilligan was found in the woods at Weymouth, Mass. It is thought death resulted from exposure.

Arrangements are nearly completed for a convention of the superintendents of street lighting from all parts of the United States at New Haven in June.

A. S. Saneus and G. B. Spaulding, non-union lasters, working at the factory of the Leonard Shoe company at Lynn, Mass., were assaulted after leaving the factory.

The Independent women voters of Boston voted to send a memorial to the secretary of state protesting against the destruction of the Bulfinch-street front of the state house.

Della Fox, who was to appear at Springfield, Mass., in "Fleur de Lis," was obliged to retire from the cast at the end of the first act because of a severe double sprain of her ankle.

At the oratorical contest of the Massachusetts intercollegiate prohibition convention at Worcester, the prize of $50 in gold was awarded Charles S. Morris of Newton theological school.

The Unitarian club of New York tendered a reception and dinner to Rev. Dr. Minot J. Savage of Boston, in honor of his coming to New York as co-pastor to Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer at the Church of the Messiah in the fall.

John Kehoe, 70 years old, slightly demented, is under arrest at Providence, charged with having twice fired a gun at Charles O'Reilly, 16 years old, who is said to have been tormenting him.

Edwin J. Venables of Boston pleaded guilty on two counts charging him with using the United States mail in a scheme to defraud. He was fined $150 on one count, and the other was placed on file.

The grand council of the Royal Arcanum at Lowell, Mass., elected officers as follows: Regent, A. W. David; vice regent, C. W. Clark; orator, A. D. Walsh; secretary, Herbert Boynton; treasurer, J. F. Hayes.

Joseph Demario, 14 years old, employed at the Nottingham mills, Providence, was playing with a fellow employe when in some manner his head was caught between a carriage and roller beam and crushed. He died almost instantly.

John W. Hartshorn died at his home in Lunenburg, Vt. He was a prominent Republican, and had represented Lunenburg in the lower house of the legislature, was elected senator in 1870, and had held the office of judge of probate. He was 88 years old.

The Bryan Murder Case.

Newport, Ky., April 25.—Every available space in the courthouse yesterday was crowded in Scott Jackson's trial. Among the witnesses examined was Will Wood, the friend and correspondent of Jackson, once charged with complicity in the crime of killing Pearl Bryan, but since released by nolle prossequi. The most interesting witness was the mother of Pearl Bryan, who was put on the stand to testify to the disposition of her daughter. It is evidently a part of the policy of the prosecution to show the youthfulness and inexperience of the murdered girl. The defense revealed the part of its policy, which will be to break down the character of that witness by showing that Wood, by his own confession, was himself improperly intimate with Pearl Bryan.

The Meaning of Contempt.

Washington, April 25. — Senators Hill and Thurston, as a sub-committee of the senate committee on judiciary, have under consideration the bill defining contempt of court in the United States courts. They probably will make recommendations to the bill taking away the right of appeal in cases of direct contempt and making the granting of a jury trial optional with the court in cases of indirect contempt. The bill grows out of the arrest and imprisonment of Eugene V. Debs and the decision of the United States supreme court upon the case, and is being pressed by the labor unions.

In Congress.

Washington, April 25.—Although yesterday was private bill day under the rules, the house decided to proceed with the Pickler pension bill, and the whole day was consumed in the discussion of that measure. The debate was devoid of interest. The feature was the opposition of Mr. Connolly (Rep., Ills.) to the section of the bill which granted pensions to Confederate soldiers who deserted and joined the Union ranks, 90 days before Lee's surrender. The senate gave the day to the sundry appropriation bill without completing it. The debate was largely of a formal character.

Laurier's Popularity.

Montreal, April 25.—The general election campaign was inaugurated in this city last night by the Liberals. Wilfred Laurier arrived from Ottawa, and the demonstration in his honor was the largest and grandest ever given a public man in Canada's history. A torchlight procession, almost a mile long, escorted him from the St. Lawrence hall to Sohmer park, where fully 20,000 people gathered to hear the Liberal leader. He outlined the policy on which the Liberal party will conduct the election campaign.

British Party Repulsed.

Cape Town, April 25.—A dispatch from Buluwayo says that Commander Duncan, with 100 whites and 200 natives with Maxim and Hotchkiss guns, met the Matabeles three miles out from Buluwayo. The Matabeles fired a heavy volley into the British party and drove them into the Umguza river. One of the whites of the British party was killed, three of the officers were wounded and several of the natives were killed.

Warlike Movements.

Cape Town, April 25.—It is reported from Johannesburg that numerous Boer wagons, all in charge of white men, with no Kaffir drivers, are leaving Pretoria with ammunition and field requirements, their destination being unknown. The Boers, it is further said, are in constant communication with the artillery camp, from which these wagons load and depart.

Needed at Home.

Cape Town, April 25.—Governor Robinson has cabled the reply of President Kruger to Mr. Chamberlain's invitation to visit England to discuss the settlement of the Uitlanders' grievances. The reply states in effect that President Kruger cannot presently proceed to England, as his presence in the Transvaal is required by the volkersad.

Fatal Cyclone In Virginia.

Roanoke, Va., April 25. — A cyclone, accompanied by hail and a heavy rainfall, struck Salem yesterday. Jane Harris and her 5-year-old son were taken dead from the ruins of a small house, and four others were badly injured, one being fatally hurt.

WRATH OF SOCIALISTS

Aroused by the Driving Out of the Bourgeois Ministry.

All Political Parties Have Entered the Fight.

Madagascar Credits, Refused Retiring Ministry, Granted by the Senate.

Paris, April 25. — The activity of the Socialists is a noticeable feature of the situation, and makes it evident that they regarded M. Bourgeois' cabinet as more aptly representing them than any other they can hope for. Their wrath against the senate is correspondingly deep.

An immense meeting of the Socialists was held last night to protest against the action of the senate. Thousands of persons had to be turned away, as they were unable to enter. Many deputies were among those present. M. Pelletan made an address to the assembly, in which he declared that the time had arrived for action and that the people must no longer put faith in words. MM. Jaures and Vailiant also spoke.

A letter of apology for his absence from M. Goblet caused an uproar and shouts of treachery.

M. Pelletan declared that Paris must rise and take another bastile. Another revolution was necessary, he said, and another onslaught upon such strongholds of capital as the Rothschilds. Other speeches followed in the same strain.

When a resolution was put censuring the senate and advocating a revision of the constitution there were cries from all parts of the hall of "Down with the senate." The meeting finally broke up in disorder and with violent shouts against the senate.

The Republican guard of police barred the way to the place De la Republique, and in order to prevent the noisy demonstrators from reaching the boulevards they turned them in the direction of the canal St. Martins. Several persons were arrested. A few groups reached the boulevards in spite of the efforts of the police to prevent them, and paraded noisily up and down, shouting, "Down with the senate."

The parade of the Socialists in the boulevards caused some uneasiness, and prompt measures were taken to suppress it. The disorder did not reach serious proportions, though Messrs. Jaures and Sembat, deputies, who headed the procession seeking to make a demonstration, came into violent collision with the police. M. Guerin, editor of The Libre Parole, was also arrested.

Some blows were struck outside in the conflict with the police. Two journalists of The Libre Parole were arrested, but were released in 10 minutes.

This demonstration is the first evidence manifested of any general popular interest in the political crisis, and it seems to have been the result of the industrious efforts of the Socialist leaders.

Hot Politics.

The senate yesterday unanimously voted the Madagascar credits which they had refused to grant to the Bourgeois ministry. M. Angles submitted a proposal for a revision, and demanded urgency on the question, which was rejected by a vote of 214 to 33 and the senate adjourned until Tuesday next.

The Paris newspapers are unanimous in expressing the opinion that Thursday's vote in the chamber of deputies upon the question of adjourning the sitting and upon the motion offered by Henri Ricard reaffirming the chamber's right of preponderance in the universal suffrage, has made the constitutional conflict still more acute. The Moderate organs expect that the chamber will be dissolved. The Gaulois declares that President Faure is determined to uphold the constitution despite the rancor of the Socialists. The Radical newspapers declare that revision of the constitution is inevitable, and the Socialists demand the convening of the national assembly. The Conservatives predict a crisis in the presidency of the republic.

President Faure put in the day in conferences with the political leaders of the various parties, and M. Bourgeois' successor is still undetermined. M. Loubet assured the president that the senate, having affirmed its constitutional prerogatives, would not offer any factious opposition, even to a Radical cabinet. M. M. Brisson and Poincare advised the president to form a Radico-Republican cabinet.

M. Faure had over an hour's conversation with M. Meline, and it is believed that he has asked him to form a cabinet, as it was foreshadowed he would do. But M. Meline wants a decree to dissolve the chambers and go to the country as a condition of his accepting the responsibility of forming a cabinet, and this request President Faure hesitates to agree to.

Rumors of President Faure's resignation are rife. M. Waldeck-Rousseau is already a center of attraction as a possible successor. M. Faure's family and entourage favor his resignation. But the president is made of stronger stuff than was Cassimer-Perier.

Previous Record Beaten.

New York, April 25.—The American line steamship St. Paul, from Southampton, passed in at Sandy Hook at 11:50 last night. To have equalled her own westward record—6 days, 17 hours and 51 minutes—she was due to arrive off the lightship at 2:21 a. m. today. She has therefore, on this trip, reduced her record by more than 2½ hours.

Christian Governor Wanted.

Constantinople, April 25.—In view of the appointment of a Mussulman governor of Zeitoun, the ambassadors of the powers have formally demanded that the Turkish government respect its engagements and appoint a Christian governor. As this dispatch is sent the ambassadors are in session and discussing the matter.

No Opposition to It.

Albany, April 25.—The senate yesterday passed the Robbins anti-coal trust bill in just the same shape as it came from the assembly. Forty-five votes were thrown for it, and none against it. The bill now goes to the governor.

Troops Unfit For Service.

London, April 25.—The Daily Telegraph has a dispatch from Gwelo, Matabeleland, which says that an epidemic of influenzia is raging there, and that 50 per cent of the troops relied on for defense are suffering from it.

CHILDREN ought to brighten a mother's daily cares and help her to be strong, capable and cheerful. It isn't right for mothers to feel the burden of life growing heavier and heavier year by year because of child-bearing and child-rearing. That shows something is wrong in the mother's physical condition. There is some unnatural weakness in her delicate organism which disqualifies her for motherhood. When this is wrong everything is wrong. A woman's physical life is wrapped up in the special organs of her sex. When these are restored to health and strength the whole woman becomes healthy and strong. Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., has made a life-study of this problem of restoring health and strength to women. His "Favorite Prescription" is the most successful remedy that has ever been known for women's peculiar ailments. Its sale exceeds the combined sales of all other medicines for women. It cures the most obstinate uterine diseases. It goes directly to the internal organism which is the real seat of all the troubles. It imparts vigor and health where they are most needed; heals ulceration; stops the weakening drains; promotes regularity; restores muscular power to the ligaments, thus correcting displacements of special organs in the only natural way.

Complete information regarding the Favorite Prescription" and testimonials from hundreds who have used it, are embodied in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a standard medical work of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated, which will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only. This work is a complete family doctor book and should be read by both young and old. The profits on the sale of 680,000 copies at $1.50 has rendered possible this free edition. "THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

IS HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGE."

Every Man Who Would Know the Grand Truths, the Plain Facts, the New Discoveries of Medical Science as Applied to Married Life, Who Would Atone for Past Errors and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book Called "Complete Manhood, and How to Attain It."

"Here at last is information from a high medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

A method by which to end all unnatural drains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self-control, despondency, &c.

To exchange a jaded and worn nature for one of brightness, buoyancy and power.

To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry, &c.

To give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Age no barrier. Failure impossible. Two thousand references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who had applied to us, soon after wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cart load of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper, and the company promises to send the book, in sealed envelope, without any marks, and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

THE SALVATION ARMY

MAUD BALLINGTON BOOTH WRITES OF ITS WORK IN AMERICA.

How the People Are Reached—The Slum Brigade—Statistics of the Work Done In This Country—The War Cry—How It Is Principally Sold.

It is not enough in such a field as ours to build a church and open its doors and call to the passing people, "Come and hear of God; repent and become good." If we followed any such method, our hall would be empty and those few who did enter would undoubtedly be people who already care enough about God and religion to wish to be there, being themselves alive to the need of their souls. No, that is not the class we seek. We are sent to the godless, irreligious, church hating, sin bound crowd which holds in abhorrence all that savors of religion, righteousness or purity. It must be reached.

This the Salvation Army has undertaken to do in many ways: First, it parades the streets where these people lounge. After its waving colors and uniformed troops flock the poor, the ragged, the drunken, the dirty, the criminal, and the desperate classes, and you can often see them trooping to the Army hall, which has been made suitable for them in all its appointments and where a welcome is extended to one and all, for if any have the preference in our Salvation meetings, it should certainly be given to the most drunken and forlorn.

The next way of reaching these people is the carrying of our warfare into their own haunts. Saloons, dives and evil resorts are systematically visited, and the people there are dealt with and prayed with just as earnestly as if we were talking with them in our own meeting place. In this way meetings are constantly held and souls saved right in the enemy's own reserves, and the fearless and loving spirit that nerves our people to these persistent researches after lost souls often in itself wins their love and respect, their good will and their confidence in such a way that they look upon us as friends and neighbors indeed and turn to us in a ready, open hearted manner that they would never do to those who live at a distance from them or who approach them with the ordinary religious methods.

Again, there is the most thorough visitation carried on by our workers. The women of our slum brigades visit the wretched homes, lodging houses and tenements in the neighborhoods in which they live, that they may win the hearts of the people, not so much by their message and their prayers, though they are earnest in both, but by their loving services and their practical religion lived out in the vilest environments. They nurse the sick, care for the starving, wash the babies, sit up with the dying and often clean, scrub and disinfect the most loathsome abodes, that in this way faith and works, precept and practice, may teach those to whom they go a lesson that no tract, gospel message or prayer, however good, could bring home to them as effectually. And what is our hope for those to whom we go? Not only that the poor, the hungry and the homeless may have their position bettered, not only that they may rise out of the quagmire into which they have sunk on to the level of honest and respectable citizenship, but that into their hopeless lives the great, loving, life giving Saviour may come. We do not advocate the signing of pledges, the turning over of new leaves, nor do we pay much attention to promises of reformation. We aim at something deeper and yet something higher, the giving up of sin and the receiving into their poor hopeless souls of a definite power that can make them new men and new women in Christ Jesus. It is not reformation, but transformation.

The following statistics of the work in this our own country may perhaps prove of interest, but it must be remembered that the Army here is still in its infancy and that what we have seen in the past is nothing to what we expect to see in the future: Corps, 593; officers, 2,071; local officers, 2,918. The following figures are for the month of September, 1895: Sunday attendance, 587,020; week night attendance, 881,731; War Cry sales, 237,791; souls saved, 3,604; saloons and dives visited, 4,657. The last figures of saloons and dives visited show only the work done by our slum officers.

I have often heard the question asked, in tones full of surprise and disapproval, "Do you mean to say that the Army allows young girls to go into saloons and dives to sell War Crys without a male escort to protect them?" Certainly we do, and I contend that if they are going in God's name with a pure and holy purpose, and feeling that they are undertaking the work at his command, they have a right to claim his presence and protection. All men, however bad, like to be treated as if they were worthy of trust. It has always been the Army's principle to go thus to the very worst, and it is surprising how it calls out their best traits of character. Of course, when considering this question, it should be also borne in mind that the Salvationist always goes about her work in full uniform. To send our young women into such places dressed in any other dress would be to court danger and insult, and we could blame no one but ourselves, as the men to whom they go would not know their mission. As it is, their dress speaks for itself and is a great protection.

The War Cry, our official gazette, is a most useful introduction for us into the saloons. Thousands and thousands of War Crys are sold every week in the saloons, and the selling of the paper makes a very good excuse for getting into the place. Why sell The War Cry? some would ask. Should it not be given away to these people? No; we have learned that to let them pay the 5 cents for it makes them value and read it, whereas a paper or tract given away is as often as not thrown aside. When it is remembered that The War Crys in the saloons are all sold, and that we have a very large circulation in this field alone, a statement which can be made about no other religious newspaper, it shows that the Salvation Army has been able to present religion to these people in a way that really interests them, and that they have accepted us, our literature and our methods as theirs. In the slum department of our work alone 498 meetings were held in saloons in six months, while 28,996 visits were paid in saloons and dives; 28,080 War Crys were sold, the larger number of these being sold in saloons. This represents the work of only between 30 and 40 women in seven cities. It should be remembered that we do not send out into this work women whose former lives have been lived in vice or squalor or degradation. They are girls from pure homes; girls as true and modest and refined in feeling as you can find anywhere; for it has always seemed to me that the greater the need, the darker the vice, the more carefully should we choose the purest instruments to go in and represent Christ and do his work.

And what of the result? To receive a hearty welcome, to obtain a large circulation for our paper among saloon patrons, to be kindly received by poor outcasts whom society calls lost and degraded is all very good and very cheering, but if there was nothing more to show for it the Army would be bitterly disappointed. I can, however, definitely state that from facts brought under my own observation, as well as reports from hundreds of my comrades, many clear cases of conversion and real transformations of life have resulted from this work, and that thousands, who otherwise never would have come to our meetings, or thought of going to a place of worship, have so had their interes. aroused that they have afterward become faithful attendants of our meetings, and later true, earnest soldiers of the cross.—Maud Ballington Booth in Church Standard.

AFTER PADEREWSKI.

Chicago University May Engage the Wonderful Musician.

Ignace Jan Paderewski is to be the guest of honor at a reception to be given March 13 by President Harper of the University of Chicago. President Harper is under suspicion of setting a trap for the man of the Leonine head. It is hinted he has designs on the magnetic digits of his guest for his prospective conservatory of music.

Efforts have been renewed at the university lately to complete the details for a musical department that shall eclipse anything of the kind in this country and rival similar schools in Europe. It is to be on a scale in keeping with all the other enterprises undertaken by the wonderful "Aladdin of Chicago." The plans as discussed thus far contemplate a musical temple, to cost $500,000 or more.

Dr. Harper is said to have his hungry eyes already on several noted leaders in the art musical. And so, whether Paderewski suspects the trap or refuses to play in the presence of the masters of academic music, he may take this as a quiet tip that there is a golden opportunity to win the everlasting loyalty of Chicago.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

CLEVELAND ROW---13-30-7.

Washington Policy Players Have Faith In Duck Hunting Numbers.

The sun was just sinking in the west when one of Washington's sporty colored citizens crossed the Long bridge and entered a policy shop in Jackson City. That he was in hard luck was apparent. But with a dime in his hand he approached the manager of the peculiar gambling place.

"I plays dat on de Cleveland row," he said.

"The Cleveland row! Why, I don't know that row. What's the number?"

"Why, everybody knows 'em. Dey is 13-30-7."

"How do you make that out?"

"Why, dose numbers dey represent de ducks what de president done shot on his last t'ree trips. Now, last night I done have a dream, and I dreamed of de president shooting ducks t'ree times, and den I dream of gold bonds a-comin from everywhere, and ef dat doan' mean play de Cleveland row and change your luck, I doan' know nothin 'bout de policy business."—Washington Post.

Talbert's Platform.

Representative Talbert of South Carolina says this is the platform he runs on in his district, and the consequence is that he never has opposition: "Be good to the poor, friendly to the rich, true to the Democrats, fair to the Republicans and always lean to the Populists." Talbert has had several oratorical scrapping matches recently, but manages to hold his own.—Washington Star.

Keith's New Theatre, Boston.

Next week the most famous pantomime troupe in the world, Paul Martinetti's, is the leading attraction, at Keiths and will be sure to draw big houses. There is the usual long list of other special features, including that beautiful and accomplished Italian girl, Signorina Giacinta Della Rocca, the violiniste who created such a sensation on her first appearance a few weeks since; McIntyre and Heath, the greatest negro character actors in the world; Hilda Thomas, the accomplished character vocalist, and Helena Mora, the wonderful baritone singer, who has been listened to with wonder and acclaim by this week's attendants.

Castle Square Theatre.

Another splendid endorsement of the Castle Square theatre, this time from the Christian Register, is given as follows: "Managers have been discouraged by finding some of the best plays, morally and intellectually considered, have been a failure. The enterprising manager of Casile Square theatre in Boston has tried this winter a commendable experiment. He has introduced lighter and popular operas at popular prices. As the result, he has had crowded houses, the whole theatre sold out sometimes a week in advance.

Next week, Washington Irving's charming legend of "Rip Van Winkle," set to Planquette's sympathetic music which enhances the auditors interest in this pathetic and humorous story of the Kaatskills, will be introduced for one week only, with Mr. William Wolff as the village vagabond Rip, one of the most striking and realistic characters he has ever undertaken.

The Massachusetts Stands Without a Rival.

America Now Has the Two Finest Ironclads In the World.

Boston, April 27.—During at least 3h. 50m. 23s., by the watches of a special United States government naval trial board, the Cramp Ship building company's new 10,000-ton battleship Massachusetts cut through the sea Saturday at the average rate of 16.15 knots an hour. This trial proved her to be, as Edwin S. Cramp announced aboard, "Absolutely unrivalled among the ironclads of the world."

With the acting governor of Massachusetts and 100 distinguished naval officers and citizen guests on her clean, stiff back, she raced to beat the calculations of all but her doughty engineer, and won with magnificent ease, snatching on her course the government merit award of $100,000, and heralding to all the navies the glory of her name.

Under a clear summer sky she plowed through an easy ground swell on her course of 31 nautical miles, 10 degrees north and 15 minutes east, at an average speed of 16.04 knots, then turned so gracefully that she deceived many men between decks, and rushed for home at an average speed of 16.26 knots.

Revenue cutter Dallas, anchored off Cape Ann, marked the starting line. The run to this point was made in fine time, and at 9:51:48 the Massachusetts tore by the cutter, and the trial had commenced. The course lay from off Cape Ann to Boone island light, 31 knots, divided by can buoys into five legs of 6 1-5 knots each, each buoy marked by a vessel.

The run down to buoy two, marked by the ram Kathadin, was made just on contract figures, 15 knots, and as there was scarcely any evidences of forced power the most sanguine of predictions were made. Down in the bowels of the vessel the half-naked stokers were getting the fires into their fiercest condition.

To the third buoy the speed was clean cut, and while the prow cut the water as neat as a knife, there was no wake astern to give an idea of the displacement made by the enormous mass of steel being forced through the water.

To the fourth buoy, and the tug Irwana, the speed fell off 3-10ths of a knot, and on the fifth leg there was still a decrease, a record of 15.4 knots to the United States revenue cutter, R. C. Woodbury.

It was to the finish line on the northward run that the phenomenal speed was developed, that of 17.3 knots in 21m. 31s., sending up the average speed for the five legs to 16.04 knots. The finish line was marked by the dispatch boat Fern, and it was hardly left astern when, as during the preliminary trial, the helm was put hard over, and at full speed the battleship swung around in a circle of small diameter and was off on her return over the course almost before those on board, not at posts of duty, realized that she was pointed for home and a prize. The entire run to the finish line was made in better time by .22 of a knot an hour.

The finish line was crossed at 1:57:35, after elapsed time of 3h. 50m. 23s. for the run. When the siren whistle of the Massachusetts announced that the trial was ended, the Stars and Stripes, broken out at the mast-head, was quickly joined by a new broom, and cheer after cheer for the Massachusetts and her builders was the evidence of long pent up excitement and enthusiasm. The trial run was the finest and most successful ever held by the Cramps.

The Masachusetts' speed materially slackened, but yet running fast enough to leave in her wake the tugs and pleasure steamers. She was headed for Boston light, below which, at 3:45, she came to anchor to await a flood tide, on which she came to her former anchorage.

Edwin S. Cramp, in an interview after the result had been announced, said: "The trial today makes the Massachusetts and consequently the Indiana class absolutely unrivalled among the ironclads of the world. It was already conceded that her offensive and defensive qualities were superior to all others, and it only needed this trial to prove that she can carry these powers into action at speed greater than any of her rivals.

"The speed of the foreign battleships where 17 knots is claimed has been obtained under short measured miles conditions. On this trip, for 6.2 knots, a speed of 17.3 knots was sustained, and unquestionably much greater speed was made over single miles.

"The average speed of 16.15 knots, practically for five hours, shows beyond question the ability of sustaining a greater speed for long periods. There is no doubt that the Indiana will go equally well with a clean bottom, for when she had been tried she had been overboard for 18 months without being docked.

"In every respect the entire performance is without equal. Not a dip or a wake, not a leaking point, nor tube or rivet anywhere, and after the severe ordeals, at once ready for a trip around the world if it should be required.

"The maximum number of revolutions was 133 a minute; and the exertions of everyone, from the firemen to the engineers, deserve unstinted praise. To obtain such great results, the workmanship must be superb, and go hand in hand with the excellence of the design, which is certainly the best produced by the bureau of steam engineering."

Beloved by Lowell Folks.

Lowell, Mass., April 27.—The public memorial services to the memory of the late Governor Greenhalge were held in Huntington hall yesterday. Every grade of society, every party and every circle in business were represented, and the great audience showed the deepest interest in the services. Eric Greenhalge, son of the late governor, and a number of relatives occupied the boxes, which were draped in black. The platform was draped with flags and screened with ferns. Mayor Courtney presided. Rev. Dr. J. M. Greene offered prayer, the High-street church quartet sang and a eulogy was eloquently delivered by Judge George F. Lawson.

May Be a Strike.

Boston, April 27.—At the meeting of the Building Trades Council yesterday delegates from the Cement and Asphalt Workers' union decided to ask the master builders to sign an agreement to employ only union men, and pay from $2 to $4 for a nine-hour day, and to employ only union men. The endorsement of the Building Trades Council means that, should the masters refuse to sign the agreement, and the union decide to strike, all the building trades in the city and vicinity affiliated with the Building Trades Council will lend their assistance to the union to further the demands made.

Found Dead In a Field.

Worcester, Mass., April 27.—Elijah Wheaton, 76 years of age, who went out to pick cowslips, Saturday afternoon, was found dead in a field near Lake Quinsigamond yesterday afternoon by a searching party. Evidence showed that he stumbled and fell, and was suffocated.

The body of Mrs. Marshall of Belfast, Me., wife of State Assessor Marshall, was found suspended from a beam in a barn. It is supposed she committed suicide during a fit of temporary insanity.

Tremont Temple Baptist church of Boston sent the following message to Rev. Alberto Diaz, Habana: "Tremont Temple sends confidence and sympathy, and a hearty welcome awaits you on your arrival in Boston."

Signs of Civilization.

Pekin, April 27.—An imperial edict authorizes the building of a railroad from Pekin to Han-Kow. This is to be a grand trunk line, and the emperor says that, as the distance is great and the cost immense, he grants the privilege of constructing it to wealthy men in the various provinces who can show a capital of at least 10,000,000 taels. Government officials are ordered not to interfere with the gains or losses of the company, and the promoters are promised tokens of imperial approbation if they are successful. The edict is addressed not only to people in the capitol, the provinces, and other dependencies of the empire, but also to "our people laboring in other lands."

A Difficult Task.

Paris, April 27.—M. Sarrion, minister of the interior in the retiring Bourgeois cabinet, who had been summoned by President Faure to form a ministry, has finally informed President Faure that he finds himself unable to form a conciliation cabinet. M. Sarrion's plan was to form a cabinet containing representatives of different political groups, in the hope of thus securing united support for the government in the chamber of deputies. It is believed that President Faure will urge Sarrion to make another effort to form a cabinet.

A Disappointing Census.

Chicago, April 27,—The school census will show that Chicago has only a trifle over 1,500,000 population, instead of between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000, as has been confidently claimed. The work is practically completed, and the dissapointing truth has been established. What actual population will be shown, of course, is not yet known, but it will not be far from that given.

Safe and Sound.

Constantinople, April 27.—Rev. George P. Knapp, the American missionary who was recently expelled from Bitlis by the Turkish authorities, has been handed over, in good health, to the United States consul at Alexandretta.

Arbor Day in Quincy.

A few years ago, the Village Improvement Society under the presidency of Dr. Gordon, started an Arbor day here. Much was done on this day for a few years, then the "fountain work" superseded it, until soon no Arbor day was observed, at least outwardly. Is there no young blood to take up what was so well begun. A stranger getting out at the centre station observed lately that Quincy was an ugly, unattractive place. The big fountain looks useful but out of place in its bare surroundings. It seems as if there ought to be public spirit sufficient to take advantage of the means at our disposal, to make all the available space there, beautiful to the eye. Conversing with an ex-Mayor in relation to this needful beautifying around the church and the square, we said "surely the parish and the city can agree to do this together, irrespective of whichever owns the land." "So you would run a city on brotherly love principles, would you?" "Yes," we answered, "only on this principle, can any place flourish." So on the principle that the general good should be individual's good, can a place grow to its best estate. The finer the externals of a place are, the better is the influence upon the citizens individually. Restore Arbor day and village improvement and take up the question of beautifying the Square.

QUINCY'S RANK.

First in Norfolk County and Twenty-Second in State.

From 12,145 to 20,712--A Gain of of Over 70 Per Cent.

But Two Cities Have Made Larger Per Cent. of Gain in Ten Years.

Quincy ranks first in population in Norfolk county, without a near rival, as will be seen by the summary of the county below. The rank in the State is also given, and Quincy is 22, against 25 in 1890, 27 in 1885, 29 in 1880 and 31 in 1875. Thus it will be seen that the city is not only growing rapidly, but is passing others in the race and taking a foremost position.

* Change of boundary or new town.
† Loss in population.

There are fifty smaller towns in the State than Dover. New Ashford in Berkshire county, with but 116, is the smallest.

A comparison of the new cities will be of interest. Since 1885 nine towns have been incorporated as cities. In 1885 one of these was larger than Quincy, but this city is first in the group now, and promises to remain although it may be an exciting contest for supremacy, particularly with Everett. The population of the new cities in 1885 and 1895 is given :

Cities.	1885.	1895.
Beverly,	9,186	11,806
Chicopee,	11,516	16,420
Everett,	5,825	18,573
Marlborough,	10,941	14,977
Medford,	9,042	14,474

Pittsfield,	14,466	20,461
Quincy,	12,145	20,712
Woburn,	11,750	14,178

Quincy's population is but 164 less than Waltham. As our per cent. of gain is much larger, the "City of Presidents" may expect to pass the "Watch City" before 1900.

Quincy is an exception to the rule as to the relative number of males and females. While the state and county have more females, our city has more males, and during the ten years from 1885 to 1895 the difference has increased.

Prize Reading.

The prizes at the Braintree high school prize reading contest on Saturday evening were awarded as follows: For girls, Miss Edith F. Baker, first; Miss Eva M. Snow, second. For boys, Arthur D. Dyer, first; Herbert F. Palmer, second. Miss Small of the Woodard institute was one of the judges.

There were 1171 applications for membership in the League of American Wheelmen for the week ending April 20, and 1451 the week before, making a total membership of 36,554 Massachusetts sent in 134, making a total of 4998, against New York's 11,871, and Quincy, a lone one, the first for a long time. Quincy wheelmen evidently are not joiners.

Among the incorporators of the Massachusetts Maritime Canal company, to construct a canal across Cape Cod by the Buzzards Bay route are Mr. Wendell G. Corthell and his brother, Mr. Elmer L. Corthell. The capital stock of the new corporation is to be $6,000,000. A deposit of $200,000, is called for before Dec. 1, 1896.

TODAY'S COURT.

Fred L. Binney was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Marshall Griffin was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

George Healey was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John Bowen was arraigned for being a tramp at Milton and was sent to the State farm at Bridgewater for 6 months.

George Helfiety was arraigned for keeping a common nuisance at Holbrook and was fined $50.

John J. Gavin of Weymouth was arraigned for non-support of his wife. Case continued until Tuesday.

S. August Ross, John Keefe and Joseph Burke, the three men who were last seen with William F. Gilligan whose dead body was found Friday near the Weymouth Town House, were brought into court Saturday and held in $100 each as witnesses at the inquest to be held Wednesday. In default they were committed.

Patrick Mitchell, Robert Graham and Nicholas Wherrity of Cohasset who were before the court Saturday for cruelly overdriving a horse at Cohasset, thereby causing his death were fined $30 each which they paid.

Golf Club Notes.

At a meeting of the Wollaston Golf club, which was held at the links on Saturday afternoon, the proposed amendment to the by-laws making the admission fee $5, the assessment $3, and the reserve fund $200, was adoped.

The management of the club has in contemplation the building this summer of a club-house near the No. 1 tee, 30 feet by 12 feet, costing about $400. The house will be attractive in design, having a piazza ten feet wide on the front, and will contain 100 lockers, two dressing rooms and a good sized locker room.

The officers have had the grounds put in thorough order this spring at an expense of upwards of $150. The club has taken a lease of Bellevue Park for one year with the privilege of renewal for five years, at the rate of $500 per annum.

Rev. Mr. Lynch, who is supplying the desk at Christ's church, gave a most helpful and acceptable sermon Sunday night, one that would find response in every earnest heart. An old familiar theme in the new dress, always has weight, and reading the parable in which obedience is the subject, the speaker reversed the old method of preaching, saying, in substance, if the obedience becomes an act, a habit in spite of whatever is present to draw off the inclination, then after the act of obedience is accomplished; faith sets in. He did not say have faith, then obey, but obey first, after the obedience of childhood, comes a better one, a dedication of service, then God's will has been done and reason comes to the mind. Such sermons are especially needed now and the young preacher's method showed a change in liberal views from old accepted ideas.

Sudden Illness.

Mr. Horace O. Souther lies seriously ill at his home on Washington street. He had not been feeling quite right for a week. Sunday afternoon he went out for a little ride and upon his return he was seized with a dizziness while in his stable and fell against the wheel of his carriage, cutting himself over the eye. He was carried into the house and a physician summoned. Mr. Souther has been in a semi-conscious state ever since, and the attending physician says he cannot tell just what the trouble is until this afternoon.

Wollaston lodge turned out with forty members and John Hancock lodge with thirty.

"Eulargement" was the subject of Rev. Preston Gurney at the Wollaston Baptist Society discourse on Sunday morning, the text being found in Isa. 54:2. Mr. Gurney said that not to improve opportunities as they were offered, was an unpardonable wrong. If one's creed was not large enough to love our brothers here and abroad, or too narrow to permit benevolence to all, then stretch it.

South Quincy Literary Club.

At the weekly meeting of the South Quincy Literary club, Friday evening April 24, "Adam Smith" and the "Wealth of Nations" were the subjects discussed.

Mr. James McAdam opened with an account of the life and work of the great economist. "The wealth of Nations," said Mr. McAdam, may be considered the foundation of the science of political-economy, all previous attempts at explaining the nature of wealth and the laws of production and distribution were crude and confused as compared with the profound knowledge and masterly reasoning found in the Wealth of Nation. Social and commercial relations have changed somewhat, since the time of Smith invalidating a few of his minor observations, but the main part of the argument is as applicable today as it was when first printed.

A lively discussion followed. Many of the members doubted the authority of Smith on a subject he had no practical knowledge of. A few, however, inclined to accept the teachings as sound and practical and were willing to defend the principles of unrestricted commercial relations between nations, as against the idea of limitation.

Friday evening, May 1st, a debate on "Free trade vs. Protection" will be lead by A. M. Craig for the former and Mr. A. Grassick for she later.

Pay of Letter Carriers.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to establish the pay of letter carriers in cities of less than 75,000 population, as follows: first year, $600; second year, $800; third year and thereafter, $1000; and for cities of more than 75,000 population, fouth year and thereafter, $1200.

The following, from an official report made to Congress in favor of the bill, we regard as one of the loftiest tributes ever paid to efficiency in the government service—and it is just as applicable to the Quincy carriers as to their comrades all over the country.

"It will be noticed that the number of pieces of mail handled by carriers during the last fiscal year was 3,085,805,540, an increase over the preceding year of 454,943,782. Notwithstanding this almost fabulous result, it is proper to state that the complaints which reach this office on account of misdelivery of mail, delay in delivery, delivery to wrong address and other errors of the carrier will not exceed 300 per year."

Statue Permanently Stained.

One Saturday night some unknown person entered the monumental yard of Angelo Malnati on Liberty street and very mischievously dirted and stained a granite statue and the office door. Considerable damage resulted as the stain cannot be removed from the fine carved surface of the statue. Mr. Malnati reported it to the police at nine o'clock Sunday morning and complains because at the same hour today no one had come to at least see what had been done.

—But two school buildings now in use in Boston are older in point of service than the Quincy erected in 1847—the Eliot of 1838 and the Brimmer of 1843.

Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

"I want to express my gratitude for what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. My health has been very poor for three years, due to trouble with my

I was nervous, had pains in my back. I cannot tell what I suffered. My eyesight became affected and I was so despondent I did not have any interest in life. I had two physicians, but my complaints became worse. I was told that I was affected with Bright's disease. A relative urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and in a short time I began to notice a change in my condition. Things began to appear brighter, my eyes improved and

EIGHTEEN TO NINE.

Adams Academy Scores a Grand Victory over Hopkinson School.

The game between Adams Academy and Hopkinson school at Merrymount park on Saturday was a gratifying one to supporters of the home nine. For the first half of the game it was hard to tell which way the victory would go. It was anybody's game. At the critical time, however, when the score was tied, the Adams boys pulled together and did some good batting and base running, and so added ten runs to their score. Cool and careful fielding and a certain element of good fortune kept the Hopkinson score during the same innings, down to one run.

The battery work of Eldridge and Manning deserves special mention. Eldridge has a more puzzling delivery this year than ever. Remarks were heard on all sides to that effect. It is extremely difficult to tell whether he is going to throw the ball to a base or pitch it.

Manning made an excellent putout at the plate from a low thrown ball from third. Nichols the new second base man showed that he could be depended on thoroughly. Taylor, another new man, made an excellent catch at left field and did some good stick work. Holden had some poor throws to gather in at first. He played his position well, except for an unfortunate muff of a fly. The whole nine played together well and batted freely. The outlook is encouraging.

For the visitors Hallowell caught a good game. The centre field was weak on fly balls, and to an error here, are attributed three of the runs made by Adams. The shortstop work of Dickson was excellent, as was also the first base play of Hayes, who was on the Belmont team last year. Canterbury had a clean record at third. Hallowell and Dickson did the best batting for Hopkinson.

Adams played Milton at the Park on Wednesday.

Below is the score of Saturday's game:

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Manager Charles F. Atkinson of the Bowdoin Square Theatre offers a genuine novelty to the theatre going, theatre loving people of Boston and vicinity this week, in the first performance in this city of the drama of "Carmen," with the talented actress, Elita Proctor Otis, in the title role. The evening promises to be a prominent event in the dramatic life of the city for the year, and a great and fashionable audience is assured. "Carmen" in operatic and burlesque form has been seen in Boston, but strange to say, never in the dramatic form to which its story is admirably suited. The plot probably follows closely to that of Bizet's opera.

STONECUTTERS OUT.

The Employes of Craig & Richards Co. Strike for Pay.

The seventy stone cutters employed by the Craig & Richards Granite Co. left work this morning because they had not been paid for the month of March.

By the agreement between the cutters and manufactures the men must be paid on the fifteenth of every month. April 15, the firm being unable to pay, time was asked, and the men gave them a week. At the expiration of the week the firm still being unable to pay the men, further time was again asked, and the firm were given until last Saturday night. This morning no money being forthcoming the men quit work.

No long siege of trouble is anticipated and the matter will probably be adjusted today.

A member of the firm when asked this morning about the trouble, said that there had been a misunderstanding between the cutters and the firm. That all the men, excepting about half a dozen, had been paid but as none could work unless all were paid, the cutters did not go to work this morning but everything would be settled satisfactorily today and that all would return to work tomorrow morning.

BLACKS MOWED DOWN

In a Hot Engagement to Preserve the Defenses of Buluwayo.

Rapid Fire Guns Wrought Terrible Havoc.

Neighboring River Dyed Crimson With the Blood of the Slain.

Cape Town, April 27.—Saturday's fight near Buluwayo was visible from the town, and was the most determined that has yet occurred. It caused great excitement. The Matabeles evidently intended to crush the whites, and to attack the town. The whites were equally as determined to break them.

A body of 500 Matabeles came within half a mile of the town and cut off the pickets, killing two. Maxim guns were placed upon the roofs of the buildings to play upon them. The fighting was desperate, and the enemy retired in disorder, among an incesant rifle fire.

Captain McFarlane and Administrator Duncan, who assisted in the fight, complimented the troops, who were greeted with wild cheers and the singing of "God Save the Queen," while returning to Buluwayo.

The news of Saturday's events in Buluwayo show that the Matabeles are displaying great boldness and energy in the pursuit of their purpose to surround that town completely and cut off all communication with the outside world.

On Saturday morning it was found that the hostile forces of natives had surrounded the town on the north, east and west, their ranks being much too close to the town to allow of any freedom of action by those within it. Their lines were being energetically extended in both directions, and threatened to close in on the south and cut off communication with Mangwe and Mafeking, along which the expected re-enforcements and supplies of provisions are coming. The pickets of the enemy were found to be in no case beyond four miles distant from the Buluwayo lines, and they were giving lively evidence of their improved knowledge of military strategy over that displayed in the war with Lobengula, by the way they were throwing up rude fortifications and earthwork protections, behind which the native warriors could resist the charge of the whites. They threatened thus to work an approach to the town which was speedily putting the place in jeopardy.

Immediate steps were perceived to be necessary to dislodge the lines of the enemy and drive them back. A column for attack was hastily formed, consisting of 100 whites, 100 Cape "boys" and 100 natives. They were supplied with one Maxim and one Hotchkiss rapid-fire gun and were placed in command of Captain MacFarlane. They were speedily ready for an offensive movement, and thus commanded and equipped they sallied forth from the Buluwayo defenses at 7 o'clock on Saturday morning.

They took a direction northeasterly from the town, in the direction of the Umguza river. They had proceeded only about five miles on this course, advancing cautiously with scouts in advance and outriders on each side, when the enemy opened the attack. The Matabele force numbered not less than 3000, and their attack was eager and well directed.

Hundreds Against Thousands.

The column from Buluwayo was just crossing a small stream, a tributary of the Umguza, when the attack opened. The overwhelming odds, 10 to 1, hurled upon the little column, drove it back by mere weight of numbers, and the advance parties were glad to retreat in haste across the stream. This retrograde movement was, however, effected in good order and fighting as they went, thus drawing the enemy across the river. The Matabeles advanced upon the little band of warriors in formidable array, their line extended in a crescent formation, the horns of the crescent advanced to the front, creeping and writhing like a treacherous serpent seeking to enclose its prey and surround it in its deadly coils.

The long straggling line extended over a distance of three miles, withwide intervals between the men in the line, except in the parts where they closed in in expectation of a hand-to hand conflict. Many came on, brandishing their assegais and shields and giving forth fierce yells in true savage fashion.

As the howling savages closed in on the column, they afforded an excellent target for the sweeping discharge of the rapid-fire guns. The engagament which ensued was a hot and desperate one, and dark leaping bodies seemed to spring up as fast as they were mowed down. The Buluwayo force kept the river in their immediate front. The firearms did heavy execution among the hostile natives as they rushed up the opposite bank. This only partly checked their fierce onslaught, and many gained the side on which the whites stood. These were charged by the troops and cut down or driven back into the stream.

When the Matabeles in front were finally driven back, they were seen to have sustained a heavy loss. The little river was dyed a dark crimson with the blood of the victims of the maxim gun. One observer counted 40, dead, lying in a small circuit close to the column.

The whites had been hotly engaged in front, and when they succeeded in repulsing the attack there, they found more work still waiting for them. The advanced ends of the enemy's line had got up on their flanks and they found squads of howling black men in their rear when they turned their attention in that direction. This came near proving a greater peril than the onslaught in the front, but it was luckily deferred until the first attack had been repulsed and the forces of the Matabeles weakened there.

But for the open nature of the ground toward Buluwayo the encircling tactics of the enemy would certainly have succeeded against the small force opposed to them. As it was, it was possible to perceive their movements and move accordingly, and the open ground gave free play for the Maxim, which was employed also in that direction with deadly effect. The losses sustained by the whites were three men killed and several wounded, the exact number not being stated. The rapid-fire gun is thought to have the day for the whites beyond question. The loss they sustained in view of the forces of the attacking party, and the fact that they were actually outflanked, is considered small, and the whites are considered lucky to have come off so well. They retired upon the conclusion of the fight, but they were in possession of the field when they did so.

Although the attacking party came off without any very heavy losses, they did not drive the Matabeles, but simply repulsed their attack. The hostile lines are practically as near to Buluwayo as ever, and it is certain that only a part of the Matabeles who are beleaguering Buluwayo were engaged in Saturday's fight. It is not clear that the sortie has been effectual in preventing the advance of the Matabeles to the south of Buluwayo, which is the outcome most feared.

The uneasiness regarding the situation in the hard-pressed settlement is unabated, and about the only agreeable factor is that telegraphic communication with Buluwayo is still open. The administrator there announces that the town still has provisions for 20 days. The supplies on their way from Mafeking are expected to arrive before that period expires.

But their arrival at all depends upon many contengencies. It is very much feared that the relief column may be attacked. If the supplies were not captured in such a case they would certainly be delayed. The same thing would happen if the line of communication were cut and some point on it strongly held. The best speed the relief column can make without hostile obstruction will not bring it to Buluwayo until it is urgently needed.

The administrator in Buluwayo is doing all in his power to increase his stock and to provide against contingency of delay of relief from Mafeking. He has ordered that all pasenger service be stopped to enable the coaches from the south to be used for bringing in the available supplies of meal. It is said, also, that an arrangement has been made with a friendly chief for further supplies, and these, it is hoped, will tide over the needs of the community until they are better provided for.

An official dispatch forwarded here from Mafeking reports that up to the present time all is well with the relief column.

Hot Politics In Denver.

Waterloo, Ia., April 27. — The gold standard people won a victory in the home county of ex-Governor Boies Saturday. They out-numbered the silver Boies men three to two. The convention was characterized by the wildest scenes. In the outset the Cleveland men captured the convention. Just as the organization was perfected Chairman Scott of the central committee entered the hall, ignored the proceedings and called another convention. Thus the conventions proceded in the same hall simultaneously, each howling the other down. The disturbance continued for more than an hour. The Cleveland men summoned Sheriff Law, and Marshal Klingman was brought on the scene by the white metal men. No arrests were made. Each convention adopted resolutions on the money question, the differences being as great as possible.

A Kansas Cyclone.

Topeka, April 27.—Five persons, at least, were killed outright, three fatally and 17 more or less injured, and great destruction of property was wrought, by a cyclone which passed over Clay county Saturday night. Its track varied from 150 yards to a quarter of a mile in width. It tore through a farming community and left nothing standing. The cyclone was followed by a terrific rainstorm, which lasted several hours, flooding the devastated district. The victims were in their houses, and the most of them had retired. A large number of cattle and horses were killed, and fruit in the storm's track was ruined. It is impossible at this time to estimate the damage. Many of the injured remained all night pinned down by wreckage. In several instances, people were lifted into the air by the cyclone and carried for a long distance.

Dygert's Story.

Tampa, Fla., April 27.—W. G. Dygert of Greenwood, Ills., arrived here yesterday afternoon from Cuba, where he has just been released from prison. He has been confined two months. The only charge against him was that Spanish soldiers found an old Sharpe gun near the place where he was arrested. It was very ancient make, and no cartridges are now made to fit its very large caliber. He was given several so-called examinations. Permission to write to friends, or the United States consul, was refused. He bribed a guard to report his case to the American consul. Dygert says that during the time he was in prison he was confined in a room about 16x18 feet. Thirty-two other prisoners were in the same room. The drinking water kept him sick a great deal of the time.

Bound For Cuba.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 27. — Steamship Bermuda arrived in port at 6 o'clock last night and anchored in mid-stream directly off the Clyde dock. Tugs having a covered barge in tow loaded with arms and ammunition at once put out for the steamer. The barge was taken to the far side of the steamer and concealed from view from the city. Hoisting machinery was at once set to work unloading boxes from the barge to the Bermuda. This was completed about 11 o'clock. Six large lifeboats, capable of holding 50 men each, which arrived a short time ago from New York, were also put aboard the Bermuda. In the meantime the Cubans in the city took about 50 Cubans to the docks, where they were transported in naphtha launches and rowboats to the steamer.

Mexican Mine Disaster.

El Paso, Tex., April 27. — Governor Ahumada is at the scene of the catastrophe at the Santa Eulalia mines, near Chihuahua, Mexico. It appears that 85 men were working in the mine when it caved in, burying alive 67 of the men, all Mexicans. Thirty-seven men have been recovered, 10 dead, 7 dying and 20 fatally hurt. Thirty are still in the ruins, with no hope of recovering them alive.

Fresh Outbreak Feared.

Constantinople, April 27.—Two hundred leading Armenians have been arrested at Moush, and the embassies fear an outbreak of new troubles at Sassoun.

Youngster Badly Hurt.

Boston, April 27.—Jacob Benjamin, a watchman at an unfinished building on Brighton street, is held by the police to wait the result of an injury to 8-year-old Joseph Bennett of Barton court. Several children were playing about the yard, disturbing Benjamin, and he tried to quiet them by throwing missiles. A piece of brick, which it is claimed he threw, struck the Bennett boy on the head, causing a compound fracture of the skull.

Nearly Killed In a Riot.

Manchester, N. H., April 27.—At Lake Massabesic, at 10 o'clock last night, there was a riot, in which some 15 or 20 drunken hoodlums participated. Frank Stevens was knocked out and nearly killed, and a bystander was stabbed in the face. An insult to a woman led up to the affray. No arrests were made.

Pastor Fuller Didn't Preach.

Malden, Mass., April 27.—Rev. S. R. Fuller, pastor of the Episcopal church here, against whom charges have been made on account of marrying after being divorced, did not occupy the pulpit yesterday, his place being filled by an out-of-town minister. The decision in the case, to be given by Bishop Lawrence, is awaited with much interest.

KNOWS HIS BUSINESS.

Kruger Does Not Intend to Get Caught In Any Diplomatic Trap.

Will Make No Visit to England at Present.

London Telegraph Sees an Ultimate British South African Republic.

London, April 27.—A dispatch to The Times from Pretoria says: President Kruger's reply to Mr. Chamberlain will be published shortly. I understand that it is a diplomatic masterpiece. I believe the contents are as follows:

"The Transvaal government objects to the discussion of reforms on the ground that England admittedly cannot interfere with internal affairs. At the same time, private suggestions from the British government will always receive consideration.

"If the revision of the London convention and the superceding of it by a treaty of amity and commerce containing a most favored nation clause cannot be discussed unless the alleged grievances of the Uitlanders are also discussed, the Transvaal government prefers to leave the matter in status quo, and will limit its demands to an indemnity for the Jamison raid.

"The residents point to the necessity of Kruger's presence at the meeting of the volksraad as an objection to his visiting England, and suggests that matters should not be pressed now. England can, however, he says, still facilitate the visit by accepting the basis of decision which the president has already proposed. He frankly admits that his administration is improvable, and that the government is not always in the right, but he takes objection to the offer of a guarantee against foreign attack. This was never asked, he says, and article four of the convention was unnecessary for that purpose.

"He emphasizes the view that with patience and forebearance both sides to the difficulty may yet be overcome. He expresses the hope that wounded feelings will be healed and friendly relations restored."

The Times, commenting in an editorial upon President Kruger's reply, suggest that England can also leave matters as they are, including the indemnity, which must be claimed, if at all, from the Chartered South African company.

The Daily Telegraph has a Pretoria dispatch, which says: It is reported that an arrangement has been arrived at by which the rank and file of the national reform committee will pay a nominal fee. The leaders will receive a severer penalty, but it will not go beyond a heavy fine and a term in prison.

The Telegraph says in an editorial: It will not make any difference whether President Kruger comes or not. It is the Boers' loss, not ours. President Kruger knows that the real effect of the Transvaal trouble will be to make, sooner or later, a British South African empire, having no more contented and prosperous subjects than the Dutch.

A Pugilistic Editor.

Memphis, April 27.—At a silver rally Saturday night quite a sensation was precipitated by a fight on the stage between Editor Carmack of The Commercial Appeal and Attorney General Patterson. Mr. Carmack had just finished a speech in which he said that all the gambling saloons and illicit liquor selling element was banded together against the cause of silver. Mr. Patterson walked on the platform, and the crowd would not hear him until Mr. Carmack had appealed for fair play. After a few remarks Mr. Patterson said that any man that said he was in league with the gambling element said what was infamously false. These words were not out of his mouth before Mr. Carmack jumped at him and struck one blow on the cheek of the attorney general. The crowd and the police interfered and prevented further trouble.

A Self-Confessed Murderer.

Waupon. Wis., April 27. — Minnie Allen, a convict, 30 years old, serving two years for burglary, has confessed that on the night of April 26, 1894, at Buffalo, she shot and killed Montgomery Gibbs, a lawyer. She claims that Gibbs had promised to marry her, but afterward refused, and she shot him three times. She says she makes the confession to clear Clarence Robinson and wife, who are serving life sentences for the murder. She says that at the expiration of her sentence she will go to Buffalo and plead guilty to the charge of murder. She will be released in a few weeks.

Murderers Lynched.

Nashville, April 27.—Early yesterday morning a mob of armed men, about 15 in number, entered the jail at McMinnville, dragged the jailer from his bed and forced him to give up the cell keys. William and Victor Hillis were taken from the jail, carried on horseback five miles from McMinnville, and both were hanged. The mob came from Van Buren county, where the lynched men lived. The prisoners murdered, in 1894, in Van Buren county, Carrol Martin at his home, the purpose being robbery.

A Million Dollar Fire.

Cripple Creek, Colo., April 27.—An angry courtesan threw a lamp at her lover Saturday afternoon, and $1,000,000 worth of property was destroyed in three hours. The lamp hit the stove, igniting and setting fire to the furniture. In a few minutes the building was in flames, and in a very short time the adjoining buildings had caught, despite the efforts of the fire department.

Osman's Forces Badly Off.

Suakin, April 27.—Soudanese deserters who have arrived here report that there is demoralization, sickness and famine in the Dervish camp at Horasab. Osman Digna, with all his followers, has therefore retired, it is supposed, to Adarama.

Eva Is Going Home.

New York, April 27.—At the Salvation Army headquarters last night Miss Eva Booth took her farewell of the army in this country. She addressed the Salvation Army, but made no reference to the recent trouble.

Killed by a Robber.

Brussels, April 27. — Baroness Herry, 80 years of age, was strangled and her body mutilated and her house then robbed at Ixelles, a fashionable suburb, on Saturday night. The murderer escaped.

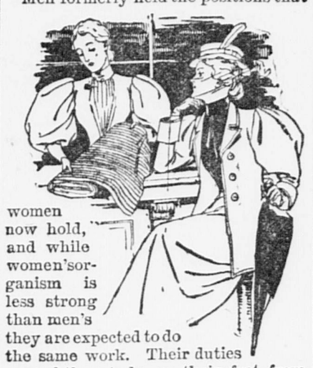

TIRED SALESWOMEN.

Employers Should Be More Considerate of Their Health.

Interesting Statement by a Young Lady in Brooklyn.

In the vast retail establishments of large cities, many women are employed as saleswomen.

Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's organism is less strong than men's they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract these distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhœa, general debility and nervous prostration.

They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness.

In such cases there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. The following is a sample:

"My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—After writing you, and before your answer came, I was too miserable to go to the store, and so lost my position. That was five weeks ago. I am now back again in my old place, and never felt so well in all my life. The bearing-down pains and whites have left me, and I am not a bit nervous or blue. Life looks brighter to me. I don't get tired, my temper is real sweet, and I could scream right out sometimes for joy.

Your Vegetable Compound is my standby. You don't know how thankful I am to you for saving me from suffering. Every woman in my position should know of your wonderful remedy. I never saw you, but I love you for being so good to me."—EDITH——W. 6th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y

RUSSELL'S ATTITUDE.

New York, April 27.—The World today prints the following signed statement of ex-Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts, in response to a question from one of its staff correspondents:

"I am greatly surprised to hear that the action of the Massachusets convention has attracted any special attention outside the state. While I greatly appreciate the compliment of an endorsement by my state, I am not seeking the nomination, nor am I desirous of being the candidate, nor do I wish any movement made in any state in my interest.

"On the contrary, I have already earnestly requested that no such movement be made in any other state by friends of mine. My belief is that it is all important that when the Chicago convention meets, its delegates should be absolutely free to deliberate and act clear of all instructions or pledges of even expressed preferences—at least so far as I am concerned. I do not know that any movement personal to me is contemplated. If it is, I request and insist that it should not be made.

"It seems to me that our party should send its strongest men to Chicago and leave it to their good judgment, in view of the situation, as it then appears, to determine what is best to be done. It will be time enough to consider candidates then.

"The important thing now is to make every effort to have the Democratic party take an absolutely sound position on the money question, without evasion or compromise. I believe this is of vital consequence to the party for its present and its future.

"I am firmly of the opinion, as I have recently said, that our national platform ought explicitly and emphatically oppose the free coinage of silver or its compulsory purchase, or any compromise legislation in that direction, and that it ought endorse and commend the administration of President Cleveland for its resolute work in maintaining our present gold standard and in preserving the credit of the nation.

"I think it would be neither right nor wise to attempt to avoid or straddle this question by any ambiguous or meaningless declaration. The time has passed for that.

"The issue must be made and fought out—I trust to a sound conclusion."

Cocking Held For Murder.

La Plata, Md., April 27.—Joseph Cocking, husband of Mrs. Fannie Cocking, and brother-in-law of Miss Daisy Miller, who were murdered in their homes at Hill Top on Thursday night, was placed under arrest yesterday, after a jury of inquest rendered a verdict that in their opinion he was guilty of the double murder.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Weekly Issue of Bulletins For the Season of 1896 Has Begun.

Review of Conditions During the Past Winter.

April Has Been Cooler Than the Average In New England.

Boston, April 28.—The United States department of agriculture issues the following climate and crop service of the weather bureau for the New England section:

The heavy rain of Oct. 12-14 in southern New England, with the warm weather following in November, gave grass and winter grain a good start, and the winter closed with these crops in better condition than usual.

The warm weather of the last part of December left the ground very open, and the small shrubs and fruit trees in a tender condition, so that the extreme cold of Jan. 4 to 8 did considerable damage. In eastern Massachusetts peaches especially were badly injured. In Connecticut the greatest damage to peaches was in the cold wave of Feb. 17 and 18.

The snow held off much later than usual especially in the north, and the frequent freezing and thawing has injured some clover fields.

March was very rough and stormy, with an excessive precipitation and deficient temperature.

The first part of April was cool, and the season backward, but the last half has been unusually warm and spring-like, and all vegetation has come forward with a rush. The maple sugar season was short but excellent the third week of the month being reported one of the best for the run of sap on record. A sharp thunderstorm did considerable damage on April 17 in Windsor county, Vermont. Following is the bulletin for the week ending April 27:

Pleasant weather has prevailed in New England during the past week, with moderately warm days, but cool nights. Very little rain has fallen in any section.

In the southern part of the three northern states plowing has begun to considerable extent, and some peas and early potatoes have been put in. In more northern districts the frost is not all out of the ground, and except on the dry knolls the ground is too wet and cold for much work. Mending fences, hauling dressing and preparing for tree setting seems to be the order of the day. Grain is starting very fast, and sheep and young cattle can be sent to pasture soon.

The cool weather has exerted a favorable influence in holding the fruit buds in check.

The spring floods have damaged the roads, and some fields by washing, but the result has not been without some benefits, as some of our correspondents report that on low meadows there has been left a fine top dressing from the flood, much benefitting them.

Rain would do much good in all parts of Massachusetts, and especially in the southeastern part of the state. There the top of the ground is very dry, and the season is somewhat backward. Considerable plowing and planting has been done on the uplands and in the eastern part of the state, but in the mountains west of the Connecticut valley, and in the lowlands of the valleys, it is generally too wet to plow or plant to any extent. In Middlesex and Essex counties the ground is in good working condition, and planting is being pushed as fast as the cool weather will admit. Early beets, radishes, etc., are coming up, and some cabbages have been set out. Caterpillars are beginning to come out. One correspondent in western Worcester county thinks the frosts of the week have worked considerable injury to fruit buds, but others do not fear damage in this direction, except where an occasional tree stands in the most favorable location for rapid growth.

White frosts prevailed on the mornings of the 23d and 25th in Rhode Island, but there are no reports of damage from them. The weather has been very favorable for farm work in the southern part of the state, and it is well under way. Some farmers have all their potatoes in; others have fields of oats well advanced. The rains of the 21st and 22d gave about half an inch of rain over this state, and it has given grass a rapid start.

In northern Connecticut very little rain has fallen during the week, but in southern districts the fall on the 22d was from three-fourths of an inch to one inch, and much good has resulted. Pastures and fields have a good start, and in some localities cattle have been turned out. The winter was generally unfavorable for wheat and rye, but the conditions have improved greatly, and nearly all correspondents report winter grains to be looking very well, with little indications of this being winter killed. Cherry and plum trees are in bloom in the most forward sections, but there is not generally a very full blossom. The correspondent at Woodbridge reports that the average date of apple bloom, for 20 years, is about May 12, while the apple buds are showing red there now, and will be out in a day or two more—nearly two weeks ahead of the average. All unite in saying that peach buds are not showing at all, or at best that there are very few to be seen. Strawberries are reported to be badly winter killed in Hartford county.

In many sections oat sowing is generally completed, and a good many peas and potatoes have been put in. At Milford, onions and turnips are reported all set, while there are some carrots, parsnips and beets to be set yet. The season and farm work is fully up to the average in this state.

Purifying Tiverton.

Tiverton, R. I., April 28.—It is learned that late Sunday night over 100 citizens of this place went on a crusade against places of questionable resort on the outskirts of the town. In one place, besides ejecting the inmates, the proprietor was put under the pump. In five houses warnings were made of summary punishment if they were not vacated. The claim is made that as the authorities can give no relief in abating nuisances of this kind the citizens intend to act on their own responsibility.

On Beacon Hill.

Boston, April 28.—Lieutenant Governor Wolcott vetoed the "short lobster" bill, and the redistricting committee reached a decision anent the new senatorial districts for Suffolk county. By a vote of 46 to 32 the house, for an adverse report of the committee, substituted a bill taking from the aldermen in Boston and conferring upon the board of police the authority to license theatrical exhibitions and shows in Boston. The senate debated a substitute bill, that the secretary of the commonwealth shall have supervision of the publication of the province laws. This bill, against which the committee reported, provides for a transfer of the publication from the governor and council to the secretary of state.

A Fierce Assault.

Providence, April 28. — Owen Martin, Jr., proprietor of a hotel at Arctic Center, is the victim of probably fatal injuries as the result of a quarrel with Alexander McMillan, proprietor of a public house in the Pawtuxet Valley. Several days ago McMillan's wife left him, and as the woman had been in the habit of calling at Martin's hotel, McMillan visited that place in search of her late Sunday night. Words between the men led to a more violent quarrel, and McMillan shot Martin three times in the head, and when the wounded man dropped to the floor pounced upon him and beat him fiercely about the head with the butt of his revolver, until he was pulled away from his victim by those who had come to the rescue. The doctors say Martin cannot recover. McMillan is under arrest.

Brockton's Holiday.

Brockton, Mass., April 28.—The 77th anniversary of the introduction of Odd Fellowship into this country was observed as a grand holiday yesterday by members of the order in this city, who entertained many visiting lodges. A grand parade and banquet were the day's features and last evening a ball closed the festivities. The department of Massachusetts Patriarchs Militant did escort duty to Dr. A. E. Paine, chief marshal. The van guard was followed by about 3000 uniformed members of the order.

Distinguished Visitors.

Bostin, April 28.—The senate yesterday received visits from Hon. J. M. Thurston of Nebraska, Hon. J. B. Foraker of Ohio and General James Longstreet of Georgia. The senators at once rose, and President Lawrence addressed the guests. A recess was then declared, and the senators were presented to the visitors, who made short addresses, in which they referred to the influence of Puritan stock in the upbuilding of our nation.

Buncoed.

South Framingham, Mass., April 28.—Salma D. Hardy, 65 years old, a milkman owning a farm here, lost $1200 yesterday. Two confidential strangers stopped at his house and taught Hardy a new game of cards, at which he seemed a lucky winner. He finally went to the bank, drew $1200 and returned to the farm, only to lose the next game. The strangers have not been found.

Willing to Go Back.

Springfield, Mass., April 28. — C. L. Smith and Mrs. Albert Feltch, both o Peterboro, N. H., were arrested at East Longmeadow yesterday, on the complaint of a New Hampshire officer. It is charged that the couple eloped from Peterboro a short time ago. Both signified their willingness to return without requisition papers.

Killed By Trolley Car.

Boston, April 28.—Mary Fitzsimmons aged 5, was struck last night by an electric car, in Roxbury, and died a few minutes later. It is claimed the car was going faster than allowed, and the motorman, Patrick J. Gearing, is held, pending an investigation.

Stole From Mail.

Portland, Me., April 28.—William C. Rouse, a postal clerk on the Portland and Island Pond run, was yesterday sentenced to 18 months in jail for stealing a letter, containing $4, from the United States mail.

Carriages and barges will be in waiting at the station and can be had by those who wish to ride either about town or visit Plymouth woods for Mayflowers, and the charming woodland lakes.

Drives about town or to the woods at 25 cents or 50 cents as desired.

Those who wish to visit Pilgrim Hall should purchase tickets of admission at Bagnell chapel for 15 cents. The regular price of admission at the hall is 25 cents.

A reception committee will be in waiting on arrival of trains to direct the visitors.

No pains will be spared by the committee of arrangements to make this occasion one of great pleasure to all who visit this Pilgrim town.

Only a Rumor.

In justice to the mangement of the Wollaston Golf club it should be said that the story which has been extensively circulated about town that the officers had refused to allow Mr. Charles M. Bryant to propose fifty names for membership in the Golf Club of gentlemen who are members of the Country and Hingham polo clubs, is without any foundation whatever. Mr. Bryant states that he made no such proposition to the officers of the Golf club. He does not understand how such an erroneous story could have been started.

A Special Election for Councilman Ordered in Ward Six.

There was but little business to occupy the attention of the City Council Monday evening and the session lasted but fifteen minutes. The only absent member was Councilman Rice.

Communications.

A communication was received from Mayor Adams appointing Francis A. Spear sealer of weights and measures for one year, and Cornelius Moynihan as registrar of voters for three years.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Water Commissioners asking for an appropriation of $18,000 for extension of water mains. To Committee on Water Supply.

A communication was received from the School Committee requesting the transfer of the balance of the special appropriations for special heating at the Willard school, to windows for the Coddington and Washington schools. To Committee on Finance.

Petitions.

A petition was received from Mrs. E. S. Gilpatric for a victualler's license. To Committee on Licenses.

A petition was received requesting that that part of Hancock, Temple and Washington streets, between Granite, Chestnut, Coddington and Saville streets be known as City Square. To Committee on Streets.

A number of petitions were received for minor licenses and were referred to Committee on Licenses.

Report of Committees.

The Committee on State Aid, on petitions of Mary Lowney and Mary McCarthy, recommended that they each be paid $4 per month. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets on petition to discontinue certain oil lamps in Wollaston and substitute electric, recommended that the matter be referred to the executive department. Adopted.

New Business

Councilman Barker introduced an order for a special election in Ward Six to fill vacancy in Council to be held Tuesday, June 7. Adopted

Councilman Sprague introduced a resolution requesting the Mayor to ask the officials of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., for an early marketmen's train to Boston. Adopted.

Adjourned at 7.50.

English at College.

Charles Francis Adams, formerly of the Quincy School Committee, stirred up the ire of the members of the Massachusetts Schoolmasters club on Saturday, and would seem to have made a fatal admission against college education. He said that he thought Harvard was doing a great deal toward ruining education, a student was made a specialist, and the trend of the modern curriculum was narrowing.

Practical business men have noticed these defects and that the preparatory course is along the same line. But what brought forth the wrath of the schoolmasters, was Mr. Adams' statement of what the overseers of Harvard had done and intended to do in the matter of determining the facilities with which the average man could write his mother tongue upon entering college. The papers did not reflect credit upon their authors. Mr. Adams said, and added, if better results were not obtained in future tests, he should propose to the board of overseers that whatever conditions might be allowed in other branches, there should be no conditions in English literature. The course which he would like to pursue would be to call forth papers on different subjects from members of the freshman class. He would pick out half a dozen of the best preparatory schools, and print fac-similes of the papers written by men who had graduated from the different schools, each school being mentioned.

Principal Tetlow of the girl's high school went so far as to state that, in his opinion, the proposed action of Mr. Adams and his associates on the committee was not only unenlightened, but contemptible. The committee had picked out for publication only the worst, the time limit was too short for the examination. The pitting of one preparatory school against another would hurt Harvard.

Rev. Jacob Baker.

Mr. Baker, one of the most widely known Universalist ministers in Southeastern Massachusetts, died at his home in South Weymouth on Sunday.

In 1869 Mr. Baker accepted a call to the pastorate of the Second Universalist church of Weymouth, occupying the position for ten years. He was afterward pastor of the churches at Situate and Halifax. He was a member of the Board of Selectmen and Assessors of the town of Weymouth for eight years.

Disorders afflict the human race, the large majority arising from impure blood. Hence the wide range of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood purifier of the age.

"I feel it a duty to suffering humanity and to Hood's Sarsaparilla to tell what this medicine has done for me. I know it is an honest medicine. I had

Dyspep-

sia, and 3 years treatment by physicians did me no good. I could not eat half a cracker without distress. I fell off in weight from 180 to 149 pounds. I also suffered with rheumatism, and was pretty well used up. I heard about Hood's Sarsaparilla and began to take it. I soon noticed that it was helping me, and after taking several bottles found I could eat what I wanted without any distress. Later I had salt rheum or come on my ankles, and I again took Hood's Sarsaparilla. The swelling went down and the eruptions healed. Then I had the grip and it left me in bad shape, with catarrh and other troubles. The doctor said I was all worn out, but might be patched up and live a year or two. But I clung to my old friend Hood's Sarsaparilla and was soon in my better health. I am alive yet, more than three years having passed since the doctor's prediction, thanks to Hood's. I am 69 years old, weigh 170 pounds, am in good health and recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends for dyspepsia, catarrh and rheumatism, and also for cleansing the blood." S. S. An exchange says, the limited car service is the complaint to be heard on most suburban electric lines on pleasant Sundays. The cars on some of the suburban routes carry pure air and sunshine on six days and are jammed with humanity on the seventh.

Saturday afternoon the 4 year-old son of Mr. Daniel Donahue of Smith street was severely burned. The boy with others secured some matches and started a little fire in some bushes near the house. The boy's clothing took fire and before it could be extinguished he was severely burned about the face and side.

Mr. N. G. Nickerson reports the sale of two of his Wollaston pieces of realty. A house on Prospect avenue to Mrs. Mary E. Barry of Boston, and a house on Highland avenue to Mr. Charles Dickinson of the same place. Mr. Nickerson has bought out S. D. Hanna's interest in Wollaston, including five house lots and three houses.

A horse and buggy owned by P. T. Fallon was left tied to a tree in Braintree, Monday afternoon. The horse broke his fastening and started off at a rapid gait minus any guiding hand. Near the corner of Buckley street the horse cleared himself of the buggy and continued along via School and Hancock streets to the police station where the horse was captured. The animal scattered parts of the harness along the street, and the damage will amount to about $25

TODAY'S COURT.

Holbrook Girl on Trial for Libel Upon Another Girl.

The continued case of Mary E. Daly of Holbrook for libel against the name of Mary Good was called again.

Ex Representative Frederick W. Whitcomb was the first witness examined. He testified that on the night of April 5 he saw the defendant and her sister on Linfield street and followed them, and saw Mary drop a paper which proved to contain libelous words against the Good girl.

Henry S. Fouche testified, that while hiding behind a tree on the night of March 20, he saw the two Daly girls and a Miss Casey pass. He saw Mary drop three pieces of paper which he afterward picked up. There was libelous matter against the Good girl written upon them. On the night of April 5, he saw Mary drop the piece of paper testified to by previous witness.

George E. Easton testified to picking up four papers on the night of April 5, bearing the name of the Good girl. Did not know who dropped them or did not know the Daly girl. Several others testified to finding letters.

Mary E. Good the plaintiff testified that she had been employed in the Paine Shoe Co. factory for three years. Had never seen the Daly girl until she saw her in court.

This concluded the government side of the case and at the request of the defence the case was continued until Saturday.

May Magazines.

The unprecedented interest in the Woman's club movement in this country, involving as it does no less than 700,000 women who are members of the General Federation of Women's clubs, makes the leading article in Jenness Miller Monthly for May of unusual interest. Dina Sturgis describes entertainingly the forthcoming biennial convention of the Federation, to be held the last of May, in Louisville, Ky., and the article is illustrated with portraits of Louisville clubwomen and southern beauties and pictures of Louisville buildings and parks.

With some beautiful reproductions of paintings by Jean Francois Millet, in McClure's Magazine for May, Mr. Will H. Low provides an excellent study of that painter, whom he visited several times in his own studio at Barbizon, and of whose manner of life and conversation he gives some very pleasant personal recollections. In the same number, Dr. W. W. Keen considers the Rontgen discovery in photography with reference to its use in medicine and surgery. Dr. Keen is one of our highest authorities in surgery; he has himself been experimenting diligently with the Rontgen X rays, and his paper is of especial value. It is illustrated from photographs taken by the new process.

The Overland announces for its May number the first of an important series of eight papers on "Unexplored Regions of the High Sierra," by Theodore S. Solomons. The opening paper, "Sources of the San Joaquin," contains a remarkable group of photos of peaks and valleys that have never been known before except to prospectors and shepherders. Mr. Solomons is practically the first "white man" that has ever travelled from the Yosemite to Kings River in the High Sierra region. A notable sketch map made by him with many newly named peaks is a feature of the article.

ADAMS WINS EASILY.

In the Opening Game of the Series With Thayer.

Eldridge to Much of a Puzzler for Braintree Boys.

Rippey, the Adams Short Stop, Disabled for Awhile.

The Adams Academy nine went to South Braintree, Monday, to play the first game in the series with Thayer Academy. The game was long and tedious and was too one sided to be interesting. The superiority of the Adams Academy nine was manifest from the very start. Eldridge again proved to be a puzzle to opposing batters. His pitching was particularly effective when the bases were full and when coolness was necessary. Manning played a perfect game behind the bat and his batting was terrific. Every man on the Quincy team hit the ball safely. The fielding was generally good.

For Thayer, not much is to be said. There were a few scattering hits, and a great many errors. Every man on the nine contributed his share to the error list. Stevens, Hayden and Holbrook played the best game for Thayer. Credit is due the former for his work, as he has played but little and took Clinton's place at the last minute. Gannon's pitching was nothing extraordinary, but if he had had better support the score might have been smaller. The Braintree boys had a musket which they fired whenever they had cause for encouragement. The reports came at very long intervals.

The Adams boys are unfortunate in having their excellent short-stop, Rippey, laid up for an indefinite period. He sprained his ankle in the game, but how severely is not known.

The second game of the series will be played on Monday next, at the Merrymount Park, Quincy.

ESTIMATES OF GRANT.

As a Soldier and Statesman He Set an Example For All.

Friendships Not Broken by Combats In War.

General Longstreet and Other Famous Men Sound Pæons of Praise.

Boston, April 28.—The Grant night of the Middlesex club was a great occasion. The anniversary of the great soldier's birth was never so happily celebrated in this city. The most distinguished survivor of the War of the Rebellion, General James Longstreet of Georgia, Senator-elect Joseph Benson Foraker of Ohio, Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska, Hon. James H. Hoyt of Cleveland, who is said to be in line for the governorship of Ohio, ex-Governor Brackett and Governor Wolcott were on the list of speakers.

The banquet was held at the Brunswick. About 350 tickets were sold. The accommodations were entirely inadequate to furnish room for all who wished to attend the dinner. The large dining room was packed, and in a smaller room the overflow was fed. When the speaking began every one squeezed as best he could into the large room.

Governor Wolcott's speech of welcome was of the most generous character and full of broad liberal sentiment, and found a fitting response in the hearts of the great assembly.

General Longstreet, when introduced, was very warmly greeted. He said:

"Grant returned to service in the United States army in the hour of sanguinary war, at the head of a regiment of volunteers. His work soon drew the attention of his superiors, and he began to rise. Modest as a maiden, the heavy blows of the strong arm of an Ajax were all there was to tell the story of work that pushed him up, until at the end of two years he found himself above all officers that held superior rank, commanding armies of a million soldiers, spread out over lines of thousands of miles, yet humbly submissive to the government he so ably defended. If another record marks such an epoch, I fail to recall it.

"Of all Union commanders he was the great leader who accurately surveyed the great field of war, the elements of strength and points of error, and considered the vast means so necessary to solve the problem. He realized the importance of covering the granaries of the south, and applied his early energies and talents to holding Kentucky and Tennessee, moving swiftly to the capture of Fort Henry and Fort Donaldson. There his prescient mind called for the undisturbed flow of commerce through the "Great Father of waters," from the mountains to the sea.

"When offered the high command of armies of the United States, the lieutenant general declined to be responsible for the result of the operations unless he could be assigned to exclusive authority over the movements of those armies. He knew that the times called for aggressive work, and though it essential to success that all should act in co-ordinate conjunction; that to offer battle by one army, while others were inactive, would be a waste of strength, while giving the enemy time and opportunity, by skillful use of his interior lines, to concentrate in greater force against his isolated army, giving advantage over him that must make futile such operations by detachments, and strengthen the enemy's cause.

"This condition the war secretary refused him, but President Lincoln, after mature deliberation, found the importance of the suggestion and its hardening influence for successful work, and ordered Grant to assume command and exercise full authority in working out his own plans.

"I knew Grant as a cadet; from boyhood to Mount Magregor; served in the fourth United States regiment of infantry with him, on his entrance into active army life, and we were together in Worth's division of Scott's army of Mexico, where he was known and esteemed as one of its most gallant and promising young lieutenants. He was on the staff of General Garland, my father-in-law.

"Our first meeting in combat during the internecine war was in the wilderness, on the 6th of May, 1864, where I received his mark that must go with me to the resurrection morn, but our personal feelings and relations were never changed."

Senator-Elect Foraker, who followed, thanked the club for the opportunity of visiting Boston. He said: "Grant must always be thought of as a soldier, for that overshadowed everything. The great battles of the war from Fort Donaldson to Appomatox place him among the greatest generals of the world. Fortunately his career did not end there. To the hour that Lee surrendered we had seen only one side of his character. He revealed another side when he refused Lee's sword and directed that the Confederates take their horses home for the spring plowing. That was a commanding invitation for peace. This showed that it was a fight which was not for humiliation, but for us all to go on to a common destiny and a common glory.

"This marked him as a Republican. As a Republican he maintained that this was a Union; no state was at liberty to secede when it saw fit. He believed in humane liberty. He believed that no country could be prosperous unless it developed its iron resources, and that made him an unqualified protectionist. He believed that it was necessary to conduct business to have the credit of the country maintained. We study the lives of persons and we draw lessons from them. I do not know which would be his choice at the St. Louis convention. He might be with Massachusetts in her support of that great and gallant and stalwart representative, Thomas B. Reed, or he might be with us in Ohio with our gallant Governor McKinley. (Tremendous applause and cheers for McKinley). He might be for somebody else, but he would be for none other than the nominee. General Grant believed in a party organization and party discipline, without which no party can succeed. He believed in no revenue deficit, no bond sales, no bond syndicate and no bond scandals."

Senator John B. Thurston brought the congratulations of Nebraska to Massachusetts, saying that the Republicans of his state are just as truly, soundly and solidly for a stable currency as are the Republicans of Massachusetts.

J. H. Morison, D. D.

The Rev. J. H. Morison died on Sunday morning at his residence 26 Marlboro street, Boston. He was settled over the first Unitarian parish of Milton, in January of 1846, and of this church he was pastor emeritus at the time of his death. The 50th anniversary of his pastorate was celebrated last January. His active pastorate ceased in 1875, but he has maintained a warm interest in the welfare of the church throughout the half century.

He was a brother of Dr. Morison, who resided in Quincy for a number of years, and who is pleasantly remembered by many of our citizens.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Crazed by Jealousy.

Louisville, April 28.—Sam Brumley, aged 19, who was insanely jealous of his step-sister, with whom he was in love, shot Ida Clark a friend of the girl's, 16 years old. The ball entered the base of the skull and entered the spinal column. Brumley then shot himself and cut his throat from ear to ear. The woman will die, but Brumley may recover.

Through Lapse of Time.

Washington, April 28.—The agricultural appropriation bill became a law without the president's signature, as has the bill granting a pension to Thomas A. Cooper, late a brevet major general in the United States army.

Off For Behring Sea.

Port Townsend, Wash., April 28.—The Behring sea fleet sailed from this port at noon today. The fleet, five vessels in all, is composed of the Bear, Corwin, Grant, Rush and Wolcott. In all, the fleet carries 35 officers and 185 men. The Behring sea patrol proper will consist of four cutters aside from the Bear. The latter will go to Point Barrow, to break up a smuggling gang which has long operated at that point. The four cutters that patrol the Behring sea will return about Oct. 1, but Captain Tuttle of the Bear has orders to remain at Point Barrow until Nov. 15.

Swindled Belmont.

Habana, April 28.—Employes of the banking house of August Belmont & Co., New York yesterday identified Urrialdo, the principal in the forgery by which $24,000 was obtained from Belmont & Co. by a man giving the name of Manuel Gonzales Mendoza, on March 12 last, who used the name of Hidalgo & Co. as the signers of a bogus letter of introduction.

"THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

IS HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGE."

Every Man Who Would Know the Grand Truths, the Plain Facts, the New Discoveries of Medical Science as Applied to Married Life, Who Would Atone for Past Errors and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book Called "Complete Manhood, and How to Attain It."

"Here at last is information from a high medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

A method by which to end all unnatural drains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self-control, despondency, &c.

To exchange a jaded and worn nature for one of brightness, buoyancy and power.

To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry, &c.

To give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Age no barrier. Failure impossible. Two thousand references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who had applied to us, soon after wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cart load of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper, and the company promises to send the book, in sealed envelope, without any marks, and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

HAMMOND IS GUILTY.

Admits That He Was a Leading Spirit In the Jameson Raid.

Reformers' Action Not Hostile to the Transvaal.

Deplore Jameson's Error In Coming When He Was Not Needed.

Pretoria, April 28.—The trial was resumed yesterday of the members of the national reform committee of Johannesburg. John H. Hammond, the American mining engineer, pleaded guilty of high treason, following the example of the other leaders of the reform committee. Hammond was prevented by sickness from being present at the time the other leaders made their plea.

In view of the plea of guilty entered by the defendants in the trial of the national reform committee of Johannesburg for complicity in the Jameson raid, there was nothing in the way of cross-examination to elicit testimony on the question of the ultimate responsibility for that ill-starred movement. But counsel for the defense read a statement which was signed by John H. Hammond, Lionel Phillips, George Farrar and Francis Rhodes, the leaders of the reform committee, who have pleaded guilty of high treason.

This statement reviews the history of the futile agitation for the redress of alleged Uitlander grievances in the Transvaal. The statement admits that, in face of rumors current that the Boers were going to attack Johannesburg, the signers had asked Jameson to come, but that they deplored the mistake he had made in coming when there was no urgent need for his presence. They maintained that their action throughout the crisis had not been hostile to the republic, its officials having been protected and life and property having been generally preserved. They sent officers on Dec. 27, the statement says, to forbid the movement on Dr. Jameson's part.

In addition to this signed statement, telegrams were handed in which had passed between Mr. Beit of the Chartered South African company and Dr. Jameson, Colonel Francis Rhodes and others; but not Cecil Rhodes, the then premier of Cape Colony. Following the presentation of these documents, counsel made a speech of two hours duration in behalf of the defense, concluding as follows:

"If the edge of the sword is to be used it will cause eternal misery in the republic; but should the flat side be employed, it will usher in peace and good will."

The Bermuda's Freight

Jacksonville, Fla., April 28. — The steamer Bermuda crossed the St. John's river bar at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Seventy-five men came over from Fernandina on an early morning train, getting off at Trout Creek. There they were met by the steamer Kate Spencer, which they at once boarded, and were taken down the river and transferred to the Bermuda. The later ship entered and cleared regularly at the custom house last Sunday night, bound for Port Cortez, Honduras, via Key West. She cleared with a large cargo of arms and munitions of war.

Balfour Explains.

London, April 28.—In the house of commons yesterday Mr. Balfour said that arrangements looking toward arbitration in respect of the Venezuelan and other questions was a matter which both the British and the United States governments had in view. The latest communications on the subject which had been received from the United States on Friday were now under consideration, and dealt with both the general question of arbitration and the Venezuelan dispute. To give further information concerning the matter, he concluded, would at the present time be inexpedient.

As It Should Be.

St. John's, N. F., April 28.—The British government is urging the continuance of the trial of the bank directors. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has telegraphed that every legal resource must be taken to maintain the impartiality of justice and to show no discrimination. The crown authorities have decided to summon a new grand jury at the regular term of court on May 20, and to submit all the indictments to them again. They feel confident that true bills will be found.

Short Stop at Moscow.

Odessa, April 28.—Li Hung Chang arrived here yesterday, on his way to Moscow to attend the coronation of the czar. The Chinese statesman was received by the civil and military officials and a guard of honor. It was expected that Li Hung Chang would remain several days in Odessa, but he started for St. Petersburg this morning. He has a letter from the Emperor of China to the czar and a number of magnificent presents.

Jim and Bob.

Baltimore, April 28.—Dan Stuart came over from New York yesterday with the articles signed by Brady in Corbett's behalf. Fitzsimmons is playing at the Monumental theater. The conference which ensued showed that Fitzsimmons' side will not yield from their insistance of Corbett fighting somebody before getting a match.

To Leave Cassala.

Rome, April 28. — The report is confirmed that the Italian government has given General Baldissera, the commander of the Italians in Abyssinia, full liberty to evacuate Cassala. The semi-official Corriere Napoli declares that the evacuation is perhaps only a question of days.

Vatican Is Interested.

Madrid, April 28.—It is rumored that the papal nuncio here has approached Premier Castillo with a view of inducing Spain to accept the mediation of the United States on the Cuban question. The nuncio has had several interviews with United States Minister Taylor here.

Tupper Next.

Ottawa, April 28.—Sir MacKenzie Bowell yesterday afternoon tendered his resignation as premier to Lord Aberdeen. There was a meeting of ministers afterward i. the council chamber. There is no doubt that Lord Aberdeen will send for Tupper.

It is hard to tell sometimes whether the shopper or the saleswoman feels the effect of shopping the most. Even the pleasant part of it involves standing, waiting, weariness for both of them and more or less hurry and neglect of regular meals and regular habits. This leads to dyspepsia or constipation or both; they are two links in the chain of indigestion; another link is biliousness; headache is another; then follows backache, drowsiness, dizziness, an irritable temper and the "blues," all links of one chain binding down your energies and making life a burden. The way to throw off the whole trouble at once is to put the bowels and stomach into condition again. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do this quicker, more comfortably and more naturally than any other remedy in the world. They actually cure constipation so it stays cured; you don't become a slave to their use; they strengthen the intestines to do their own work, tone the stomach and gently stimulate the liver. They are mild but sure, like Nature itself. Don't let any druggist give you a griping pill. Insist on having Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser gives more plain useful information about the human body and all the ailments to which it is subject than any other single book in the English language. It is really a medical encyclopedia in one volume, a large heavy book of 1008 pages, with over 300 illustrations. The outlay of money, time and effort in producing this great book was paid for by the sale of the first edition of 680,000 copies at $1.50 each; and the profit has been used in publishing the present edition of half-a-million copies to be sent absolutely without price to all who will remit the small charge of 21 cents in one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. Address, with stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

HAD A SNAP.

Giants Couldn't Fathom Fancy Curves of Kid Nichols.

New York, April 27.—The Giants were simply "pie" for the visitors, notwithstanding the fact that they played a strong game. Nichols did the pitching for the Boston boys. The "Kid" is popular here—more so than many of our own pitchers—and a good second to Amos Rusie in popularity. He received a great ovation.

In Congress.

Washington, April 28. — After spending two hours on District of Columbia business the house yesterday adopted a special rule for a final vote today on the Pickler pension bill. There was an animated debate over the adoption of the rule. Thirty-four Republicans voted with the Democrats against the adoption of the rule, but it was agreed to—119 to 88. But one amendment was adopted, that requiring the pension office to construe the pension laws liberally in the interest of the claimant and requiring decisions in accordance with the preponderance of evidence. The naval appropriation bill was before the senate throughout the day. An amendment offered by Mr. Chandler, making it unlawful for retired naval officers to enter the service of contractors furnishing armor, etc., for the government, occasioned an animated debate, which gradually broadened into a discussion of the entire subject of armor plate. The amendment was not disposed of when the senate adjourned.

Not In Danger.

Washington, April 28.—There is no danger that the proper interests of Missionary Knapp, who is now at Alexandretta in the nominal custody of the United States consular agent, will be overlooked by our government. According to the program mutually agreed upon by Minister Terrell and the porte, Mr. Knapp will be sent by the United States consular agent to Constantinople, there to remain until Mr. Terrell returns to the post, when he will be tried, in the presence of the United States minister, on the charges preferred by the Turkish government. There is no apprehension of trouble or bad faith in the execution of the program.

Massachusetts' Official Figures.

Washington, April 28. — The official computation of the speed made by the battleship Massachusetts in the trial trip Saturday gives the vessel a record of 16.279 knots, according to a telegram received at the navy department from Commodore Dewey, president of the trial board. As a result the builders of the Massachusetts, the Cramps of Philadelphia, will get a premium of $125,000.

Alabama Politics.

Montgomery, Ala., April 28.—The Republican and Populist state conventions are in session today. The indications now point to a split in the Republican convention. This will come about through the fight between the McKinley forces and the allied opposition to McKinley. Chairman Moseley of the state executive committe is leading the opposition to McKinley.

A Point In England's Favor.

Lisbon, April 28.—In the chamber of peers yesterday the minister of foreign affairs announced that the Portuguese government had given its sanction to England's transporting arms and ammunition on the railroad from Beira, Portuguese East Africa, to the frontier of Rhodesia.

DROP AND DIPPER PUZZLE

It looks Strange but it is True.

A Case in Every-day Life Where a Single Drop Weighs More Than a Whole Dipperful.

It looks like a puzzle, and it is a puzzle until you try it yourself. That solves it. Every man can solve it. Every woman can solve it. On one side of the scales is a single drop. On the other side is a dipperful. Yet the drop carries the most weight. Why is it, and how is it? Here is the explanation.

The one drop is a drop of Puritana. The dipperful is a dipperful of so-called blood purifier, nerve tonic, or other palate-tickling concoction. The one drop of Puritana is real medicine—it cures. The dipperful is anything, everything, and nothing, when it comes right down to a real cure.

Puritana is the prize formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby, who was for thirty-two years at the head of Dartmouth Medical College. It strikes at the root of 92 per cent. of human suffering, and brings new strength, new health, new life through the power producer of the system. Puritana makes the heart right, lungs right, liver right, blood right, kidneys right, nerves right, and health right, because it makes the stomach right. To any man, woman, or child who will take it as directed, Puritana will practically give a new stomach. That is why hundreds and thousands of people have proved that it cures from head to foot.

J. F. Scott, for years a prominent contractor and builder in Concord, N. H., says:

"I have used Puritana for torpid liver, indigestion, and a species of dyspepsia, and it has given me such relief that I felt made over new. For these troubles I would rather have one bottle of Puritana than a barrel of any other medicine."

She can eat anything now, but her life was hanging in the balance, when her stomach could not digest the simplest food. Mrs. Belle W. Cale, of Charlestown, Mass., tried country air and seven doctors in vain, but Puritana gave her a new stomach and a new lease of life.

Mrs. Henry W. Craigue, of Concord, N. H., was ill for years. She had no appetite, no strength, no ambition. Her life was one constant round of misery and suffering. Puritana gave her an appetite and rugged strength. It made a new woman of her.

No chance, was what the doctor said about George H. Dunning, of Faneuil Hall Market, Boston. He had nervous prostration, had no appetite, could not sleep, could not walk alone. Puritana made him over new from head to foot. It gave him sleep, appetite, and strength.

After trying many doctors, hospitals, and medicines in vain, Mrs. J. S. Daly, of Cambridge, Mass., had also abandoned hope, when Puritana was brought to her relief. It gave her strength and health, pure, rich blood, vigorous digestion, and raised her from the sick bed to the full vigor of happy womanhood.

Yes, one drop of Puritana will bring more real relief, more real cure, more real strength, more real nerve force, more real power and vital energy, more real "life-is-worth-living," than a dipperful, a bucketful, a barrelful of so-called tonics, blood cures, nerve foods, pills, and doubtful preparations from unknown sources, that is the reason why Puritana is the most economical medicine as well as the most effective in the world.

Express No Particular Preference For Presidential Nominee.

Senator Sherman Looks Over the Political Field.

Some Interesting Political Movements In Illinois and Indiana.

Montpelier, Vt., April 29.—The Republican convention was called to order today and W. A. Lord of Montpelier was chosen chairman. The delegates-at-large from the western side of the state are Senator Redfield Proctor of Rutland and E. C. Smith of St. Albans; from the eastern side, R. J. Kimball of West Randolph, with the choice of fourth man to be made from C. A. Prouty of Newport and H. D. Holton of Brattleboro.

The platform declares for a stable currency, protection and reciprocity. No instructions are given to delegates, and the platform is free from expression on presidential candidates.

SHERMAN EXPLAINS.

Certain Remarks Made by Him Concerning Ex-President Harrison.

New York, April 29.—The Tribune says that Senator John Sherman was taken to task for his statement about ex-President Harrison, printed a day or two ago. He was asked whether the ex-president would be a candidate for the nomination at St. Louis. He was quoted as saying in reply: Not if he is an honorable man." Mr. Sherman said in explanation: "I am afraid that the point has been drawn a little too strong. I simply said that in point of honor General Harrison could not be a candidate for the nomination at the hands of his party, as he had professed himself to be out of the race. There is a possibility, though not a probability, that the anti-McKinley sentiment may crystallize and select Harrison as a candidate to support. While he might be selected as a compromise candidate, I do not believe, however, that it will go that far, as it looks to me as if McKinley would be nominated. I don't know on what ballot or under what conditions it will be, but I believe that the Ohio man will be nominated and elected. If Harrison were nominated I do not doubt that he would accept, as there is no record of a presidential nomination ever being refused. Harrison would not, however, be a strong man to nominate, for, while he has the record of a prosperous administration and is sound and able, yet he lacks magnetism and a certain popularity."

Mr. Sherman does not take much stock in the candidacy of Governor Morton. He said, in speaking of the canvass for delegates to the convention: "I see that, according to General Grosvenor's figures, Morton has not the entire delegation from his own state. He does not seem to have gained a delega outside of the state. While there is some talk of his getting delegates from the south, there is nothing in that, as the south is for protection and free silver if it can get it. Morton does not stand pre-eminently for protection, and is, moreover, a hard money man. That makes him unpopular in the south."

Senator Sherman said he did not care to discuss the probable second choice states whose favorite sons were in the field; but he took Senator Quay as being in earnest in Pennsylvania. As for the platform at St. Louis, he said that it would be practically a declaration in favor of the single gold standard, probably with a clause about bimetallism if a proper ratio can be ascertained and maintained by international agreement, which he declares to be almost impossible. The senator said that he believed the free-silver men would capture the Democratic convention and declare for the white metal, and added that then it would simply be a foregone victory for the Republicans. The senator said that the Ohio platform was not a straddle, but a practical declaration for the gold standard.

Truce Patched Up.

Springfield, Ills., April 29.—As the time for calling the Illinois state Republican convention to order approaches, the prospects are for a less bitter fight than was anticipated. The Cook county men and the McKinley backers had a true conference last evening, and an agreement was reached. But it is highly probable that there will be a lively contest between the two factions before the close of the convention in spite of this truce. The conference was held to decide upon the time of introducing the resolutions instructing the delegates-at-large to the national convention. All along the McKinley men had declared this matter should be acted upon as soon as a permanent organization should be effected. Cullom, Tanner and the Cook county people have opposed this. The agreement was reached last evening in less than an hour. It was that the resolutions instructing the national delegates-at-large should not be presented until after all the state officers, excepting the trustees of the state university, shall have been nominated, and that this resolution shall be discussed, not to exceed one hour.

JOINED CUBAN ARMY.

Massachusetts Man Had Fever and and Escaped.

Swung From Window In Morro Castle Into the Sea.

An Inside View of the Way Affairs Are Conducted In Cuba.

Springfield, Mass., April 29.—Walter S. Whitcomb of this city, who enlisted with the Cuban insurgents, and made his escape from the famous Morro castle, just outside of Habana, by means of a rope, has returned to his home, and tells an interesting story of his experiences while in the army of the Cubans.

He was walking in the streets of Jacksonville, Fla., when his attention was attracted by a squad of Cuban patriots, each bearing a white silk banner, designating that they were in search of men to enlist for the war. His adventurous spirit seized him, and he joined the cause, receiving $150 at the outset in American currency. Six other recruits enlisted with him.

They took sail in the tug P. D. Jackson, and landed at Del Rio, where they were met by 20 men from the insurgents' camp, under the command of Antonio Maceo.

The party went at once to the rebel camp. Whitcomb remained in the rebel camp five weeks. This camp was 90 miles from Habana, and contained about 12,000 insurgents. The patriots were well grounded, Whitcomb says, in the simpler military tactics, and devoted much of their time to drill work.

While in camp Whitcomb suffered an attack of fever, and upon his convalescence was given a pass through the ones to Habana. When within 20 miles of that city he fell into a camp of Spanish soldiers. They captured him and tied him hand and foot to a tree. There were several Cubans captured with him, and they were tied in like manner. He spent the night thus bound. In the morning the Cubans were gone; killed, the Spaniards told him.

Whitcomb was taken to Morro Castle, in company with other prisoners. At night he was confined in the great, dingy tower, but during the day time was permitted to the freedom of the yard. There were about 60 prisoners in the castle, including 12 Americans.

Whitcomb had $160 with him when imprisoned, which he had succeeded in concealing in his shoes. He bribed the guard assigned to watch his cell, paying him $80 for 40 feet of rope with which to escape from the tower.

He fastened this rope to a stone, and swung off into the Gulf of Mexico. A catboat, belonging to one of the officials, was anchored nead by. He swam out to it, and under the cover of the night, drifted out into the gulf. He was picked up by the Adrian, bound for the Florida coast. The catboat was taken in tow, and, upon reaching Florida, Whitcomb sold it for $60.

Whitcomb found employment in the Royal Ponciana hotel, where he remained until his departure for this city. Whitcomb says that in Cuba he encountered 500 men from Oklahoma, who came in answer to an advertisement that men were wanted there to engage in duck shooting.

Lynn Labor Troubles.

Lynn, Mass., April 29.—The Carpenters' union last night voted to withdraw their demand for increased wages and accept the master builders' refusal to pay 25 cents a day increase, together with granting an eight-hour day. The Machinists' union voted to enforce the nine-hour day on Friday, and in 15 of the 20 shops the agreement has been signed, while in the remaining a refusal has been made. In these shops, accordingly, a strike is looked for. The general electric works will be considered later, as Superintendent Fish has decided to consider an eight-hour day.

Not Responsible.

Middletown, Conn., April 29.—Harry Lucas, aged 16, yesterday confessed to the burning of the tenement house on the corner of Hamlina and College streets last Friday. Later he was examined by physicians and pronounced insane, and committed by the probate court to the hospital for the insane.

Whitten Not Indicted.

New Haven, April 29.—The murder case of Dr. George E. Whittem of Auburndale, Mass., was nolled in the superior court yesterday. The grand jurors stated that they had no intention of indicting him along with Dr. Lee in the Schloss murder trial, and Prosecuting Attorney Williams nolled the case.

In Congress.

Washington, April 29.—The senate was plunged into an exciting financial debate yesterday, after several weeks of serene and formal procedure on appropriation bills. The naval appropriation bill was under consideration, and the item of four battleships, to cost an aggregate of $15,000,000, served as a text for a speech by Mr. Gorman, pointing out that the revenues of the government are less than the receipts. Mr. Gorman's statements brought on an animated controversy, in which Messrs. Sherman, Hale and Chandler joined issues with the Maryland senator as to the responsibility for the failure of tariff legislation in the present congress. The house passed the Pickler general pension bill by a vote of 187 to 54. The Republicans and Populists voted solidly in favor of the measure, and the Democrats, with six exceptions, voted solidly against it. The section to which the bulk of opposition was directed provides that persons otherwise entitled to pensions shall not be disqualified on account of prior service in the Confederate army, provided they joined the Union forces 90 days before Lee's surrender. A bill was passed authorizing the president to retire John M. Quackenbush as a commander in the navy.

Suicide at Milton.

Tuesday afternoon Louis Bronsdon while passing through the woods off Highland street found a badly decomposed body of a man apparently about 60 years of age hanging to a tree. The Milton police were notified, and they in turn notified the medical examiner, who said the body had been dead for some days. In the pockets was found a ticket of leave from the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea, dated April 14, and made out in the name of Harrison Whitehouse. The body was buried in the Milton cemetery.

Braintree Fire.

The Braintree fire alarm at about 8 o'clock last evening was for the burning of the house of James A. Reynolds on Stirling street, East Braintree, situated nearly on the Weymouth line. The Weymouth fire department was first on the scene, being at work before an alarm was given in Braintree. The roof was burned off and the house riddled. Loss on house, $1500; on furniture, $500; covered by insurance.

Senatorial Districts.

The LEDGER has noted that Norfolk County has more than enough voters for two Senators. It is reported that the committee of the Legislature will annex the towns of Franklin, Bellingham and Wrentham in this county to a Worcester County district, and then there will be some adjustment of the lines of the two Norfolk Districts, to balance them after the taking away from one of them of the above towns.

Norfolk Investigation.

The special committee of the Legislature to investigate the methods of the Norfolk County Commissioners have organized with Senator Sanger, of Suffolk, as chairman and Representative Kenefick, of Palmer as clerk. The committee will meet the petitioners for the investigation in conference tomorrow morning at the State House, Room 132, and hearings will begin immediately.

Queer Names Selected for New Schoolhouses.

At Meeting of the School Committee Last Evening.

"Gridley Bryant" for Rail and "Massachusetts Fields" for Downs.

The important business at the meeting of the School Committee Tuesday evening was the selection of names for the two new nine-room brick schoolhouses. How this was accomplished is told below, and also the other business of the evening.

Seven of the nine members were present, the absentees being Messrs. Field and Breed.

Miss Velma L. Curtis of the Lincoln was granted leave of absence.

The graduating class of the Quincy High school was granted the use of the building for a reception at the end of the term.

Messrs. D. Vinton Pierce and Charles H. Johnson made application for the position as census taker. Some doubt arose as to whether the former was now a resident of Quincy, but he claimed that he was, and as he had given general satisfaction in the past he was appointed.

Charles H. Johnson was added to the list of truant officers.

The sub-committees on location of the new schoolhouses reported that it had been decided to locate the school at the Rail well back. The one at the Downs will be parallel with Rawson road with about fifty feet in the rear.

Low contracts for the two new school buildings, and also for the heating and ventilating systems were reported. $7,000 were reserved for the latter but contracts for the two buildings amount to but $5,720.

The immediate need of more room in the Quincy school district was felt, and a desirable room had been offered in the Music hall. In one of the rooms at the Quincy there are now 82 pupils. Mr. Gurney and the Superintendent were authorized to secure and furnish additional room.

New Buildings Named.

The only remaining business was the naming of the two new buildings, and it was no easy task for many names were suggested.

A petition was received from John Heuss and others that the new building at the Rail be known as the "Columbus school."

Mr. Burns of the committee said this name was favored by the three councilmen from the ward. The "Granite school" had been suggested but did not meet with favor. Brockton would not think of naming one of her schools the "Boot and Shoe school." His first choice had been the "Gridley Bryant school" but he was willing to please his constituents.

Miss Adams objected to Columbus and regarded Granite perferable by far.

An informal vote showed one for Railway, one for Franklin, one for Gridley Bryant, two for Granite, and two for Columbus.

There was further discussion and Hutchinson, Chickatawbut, Blue Hills and other names were mentioned.

The naming of this building was laid on the table, and attention given to the Norfolk Downs building.

Dr. Record was enthusiastic for "Moswetusett school," and it was supported by Miss Adams. Mr. Porter would like to have Massachusetts Fields, the old historic name of the locality perpetuated.

An informal ballot showed one for Massachusetts Fields, one for Billings, one for Winthrop, one for Myles Standish, and three for Moswetusett.

After further discussion a motion to name the school at the Rail, the "Columbus school," was voted down.

It was then voted to name it the "Gridley Bryant school."

The vote on naming the one at the Downs, "Moswetusett" was a tie, and Chairman Porter voted in the negative.

A motion to name it the Massachusetts Fields school had but three supporters when a ballot was taken, but was after discussion. Adjourned at 9.40.

TODAY'S COURT.

George Connors was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case placed on probation for 3 months.

James Croake was fined $8 for drunkenness at Braintree.

George Haslam was arraigned for assault on Elizabeth Haslam at Quincy, and was given a month's probation.

George Frazier and David Sullivan were arraigned for assault on Alphonso Williams and George F. Whittemore at Quincy, and were fined $3 each.

Michael J. Lynch was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued one week.

Burned Out.

D. Vinton Pierce, who arrived home from Ossipee, N. H., Monday, received a telegram Tuesday from Mrs. Pierce that their house and contents had been destroyed by fire. The telegram also stated that the horses and stable had been saved. Upon receipt of the telegram Mr. Pierce left for New Hampshire.

Society in Baby-land.

Eighteen silver-spoon babies responded with their mammas to the invitation of Miss Mary Munroe Faxon to attend her first anniversary party from two to four Tuesday afternoon.

Four generations on her mother's side were present, and old residents can remember representatives of the family in Quincy, farther back. Her great grandfather "Uncle Job" as he was called was a prominent figure in Quincy, living into the nineties. From his childhood to that of this youngest of the Faxons in this section a revolution in ways of living has been seen.

Mr. Henry M. Faxon's home was decorated with small pink roses and carnations, in profusion. Gifts were in plenty and the wee damsel, who is one of the few sunshine babies, greeting all, wherever she is, with a sweet smile, had souvenirs for the baby guests. These were artfully concealed under a pink and blue tissue draped table and were eagerly grasped.

The usual silver porringer from the father was not wanting, and a delicate birthday cake for the elders and a tea at four. It was not decided which was the prize baby, as there were eighteen different votes on the eighteen babies, but a more beautiful sight can not be often seen than these sturdy little ones ranging from only four months to two or three years of age. Regrets were sent from two babies. The occasion was one to be remembered and all wished a long and useful life to this, the first grandchild of our renowned Henry H. Faxon.

MILTON.

A parlor reading for the benefit of the King's Daughters' association will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. M. L. Rand. The selections will be from the writings of Ian Maclaren and Robert Burns.

East Milton ladies have the bicycle fever, five new riders having joined the ranks of the lady wheelers thus far this season.

An adjourned parish meeting of the Congregational society was held Monday evening and these officers elected: G. S. Webster, clerk; F. M. Hamlin, treasurer; W. C. Shapley, W. H. Carter, Mrs. W. Q. Baxter, parish committee.

A survey of the proposed extension of the Quincy & Boston street railway to Mattapan is being made. There is also some talk of petitioning the road to extend its line down Granite avenue to Cedar Grove to connect with the West End street railway at that point.

Many of the Milton Odd Fellows went to Brockton Monday and participated in the parade in that city.

The steam roller is at work this week on Granite avenue, and is doing a good job.

Died in California.

Word was received by the LEDGER this morning of the death at San Diego, California last Saturday, of Mrs. Elizabeth Fenno Perry. Mrs. Perry was the widow of Mr. W. S. Perry of Quincy, and the daughter of the late Samuel Curtis. She was a sister of Mrs. Steadman Williams and Mrs. Abbie Gragg, of Braintree. Mrs. Perry resided for many years on the estate now occupied by Mr. James Edwards, afterward removing to Braintree, where she resided up to about a year ago, when she went to California. She leaves three sons, one of whom is married and resides in Worcester.

Dis-

tress in the stomach and other symptoms of dyspepsia demand careful attention to diet and a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla to tone the stomach and other digestive organs, purify the blood and sustain the nerves. Mr. J. W. Gerry, a well-known business man of Hopkinton, Mass., relates his experience.

"I was troubled with indigestion for many months. My food gave me great distress. Physicians prescribed for me, and although they gave me help for a time, they did not cure. I felt and discouraged and could not sleep at night. My friends advised me to give up business, the doctors declaring that I needed a change. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought it might do me good. I am glad to say that I felt the benefit right away, after commencing to take the medicine. Three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla entirely cured me of indigestion. It also relieved me of costiveness and I have not had any trouble of this nature since. I have taken several bottles of the medicine in the

Nervous

WANTED IN QUINCY, A LARGE HALL

Memorial day four weeks from Saturday.

The temperature at noon today was fifty-five degrees.

The days between sunrise and sunset are over 14 hours long.

Beginning Saturday, City Hall will be closed Saturday afternoons during the summer.

Two large, one-light, show windows are being put in the stores in the court room building.

The Quincy Teachers' Association will meet tomorrow evening at the High school building.

The contract for the cellars of the two new schoolhouses has been sub-let to William T. Shea.

In a six-inning game on Tuesday, the Adams C Grammar nine defeated the Quincy avenue nine, 16 to 11.

Mr. Horace O. Souther is reported as having passed a comfortable night last night, and is conscious at times.

The Adams Academy and Milton Academy teams meet on the diamond at Merry Mount Park this afternoon.

Two large new Cape cat boats are on the way from the Cape in charge of Capt. George Randall, for George W. Newcomb.

Representative Thompson will please accept thanks for a copy of the manual for the General Court, and other public documents.

Auctioneer Johnson will sell a lot of furniture from a summer hotel in the hall over A. E. Hall's store, Washington street, on Tuesday next.

An inquest is being held before Judge Humphrey this morning on the death of William Gilligan of Weymouth, whose body was found near the Town House in that town, Friday, April 24.

Is your estate all fixed up so as to be pleasing in the sight of the Assessors? The Assessors should resolve to add a little to estates which have not had their spring cleaning.

Better no athletic sports, than such disgraceful squabbling as can be heard from the Canal street ball players. Some resident gentlemen are considering what action to take. Meantime our city police can render us service there.

The regular meeting of the Hospital Aid association will be held Thursday, April 30th, at 2 30 P. M., in rooms of the Granite City club in Durgin & Merrill's block. The United States Civil Service Commission has ordered that an examination be held by its local board in this city on Saturday, June 6, commencing at 9 o'clock A. M., for the grades of clerk and letter carrier in the postal service. Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations for this examination are as follows: clerk, 18 years or over; carrier, over 21 years and under 40 years.

Mr. Haven's second lecture Tuesday evening at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, on "Steam Engineering" was fully as interesting as that of the previous week. He spoke particularly of the cross head, connecting rod, crank and pin, journals and shafts, fly-wheel and governor. The forms were explained by the use of charts, drawings, illustrations and a model. Everything was made so clear that a person ignorant of the construction of an engine could get an intelligent idea of it. The third talk will be given Tuesday, May 5.

Q. Y. C. Improvements.

A special meeting of the Quincy Yacht club is called for next week to act on proposed improvements which include the building of a colonial portico over the main entrance to the club house and a new ladies' room; the changing of the present ladies' room into a reading room, and the building of a beachstone fire place having a width of seven feet and an opening of four feet; the building of a stairway from the lower to the upper piazza; the sheathing of the ceiling of the hall; and such plumbing as the alterations necessarily make.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class ocality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at President's Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Why Does Not the City Accept and Lay Out Cottage Avenue?

Editors of the Ledger:

Can you or some of your readers give any information concerning Cottage avenue so-called?

Why has the lane in question never become one of the city streets? We hear of the acceptance of streets in remote parts of the city. We hear of money spent on streets where there cannot be one-tenth part of the traffic that daily flows through Cottage avenue and yet the ancient sign still shows its warning—"Dangerous passing."

Dangerous passing it certainly is, and difficult passing too, at certain seasons.

The mud reaches above ordinary footwear on the sidewalks, and the roadway resembles a not too-shallow ford, treacherous mimic bogs await the unwary foot, and if the bold passer-by escapes these perils, the ice and snow projecting from the roof of the ink factory threaten him with violent death as he hurries by.

This is no fancy picture. The writer has seen the private way in just such a condition as that indicated above, at least five times during the past winter.

Now Cottage avenue is old. Just how old many LEDGER readers probably know. The writer knows by hearsay of forty years in which it has been used. It is the most convenient route for pedestrians going from South Quincy to the Library, it is the natural route between the Hollow and Chestnut street, and together with Foster street constitutes a short cut to the Houghs Neck and the Point roads.

Is there, Mr. Editor, some unwritten law, or some territorial right involved in the case which prevents the city from assuming a very obvious responsibility? Or has the city simply fallen heir to the result of long-continued negligence on the part of the town?

Whatever may be the cause for the present condition of Cottage avenue, that condition is a disgrace to the city, an inconvenience to citizens and a detriment to the business in the neighborhood of its junction with Hancock street.

This letter is prompted by a genuine desire for information.

Yours very respectfully,

PEDESTRIAN.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH.

Sentence Pronounced Upon Instigators of the Jameson Raid.

Hammond's Case Has Aroused Much Sympathy.

A Straightforward Letter From President Kruger to Secretary Chamberlain.

Washington, April 29.—When Senator Stewart, who is a personal friend of Mr. Hammond, heard of his conviction, he immediately set to work to prepare a petition in Mr. Hammond's behalf, which he had circulated among senators and members of the house. The petition is addressed to President Kruger, and is a plea for pardon. It sets forth the high character of the accused, and states that his family and associations here were of the best, and while it is conceded by the petitioners that the crime to which he has pleaded guilty is a most serious one, and directed against a government for which the signers have a high regard, they still ask, as an act of clemency, that the offense be condoned and the prisoner liberated.

The petition was signed by all to whom it was presented. It reads as follows:

President Kruger, Transvaal Government South Africa:

Sir—The undersigned members of the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America respectfully represent that John Hays Hammond is a citizen of the United States and a man of a high character, connected with the best families of this country, and an engineer of ability. We regret exceedingly his unfortunate connection with the troubles in your country, for which all our people entertain feelings of kindness and respect. In view of the unimpeachable character of Mr. Hammond in his own country and his standing of his friends and relations, we earnestly ask for your most kindly consideration. If your excellency would extend to him a pardon for his offences against your government, we would esteem it an especial compliment to us as well as to the people of the United States. Hoping that you will relieve Mr. Hammond from the penalty of his associations, we are,

Your most obedient servants.

From the Transvaal.

Hays Hammond, the American mining engineer; Colonel Francis Rhodes, brother of Cecil Rhodes, ex-premier of the Cape Colony; Lionel Phillips, George Farrar and others, who were arrested at Johannesburg upon charges of treason in being active members of the Johannesburg reform union, which was held to have instigated Dr. Jameson's raid, ended yesterday in the sentencing of five of the leaders of the so-called reform movement to death.

Phillips, Rhodes and Farrar pleaded guilty of high treason on Friday last, and Hammond, who was sick and not in court on that day, made a similar plea Monday. This course, it was thought, would have the effect to mitigate the severity of their sentence, but it turns out that it did not.

The names of the men sentenced to death are: Colonel Francis Rhodes, John Hays Hammond, George Farrar, Charles Leonard and Lionel Phillips.

Colonel Francis W. Rhodes is a brother of Cecil Rhodes, formerly premier of Cape Colony, and an official of the British Chartered South African company.

Percy Farrar is a newspaper proprietor and owner of Country Life, published at Johannesburg.

Lionel Phillips is the president of the Chamber of Mines of Johannesburg.

A late cable dispatch from Johannesburg states that in addition to the sentence of death passed upon the leaders of the reform committee, 60 other members have been sentenced to two years' imprisonment, a fine of £2000 ($10,000) and three years subsequent banishment.

The dispatch adds that there is great excitement in Johannesburg, and unless the sentences are spedily commuted trouble is expected.

of Jameson's coming. Instead of coming and meeting him half way, as was evidently planned, they remained safely in Johannesburg, and when news of the defeat of the raiders reached the city John Hays Hammond was the first to run up the Transvaal flag.

Kruger Won't Back Down.

Cape Town, April 28.—The text of President Kruger's reply to the invitation of the British government, through the secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, to visit England and discuss matters connected with the Transvaal and its future, is a voluminous document and plainly indicates the firm attitude assumed by the Boer statesman, who does not yield in the slightest.

The president begins by stating that his visit to England has always depended upon the settlement of a basis of discussion and he regrets that the basis has not yet been reached. Continuing, he says:

"In friendly spirit the government saw clearly and recorded its opinion that no foreign interference in the internal affairs of the republic could be allowed. Mr. Chamberlain admits the justice of this position, yet he intimates that Great Britain desires that particular internal measures be taken by the Transvaal. The latter cannot allow to pass unnoticed the expression 'admitted grievances,' and, however well meant and observate, this government must express regret that having intimated its desire for the reconsideration of the London convention, in consequence of the inroad of Dr. Jameson, the position should be assumed that in the discussion the so-styled 'admitted grievances' must be included as a sine qua non in the event of a reconsideration being agreed to.

"The south African republic has always been prepared to receive and consider in a friendly spirit the private suggestions of the imperial government regarding the interests of the British subjects, although the South African republic has never admitted the existence of the so-called 'admitted grievances,' and must deny, on that account, that the right exists to create rebellous movements. It does not affect to be perfect or infallible, and has repeatedly declared that it is prepared to listen to just complaints presented in a constitutional manner by anyone. But the South African Republic is of the opinion that every step calculated to prolong the irritation existing in South Africa must be studiously avoided by the exercise of mutual forbearance and good will.

"I feel confident you will recognize and appreciate the difficulty of my position. It appears to be wiser not to press the question of my proceeding to England any further at present, but to leave it open, especially in view of the coming session of the volkesraad, and that the desirability of my presence during at least a portion of the session, when important measures are to be considered, is apparent."

In regard to Mr. Chamberlain's proposal to guarantee the Transvaal protection from outside attack in exchange for a remedy of the Uitlanders' grievances, President Kruger says:

"Something is offered the South African republic which it already possessed, as the obligations and relations of the South African republic to Great Britain, as recognized by international law, already precluded an attack upon the independence of the republic."

The remainder of President Kruger's reply may be summarized as follows: The president remarks that if a revision of the London convention, and superseding it by a treaty of amity and commerce, containing the most favored nation clause, cannot be discussed unless the alleged grievances are also discussed, the government prefers to leave matters in status quo, and will limit its demands to an indemnity for the Jameson raid.

In conclusion, President Kruger says: "Under existing circumstances, the South African republic will not at present press a reconsideration of the London convention and a substitution for it of a treaty of amity and commerce, but will rest satisfied with pecuniary compensation and with the assurance that no violation of its territory will be repeated."

Commutation Expected.

Johannesburg, April 29.—The trial of the reform committee which has been going on in Pretoria is probably of more interest to Johannesburg than to anywhere else in the world. Its outcome has been awaited with an interest which was almost a suspense. The sentences has been a great shock here. The center of the town is thronged with excited groups, and every person in the community is engaged in eager discussion of the news. Apparently no one can bring himself to believe that the sentences will be carried out, and it is the very general opinion that they will be at least commuted. Notwithstanding these expressions of assurances, however, everybody shows the utmost anxiety as to the decision of the executive, in whose hands the fate of the prisoners now lies. The sentiment of this place is almost wholly with the men who have been on trial, but the greatest sympathy is expressed for those prisoners who took an inactive part in the movement, but who have still been condemned to suffer equally with the others. The theaters and all other places of amusement here and most of the stores are closed, as no one finds time or inclination for anything but to discuss the startling intelligence from Pretoria. No disturbances have occurred here since the news was received, as the police have not attempted to interfere with any gathering. In fact, the gatherings have been characterized by an entire absence of disorder or noise, a suppressed tension of feeling being rather manifest, and the silence which is deemed rather more ominous than would be shouts and outcries.

Cut and Dried, Perhaps.

London, April 29.—While Mr. Chamberlain's announcement of the sentencing of the reformers caused a sensation inside and outside of parliament and was eagerly discussed in the lobbies, where it is thought to have increased the gravity of the situation in South Africa, there is an inner ring of politicians who are inclined to think that the whole matter is the result of a deal between the prisoners and the Boer authorities, and that the former obtained the assurance that their sentences would be commuted, before they pleaded guilty to the charge of high treason.

Probably Dynamite.

Habana, April 29.—An explosion occurred at 11:30 yesterday, while the representatives of newspapers were waiting in the palace of the governor general for the first batch of news of the day. The detonation was lengthy, and the noise of breaking glass and falling plaster could be heard on all sides, and when part of the roof fell in there was great trepidation among all present. The explosion occurred in a closet situated in a basement under the city hall, that part of the building being converted into a heap of rubbish. It is suspected that the destruction was caused by the explosion of a quantity of dynamite. The real cause of the disaster, however, is not known. Only the strength of the building saved it from destruction, which would have been accompanied by considerable loss of life.

Fire and Loss of Life.

Paris, Tex., April 29.—A fire, involving the loss of life and $250,000 worth of property, broke out in the building of J. K. Bywaters early yesterday morning. In a short time the flames spread to the warehouse of M. F. Allan & Co., the Clements building and Hotel Peterson. John Saulsman, a tie inspector, from Wister, I. T., who was occupying a room in the Bywaters building, was suffocated and burned to death. There is a suspicion that he was murdered, and the building set on fire to conceal the crime. While the firemen were playing on the flames, a wall fell, crushing one man fatally and another seriously.

Kersey Resigns.

New York, April 29.—H. Maitland Kersey, the personal representative in this country of Lord Dunraven, has resigned from the New York Yacht club. The secretary of the club is said to have received Kersey's resignation some weeks ago. The result of last season's races and Lord Dunraven's trouble with the club doubtless led Kersey to resign. He has been a member since October, 1891.

Goff Was In Error.

Albany, April 29.—The court of appeals yesterday granted a new trial to Vincenzo Nino of New York city, convicted of having murdered his wife, on the ground that Recorder Goff, before whom he was tried, erred in refusing to admit certain expert testimony relating to the alleged insanity of the prisoner.

On Good Terms.

Buenos Ayres, April 29.—President Uriburu of Argentina and President Montt of Chili have exchanged cordial dispatches over the signing of the protocol for a settlement of the boundary dispute. It is asserted that a mutual disarmament by the two countries will be proposed.

A CHINAMAN'S WIFE.

Death of a Quincy Girl of 26 Who Married Ming Yen.

A Boston paper says there was mourning in Chinatown Tuesday. Josie Ming Yen was being buried from her late home, 6 Oxford place, and not only Ming Yen, her Chinese husband, but all the white wives of the colony were sad.

Josie belonged in Quincy, where her friends and relatives live today. So far as they are concerned, however, she has been an outcast. She married when very young. Her first husband was a white man, but their life together was not congenial.

She was a Catholic by birth, if not by profession, and he a Protestant. Perhaps this difference had nothing to do with the fact that their affiliities did not revolve in the same circle, but they did not live happily, and a divorce was the result.

Four years ago Josie came to Chinatown and married Ming Yen. She had obtained a divorce at that time, and cherished the certificate with the other document which testified that she was the legal wife of Ming Yen.

Ming Yen is a big, good natured Chinaman, who runs a little store at 6 Oxford street, and Josie often said that she found him kinder than the Christian husband whom she had been separated from.

Josie had a desire to be buried with the ceremonies of the church in which she had been baptized, but the priest who responded to the call said that was out of the question. She had long ago severed all association with that church, and could not be admitted into it after her death.

Her husband would have wished it for her sake, but the other Chinamen were rather glad, for their own sake. They do not care to go to church, so they held a little service of their own, and religiously burnt joss sticks over her.

Big phlegmatic Ming Yen was the only Chinaman who followed the body to Mt. Hope. The other four carriages contained the women of the colony. Neither father, mother, brothers nor sisters were present. They had disowned the departed long ago. To them she was only a memory, just as she would be to all others before long—like an opium dream when the effects of the drug depart.

Move to Reprieve Holmes.

Philadelphia, April 29.—Lawyer Bullock of Indianapolis, who is in this city in the interest of H. H. Holmes, the convicted murderer of Benjamin F. Pietzel, admits that a reprieve will be applied for. One of the principal reasons for this step is that Holmes has become tired of standing alone in punishment for his crimes, and that if the government could be induced to grant him a brief respite he would divulge the names of several men who aided him. Mr. Bullock refused to mention the name of anyone equally guilty with Holmes, and he rather mysteriously intimated that the end of the Hatch story was about to be reached.

New French Cabinet.

Paris, April 29. — M. Meline has succeeded in forming his cabinet. It is made up as follows: M. Meline, premier and minister of agriculture; M. Barthou, minister of the interior; M. Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs; M. Cochery, minister of finance; M. Lebon, minister of the colonies; M. Valle, minister of commerce; General Billot, minister of war; M. Darlan, minister of justice; Admiral Besnard, minister of marine; M. Lacombe, minister of public works; M. Rambaud, minister of public instruction.

Roughly Handled.

Somerville, Mass., April 29.—Thomas A. McGovern is lying at the point of death from injuries received during trouble with Samuel Arnold, who is now under arrest. The trouble occurred Sunday, but its seriousness was not apparent until yesterday. Arnold is said to have pounded McGovern with an iron pipe and then thrown him into a tank of hot water. The injured man is engineer at the Derby Desk company's place and Arnold is his fireman.

Pure Blood is the safeguard of health. Keep your blood pure, rich and full of vitality by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and you will not need to fear the attacks of disease.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, constipation jaundice, sick headache, biliousness. 25c.

—It is proposed to reduce cow's milk to a dry powder, as being better for transportation and superior to condensed milk.

Smallpox at Waltham.

Waltham, Mass., April 29.—Mrs. Lillian Jones, who just returned from visiting relatives in Boston, was taken sick yesterday with smallpox. The board of health ordered her immediate removal to the pest house. The physicians are unable to find the cause of the infection.

New England Briefs.

Richard Crowley was convicted a second time for manslaughter at Boston.

Boston beggars, evidently frightened by the strict action of the police against them, are keeping out of sight.

Lee R. Hussey of Bingham, Me., pleaded guilty of using mails for the transmission of objectionable pictures.

C. A. P. Flanders, an Amesbury (Mass.) citizen of considerable prominence, dropped dead, aged 50 years.

George B. Chandler has been reappointed a member of the New Hampshire state forestry commission for four years.

Alexander McMillan, who shot O. N. Martin, was arraigned at Providence, and held in $1000 bonds for further appearance.

Mrs. Annie Morton, the postmistress of West Newfield, Me., who was indicted for embezzling $419, has restored the amount to the government, and pleaded guilty.

The first arrest for bicycle scorching, under the new Rhode Island law, was made at Providence. The accused paid a fine of $15.

Edward S. Stokes of New York is authority for the statement that he will not take charge of the Savoy in Boston, the late John Stetson's new hotel.

Patrick J. Gearin, a motorman, who was in control of a car which killed a little girl in Boston, is charged with manslaughter. Gearin was released on $5000 bail.

Miss Dora Spalding was elected a trustee to the Nashua, N. H., public library by the city council. She is the first woman ever elected to an office in that city.

A municipal election, held at Cambridge, Mass., resulted in the defeat, by about 400 votes, of the proposition that the city should maintain its own electric lighting plant.

An inquest into the drowning of an infant was made at Groveland, Mass. The body was found in the river by a dog which brought it ashore. No opinion was rendered.

Orison W. Gilbert, postmaster at Kingfield, Me., pleaded guilty to stealing $600 government funds, and was fined that amount and sentenced to nine months in Auburn jail.

Counsel for J. C. Moore failed to appear in the probate court at Nashua, N. H., when the order for an accounting of the estate of Nina D. Brookhouse was called, and the case was continued.

The British steamer Dora Forster, from Hamburg, arrived at Boston after experiencing fearful weather, during which extensive damage was done. Considerable damage is expected to her cargo of beet sugar.

Slaughtering Rebels.

Managua, April 29.—The government is celebrating a great victory over the insurgents. Having captured Las Paz, Pueblo, Luevo, Pital, Momotombo and Canas from the rebels, the government now controls the eastern part of the Leon railroad. Three officers and some men were killed on the government side, while 20 officers and 500 men among the rebels were slaughtered. President Zelaya and General Paiz led the government force. Two thousand rebels are surrounded in Momotombo, and unless they escape within 24 hours they may be killed. Five thousand rifles and a Krupp gun with ammunition arrived at Graytown, on special steamer, for the government. Two thousand rifles and ammunition have also arrived by special train from Salvador. Hundreds of families have escaped from the rebel city of Leon and gone to Salvador and Guatemala. The surrender of the rebels is expected to occur at any day.

Reform Blocked.

Berlin, April 29.—The Kolnische Zeitung connects the rumors of a cabinet crisis with the leave of absence granted to General von Spitz, who, it is expected, will be appointed president of the imperial court-martial. The Kolnische Zeitung concludes from this that the projected reform of the courts-martial has been deadlocked. In consequence the situation is serious. This journal declares that General von Hahnke, chief of the imperial military cabinet, is responsible for this state of affairs.

Still Worrying.

London, April 29.—The New York correspondent of The Times, speaking of the indifference displayed toward Balfour's expression of confidence in the ultimate peaceful solution of the Venezuela dispute, says: The judges who kindled or fed the fires of last December have since busied themselves with other incendiary projects, especially Cuba. The correspondent reiterates his conviction, however, that the official view of the status of the question is that it is dangerous.

Was Doing the Slums.

New York, April 29. — Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army, while out on a slumming expedition yesterday, was arrested, charged with wearing a disguise on the public streets. He was bailed out by Steve Brodie, who was his companion on the expedition. Bail was fixed at $1000. Some of Brodie's friends intimate that he told the police of the proposed expedition, and insist that the arrest is largely in the nature of a joke.

A Prosperous Country.

Guatemala, April 29.—Preparations for the exposition are progressing rapidly. It is untrue that President Reynoa is aiding the Nicaraguan revolutionists with arms and munitions. The present government is strictly for non-intervention with other states. New banks have been established and 500 new dwellings are building.

Matabeles Repulsed.

Cape Town, April 29.—A dispatch from Buluwayo says that three impi of Matabeles surrounded the town Monday, and were defeated and repulsed with great loss. The result of the fight, the dispatch says, has had a good effect in rendering the Matabeles less aggressive.

Some Are Alive.

Chihuahua, Mex., April 29. — Already over 20 dead bodies have been taken from the mine which collapsed there last week, and there are 40 persons still entombed. The rescuing party can hear the voices of those entombed.

BRAVE SPIRITS BROKEN.

How often women wake up in the morning cheerful and happy, determined to do so much before the day ends, and yet:—

Before the morning is very old, the dreadful BACKACHE appears, the brave spirit sinks back in affright; no matter how hard she struggles, the "clutch" is upon her, she falls upon the couch, crying:—"Why should I suffer so? What can I do?"

Lydia E. Pinkham's "Vegetable Compound" will stop the torture and restore courage. All such pains come from a deranged uterus. Trouble in the womb blots out the light of the sun at midday to a vast number of women.

Be advised—do as many others have done and are doing—procure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and commence without delay to realize the relief sure to bring you.

A Double-Header.

Montgomery, Ala., April 29.—The Republicans of Alabama held two state conventions here yesterday. One, the McKinley convention, adopted a ringing anti-free silver and protection platform and determined to put a straight-out Republican ticket in the field, headed by General J. W. Burke of Calhoun, a high-class Republican. The other, composed of all the anti-McKinley factions, adopted a platform declaring that all the other issues in Alabama were subservient to one—fair elections—and, therefore, all issues excepting this were avoided in the platform. "Sound money" and protection are not referred to in it. A resolution was adopted by the anti-McKinley forces that the Republicans fuse in the state elections with Populists, allowing the latter to name the nominee for governor, and dividing the balance of the state ticket between the parties. The anti-McKinley convention nominated four delegates to St. Louis. The delegates are said to be divided in their preferences, each one favoring Quay, Allison, Morton and Reed.

President or Nothing.

Washington, April 28.—The published story to the effect that Speaker Reed might agree to take second place on a ticket with McKinley is amusing rather than serious for the adherents of the man from Maine.

Hon. J. H. Manley of Maine denies that there is any truth in the report.

"There is absolutely nothing in it," said Mr. Manley. "Mr. Reed will not take second place on the ticket with anybody; he has no ambition to be the vice president of the United States. When I was in St. Louis it was suggested to me that it would be a good thing for a man like Mr. Reed to be in the chair of the vice president and revolutionize the customs and rules of the senate. I told those who suggested it that, unfortunately for their theory, the senate was differently constituted, and the rules of the one body could not be made to apply to the other through the mere ruling of the presiding officer. I very much doubt if Mr. Reed or any other man will ever be able, single-handed and alone, to change the rules of the senate.

"The story has no foundation in fact. Mr. Reed is a candidate for the presidential nomination at St. Louis and nothing else. You may make this statement with such emphasis that it cannot be misunderstood."

Cleveland Endorsed.

Lincoln, Neb., April 29.—The second Nebraska Democratic convention to select delegates to the national convention convened here today. This is the "sound money" element of the party. The convention adopted a sound money platform and endorsed the Cleveland administration. The sound money leaders are confident that their delegates will be recognized as the legal representatives of Nebraska Democracy at the Chicago convention.

For Silver.

Burlington, Vt., April 29.—The People's party state committee met here last night, with an attendance of 15. The hope was expressed that the party would join with the silver movement, and the following were selected as delegates: S. W. Ward, Shoreham; G. E. Holden, Montpelier; A. J. Beebe, Swanton, and N. E. Baker, Burlington.

HARD TO BEAT.

The Bostons Capture Still Another Game From the Giants.

New York, April 28.—Mains, the Boston's down easter, pitched his first full league game, and did well. The spectators and players did their best to rattle him, but did not succeed to any extent till the last inning, when he appeared to weaken a little. The Boston infield was a perfect stone wall.

New York .....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 2—3

Earned runs—Boston, 3; New York, 2. Base hits—Boston, 6; New York, 10. Errors—New York, 5. Batteries—Mains and Ryan; Bowen and Farrell.

At Pittsburg—Pittsburg, 2; Cleveland, 0
At Philadelphia—Brooklyn, 12; Philadelphia, 5.
At Baltimore—Washington, 9; Baltimore, 5.

Bonus Cut Down.

Washington, April 29. — Still further corrections in the record made by the battleship Massachusetts in her speed trial last Saturday show that she developed an average speed of 16.2079 knots instead of 16.279, as previously reported. This reduces the contractors' bonus from $125,000 to $100,000, which is still, however, $50,000 more than the speed premium earned by the Indiana.

Twenty-Five Children Hurt.

Milwaukee, April 29.—A runaway team attached to a hack dashed into a crowd of children who were emerging from St. Anthony's church school yesterday afternoon. Twenty-five of the little ones were prostrated, seven were badly injured and two of them will probably die.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

ALMANAC, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29.
Sun rises—4:40 a. m.; sets, 6:42 p. m.
Length of day—14 hours 2 minutes.
Moon rises—9:57 p. m.
High water—12m.; 12:45 p. m.
Forecast for Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont: Local showers, probably followed by fair weather; westerly winds, becoming variable.
For Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut: Generally fair, probably preceded by light local showers on the coast; variable winds.

IN FAVOR OF MOORE.

Points In the Doctor's Case Likely to Go Before Full Bench.

Verdict In Lower Court Matters But Little.

One of Moore's Bondsmen Declined to Act as Such Any Longer.

Nashua, N. H., April 30.—Dr. E. H. Everett of this city last night surrendered Dr. Moore, for whom he was bondsman, to Jailer Wardsworth. Dr. Everett, on Thursday last, with Frank Davis of Canterbury, went on Moore's bond for $5000. In explanation, Dr. Everett says that he supposed the bond was simply to give Dr. Moore his liberty until the renewal of the trial. Instead of that it was to hold good during the trial, and as he was already on a previous bond for $1500 he did not care for the additional responsibility.

General Streeter had a regular Hotchkiss rapid-firing gun of exceptions and points turned on the case yesterday afternoon, with the consequence that he almost had the case ruled out of the court during a private conference before Judge Wallace, in the court rom, at which counsel for both sides were present.

There is not much said about the matter, principally because it appears to have been one which would have meant the discharge of the respondent if it had been accomplished, but it is known that matters got to a pass where everything was going the doctor's way, until the judge decided that it would be better to have the full law term decide on the points raised by the defendant's counsel, and, therefore, allowed the questioned evidence to go in, at the same time noting the exceptions of the defendant's lawyers.

Therefore, it matters little whether the jury in this case brings in a verdict of conviction or acquittal. The real battle royal is coming when the full bench of the supreme court listens to the points raised by the men who are fighting for the interest of the doctor.

The point of law is that a great deal of the stock of The Union Publishing company was issued illegally, not alone that which it is claimed was over-issued, but that which was disposed of under the 1500 shares limit. This, of course, means, also, that some of the holders who believe their shares are all right must look carefully to their interests or they will find themselves lacking. That is, of course, providing that the full bench decides that the contentions of the defense are based on legitimate premises.

It can readily be seen that this is a most important question, and one that can scarcely be properly decided by a decision of fact by a jury. It must come before the full bench for a decision.

Judge Wallace, in his address to the jury, yesterday, said, in part: "Gentlemen, you must not read any newspapers while this trial is in progress. If you have any newspapers sent to you by mail don't read them. The court is very strenuous in making these suggestions, because the hearing of this case was begun last week and was broken up, with considerable expense to the county and much trouble for the lawyers on both sides."

Missed His Aim.

Hartford, April 30.—Edward K. Bethel, a member of the Hoodman Blind company, now playing at Boston, attempted to shoot his wife, a member of the William H. Crane company, now playing in this city, at Hotel Heublein yesterday afternoon. Five shots were fired, but none of them took effect. Bethel is now under arrest, charged with assault and attempt to kill. Mrs. Bethel, who is known in theatrical circles as Dallas Tyler, has been separated from her husband for some time. The police say that Bethel was intoxicated.

Crowley Sentenced.

Boston, April 30. — Richard Crowley yesterday was sentenced in the superior court by Judge Bond to the state prison for not less than seven, nor more than 12 years for manslaughter, in causing the death of John E. Burns on May 4, 1895. Crowley was convicted of the crime after being twice tried. He stabbed Burns with a large bread knife, which he picked up from a table in the barroom of William Jacobs on New Heath street.

Rubber Company Absorbed.

Boston, April 30.—The United States Rubber company has absorbed the Boston Rubber company, which has been one of the substantial sources of income for the people of Chelsea and Franklin, where the factories of the company are located. The change in control means a serious loss to the operatives in both places, as the factories will be closed and the work will be transferred to factories of the rubber trust in other states.

Brothers Ready to Help.

Providence, April 30.—The strike of tailors here, which began last week, now includes all but two small shops. At a meeting of the Journeymen Tailors' Protective union yesterday a communication was read from the national organization informing them that their funds were at the disposal of the Providence strikers if needed. The master tailors are arranging to have their work done by outside tailors.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

ALMOST IN RUINS.

Another Fire Cleans Out the Greater Part of Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Colo., April 30.—A fire which broke out in the Portland hotel shortly after noon yesterday destroyed about all that was left of Cripple Creek after the great conflagration of last Saturday. Four persons were killed by explosions and at least 14 injured, several of them fatally. The flames spread with great rapidity, and although strenuous efforts were made to check the progress of the fire by blowing up the buildings with dynamite, they proved of no avail. All the business buildings are in ruins, and nothing is left of the town except the railroad stations and a few scattered houses. The fire raged fiercely all the afternoon, and only died out last night for lack of fuel on which to feast. The origin of the fire appears to be accidental, though the general belief is that it was incendiary. There has been talk crediting Saturday's fire to such origin, and this one coming so close upon it gives rise to suspicion. Frank Angel the Portland chef, cannot be found.

Big Strike Is On.

Philadelphia, April 30.—A general strike on all the street railway lines of the Union Traction company was ordered late yesterday afternoon, and goes into effect at 4 o'clock this morning, when the day cars are due to begin their runs. With the exception of two comparatively short cross-town lines not controlled by this company every railway line in the city is affected by the order. The company employs nearly 6000 men, but at this hour (3 a.m.) how many will go out is a matter of conjecture. The order to strike emanated from the central board of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, after an all day session. It was the direct result of correspondence between a committee of employes and J. L. Walsh, president of the Union Traction company, when a proposition, offered by the men, to submit their grievances to arbitration, was summarily rejected by President Walsh. The principal question at issue is the demand of the men for $2 for a 10-hour day. The company has positively declared that such a demand cannot for a moment be considered. Other grievances are alleged discrimination in favor of men employed since the strike of December last and the dismissal of old employes for trivial reasons.

Holmes Must Hang.

Harrisburg, April 30.—Governor Hastings yesterday refused to grant a respite in the case of H. H. Holmes, who is to be hanged on May 7 for the murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel. In behalf of Holmes a petition was sent to the governor setting out that Holmes has $40,000 worth of property, out of most of which he is being cheated, and that he wants time to recover it so that he may bequeath it to his heirs. He desires to produce evidence showing that he is guilty of the death of but two persons their deaths being the result of criminal operations performed by him as a medical practitioner.

Smalley Was Wrong.

New York, April 30. — An American banker of the highest repute, who is now in London, and who has ample access to inside information, has advised his house here that the reports set on foot by Mr Smalley concerning difficulties in the settlement of the Venezuelan controversy were exaggerated and in many respects unwarrantable. He learns from the highest authority that the controversy is in a fair way to amicable adjustment, so promising that they consider it no longer a menace to American securities abroad.

Socialists Are Kicking.

Paris, April 30.—While it is evident that there will be a sharp struggle in the chamber of deputies as one of the results of the formation of the new Meline cabinet, the press is less hostile and concedes that M. Meline, in offering portfolios to Progressive Radicals adopted a conciliatory course. This concession, however, does not satisfy the Socialists and Radicals. The Socialis organs charge Faure with treason in encouraging the resistance of the senate and thus compelling M. Bourgeois to resign.

Supper and Sale.

The Chapel Builders of the Centre Congregational church held a successful sale in the chapel Wednesday afternoon and evening, which proved also a very social occasion. The hours were from 4 to 10.

A feature of the sale was the children's table, the articles for which were solicited and sold by children under ten years. They were Bessie Merrill, Ramie Doble, Joel Sheppard and Carl Prescott, with Robert Hall as cashier. The table netted quite a sum.

The confectionery table was in charge of Miss Lillie Taber, assisted by Miss Bailey and Miss Pettengill.

There were also three fancy tables in charge of the directors—Mrs. Frank E. Hall, Mrs. James F. Merrill, Mrs. C. F. Badger, Mrs. George H. Hitchcock, Mrs. C. W. Guy and Mrs. James McFarlane, assisted by young ladies.

At 6.30 a baked bean supper was served and all pronounced it a good one. It was presided over by Mrs. A. H. Gilson who was assisted by many willing workers.

There was also an impromptu entertainment, which was evidently pleasing as each artist was recalled. It included piano solos by Miss Orcutt, violin duets by John Black and Miss Black a song by Mr. Tanner, violin obligato by John Black, songs by Warren Mitchell, banjo solos by Master Munroe, recitations by Jesse Gould, and songs by Miss Haynes.

Wales served creams and cake during the evening.

A Large Party.

The wives and daughters of the members of the Granite City club met at the rooms yesterday afternoon and had a grand good time. There were nine tables in use and some very smart whist playing was noticed. When any of the members became warm, or excited, they found in the front parlor a good bowl of cool ice lemonade to quench their thirst.

The first prizes were taken by Mrs. J. P. Sears and Mrs. Joseph C. Morse.

The second prizes by Mrs. S. O. Moxon and Miss A. Nightingale.

The third prizes by Mrs. Austin Winslow and Mrs. Arthur Mitchell.

In the evening the gentlemen met and tried their luck at this fashionable game, with the following result: First prize was taken by Geo. W. Prescott and the second by E. W. H. Bass.

Norfolk Objects.

It is not surprising that the Senators and Representatives from Norfolk county, headed by Mr. Utley, of Brookline, who was on the sub-committee, object to joining Norfolk county towns to a Worcester Senatorial district.

To be sure the county has more voters than are necessary for two senatorial districts, but the voters prefer that state of things to a union with Worcester county. The three towns which it is proposed to put with the Worcester district, Bellingham, Franklin and Wrentham, are now all in the 2d Norfolk district. If this change is made the two Norfolk districts must be rearranged, but if not, they will be left practically as they are now.

ANOTHER WEEK

Before the County Investigation Will Begin.

Conference Today of the Committee and Interested Parties.

Doubtful as to How Prosecuting Counsel Shall be Employed.

(Special to the DAILY LEDGER.)

STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, April 30, 1896.

The special committee of the Legislature to investigate the doings of the Norfolk County Commissioners, was on hand promptly at ten o'clock this morning at room 132, to hold a conference with the petitioners and others interested.

Among those from Quincy were Mayor Adams, City Solicitor Blackmur, Henry H. Faxon, and Frank F. Prescott of the LEDGER.

Commissioners Morrill, Bowker and Blanchard were there, and were represented by Judge Grover and his associate. Also Judge French of Braintree, ex-Commissioner Wiggin, Selectman Codman of Brookline and others.

One was struck at the outset by the business air and intelligence of the committee, and an impartial and thorough investigation may be expected.

Chairman Sanger said the committee was desirous to learn whether there were any charges to be made; what the intentions and wish of the petitioners were; whether they would be represented by counsel, etc. The order for the investigation did not authorize the employment of counsel. He had consulted the Attorney General, but that official was inclined to the opinion that as this was wholly a county matter he ought not to take a hand. At this point the committee desired to hear from those interested.

City Solicitor Blackmur of Quincy said he appeared temporarily, and did not know whether he should later or not. He desired to learn what towns were interested.

Selectman Codman, of Brookline, was glad to have the investigation and hoped it would be thorough. Thought committee should have counsel.

Judge French of Braintree said his town was not represented in its corporate capacity. But he was authorized by the Selectmen to appear without charge. He had objected to the estimates last year, but the hearings were unsatisfactory. Again this year objection was made to the estimates and they have been cut down some. The testimony introduced showed the need of this investigation. He did not appear as a public prosecutor, but what evidence he had would be freely given. It was extremely desirable that the committee should have counsel of its own. Hoped investigation would establish truth.

No other towns being represented, Judge Grover, for the Commissioners, said he thought some statements should be made by somebody to simplify matters. That it was fair to the commissioners, and fair to contractors interested. Specific charges like an indictment were not necessary. The commissioners would give all assistance possible in the investigation.

Mr. Blackmur said the order called for a full investigation. The petitioners had not been able to get at all the facts, as the commissioners were not on the stand at the county hearings. If the Commissioners could use county money to defend themselves here, the county might also employ counsel for the taxpayers of the county.

Judge Grover thought if petitioners had not obtained desired information it was because they had not gone to the right place. If they were unable to get information let that be one of the charges.

Representative Utley of Brookline, who had moved the passage of the order in the House, believed it was understood that the investigation should be thorough. That if the committee considered that counsel could aid them they undoubtedly were privileged to employ one. The committee would not be relieved of its responsibility to investigate, even if the interested towns united and were represented by counsel.

Judge Grover thought petitioners were well represented. This was not a political investigation. Nothing wrong had yet been intimated. We should have charges.

Judge French said the papers had been full of charges.

Judge Grover— What are they?

Judge French—This is not the proper time to make them. There will be no lack of evidence at the proper time.

Judge Grover said he did not wish to be understood as opposing the employment of counsel.

The committee then went into executive session.

A Social.

The Memorial Congregational society, Atlantic, gave a social in the church Wednesday evening. The attendance was quite large and the evening was pleasantly spent in social conversation, resulting in many introductions. Chocolate and coffee was poured and served by several young ladies and the affair generally was deemed a royal success.

FAXON LODGE.

A New Lodge of Good Templars Instituted at Atlantic.

Faxon lodge, I. O. G. T., was instituted Wednesday evening at the Atlantic Methodist church by D. C. T. Chislomn, assisted by P. G. C. Hathaway, P. G. C. T. Dixon and members of S. A. Wilbur and Wollaston lodges.

These officers were elected and installed:
C. T.,—Rev. Ira E. Price.
V. T.,—Miss Flora E. Brown.
F. S.,—Miss Lula C. Nelson.
T.,—Mrs. James Burr.
Chaplain,—Miss Mabel F. Burr.
R. S.,—John Ramsdell.
Marshal,—Mrs. A. M. Seaman.
Deputy,—Clarence Seaman.
Sentinel,—Duncan Seaman.
Guard,—Charles N. Wood.
P. C. T.,—Charles Gearwar.
Deputy G. C. T.,—Mrs. Eugene E. Jordon.

The new lodge will meet Thursday evenings.

Burkhardt—Dickenson.

Mr. Herman Burkhardt and Miss Harriet Dickenson were married at noon Wednesday in Dorchester. The young man is well known at Atlantic and Squantum, and Miss Dickenson is the daughter of Mrs. George H. Dickenson, and sister of Mrs. George F. Ingalls, of Alexander street, Dorchester, where the wedding took place.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Adolph Biewend of Roxbury. Fred Meyer of New York acted as best man. Only the relatives of both families were present. The bride was gowned in white silk tulle over white silk, with thread insertion. At her throat was a diamond sunburst, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of bride roses, and a few roses were arranged in her hair.

The maid of honor, Miss Emilie Burkhardt, sister of the groom, was gowned in white satin and chiffon, with point lace, and her bouquet was of Catherine Mermet roses.

Mme. Pauline Burkhardt, mother of the groom wore black satin brocade, with point applique lace and diamonds.

Baron and Baroness von Scholley of Germany were present. The baroness was in tan silk with point lace.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Burkhardt and three daughters were also present. Mrs. Ingalls wore black brocade, with a Dresden silk waist, veiled with Brussels net.

Mrs. George H. Dickinson, mother of the bride, was in black silk and lace.

Among others were Mrs. Stoddard, C. L. Carter and Carl Stahl.

The house was handsomely decorated with palms and roses. After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt will occupy their new house in Brookline.

The Neighborhood Whist Club.

The Neighborhood Whist club of Wollaston held their final meeting at the house of Mr. E. F. De Normandie, on Tuesday evening. Refreshments were served, and a pleasant evening passed.

The ladies' prize for the evening was taken by Mrs. Barbour and the ladies' final prize, a handsome cut glass dish by Mrs. A. H. Sayward; both gentlemen's prizes were taken by Mr. E. F. De Normandie; the final prize being a fine dress suit case.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what we say, but by what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It has a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and exclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses

WANTED IN QUINCY, A LARGE HALL

This is the last day of April.

Do you go Maying tomorrow?

Potatoes are advertised today at 35 cents.

The temperature at Pettengill's at noon today was 50 degrees.

A patent was issued to Peter H. Berrighin of this city, this week.

A number of trees in the old Hancock cemetery are being cut down.

Rev. E. N. Hardy preached at North Weymouth Sunday afternoon.

Several of Timberlake & Small's horses are troubled with pink eye and are unable to be used.

Boston will replank and otherwise improve its part of the Neponset bridge next week.

The 5th regiment, in which is Co. K of Braintree, will parade at the Cambridge celebration June 3.

The squirrels which have resided in Roger Bros.' store for some time have been provided with a new house.

Quincy Forty-Niners were at the semi-annual meeting of Society of California Pioneers on Wednesday in Boston.

Mrs. Annie M. Seaman has moved from Newbury avenue to a tenement in the Boisclair house on Squantum street.

John Ramsdell, of Atlantic, has up, a luxuriant growth of sweet peas. He has several new and choice varieties this season.

The Epworth League, connected with the West Quincy Methodist church held a sociable and entertainment at the church Wednesday evening.

John W. Hersey has decided to erect this season a double tenement house in the rear of his residence on Coddington street. Work on the foundation has already commenced.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Quincy Christian Endeavor Union will be held at the Congregational church, Atlantic, on Monday evening, May 4. Address by Rev. Allan B. Hudson. All welcome.

Work was begun today on the new Massachusetts Fields school at Norfolk Downs. Ex-Councilman W. T. Shea has the sub contract for the cellar for this school and the Gridley Bryant school at the Railway.

The next meeting of Francis L. Souther camp 27, S. of V., will be held Tuesday evening, May 5, at which time the Southeastern association of S. of V. will hold their regular meeting. Any camp wishing to become a member may do so by making application in writing.

Mrs. Marshall P. Nye, who has been quite sick this spring, is much better, and intends to leave this week for Camden, New Jersey, to visit her sister. There is no doubt that a change in the air and scenery will do her good, and it is the wish of her many friends that she may return in a few weeks with renewed life and vigor.

Will the Odd Fellows give us a large hall in their new building. In East Lynn the Odd Fellows have built a handsome three-story structure of Romanesque design. The ground floor is fitted for stores, and on the second floor is a large entertainment hall and other conveniences, including billiard and card rooms. The third floor is reserved for the main lodge room and a suite of parlors. A tall flagstaff adorns the top.

Rev. Ira E. Price preached two very forcible sermons last Sunday at the Atlantic Methodist church. There is a marked increase Sunday by Sunday in the congregation; also in the attendance and membership of the Sabbath school. Apparently the vicissitudes of the past, which are the common experience of new societies, is developing into a more permanent and satisfactory work.

FALSEHOODS AND CREMATION.

The Q. H. S. Debating Club Consider Both These Subjects.

The Quincy High school debating society held its weekly meeting on Wednesday. Secretary Nichols presented his report. On motion of Mr. W. Walsh, '97, seconded by Mr. F. Walsh, '97, the report was accepted.

The election of officers was in order. Nominations were made and those marked with an asterisk were elected:

For President,—Mr. Nichols, '97; * Miss Lord, '96; Miss Briggs, '96.

For Vice President, — Mr. William Walsh, '97; * Mr. Briggs, '97; Miss Anna Healy, '96.

For Secretary,—Mr. Saunders, '97; * Miss Burns, '96; Miss Emery, '96; Mr. Coe, '96.

For Treasurer,—Mr. Wilkins, '97; * Miss Cook, '97; Miss Butler, '96.

The debate of last week was concluded.

Miss Barry maintained that falsehood is never justifiable. One of Washington's chief claims to fame was his truthfulness. Even the sick ought to be told the truth. Young men's compliments are not very sincere.

Miss Cook said that falsehood is sometimes necessary in the case of the sick. The insane should not always be told the truth.

Miss Burke denounced "white lies." Direct questions may sometimes be evaded.

The Board of Decision brought in a verdict for the affirmative.

The entertainment followed:

Recitation, Miss Emery.

Essay, "The Story of the Iliad," Mr. MacKenzie, '97.

Essay, Miss Dunham '96, "Our Cooking Lessons."

The new debate was this subject: "Resolved, That Cremation Should be Substituted for Earth Burial."

Miss Duffield said that cremation prevents premature burials. Earth burial is injurious to the public health.

Miss Bertha Hayden said that earth burial has the sanction of long custom, cremation is expensive. Earth burial has many practical associations that cremation does not possess.

Miss Geer objected to the expense of earth burial and to its unhealthfulness.

The rest of the debate was postponed.

May Magazines.

The May number of the Delineator is called the commencement number. Its forecast of summer styles in dress and millinery is complete, including, beside the usual monthly display, a number of Commencement gowns and a chapter on the latest ideas in attire for bicycling. The Delineator is the women's favorite magazine, and is issued by the famous fashion publishers, the Butterick Publishing Co.

The complete novel in the May Lippincott's is "An Impending Sword," by H. A. Vachell, and is one of the best yet printed in this popular magazine. Other articles are "Resaca," by Maurice Thompson; "From the Valley of the Shadder," by Carrie Morgan; "Love in the Afternoon," by Clara Laughlin, "The Fiddle Told," by Nora C. Franklin and "The Last Duels in America," by one of the principals in both.

In the May issue of "Table Talk," that invaluable little magazine for housekeepers, one finds much of interest that is seasonable in the culinary line, as well as many hints through which the home-maker wants to stick the proverbial pin.

NAMES SELECTED

For New Schoolhouses do Not Meet With Favor.

Gridley Bryant Has Some Supporters but More Opponents.

Some Interviews and Suggestions of More Appropriate Names.

The names selected by the School Committee for the two new schoolhouses do not seem to meet with general favor. In the first place they are considered rather long and then it is thought that many more appropriate names might have been selected than "Gridley Bryant" and "Massachusetts Fields;" and, as there seems to be an almost general dissatisfaction especially over the name of Gridley Bryant, it is possible that the School Committee may reconsider its vote of Tuesday evening.

The LEDGER has interviewed a number of gentlemen in relation to the names selected particularly that selected for the school at the Rail and as will be seen by the following there is an almost general feeling against the name of Gridley Bryant.

Postmaster James F. Burke

One of the best known citizens of Ward Four when asked how he liked the name selected by the School Committee for the new school building at the Rail said he did not like it. Mr. Bryant was a railroad man and had never done anything for the Quincy schools and there was no connecting link between him and the schools. Mr. Burke's preference for a name was "Francis W. Parker."

Mr. Parker was the man who introduced the Quincy school system which is now known all over the United States. He took great pride in the Quincy schools and there was no better way to perpetuate his name than by naming a school building after him.

It will take the children who attend the school years before they can realize who Bryant was, but with Parker they can easily grasp the connecting link between him and the Quincy schools.

Charles H. Brooks.

Does not like Bryant for a name and thinks the School Committee might as well named it after some Hook and Ladder Company. He thought if it was called Francis W. Parker school, after Quincy's first superintendent, it would have been very appropriate.

Charles C. Hearn

Did not consider that he was well enough acquainted with Quincy's history to give much of an opinion, but he considered both names selected rather far fetched. He thought it would have been very appropriate and a mark of tribute to our late Governor to have named one of the buildings the Greenhalge school.

R. F. Claflin

thought the names selected were all right.

William T. Shea

Did not see why Gridley Bryant was not a good name for the new school at West Quincy. It will serve, he said, to perpetuate the name of the engineer of the first railroad in America.

T. L. Williams

Thought the names selected rather long. Simply the name Bryant would have sounded better. If the desire is to keep alive the fact that the first railroad in America was built in that section of our city why not call it the Rail, or Railway, school.

A Commendable Purpose.

Mr. C. I. Hood, the proprietor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, is known to be a great lover of animals. He is the owner of Hood Farm, which is situated a few miles from Lowell and is well known as the home of the famous Jerseys which won the prizes at the World's Fair. There are over 250 head, and it is undoubtedly the finest herd of Jerseys in the world.

Mr. Hood is making an effort to distribute some of this high bred stock over the farms of this section, believing that the interest of the farmers will thus be greatly promoted. The first annual auction sale of Hood Farm Jerseys is to be held Friday, May 8. A handsome, illustrated catalogue of the sale may be had by sending address to Hood Farm, Lowell, Mass.

Sea Shore Lots.

A large tract of land belonging to the John Quincy Adams farm has been purchased by Boston parties, who will soon put it on the market. It is located near "Quincy Woods," on the east side of Sea street, as you go to Houghs Neck. It is good high land, bordering on Quincy bay; and a lot of summer houses will make a great change in the appearance of this old cow pasture. Mr. John Cashman has been secured to build the streets, which are already staked out, and work will be pushed rapidly forward, so that the lots can be sold this season.

TODAY'S COURT.

John P. Keefe, George A. Ross and Joseph M. Burke, the three men last seen with William F. Gilligan whose dead body was found at Weymouth last week and who were held as witnesses, were discharged Wednesday after the inquest, there being no evidence to show that they were in any way responsible for his death.

Base Ball.

Adams Academy put a team containing three substitutes in the field yesterday against Milton Academy, and still was able to win a handsome victory. Whiton pitched a good game, striking out thirteen men and allowing them only two single hits. The fielding of the Milton nine was loose and several wild throws made base-running easy for the home team. Whiton led the batting for Adams. Nichols and Holden played their bases well.

The catching of Manierre for Milton was good, and Raymond's field work was up to the standard of good ball-playing. The right-fielder, Eustis, was the only man on the visiting nine to hit the ball safely.

As Milton Academy refuses to play against a nine on which teachers play, Mr. Hall and Mr. Linfield took a holiday yesterday. Below is the score in full:

Fruit Prospects.

The pretty white cherry blossoms are beginning to make their appearance, and there is good prospects of a fine crop.

The buds on the peach trees were nearly all killed in this vicinity by the severe cool weather last winter, and a very few blossoms will be seen in Quincy or vicinity.

The apple trees from every indication will be full of their attractive blossoms in a few weeks, and our citizens who have apple orchards that are not injured by the canker worms may expect a large crop this fall.

The pear trees do not look as promising as the apple, but a good supply may be expected.

THE ONLY GOLD MEDAL

Has Cured Others And Will Cure You.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs.

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter; "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases are, that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

Sold by all druggists.

London, April 30. — M. Courbertin president of the international committee of the Olympic games, writes to The Times that the games in 1900 will be held in Paris, and for 1904 the committee will choose between New York, Berlin and Stockholm. The original plan, he says, of taking the games to different points around the world will be adhered to.

Rain Badly Needed.

Madrid, April 30.—A meeting of the cabinet was held yesterday to consider the serious conditions in Spain, due to drought, which has almost destroyed the cereal crops. The cabinet decided to enter upon the organization of relief works. Unless there is rain before the middle of May the loss from the drought will amount to £36,000,000.

—It is a subject of newspaper comment in Southern California that cents are beginning to be used there in stores and in commercial transactions generally. It is only a few years since any coin smaller than a nickle was a great rarity anywhere west of the Missouri. If the price of anything figured out two cents, the odd cents were deducted; if three of four cents, the purchaser paid a nickle.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

BY Virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Harris Farnum and Abbie E. Farnum to the City of Quincy, dated April 9, 1891, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 652, Fol. 403, for breach of the conditions contained in said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on MONDAY, May 11, 1896, at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, namely:

Two parcels of land with buildings thereon, situated in the westerly part of said Quincy. The first parcel is bounded in said mortgage deed as follows, viz.: Westerly on land now or late of James Connell, southwesterly on Copeland street, easterly on a small triangular piece of land at the junction of said street with Cemetery street, now Crescent street, known as the "flat-iron," and northerly on said Cemetery street, now Crescent street, containing about one-third of an acre. Also all the Mortgagor's interest in the said triangular piece, being the same premises described in the deed of Geo. H Locke to said Harris Farnum and Frank A. Lane, dated May 2, 1870, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 393, Fol. 33.

The second parcel is bounded northeasterly on Cemetery street, now Crescent street, fifty-six [56] feet; southeasterly on land of James Connell, ninety-five [95] feet; southwesterly on Copeland street, fifty-six [56] feet; northwesterly on land of James F. Desmond, ninety-five [95] feet. Said property is subject to the right of said Desmond and his heirs and assigns to enter a pipe in the well thereon for the purpose of drawing water. Being the same premises conveyed to said Abbie E. Farnum by Francis E. Ellis, by deed dated May 30, 1878, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 501, Fol. 263.

Said premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes.

Terms, $500 cash to be paid at the time and place of sale and the balance upon the delivery of the deed.

"THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

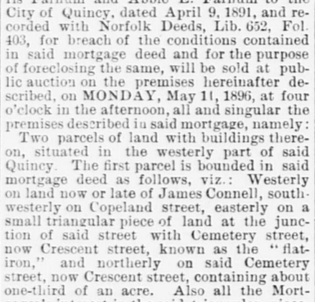

IS HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGE."

Every Man Who Would Know the Grand Truths, the Plain Facts, the New Discoveries of Medical Science as Applied to Married Life, Who Would Atone for Past Errors and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book Called "Complete Manhood, and How to Attain It."

"Here at last is information from a high medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

A method by which to end all unnatural drains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self-control, despondency, &c.

To exchange a jaded and worn nature for one of brightness, buoyancy and power.

To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry, &c.

To give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Age no barrier. Failure impossible. Two thousand references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who had applied to us, soon after wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper, and the company promises to send the book, in sealed envelope, without any marks, and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

UITLANDERS' REVOLT.

Boers Refused to Place Themselves at Mercy of Foreigners.

Reforms Doggedly Fought Off by Boer Government.

Kruger Tempers Justice With Mercy and Commutes Death Sentences.

Pretoria, April 30.—The Uitlanders who have come into the Transvaal, and have built up the flourishing city of Johannesburg, opened up a vast mining industry and attracted such a swarm of enterprising, aggressive men, drawn from the fortune-hunting elements of all nations, as to threaten to soon outnumber the Boers in their own land, are regarded by the sturdy Dutch South Africans of President Kruger's republic very much as the Mormon saints regarded the "Gentiles" when they began to pour into Utah after railroad connection was established with it. "Uitlanders," meaning out-of-the-land people, or outlaws, is the equivalent Boer expression to "Gentiles" as the Mormons of Brigham Young's day used it. It was in 1880 that the Boers began to be badly troubled with the Uitlander invasion. Their old adversaries, the British, having extended their protectorate over Zululand, began a movement in that year to annex the Transvaal. A convention packed by British influences met at Pretoria, the Boer capital, and went through the forms of voting for annexation to Great Britain.

But the tenacious burghers were not to be thus stampeded by a machine-made convention of Uitlanders. They no sooner heard what had been done and that a body of 400 British troops had been ordered up to occupy Pretoria than they took to the field with their deadly rifles. The British troops never reached Pretoria. In one small but stubborn fight after another the Boers beat back the queen's soldiers, under General Sir George Colley, and finally inflicted upon them the sanguinary defeat of Majuba Hill.

At no time in this famous campaign were there more than 700 British troops engaged. Ten times that number might have been quickly sent up from Natal to retrieve the prestige lost at Majuba Hill, but Mr. Gladstone, who was then premier, decided that morally the Boers were right, and that Great Britain was strong enough to do justice and leave them to enjoy their independence without regard to the bad effect upon the British military reputation in South Africa which the Majuba Hill disaster might have. So a treaty of peace was made, by which the Transvaal republic preserved its autonomy, but, as Mr. Gladstone stipulated, was to be subject to Great Britain's guidance and control in its foreign relations. But this limitation President Kruger is now understood to deny, and the German emperor has seemed to be ready to help him sustain the denial.

Soon after the Gladstone treaty of peace was signed, gold was found in large quantities in the Transvaal. That inevitably brought a new rush of Uitlanders. The Boer government has doggedly fought them off. It has imposed heavy taxes on their mines and special taxes on their mining tools, all with the idea of driving them off. But the mines have paid so well that, in spite of all these taxes, the Uitlanders have kept on coming.

Johannesburg, the metropolis of the Uitlanders, is today the finest city in South Africa. It has good streets, electric lighting, street railways, fine hotels, churches, banks, theaters and all the incidentals of high civilization — except equal rights on election day. The Boer government bars out a majority of the residents of Johannesburg from the rights of citizenship because they are Uitlanders. They will have no language but the Dutch in the courts or schools, though the population of the city mostly speaks English. So the Uitlanders, intelligent English-speaking men, owning most of the city's property, find themselves without courts, schools or votes—practically with no rights that a Boer official is bound to respect.

On Dec. 26, 1895, the National Union of the Transvaal, of which Charles Seward was chairman, issued a manifesto at Johannesburg, in which they declared they would labor for these ends:

1. The establishment of a republic as a true republic under constitution approved by the whole people.
2. An equitable franchise and fair representation.
3. The equality of the Dutch and English languages.
4. The responsibility to the legislature of the heads of the great departments.
5. The removal of religious disabilities.
6. The establishment of independent courts of justice, with adequate pay for the judges, which shall be properly secured.
7. Liberal education.
8. An efficient civil service, with an adequate pay and pension system.
9. Free trade in African products.

On Dec. 28, 1895, the alleged appeal to Dr. Jameson from the Uitlanders in the Transvaal was reported to have been sent, and the next day Jameson and his party started for the Transvaal. The third day the British and others at Johannesburg, instead of marching to Jameson's assistance, sent to President Kruger and obtained concessions. On Dec. 31, while Jameson was still marching on, Sir Hercules Robinson, imperial governor of Cape Colony, issued a proclamation calling on loyal subjects of the queen to disown Jameson and keep tranquil. On the first day of the new year Jameson was met by the Boers at Krugersdorp and defeated, on Jan. 2 he was again defeated at Doornkop, and on Jan. 3 he was in jail.

At the moment of the failure of this ill-timed attempt at the impossible, Cecil Rhodes, whom the latest evidence threatens to implicate more thoroughly than ever in the Jameson raid, resigned the premiership of Cape Colony. Then came the arrests of residents of Johannesburg on the charge of treason, the cablegrams of Jan. 7 announcing the arrest of several men, including Farrar. On the night of Jan. 9 Colonel Rhodes and Lionel Phillips were arrested, and the other arrests followed soon afterward. On Jan. 21 the Transvaal government positively refused to admit John Hays Hammond to bail, and the only prisoners who were refused their freedom on this condition, at the time at which all others were admitted to bail, were Rhodes, Hammond, Farrar, Phillips and Fitzpatrick.

Sentences Commuted.

Dr. W. J. Leyds, secretary of state of the South African republic, yesterday announced that the death penalties imposed upon John Hays Hammond, Colonel Rhodes and others of the Johannesburg Reform union had been remitted, but it had not yet been decided what form of punishment would be substituted for that which had been abandoned.

Monster petitions were signed in Pretoria and in Johannesburg, asking the president to pardon the members of the Reform union upon whom sentence was pronounced. The Boer jurors, before whom the condemned men would have been tried had they not pleaded guilty, also signed a memorial asking that executive clemency be extended to the self-confessed conspirators.

President Kruger said, on Tuesday, in regard to the sentences passed upon the leaders of the Johannesburg Reform union, that he was earnestly weighing in his mind the developments of that day. He trusted, he added, that the people of Johannesburg would calmly await the decision of the government. The judgment of the court would be presented to the executive in writing, when the matter would be promptly dealt with.

A Highly Sensational Story.

London, April 30.—A long message from Pretoria has been received here, which appears to confirm a dispatch from Pretoria published in the Paris Temps of yesterday, which is to the effect that telegrams were put in as evidence during the trials of the reformers, which, from a cipher discovered in Dr. Jameson's baggage after the fight at Doornkoop and the surrender of the raiders, prove the complicity of the Chartered South African company with the Johannesburg reform leaders and Dr. Jameson. They also prove that the Chartered company had opened a credit for £400,000 in the name of Colonel Francis Rhodes, at Johannesburg, to organize the raid, and that the London Times had cabled to the Cape to the effect that delay in the Jameson affair would be imprudent. The Times of today flatly denies the latter assertion.

The Pretoria dispatch to The Temps further adds, that the documents in possession of the government of the Transvaal compromise notable personages and the officers in charge of the English army.

Rescued From Thieves.

London, April 30.—I. T. Burden of New York, with his wife and daughter, and Mr. Lindsey, their attorney, arrived here last night, having come from the United States to claim the jewels which had been stolen from their home in New York on the night of Dec. 27 last. No time was lost by the party in setting about the business that had brought them on their long journey. Mrs. Burden was speedily convinced of her good fortune. Inspector Froest produced the list of the articles recovered from the persons of Dunlop and Turner and from the hiding places in their lodgings. The list proved a correct description in every detail of the missing jewels. The lady was overjoyed at the outcome. Mr. Burden was asked about the disposition of the reward which had been offered for the recovery of the jewels. He said: "I must have the jewels in my possession before settling that."

Howe Is Out of It.

Philadelphia, April 30.—Jephtha D. Howe, the St. Louis lawyer, who was arrested and indicted, together with H. H. Holmes, Carrie A. Pietzel and Marian Hedgepeth, in two separate bills charging them with conspiring to defraud the Fidelity Mutual Life association of the sum of $10,000, yesterday appeared in court of quarter sessions with his counsel and requested that the bills of indictment against him be submitted to the jury and a verdict of not guilty taken. This request was made to District Attorney Graham privately, and after a consultation it was agreed that this should be done. Judge Gordon granted permission to the district attorney to submit the indictments and then instructed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty.

Disobeyed Orders.

Washington, April 30.—Acting Secretary McAdoo has approved the finding of the court of inquiry in the case of Commander Hoff, who was charged with disobedience of the orders of the department in the navigation of his ship, the Lancaster, on her voyage from Newport to Montevideo, and has detached the officer from the command of the Newark and placed him on waiting orders. The findings themselves are not yet officially published, but it is understood that the court recommended that no further proceedings be had beyond an admonition to the officer.

Filibuster Captured.

Habana, April 30.—The Spanish gunboat Mensagera captured and brought into this port the American schooner Competitor of Key West, loaded with arms and ammunition, believed to be intended for the insurgents. The Competitor was last from the Mosquito coast, where, it is presumed, she took on board the arms and ammunition found on her. The latter consisted of 38,000 cartridges, a number of packages of dynamite, many cases of Mauser and Remington rifles and cases of accoutrements, etc. The men found on board of her are held as prisoners.

Must Take Bowell Men.

Ottawa, April 30.—Sir Charles Tupper, in forming a cabinet, started out with the idea that he was to have none of those ministers who remained faithful to Sir MacKenzie Bowell in the new government. Today, for lack of getting better material, he is approaching them with a view of asking them to retain their positions. Mr. Angers has declined, but he may yet accept.

Comfort For Spaniards.

Madrid, April 30.—The mutual conversion of the Spanish and Russian legations into embassies is regarded as important. The Russo-Spanish relations are of the most intimate nature. The attidude of the Russian press in declaring the Americans at fault in interfering in Cuban affairs, which only regard Spain, is much remarked.

Independent Teller.

Washington, April 30.—Mr. Teller (Rep., Colo.), when the naval appropriation bill was taken up in the house, announced his resolution to break away from the Republican party if its action in the St. Louis convention did not suit his views on the silver question.

Who doesn't know that horrid nightmare when the feet refuse to move, and you drag yourself along by main force, with some sort of terror chasing after you? It is something the same way with the waking nightmare of "biliousness." It seems to paralyze your energies, weigh you down like lead; and drag you back with an unshakeable clutch. You can't get away from the misery that pursues you. You feel dull and languid and low-spirited; your appetite is poor, your stomach is out of order, your sleep is disturbed, you are irritable and "cranky." There's no real lively enjoyment of life. What you need is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to tone up your liver and help it in working the impurities out of your blood. The liver has a large share of this purifying work to do and sometimes it gets over-loaded so the impurities back up on to the other organs of the body: the kidneys or skin or lungs, and take root, then it's a harder matter to clear them out. Wherever they settle they are all blood diseases just the same, and the "Discovery," will cure any blood disease that was ever named, scrofula, eczema, catarrh, ulcers, swellings, severe coughs and even consumption. But the cure is a harder job when the trouble has gone as far as that. The right way is to go at these impurities before they take root, while they are still floating in the blood and over-loading the liver. Drive them out early. You can do it surely every time, with the "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the greatest family doctor book ever published. It explains human physiology and the laws of life and health in plain yet scientific language. It has had a tremendous sale; 680,000 copies at $1.50 each bound in cloth. The present free edition is the same in all respects except that it is bound in strong manilla paper covers. A copy will be absolutely given away to anyone who sends 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N Y.

HE CAUGHT AT A STRAW.

And Found a Bulwark of Strength and Safety.

C. B. Downs, of the freight department of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Portsmouth, knows what it is to suffer from hunger with food within reach, which he could eat, but not digest. He lives at 39 Daniel Street, and tells his experience in the following words:—

When I was 14 years old I began to be troubled with indigestion, which as I grew up became worse instead of better, until I found it hard to keep any food on my stomach. Everything I ate caused me pain and distress, but I did not look like a dyspeptic and so did not get much sympathy.

I tried as many as a dozen different things, but they all failed to cure me, and like a drowning man I was ready to catch at any straw offering the least hope of rescue. Then I tried Puritana and was not only relieved by it from the pain, but in a short time completely cured of my indigestion. I could eat sausages without their hurting me, and I found that Puritana had given me a new stomach that would digest any food. I believe that I was the first person in

Portsmouth to use Puritana, but not the last, as I know that since then many people have taken it, with wonderful results.

James H. Crowley, of Concord, N. H., is not only an athlete but one of the fastest amateur runners in the State. What he says below shows how a man's strength will go if the stomach is not right.

I had dyspepsia for years. Sometimes I could hardly stand up, and I could not eat anything without pain and agony. Of course I tried to get relief, but met with failure after failure until there seemed to be no hope left. At last I was persuaded to give Puritana a trial. The result was marvelous. It not only relieved me, but it made me perfectly well. Instead of being doubled up with pain, Puritana has given me a stomach like an ostrich, that will digest almost anything. There is nothing too strong for me to say in favor of Puritana.
